If you want help in writing up your Christmas advertisements (the kind that will bring returns) 'phone the Ledger Office, Quincy 425, and our Ad Man will call. He will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better than ever before. This applies to present and prospective advertisers in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

ANOTHER GRAND SERIAL

"The Fourth Estate" to Appear in Daily Ledger

Probably there was never a play or a story written of as keen interest to the world of newspaper workers of all kinds, editorial, reportorial and mechanical, as "The Fourth Estate," now running at Wallack's theatre, New York. The story based upon the play wil appear as a serial in the Daily Ledger beginning next Monday.

"The Fourth Estate" is quite an extraordinary work in several ways. It describes scenes familiar to newspaper men in a marvelously realistic way and the authors have taken up questions that are frequently issues in newspaper offices and woven them into the plot of the drama and the story in such a way that while one is stirred by the moral questions involved the discussion of the latter in no way lessens but rather intensifies the interest in the romance itself.

The play is by Joseph Medill Patterson, who is just now quite a picturesque figure in the literary world and the field of journalism. He was assisted by Miss Harriet Ford who has done some notably good things as a playwright.

Skilful work in the novelization of the story has been performed by Frederick R. Toombs, so that the dramatic interest inherent in the play is retained in the story form of the work. It is illustrated by Frank Parker and Will Jones and makes 48 columns. Don't miss the first chapter Monday, Dec. 20.

On the stage of Wallack's theatre, New York, a composing room was shown in full activity, with linotype machines clicking, foreman and make-up men discharging their usual duties and in the rear stereotypers making their casts from the forms just as such work is done in this department of a metropolitan paper today. Whenever during the performance of the play the curtain rose on this scene, with actual members of Typographical union No. 6 of New York seated at the machines, there was an outburst of applause.

In the story this scene is described with the utmost faithfulness to detail yet without making the narrative tedious.

It is in the composing room of the Advance, owned by one of the characters in the story, that some of the most dramatic episodes of the narrative occur, and it is here that the thrilling denouement of the romance takes place.

NEWSPAPER SPACE.

Every line in a newspaper costs its publishers something. If it is to benefit some individual, he may fairly expect to pay something. You do not go into a grocery and ask the proprietor to hand you out ten pounds of sugar for nothing, even though the grocer may be a personal friend and and even though the gift might not be a large one.

If the beneficiary of advertising does not pay for it, the proprietor has to settle the bill. Nevertheless many people can not seem to learn that a newspaper pays its expenses by renting space, and that it is just as much entitled to collect rent for every day that space is occupied as you are for the house you rent to a tenant.—Beverly Times.

—Turkey might better spend that $100,000,000 for the improvement of its international affairs instead of investing it in a navy which she does not need, and which will only be an additional expense to maintain. There are many things she needs more than a navy.—Old Colony Memorial.

Your wife is accustomed to make her calculations from one end of the week or month to the other, as the family check or allowance is received; and current household expenses are usually paid at such intervals. The Prudential Insurance Company, Newark, N. J., has perfected a Monthly Income Policy which will provide the wife with such a monthly income as you arrange for. Send for interesting booklet describing the plan.

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

The New Woman

is one who enjoys perfect health, who is capable of doing her work, whether at the loom or in the kitchen, in the counting-house or taking her part at a social event, with unimpaired vim and vigor. That's the kind of women the nation needs.

Unfortunately, many women are physical wrecks, constantly under the cloud of ill-health, often the victims of high-strung nerves. The cause is not hard to find. Errors of diet, haste in eating, lack of exercise and inattention to certain bodily functions, all play their part. Once the germ of disease finds its lodgment, if left to do its work, it will quickly undermine the entire fabric of bodily tissue. Prevention is better than cure. Whoever has used Beecham's Pills

Appreciates the Effectiveness of their action. As a preventive they are wonderful, as a cure equally marvelous and efficient. Women should know of this remarkable remedy. For sick headache, nervousness, irregularities from whatever cause, debility and a host of other feminine ailments there is no better nor safer medicine. At the first symptom of pain or trouble, rout the enemy and put yourself on a pedestal of perfect health by using

Women who value good health should read special instructions in every box

BEECHAM'S PILLS

In boxes, with full directions, 10 cents and 25 cents

BLUE JEWELRY IN FAVOR.

Never has blue been more in favor for jewelry than this season. The woman who can afford turquoises, sapphires, or aquamarines is reveling in them, whether the color is or is not especially becoming.

These precious stones are not only being turned out in handsome rings and brooches, but the woman who can afford them has the close dog collar made of them or sports them closely set on long gold chains or in belt buckles and hair ornaments.

The chief objection to the turquoise is that it will discolor with use. The greatest care must be taken not to let water touch it. Some women think this does not apply to good gems. They find their mistake too late.

Next to the turquoise in beauty, and much less costly, is the matrix. This is being much worn in pendants La Valliere necklaces, and brooches, but less favored for rings. A set of hatpins with heads of evenly matched matrix set in gold or oxidized silver makes a handsome gift.

This latter setting is much favored for less expensive blue stones, many of which are unnamed or are of the French jewelry type, which it is now good form to wear so long as one does not claim for it a higher rank.

Lapis lazuli is more in favor than ever. It is being shown in stunning cuff buttons and whole sets for the tailored shirt waist, as well as in Oriental-looking necklaces and chains.

Dark blue enamel is being revived for all sorts of ornaments. Huge hatpins and belt buckles are particularly good in it. It is also shown in slides for the fashionable ribbon watch guard or fob, and in ribbon slides for collar and belt garnishings.

In wearing blue jewelry ones complexion must be taken into consideration. It is not safe to say that all blue-eyed women can wear this popular color.

Turquoises for instance, bring depths of blue in certain azure eyes, while others they turn green. Never go in for them extensively if they are to be worn close to the face without first testing them in every possible light.

Lapis lazuli is distinctly for the brunette of blue-black hair and clear skin, though blondes can also wear it.

There is an art in wearing all colored jewelry. It must not only be becoming to the wearer, but must harmonize with the color scheme of her clothes to be in good taste. Equally important is it to wear jewels at the proper time and place. The up-to-date woman recognizes this need by having totally distinct sets for use with her tailored costumes and evening clothes.

When one's birth stone is blue there is a wide range of rings and pins among the new birth stone jewelry.—New York Times.

RED CROSS STAMPS.

Red Cross stamps are not postage stamps and letters or other mailable matter bearing these stamps alone must be treated as unpaid matter. The addresser is notified to remit postage, and if it be not received the letter or other matter is sent to the dead letter office. Very general use of the Red Cross stamps by residents of the district is noted. Prominent among those who so decorate their Christmas mail is the President. All the White House mail carries the Red Cross stamps.

—Rev. D. B. McKnight, who came to the Northwest from Kansas last spring, evidently believes there is more money in washing soiled linen for other people than there is in piloting them along the straight path. At any rate, he has resigned the pastorate of First Methodist church at Whitefish, Mont., effective December 1, to go into the laundry business. He has bought Tom Quong's place and will convert it into a steam plant, for which there is need ,since most of the work is sent out of town. Quong has cleaned up a tidy sum, which he will invest in a truck garden somewhere in the eastern part of the inland Empire, firm in the belief that he will be able to return to his native village, near Canton, in 1915, to live in ease. The pastor will not make a statement until after he leaves the ministry.

GAS PIPING AT COST.

- We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.
- Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.
- We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.
- Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.
- We do not pipe new buildings.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181
Dec. 13 tf

IN TOUCH WITH FRIENDS and RELATIVES

A GRANDMOTHER may not be as spry as she used to be, but she is in close touch with her world for all that.

The telephone enables her to make as many calls as she pleases, and in all sorts of weather.

Formal gatherings have their place, but it is the many little intimate visits over the telephone that keep people young and interested.

Grandmother's telephone visits do not stop with her own town. The Long Distance Service of the Bell Telephone takes her to other towns, and allows relatives and friends to chat with her although hundreds of mile away.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
Every Bell Telephone is the Center of the System
Dec. 14 t

That Necessary Magazine

—for the thinking man—for the professional man—for the busy business man—and his family; in short, it's for You

25 cents per copy

$3.00 a year

The Review of Reviews

first, because it is a necessity—that is the rule in magazine buying of America's intellectual aristocracy. It is indispensable to the busy business man, who must keep abreast of the times, because it gives him the real news of the day in concise, readable form; it is invaluable to the thinking man, who demands only the truth and then draws his own conclusions, because it gives him just plain, straight facts.

¶ It is helpful to the whole family. In it you will find a monthly picture of men and affairs by Dr. Albert Shaw, in his comprehensive editorial, "Progress of the World;" a clever cartoon history of the month; book reviews; the gist of the best which has appeared in the other magazines and newspapers of the world; pithy character sketches; and interesting articles on the all-important topics of the day. Authoritative, non-partisan, timely and very much to the point, "it's a liberal education," is the way subscribers express it.

OUR 1909-10 CATALOGUE
of all American magazines is a money-saver. You can't afford to order for next year without first seeing it. If you appreciate superior agency service, and demand maximum magazine value for the fewest dollars, write for it—today. It's free to YOU.

The Review of Reviews Company, New York

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS

ALPHA HALL OPENING

Finishing Touches are Now Being Rushed

Carpenters, painters and finishers are using all their energy to have completed the new hall known as Alpha hall, in the new Kincaide block on Cottage avenue, that it may be ready for the opening on Wednesday evening. The completion of this hall will fill a long felt want for a medium-sized hall which will meet with all requirements such as stage, balcony, dressing rooms and banquet hall.

The new block in which Alpha hall is located is of brick, located on Cottage avenue, near the corner of Hancock street. On the street floor are six stores ranging in size from 12 by 40 to 18 by 40. Three of these stores have already been rented, one for a barber shop, one for a cigar store and one for a boot and shoe store. Applications have been received for some of the other stores, and it will not be long before they also will be rented.

The main entrance to the two halls is from Cottage avenue through a wide doorway. This leads into an enclosed vestibule with glass inner doors which in turn lead into the main vestibule. At the right is a door leading to the cigar store, and to the left a door leading to a store in which a restaurant will probably be located. There is also at the left a ticket office.

In the rear is a large room that will be used as a cloak room, or it may be used for a committee room. At the left of this is what is known as Union hall, which is on the ground floor in the rear of the stores. This hall is 30 by 50 and was designed especially as a banquet hall for the main hall. It however, may be used for small parties, as a lodge room or for fairs. There is connected with this hall a well appointed kitchen with gas range.

From the main vestibule a wide stairway leads to the upper floor where Alpha hall is located. Leading from the first landing is a small committee room. At the right of the upper landing is a large ladies room furnished with all the modern toilet conveniences. At the left of the upper landing is a gentlemen's room which is also fitted with a toilet room. These rooms are about 12 by 16 feet in size.

Alpha hall is 40 by 60 feet with a good sized stage on the easterly end, on either side of which are dressing rooms. This stage is fitted with scenery and drop curtain. The size of the stage is about 25 by 25 feet. On the westerly end is a balcony with three rows of seats.

On the southerly side near the stage is a wide door opening onto a fire escape. The hall is well lighted by day with twenty tall windows extending from the roof to within a few feet of the floor. At night the illumination will be 62 tungsten lights set in the panelled ceiling and 12 side lights.

The seating capacity of Alpha hall is about 500 and of Union hall 200. That these halls are something that has long been needed is shown by the fact that already they have been engaged for seventy nights up to June 1.

A NEIGHBOR'S OPINION.

The Milton Record says: A year ago last October when the Milton selectmen together with a committee of the Quincy city council, perambulated the Milton-Quincy boundary line, in accordance with the law it was discovered that two of the boundary posts needed repairs. One of these, on Willard street, was toppled over and needed resetting, while the bound on the bank of the Blue Hill river where Milton, Quincy and Randolph join, an old cedar post, required replacing. The Quincy committee agreed to attend to these bounds, but as yet nothing has been done although the Milton selectmen have called the matter to the attention of the Quincy authorities. The cedar post on the bank of the Blue Hill river was to be replaced by a granite post. Milton repaired the bounds on the Canton and Hyde Park boundaries and these are in good condition.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES.

Not to be opened until Christmas day or similar inscription, may be written only on such parcels as bear postage at first-class rates; but packages that are rated at third class or fourth class rates may bear the same inscription providing that it is printed or stamped on them. When written on the parcel with pen or pencil the words are held to be a personal communication from the sender to the addressee, thus making the matter subject to first class rates.

CHRISTMAS AND THE WHITE GOOSE

By ELLA M. PLATT.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

THE little boy and the little girl sat at the breakfast table eating oatmeal and milk.

Their papa said to their mamma: "A Christmas goose is the best thing there is. This year we must have a Christmas goose."

The little girl looked up at the little boy and smiled, and the little boy smiled back.

After breakfast the little girl and the little boy put on their caps and coats and mittens and started off for the barnyard.

PUTTING THE WREATH ON THE GOOSE.

They met a big, old, fat duck.

"Are you the Christmas goose?" asked the little girl.

The big, old, fat duck shook her head.

They met a big, old, fat hen.

"Are you the Christmas goose?" asked the little boy.

But the big, old, fat hen shook her head.

They met a big, old, fat guinea hen.

"Are you the Christmas goose?" asked the little boy.

The big, old, fat guinea hen shook her head.

They met a big, old, fat white goose.

"Are you the Christmas goose?" asked the little girl.

And the big, old, fat white goose nodded her head and fluffed her feathers and stepped proudly with her flat, yellow, webbed feet.

"Oh, goody!" shouted the little boy. "We've found our Christmas goose already."

"Oh, oh, oh! I know something," said the little girl, and she ran to the house just as fast as she could go. And when she came back she had a lovely little holly wreath tied with beautiful long red and green ribbons.

They put the wreath over the head of the Christmas goose, and each held one of the ribbons. The Christmas goose waddled along proudly.

"WAIT A MINUTE, CHRISTMAS GOOSE."

The guinea hens piped, the ducks quacked and the hens clucked when they saw this fine sight.

The little boy and the little girl led and drove the proud Christmas goose out of the barnyard to the green grove where all the little Christmas trees grow.

"We must have a Christmas tree for our Christmas goose," said the little girl.

"Yes, yes, Christmas goose," said the little boy, "you wait right here for us. Don't you muss your holly wreath, and don't you muss your ribbons."

The proud Christmas goose waddled gently to show how careful she would be. The little boy and the little girl ran away fast to get the things for the Christmas tree.

The little girl brought back some ears of red and yellow corn and a bunch of wheat and barley heads and a pocketful of oats.

The little boy brought back two cabbages and a yellow pumpkin and some grain. The Christmas goose became so excited when she saw these things that she waddled too fast.

"Wait a minute, Christmas goose!" cried the little boy, and he placed his things on the ground near the tree.

"It isn't quite time, Christmas goose," cried the little girl, and she fastened her things on the tree.

"Now, Christmas goose," said the little girl, "we will go and invite all your friends to come and see our beautiful tree."

"COME, SEE OUR CHRISTMAS TREE!"

So the little girl picked up her ribbon, and the little boy picked up his ribbon, and they led and drove the Christmas goose back to the barnyard. But it was hard work, for the Christmas goose wanted to turn her head all the time to look at the Christmas tree. At the barnyard all the chickens and all the ducks and all the guinea hens stood still to admire the fine Christmas goose in her holly wreath and ribbons.

"Oh, chickens!" said the little boy.

"Oh, ducks!" said the little girl.

"Oh, guinea hens!" said the little boy.

"Come, see our Christmas tree!" said the little girl.

The chickens clucked, and the ducks quacked, and the guinea hens piped, and they all spread themselves out in a long row and ran around and around and around after the little girl and the little boy driving their Christmas goose.

The little boy and the little girl scattered corn and wheat and oats all over the ground around their Christmas tree. The chickens and the ducks and the guinea hens ate and ate and ate. The Christmas goose ate, too, but she ate very proudly and raised her head every few minutes to shake her holly wreath.

THE BEST FUN OF ALL.

Papa and mamma came out to see them.

"Heigh-ho! What's this?" said papa.

"Mercy! What's all this?" said mamma.

"This is the Christmas goose!" shouted the little boy.

"And the Christmas goose's Christmas tree!" said the little girl.

"And the Christmas goose's friends!" said the little boy.

"Yes, and it is quite true, papa," said the little girl. "A Christmas goose is the best thing there is! Why, a Christmas goose is just lots of fun!"

"Yes, mamma," said the little boy, "a Christmas goose is the best fun of all."

Christmas Chimes In Many Climes.

Christmas is always a season of good wishes and loving kindness.

In America almost all little children hang up their stockings on Christmas eve, to be filled by kind old Santa Claus. In Germany they make more of Christmas than we do in America. Everywhere the Christmas tree is used.

If a family is too poor to have a whole tree, a single branch only will stand in a conspicuous place, hung with the few simple gifts.

A week before Christmas St. Nicholas visits the children to find out who have been good enough to receive the gifts the Christ Child will bring them on Christmas eve.

It is a very usual thing to see on a German Christmas tree, way up in the very topmost branch, an image or doll representing the Christ Child, while below are sometimes placed other images representing angels with outspread wings.

After the tree is lighted the family gather round it and sing a Christmas hymn.

In England almost every one who can do so has a family party on Christmas eve. Young and old join in the games, many of which belong especially to Christmas time.

From the ceiling of one of the rooms a large bunch of mistletoe is hung. If any little maid is caught standing under it the one who catches her has a right to take a kiss from her rosy lips.

In Holland the little Dutch girl puts her wooden shoe in the chimney place ready for gifts, just as the little American girl hangs up her stocking.

And so in some way all over the Christian world on the eve of the twenty-fifth day of December the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ is celebrated. Everywhere the Christmas chimes are ringing out the message the angels brought to Bethlehem—"Peace on earth, good will to men."

LOOKING OUT FOR SANTY.

By GERALD PRIME.

My mamma, when we build our house,
Wants plenty closets in it.
She says she'll tell the architeck
That's how he must begin it.

My papa says he doesn't care
A fig for big clothespresses,
But what he wants is plenty room,
And that he'll have, he guesses.

But I don't care how little 'tis,
A palace or a shanty,
I want a chimney big enough
To let in dear old Santy!

IMPROVEMENTS AT BRAINTREE

Mammoth Freight Yard and New Streets

Col. Benton of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. appeared on Monday before the special commission on abolition of grade crossings at Braintree, to present the new plan of the railroad for the abolition of the Union street railroad crossing at South Braintree. All the land between the South Braintree and Braintree depots on the east side to the Monatiquot river, about one hundred acres is the proposed site of a mammoth freight yard, and a new street near the Monatiquot river is proposed from River street to Pearl street, one and one-half miles in length.

The meeting adjourned to Wednesday, Dec. 29. At that time the New Haven road will have full plans and estimates of cost, and the selectmen of Braintree may be prepared to favor or oppose the scheme.

With a large freight yard at Braintree there would naturally be increased activity at the South Braintree repair shops.

SUPERIOR CRIMINAL.

Only 81 cases were listed for the Norfolk superior criminal court which came in at Dedham on Monday. Chief Justice Aiken is on the bench, and Albert F. Barker makes his initial appearance as district attorney.

—Wakefield will have municipal gas March 1.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Red Cross Stamps
FOR THE
Tuberculosis Camp

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

EXAMINATION

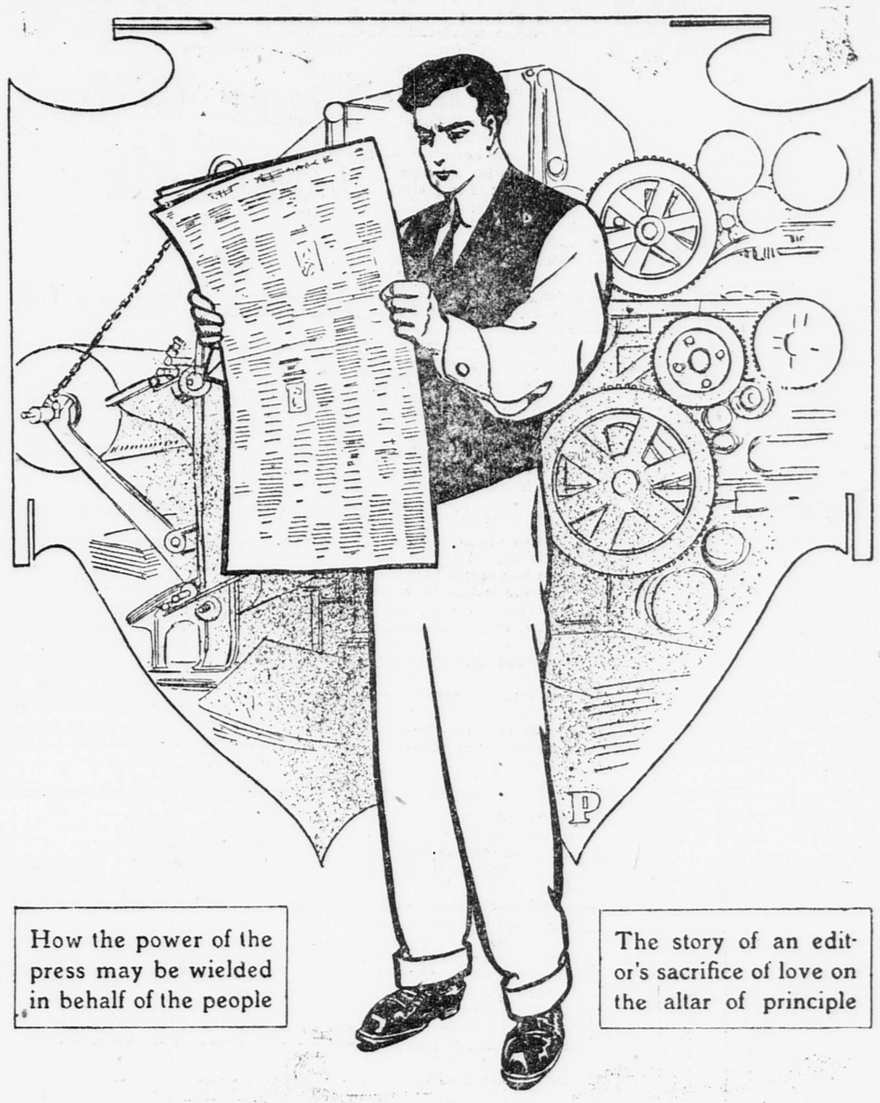
of the teeth of a hippopotamus would be a sort of a "monkey and parrot" kind of a time

THERE'S NO TROUBLE EXAMINING TEETH HERE

It's our business. We tell you frankly what's needed, how much we will charge for work and how long it will take.

DENTISTRY WORK HERE IS GUARANTEED TO LAST

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.



DENTIST

37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.

Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Dec, 1 to-2w

The Fourth Estate

How the power of the press may be wielded in behalf of the people

The story of an editor's sacrifice of love on the altar of principle

A Romance of Newspaperdom

NOVELIZED BY FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Much Talked About Newspaper Play by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford

Realistic, Thrilling, True to the Life of Today

This is the New Serial

Which will be started next Monday in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

"The Fourth Estate"

Presents Pictures of Scenes in Editorial and Composing Rooms of a Newspaper Office which are startlingly true to life . . . .

The Story is a Graphic Pen Picture

Of the Social conditions of the day. It has a real hero in Wheeler Brand, the managing editor, who sacrifices his love for a woman to his sense of duty. . . . . .

Begin with the First Chapter next Monday.

$10 to $50 or More a Month

For Your Wife
For Yourself

That's the Newest Monthly Income Policy of

The Prudential

It gives an Immediate Cash Payment at Death of Policyholder to Provide for Current Expenses. Income is Payable for Life. If Beneficiary dies before Twenty Years, Income is Continued to Estate to Complete 20 Year Period. It Cannot be Lost or Reduced. Everything is Guaranteed. Investigate it for Yourself.

The Prudential has Paid Over 1,180,000 Claims

Ordinary and Industrial policies.
Ages 1 to 70.
Both sexes.
Amounts $15 to $100,000.

THE PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE CO. OF AMERICA

Incorporated as a Stock Company by the State of New Jersey

JOHN F. DRYDEN, President — HOME OFFICE, NEWARK, N. J.

Prudential Agents are now canvassing in this vicinity. They have a most vital story to tell of how Life Insurance has saved the home, protected the widow, and educated the children. Let them tell it to you.

Agents Wanted to write Industrial and Ordinary Life Insurance
Good Income—Promotion—Best Opportunities—Now!

BRANCH OFFICE IN QUINCY—D. J. Guilfoyle, Agency Organizer—F. J. Mullen, Ass't. Supt., Durgin-Merrill Block.
Agents: C. J. BARRY, T. NEWTON, W. A. C. YULE, J. L. RICH, J. B. OLDEN, E. J. O'TOOLE.

IN FASHION'S REALMS

Skirts With Separate Bodice Correct Style Says Anne Rittenhouse.

(New York Times.)

The prophets have been proved true. The skirt with the separate bodice is the style for the smart woman this winter. Fashionable dressmakers do not care to make the one-piece frock. Tailors have nothing to do with it.

One may wear the separate bodice and a long or short skirt as a complete gown with a fur coat over it instead of one of the cloth, and in this way the two pieces serve as one piece. Of course, these blouses match the skirts with which they are worn. The white shirtwaist is allowable for certain hours in the morning and even then it alternates with a simple blouse to match the skirt.

The artistic designer and the woman who is well dressed are both opposed to this elimination of the one-piece frock for morning and afternoon. They cannot understand why a fashion which was so comfortable and so becoming, and which had not been threshed out, should be dropped so quickly. No one knows what forces are behind this change. It may be the passion for change itself that possesses the world of fashion makers.

Women were very well dressed last winter in the flowing, well-cut, not too long, one-piece robe with its brilliant touches at neck and wrist. They were ready for any occasion, and they thought the fashion entirely established.

The distinct change toward the separate skirt and bodice, which has been put into practice, during the last month, has been surprise-compelling to even those who keep abreast of the styles.

There are not a few women, who, having already ordered their winter gowns, in the early autumn had chosen the one-piece frock as a model. They did not believe the cry of the prophets that the early winter would find this fashion in abeyance. They merely nodded at the suggestion and refused to take it seriously, thinking it was a momentary whim of the rue de la Paix.

Yet, here we are at the beginning of December with a new order of things facing us. Fortunately, the one-piece frock can easily be altered to simulate the skirt and separate bodice, if one is insistent upon being in the forefront of fashion. The cloth may be cut away from neck and bust, leaving the high-fitted girdle, and showing the full upper bodice of net, chiffon lace or whatever the chosen thin fabric.

There is a sharp discrimination between the blouse for everyday morning hours and the one that will serve for a long or short skirt worn for luncheons and teas.

The latter is so elaborate that the high-priced dressmakers do not hesitate to ask $75 apiece for one. And they get it from those who have full purses and those who have not go home and copy the designs as well as they may with a lesser dressmaker at very much less the price.

There is a remarkable variety in these bodices. The designers have become quite keen about them and have invented devious ways of ornamenting them, and building them up with metal tissues, with hand embroidery, with jeweled net, and odd and lovely laces.

The surface work is by no means the beginning or end of this bodice building. The lining is important, and in it all kind of individualism is exploited.

Dull purples, remarkable reds, eccentric greens and delightful grays are used, plain and flowered. This is draped with metal tissues, which are often cut out to allow the insertion of huge motifs made of colored crystals.

One can easily see how splendidly an ordinary bodice can become under such manipulation. These are worn commonly in the day, and, as I said before, the skirt is either long or short. This latter fact is quite an interesting development. It seems parrotlike to go on repeating the statement that short skirts are fashionable, but it is amazing to observe their progress toward a complete sweep of the field.

It must be admitted that fashion allows women to wear long skirts for formal afternoon occasions; but if they wear a short one they are not to be criticised. This license is going to premit, or rather bring about a large mass of dully-dressed women for house affairs. We are lazy about dressing as a class. Only the individual, here and there, cares to make several toilets a day. In the ranks of the upper rich as well as among those who have slender purses, there is a disposition to wear the most convenient clothes except for ornate and special occasions.

Because of this tendency one fears for the safety of the brilliant afternoon house gown. Last winter it was in its glory. Brilliant colors, intense tones, lovely fabrics, contributed toward making women resemble a great garden of flowers when they were foregathered for muffins or martimony or music.

When the dark coat suit, the blouse to match and the stock of the same color becomes a general uniform, women in mass will be very sombre. Added to this there is the ruling fashion for all black. This alone contributes to dullness. It was especially marked at the first special evening affairs. The economist dotes on black. It saves her the trouble of variety. If her best gown is Burgundy, then she has to get others so that her friends won't spot her whenever she leaves her front door. If it is black it is not conspicuous.

The chance for colorful glory in the new gowns is in the bodice. It must be admitted that the long skirt carries a high girdle or the bodice has the girdle attached to it. Either way around one gets the effect of a long line of cloth from above waist to floor.

The smart skirts are not strictly Empire in their cut. We have grown away from that. The soft skirt that rises above the waist line is not gored to fit; it has drapery that winds around the waist, high and low, and this is fastened with a huge buckle in front or at the left side. This keeps it away from the earmarks of last winter.

Above this is the ornate bodice, and it is not necessary that it should be all of the same color. Once in a while there is a startling departure from the established mode by having the bodice of white. This is of net or chiffon cloth, and it is covered with a lattice work of velvet or embroidery or crystals on silk, the color of the skirt.

This method of mingling and contrasting colors puts the frock at once into the realm of formal affairs. It is too conspicuous for luncheon at a retaurant or a simple day at home or calling. That is, it is too elaborate for the well-dressed woman, which means that it will be worn at these places by many who would like to be considered well dressed.

Dressmakers who pay especial attention to smart lines carry the back of the skirt up rather well on the bodice in order to give that very graceful line down the back which can only be achieved in this way. Some women always adhere to the slightly high-waisted back because of its dominating grace.

The passion for drapery allows a wide individualism in finishing off this awkward line around the figure where skirt and bodice meet. One can do such charming things at this junction with a few yards of satin or chiffon, or those wonderful jewelled trimmings.

This idea of having a bodice that differs from the skirt is plainly indicated in the new evening gowns. It was suggested last winter when the one-piece gown ruled the world. There was then an upper drapery, rather too well fitted to be called a drapery yet whatever its style it was of tulle or net. Sometimes the Grecian idea was carried out by having the materials of the gown draped from shoulder to underarm, allowing this tulle portion to show.

There was no doubt in the minds of any one that the effect was too barbaric in that it made one think the skin was uncovered, at first glance. It was rather interesting to watch the avidity with which fashionable women took up this style. It certainly was daring and effective.

Its rival was the tiny, square-necked guimpe with short sleeves made of flesh-colored tulle framed in with metal.

Both of these styles continue, but they are tagged with last year's date. The newer thing is to have the bodice from the decolletage to the draped high-waisted skirt, made of an intense tone of pink, blue, green or violet. This is of net or tulle lined with chiffon, cut to a deep V, or square back and front with tiny wrinkled sleeves that are cut off half way above the elbow.

This is not all there is of the bodice. It is the foundation stone on which a wonderful tracery of crystals and metal is worked. Jet plays a leading part. Ornamental designs of it, like lattice work or trellises of flowers or motifs joined with threads of beads, are among the novelties that are laid over this tulle foundation.

There are slightly loose square sleeves of it that drop over the tight ones of tulle.

It is an open secret that these brilliantly colored tulle foundations are designed to show off the metal and crystal work to which the manufacturers have given so much time. With all that has been said on the subject the half is not told. These geegaws are the redeeming trait against the sombre cloths. It is impossible to look subdued if one acquiesces in this fashion. It is fortunate that some of the manufacturers have been kind in making simple pieces, for only the extravagant women could indulge in the luxury of wearing the best.

CUT FLOWERS

Funeral Designs
Decorations of All Kinds

William Patterson,
Central Avenue, Wollaston
Telephone 392-1 Quincy.

Nov. 27 tf

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

Red Cross Stamps

REMEMBER!

COAL
COAL
COAL
COAL

From the largest chunks of Furnace Coal to the very smallest, so-called Pea Coal, we have them all.

Thoroughly screened, full weight and delivered promptly as promised.

'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.

Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

REAL ESTATE For Sale?

Advertise in The Ledger.

The Battle

By

Cleveland Moffett

Copyright, 1909, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Novelized by the Author From His Great Play of the Same Name

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER XVI.

MORAN FINDS JENNY.

THE Moran apartment had undergone still another change. It was an office now, brilliantly lighted, for Haggleton's suggestion that the two windows facing the East river should be joined into one large observation window had been carried out. Jenny's little room had been turned into a "private office." The hall door had been removed to make place for one of ground glass, on which was painted in large black letters, "East Side Associated Bakeshops." The flat across the hall had been rented for living purposes.

Joe Caffrey had learned typewriting with gratifying celerity and turned out to be a most satisfactory speller. Moran alone remained unreconciled, watching with growing hostility the phenomenal rise of this man Jackson.

Jenny's disappearance had been a terrible blow to Moran. He had no delusion about the life to which she had returned and in his unreasoning hostility to society ascribed this, too, to the curse of capitalism. Philip, too, worried a great deal over Jenny.

* * * * * * *

One afternoon Moran, simply but neatly dressed, was working at his desk and grumbling at his work, as was his wont. Joe, seated at the typewriter, was ticking out letters.

"Say, Moran," he observed, "what's the use of being a kicker?"

"I'd rather be a kicker than a quitter," was the significant answer.

"Meaning me?"

"Yes, you. You used to call yourself a Socialist. Yah!"

"That was when I was broke. I wanted to divide. Now I've got something, and, say—no dividing for me!

"Hello," Joe exclaimed as he glanced at the morning paper, "here is my old friend Haggleton again! His yacht has passed Gibraltar."

"Curse him!" growled Moran. "I hate him!"

"Ah, shut off the hot air! What has John J. ever done to you?"

Moran wheeled around.

"What has he done to me?" he snarled. "He ruined my little business out west and made me a common laborer. He killed my wife in his rotten tenement with consumption, he killed Jenny's husband with his railroads, and he has sent Jenny out into the"—

"You make me tired, Moran. If a man has the colic in this tenement they blame it on Haggleton."

Haggleton entered, followed by Gentle.

The head of the east side bakery trust sat down at his desk, saying to Gentle:

"I will be with you in a moment. Go into the private office."

True to his resolution, the old diver now kept in daily touch with Haggleton and his son. The millionaire understood his motive perfectly, but never betrayed the slightest impatience or irritation.

Haggleton glanced at the morning paper.

"Hello," he said, "another model tenement fails to pay expenses! Tenants store their coal in the porcelain bathtubs. Here, Joe, show that to Mr. Gentle. No; wait. I'll do it myself."

He disappeared.

Moran closed his ledger, opened one of the drawers of his desk and took from it a revolver. Joe, looking over his shoulder, was taken aback.

"What have you got that gun for?" persisted Joe.

"Nothing."

Moran put the pistol back into the drawer.

"You have been playing with that gun for years, Moran," said Joe. "What's the use? You would never dare to use it. You are a milk and water anarchist. Why don't you get a bunch of firecrackers? They make more noise for less money."

"I am a fool," Moran announced gloomily. "I had no business to take this job."

"Well, then, why did you take it?"

"I was out of work. I wanted to help Jenny. Never mind what she has been. She is my daughter. She's all I have got, and now she's gone. I have lost her."

Two tears rolled slowly down his flabby cheeks.

Joe was touched. He felt sincerely sorry, but, after the manner of his kind, ashamed of this "softness." So he replied airily:

"Jenny will turn up all right."

Despair distorted the old man's features.

"Where will she turn up?" he asked, in an agony of apprehension. "What is she doing now?"

"You've got a rank philosophy?" ejaculated Joe. "Whatever is is wrong. That's the way you dope it out. Say, you'd better get busy and mail those letters Mr. Jackson has signed or you'll lose this job you are so ashamed of."

Moran obediently put on his coat and hat, took up a pile of correspondence which Joe had meanwhile stamped with lightning rapidity and walked toward the door.

Joe returned to his typewriting.

Moran, however, having reached the door, stopped, hesitated and turned back. He approached Joe's desk, leaned over it and looked him straight in the eyes. The grim determination of his face daunted Joe a little.

"Here, you," said the old man significantly, "I want to know something, and I mean to find out. Where is Jenny?"

Joe shifted his eyes from Moran's face to the wall behind it and wriggled uneasily in his chair.

"Why—er"— he stammered.

"Answer my question," said the other man, with ominous calm.

"I don't know, Moran."

"I believe you are lying. You know where she is and what she is. Mark my words, I will find that girl! I will find her, I tell you!"

He continued to look at Joe in silence, with a new determination in his watery, wavering eyes. His flabby mouth was drawn in a tight line. Joe was startled again, but again mastered himself. He looked back boldly, steadfastly, resolved to keep to himself what he knew.

Moran's next action startled him still more. The old man took his keys out of his pocket, unlocked the drawer, took from it the revolver and slipped it into the pocket of his overcoat.

Then he left the office without a further word.

Joe got up and walked up and down. He was now deeply disturbed, far more so than he would admit even to himself. This sudden demonstration of firmness by the flabby, vacillating, mouthing Moran—well, he did not like it. No man is so dangerous, he knew, as a coward with a gun when he screws his cowardice up to the sticking point.

For whom was that revolver meant?

He cast about in his mind, but could settle on no particular person. Moran's hatreds were so all inclusive, social and economic in the aggregate rather than particular.

Of course John J. Haggleton was to Moran the incarnation of all the evils of society, including the evil whose victim Jenny was. But then John J. was away on his yacht for a three months' cruise, and Moran could not reach him with a pistol across the Atlantic ocean at Gibraltar.

There were the police and the police justices on their benches and the settlement workers, whose social superiority Moran detested. He hated the czar of Russia and the president of the republic. He did not like Jackson. He merely tolerated Gentle. He had begun to sneer at Philip and his sudden business activity. He was rude to Margaret Lawrence. Jenny alone he loved.

Perhaps he hated Joe himself. He thought of the pistol again. It might be turned against himself. Joe stopped in his walk.

He remembered what he had heard the leader of the gang he had deserted in time say upon one occasion: "When a man threatens you with a gun, shoot first, and do it quick. But if you're unarmed grab hold of his windpipe and squeeze. No man who feels the life being strangled out of him ever has presence of mind enough left to shoot. Instinct tells him to tear those hands away from his throat—to get air, to breathe. He'll drop his gun to do it before he'll fire."

Joe became calmer. He lighted a cigarette. After all, what was he thinking about? Such nonsense! He dismissed the subject from his mind.

"He's an awful bluff," he said, half aloud. "He's a wind anarchist! He couldn't blow up a red balloon!"

* * * * * * *

Moran had left the office a little before 5 in the afternoon. He stood a moment trying to decide what to do. It was no use to return to the office in his present state of mind, he concluded. Moreover, they would close in an hour. He entered a saloon and had a drink, then took another and still another with a couple of men who, he discovered, were fomenting trouble among the hands of the bakery combine.

He mechanically ate of the "free lunch" and emerged at 9 o'clock to take up his hunt for his daughter.

He walked the Bowery from Chinatown to the Bible House, back and forth. A fine drizzle was falling, but he did not feel it. He was thinking of Jenny. If he could only find her!

Suddenly he heard a voice beside him exclaim "Father!"

It was after 10 when he turned into Doyers street, where evil looking Chinamen were skulking under dark doorways. He recognized the smell of burning opium. He heard the harsh tomtom in the Chinese theater, and from the Doyers street mission just beyond came the fragment of a gospel hymn:

O depths of mercy! Can it be
That gate was left ajar for me?

For a moment he stood irresolute, almost ready to go in and throw himself on his knees and pray for help. If he could only find her!

He turned into a narrow street. They were making repairs here, and he sat down on the iron elbow of a sewer pipe. He sat in the rain and thought in a dull way for a long time. A woman approached.

"Feelin' blue, ain't ye? Same here," she said.

"What's the matter?"

"I'm all broke up," she said. "I'm takin' too much dope. Fifty pills a day is too much, ain't it? The missionary doctor says I can't live six months if I don't cut it out."

"Do you know Jenny Moran?"

"Jenny Moran? Sure! She ain't here. She's a good looker. She stayed down here one day. If you want to find her you must go uptown."

Moran rose. Within twenty minutes he was walking along Sixth avenue in the neighborhood of several second rate music halls. He entered one and sat down at a table.

Suddenly he heard a voice beside him exclaim "Father!" and, looking up, he saw Jenny. She wore a large black hat with white ostrich plumes and a tan coat lined with silk.

She followed him without a word, pale and trembling, into the street, across town and into a Fourth avenue car. Not a word passed between them. They sat side by side, her hand in his, the tears rolling unchecked down her cheeks, his face grim, a baleful light in his eyes.

(To be Continued.)

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder. Relieves painful, smarting, nervous feet and ingrowing nails, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous, swollen, tired, aching feet. Try it today. Sold by all Druggists and Shoe Stores. By mail for 25c. in stamps Don't accept any substitute. Trial package FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Lavender Oil.

As four-fifths of the oil extracted from lavender is concealed in the bloom the harvest takes place just before the flower begins to fade at the end of August. The oil is distilled by means of steam, which is compelled to penetrate the closely packed lavender, afterward being drawn off in pipes that run through cold water. In this manner the steam is reconverted into water, but the process of passing through the lavender has extracted the oil, which floats on the surface of the water as it runs into glass jars down below. These jars have sprouts in the center, thus enabling the water to run out while the oil collects above the level of the exit. In this the first stage the oil is of a brownish blue tint, and it now has to be refined by passing once more through water. Thus all impurities are removed, and the oil runs out white, save for a very pale blue color similar to that observed in paraffin. Three pounds of oil will make thirty gallons of the perfume. The majority of ladies would be surprised if they were informed that a bottle of lavender water contains but about a thimbleful of pure oil, for a larger proportion would not only render the water too strong for use, but would burn holes through the handkerchief wherever the scent touched it. —London Standard.

Boring the Bores.

"What do you do to get rid of bores?"

"Just as soon as they come into my office I start in telling them of the latest cute thing my baby said."—Detroit Free Press.

But He Did.

Her Mother—I saw him kiss you! I am terribly shocked. I did not for a moment imagine he would dare take such a liberty. Herself—Nor did I, ma. In fact, I bet him a pair of gloves he daren't!

FIELD OF WOMAN

Nez Perce Indian Girl Studying Shorthand and Typewriting. Patti's Call on Mrs. Cleveland. Fair Sex In Politics.

MISS ELIZABETH PENNEY, whose home is on the Nez Perce reservation, is an Indian girl of high grade intelligence. She was graduated from Carlisle in June, 1909. She is a pianiste, and a year ago she appeared before the National Educational association in Cleveland, O., and won distinction in depicting the American Indian. After her return home from college she made an application to enter the Lewiston Business college in Idaho, and the application received the unanimous vote of the students of that institution. She is now studying shorthand and typewriting. She is apt and popular. She dresses with taste and is noted for her gracious manner. The costume shown in the picture is the one she wore when she appeared before the Educational association in Cleveland.

MISS ELIZABETH PENNEY, NEZ PERCE TRIBE.

Mrs. Cleveland and Adelina Patti.

Soon after Mrs. Cleveland became mistress of the White House Adelina Patti called to pay her respects. The time for a call of that kind passed, and still Patti lingered. An hour elapsed, and still she stayed. The second hour was well on its way, and the "divine" singer grew fidgety. If Mrs. Cleveland experienced any such feeling she concealed it, for she is a mistress in graciousness. It is not known who made the first move to break up the call, but it came to an end, of course. Patti had supposed that the royal etiquette which warrants the crowned head to dismiss his guest prevailed in this country, and she was waiting for Mrs. Cleveland to do as is done by the king. The story never leaked out until long after Mrs. Cleveland left the White House.

The Sex In Politics.

Mrs. Frank Herbert Briggs, daughter of Senator Frye of Maine, has lived in Washington for thirty years. Her mother was a remarkable woman in her day and exercised a considerable influence in the politics and social affairs of the national capital. The daughter has inherited many of her mother's traits. In speaking recently about the influence of her sex in politics Mrs. Briggs said: "Men, as a rule, resent having any woman calling herself a politician or claiming any directing power in the great American game. But it is unreasonable to suppose that the American woman, witty, brilliant, resourceful and keenly alive to all that concerns her home and her community, should be without influence on the higher policies of the country.

"I think that there are today in Washington society women who understand politics and how to guide the hand of statecraft as ably as the women whose names are written in history and literature. The women who pose as great social and political leaders rarely fill this role."

MARCIA WILLIS CAMPBELL.

Manless Colony Proposed.

A lot of British women are interested in forming a colony in Australia in which no man will have anything to say. No man will be allowed to own a foot of ground nor so much as a brick in any building. The land has been secured from the government of that commonwealth as a freehold property. Mills and factories will be established in which only women help will be employed. The soil will be cultivated by women exclusively. There will be amusements that are healthy and elevating, but nothing that so much as hints at gambling of any character will be allowed.

GIFTS FOR GIRLS.

Homemade Music Roll—The Latest Novelty In Belts.

A homemade music roll is a smart present for the girl who sings or plays. In this receptacle she may carry her loose sheets of music when going about from place to place. Leather rolls for the same purpose are much more commonplace than a daintily homemade one of silk or art linen. As illustrated the roll is of art linen in a dull shade of brown, enlivened with

MATERIALS REQUIRED

Dull Brown Linen
Lining Silk
Cardboard
Gold Gimp

LINEN MUSIC ROLL.

touches of embroidery in brown and tan tones. To make the roll a strip of linen is cut the size of an ordinary music roll. The embroidery is then worked on the linen and the strip lined with copper colored taffeta silk. For the ends two circles of cardboard are covered with linen on one side and silk on the inner side. To these pieces the roll is sewed, an opening being left in which to insert the sheets of music. The whole affair is bound with brown ribbon, and the handle is of plaited cords.

The Suspender Belt.

The suspender belt illustrated is a novelty that any girl would appreciate as a little Christmas remembrance. And as for making, there is little to be done once a pair of silk suspenders are purchased and ripped apart where they are crossed in the back. Two small sized buttons are sewed on one end of the belt the required size to be looped by the buttonholes in the kid wishbone-like shaped part of the suspender, and on the other underside of the belt a single button is sewed to the elastic. This button fastens the belt into position, the overlapping part with the kid end being really only for ornament. As may be supposed, a light colored pair of suspenders are the best selection. Pale blue, for instance, with white kid trimmngs, are dainty, but for actual service the darker tones are naturally better. A plaid or striped suspender belt would be stunning.

MATERIALS REQUIRED

One Pair of Silk Suspenders
Pearl Buttons
Sewing Silk

OF BLUE SILK.

Dressing Table Accessory.

To make a pretty handkerchief bag two embroidered handkerchiefs are laced together on three sides with ribbon through the beading which forms a part of the fancy border. Ribbon is run through the beading on the fourth side and used as drawstrings for the bag and loops to hang or carry it by. The handkerchiefs may be laced together entirely and used as a baby's pillow, or by inserting a sheet of scented cotton wool instead of the pillow a sachet for a wardrobe drawer may be made.

Homemade Brassieres.

If you have a stout friend make her a brassiere. It can be of four widths of three inch grosgrain ribbon, the edges lapped, not stitched. These are held in place with wide featherbone in front, where it is hooked, and on slightly curved lines over the bust. It is held in place by a ribbon over each shoulder, which hooks to the featherbone at each side.

Less pretentious ones are made of cambric cut like a short, low necked basque and severely featherboned at each seam. They are buttoned or hooked down the front and are cut off

NEW UPRIGHT PIANO

Now in storage at my home.
PRICE LOW.
Apply to
WM. WILSON, Pianist and Tuner,
1 President's Avenue, South Quincy
Tel. 137-2. Oct. 18-tf

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

Elm and Dysart Streets.
Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

AQUAS READY ROOFING

GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m

STORAGE

—FOR—
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
| c *5 14 | abcdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | ihgfedcba | 6 16 r |
| c 6 13 | abc | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| c 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| c 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 12 r |
| c 7 21 | adei | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| c 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp | 10 00 |
| c 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| c 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| c 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp. | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| c 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| c 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| c 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 0* |
| c 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| c 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| c 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edcba | 5 11 r |
| c 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | dcba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| c 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| c 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | ihgfedcba | 6 15 r |
| c 5 29 | abcdefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| c 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| c 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedcba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedcba | 8 38 r |
| c 8 05 | abcdef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| c 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| c 10 09 | abcdef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedcba | 11 04 r |
| c 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| c 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 24 | ihgfedcba | 6 52 r |
| c 8 43 | abc | 9 05 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| c 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | ihgfedcba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | ihgfedcba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | ihgfedcba | 2 45 r |
| c 11 16 | abcdefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| c 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | ihgfedcba | 3 45 r |
| c 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| c 4 16 | abcdefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| c 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | ihgfedcba | 6 45 r |
| c 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | ihgfedcba | 8 53 r |
| c 7 08 | abcdefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| c 8 08 | abcdefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | ihgfedcba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.
*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.47, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.15, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.27 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY
Furniture and Piano Moving
Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

Have Your Clothes Washed by the
NEW SYSTEM
WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.
Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.
Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references. Wideawake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell patents, What inventions will pay, How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.
D. SWIFT & CO.
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.46 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Ponit, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.
THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 50 degrees |
| Dec. 14, 1908 | 38 degrees |
| Dec. 14, 1907, | 36 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

Lost.

For Sale.

George W. Jones—Stockings.

Nathan Ames—Sleds and skates.

H. L. Kincaide & Co.—Furniture Repairing.

BRIEFS

John Ramsdell of Billings street has been appointed Justice of Peace by Governor Draper.

This morning the weather was very mild and spring-like. Quite a change from the weather of the past week.

A new mail box has been placed at the corner of Highland avenue and Squantum street. The people in that vicinity will appreciate it.

The Sunday school of the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church will hold a Christmas concert Sunday evening at six o'clock.

A joint meeting of the Committee on Finance and Ordinances of the City Council will be held tonight after the Council meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fessenden Crane returned Saturday night from the Waterways convention at Washington. They are quite enthusiastic over the meetings.

The Columbia Phonograph agency on Maple street is to move into the store soon to be vacated by the Cobe Men's Furnishing Company at the corner of Hancock and Maple streets.

Much interest is being taken in the work that is being done on St. Mary's hall. The Electric Light company has put new lights throughout the building; a new storm room has been built, and the roof shingled. This work was done by F. R. Bailer.

The work of laying 600 feet of six-inch water main on Bigelow street was completed today. It includes connection at both ends, and also with Miller Stile road and all the houses, the setting of one hydrant, etc. Freezing weather prevailed most of the time.

—Competitive examinations will be held December 28 and 29, to establish eligible lists from which to certify names to fill vacancies as they occur in positions as clerks or as messengers (Class 3, Grades A and B), in the service of the Commonwealth and of the city of Boston.

The Jolly Five club of South Quincy, consisting of Celia McLennan president, Olive Barnicoat, secretary, Ethel Prout treasurer, Wilma Wilson and Ruth Pinel enjoyed a very pleasant trip to the theatre on Saturday last. They were chaperoned by Mrs. T. Torrey and Miss C. Barnicoat.

TODAY'S COURT.

Philip Pitts was arraigned for assault at Quincy. Case continued under $500 bonds until Saturday.

Salvatore D'Angelo was fined $50 for violation of the liquor law at Braintree. Appealed.

Harry P. Thomas was fined $10 for violation of the automobile law at Milton.

"What kind of oil, Pat, do you suppose they use to produce that color?" asked a citizen as a freight train went by showing a green lantern. "Shurre, I should say some of the Immerald Isle, sir" was Pat's quick reply.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends for their sympathy and beautiful floral offerings, at the death of our beloved wife and mother.

MR. T. A. R. GOULD,
AND FAMILY

Dec. 14-1t p 18-1w

BIRTHS.

MATTFIELD—In Wollaston, December 10, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Mattfield of Berlin street.

DEATHS.

SHEA—In Randolph, Dec. 12, Miss Mary E. Shea, daughter of the late Michael and Catherine Shea of Weymouth.

JONES—In Quincy, Dec. 13 Mrs. Elizabeth widow of Owen W. Jones, in her 71st year. Funeral services at late home, 194 School street, Wednesday, Dec. 15, at 2.30 P. M. Relatives and friends invited. 2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

CHECKERS POPULAR

An Absence of All Tendency to Unfairness

There is a feature about the game of checkers says the checker editor of the Lynn Item, which makes it unlike many games and which makes it all the stronger in the eyes of its adherents. We refer to the complete absence of all tendency towards unfairness on the part of all who prefer this pastime and play it from choice. It may be that players in general, who make checkers their only game, are much the same as other people; no better, or no worse, and if there was any chance for unfair tactics to be practiced such practice would be found in our game, as well as in others. All of this may be true, and we will not undertake to dispute it, but it so happens that there is positively no opening for any individual to introduce unworthy methods by which such individual could hope to bring some advantage to his side of the game.

And while speaking on this subject it may be well for the future of many sports to state that there appears to be a very strong and growing tendency among the rising generation more particularly to inject all sort of tricks, some of which are liable to be classed as crooked, in order that victory may come to their side of the game.

Now, a belief on the part of any participant in a sport of any kind that any sort of crooked work that helps his side to win is legitimate and praiseworthy is a mistake and such can came only from false teaching in the first place. It makes no difference what the game is, no one who is honest can perpetrate a trick without a guilty feeling in his bosom. In the end his conscience is sure to smite him, and it is conscience alone that guides all trustworthy men. Let anyone ignore and refuse to listen to that still small voice of conscience and it will not be long before it will cease to speak altogether. When that time comes look out.

Let any schoolboy of the present day start out in life indulging in little dishonesties in his early games, and in time he will grow hardened and calloused, and if he persists must eventually become a rascal at heart and a mighty poor citizen in any community. It is therefore a good thing for all who have to do with the teaching of boys to by every possible method, inculcate honesty as a first principle in all beneath them.

There is too much of the so-called "cleverness" these days, which at times is nothing more or less than craftily hidden dishonesty, and there is an erroneous belief that such unworthy methods materially aid people to become successful not only in sports but in business also.

Whether on the football, baseball or other sporting field, as well as in the business field, let every boy preserve to himself and go through life preserving a high sense of honor. Those who keep this in mind will never live to regret it.

DUPLICATE WHIST.

Six pairs participated in the duplicate whist tournament for pairs at the Granite City club on Monday evening. H. H. Hill and J. W. Nightingale secured the top score with plus 6, while W. R. Thomas and W. H. Rideout were second with plus 5 1-3.

CRIBBAGE MATCH.

The Tamany club's cribbage team will meet the St. Mary's at St. Mary's hall on Thursday night. The Tamanys' hopes depend on their past record and can boast of winning every match this season, excepting last Thursday night, when they played the Randolph firemen at Randolph a tie game, 20 to 20. The members of the Tamany team that played the Randolph firemen will be the same men that will be up against the St. Marys. The Tamany team is composed of James Sweeney and Bernard Griffin and the St. Marys include William Duggan and Frank Canavan.

☞The Ledger Ad Man is at your service at any time to help you write up your ads. All you have to do is to phone the Quincy Daily Ledger 425 and he will call at once. Try him.

Red Cross Stamps
On Christmas Letters
Carry Good Cheer

BOWLING AT Y. M. C. A.

Tubular Rivet Team Comes Out Second Best

The Y. M. C. A. bowling team defeated the Tubular Rivet team at the Association alleys Monday evening, leading by 56 pins on totals. The Y. M. C. A. took the first string by 76 pins, the second by 19, and lost the third by 39. Dell of the Y. M. C. A. bowled the best string, and Dell of the Y. M. C. A. had the highest three string total. Stevens did the best work for the visitors.

The summary:

| Y. M. C. A. | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dell, | 107 | 82 | 87 | 276 |
| Nichols | 83 | 90 | 70 | 243 |
| Penley, | 93 | 76 | 81 | 250 |
| Morris, | 85 | 84 | 81 | 250 |
| Jones, | 100 | 94 | 96 | 290 |
| | 468 | 426 | 415 | 1309 |
| TUBULAR RIVET CO. | | | | |
| Dakers, | 63 | 82 | 93 | 238 |
| Loring, | 78 | 79 | 86 | 243 |
| Conway, | 69 | 71 | 80 | 220 |
| Ellison, | 89 | 71 | 108 | 268 |
| Stevens | 93 | 104 | 87 | 284 |
| | 392 | 407 | 454 | 1253 |

Y. M. C. A. BOYS INTERESTED

In Campaign for Extension Work at Large

Last evening, at the Y. M. C. A., an extension work banquet was held for forty boys who are now engaged in a seven-day extension work campaign. It was one of the most enthusiastic gatherings held for boys this season. Every boy was intensely interested.

After the explanation of the extension work by Roy L. Sidelinger chairman of Extension work Committee, Secretary E. G. Gay made a few remarks in regard to the foreign work of the Young Men's Christian Association. About one hundred slides were then thrown on the screen showing the foreign and home work.

Then the plan for the seven days was outlined by Mr. Clee, boys' work director of the Association. The plan is to get 250 pledges for this work to be paid weekly.

Three rousing cheers were given for the ladies who prepared the supper, extension work and then everybody spelled w-o-r-k. It was indeed a great gathering, and "He that gives most gets most" will mean more to the boys of Quincy.

THEFT REPORTED.

It is reported that a girl had her pocketbook stolen at Music hall Monday night. The pocketbook which contained $3 in money was in a bag which she had on the seat beside her.

A boy who is described as having a mole on his chin sat near her. It is said that he suddenly left his seat and a few minutes later the girl reaching into the bag for her handkerchief missed her pocketbook. The police officer on duty at the hall was notified. He found the pocketbook minus the money on one of the radiators.

THE POWERFUL PENNY.

A story is going the rounds which ought to add much to the charitable call of Christmas and increase the sale of the Red Cross stamps. It is of a little boy in Montclair, N. J., who bought one of the stamps with a penny in a store there the other day and asked the clerk: "Will this stamp cure tuberculosis?" He was told that the money would be used to prevent that dread disease. "I'm glad," the little fellow rejoined, "'cause my mudder's got tuberculosis and I want my penny to do her some good."—New Haven Journal-Courier.

☞We are going to let you into some of the secrets of a newspaper office. Our new serial to start, next Monday is one of the strongest things ever written descriptive of the world of newspaperdom. It is full of heart interest as well as dramatic and stirring episodes.

HUNTING WITH A MOTORCAR

How Sport on Kansas Prairies Is Being Greatly Changed.

OLD METHODS TOO SLOW NOW.

Wolf Shooting From an Automobile Most Exciting of All—Novel Way to Smoke Out Coyotes—Snaring Rabbits From a Car.

The automobile is revolutionizing the method of hunting wild game in western Kansas. No true sportsman now starts on any kind of a hunt out there without an automobile. The old way of hunting from a two horse spring wagon is entirely too slow now.

A wolf hunt under the new plan is the most exciting of all. One man runs the auto, and another does the shooting. A machine can run miles and miles on the open prairie of the west without coming in contact with a fence or a creek. When a wolf, or a coyote, as it is called on the prairies, is scared up the auto takes after him. Now, a wolf runs in an easy circle. He doesn't dodge back and forth, so it is comparatively easy for the driver to keep right behind him. But the auto must go some. A coyote can knock off thirty miles an hour with ease. A few days ago some Garden City hunters ran down a coyote and killed him with the wheels. That was considered a great hunting feat.

How Coyotes Are Smoked Out.

When hunters used to chase coyotes on horses and with dogs there was never a record of where they drove the coyotes to their dens. But it is different with autos. Coyotes run until they are about to be taken in and then make for their dens. In order to "smoke them out" the driver attaches a rubber tube to the gas tank of his car and runs the other end down in the hole. That soon brings the coyote out. And the race is again resumed until the animal is bagged.

The old fashioned way of hunting jack rabbits was for several hunters to go out in two big lumber wagons. The wagons would be connected with a piece of wire about 200 feet long. This wire, dragging over the ground between the wagons, would stir the rabbits up, and the hunters, walking behind the wire, would shoot them. It was not an uncommon thing for a bunch of hunters to bring in two wagon loads of jack rabbits as a result of one day's hunt.

Snaring Rabbits From an Auto.

The rabbits were sold to a rabbit cannery and worked up into canned stuffs for eastern markets. This is the way rabbits are still hunted for the canneries. But the true sportsmen, who go out for the fun of the thing, have a new plan now. They stay in the auto and snare the rabbits with a wire loop.

Autos make good blinds for wild duck shooting, and they also enable sportsmen to follow up a flock of ducks from one pond or slough to another. Frequently the hunters will take out after a flock of ducks and bag several of them before they get out of range from the auto.

CLUBMAN ADOPTS KIMONO.

H. P. Bowie, Rich Bachelor, Puts Aside Dress and Dinner Suits.

Since Miss Jennie Crocker emulated the example of Miss Eleanor Sears and donned riding trousers and a frock coat society has not been more startled than it was recently over the statement that Henry P. Bowie, wealthy bachelor and member of the Burlingame club at Burlingame, Cal., has decided that the reign of dress and dinner suits is over. He has taken to the more comfortable oriental costume—the kimono and zodi.

The Bowie home at Burlingame is distinctly oriental. The furniture, the paintings, the books, the musical instruments and even the servants are Japanese. None of the conversation is carried on in English.

During a recent visit to Japan the emperor conferred upon Bowie the Imperial Order of the Rising Sun of the fourth degree in recognition of his scholarly accomplishments. Bowie declares that he affects the oriental costumes because they afford him greater comfort.

ONE OF THE NAVY'S BRAVEST

President Taft Pinned Second Medal on Water Tender John King.

When President Taft at the White House recently pinned a second medal of honor to Water Tender John King of the United States navy the members of the cabinet were ready to vote the big sailor one of the bravest men now serving their country.

The medal was given for "extraordinary heroism." There was an accident to one of the boilers on the Salem last September, and King entered a fireroom filled with flames, hot gas and steam, turned open the valves and admitted water to the boilers, thus preventing more serious results. Then he carried a sailor, overcome, to safety.

The first medal was awarded for heroism during an accident on the Vicksburg.

Helen Keller's Book Used In College.

Helen Keller's book, "The World I Live In," has been adopted by Wellesley college as a text book in English for freshmen classes.

Dining Room of a Circus.

The discipline of an army reigns supreme in circus life, and it is always interesting to watch how the thousand or more people of such an organization are fed three meals a day without a hitch and as silently as in a big hotel. The grass serves as a carpet, and the forty or more waiters move quickly in and out. The kitchen tent is completely equipped with pastry ovens, warming tables, steam vats for stewing, steam urns for coffee and tea, boiling ovens and numberless other cooking utensils. The force of cooks numbers sixteen, including the three which tend the campfire, at which nothing but soup is prepared. The ranges fold up and are carried in wagons, and the tents are lighted with electricity at night. It is not unusual to serve as many as 5,000 pancakes for breakfast, and 600 loaves of bread are used each day, in addition to crackers and biscuit. The meat consumed each day is somewhere near 1,000 pounds Such provisions as celery, young onions, strawberries, radishes, melons etc., are bought in each town, often cleaning out the entire market. An advance agent of the commissary department keeps well in advance of the show, contracting for its supplies for man and beast.—Popular Mechanics.

A Craving For Sweets.

Advocating the use of sweet fruits, preserves, sugar and good candy by children, Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success says that a craving for sweets is nature's call for the substance which is "a full blown member of the great trinity of nutrient materials, sugar (carbohydrate), meat (protein) and fat. Sugar is wood, coal, gasoline for the muscle engine. Every time the tiny engine gives one of its rhythmical explosions—that is to say, when a muscle contracts—a certain amount of sugar is burned up. It is fortunate for people whom a mistaken conscience deprives of sweets that the human body can manufacture sugar out of many foods, out of meat, milk, vegetables and grains; otherwise the body would go into the desperate business of manufacturing sugar out of its own tissues, which is precisely what diabetics did in the days when this disease was supposed to be due to too much sugar in the food and physicians tried to cure it by cutting sweets and sweetmakers out of the patient's diet.

Shakespeare on Baseball.

I will go root.—"Richard III."

Now you strike like the blind man.—"Much Ado About Nothing."

Out, I say!—"Macbeth."

I will be short.—"Hamlet."

Thou canst not hit it, hit it, hit it!—"Love's Labour's Lost."

He knows the game.—"Henry VI."

Oh, hateful error!—"Julius Caesar."

A hit, a hit, a very palpable hit!—"Hamlet."

He will steal, sir.—"All's Well That Ends Well."

Whom right and wrong have chosen as umpire.—"Love's Labour's Lost."

Let the world slide.—"The Taming of the Shrew."

He has killed a fly.—"Titus Andronicus."

The play as I remember pleased not the million.—"Hamlet."

What an arm he has!—"Coriolanus."

They cannot sit at ease on the old bench.—"Romeo and Juliet."

Upon such sacrifices the gods themselves throw incense.—"King Lear."

—Washington Post.

Old Cures.

The antiquary took down a little gray book. "Here is a 'family doctor,'" he said, "that was published as far back as 1561. Talk about your quaint prescriptions!" The first prescription, a truly quaint one, ran: "If a man be greved wyth the fallinge sicknessce, let him take a he-wolves harte and make it to powder and use it; but if it be a woman, let her take a she-wolves harte." A 1561 jaundice cure was: "Take earthwormes and cut them small, and braye them wyth a little wyne so that ye may swallow it, drincke the same fasting." For toothache: "Seeth as many little frogges sitting upon trees as thou canst get, in water; take the fat flowynge from them, and when nede is, anoynt the teth therwyth."

Buying the First Bond.

In the lives of most people there are a few moments that are not only big with importance, but remain long in the memory. One of these moments may be the first sight of the ocean; another, when great, snow clad mountains first come into view. Still another, though perhaps not quite so romantic, is that time when the average man or woman draws his or her savings out of a bank and buys the first bond.—Moody's Magazine.

Sensitive Salmon.

"Splendid color, isn't it?" asked a fishmonger as he cut a pound or two of salmon for a customer.

"Yes," replied the latter, "looks as if it were blushing at the price you ask for it!"—London Scraps.

A Good Ear.

Mrs. Dyer—Have you ever called on the people in the next apartment?

Mrs. Gossip—No; the walls are so thin that I know all about their affairs.—Brooklyn Life.

A Pessimist.

"A pessimist," said the philosopher of folly, "is one who, when he has the choice of two evils, chooses both and sticks around to wait for more."—Cleveland Leader.

Both Alike.

Mother (complainingly)—Will seems to have forgotten us at college, his letters are so short. Father (tersely)—So is Will when he writes 'em.—Baltimore American.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—An Order Book, between Centre street and Mechanic street Dec. 10th, with Grand Union Tea Co. trade mark on front cover. Finder will please return same to GUSTAVE LARSON, 5 Hancock Court, Dec. 11 3t

LOST—On 1.20 train from Boston Saturday evening, a suit case marked T. B. L. No questions asked and large reward if return to 195 Goffe street, Quincy, Mass. L. Dec. 14-6t O 18-1w

WANTED.

WANTED—Experienced factory watchman. Not over 40. Sober and industrious. Must have first class references. Send copies with application. Address 7, Ledger Office. Dec. 9 3t-eod

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Automobile cheap in fine shape. Make an offer this week or else you lose a bargain. Will demonstrate any night after 6. Apply CARL BERGLUND 10 Washington street Quincy. Dec. 14 3t

FOR SALE—Sewing Machine, good as new; turned over to officer in settlement of a judgment. Bargain. Apply at Room 3 Adams Building. Or telephone Quincy 192 1. Dec. 11-3t

FOR SALE—New house 7 rooms and bath at "Fairview," East Braintree, near shipyard. 10,000 feet land high and dry, select neighborhood, very easy terms, small payment down balance as rent, bargain Leave Weymouth Landing cars at Hayward street. H. F. McINTIRE, 1433 Hancock street, Quincy. Nov. 17 tf

The Modern Way.

One friend who has spent a long and useful life and looks good for another half century expects his reward in heaven and meantime is a philosopher. He can talk on any subject under the sun, from "the flower of poesy" to "the precession of the equinoxes." He apparently knows the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" by heart, so I knew that when he handed me a bit of verse it must be good.

"Here is a hymn on the solar system or some other lofty theme," thought I, placing the sheet in my letter case. When I arrived home I read:

The lizard climbed a wall. He climbed it once.
He climbed it twice—then crawled away.

The bee sipped a flower. He sipped it once.
He sipped it twice—then flew away.

The man kissed a maid. He kissed her once.
He kissed her twice—then walked away.

The wall wasn't sunny; the flower had no honey;
The maid had no money. Funny!

The problem now is whether the contribution is a joke or a gem.—National Magazine.

Pilkerton Won the Race.

At one of the regattas of the National Association of American Oarsmen during the early nineties James Pilkerton, for many years the champion sculler of America, was matched to row double against another team He and his mate were the champions, and the general belief was that they would win without effort. But the night before the regatta public opinion suddenly and mysteriously changed Mr. Pilkerton knew that this was not caused by any new development of strength in his opponent or any loss of skill on his own part. After making some quiet inquiries he discovered that there was talk of his rowing mate having been bought up by the other side and of an arrangement to throw the race.

He didn't say anything about his suspicions, but when the two men were seated in the shell and were well out into the deep water he leaned over to his mate and said:

"Look here, you blooming cutthroat You've got to swim, drown or win this race! You know me!" He won.

Would Bequeath Her Ears.

Harriet Martineau displayed originality in the provisions she made at one time for the disposal of her remains. James Payn relates that, having consulted Toynbee, the distinguished aurist, with regard to her deafness "she was so pleased with the interest he took in her case that she resolved to leave him by testamentary bequest her ears. She announced this intention in the presence of her medical man, Mr. Shepherd, who to my infinite amazement observed: 'But, my dear madam, you can't do that. It will make your other legacy worthless.' The fact was, in the interest of science, Miss Martineau had already left her head to the Phrenological society. I asked the doctor how he came to know that. 'Oh,' he said 'she told me so herself. She has left £10 in her codicil to me for cutting it off.'" The doctor, however, died before his patient, and the Phrenological society never received the legacy of her head.—London Chronicle.

TO LET.

—TO LET—Furnished or Unfurnished Room, centrally located. All modern conveniences. Apply at 164 Glendale road. Quincy, Dec. 13 3t

TO LET—A New Tenement of five rooms second floor; with bath, hot and cold water, range, furnace heat, gas and set tubs. Beautiful pine grove in back, on Glendale road. Ready for occupancy. Apply at 188 Glendale road. Quincy, Dec. 10-6t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec. 10-12t

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 19 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1 Dec. 9-6t

TO LET—On Farrington street, Wollaston, 8 room flat, all modern improvements $20. Call at 64 North Central avenue. Dec. 7 6t

TO LET—7 room house, 23 East Howard street, near Fore River shipyard. Apply to 45 Winter street, Quincy Point. Dec. 7-6t

TO LET—Tenement; six large rooms. Apply to J. CALLAHAN, 40 Madison avenue, off Payne street, South Quincy. Dec. 7-6t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 64 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-tf

TO LET—10 and 14 Goddard street two flats set range, gas, electrics and all modern improvements. One of six rooms the other 3 rooms, for light housekeeping. Inquire 28 Federal avenue. Tel. 112-2 Nov. 22-18t

TO LET—Half house 7 rooms and bath $15 and half house 5 rooms and bath $16 at "Fairview" East Braintree near shipyard. New house, large rooms, hard wood floors, screens and storm windows, stove heat. Leave Weymouth Landing cars at Hayward street. H F. McINTIRE, 1433 Hancock street, Quincy. Nov. 17 tf

TO LET—A five room flat at 27 Pleasant street and a four room flat at 71 Madison avenue Quincy Point. All latest improvements. I also have a first class two family house. Now under costruction. For sale on Butler Road. Apply to ERIC G. BERGFORS, Builder, 29 Pleasant street. Nov. 15 tf

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-tf

TO LET

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anteroomsto let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x48 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

TELEPHONE CONN. HOURS 1-30-12 2-5
DR. A. B. PACKARD
HARVARD '07
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

Boys Wanted

TO SELL

Quincy Daily Ledgers

at the Quincy, Quincy Adams, and West Quincy Stations. Also at Fore River Shipyard.

Apply at LEDGER OFFICE.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 281 QUINCY, MASS., WEDNESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 15, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

BOSTON'S OLDEST AND MOST RELIABLE

Carpet House

ESTABLISHED 1817

Rugs, Carpets, Upholstery
Lace Curtains, Wall Papers
Interior Decorations

Nearly a century of continuous business dealings with the people of New England.

John H. Pray & Sons Co

646-658 Washington St., Opp. Boylston St., Boston.

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy

REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY

Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get
Good Coal
You Can Get
Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.

It's your business and right to investigate.

SEARCHLIGHT US!

'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.

Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

TO ADVERTISERS

If you want help in writing up your Christmas advertisements (the kind that will bring returns) 'phone the Ledger Office, Quincy 425, and our Ad Man will call. He will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better than ever before. This applies to present and prospective advertisers in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

BETTER WORK NOT LOW PRICES

Should Be Demanded by the Quincy Granite Manufacturers' Association

Annual Banquet Attended by Delegates from the National Associations of Manufacturers and Retailers

Nearly every granite manufacturer of this city attended on Tuesday the annual meeting and banquet of the Granite Manufacturers' Association of Quincy held at the New American House, Boston, and they had as guests members of two National Associations, and also officers of the Barre Association. All the speeches emphasized the importance of association work, and of working together one association with another.

The business meeting was held at 4 P. M. when President John C. Murray was reelected, and there were few changes in officers, the list being as follows:

President—John C. Murray.
Vice President—Alfred O. Diack.
Secretary—Thomas J. Dunphy.
Treasurer—James Joss.

Executive Committee (with president, vice president and treasurer)—Joseph Walker, Andrew Johnson, James A. White, Edward D. Marnock, Thomas Bishop and Jasper Restelli.

Mr. Murray in accepting the presidency for another year, emphasized the need of greater interest in the association by all members, not leaving all for the officers. His heart to heart talk was just what the association needed and should bring about good results.

In the informal talk which followed the guests from the National Granite Manufacturers' Association, the National Retail Monument Dealers Association, the Barre Association, as well as the Quincy Association, took part. The need of cooperation between the associations, the best of work and better prices for work were emphasized.

The annual banquet was at 6 P. M., and the menu was one of the best ever spread before the members, and the service was excellent. The menu:

Bluepoints
Cream of Celery aux Croutons
Consomme Princess
Olives Celery Gherkins
Baked Halibut a la Mornay
Duchesse Potatoes
Roast Vermont Turkey, Stuffed
Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Brown Potatoes Marrow Squash
Mixed Salad
French Cream Puffs
Frozen Pudding Assorted Cakes
Roquefort Cheese Crackers
Demi Tasse

At the head table were:

President John C. Murray of the Quincy Association.

President Seward W. Jones of the National Association of Granite Manufacturers.

Hon. William T. Shea, mayor of Quincy.

F. R. Stewart of the National Retail Monument Dealers Association.

Fred M. Schlimgen of the National Retail Monument Dealers Association.

Vice President Alfred O. Diack of the Quincy Association.

William Barclay and J. T. Marrion of the Barre Association.

William T. Spargo of the Quincy Association.

Rupert F. Claflin, cashier of National Granite bank.

George F. Hall, paying teller of National Granite bank.

Treasurer James Joss of the Quincy Association.

A. M. Hunt of "Granite."

Frank F. Prescott, editor Quincy Daily Ledger.

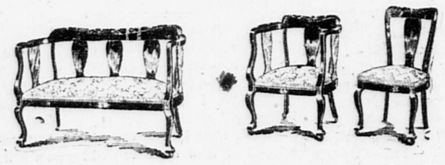
T. J. Collins of Boston Globe.

Secretary T. J. Dunphy of the Quincy Association.

Charles L. Hammond, postmaster of Quincy.

E. H. Kavanagh, Thomas Bishop, Robert D. Smith, Fred Barnicoat, Henry McGrath, John Q. A. Field and Harry S. Nicols of the Quincy Association.

During the banquet popular music was rendered by Sprague's orchestra which was frequently applauded.



President Murray was brief in opening the post prandial exercises, and introduced Mayor Shea who received an ovation.

Mayor Shea is a member of the Quincy Association, and extended a cordial greeting to the delegates from the South and West, and also from Barre. He said we have the goods here in Quincy, and want to dispose of them, and he hoped the retail dealers would take samples of the extra dark, the light gray, and all other popular Quincy granites. Referring to his recent reelection he thanked the citizens for their confidence and said he would try to attend to city business faithfully as in the past. The famous stone crusher, he said, was now being set up in South Quincy to take away the stone chips. Trade conditions promised well for 1910. Perhaps, however, we have not boomed Quincy enough.

President Jones had a basketful of good stories. He thought the National Association had made good, particularly in its information and collection bureau, and the handling of

(Continued on Page 4.)

A DAINTY PARLOR SET FOR CHRISTMAS

This cut is merely one suggestion of a Christmas gift for your home. A new Parlor Set or some one attractive piece of furniture placed in your home on Christmas morning as your gift to the family, will serve a double purpose and make a more joyful Christmas.

3 Piece Parlor Sets $15.00 to $65.00
5 " " " $19.00 to $95.00

A Set like cut—Mahogany finished frames and silk upholstering, $35.00
Time payments if desired. Legal Stamps with Cash Purchases.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

New England's Lowest Priced Home Furnishers

1495 Hancock St., Quincy. Open Monday, Friday and Saturday Evenings.

HISTORICAL PAPERS

Mrs. W. E. Alden Recalls Old Times in Quincy

Two very interesting papers were read Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Quincy Historical society, one by Mrs. W. E. Alden on "Old Quincy" and one by Emery L. Crane on "Windmills." Brooks Adams, the president, introduced the speakers. Pleasing piano solos were contributed by Mrs. Joseph Evans, vocal numbers by Mrs. James H. Slade, and readings by Mrs. Isabelle Davis, all helping to make it a very enjoyable evening. The attendance was large.

Mrs. Alden's paper was very carefully prepared and dwelt largely with the social and domestic life of the old town. It told of the early occupations of the people and their social recreations; of the old buildings; of the beginning of school life and church life. She told of the ship industry which flourished years before the Fore River Company was established; of the shoe industry and the tanneries which have passed away; of the granite industry and the crude methods at first, and the apprehension that the supply might give out before Kings Chapel was completed; of the first railroad in the country built here to transport granite; of the early means of transportation when there were bridle paths and it was necessary to ford rivers; of the establishment of bridges, the opening of coach lines, and finally the coming of a railroad which met with opposition.

Mr. Crane prefaced his paper with the announcement that the material and pictures were furnished from the excellent colonial collection of James L. Edwards. It was a witty and instructive paper, Mr. Crane as usual holding close interest. It was a resume of the windwill history of the world and the uses to which they were put. He said Cape Cod was the Holland of America as far as windmills were concerned. He showed several pictures, including the historical tower windmill at Newport.

Mr. J. D. Buckingham will have charge of the next meeting of the Quincy Historical society.

LOST CHILDREN.

The alarm from Box 75 at 3.31 Tuesday afternoon, followed by the lost-child call, was to summon volunteers to search for four children between the ages of 3 and 6 years who had been missing since morning. The children all lived on Sumner street. There were two boys named Hall, a girl named Wood, and a boy named Ducett. Search was made all the afternoon, but it was not until evening that they were located. Shortly after 7.30 they were found in Weymouth square by the Weymouth police who notified the Quincy police. Later the children's parents with Councilman Flynn went to Weymouth and brought them home. The children had a good time in their wanderings but were a little tired and hungry.

DAYLIGHT BURGLARY.

The home of Samuel Butts of 105 South street was entered, Tuesday afternoon while the family were away and goods to the amount of $200 taken. Mrs. Butts had gone out for the afternoon and when she returned home she found that the house had been rifled and its most valuable contents carried away. These included two gold watches, three rings, and a gold locket and chain, amounting to over $200. There is no clue to the robbers although the police are at work on the case.

☞ You can have a demonstration of the Capell Gas Iron or the Milwaukee Dustless Brush at your house, drop a postal to John W. Carle, 6 Washington Street, Quincy.

Only One Cent

Means Help for the

Tuberculosis Camp

MANY TRANSFERS OF CITY APPROPRIATIONS

Before City Council at the Regular Meeting Last Evening---Some Adopted.

Election Returns Reported---Communication on Skating Pond ---Chief Engineer Tells of Need of Fire Alarm Boxes.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held Tuesday evening. The meeting was about an hour duration, and considerable business was transacted. Councilmen Bishop, Flaherty, Flynn, Nelson Nowland and Russell were absent.

SKATING POND.

A communication was received from the Park Commissioners in relation to the feasibility of establishing a skating pond on the Ward Three playground in which they say that there is now in the city treasury the sum of $2,525.30 received from the sale of the playground in Ward Five. The Commissioners recommend that this sum be placed in the bank and that they be allowed the use of the interest. If they can have the interest of the current year they can provide for the skating pond in Ward Three and for ponds in other parts of the city. Refer d to Finance Committee.

A TRANSFER.

A communication from the School Committee asked that the committee be given authority to place the unexpended balance remaining to the credit of the salaries account on Dec. 22, to the credit of books and supplies. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered an order authorizing the School Committee to make the transfer. Adopted.

MORE FOR INTEREST.

A communication from the Mayor with inclosure from the City Treasurer asked for the transfer of $1,225 for the payment of interest due in 1909 on sewer and water loans, as follows: $407 from temporary notes to interest water debt; $68 from city debt to interest of water debt, $50 from corporation tax to interest of water debt; and $700 from corporation tax to interest of sewer debt. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered an order making the transfer. Referred to Finance Committee.

TRANSFERS.

A communication from the Mayor with enclosure from the Chief Engineer asked for the transfer of $100 from pay of men to miscellaneous and of $100 from Fire Alarm to miscellaneous. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered an order making the transfer which was adopted.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 on petition of the Electric Light Co. for a location for poles, and at 7.55 on petitions of the Telephone Co., for attachments and locations. There was no opposition and the orders were recommitted.

ELECTION RETURNS.

The Committee on Election reported the result of the City election of Dec. 7, which was declared to have been as read. There is a tie for Councilmen in Ward Two so that only two were declared elected.

TRANSFERS WANTED.

Councilman Bryant offered an order transferring $411.84 from plumbing of Gridley Bryant school to Repairs of Public Buildings. Referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Bryant offered an order transferring $25 from the deficiency fund to City Council miscellaneous. Adopted.

FIRE ALARM BOXES.

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant, petitions for fire alarm box on Upland road, and at Germantown, and orders for fire alarm boxes on Sea and Chubbuck streets and Winthrop park were taken from the table.

Chief Engineer Williams was requested to appear before the Council, which he did. He was asked a number of questions as to the need of the boxes after which the petitions and orders were recommitted to the Committee on Fire Department.

In the calendar the orders granting the Telephone Co. attachments on Billings road and Freeman street, Elm avenue and North Payne streets were passed.

The order granting the Electric Light Co., a location for poles on Sumner, Chubbuck, Beale and Sea streets was passed.

The order granting the street railway a location for poles on West Howard street was passed.

In reply to a question by Councilman Moir, Councilman McDevitt chairman of the special committee on new industries said his committee would report at the next meeting.

In reply to Councilman Moir, Councilman Bryant, chairman of the special committee on junk licenses, reported progress and asked for further time.

Councilman Moir moved that the special committee on boulevards report at the next meeting. Voted.

Adjourned at 8.40 until Dec. 20.

☞ If you do not know just how to write up your Christmas ad, phone Quincy 425 and the Ledger Man will call and help you.

FINE DRIED FRUITS

We have a fresh stock of dried fruits of all kinds. Our prices are always right and you can depend on anything you buy here. Below we list some of the fruits you will need for Christmas.

| | |
|---|---|
| Ideal Seeded Raisins | pkg. 9c 3 for 25c |
| Cleaned Currants | pkg. 10c |
| Not-a-Seed Raisins | pkg. 10c |
| Sultana Raisins | pkg. 15c |
| Fancy New Citron | lb. 18c |

Be sure and order Quality Coffee so you will have it on hand for Christmas. Only 30c. per lb. and the best coffee ever sold.

PROMPT ATTENTION TO Telephone Orders No. 367-3

R. E. FOY & CO.
COR. WATER AND QUINCY STS.
QUINCY ADAMS

YOUR APPOINTMENT

is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.

THIS DENTAL OFFICE IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.

Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.

YOU RISK NOTHING HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.

Our charges are never high.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.

DENTIST

37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.

Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Dec. 15 lo-2w

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Grage's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

RAILROADING ILLUSTRATED

Entertaining Address Before the Walther Class

At a social held on Tuesday evening in the vestry of the Wollaston Baptist church by the Walther men's class a most instructive address entitled the "Arithmetic of railroading" was delivered by William J. Cunningham.

Mr. Cunningham, as statistician for the New York Central lines and lecturer on railroad operation at Harvard university was well qualified to speak on this topic and in his lecture showed that he had the whole subject at his fingers ends. By a series of "graphic charts" thrown on the screen by the stereopticon, in a clearer manner than could be shown by any amount of figures the speaker remonstrated to the local commuters the way in which the officials of a large railroad company keep before them a comprehensive idea of all affairs connected with the road.

In the course of the address Mr. Cunningham showed the costs of running and maintenance of various departments of a railroad, and also the revenues received. He also mentioned the accidents and engine failures on the road he represents, and told how, by patent safety and other devices, an effort is being made to keep these down to their lowest minimum.

In closing, Mr. Cunningham made the statement that statistics were of no value excepting as they were used as aids to judgment.

At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was extended the speaker by E. J. Badger, president of the class, and the members adjourned for refreshments and a social hour.

The affair was in charge of the social committee composed of Dr. Wellington Record C. B. Hall and C. W. Bailey. There were upwards of seventy-five men present.

SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE.

Until New Years
USE THE
Red Cross Stamps

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the
Little Store
Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.
J. NATHAN
14 GRANITE STREET.
Dec. 14—1m.

NICARAGUA IN A FERMENT

People Openly Demand Intervention by the United States

Managua, Dec. 15.—The people of Managua are in open revolt against Zelaya without check from the police. They are crowding the streets and giving vent to unrestrained denunciation of the administration.

Shouts of "Long live liberty," "Long live the United States," "Long live Mexico," "Long live Estrada," are heard on every side.

The entire country is in a ferment. Zelaya is denounced on every hand, but he is master of the situation and the people fear a wholesale execution of political prisoners as a parting shot. The prisons are full of men, most of whom are in a half-starved condition and doubtless would welcome death.

The people openly demand American intervention and vigilantes have been organized to prevent the escape of the president.

CONFERENCE AT LUDLOW

Attempt Will Be Made to Patch Up the Strike Difficulties

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 15.—Chairman Howland of the state board of arbitration notified Secretary La Francis of the Central Labor union committee that the Ludlow Associates had agreed on the main points for arbitration and asked him to call a conference today.

What the company has agreed to is being withheld. Agent Stevens refused to say anything concerning the situation, and the labor union officials are equally reticent.

The conference will be attended by the state board of arbitration, Sidney Stevens for the company, and the Central Labor union committee. At the same time another conference will be attended by the strikers.

DAM COMPANY TO FORFEIT CHARTER

End of Famous Litigation In the Supreme Court

Washington, Dec. 15.—For the third time the supreme court of the United States decided the case of the United States versus the Rio Grande Dam and Irrigation company. The decision was in favor of the government and declares forfeited the company's charter, thus probably finally terminating a famous piece of litigation.

The case involved the right of the company to construct a dam for irrigation purposes across the Rio Grande river at Elephant Butte, N. M., where it was its declared intention of creating the largest artificial irrigation lake in the world.

The government brought suit to prohibit the improvement on the ground that it would interfere with the treaty rights between the United States and Mexico and also that it would obstruct the navigation of the Rio Grande.

THEFT OF $3866

Charge Against Man Who Surrenders After a Long Absence

Boston, Dec. 15.—Max Goldman, 47 years old, for many years local manager for the Singer Sewing Machine company, was arrested by police inspectors on a warrant charging him with the larceny of $3866 from the company.

The arrested man disappeared on June 29 of last year, and, following an investigation, a shortage was discovered in his accounts. The facts were placed before the grand jury, and in October of the same year the police began a hunt for Goldman.

Yesterday afternoon arrangements were made with Goldman's lawyer and Goldman surrendered to the police.

HUNT FOR ASTOR'S YACHT

Congressman Wants to Know If Navy Department Was Interested In It

Washington, Dec. 15.—Representative Hardwick of Georgia wants to know if it is true that the navy department helped to search for the yacht of Colonel John J. Astor, when it was reported lost recently in the West Indies, and if so, why, and how much money was spent by the department in the quest.

He introduced a resolution indicating this desire and requesting the secretary of the navy, "if not incompatible with public welfare," to inform the house as to the facts in the case.

Death In Explosion of Brass

Waterbury, Conn., Dec. 15.—Hurled to the roof by the explosion of a pot of molten brass, Irving N. Welton, a caster in the Waterbury rolling mill, struck the roof with such force that he was crushed, dying shortly afterward.

Liberals Have Irish Support

Dublin, Dec. 15.—The central committee of the Irish Nationalists has been directed to support the Liberals in the general election. Premier Asquith's recent declaration concerning home rule for Ireland is deemed satisfactory.

Naval Convict Takes French Leave

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 15.—W. J. Myers, a naval prisoner serving two years and a half on the prison ship Southery, escaped while working with a crew coaling ship.

SALEM VOTES NO

But Worcester Changes to License Column

| Cities | Mayor-elect | Yes | No |
|---|---|---|---|
| Beverly, | *C. H. Trowt, Ind. | 877 | 1987 |
| Chicopee, | *S. E. Fletcher | 1606 | 977 |
| Everett, | *C. Bruce, R. | 985 | 2277 |
| Holyoke, | *N. P. Avery, R. | 3997 | 2774 |
| Lowell, | J. F. Meehan, D. | 8312 | 5044 |
| Lynn, | *J. E. Rich, N-P. | 6727 | 7331 |
| Malden, | G. H. Fall, Ind. | 1947 | 3576 |
| Medford, | No election for mayor | 447 | 956 |
| Melrose, | *E. H. Moore, Ind. | 624 | 1796 |
| Newburyport, | R. E. Burke, Ind. D. | 1487 | 1497 |
| Newton, | C. E. Hatfield, R. and D. | 772 | 1918 |
| Salem, | A. Howard, Ind. | 3215 | 3733 |
| Somerville, | *J. M. Woods, | 1830 | 4581 |
| Woburn, | H. D. Murray, D. | 1242 | 1538 |
| Worcester, | *J. Logan, R. | 13,282 | 9562 |

*Re-elected.

Boston, Dec. 15.—The liquor interests made the license question the paramount issue in the elections in fifteen Massachusetts cities yesterday, sweeping Worcester into the license column by 3720 votes, after two years of no-license, reducing the "dry" majority of 8925 of a year ago to 2197 for the fifteen municipalities.

In addition Newburyport went dry by but ten votes. Salem, however, which has never gone for license twice successively in the past sixteen years, again went back to no-license by 500 margin.

That the temperance forces of a year ago were completely overwhelmed is shown by a summarization of the twenty-nine cities which have now held their city elections. With five turning into the license column and two going no-license, the total license vote for the twenty-nine cities shows this year a majority of 12,467 for license, compared with a 8935 majority for no-license last year.

Eight of the eleven mayors who were up for re-election were returned by their constituents in the various cities. Mayor Brown, the policeman mayor of Lowell, who won by an unprecedented majority last year, was beaten by his Democratic opponent, John F. Meehan, by 498 votes.

John F. Hurley added another to his series of five defeats in Salem in fourteen contests, Arthur Howard, a resident only one year, winning his way into the mayoralty chair over a field of four others.

George H. Fall, who has run for mayor of Malden for six years, and declared he would be a perpetual candidate, or until elected, secured his coveted goal.

Charles H. Trowt, who last year enjoyed the distinction of being at the head of the summer capital municipality, was re-elected mayor of Beverly.

Worcester went back into the license column by a majority of 3720 "wets" over the "drys," after having enjoyed the distinction for two years of being the largest no-license city in the world. Mayor Logan, Republican, was re-elected for a third term by a comfortable majority of 3800.

Charles Bruce was elected for a fifth term as mayor of Everett. Forman Robbins defeated Fred Hansen in a close fight for alderman-at-large. The city went no-license by 1291.

John M. Woods was re-elected mayor of Somerville. The women scored a notable victory in the school committee, electing Mrs. Mary H. Whiting and Mrs. Lila H. Taintor. The city remains in the "dry" column.

Re-election was accorded Mayor James E. Rich of Lynn. Rich's second term will be served under a continued no-license regime.

N. F. Avery was re-elected for his sixth term as mayor of Holyoke. The city continued its present policy on the license question.

Samuel E. Fletcher was elected mayor of Chicopee. The city again voted for license by an increased majority.

Former Mayor Hugh D. Murray, who last year lost by ten votes, was elected mayor of Woburn by a vote of 1506. The city remained in the no-license column by a majority of 296.

Charles E. Hatfield was elected mayor of Newton without opposition. As usual, Newton registered itself in favor of the non-licensing of the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Melrose elected Eugene H. Moore mayor for the fourth term and went no-license by a large majority.

Newburyport's five-cornered fight for mayor resulted in the election of Robert E. Burke.

Congress Ready For Recess

Washington, Dec. 15.—Representative Payne of New York, the majority leader, offered in the house a concurrent resolution from the committee on ways and means providing for a holiday recess extending from Dec. 21 until Jan. 4.

Colds Cause Headache
LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine, the world wide Cold and Grip remedy removes cause. Call for full name. Look for signature E.W. GROVE,25c

LABOR'S BATTLE DECREE

Fight Against Steel Corporation Formally Launched at Pittsburg

Pittsburg, Dec. 15.—War was formally declared on the United States Steel corporation by the leaders of organized labor throughout the United States and Canada at the close of a two-day conference here.

The decision to battle long and hard against the stand taken by the steel corporation in its policy of "open shop" was reached by the labor conferees after two hours of debate.

At the conference which passed the remarkable battle decree, Samuel Gompers presided, and through him the measure was put upon the record books of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

The resolution deals principally with the low wages paid the men in the employ of the steel corporation; the hours of work and the general condition of oppression under which the corporation is alleged to hold its employes.

BRAKES ON TOO LATE

Three Dead and Many Injured In Crash of Railroad Flyer

New York, Dec. 15.—It has become known that flyer No. 266 overran all signals and hurtled into a string of blocked trains at a speed of sixty miles an hour in the crash at North East, Pa., in which three men were killed and many others were hurt, some fatally.

Why she overran the flagman's red lamp and the warning bullseyes of the automatic signal system has not been explained. The weather was rainy, but not so thick as to bewilder the other stalled trains, which had all stopped at command.

Evidently the engineer of No. 26 got a glimpse of something ahead, for his brakes were screaming when he ploughed into the rear car of the train ahead of him.

JOHN EARLY AGAIN AMONG THE MISSING

"Leper" Vanishes After Appearing Before Medical Experts

New York, Dec. 15.—John R. Early, the former soldier, known all over the world now as "Leper Early," is in hiding again somewhere in New York. He reappeared Monday night long enough to go before the society of medical jurisprudence, which resolved to have a committee carefully examine him, and if possible to aid him in getting a clean bill of health.

Early was introduced by Dr. Bulkley, who has interested himself in the case. He looked the picture of health, and had been passed in the lobby before the meeting by fully 100 physicians who did not know him and saw nothing unusual about him. A committee of doctors will examine Early this week.

CLARENCE GLOVER'S WILL

Brother of Murdered Man Who Was Cut Off Will Contest It

Boston, Dec. 15.—Albert J. Glover, a brother of Clarence F. Glover, the laundryman who was murdered in Waltham, has signified his intention of contesting his brother's will, which disposes of an estate said to be worth about $60,000.

The will was filed for probate durthe last part of last month, and its provisions were that three-quarters of the estate be held in trust for his wife and the other quarter be given to Seymour S. Glover, another brother. Albert Glover was not mentioned. Judge McIntire set Dec. 22 for a hearing.

HELD IN $5000 BONDS

Harry Holland Suspected of Having Caused Death of John Quann

Boston, Dec. 15.—Harry T. Holland has been arrested on suspicion of manslaughter. The case against him grew out of the death of John J. Quann. On Sunday these two men had a fight and Quann was taken to the Relief hospital, where he was treated for a broken nose. He then went to his home in South Boston, and died Monday.

Holland is a plumber by trade, is 26 years of age, single, and lives in Winthrop. He was arraigned in the municipal court on a charge of manslaughter and was held in $5000 bonds for a hearing on Dec. 24.

Franklin Furnishes $10,000 Bail

New York, Dec. 15.—Captain Thomas Franklin, U. S. A., former commissary and treasurer at West Point, who pleaded guilty to embezzlement here and was sentenced to two and one-half years in the federal prison at Atlanta, was released from custody under $10,000 bail last night.

Two New American Bishops

Rome, Dec. 15.—Pope Pius has appointed two American bishops. Rev. M. F. Fallon of Buffalo is made bishop of London, Canada, and Rev. James O'Rielly of Minneapolis becomes bishop of Fargo, N. D.

The Weather

Almanac, Thursday, Dec. 16.
Sun rises—7:07; sets—4:13.
Moon sets—8 p. m.
High water—1:15 a. m.; 1:45 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Partly cloudy; moderate west winds.

Worse Than His Own.

A gentleman who owns one of the finest estates in the north of England while in his gardens one morning noticed one of the laborers very badly clad and asked him:

"Have you no better clothes than those, Mat?"

"No, in troth, yer honor, worse luck," replied Mat.

"Well, call at the house this evening on your way home," said the gentleman. "I'll leave an old suit of mine with the butler for you."

A few days later when showing a party of visitors through the gardens he was much annoyed to see Mat looking if possible more a scarecrow than ever.

"Why are you still wearing those old clothes, Mat?" he asked.

"Sure, yer honor, they're the best I have," replied Mat.

"But did you not get the suit I left for you the other day?" asked the gentleman.

"Indeed, an' I did, thank yer honor kindly," replied Mat; "but, sure, I had to lave them at home to be mended."—London Tatler.

When Baseball Was an Infant Industry.

It was a crude game, but merry. In theory the pitcher was there only to give the boys a chance to "soak the ball." "First bound" was still out. The unfortunate catcher, handling a heavy, lively ball without mask, glove or protector, stood up near the bat when men were on bases if he had the skill and courage. The early guides recommended him to do so when he could. Had not the pitcher been restricted to an artificial throw scarce a catcher would have lived to tell the tale. Many catchers took everything "on first bounce" and managed at that to prevent much base stealing. Base running also was in its infancy. "Smith," says the Spirit of the Times, "caught a remarkable game, having but five passed balls scored against him." Here and there we get a glimpse which shows how crude it all was, what a matter of hit and miss natural force. In the fifties Dicky Pearce shone without a peer as an infielder. He used to stop grounders with his hand and foot! —Will Irwin in Collier's.

She Did So.

"Always," said papa as he drank his coffee and enjoyed his morning beefsteak—"always, children, change the subject when anything unpleasant has been said. It is both wise and polite."

That evening on his return from business he found several of his flower beds despoiled and the tiny imprint of slippered feet silently bearing witness to the small thief.

"Mabel," he said to her, "did you pick my flowers?"

"Papa," said Mabel, "did you see a monkey in the city today? We had a"—

"Never mind that. Did you pick my flowers, Mabel?"

"Papa, what did grandma send me?"

"Mabel, what do you mean? Did you pick my flowers? Answer me, yes or no."

"Yes, papa, I did, but I thought I would change the subject."—London Tit-Bits.

Look After Your Property.

It is a safe rule in this world to look carefully after the details of your own property. Be sure your title deeds are recorded, that your insurance is kept up, that you alone have the key to your strong box in the safety vault. Do not leave your securities with your broker. If he is doing a conservative business he has no need of them. If he isn't you don't want him to handle your property. The wonder is that with all the confidence reposed in financial matters there are so few defalcations. There is no use in making it easy for some one to get your property. In this world it is hard for most persons to acquire anything, and they should be careful to the last degree in seeing that they are fully protected in it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Britain's Greatest Precipice.

Writing to the Newcastle Journal in regard to the drowning of three bird catchers at St. Kilda, a correspondent says the wild fowls of St. Kilda find nesting places that enable them to bid defiance to the sportsman and to the most daring of bird catchers. There is, for example, the precipice called Conagher, the same being far and away the greatest precipice in the British isles, the deepest perpendicular precipice. It rises from the sea level to a clear height of 1,220 feet. Consider that a man might jump from the top of Conagher into the sea without getting a scratch by the way.

Breaking the News.

Marion, who had been taught to report her misdeeds promptly, came to her mother one day, sobbing penitently.

"Mother, I—I—broke a brick in the fireplace."

"Well, that is not very hard to remedy. But how on earth did you do it, child?"

"I pounded it with father's watch."—Success Magazine.

Accessories.

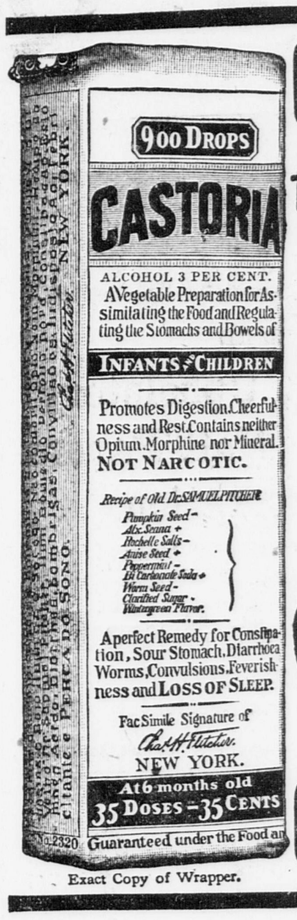
"I'm going in for poetry," lisped the sweet young thing.

"Real, heartfelt poetry," thundered the man of letters, "is only written in a garret."



"Yes; I've heard that. So I've fitted up a beautiful Turkish den in ours."—Washington Herald.

Quite Warm.

"I understand there was a hot time in the Bangs household the other day."

"Yes. When he went home he found his wife simply boiling, and she gave him a roast."—Baltimore American.

Praise a fine day at night.—Irish Proverb.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

Sprague's New River STEAM COAL
Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined
Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.
J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS
TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf

WHEELER'S
Christmas Christmas
See what we offer for Christmas.
All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear
Belts, Aprons, Gloves, Xmas Cards, Booklets, Post Cards
Handkerchiefs, Stamped Linens, Stationery, Handkerchief Boxes, Glove Boxes, Collar Boxes
Pocket Books, Purses, Bags, Calendars, Needle Books, Shaving Cases
We also have a good line of
"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists
Christmas Christmas
CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY
(DRY GOODS STORE.)

REAL ESTATE For Sale?
Advertise in The Ledger.

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets, QUINCY.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building, QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St., QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building, 294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department, 1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 418
May 2 1p-ty

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
38 Huntington Avenue, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 269
Oct. 1. tf

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 409-3 Quincy, 239-3 Quincy, 308-7 Milton
1p-tf

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

(ADVERTISE.)

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 13, | 11.30 | 11.45 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.30 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.15 | 2.30 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.30 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Manager E. D. Stair.

Theatrical Man With Political Aspirations.

E. D. Stair of Detroit is a member of the well known theatrical firm of Stair & Havlin, whose interests extend over a great part of the United States. Some time ago Mr. Stair was credited with an ambition to enter the United States senate.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Rowe is hostess tonight for the Elliot club meeting.

The Pickwick club meets tonight with Mr. and Mrs. George L. Badger of West Quincy.

The Wollaston Y. P. R. U. is to hold its Christmas meeting the Sunday evening after Christmas.

At First Church chapel, Sunday evening the Y. P. R. U., will hold a Christmas service Miss Blanche Morrison being the committee. The special music will be violin solos by Everett Rhodes.

Cochato club of Braintree gives one of the most popular entertainments in its course, this week Friday night, a vaudeville under the supervision of Miss Miriam Thayer and the entertainment in charge of Mrs. Frank White.

A concert which promises to be an artistic event is being arranged for January 19, to be given at Alpha hall. The artists are all well known, and are C. Pol Plancon, the favorite baritone, Henrich Shuecker, the noted harpist of the Boston Symphony orchestra, and Quincy's reader, A. Isabelle Davis.

Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution of Massachusetts are to give a Christmas party Saturday, Dec. 18, from 2 till 5, at Sewall hall, New Century building, Boston. Members of each Chapter will take part in the short program of music and readings; marching, dancing and refreshments will follow. A contribution of gifts is solicited for poor and needy children from those attending.

Red Cross Stamps
FOR THE
Tuberculosis Camp

ASSETS, $450,000.
ESTABLISHED 1889

SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE
Room 1 SAVINGS B'K BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas

BENDERNAGEL TAKES STAND

Was Ignorant as to What Transpired on Sugar Docks

HE DID NOT KNOW CHECKERS

Says He Never Paid Money to Government Inspectors and Knew Nothing of Holes Bored Through Scale Stanchions or Wire Spring—Hennessey Also Testifies—No Mention of Men Higher Up

New York, Dec. 15.—In the trial of six former employes of the American Sugar Refining company before Judge Martin in the United States circuit court, all of the defendants have made their appearance on the witness stand, James F. Bendernagel being the last one to testify.

There was no indication from any of them of any disposition to tell on individuals higher up, as was foreshadowed in a statement by Bendernagel's counsel, Charles M. Beattie, on the first day of the trial. It is therefore taken for granted now that the defense proposes to sit tight and rest upon the general denials that have been entered against the government's charges.

Patrick J. Hennessey, one of the four indicted checkers who recorded the weights taken by the government weighers on the Williamsburg docks of the sugar trust where the weighing frauds occurred, testified yesterday that he had been employed at the Williamsburg refinery for eighteen years, and previously was employed for five years as a weigher in the custom house. He had never seen Bendernagel taking any part in the work on the docks.

On cross examination the witness said his increase in pay had come shortly after he went to work as a checker on the government weighers. He considered that Spitzer had given the increase because he appreciated the work done by the witness. The witness stuck to his statement that he had not known there was a hole or a wire spring in the stanchion of the scale he used before he saw a picture in the newspapers.

Hennessey said that after he read that there was a hole in the stanchion he took pains to examine it to see if the hole was actually there. He found the hole all right, but denied all knowledge as to how it got there or what it was used for.

Hennessey identified the pink books in which he had checked up sugar on the government weighers, including one in which a difference of nearly three tons was apparent between his weights and the city weigher's weights in 800 drafts of sugar over the scale. He said that he could not account for the difference.

Before calling Bendernagel the defense put on a number of character witnesses. When Bendernagel was called to the stand he testified that he had been in the Williamsburg plant for twenty-nine years and had been cashier of it for twenty-two years. He told of occupying various social and business positions in Brooklyn organizations and said that his salary had been $6000 a year. Bendernagel declared that his work was confined entirely to the cashier's department and that he knew nothing as to what went on on the docks.

He denied even acquaintance with the defendant checkers, except that he said he had known Hennessey several years before. In regard to the comparison of the weights as shown by the invoices which were sent up to him from the office of the sugar trust at 117 Wall street to be checked up with the weights recorded by the city weighers, Bendernagel explained that he saw only the city weigher's returns and knew nothing about the way in which they were made.

He entered into various details as to the conditions under which his own department was run, denying that he had ever paid money to government inspectors, had ever known that holes were bored through the scale stanchions, or had ever seen the spring which Parr found in the stanchion of scale No. 1 until he testified before the grand jury in Brooklyn.

ROOSEVELT'S GOOD LUCK

Total of 6663 Skins Bagged In Africa by Former President

Washington, Dec. 15.—The Smithsonian African expedition, headed by Theodore Roosevelt, had up to Dec. 10 taken 6663 skins. The collection consists of 243 large mammals, 1500 small mammals, and 1356 birds. The collection contains also several human skulls picked up along the line of the ancient slave trail.

This statement of the work of the expedition was made at the annual meeting of the board of regents of the Smithsonian institution.

Seven Dead In Tenement House Fire

Cincinnati, Dec. 15.—Blackened and ruined walls of a four-story tenement house here bear evidence of an early morning fire in which seven lives were sacrificed and a dozen persons were injured, three probably fatally. An overturned kerosene lamp upset by a fight on the second floor is said to have started the blaze.

CANADA IS SATISFIED

Has No Fault to Find With United States Tariff Legislation

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Canada's annual budget statement was made to parliament by Finance Minister Fielding. It is taken as significant that no tariff changes were announced or foreshadowed except those already stated in the Franco-Canadian treaty.

Mr. Fielding said that next to Great Britain, Canada's most valuable market is the United States. There has been some anxiety and perhaps unnecessary alarm in the minds of some Canadians, he said, as to possible friction arising in consequence of recent tariff legislation in the United States.

"But," he continued, "after reading the message of President Taft to congress, I think we can feel that the United States government has a very correct appreciation of what is due other countries and to Canada in particular."

NEW COLONIST PROJECT

Englishmen Interested In Plans of Land Company In Tennessee

Chattanooga, Dec. 15.—The Rugby Land company has purchased 25,000 acres of land in Scott, Morgan and Fentress counties, on which particular efforts will be made to colonize Swedish and German farmers.

English promoters are interested in the deal, and the Rugby (Tenn.) Company, Ltd., of Rugby, has been purchased by the new company.

The Rugby colony was originally made up of a lot of young and wealthy Englishmen, who, under the direction of an English nobleman named Hughes, came to America and settled, but were not able to adapt themselves to the work required to make a success of their undertaking, and their scheme proved a failure.

SAYS KIDNAPPERS ARE AFTER MONEY

Rich Brewer Thinks His Niece Will Soon Be Restored

Louisville, Dec. 15.—Refuting rumors which have been circulated about the manner of the disappearance from her home last Wednesday of Alma Kellner, 8 years old, Frank Behr, millionaire brewer, and uncle of the child, says that kidnappers took the child. Behr's statement quieted the rumors of skeletons in the Kellner family closet.

"Money is what the kidnappers want and that is why they will not harm Alma, and why we are trying not to be unduly alarmed," said Behr. He said that when excitement abated somewhat the kidnappers would demand a ransom. Behr believes that Alma is held in Louisville.

BOSTON WANTS THEM AGAIN

Chapman and Alexander Greeted by Twelve Thousand People

Boston, Dec. 15.—With their right hands high in the air and voices ringing out with "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," 12,000 people joined in the ending of the two days' conference conducted by Dr. J. W. Chapman and Charles M. Alexander at Mechanics' hall last night.

Cards had been passed around and upon them 2000 of the audience wrote their names, pledging to give $6000 in 1911 or 1912 if the evangelists then return to Boston.

Chapman and Alexander stood upon a table with arms folded and tears falling down their cheeks as they listened to the words which proved that Boston was willing and anxious for them to come back.

WHEN HIS HEALTH PERMITS

Warrant Will Be Served Upon Sheldon For His Arrest

New York, Dec. 15.—A warrant for the arrest of George P. Sheldon, the deposed president of the Phenix (Fire) Insurance company of Brooklyn, has been put into the hands of the Greenwich, Conn., police.

It will be served as soon as Sheldon, who is seriously ill at his home in Greenwich, improves sufficiently to be removed to this city, where he is under indictment for grand larceny in connection with alleged misappropriation of the fire insurance company's funds.

Meanwhile the Greenwich police have been requested to keep watch on the indicted man.

Mediation on Illinois Central

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Martin A. Knapp and Charles P. Neill have taken up the role of mediators here between telegraphers of the Illinois Central Railroad company and officials of the railroad. The telegraphers' demand of 10 percent increase has been denied.

Robbers Clean Out Cigar Store

Providence, Dec. 15.—Twenty-one thousand cigars, 1400 pounds of cigar filler, 36 packages of cut plug, 126 boxes of cigarets and 23 boxes of snuff were stolen from an Italian cigar store on Atwells avenue.

Seven Victims of Rabid Dog

New York, Dec. 15.—Eleven persons were bitten by a rabid bulldog which went on a rampage in the lower part of the city last night. The dog was finally killed by a policeman.

KING LEOPOLD RALLIES WELL

Not at All Cast Down by Serious Surgical Operation

DOCTORS ARE ASTOUNDED

Monarch Displays Remarkable Recuperative Powers Immediately Upon Recovering Consciousness—So Cheerful and Talkative That He Had to Be Warned—Paid Warm Tribute to Taft Short Time Ago

Brussels, Dec. 15.—King Leopold yesterday underwent a most serious operation and astounded science by the manner in which he withstood it.

His remarkable recuperative powers manifested themselves directly he regained consciousness, and the optimistic spirit which he has shown througout the course of his illness returned to him.

KING LEOPOLD.

He expressed satisfaction when informed of the details of the operation, which was for relief of a simple obstruction of the intestine.

The king is making a plucky fight for life. He was even strong enough last night to sign the new military law, just passed by the senate. But the battle has not been completely won.

It is understood that the real feeling of his physicians and household is not so hopeful as the official bulletins would indicate. The crisis probably will last three days.

There is a possibility that the intestine will be gripped by paralysis—a danger that always causes anxiety on the part of the surgeons—in which case a recurrence of the obstruction is likely and another operation would be necessitated.

Leopold emerged from the operation of enterotomy with a regular pulse and cheerful. He was so talkative that the doctors had to warn him, after which the patient fell into a light, refreshing slumber.

The condition of the king is stated to be satisfactory, and it is said there need be no fear for the immediate present, unless some new and unforeseen complications arise.

The last member of the diplomatic corps to see King Leopold was the American minister, Henry L. Wilson, who was received a fortnight ago on a farewell visit, preparatory to his departure to his new post in Mexico.

The king was in the gayest of spirits. Following his habit, when in good humor, he conversed in English, in which he is an adept, and expressed regret that the minister was leaving. He spoke in admiration of and paid a warm tribute to Mr. Taft, referring to him as a great leader and a great president. He asked the minister to convey his respects to the president, with wishes of a continued successful administration. Then he added, laughingly:

"But I do hope that the United States will change her drastic attitude on Congo."

CROSSING NO BRIDGES

Uncle Joe Sidesteps Question Concerning Retirement From Congress

Washington, Dec. 15.—Speaker Cannon's attention was called to a newspaper story presenting anew the idea that he will give up the speakership at the end of this session of congress.

"A man may retire from politics," said the speaker. "A man may resign from the house. A man may resign the speakership. In fact, a man may retire from anything. One thing is certain, I am not crossing bridges until I come to them."

Death of Hull Is Confirmed

New York, Dec. 15.—The wreck of the sloop Commodore, which belonged to Washington Hull, the Brooklyn architect, who has been missing since Nov. 3, was found floating off Manhattan Beach. The finding of the wreck confirms the death of Hull.

War on Candy Slot Machines

New York, Dec. 15.—War has been officially declared on the candy-store slot machine with its ever-present temptation to the gambling instincts of the small boy.

A CHRISTMAS BOX OF
Interwoven TOE AND HEEL

Men's Hose
ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.
The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.
PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00
Can you beat it for the Price?
GEORGE W. JONES
No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

GAS PIPING AT COST.
- We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.
- Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.
- We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.
- Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.
- We do not pipe new buildings.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181
Dec. 13 tf

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 lo-tf

Famous Since 1860
A Gift to Make Home Happier For Many Years to Come
A Jewett piano is a gift in the enjoyment of which all can share, but the pleasure it gives now is not all it means. It brings to your children a priceless opportunity for musical training and culture.
A Jewett Piano is a possession that will be prized in ony family where artistic merit is appreciated.
A full, rich tone with wonderful clarity and musical depth distinguishes the Jewett from other pianos of even greater cost.
Its superiority in this respect has won for it the preference of musical authorities of international reputation.
Jewett pianos are built to give lasting satisfaction. Thousands of owners have endorsed them, and we add, the broad guarantee of New England's largest piano house.
A choice of attractive styles at from $375 up.
Sold only at our stores.
M. Steinert Sons & Co.
STEINERT HALL, 162 BOYLSTON STREET
STORES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES OF NEW ENGLAND
Dec 13 L 2t 13-15—Ol' Dec 18-1w

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.
Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50
Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2
Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

The preponderance of red used by our merchants this year for their Christmas decorations gives the city a bright aspect. No color at this happy season is so symbolic of good cheer and too much of it cannot be used. There are garlands of red, and red and green, and in some windows are red brick fireplaces. It won't be many days before Santa Claus will be making his rounds with toys for all the little ones.

We take this occasion Mr. Business Man to inquire if you have considered how you can enlarge your business during 1910 and also point out to you that this new year will soon be upon us. We do not know your methods or thoughts upon this matter but we want to inform you that we believe the secret to a successful business is to advertise your goods.

We have recently added an advertising man to our staff with the idea of educating the local merchants to change their copy often and to word the copy so that as soon as it is read, it will make the readers want to secure the advertised article. This is creating a demand. If you have goods on your shelves that are widely advertised they already contain 75 per cent selling force and if you let the public know you have such articles to sell you furnish the remaining 25 per cent and your shelves would rapidly empty themselves.

In conclusion we ask if you are ready to talk this matter over, if so phone Quincy 425 and our ad man will call and explain every detail as to how to plan a successful advertising campaign.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

A city has been likened to an immense family and the mayor to its father. There have been worse comparisons. At all events, the best mayor is surely one who is able to sympathize with all the groups of people he governs, to understand the conditions under which they live and to appreciate their needs. And he must have constructive imagination as well, so that he can picture the ideal city and shape his policy toward that distant goal. But I do not mean to underestimate the business part of city government. Broad sympathies and imagination are not enough. This hypothetically best mayor must be practical as well. He must have force and courage to promote and defend his policies, to compel the quasi-public corporations to respect them, to protect them from ill-advised legislation ,and to enlist popular support. He must have good judgment to tell him how big a step toward the ideal can be taken each year. As the father of the family counts his cash and does the best he can with the income at his disposal, so the mayor and his advisers must determine how much money the city can afford to spend, how large a tax burden can be levied without oppression. And when this has been done, he must finally and above all have the executive ability to make that money go as far as possible, to get a dollar's value for every dollar spent. This involves tact, perseverance and a knowledge of men, the ability to select efficient subordinates, to find the right man for the right place.—Joseph B. Eastman in Sunday Globe.

BETTER WORK

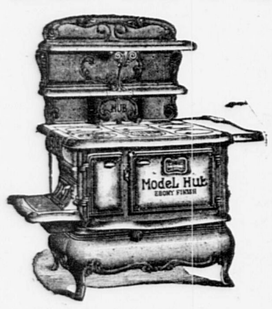
(Continued from Page 1.)

freight rates, but there was more to be done.

F. R. Stewart of Mannington, West Virginia, said the retailers wanted to cooperate with the producers, and there was need of a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether. The monument business ought to be a dignified gentlemen's business, but it had been abused.

William Barclay of Barre, said that his city owed a great debt to the granite men of Quincy, for Quincy was the father of Barre. You have the older generation of granite men and should profit from them. He hoped for a bigger, a better, and a busier Quincy, and said Barre will help, for what helps one granite community will benefit another.

Cashier Claflin spoke highly of the credit of Quincy manufacturers, saying that there had been very few failures among them in 30 to 40 years. They had to work hard for success, but were square in their dealings and truthful in their statements. Unfortunately some manufacurers have too little capital, and it would be better if they worked for others. They often took jobs too low and hurt the business. Conditions were going to improve.



Fred M. Schlimgen of Madison, Wis., said the retailers intended to be sincere, and he hoped the manufacturers would map out something and submit to his association. We want quality, he said, not low prices. Much good resulted from meetings like this. The retailers are so widely scattered that they cannot get together very often, but your association should meet often and the meetings should be largely attended. The business was in a deplorable condition when our association was started, but was improving.

Henry McGrath said he was surprised at conditions as told by the wholesalers and retailers, and the grievances should be noted down and considered. It was a mistake, however, for retailers to think that all Quincy manufacturers must be wholesalers, as his firm had been in the retail business for fifty years.

E. H. Kavanagh struck the keynote in advocating quality and fairness. Low prices and poor work are not welcome, and there was no excuse. Quincy has the material and the men to produce good work, and should insist upon it. The country is on the eve of prosperity, and it will be our fault if we do not take advantage of it. We have had a lot of good wholesome advice; let us see if we can profit by it.

President Murray closed the exercises, hoping that all manufacturers would demand fair prices for work, for granite is the backbone of Quincy. Auld Lang Syne was sung in chorus.

Your Hair is Worth It
Afraid to use hair preparations? Don't know exactly what to do?
Then why not consult your doctor? Isn't your hair worth it?
Ask him if he endorses Ayer's Hair Vigor for falling hair.
Does not Color the Hair
J. C. AYER COMPANY, Lowell, Mass.

HUB RANGES

One-half ton Coal----Free with every HUB Range purchased before Jan. 1, 1910
The grates in Hub Ranges are simple to operate, retain the fire, and are easily removed and replaced.
BERMAN TEA CO., 1625 Hancock St., QUINCY.

MEN'S CLUB AT WOLLASTON

Learn of Riches and Beauty of Hawaii

Before members of the Wollaston Unitarian club on Tuesday evening, Rev. Charles F. Dole, D. D., of Jamaica Plain delivered an address on "Hawaii and some of its problems."

Dr. Dole opened by relating the manner in which his interest was first aroused in the country by some coral and shell sent him from the island. He took his listeners on a trip into the harbor of Honolulu, which he described as a little harbor of coral reefs embowered in trees surrounded by green rice fields, level as a floor with banana and palm trees in the background.

The native sport of surfriding was mentioned, as were the divers who would dive into the depths of the waters bringing up any coin, however small, that was thrown in.

Dr. Dole spoke of the volcanic origin of the islands and of its disintegration, which when reached by moisture makes a soil of wonderful fertility. Only about one-fifth of the area of the islands is tillable however the rest consisting of rocks and barren mountains.

In speaking of the early history and native religions Dr. Dole made the remark that although, through the influence of the early missionaries, the Christian religion had been largely adopted on the islands, enough of the old religion was kept to fall back on in case they so desired. He mentioned the system of land tenure and the early relations of the king, the chiefs and the common people.

Describing the physical beauties of the island he told of the sugar plantations with their miles of flumes, the pineapple plantations, the ravines and lastly of a trip to the volcano Kilauea. The character of the people was spoken of and Dr. Dole declared that the problems of humanity were on trial with the people of this small group of islands with a population of 170,000. Of this there is an oriental population of 95,000 made up of 70,000 Japanese, 18,000 Chinese, 4000 Koreans with a smaller amount of other oriental nationalities.

The schools, said Dr. Dole are making this population American citizens, and in one generation a large proportion of American ideas are being assimilated. With the right environment give the child a true education and results follow at once.

The perplexing labor problem of the islands was touched upon, the principal industry being the raising of sugar, of which half a million tons are raised annually, representing an income of 30 millions of dollars. These plantations, said Dr. Dole, are conducted on a very scientific scale and produce a heavier yield to the acre than anywhere else in the world. About 50,000 Japanese are employed on the plantations with an average wage of $15 per month and the provision of a shack and firewood.

The United States government is establishing a Gibraltar near Honolulu, declared Dr. Dole, as he went on to tell of the preparations being made for a naval base at Pearl harbor, 10 miles from the city. Here already three millions of dollars have been expended for dredging while at Diamond Head a mortar battery has been established. This height has been honey combed with galleries for defensive purposes and now no one is permitted to climb there without a permit from the War department.

The usual roast beef supper was served, and the blessing was asked by Rev. Carl G. Horst.

EXPRESSIVE.

Have you ever noticed how few words some people use in explaining their point of argument? Another person would use ten times the words and still make ambiguous statements. It's a rare gift to be able to express yourself in the fewest words. How many of us could be like the Indian who, sitting on a wasp's nest ,arose and remarked: "Heap Hell." A great truth in few words wasn't it? —Mansfield News.

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

Daring Betting.

During the close of the eighteenth century the craze for gambling in England rose to an extreme. At certain notorious clubs every incident was made the subject of a wager, and thousands changed hands over the veriest trifle. A certain Mr. Blake made himself notorious by betting £1,500 that a man could live twelve hours under water. He hired a daring fellow, and, purchasing an old ship, they were sunk together by way of settling the bet. Neither ship nor man reappeared, so Mr. Blake had to pay up. The famous Earl of Carlisle once staked £5,000 on a single card at faro. On one occasion at Brooks', another noted gambling club, Lord Robert Spencer lost the last shilling of the fortune which he had obtained from his brother, the Duke of Marlborough, and General Fitzpatrick was in the same condition. The twain combined, and, borrowing a sum of money, they opened a faro bank. They had a run of luck, and Lord Spencer's share of the proceeds came to £100,000. He pocketed this cash and never gambled again.—London Tatler.

One Block of Sightseeing.

It was on East Eleventh street that the sightseeing wagon started. Anxious mothers placed their very small children in it, then stood anxiously watching the youngsters for fear they would fall out, in spite of the fact that the wagon was very low and drawn by a little white pony, who went along in a walk. A man walked beside the wagon. A small boy on the front seat drove, holding the reins in a slack way and chatting with a small child by his side.

"How much do you charge them for a ride?" asked a woman on the sidewalk.

"One cent," said the man.

"And how far do you go?" she asked.

"Just up and down the block," said the man. "Afraid to go any further—afraid I'll lose them."

The woman counted the children, sixteen. Sixteen cents for going up and down the block.

"There are a lot of little ways of earning a living on the east side," she said.—New York Press.

The Boatswain's Judgment.

It was somewhere in this wide, wide world, just where has slipped my mind, and they were about to buy beef on hoof for the ships. So the officer whose duty it is to make the purchase took ashore with him the bo's'n, as representing the crew, to look over the animals and either object or not. They approached the first animal.

"How will that do?" asked the officer.

The bo's'n cautiously approached the beast, bent down and gingerly ran his thumb and forefinger down first one shank and then the other until the whole four shanks had been examined. Straightening up he said:

"He'll do all right, sir."

The officer, flabbergasted, cried:

"But, dash it all, you can't tell the good points of a bullock by the shanks!"

"Perhaps not, sir, but they're the only parts we ever gets, sir," was the reply.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A German Holiday.

At Haslach, in the Kinzig valley, in Germany, Feb. 22 is a holiday and has been observed as one for hundreds of years. Once upon a time, the story teller who explains its origin begins, Haslach was overrun with snakes, and no one knew how to drive them out. One day a great flock of storks appeared, and they were the saviors of the place. In recognition of this deliverance from the pest, which occurred on Feb. 22, the day has been kept sacred and is known as "stork day." An appointed official known as the "stork father" parades the streets, followed by as many children as care to join the procession. He wears his "Sunday clothes" and a high hat decorated with two stuffed storks. Stops are made by this procession at houses along the line, and the children receive gifts of sweets and small coins, every householder feeling pleased to show his gratitude to the stork.

Nest Eggs.

Take a nice fresh egg and separate the white and the yolk so that the yolk will not be broken. Put the white into a bowl, add a pinch of salt and beat it until it is very stiff. Have ready some little bowl that is pretty enough to put on the table, but that will not break in the oven. Pour into this the stiff beaten white and make a little hole in the middle of it with a spoon. In this little hollow place the yolk, still unbroken. Set the dish in a hot oven and cook for three or four minutes, or until the white has browned a little and the yolk is firm. There must be a separate dish for each egg that you cook in this way. Serve right away.—Delineator.

The Echo.

A little boy was amusing himself by hallooing, then listening for the echo. "What is the echo, mamma?" he asked. His mother attempted to explain, feeling all the while how inadequate her explanation was. The little fellow trotted along at her side, silent for some minutes. Then his eyes fell upon his shadow.

"Oh, I know what echo is," he exclaimed joyfully. "It's the shadow of our voices."—Los Angeles Times.

A Palpable Hit.

"Now, sir," demanded counsel for the defendant, "tell us what time this alleged robbery took place."

"You had better ask your client," retorted the plaintiff. "He had my watch!"

He dwells nowhere who dwells everywhere.—Martial.

The Fourth Estate

How the power of the press may be wielded in behalf of the people

The story of an editor's sacrifice of love on the altar of principle

A Romance of Newspaperdom
NOVELIZED BY FREDERICK R. TOOMBS
From the Much Talked About Newspaper Play by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford
Realistic, Thrilling, True to the Life of Today
This is the New Serial
Which will be started next Monday in the
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
"The Fourth Estate"
Presents Pictures of Scenes in Editorial and Composing Rooms of a Newspaper Office which are startlingly true to life . . . .
The Story is a Graphic Pen Picture
Of the Social conditions of the day. It has a real hero in Wheeler Brand, the managing editor, who sacrifices his love for a woman to his sense of duty. . . . . .
Begin with the First Chapter next Monday.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

Good cheer prevails this afternoon at the Wollaston Unitarian vestry where the Alliance is holding its Christmas meeting which is announced in their calendar as a "Christmas for Everybody" meeting.

* * *

The Christmas season does not prevent the Friday club members from gathering as usual for their meetings as they meet three times this month. This week Mrs. John F. Welch is hostess and Mrs. George G. Saville in charge of the program, Massachusetts Bay Company and Colonial Boston, being the special subjects in continuation of the study of Colonial America.

* * *

Friday evening of last week was given in First Church chapel ,the second entertainment in the series under the auspices of the Quincy Alliance, a recital by Mrs. Elsie Washburn. The third and last in the course will be on Jan. 14 a musicale by the Westland quartet, to which subscribers are looking forward with much pleasure.

* * *

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. will meet Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Simpson Kay, when selections from the Union Signal and Our Message will be given. Mrs. A. D. Albee is leader for the afternoon.

* * *

Next Tuesday is "guest day" with The Philergians of Braintree and it will also be Christmasy. The old English play "The Love Chase" will be given by Elizabeth Pooler and the club quartet will sing. The afternoon will close with a reception and Christmas tea.

* * *

Junior Friday club does not meet again until the first Monday in January.

* * *

The Junior Alliance met Monday evening in First Church chapel, but owing to the stormy weather there were very few present and consequently much of the business had to be postponed. It was voted, however, to decorate the church for Christmas quite extensively, to send sermons to three women in out of the way places and to buy a ticket-book for the various speakers who come from Boston to address the Alliance. After the business the members listened to an interesting and clearly told paper on Aminianism ,given by Miss Molly Harris.

* * *

The Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, Commonwealth of Massachusetts celebrate Tea Party day, Thursday, December the sixteenth at Hotel Victoria, Dartmouth street, Boston. There will be a reception to State Officers from two until half after two, music by the Bellevue orchestra. There will also be a paper, "Up the Amazon and Madeira Rivers," by Mr. Franklin Augustus Snow of Brookline and songs by Miss Rachel E. Marton, accompanied by Mrs. R. W. Dibble.

* * *

Brighthelmstone club of Allston is to be congratulated in securing Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver for an evening meeting in February. This will be his only lecture east this season. Those who are reading his thrilling story of political life and juvenile court work in Denver in Everybody's Magazine will envy the Allston club.

* * *

The Charitable Tens Circle of King's Daughters will meet Monday afternoon, at three o'clock, at the home of Miss Carrie Follett Spear, 1168 Hancock street for a special Christmas service of song.

* * *

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Whether it was the nearness to Christmas, the disadvantage of not having a suitable assembly hall or just what was the cause it is hard to say, but there was a restlessness about the meeting of the Quincy Women's club on Tuesday afternoon that made it a hard one to follow with full enjoyment.

The attendance was good and the usual reports were given by the officers and chairmen of committees. Each had something good to present which the president Mrs. Gurney summarized at the close in this way: "Don't forget, the entertainment Jan. 12, by the Art and Literature committee. Don't forget that voices are needed for the operetta, etc."

Mrs. Whitcher for the Visiting Nurse committee announced that Dr. Carley would not accept pay for her lecture on Nov. 9, so that the committee had presented her with a thermometer which she much appreciated. Of the money appropriated for the lecture ten dollars was to be used for a diet kitchen and the balance for the thermometer and the Visiting Nurse's salary.

Mrs. Royal spoke for the Red Cross stamps. She said club members should not be asked to buy them but should be asking where can I buy them? They should buy liberally and make their sale a great big success in Quincy.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh for the committee on revision of the by-laws, read the proposed changes, which will be read again for approval at the January meetings so that they may be printed in February. Members were asked to bring their old book of by-laws to the next meeting that they may follow the proposed revisions.

The afternoon's program opened with a group of songs by Miss Ida L. Poore, who has a pleasing contralto voice and sang sympathetically and in rich vibrant tones. Mrs. Chandler W. Smith accompanied at the piano.

Mrs. Tenney chairman of the Arts and Crafts committee was very happy in introducing Vesper Lincoln George, the speaker of the afternoon whose subject was "Household Art."

Mr. George said it was better to be satisfied than unsatisfied with one's home, still there was a standard and he would outline a few things in the make up of harmonious surrounding. In most homes there are too many things, quantity rather than quality. Let simplicity be the key note. Most people do not know what they want, and in buying take the advise of the salesman or a friend. Don't buy unless you need the article. Some see things in a shop that suit their fancy and buy without regard to its relation with other furnishings.

Then again we are slaves to what we already have in our homes. Because it cost money it must be kept although the whole family dislikes it, and week after week it is dusted and put back in its place. Perhaps in the homes things had accumulated before the taste was formed and it is hard to weed out.

Mr. George gave a few ideas to work on, a way to measure our home furnishings. Variety is necessary. This he illustrated on the blackboard showing various forms of construction. There must be a dominant form or color. Several orchestras all playing a different tune at the same time was like some homes where there was too much variety. One might have a fondness for certain colors but this was not objectional if used freely in the house if it blended with other colors used. A variety of colors carried to extreme was absurd. Unless an object was elaborate many did not care for it but simplicity was always best.

For utility—that is useful things like chairs and tables must serve their purpose and if they fail to do so are useless. A chair should be comfortable to sit in as well as harmonious as to outline and color. A Japanese on asking what the American taste was, was told we had none. Other nations and ages have their periods of art, furniture etc., but America seems to be a mixture.

In the treatment of our home we should do our own selecting. A decorator has something to sell, a salesman has something to sell and it is his duty to sell it. We depend too much on others, our dressmaker, our salesman, etc., and the result is not always satisfactory. The size, height and shape of a room should determine its treatment. Vertical lines give height to a low room, and there is 50 per cent. more illumination in a room rightly papered.

Rooms look larger papered in light papers. Red paper eats up space and makes a room look small. Plain papers are always safe to use but many do not care for them. Wall paper is unimportant whereas pictures are permanent and the paper should be a background for the picture. Mr. George showed several styles and colorings of paper and showed the effect of pictures on the paper. When selecting paper always try two rolls at home for the effect. Locations of rooms would need different paper—a north room warm colors and a south room, cool colors. Color has much to do with thte physical welfare of a person. Some colors were positively bad. Color effects the nerves through the eyes. Green is a color provided for us by nature. One can look upon green with less irritation than any other color.

Pictures—Have your pictures framed to suit the picture and not according to the prevailing fashion of the year. Frames are generally too heavy. In the frame there should be a repitition of the prevailing color in the picture. When mats are used should be of middle value, a shade between picture and frame.

Furniture—Our age is a mixed one for furniture. Mission furniture has been overdone. At one time seemed refreshing after the spindled legged chairs, etc. It is too heavy for most American houses and is bad when mixed with other furniture. Colonial furniture always appropriate. Burnt wood furniture he did not think was burnt enough. Don't cherish an antique because it is old for it should have beauty as well. Simplicity and unity should prevail in all the rooms.

Mr. George exhibited beautiful pieces of silk, damask, etc., for color effects, pictures vases and ornaments also helped illustrate his meaning.

This will be the last meeting of the club until after the holidays.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY Y. M. C. A.

Programs for the season's meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. were issued at this month's meeting. Officers for 1909-10 are: President, Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham; vice presidents, Mrs. Nathan G. Nickerson, Mrs. William F. Cummings, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. George L. Badger, Mrs. Thomas B. Pollard; recording secretary, Mrs. Lincoln Crowell; corresponding secretary, Miss Addie J. Park; treasurer, Mrs. Frank W. Crane; directors, Bethany church—Mrs. Albert H. Gilson, Mrs. John F. Welch, Mrs. William G. Shaw, Mrs. Abbott L. Melcher; Christ church—Mrs. George H. Brown, Mrs. C. F. Derby, Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick, Mrs. H. E. Ricker, Mrs. Herbert Lawton; First church—Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. Elbridge Cross, Mrs. Alice D. Sanborn; United Presbyterian—Mrs. John Russell; Calvary Baptist—Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Mrs. Newman Savage; Washington Street Congregational—Mrs. E. R. Blanchard, Mrs. Robert J. Cranshaw, Mrs. Eugene R. Stone; Universalist—Mrs. Charles A. Spear; Wollaston Congregational—Mrs. John B. Cornish, Mrs. Charles P. Loring, Mrs. E. R. Johnson; St. Chrysostom's—Mrs. Theodore Parker; Wollaston Baptist—Mrs. Charles B. Hall, Miss Margery Rideout, Mrs. Oscar Blaisdell; Wollaston Methodist—Mrs. L. E. Crosscup, Mrs. Robert B. Smith, Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick; Wollaston Unitarian—Mrs. W. E. Rowe; Park and Downs Congregational—Mrs. F. C. Blake.

The program and hostesses for the season are:

October 8, 1909—Hostess, Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham; piazza meeting, business, music.

November 5, 1909—Hostess, Mrs. Theophilus King; Life of Thomas Moore—Mrs. W. E. Alden; song—Mrs. J. H. Slade.

December 3, 1909—Hostess, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard; Diversion of Power—Mrs. F. J. Goodwin, Pawtucket, R. I.

January 14, 1910—Hostess, Mrs. Frank W. Crane; Rev. George S. Butters, Newton.

February 11, 1910—Hostess, Mrs. Amos T. Leavitt; College Work—Secretary E. C. Worman, Yale.

March 10, 1910—Hostess, Mrs. John D. Buckingham; George W. Tupper, Immigrant Secretary.

April 8, 1910—Hostess, Mrs. William H. Doble; The Victorious Life—Rev. Hermon S. Pinkham.

May 13, 1910—Hostess Mrs. John F. Welch; annual reports, election of officers; Talk of Summer Work—Mrs. Wilson Marsh.

QUINCY ALLIANCE.

A large number of Alliance members gathered in the chapel of First church, Monday afternoon for their Christmas meeting. After the various reports, the usual routine business was carried on among other things it being voted to give a Christmas party this year to children of Quincy least apt to have the Christmas festivities.

The program of the afternoon was then taken up, this being in charge of Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis, who had a varied and Christmassy entertainment arranged. First Miss Ruth Packard read The legend of the Christmas tree from the German, then The song of the angels, by Philip Brooks was read by Miss Beatrice Morrison, The first Christmas tree in New England, by Miss Lela Smith, A feel in the Christmas air written by James Whitcomb Riley, and read most sympathetically by Miss Ruth Packard, Santa Claus' store room, an original story written by Erastus Osgood of Quincy, given by Miss Blanche Morrison. Regarding Santa Claus, Miss Lela Smith, Eugene Field's Chrismas hymn read with music by Miss Beatrice Morrison and lastly an old English, traditional carol sung by the four girls led by Miss Catherine Saville. This carol was written in 1550 and is still sung in England.

The Christmas air prevailed throughout the afternoon and many were heard to say it seemed like an English Christmas entertainment.

After the carol, cocoa and sandwiches were served and a social time enjoyed, the hostesses being Mrs. George W. Morton and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon and the pourers, Mrs. Thomas E. Bixby and Miss Lillian Newman.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

Mrs. Philip N. Moore, president of General Federation of Women's Clubs, speaking for the board of directors of the federation in regard to suffrage says:

"Whatever may be their individual opinions, the directors with the hearty concurrence and initiative of the president, as their chief officer, should not represent the general federation at any suffrage conventions."

This statement has been made necessary, Mrs. Moore says, because o fthe misleading reports on this subject which were sent broadcast through the country after her speech on suffrage and the home at the recent meeting of the American Civic Association.

FOOD SANITATION.

Through the club committees on pure food, an especially prepared synopsis of the important laws of Massachusetts relating to pure food has been sent to the federated clubs by the food sanitation committee of the Massachusetts State federation of Women's clubs.

Members of the State committee stand ready to visit clubs or to send speakers, only traveling expenses being expected from the clubs visited, and they will outline work if desired. It is hoped by this means to secure the cooperation that will make the work successful.

There will be a conference on food sanitation Wednesday, Jan. 5, at 2 o'clock, at the rooms of the New England Women's club, Channey hall building, Copley square, Boston.

Club committees on food sanitation or pure food, club presidents and club members especially interested in the subject are cordially invited. The committee urges that each club appoint one delegate, who shall report back to the club.

The State federation committee is sub-divided into committees on Massachusetts pure food laws, medical milk commissions and milk depots, market inspection, extermination of the house fly, unsanitary and sanitary handling of food, the political influence on national pure food laws, and the honest label.

EVENING DRAWING SCHOOL.

The last session of the drawing school was held Tuesday evening. It was in the nature of an open meeting, and the work of the class in freehand and mechanical drawing was on public exhibition. The exhibition which was from 7.30 to 9 o'clock at the High school where the sessions of the school have been held. The work of the class was arranged about the walls of the room, and made a very attractive exhibit. Many of the examples shown were very fine, and they received much praise. In fact there were none without merit. The work of those that had a natural trait for drawing were of course the best, but it was all good and showed that the class had profited by the instruction received.

During the session of two months the evening drawing school has had an average attendance of 25. Headmaster Laurence Sprague awarded diplomas to Edward J. Butler, John Casey and Charles H. Killian. Certificates were awarded to the other pupils.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES.

Not to be opened until Christmas day or similar inscription, may be written only on such parcels as bear postage at first-class rates; but packages that are rated at third class or fourth class rates may bear the same inscription providing that it is printed or stamped on them. When written on the parcel with pen or pencil the words are held to be a personal communication from the sender to the addressee, thus making the matter subject to first class rates.

* * *

We are going to let you into some of the secrets of a newspaper office. Our new serial to start next Monday is one of the strongest things ever written descriptive of the world of newspaperdom. It is full of heart interest as well as dramatic and stirring episodes.

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

DAY NURSERY DONATIONS.

Additional donations for the Day Nursery, as a result of the "Provision Shower" at Bethany Chapel, last week are as follows:

Barrel of groceries and vegetables—Wollaston Unitarian Sunday school.

Bag of flour—Mrs. Ross.

11 jars of preserves—A friend.

Barrel of flour—Unity Circle King's Daughters.

Regatta in England.

The first regatta in England was in 1775, and it was imported into that country by Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, who had been impressed by the water show of Venice. There was no series of races. There was a procession of city barges to a "temporary octagon," where there was revelling that night and well into the next day. Only seven of the company were drowned on the return journey, which speaks well for the average sobriety of the crowd.—London King.

Badly Expressed.

"For heaven's sake, be careful with that rifle, man!" exclaimed a musketry instructor. "You just missed me that time."

"Did I, sergeant? I'm awfully sorry!" responded the indifferent marksman.—London Fun.

It Quieted Mother.

The house was all paid for. Mother was exultant, jubilant, reiterative. "Say, mother," burst out six-year-old Paul eagerly, "print it on your cards, mother, print it on your cards!"—Delineator.

CHRISTMAS APPEAL OF SALVATION ARMY.

Capt. John A. Haglind of the Quincy Salvation Army is already making preparations for Christmas. He writes to the Daily Ledger:

Christmas is rapidly approaching, and we are again face to face with the problem of giving in a successful way Christmas cheer to the needy widows and the fatherless children. The Quincy Salvation Army intends to do its best. Friends and citizens of Quincy, you are all acquainted with the old adage—"Charity begins at home." I would like to ask you who are privileged to sit down at a well filled Christmas table, to kindly remember that there are those who have to go short of this.

The Christmas spirit is to give. We invite you to come to our assistance with a gift in cash or food. It is our intention to fill from 50 to 100 baskets with good wholesome food, and accompany them with a Christmas tree where there are children.

Many call at our door asking for coal, clothes, and groceries. Please send your gifts to the Army in Quincy, and thereby help with the local work for relief this winter. Kindly make checks payable to "Salvation Army, 150 Granite street, Quincy."

QUINCY'S MOST POPULAR CHRISTMAS STORE TO SHOP IN

KINCAIDE'S ANNEX

AND 5 AND 10 CENT STORE

Thousands upon Thousands of People visit this store to secure their Christmas Gift Things. Dismiss from your mind the thought that this Quincy Store is not the equal of any Boston store. It is better suited to your needs in a hundred ways. A store that makes a specialty of popular priced gift things. Toys in almost endless variety direct from the largest German, French and American toy factories. Dolls, Books, Musical Instruments, Fancy Boxes, Fancy China, Fancy Glassware, Ornaments, Household labor-saving articles, Kitchen Furnishings, Skates, Sleds, Carts, Doll Carriages, Christmas Tree Ornaments, Stationery, Table Ware, Etc., Etc.

Thousands of Useful Articles at 5 Cents
Thousands of Attractive Gift Things at 10 Cents
Hundreds of Beautiful Gift Things 10 to 25 Cents
Hundreds of More Beautiful Presents 25 to 98 Cents
More Costly Ones from .98 to $4.98

Come early while stocks are complete. Come often, otherwise you will miss much that you would wish to see. Bring your friends and multiply your own pleasure by adding to theirs.

Santa Claus in his Arctic suit will be here the week before Christmas to meet the little tots and learn just what they want him to bring down the chimney. . .

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.,

1459 Hancock St., Quincy, A Few Doors from our Furniture Store

L 4t—13-15-17-18 O—18

When the Liver is Out of Tune

the whole system is off the key—stomach upset, bowels sluggish, head heavy, skin sallow and the eyes dull. You cannot be right again until the cause of the trouble is removed. Correct the flow of bile, and gently stimulate the liver to healthful action by taking the bile remedy that is safe to use and convenient to take. A dose or two will relieve the nausea and dizziness, operate the bowels, carry new life to the blood, clear the head and improve the digestion.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

These old family pills are the natural remedy for bilious complaints and quickly help the liver to

Strike the Keynote of Health

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

TRUSSES Fitted.

CRUTCHES In All Sizes.

Athletic Supporters
For Gymnasium Work

Abdominal Supporters

Elastic Stockings

The Rexall Store

Edward J. Murphy
THE ORIGINAL LOW PRICED DRUGGIST

1415 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING
1357 Hancock Street
Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

Pine Wood For Sale

Ashes, Rubbish and Stable Manure carted away.

Peter McConarty
5 Pearl Street, - Quincy, Mass.
Nov. 15-1m

ANOTHER GRAND SERIAL

"The Fourth Estate" to Appear in Daily Ledger

Probably there was never a play or a story written of as keen interest to the world of newspaper workers of all kinds, editorial, reportorial and mechanical, as "The Fourth Estate," now running at Wallack's theatre, New York. The story based upon the play wil appear as a serial in the Daily Ledger beginning next Monday.

"The Fourth Estate"is quite an extraordinary work in several ways. It describes scenes familiar to newspaper men in a marvelously realistic way and the authors have taken up questions that are frequently issues in newspaper offices and woven them into the plot of the drama and the story in such a way that while one is stirred by the moral questions involved the discussion of the latter in no way lessens but rather intensifies the interest in the romance itself.

The play is by Joseph Medill Patterson, who is just now quite a picturesque figure in the literary world and the field of journalism. He was assisted by Miss Harriet Ford who has done some notably good things as a playwright.

Skilful work in the novelization of the story has been performed by Frederick R. Toombs, so that the dramatic interest inherent in the play is retained in the story form of the work. It is illustrated by Frank Parker and Will Jones and makes 48 columns. Don't miss the first chapter Monday, Dec. 20.

On the stage of Wallack's theatre, New York, a composing room was shown in full activity, with linotype machines clicking, foreman and make-up men discharging their usual duties and in the rear stereotypers making their casts from the forms just as such work is done in this department of a metropolitan paper today. Whenever during the performance of the play the curtain rose on this scene, with actual members of Typographical union No. 6 of New York seated at the machines, there was an outburst of applause.

In the story this scene is described with the utmost faithfulness to detail yet without making the narrative tedious.

It is in the composing room of the Advance, owned by one of the characters in the story, that some of the most dramatic episodes of the narrative occur, and it is here that the thrilling denouement of the romance takes place.

RED CROSS STAMPS.

Red Cross stamps are not postage stamps and letters or other mailable matter bearing these stamps alone must be treated as unpaid matter. The addresser is notified to remit postage, and if it be not received the letter or other matter is sent to the dead letter office. Very general use of the Red Cross stamps by residents of the district is noted. Prominent among those who so decorate their Christmas mail is the President. All the White House mail carries the Red Cross stamps.

When Your Joints are Stiff and your muscles sore from cold or rheumatism, when you slip and sprain a joint, strain your side or bruise yourself, Painkiller will take out the soreness and fix you right. Always have it with you, and use it freely. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c. 35c. and 50c.

Red Cross Stamps

CUT FLOWERS

Funeral Designs
Decorations of All Kinds

William Patterson,
Central Avenue, Wollaston
Telephone 392-1 Quincy.
Nov. 27 tf

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

NICARAGUA, THE LAND OF MISRULE

Side Lights on That Central American Hornets' Nest Where President Zelaya Has Reigned Like a Tyrant and Despot For Several Years.

About the Size of New York State. It Has Great Natural Resources—Many of the People Live Like Savages. Officers Commanding Our Forces.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

WHAT do you know about Nicaragua? This is an intimate query, because the United States government recently sent some war vessels and marines down to that Central American hornets' nest to show the present head hornet, President Zelaya, that he cannot murder American citizens without being called to answer in a court of law. Intelligent observers express the belief that the United States will place an army of occupation on Nicaraguan soil until such time as there can be established in that volcanic bailiwick a government guaranteed not to erupt every six months. Our course in Cuba seems about to be repeated in Nicaragua.

That is why some real facts about Nicaragua are pertinent. Once upon a time a young American, William Walker of Nashville, Tenn., was president of Nicaragua. Fifty-three years ago Walker conquered the country with only fifty-six men at his back. Of course it didn't stay conquered. Walker was stood up and shot down. For half a century his bones have bleached in Nicaraguan sands. As Joaquin Miller, who in youth was one of Walker's fiery filibusters, has sung:

He lies low in the leveled sand,
Unsheltered from the tropic sun,
And now of all he knew not one
Will speak him fair in that far land.

The bones of Leroy Cannon and Leonard Groce, the two Americans recently executed by order of Zelaya, do not even bleach. Their bodies were burned, also by Zelaya's order. In a smaller way they were like Walker, the foremost of the filibusters. They fought against the prevailing government because it was a thing of shreds and tatters, so far as stability was concerned, and yet it was a thing of wrath and tyranny. Most of the time, before Walker's day and since, Nicaragua has been similarly misgoverned. Zelaya, against whom Secretary Knox has thundered and American warships seem likely to thunder presently, has misruled the country for sixteen years until he has come to imagine himself a czar. What the United States intends to do apparently is to teach Zelaya that a misruler is non persona grata to civilization.

SCENES IN NICARAGUA AND OFFICERS IN COMMAND OF THE AMERICAN FORCES.

How to Reach Nicaragua.

There is only one railroad in Nicaragua, and that doesn't cut much space. It runs from Corinto, on the Pacific coast, to Managua, located on a lake near that coast, and from there to Granada, on Lake Nicaragua, the largest inland body of water in Latin America. The railroad is about 160 miles long—or short, as it looks to us.

It is said to be almost impossible for an American, unless he possess the intrepidity of Peary or Cook, to cross Nicaragua from coast to coast. The roads in some places are mere trails. The interior is mountainous and wild.

Corinto is the principal port on the Pacific side. The town has but 2,000 inhabitants. To get to Nicaragua perhaps the quickest route is through Mexico by rail to Salina Cruz and thence by steamship to Corinto. One may go by ship from San Francisco all the way. Steamers from New Orleans run direct to Bluefields, on the Atlantic side, a place of 5,000 people. Steamers from New York also touch Bluefields. Many persons from the eastern section of the United States get to Nicaragua by crossing Panama and taking ship to Corinto.

Like all Central and South American countries, Nicaragua is an undeveloped nation. The natural resources of the country seem to require only a stable government for development into wonderful wealth. On the eastern slopes four crops of corn are grown annually, though vast areas are unplanted. Cotton planted in October is picked in February. Coffee, rice and indigo are grown for export, while in late years the rubber industry has been systematized by outsiders and has become one of the most lucrative lines of endeavor in the whole country.

Bananas are the principal article of export. About a million dollars' worth are sent out every year from the eastern section. Most of those grown in the west are eaten at home.

Mahogany, ebony, light rosewood and other valuable trees abound. Vanilla, sarsaparilla and cacao (chocolate) are shipped to America for consumption.

Where Monkeys Grow.

It is interesting to know that humming birds abound in this turbulent land, though monkeys, wild hogs and buzzards are more in evidence. Zelaya's effort to make a monkey of the United States is the cause of the present trouble.

Nicaragua is misgoverned by a president, five cabinet ministers and forty representatives who comprise a national legislative assembly of one house. There is no check upon this one house congress except that supplied by the president, who possesses such power under the constitution and his own inclination that he can override the lawmakers and overrule them almost if not quite at will. Thus Zelaya has become a dictator, a despot, a czar, in his own bailiwick.

Universal suffrage is said to prevail. Universal suffering also appears to be the rule under the prevailing misrule.

There are few schools in Nicaragua. A few years ago it was reported authoritatively that Nicaragua's neighbor, Costa Rica, had more schoolteachers than soldiers and that Zelaya's country had three times as many soldiers as schoolteachers. The preponderance of soldiers has increased immensely since then, and it would be hardly possible for the intrepid William Walker to win the presidency now with only fifty-six Americans at his back. However, the Nicaraguan soldiery is not to be feared by any military person who can shoot straight, conform to discipline and eat enough quinine to fend off malarial fever.

Officers In Command.

Secretary Knox has "told it to the marines," who are expected to be able to teach Zelaya his proper place without the aid of soldiers proper. Rear Admiral William Wirt Kimball is in command of the naval expedition against Nicaragua. Lieutenant Colonel James E. Mahoney of the United States marine corps commands the combined marine force. In the event of the landing of the marines, Mahoney, whose full colonelcy is likely to be bestowed upon him by the time he goes ashore, will direct operations on land. It is not anticipated that any general will be required, except general efficiency, which Colonel Mahoney is known to possess.

Admiral Kimball, of course, is in full command of the expedition. He will reach the age limit of sixty-two years on Jan. 9 and be retired, but it is hoped by his department that the incident will be closed before that date. The admiral was selected for his experience and efficiency in dealing with Latin Americans. He commanded the gunboat Vixen in 1899 when she was sent to Bluefields to protect the interests of American merchants who had been ordered to pay customs duties to two Nicaraguans. That was during the Reyes revolution. Kimball went ashore and settled matters in about half an hour's straight talk.

Admiral Kimball is a Maine native, with forty-four years' navy service. He has spent twenty years at sea. During the war against Spain he commanded the Caesar.

Colonel Mahoney has been twenty-six years in the marine corps. He was brevetted captain for distinguished conduct and public service in the presence of the enemy at Guantanamo, Cuba, in 1898.

For eleven years Colonel Mahoney has been in command of the marine barracks in Washington. His long experience and efficient service recommended him for his present assignment.

One of the Bravest.

With Colonel Mahoney in the marine expedition is Major Smedley D. Butler, whose father is a Pennsylvania congressman. He was an officer in the volunteer army during the Spanish war. After he was appointed to the marine corps he served in the Boxer uprising in China. He was shot while carrying a wounded private to safety at the battle of Tientsin, but went to Pekin before his wound was healed and took part in all the fighting there. He was wounded again at Pekin, but refused to quit. For his bravery and pluck he was chosen to carry a message to Minister Conger within the beleaguered walls. He delivered this "message to Garcia," then collapsed and was sent to a hospital, where he fought a winning battle with the soldier's worst enemy, typhoid fever. Later he served in the Philippines.

Lieutenant Colonel Frank J. Moses and Major Philip M. Bannon of the marines are other distinguished officers detailed for Nicaraguan duty. Moses was in command of the first provisional regiment of marines in Cuba for several years. Bannon was brevetted for gallantry at Guantanamo in 1898.

Uncle Sam is confident that these officers and the men under them can hold down Zelaya and his entire outfit.

CARNEGIE'S OWN MUSEUM.

Cottage Where He Was Born to Hold Mementos of His Lifetime.

The accumulation of caskets containing addresses, gold keys and other mementos of Andrew Carnegie's benefactions has become so considerable that their storage is a serious problem. Friends of Mr. Carnegie propose that the cottage wherein the ironmaster was born at Dunfermline, Scotland, be razed and an appropriate museum be erected on the site.

It is also suggested that the surrounding property be cleared for the purpose of forming a pleasure ground.

Move to Save Mountain Laurel.

Maintaining that the beautiful mountain laurel is in danger of becoming extinct through its lavish use for Christmas decorations, the Boston Society For the Protection of Native Plants has issued an appeal to the public to give up its use. A leaflet devoted to the preservation of this evergreen says that the plant is gathered extensively twice a year. In summer the flowers are taken for church and house decoration. In winter the inroads are much more extensive and dangerous. Enormous quantities are then used for festoons, wreaths, etc., in the Christmas dressing of churches and the decoration of ballrooms.

The Nicaraguan Situation.

Zelaya; hark, Zelaya!
Now beat it quick, or, say,
Your Uncle Sam will show you
The way.
Perhaps you think you're mighty
And free beyond restraint,
But he is here to tell you
You ain't.
You ought to be some decent
To hold down what you've got,
But you are always proving You're not.
Perhaps you think you're proper,
A really truly saint,
But everybody's certain
You ain't.
Zelaya; hark, Zelaya!
It may be that you think
Your Uncle Sam is largely Gezink
And that he's merely showing
His feathers and paint,
But—mind your eye, Zelaya—
He ain't.

—W. J. Lampton in New York Tribune.

Bright and Steady

The Rayo Lamp

A bright and steady light depends upon the construction of the lamp.

The best skill has put forth its best effort in perfecting the Rayo Lamp.

As the air is fed to the flame—so does the light burn. The easy-flowing current of air through the air-tube of the Rayo Lamp secures a uniform light, with never a flicker or flare.

The ideal family lamp. Made of brass throughout and beautifully nickeled.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but you cannot get a better lamp at any price.

Once a Rayo user, always one

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not at Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

FOR CHRISTMAS

BUY YOUR BOY A

Flexible Flyer

THE UP-TO-DATE SLED.

We also carry the Barney and Berry

SKATES

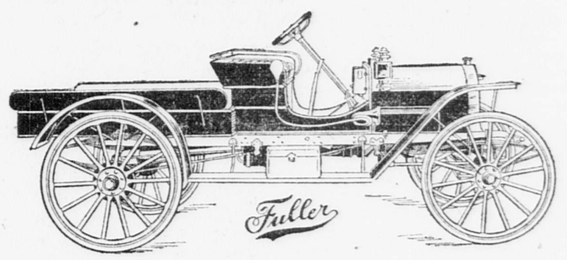
Both Clamp and Key.

Also the good old-fashioned kind for Ladies, with leather heel and toe straps.



HOCKEY STICKS, PUCKS and BALLS.

NATHAN AMES,

5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.
Dec. 14 tf

A GOOD CAR.

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

LLOYD'S OPERA GLASSES

Just Arrived from France
Selected PEARL Glasses
Genuine Lemaire
Marquise Style
White, Smoke, Oriental Shades

$15.00.

By registered mail with privilege of return

$15.25.

Please send for Opera Glass Catalogue.

ANDREW J. LLOYD CO.
75 Summer St.
315 Washington St. 310 Boylston St.
Boston and
1252 Massachusetts Ave. Cambridge

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS

The Battle

By

Cleveland Moffett

Copyright, 1909, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Novelized by the Author From His Great Play of the Same Name

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER XVII.

THE BATTLE IS ON.

THE offices of the East Side Associated Bakeshops had not closed that evening at the customary hour, however. The threatened strike had suddenly assumed ugly proportions.

Haggleton secretly welcomed the trouble with the hands in the bakeshops. What he foresaw came to pass. Philip, face to face with the poor in his new position as a business man, suddenly discovered their unreasonableness, their lack of foresight, their selfishness, which could not calculate future benefits, their disregard of the good of the money.

Without realizing it he ranged himself that evening on the side of capital.

So he stayed on alone in the office, waiting for news, watching the telephone. Haggleton and Gentle returned, the former stopping a moment to ask for news, then went across the hall to the other apartment.

At 9 o'clock Margaret suddenly appeared. Philip clasped her tumultuously.

He kissed her fondly again and again.

"Give me your left hand, so!" he asked. "Now close your eyes."

She obeyed, with a smile. Philip took from his waistcoat pocket an engagement ring and slipped it on her finger.

"Now look," he commanded.

Margaret gave a little cry of glad surprise.

She kissed the ring, then held up her lips to him.

They stood again a moment in blissful silence, but not for long. Margaret had come on a serious mission. She disengaged herself.

"Oh, Phil," she said pitifully, "I came to tell you about— You remember Emmy and Benny, the little children we sent to the hospital?"

"I know, dear. Their father hurt his hand the other day."

"Hurt his hand! It was crushed in your kneading machine, and now it has been amputated."

"It is his own fault. He was careless."

"His children were left unprovided for," continued Margaret, looking at him reproachfully, "and now—little Benny is dead."

Philip looked concerned.

The telephone bell rang sharply, and he sprang up and ran to the instrument.

Margaret saw, with a pang, that little Benny and his maimed father were immediately forgotten. This was business! Her heart sank as she listened to her lover's side of the brisk conversation over the phone:

"Hello. The Wisconsin flour mills? Yes, this is the East Side Associated Bakeshops. What's that? Oh, that's all right; we have the strike pretty well in hand. Yes, the bills will be promptly met. No, no, Mr. Williams, we are taking fifty carloads a week now, and there's a Minneapolis concern that will do better by us. Yes, that's right; that's what we ask, 20 per cent off. I didn't catch what you said. Yes, I know that we must be making money; that's what we are here for. Oh, no, it's 20 off or nothing doing. All right. Goodby."

He turned to Margaret.

"Phil, have you not noticed that I have been worried and unhappy lately?" she asked.

"Yes, I have, dear."

"It is what you said to me the other evening about business being the man's province, not the woman's. It is because I have seen you become entirely absorbed in business schemes and money making. Phil, you are forgetting your beautiful ideals."

The young man looked at her.

"It's true," he said at last thoughtfully. "Mr. Jackson has had an influence over me. It is as if he had waked up something in me that I did not know was there."

"Oh, Phil!" cried Margaret in dismay.

"I have forgotten my ideals, yes," continued Philip, "but I have not forgotten them. I have come to see that money is needed to carry them out. Money is needed to make you happy."

"I don't want money."

"Well, I do." He spoke with decision. "And I am going to have it. And that means an active business life for me."

"You have decided all this without telling me?" she asked.

"I am telling you now, dear. We can talk it over together."

"Phil," she said, "there's something that must be done at once before we settle this. I promised Emmy that I would see about little Benny's funeral. Will you come with me?"

She rose.

Phil, too, got up.

"Why—er—I don't see how I can," he replied, hesitating. "I'll gladly give money"—

"Money!" she burst out. "You have always said that the only way to help the poor was to love them."

"Yes, yes." His voice was impatient "But, you see, there's that bakers' strike. I may be called up on the phone at any moment. I must stay here. Serious interests are at stake."

Margaret grew indignant. She stepped to the door, crossed the hall and knocked.

"Wait!" Philip said in astonishment, following her. "What are you going to do?"

"I am going to call Mr. Haggleton."

"You know who he is?"

"Yes."

She opened the door of the living apartment in answer to the call from within and said:

"Will you come out here a moment, Mr. Haggleton? You, too, Mr. Gentle, please?"

Haggleton and Gentle entered, an inquiry on their faces.

Margaret stepped between Haggleton and Philip, looking from one to the other.

"Phil," she said in a ringing voice, "for the last time choose between him and me!"

An idea struck Gentle.

"The battle is on," he said.

"What battle, Gentle?" asked Philip, but it was Margaret who answered him.

"The battle for you, Philip—the battle between your better self and your baser nature. I want you to speak out, Phil, right from your soul and say what you think of—Mr. Haggleton's life."

Philip was puzzled. "What has Mr. Haggleton's life to do with us?"

"More than you dream of, Phil." Her voice was steady.

"I like him."

"But what do you think of his business methods?"

"If you put it that way," he said—"why, I don't."

"Ah!"

Margaret's cry sounded glad.

Haggleton sat down at his desk and looked up at the young man.

"What is it you do not approve of in my business methods?"

"It's the old thing, monopoly and bribery and rebates. Why go into it all again?"

"Go on!" commanded Margaret.

Philip obeyed.

"You know very well, Mr. Haggleton," he continued, "that you and a dozen other men practically own this republic."

"No. Listen to me. No big work has ever been done in this world without leaders, and when a man delivers the goods he's entitled to the reward. Well, we have delivered the goods in this country."

Then, fixing his eyes on Philip, he resumed:

"Go over to Europe. They'll tell you that the United States is the greatest nation on earth, and it is. Why is it? Because the men you call robbers and grafters have organized things—railroads, industries, banks, everything."

"You have broken the law," said Gentle.

"You haven't been honest," added Margaret.

"Honest?" Haggleton smiled grimly. "We have kept to the standard of average honesty of this country, and no man can succeed in business who keeps above it. The faults of America's industrial leaders are the faults of the American people.

"You say we break the law, Mr. Gentle," he continued. "Well, we do. But who doesn't? Give the average American citizen an automobile and watch him break the speed law. Let a policeman stop him and see the flash of a ten dollar bill. That's bribery.

"Watch the average American woman back from Paris with a lot of new dresses. Does she smuggle them in? Well, watch her!

"I tell you, the only law anybody respects is custom. What does the average American citizen do when he wants a drink in a prohibition state? He breaks the law and gets the drink. And the average American woman when she tells the conductor how old her little boy is? She's a good mother and all that, but she'd let Jimmy ride on a half fare ticket until he had whiskers if she could."

Haggleton rose. He was reaching the direct personal application of his argument, the real point toward which he had been working.

"When it comes to business," he summed up, "the average American citizen does in a small way exactly what we do in a big way. Give him a chance to crush a rival and see how quick he'll take it."

He turned suddenly on Philip.

"What have you been doing to those opposition bakers?"

Philip was taken aback.

"Why," he stammered, "I"—

"You have done in a small way what I have done in a big way," said Haggleton for him. "There you are. You had to. And remember this, you reformers, the way to improve things is to raise the standard of honesty of the American people."

Gentle brought the conversation back to its immediate personal bearing.

"All that is not to the point," he asserted. "Would you do as Mr. Haggleton has done?"

"Certainly not," Philip's answer came promptly. "I won't lead that kind of life."

"But you say that you are going into business," argued Margaret.

"Yes, but I am not going to be a railroad president or a trust magnate."

The situation was growing tense. Haggleton kept himself well in hand. "Suppose you were called upon to be the head of a great railroad or a trust?" asked Gentle.

Haggleton judged the moment ripe.

"If you had important interests in trust, Philip," he asked in his usual clear, incisive way, "would you protect them or would you sacrifice them?"

"I would protect them."

"Would you be dishonest?" persisted Gentle.

Haggleton reshaped the question.

"Would you cripple your business by refusing to allow practices sanctioned by custom?"

"Dishonest practices," Margaret put in swiftly—"would you, Phil?"

But Philip was bewildered now.

"I—I don't know," he stammered. "It isn't fair to ask such questions."

Margaret despaired.

"My poor boy!" she said.

Then, turning to Gentle:

"I am not going to be silent any longer."

Gentle made as if to restrain Margaret, but Haggleton nodded. He was ready for the disclosure and its consequences.

"I am going to do the last thing I can to prove my love for you, Philip," she said. "I am going to see to it that you know the truth; then I am going back to my work."

"You are not going to marry me?"

"No, dear; I cannot."

"But why? There is some mystery here."

He glanced at Gentle, at Haggleton and Margaret.

"Tell me!" he pleaded. "What is it?"

She took a step forward, saying:

"Philip, Mr. Haggleton is your father."

(To be Continued.)

A Happy Compromise.

"What a beautiful little baby he is!" exclaimed the neighbor who had called. "He isn't six months old yet, either," said the proud young mother, "and he weighs over twenty pounds."

"What have you named him?"

"Well," hesitated the mother, "Henry and I differed a little about that. He wanted to give him one name, and I wanted to give him another, but we finally compromised and agreed to call him John Wesley."

"I see. You named him after the great founder of Meth"—

"No, indeed," quickly interrupted the mother. "That name, as I said, is a compromise."

"But how?"

"The 'John' is for John Calvin, and the 'Wesley' is for John Wesley."

"Oh, I see."—Youth's Companion.

A Rhineland Legend.

There is a Rhineland legend of three German robbers who, having acquired by various atrocities what amounted to a very valuable booty, agreed to divide the spoil and to retire from so dangerous a vocation. When the day appointed for this purpose arrived one of them was dispatched to a neighboring town to purchase provisions for their last carousal. The other two secretly agreed to murder him on his return that they might divide his share between them. They did so. But the murdered man was a closer calculator even than his assassins, for he had previously poisoned a part of the provisions, that he might appropriate to himself the whole of the spoil. This precious triumvirate were found dead together.

Breakfast Hours.

A traveler stopped at a hotel in Greenland, where the nights are six months long, and as he registered asked a question of the clerk.

"What time do you have breakfast?"

"From half past March to a quarter to May."—Harper's Weekly.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of th's preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

John Whitson's Ambition

He Found a Work For Which He Was Fitted.

By FRANK H. SWEET.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

John Whitson gave up his ambition at eighteen, leaving college and taking up the reins which his father had dropped. It was not to be temporary, he understood, but a complete renunciation of all his plans—of his life as he had hoped to make it. There were six children and a rundown farm and a mother whose waning strength should be nourished rather than drawn upon. It was the only way; better to sacrifice his ambition than that they should be forced upon charity. In his own plans it would be years before he could educate himself and make a living.

So the books were laid aside, and he forced his energy to a study of the farm and its possibilities. His father had been content with the old methods and had fallen behind. He must push on into the new, not only for the necessary livelihood, but for the growing needs of his brothers and sisters and their education. A city was but a few miles away, and gradually he fertilized the barren fields to renewed productiveness to such vegetables as the markets called for.

He was shy by nature, a scholar whose world was in retirement with his books, but now he forced himself upon a peddler's cart and sold vegetables and fruit from house to house, bargaining for the needs at home. He counted his earnings like a miser and planned for their shrewd expenditure, and he lost sleep in the study of converting soil and sunshine and labor into hard, necessary dollars.

But with it all the road was difficult and sometimes almost beyond his power of endurance. Ten years and he still wore the coat he had worn back from college, now frayed and patched; the mortgage on the farm remained the same, and he still went from house to house selling vegetables, not yet able to hire a boy to do the marketing. But, on the other hand, the brothers and sisters were all he could have wished. The oldest boy was working his way through an agricultural college, with an ambition for a higher education beyond; the next was in a technical school at Philadelphia studying to be a civil engineer. One girl was at the state normal, another learning to be a nurse, while the two youngest were still too young to have thought much about their future. During vacations they came home and helped him, and from time to time all of them had entreated to be allowed to do their share in the support. But here he was firm. They should have what he had missed, he declared, and it was too late for him to go back and take up life as he had left it.

So the years went on, and he toiled early and late and planned and bargained and improved, but for all that he was not a farmer and never could be, for it was his will in the work, not his heart. He never went to a house to ask trade but what he shrank back as from a blow, and long after his hands had grown hard and knotty his thoughts would wander surreptitiously to the books he had laid aside.

Perhaps it was his recognized distaste for the work that made him do it so thoroughly and conscientiously. There was not a farm in the country round that was better managed or that produced more for its size. John Whitson was a crank, the neighbors said, which meant that he was always on the lookout for weak, sensitive places in fence or field, as in himself, that could be strengthened by timely renewal or patching or toning up. If there was any duty he shrank from, that was the duty he was apt to seek first and do most thoroughly.

By the time the younger children were ready for the final studies which were to fit them for their chosen callings the college graduate and the civil engineer were at work and sending their mites to the home fund. And with the coming of these mites came John's first opportunity to turn his attention to the mortgage.

Of late years he had not permitted himself to regard the future as a personal problem. It was too far away. But with the lessening of the mortgage and the near establishment of the last of the children his own future was again drawing marvelously near. What should he do with it? How unite it with the books which had practically been laid aside for twenty years? He had no taste for farming, but he understood it and could wrest from even his few acres a comfortable living. Could he do as much with his books and dreams, of which he had made no test?

But even in his thoughts he did not hesitate. The books and dreams were his, and, burden or banner, it was right that he should take them into his future when the future should be clear. He would lift the mortgage first and would train a boy to a competent management of the place and would put aside enough for household needs. Then he would be free to go. There would be no further necessity for his presence here. His mother was old, of course, and needing care, but Jane, the normal graduate, was at home from teaching now and would remain with her. They could get along just as well without him. His duty was elsewhere, with his true vocation.

So he turned over such work as he could to the boy he was training and spent part of each day with his books. It would be three or four years, perhaps as many as five or six, before he could finish paying off the mortgage and getting things in the condition he wished to leave them. But in the meantime he would be preparing himself as thoroughly as possible for this second coming of his ambition.

But as these new years flew swiftly by, bringing him nearer and nearer to his future, the ambition began to separate itself somewhat from that of his youth. He studied himself for this work as he had for the farming and found there weak places that would need patching or perhaps obliterating altogether. Things that were an advantage then were no longer his, and even the maturity that made him stronger was in a way detrimental.

He did not spare his weakness nor magnify his strength. In those days he had dreamed of the work he would do in the pulpit, going to it fresh and strong, firm in his convictions and thoroughly equipped in his studies. Now the equipment would be scant, the freshness gone, and, though the convictions would remain and perhaps the strength, the world had passed him by, and he could not push to the front with the new generation.

But if he could not attain to the cultured eastern church and large congregation of his dreams there was still outside work in the far west which he could do in the isolated towns and among the camps of the miners and Indians. He would go there. It was not always the work one liked that was best, but rather the work where laborers were few. And in the west perhaps earnestness would be accepted in place of the culture to which he had not attained.

So he worked and studied and dreamed and counted the money that was bearing him on, and at length, when the time drew near, he began to study the conditions of his body, as he had tried to those of his mind and faith, for the years that had bridged the chasm of his duty had sapped his strength, and out there on the frontier he would need sturdy health as well as sturdy faith.

One day Jane discovered that his bed had not been slept in the night before, and she wondered, but said nothing. But when the next day and the next went by and still the bed remained untouched her wonder became investigation, and the investigation soon brought a twinkle of comprehension to her keen gray eyes. The fifth evening she listened until she heard him tiptoeing upstairs, then followed softly. He went directly to a bare room in an unused portion of the house, where she heard him raise a window. Moving noiselessly down the hall, she waited a few moments outside the door and then went in. He was lying upon the floor in his clothes, with his head near the open window. A flood of moonlight was streaming in.

Jane crossed quickly to his side.

"John," she said severely as she bent over him, "what does this mean?"

He started a little uneasily and opened his eyes, but almost instantly his face grew tranquil.

"I am fitting myself for my work, Jane," he said quietly. "I did not wish you and mother to know for fear you might be worried."

"Fitting yourself for a death of cold, more likely," she retorted. "For a practical farmer you are the most impractical man I ever saw, John." She closed the window with a bang and continued: "Now, I want a good long talk with you. I've wanted it ever since you've had this notion of the west in your head. I suppose this sleeping up here is the hardening process that is fitting you for life in the camps and on the ranches."

"Why, yes," he acknowledged a little doubtfully. "You know I have never slept outside of a nice bed in all my life, Jane, and—and it seemed a duty to prepare myself for roughing it."

"Look here, John Whitson," she began. Then her voice softened suddenly. "You mean all right, Brother John, but you can't do it. You would die from exposure out there inside of a month. Besides, you are not fitted for that kind of work. I know what you'd like to have been and what you have been, but you're mistaken in thinking any part of your life lost. It has been full—just as full perhaps as though you could have done as you wished. The Lord does not waste his workmen, John."

Her hand was resting upon his shoulder now, and her voice had grown tender and thoughtful.

"You want to do all you can with the rest of your life," she went on, "but it seems to me you can do more here. You understand this people better than you do that. I was through some of the worst streets of the city yesterday, and I heard little children swearing at each other in the gutters, and I heard of sick men and women stifling in close rooms, with no one to minister to them. I would like to do something myself, John, and I can help you here, but not out there. We have a nice farm and a big house that we cannot half fill and, now that the children are provided for, have more than we can use. Why not bring little children out here, where you can teach them to be good farmers and I good housekeepers? And we can fill up the empty rooms of the house with tired and sick ones who could not otherwise get country air and food. It seems to me we could do the Lord's work well here, John."

And John Whitson, after a long silence, rose slowly and held out his hand as a token of compact. But the new light which came into his eyes was not of resignation to some new duty; rather was it a recognition of stronger work for which he was fitted.

"You are right, Jane," he said simply. "The Lord's work is here."

AQUAS READY ROOFING GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST

SANBORN & DAMON QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

NEW UPRIGHT PIANO

Now in storage at my home. PRICE LOW.

Apply to WM. WILSON, Pianist and Tuner, 1 President's Avenue, South Quincy Tel. 137-2. Oct. 18-tf

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood. Gas and Water.

Four valuable houses built on property

Apply at 45 Elm Street.

Quincy, Dec. 3

STORAGE — FOR — Furniture and Pianos

Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms

Furniture and Piano Movers

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | | FROM BOSTON | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | | Arrive Quincy |
| c *5 14 | abcdefghi | | 5 42 | *5 47 | ihgfedeba | | 6 16 r |
| c 6 13 | abc | | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | | 6 46 r |
| c 6 43 | abc | | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | | 7 14 r |
| c 7 13 | abc | | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | | 7 49 r |
| | | | | 7 52 | a | | 8 11 r |
| c 7 21 | adei | | 7 42 | | | | |
| | | | | 8 45 | b | | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | | 9 49 r |
| c 7 43 | abc | | 8 03 | 9 44 | Exp | | 10 00 |
| c 7 52 | abcde | | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | | 10 49 r |
| c 8 13 | abc | | 8 33 | | | | |
| c 8 31 | Exp. | | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | | 11 49 r |
| c 8 4 | abcd | | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | | 12 00 |
| | | | | 12 27 | cba | | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | | 9 16 | | | | |
| c 9 15 | abc | | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp. | | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | | 1 00 r |
| | | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | | 1 27 |
| c 10 13 | abc | | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | | 2 00 |
| c 11 13 | abc | | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | | 2 57 |
| c 12 13 | abc | | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | | 4 0 |
| c 1 13 | abc | | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | | 4 29 r |
| c 1 43 | abc | | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | | 4 49 r |
| c 2 13 | abc | | 2 33 | 4 50 | edcba | | 5 11 r |
| c 3 05 | a | | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | | 5 34 |
| | | | | 5 19 | dcba | | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | | 4 18 | | | | |
| c 4 13 | abc | | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | | 5 49 r |
| 4 53 | Exp. | | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | | 6 07 r |
| c 5 13 | abc | | 5 33 | 5 46 | ihgfedcba | | 6 45 r |
| c 5 29 | abcdefghi | | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | | 6 17 | | | | |
| c 6 16 | abcdefghi | | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | | 6 37 r |
| c 6 52 | abc | | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | | 6 49 r |
| | | | | 6 57 | fedeba | | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | | 7 49 r |
| | | | | 8 13 | fedeba | | 8 38 r |
| c 8 05 | abcdef | | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | | 9 49 r |
| c 9 17 | abc | | 9 35 | | | | |
| c 10 09 | abcdef | | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedeba | | 11 04 r |
| c 11 20 | abc | | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | | 11 36 |
| | | | | 11 27 | cba | | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| c 7 43 | abc | | 8 03 | 6 21 | ihgfedeba | | 6 52 r |
| c 8 43 | abc | | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | | 9 19 r |
| c 9 13 | abc | | 9 33 | 10 16 | ihgfedeba | | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | | 12 49 r |
| | | | | 1 16 | ihgfedeba | | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | | 11 17 | 2 16 | ihgfedeba | | 2 45 r |
| c 11 16 | abcdefghi | | 11 44 | | | | |
| c 1 13 | abc | | 1 33 | 3 16 | ihgfedeba | | 3 45 r |
| c 3 10 | abc | | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | | 4 49 r |
| c 4 16 | abcdefghi | | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | | 5 49 r |
| c 5 13 | abc | | 5 33 | 6 16 | ihgfedeba | | 6 45 r |
| c 6 16 | abcdefghi | | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | | 7 19 r |
| | | | | 8 24 | ihgfedeba | | 8 53 r |
| c 7 08 | abcdefghi | | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | | 9 02 |
| c 8 08 | abcdefghi | | 8 35 | 9 27 | ihgfedeba | | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | | 9 20 | | | | |
| c 10 30 | abc | | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | | 10 59 r |
| | | | | 10 53 | Exp. | | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

a Wollaston, b Norfolk Downs, c Atlantic, d Neponset, e Pope's Hill, f Harrison Square, g Savin Hill, h Cresent Avenue, i South Boston, r Quincy Adams

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.14, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.03, 7.21, 9.27 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.15, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.46, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY

Furniture and Piano Moving

Office 1598 Hancock Street, Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2

Quincy, June 10 tf

Have Your Clothes Washed by the NEW SYSTEM

WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.

Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.

Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references. Wideawake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell Patents, What inventions will pay, How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO. 501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m. and every 20 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.46, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,

Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMMON,

Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

Found.
H. L. Kincaide & Co.—Parlor Furniture
C. Fatch & Son Inc.—Coal
Berman Tea Co.—Hub Range
New England Telephone Co.
For Sale
Lost

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 44 degrees |
| Dec. 15, 1908 | 45 degrees |
| Dec. 15, 1907, | 32 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

Henry P. Kittredge left Tuesday for Southern Pines where he will pass the winter months.

The junior Bible class of the Y. M. C. A. enjoyed a banquet Tuesday evening.

The Salvation Army is to hold a grand sacred Christmas concert at its temple Thursday evening.

Opening of Alpha hall this evening.

The Employed Boys of the Y. M. C. A. will hold their monthly banquet this evening.

Councilmen elect Ericson of Ward One and Boyd of Ward Four were present at the meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening.

Robert Finlay of Germantown had one of his fingers badly lacerated on Monday by the accidental discharge of a rifle which he was loading. It is thought that he will lose his finger.

Lieut. John Downs, Jr., U. S. N., who has been serving on the Louisiana, has been assigned as executive and navigating officer of the dispatch boat Dolphin.

At the meeting held in the Universalist church vestry Tuesday evening the proceeds of the recent fair were announced as $119.79. This is to be used as a painting fund for the church.

Chairman Knapp of the National House committee on elections says there will be no hearing in the matter of the Galvin-O'Connell contested election case until after New Years.

Marietta Holbrook of Mayflower Park, Braintree, has been elected National Aid to the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary. She is also president of the Quincy Auxiliary.

An adjourned meeting of the Quincy Merchants Association will be held tomorrow evening in Electa hall at 8 o'clock. The committee will endeavor to have a speaker from one of the neighboring associations address the meeting. All retail dealers are invited.

Edmund W. Courtney, who has been the secretary of Quincy lodge of Elks since its institution, has tendered his resignation. Mr. Courtney resigned as he is to remove to Lynn, where he becomes the manager of the branch office of the National Cash Register Co. in that city.

The funeral of Luigi Casarico of 63 West street a well known Italian resident of Quincy, was held Monday afternoon. The services were from St. Mary's church, Rev. Henry T. Grady celebrating mass. The members of the Italian Mutual Relief Association attended in a body.

Miss Mary A. Danforth of New Hampshire will speak in the Swedish M. E. church on Fort street Thursday evening at 7.30. It is not often that the church has the opportunity of having such a splendid speaker, and everybody is welcome. Miss Danforth has been a missionary in Japan and speaks in the interest of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The Ledger desires to inform the merchants of Quincy that they now have an AD MAN who will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better this year than ever before. If you want help in writing up your advertisements, the kind that will bring speedy returns, phone our office, Quincy 425 and our man will call. This applies to all advertisers whether your ads are now appearing in the Ledger or not.

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUB. CO.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our hosts of friends for their kindness and sympathy in the hour of bereavement in the loss of our beloved daughter Henrietta B. Mischler.

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW M. MISCHLER AND FAMILY.

Dec. 15 1t

DEATHS.

Entered into rest Wednesday December 15th at her home on Hancock street Frances Mary widow of the Reverend Francis Chetwood Wainwright.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

G. A. R. BOYS AS GUESTS

The W. R. C. Give a Complimentary Supper

The Paul Revere Women's Relief Corps held their annual meeting on Tuesday afternoon, and elected these officers:

President—Mrs. Cora Carmen.
Senior Vice President—Mrs. Emma Marnock.
Junior Vice President—Mrs. Mary E. Power.
Treasurer—Mrs. Laura E. Holt.
Chaplain—Mrs. E. Jennie Holton.
Conductor—Mrs. Adelia Savage.
Guard—Mrs. Annie P. Morrison.
Delegates to convention—Mrs. Mary Tilley and Mrs. Marion Baker.
Alternates—Mrs. Adelaide McGrath and Mrs. Sarah Williams.

In the evening a complimentary supper was served by the W. R. C. to the members of Post 88, G. A. R., which was followed by a pleasing entertainment, the talent including:

Violin solo—Robert McNarrie accompanied by Mrs. Effie R. Rhines on the piano.
Reading by Mrs. Phylis Smith.
Song by Mrs. Alice Smith.
Reading by Commander Phillips.
Banjo solo by Henry O. Studley.
Piano solo by Mrs. Effie Rhines.

Pleasing remarks were made by Comrades Ring, Loud, Williams and Packard.

FUNERAL OF MISS MISCHLER.

The funeral of Miss Henrietta B. Mischler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Mischler of Whitwell street, was held Tuesday from St. John's church, and was very largely attended. Rev. Fr. Haberstroh of Duxbury, a cousin of Miss Mischler, celebrated a requiem mass, and the Gregorian mass was sung by the choir under the direction of John Mahon with Miss Angela McCarthy as soloist. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery, the bearers being Joseph A. Mischler, Albert W. Lawton, James Elcock, Chester Malcolm, C. Andrew Mischler and Frank J. Mischler. There were many beautiful floral tributes which included set pieces from the Woman's Relief corps, employes of Henry Seigel and C. F. Clovey of Boston, Berry Bros., employes of the Quincy Daily Ledger, and Abigail Adams circle, Companions of the Foresters of America.

HINGHAM CONFERENCE.

For the first time in a century the Trinitarian and Unitarian branches of the Congregational churches of the Old Colony district held a meeting Tuesday at Hingham. Col. Edward Anderson of Quincy presided at the morning session, and said that in the practical Christian work of today the two branches of Congregationalism were becoming united on the fundamental truths and had got away beyond the theological differences that once divided them. Quincy pastors were present.

FALSE ALARM.

The alarm from Box 136 at 1.02 this noon was a false alarm. It was probably pulled in by some children who wanted to see the new steamer.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The bricklayers and plasterers' union have elected the following officers: President, James F. Mullen; vice president, Patrick McNaw; secretary, Nicholas F. Cleary; treasurer, Richard Horace; deputy, Bernard Burke.

TODAY'S COURT.

George Hagman and Otto Smith were fined $5 each for drunkenness at Milton.

Ralph Pool was sentenced to two months in the house of correction for drunkenness at Weymouth.

—The launching of the Wyoming at Bath scheduled for Tuesday was postponed because of the storm until today.

☎Phone Quincy 425 and let the the Ledger Ad Man help you write up your Christmas ad. He will call just when you want him.

Red Cross Stamps
On Christmas Letters
Carry Good Cheer

Too Much Muscle.

A young highland plowboy was pestering a female servant with his unwelcome attentions, and one day he proposed. At this instant the pair (they were walking in the fields) came upon another servant, a man, sleeping instead of working. The lassie, a brawny wench, seized a stick and beat the idler till he roared. When he had slunk off to his duty the swain remarked admiringly:

"Ma certie, lassie, but ye cud well manage yer childer."

"Aye, or their father," replied the girl, with a significant look.

The lover turned pale.

"Ma lass," he gasped, "I juist remembered ma auld mither at hame. I'm her only laddie, and I think it's na richt for me tae mairry while she's alive. W-w-when she dees I'll come back an' mairry ye."

And as he got safely away he said fervently, "May the Lord alloo ma mither to live as lang as me!"

Deeply Interested.

The play was one of Shakespeare's tragedies. Mrs. Simmons and her little boy, having been unable to secure seats in the parquet, were well located in the front row of the first balcony, where they could see better and hear almost as well as if they had been farther forward on the main floor. Mrs. Simmons was agreeably surprised at the interest that Bobby appeared to take in the somber drama. He sat leaning forward, with his elbows on the cushioned railing in front of him, resting his head on his hands, deeply absorbed. As the curtain went down on the first act he straightened up.

"Well, dear, how do you like Shakespeare?" asked his mother. "Are you enjoying the play?"

"Mamma," said Bobby with the air of one who has made a great discovery, "there are sixty-nine men here that have got bald spots on top of their heads! I've counted 'em five times!"

Swallowing a Reindeer.

"Doctor, doctor! I's swallowed a reindeer!"

Choking violently and literally black in the face, a negro boy rushed into the office of a throat specialist. His small woolly head jerked frantically, and his eyes rolled in anguish. It was very evident that some irritating substance had lodged in his throat.

The specialist summoned his assistant.

"Dr. Blank, here is a young man who says he has swallowed a reindeer."

"Nawsur," sputtered the patient, "it weren't a whole reindeer. It were jess his nake and his horns."

The physicians removed the offending object.

With a long sigh of relief the pickaninny opened his eyes. His glance rested on the instrument table.

"Yassur, dat's de reindeer."

It was an Elks button.—Los Angeles Times.

The Very Worst.

Clara (with emotion)—George, are you sure you will always love me?

George (fervently)—While life lasts, my own.

Clara (suppressing a tear)—George, if trials and tribulations should come.

George (amazed)—My heart is yours alone, my love, and always will be.

Clara (sobbing)—George, are you sure, perfectly sure, that nothing—nothing at all—could cool your affection?

George (thoroughly alarmed)—My gracious! What's happened? Has your father failed?

Clara (hysterically) — Worse, far worse!

George (much relieved)—Tell me all, my angel. I can bear it.

Clara (with a heroic effort)—George, I've—I've got a—a boil coming—coming on my nose.—London Tit-Bits.

A Polished Rascal.

Mrs. Hansom—I understand, sir, that you have secretly been making love to my daughter, and I must forbid an acquaintance begun in that way. You should have seen me first.

Shrewd Suitor—Madam, had I seen you first I should have forgotten your daughter and fallen in love with you.

Mrs. Hansom—Um! The informality of the proceedings was all I objected to. Come with me, and I will introduce you to my husband.

Nelson River.

The Nelson river may be described as one of the greatest rivers of the world as regards the actual volume of water discharged into the Hudson bay. Its total length is approximately 400 miles, and its drainage area is tremendous. Its tributaries cover the whole of Manitoba, the greater portion of Alberta, Saskatchewan, North Dakota and Ontario west of the great lakes, where they also enter Montana and Minnesota.—Exchange.

Two Points of View.

They were looking at a portrait of Catherine of Russia.

Said the man, "What a remarkably strong and vigorous face she has!"

Said the woman, "I wonder if her hair waved naturally."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Hope.

"Hope," remarked the mere man, "is certainly a wonderful thing."

"It is," rejoined the wise woman. "Why, one little nibble will keep my husband fishing all day."—Chicago News.

Advice.

"Can I offer you a little friendly advice?"

"If you take a little in return."

Here negotiations ceased.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A thing is worth what it will fetch.—Dutch Proverb.

TO CHANGE FOOTBALL RULES

Gridiron Experts Will Discuss Means to Make Game Safer.

MANY NEW PLANS OFFERED.

Radical Rules Suggested by Alexander Moffat, Famous Princeton Back of the Eighties—Annual Meeting to Be Held In New York, Dec. 28.

What promises to be one of the most argumentative football meetings ever held is to take place in New York Dec. 28. Captain Palmer E. Pierce, U. S. A., president of the International Athletic association of the United States, has issued a call for the annual meeting of that body and has included in the notice a request for opinions from all members on the subject of football. These three questions are asked by way of gathering the information sought:

Shall the American game be retained or shall another (Rugby or Association) be substituted?

Shall the rules of the American game be continued as they are (practically)?

Shall the rules of the American game be revolutionized?

The discussion on the football rules will come with the election of a rules committee, the members of which sit with the old committee to formulate the code. Instructions will undoubtedly be given to this committee, and these instructions will represent the views of the association on the game and the changes it will hold to be necessary for the elimination so far as possible of undue roughness and serious accidents.

A large attendance of delegates from the colleges composing the association is looked for this year in view of the agitation against football, and some delegations, it is thought, will be instructed as to their action on the question of revision of the football rules.

There is no doubt that the suggestions of Alexander Moffat, a famous back at Princeton in the early eighties and one of the greatest drop kickers in the history of football, will be considered. The latter has outlined the most comprehensive and at the same time the simplest revision of the rules for the elimination of mass play that the present agitation has brought forth. Mr. Moffat wants a rule calling for the complete division of the gridiron into a checkerboard, with divisions five yards square and requiring one man, and only one man, to be placed in a division as the opposing teams line up for a scrimmage. There would be one exception to this. A center and a quarterback could line up in the same division, and one defending back could be in the same division as the defensive center.

WOLGAST NO FALSE ALARM.

Milwaukee Fighter Shows He Is of Championship Caliber.

When Ad Wolgast, the great little Michigan lightweight, some months ago announced his intention of going after both the feather and light weight championships cities throughout the country, unacquainted with the youngster, raked him fore and aft for his presumption and ambition. It was pointed out that never in ring annals had a fighter held the title in both classes, and because it was a record unheard of the wise men immediately pronounced Wolgast's declaration foolhardy and nonsensical.

AD WOLGAST, WHO IS AFTER BATTLE WITH NELSON.

Wolgast's decisive victory over Lew Powell, the Pacific coast 133 pound star and the boy regarded as the runner up in the lightweight championship situation, boosted the stock of the hardy little Wolverene to a point where he now is conceded everywhere to be the logical opponent of Battling Nelson in a title match.

Wolgast is at the beginning of his career, while Nelson undoubtedly is losing much of his power. He cannot expect to go on fighting forever, and it is natural that the turning point will come soon. In a young opponent of the strength and skill of Wolgast the Dane may meet his master.

LATEST

QUARRY ACCIDENT

Hugh Golden Seriously Injured at Mannix Quarry

Hugh Golden aged about 50 years of 79 Copeland street was seriously if not fatally injured at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the quarry of T. F. Mannex.

Mr. Golden was working in the quarry. A six ton stone was being hoisted out of the quarry, when the fall parted letting the stone fall. The heavy block fell upon Mr. Golden who was pinned beneath it.

When the block was removed it was found that his leg was badly crushed, and that he was probably injured internally. Dr. Ash was called and he was removed to the City Hospital. Mr. Golden has a wife but no children.

Boys Wanted
TO SELL
Quincy Daily Ledgers
at the Quincy, Quincy Adams, and West Quincy Stations. Also at Fore River Shipyard
Apply at LEDGER OFFICE.

THE TELEPHONE AT CHRISTMAS

THERE is no need for you to be worn out by holiday preparations if you make good use of your telephone.

The Bell telephone companies have found that just before Christmas the number of daily connections is the highest for the year. The telephone has become a necessity of the holiday season, because without it most people would not have time to do what they have planned.

Christmas cheer extends beyond the city limits, and the universal Bell System helps to carry it througout the land.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
Every Bell Telephone is the Center of the System
Dec. 15 t

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers, cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all thletic exhibitio ns gymnasium notes.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 2 words or less one time 25 cents. Thre insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 7. cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—Amber Cross set in gold, with gold chain. Lost on Hancock street, between Butler road and City square. Finder will be suitably rewarded by returning same to G. F. CROTTY, 48 Hudsen street, Quincy. Dec. 15-1t

LOST—An Order Book, between Centre street and Mechanic street Dec. 10th, with Grand Union Tea Co. trade mark on front cover. Finder will please return same to GUSTAVE LARSON, 5 Hancock Court, Dec. 11 3t

LOST—On 11.20 train from Boston Saturday evening, a suit case marked T. B. L. No questions asked and large reward if return to 195 Goffe street, Quincy, Mass. L Dec. 14-6t O 18-1w

FOUND

FOUND—A Ladder. Address L, Ledger Office. Quincy Dec. 15-3t

FOR SALE

For Sale WOLLASTON

On FORBES' (THIRD) HILL

House Lot, 10,875 feet. Good location, grand view, moderate price. Near neighbors. Save money by buying now. Price advanced in spring if unsold then. Address Box 42 Wollaston. Dec. 15-2t-p-18-1w

FOR SALE or TO LET—Before you buy or rent, consult me. Houses for sale or to rent in the finest residential section in Quincy All improvements. Close to school, churches stores and depot. C. A. ERICSON, Builder 117 Glendale Road. Tel. Quincy 28-2. May 22-tf W and Sat.

FOR SALE—Automobile cheap in fine shape. Make an offer this week or else you lose a bargain. Will demonstrate any night after 6. Apply CARL BERGLUND 10 Washington street Quincy. Dec. 14 3t

FOR SALE—New house 7 rooms and bath at "Fairview," East Braintree, near shipyard. 10,000 feet land high and dry, select neighborhood, very easy terms, small payment down balance as rent, bargain Leave Weymouth Landing cars at Hayward street. H. F. McINTIRE, 1433 Hancock street, Quincy. Nov. 17 tf

WANTED.

WANTED—Trustworthy and Capable Man would like to add to his present employment the care of one or two furnaces about Quincy Center. Address PAUL MADISON, 26 West street, Quincy. Dec. 15-2t

TO LET.

TO LET—Furnished or Unfurnished Room, centrally located. All modern conveniences. Apply at 164 Glendale road. Quincy, Dec. 13 3t

TO LET—A New Tenement of five rooms second floor; with bath, hot and cold water, range, furnace heat, gas and set tubs. Beautiful pine grove in back, on Glendale road. Ready for occupancy. Apply at 188 Glendale road. Quincy, Dec. 10-6t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec 10-12t

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1 Dec.9 -6t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 61 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-tf

TO LET—10 and 14 Goddard street two flats set range, gas, electrics and all modern improvements. One of six rooms the other 5 rooms, for light housekeeping. Inquire 28 Federal avenue. Tel. 112-2 Nov. 22-18t

TO LET—Half house 7 rooms and bath $15 and half house 5 rooms and bath $16 at "Fairview" East Braintree near shipyard. New house, large rooms, hard wood floors, screens and storm windows, stove heat. Leave Weymouth Landing cars at Hayward street. H. F. McINTIRE, 1433 Hancock street, Quincy. Nov. 17 tf

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-tf

TO LET

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x2 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x45 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

TELEPHONE CONN. HOURS 9-12 2-5
DR. A. B. PACKARD
HARVARD '05
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS

HOUSES
Will Not Remain
VACANT
If Advertised.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 282 QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 16, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

Globe Wernicke Sectional Book Cases

The unit system of book case is the best. It grows with your library. Of all unit systems we believe the Globe Wernicke to be the best. We carry at all times the various sized units in all finishes. We sell them at factory prices—deliver them set up in your home—saving you express charges d the annoyance of unpacking. If you wish, we furnish your entire library. Time payments if desired, no interest, no notes.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

New England's Lowest Priced Home Furnishers

1495 Hancock St., Quincy. Open Monday, Friday and Saturday Evenings.

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get Good Coal

You Can Get Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.

¶ It's your business and right to investigate.

SEARCHLIGHT US!

'Phone 238-3 238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.

Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

TO ADVERTISERS

If you want help in writing up your Christmas advertisements (the kind that will bring returns) 'phone the Ledger Office, Quincy 425, and our Ad Man will call. He will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better than ever before. This applies to present and prospective advertisers in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

HOW QUINCY IS GROWING

Eleven Hundred New Houses Erected in City In Four Years

The Year 1909 the Greatest in All the History of the City---Interesting Figures

It will be necessary for theoptimists to revise their population figures for Quincy and place the estimate considerably higher than 30,000, for the city today has 6300 houses where it had but 5,168 in 1905, and 4,404 in 1900.

The census of Quincy in 1900 gave the city a population of 23,899, over five to a house. In 1900 the population was 28,076, or 5.43 per house. On this basis Quincy with 6300 houses will show a population rising 34,000 next May when the census is taken. While 6,500 houses would make it over 35,000.

The increase in number of houses is almost astounding the past two or three years. In the year ending May 1, 1906, the number of new houses erected in Quincy was only 84, and in the next year two years 169 and 194, but the Assessors of 1909 report 406 to have been built in the year ending May 1 last.

The figres of Warren S. Parker, the inspector of buildings quoted by the Daily Ledger a few days ago, showed 438 permits since Jan. 1 for new houses this year, and most of these were since May 1. The indications are that over 500 will be built in the year ending May 1, 1910, a total of 6,500.

The increase in houses is shown below, year by year according to the Assessors' returns, and over half of the houses in Quincy have been built since 1892:

| Year | Houses | Gain |
|---|---|---|
| In 1889, | 2,453 | — |
| In 1890, | 2,767 | 314 |
| In 1891, | 2,935 | 168 |
| In 1892, | 3,169 | 234 |
| In 1893, | 3,336 | 167 |
| In 1894, | 3,486 | 150 |
| In 1895 | 3,643 | 157 |
| In 1896, | 3,764 | 121 |
| In 1897, | 3,940 | 176 |
| In 1898, | 4,176 | 236 |
| In 1899, | 4,277 | 101 |
| In 1900, | 4,404 | 127 |
| In 1901, | 4,527 | 123 |
| In 1902, | 5,725 | 198 |
| In 1903, | 4,822 | 97 |
| In 1904, | 5,028 | 206 |
| In 1905, | 5,168 | 140 |
| In 1906, | 5,252 | 84 |
| In 1907, | 5,421 | 169 |
| In 1908, | 5,615 | 194 |
| In 1909, | 6,021 | 406 |

The number of new houses built in the three years previous to May 1 last was 769, and it is safe to say that the total for four years ending next May will be over 1100. There are indications on all sides that Quincy is booming.

ANOTHER FALSE ALARM

Narrow Escape for Young Who Got in Way

The alarm from Box 28 at 6.31 Wednesday night gave the central station and the Wollaston apparatus a useless run to the corner of Hancock and Greenleaf streets, for the alarm proved to have been a false one It came near, however, resulting seriously for one young man, and but for the promptness of Driver Connell of the steamer he would now be at the Hospial. This young man, whose name could not be learned stood in the middle of the street and apparently did not notice the steamer until it was upon him. Driver Connell saw the man, however , and pulled his horses up sharp, stopping the heavy machine within a few inches of him. The man made his escape in the crowd before his identity could be learned.

This alarm was the second false alarm of the day, Box 136 having been pulled in by some unknown person at noon. While it may be fun for some people to call out the fire department on a false alarm, it always entails a certain amount of danger, and aften results seriously as it did in East Boston a few days ago, when a fireman lost his life responding to a false alarm. Aside from the element of danger that is always present as heavy fire apparatus dashes through the street at top speed, it also causes some expense. Stringent measures should be taken to bring the parties who ring false alarms to justice.

☞Phone Quincy 425 and let the the Ledger Ad Man help you write up your Christmas ad. He will call just when you want him.

LATEST

A BREAK AT BARRE

One of Granite Manufacturers Opens His Yard

A dispatch from Montpelier states that the first break in the ranks of the granite manufacturers in the lockout that has prevailed for nearly four weeks, was made Wednesday, when G. R. Bianchi opened his sheds to the cutters. The firm employes 75 cutters, 60 of whom, the dispatch says, returned to work Wednesday. Mr. Bianchi stated that he was tired of keeping his plant idle, and of being dictated to. A committee of the manufacturers remonstrated with him but to no avail.

NOT DEAD BUT DRUNK.

Rumors were rife about City Square this noon that the body of a man had come ashore on Adams beach. The body seen ,however, was probably that of a drunk sobering off. Street railway employes on their trip to Houghs Neck saw a man lying on the grass on the south side of Sea street just beyond the smallpox hospital. Near the man was a dress suit case. The man remained there all the morning. On one of the noon trips passengers on a street car hollered to the man, who showed that he was alive by raising his head and looking toward the car, showing that he was not dead. Officer Murray went down at 1 o'clock, and if the stranger was there when he arrived Jim said he would gather him in.

THE HALL OF FAME

Many Claimants Before Queen for the Wreath

One of the most pretentious entertainments held in the vicinity for some time, entitled the "Hall of Fame," severely taxed the seating capacity of the Park and Downs church on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Upon the stage poetess mingled with ancient archer, Indian maid with polar explorer, biblical character with colonial hero, each proclaiming to the queen why he, above all others should be crowned with the wreath of fame.

Cook and Peary, each claiming the discovery of the pole, caused much laughter, as did Topsy's eccentric actions.

The honored George and Martha Washington were much applauded upon their entrance, when America was played and the other characters rose to welcome them. Each presenting his or her claim so strongly, the good queen is in a dilemma as to whom the wreath shall be awarded. She finally calls on her chorus of merry children, who in song declare Mother Goose to be the most deserving.

As a whole the entertainment was a most interesting one, and the costumes and stage settings were most artistic. Much credit is due Mrs. James A. MacDonald, under whose efficient direction the production was staged, and to Eugene Smith who played the part of scenic artist.

Preceding the entertainment Miss Gertrude Cleaves in her usual charming manner gave a reading, "The sweet girl graduate," which was most heartily encored. Ernest Pletsch also contributed a cornet solo accompanied by Louis Coombs.

Following is the cast of characters:

The Queen—Miss Henrietta Gram.
Sappho—Miss Clara Mansfield.
Michael Angelo—Frank C. Blake.
Benjamin Franklin—James A. MacDonald.
Robinson Crusoe—Herman Forsyth.
Maude Muller—Miss Gertrude Sass.
Christopher Columbus — Eugene Smith.
Dr. Cook—Carl Gram.
Robert E. Peary—A. L. Shaw.
Christine Nilsson—Mrs. Clyde Saunders.
Sister of Charity—Miss Mary Gardner.
Pocahontas—Mrs. Reginald Shaw.
Captain John Smith—Mr. B. A. Banks.
Ruth—Miss Geraldine Scott.
Jenny Lind—J. L. Hill.
Miriam—Mrs. A. N. Barstow.
George Washington—George Smith.
Martha Washington — Madame Knowlton.
Barbara Freitchie—Mrs. Harry Howarth.
Phoebe Carey—Miss Angie Rose.
Alice Carey—Miss Flora Sass.
Harriet Beecher Stowe—Mrs. F. A. Torrey.
Topsy—Master Frederick Torrey.
Mother Goose—Mrs. Fred Podbury.
Joan of Arc—Mrs. Frank Knowlton.
William Tell—Arthur Capen.
Pages—Clara Coombs Edna Shay.
Chorus—Mildred Morris, Jennie Kennedy, Dorothy Brown, Alma Hunter, Evangline Morris, Lillian Jones, May Jones, Mabel Davis, Mabel Doring, Miriam Addison.

LIVELY RUNAWAY.

There was quite a lively runaway in City Square at 5.45 Wednesday night, but fortunately little damage was done. The team was the two-horse delivery wagon of W. G. Shaw. The horses started on Hancock street and came on the run toward the store. When the store was reached they cleared an automobile and went up against a telephone pole. One horse went down and the other started to climb the pole. But little damage was done to the team.

Only One Cent

Means Help for the

Tuberculosis Camp

GRANITE MANUFACTURER KILLED ON RAILROAD

Was Walking on the Granite Branch at West Quincy at the Time.

For Several Years on Board of Assessors and Also Prominent in the Fire Department.

James A. White, one of Quincy's prominent business men, and a former city official, was instantly killed this morning on the Granite branch railroad by the 9.16 inward train from Braintree to Boston. Just how the accident happened is not known, for no one saw it, and the engineer of the train did not see him until right upon him. The accident happened between the Furnace avenue and Cross street grade crossings.

Mr. White had been to the office of William Cashman, and had started to walk down the tracks toward Cross street, where he would have left them to go to his place of business on Miller street.

Near the point where the accident happened there are several side tracks as well as the main line tracks, and on these sidings there stood a number of freight and flat cars. It is supposed that he was walking down the track upon which the freight cars were and that they hid the approaching train from view. That he did not hear the train approaching as he stepped from behind the flat car directly in front of the train. The train was to stop at the West Quincy depot and was not going very fast.

When the engine struck him it threw him directly in front of the engine and several cars must have passed over him, for the body was horribly mangled. Medical Examiner Jones was notified and the remains turned over to an undertaker.

Mr. White had been under quite a mental strain for some months due to business. He had been at work for some time on an expensive State monument that was set up in Baton Rouge a few weeks ago, and he had worried over this more or less for fear that some accident would happen to the monument before it arrived at its destination and was set up. It was therefore a great relief to him when the undertaking was successfully accomplished.

It is thought that perhaps his mind was taken up with business matters and that he was not using his accustomed care while walking on the tracks, and for that reason failed to hear the oncoming train.

Mr. White was seen to be walking back and forth along the north bound track a few moments before the train was due as though in wait for some one. The gate man at the Furnace avenue crossing who had noticed him lost sight of him as the train came around the curve below the crossing, approaching the station. Immediately after, as the train reached a group of box cars on the siding ,and flew past him, a man's hat came rolling swiftly along the tracks and stopped almost at his door, the first intimation of the tragedy which had taken place. For twenty yards portions of the body were scattered along the track south of the crossing.

Mr. White attended on Tuesday the annual banquet of the Quincy Granite Manufacturers' Association and was elected on the executive committee.

James A. White was associated with his father, James N. White in the granite business under the firm name of James N. White & Sons. The business place of the firm was on Miller street and they have cut some o fthe largest memorials manufactured in Quincy, the firm being known all over the country.

Mr. White was 45 years of age, and has always made his home in Quincy. Here he obtained his education after which he learned the granite trade, at which he worked for a number of years, and was eventually taken into business with his father. He has had charge of the business of the firm for a number of years. While he was never a seeker for political honors he always took a deep interest in the affairs of the town and city.

He was for many years connected with the fire department of the city, as a member of the old Granite hand engine and later as an assistant engineer. In 1894, when Mayor Hodges took the reigns of the city government Mr. White was appointed an assistant assessor from Ward Four, in which position he served during the years 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, and 1899, the later year under Mayor Keith.

He was one of the charter members of St. Mary's C. T. A. society and has always retained his membership in the society. He was also affiliated with Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, St. Francis court of Foresters, Quincy lodge of Elks, and the Granite Manufacturers' Association.

He leaves a widow and one son. Fneral services will be held from his late residence on Miller street Saturday at 9.30 to be followed by a high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock.

☞If you do not know just how to write up your Christmas ad, phone Quincy 425 and the Ledger Man will call and help you.

FINE DRIED FRUITS

We have a fresh stock of dried fruits of all kinds. Our prices are always right and you can depend on anything you buy here. Below we list some of the fruits you will need for Christmas.

| | |
|---|---|
| Ideal Seeded Raisins | pkg. 9c 3 for 25c |
| Cleaned Currants | pkg. 10c |
| Not-a-Seed Raisins | pkg. 10c |
| Sultana Raisins | pkg. 15c |
| Fancy New Citron | lb. 18c |

Be sure and order Quality Coffee so you will have it on hand for Christmas. Only 30c. per lb. and the best coffee ever sold.

PROMPT ATTENTION TO Telephone Orders No. 367-3

R. E. FOY & CO.

COR. WATER AND QUINCY STS. QUINCY ADAMS

YOUR APPOINTMENT

is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.

THIS DENTAL OFFICE IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.

Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.

YOU RISK NOTHING HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.

Our charges are never high.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.

DENTIST

37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.

Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Dec. 15 1o-2w

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 148 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Archibald McLellan.

Christian Scientist High In Mother Church's Counsels.

Archibald McLellan, chairman of the board of directors of the mother church of Christian Science in Boston, is one of the men highest in the counsels of the church. He bore a prominent part in the recent trial and condemnation of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson of New York.

BRIEFS

The Knockers' club are feeding their faces this afternoon.

A special meeting of the School Committee will be held tonight to consider the bids received for coal.

The annual meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates will be held next week. Several gentlemen are mentioned for the office of president.

Many compliments are heard among the granite men at the excellence of the menu and of the service at their midwinter banquet at the American House, Boston Tuesday night.

The Christmas shoppers are making the best of the fine weather to do their buying and the local stores are doing an exceptionally good business. These stores are showing a fine line of novelties and people who patronize local stores not only avoid the Boston crowds but they find equally as good an assortment.

RED CROSS STAMPS.

Red Cross stamps are not postage stamps and letters or other mailable matter bearing these stamps alone must be treated as unpaid matter. The addresser is notified to remit postage, and if it be not received the letter or other matter is sent to the dead letter office. Very general use of the Red Cross stamps by residents of the district is noted. Prominent among those who so decorate their Christmas mail is the President. All the White House mail carries the Red Cross stamps.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

Dec. 14—1m.

ADMIRATION OF BELGIANS

Aroused by King Leopold's Plucky Fight Against Death

HE GAINS AFTER A RELAPSE

Said to Have Been Stung by Criticism Over His Conduct In Congo Matters—Question Comes Up In Parliament and Colonial Minister Asks World to Suspend Judgment—King a Man of Great Shrewdness

Brussels, Dec. 16.—King Leopold's tenacious struggle is arousing the loyalty and admiration of the people, who are now keenly following the developments since Tuesday's operation.

The latest bulletin by the attending physicians says that the king is gaining. This has caused new hope that his rugged constitution will pull him through, but it is privately feared at the court that his age will not permit of ultimate recovery.

After a restful night the patient's condition was described as stationary, but during the afternoon unfavorable symptoms appeared, and it soon became known that the king had suffered a relapse. Toward evening, however, improvement was noted by the examining physician and a bulletin was issued reassuring in character, which again raised the hopes of the Belgians.

By a dramatic turn of events, while the sovereign is fighting for his life, parliament became absorbed in one of the most vital questions affecting the nation. The great Congo problem came before the legislators for consideration and this, whatever may have been the scandals, cruelty and oppression attending the leadership of Leopold, all Belgians wished to see resolved in the lines of humanity and progress, and in a manner to convince the world that the Congo is safe in Belgian hands.

Notwithstanding his apparent indifference to criticism there is reason to believe that King Leopold was secretly stung to the quick by the world's wrath over his conduct in the Congo matter and that he never recovered from this.

The Congo question came up in the chamber during the discussion on the budget. M. Renkin, minister for the colonies, in an impassioned speech, repudiated the criticisms emanating from England that Belgium was exploiting the natives. He denied the charges of oppression and cruelty. The application of a system of taxation, he said, had been delayed, but he pointed out that there had been great progress in the general prosperity of the country, in means of transport and communication, in education and in ameliorating the burdens and safeguarding the health of the natives.

The minister asked the world to suspend its opinion and give Belgium a chance to show her worth.

Whatever the judgment may be on Leopold from the broad standpoint of morality, it is interesting to note how his intellect and personality have succeeded in profoundly impressing both foreigners and Belgians with whom he came into intimate contact. There is a unanimity of opinion that the king is one of the shrewdest and ablest of men, with an astounding capacity for business, a great organizer, rightly deserving the name of "Leopold, the Builder."

It is understood that Leopold's personal fortune is enormous, and that if the figures were known they would startle the world.

In addition to the attacks made upon him on account of the Congo, the king's life has been shattered by domestic tragedies. His only son is dead and his eldest daughters have been banished.

TORTURE COMRADES

Medical Students Go to Extremes In Secret Society Initiation

Philadelphia, Dec. 16.—Branded by fellow members of a secret society on their foreheads with iodine, on their forearms with nitrate of silver and on the upper parts of their left arms with a white hot iron, five students had their burns dressed in the Medico-Chirurgical hospital here.

All the young men are members of the senior class of Medico-Chi, who were recently initiated into one of the fraternities.

Maine Congressman Left $750,000

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 16.—The will of former Congressman Llewellyn Powers of Houlton, Me., was allowed by Judge Flint in the Norfolk probate court here. It had previously been probated in Aroostook county, Me. It disposed of an estate valued at $750,000.

Portuguese Labor In Hawaii

Honolulu, Dec. 16.—Steamer Swanley arrived here with 868 Portuguese immigrants from Funchal, Maderia. The immigrants will obtain work on the sugar plantations, which have been experiencing a scarrity of labor.

Support of Liberals Endorsed

Dublin, Dec. 16.—The Nationalist convention unanimously endorsed a resolution adopted by the party committee pledging support of the Liberals in the coming general election.

BATTERED BY HURRICANE

German Steamer Limps Into Boston After Severe Experience

Boston, Dec. 16.—The power of a great storm at sea—two weeks of uninterrupted hurricane—was apparent everywhere about the decks, and even showed upon the faces of the crew of the German steamer Whitefield, that crept slowly up Boston harbor last night, ending a memorable trip from Hamburg.

The Whitefield came in without her smokestack, which was torn from its fastenings by a gigantic wave, and swept overboard when the ship was 400 miles from this city.

The forward bridge and the after bridge also were carried away. Men clung for their lives to torn and twisted fittings about the decks. The second mate was rendered unconscious by the shock of one great billow that hurled him down a companionway in the officers' quarters, and he would have drowned in a foot of water but for the efforts of the cook and cabin boy. Everything movable about the deck went overboard, while the hurricane raged.

FOURTEEN DEAD IN WRECK

Broken Rail Causes Southern Train to Topple Into a Creek

Greensboro, S. C., Dec. 16.—A local passenger train on the Southern railway toppled into a creek at Reedy Fork trestle, ten miles north of here. Twelve dead bodies have been removed from the wreckage. It is reported fourteen are dead. Twenty-five injured are being cared for at St. Leo's hospital.

George J. Gould, who, with his son, Jay, was in one of the Pullmans when the train jumped the track and who was reported killed, escaped unjured. He, with his son, came in on the special bearing the dead and injured. He left for his hunting lodge, fifteen miles from here.

The derailment was caused by a broken rail about 200 feet from the trestle that spans the small stream.

FLOWERS USED TO CHRISTEN BIG SHIP

Schooner Wyoming Equipped With All Modern Luxuries

Bath, Me., Dec. 16.—Flowers were scattered over the bow of the six-masted schooner Wyoming by Miss Lena Brooks, the sponsor, instead of the ceremonial of shattering a bottle of wine to christen the vessel.

The daughter of the governor of Wyoming officiated, not only in an original manner, but named the largest wooden sailing vessel in the world.

This big wooden sailing craft has all the modern luxuries of a modern house, telephone, steam heat, a bathroom with open plumbing, and hot and cold water.

The Wyoming is 329.5 feet long, 50.1 feet beam and 30.4 feet deep. She has a tonnage of 3730. The Wyoming cost $190,000, and is owned principally by her builders, Percy & Small. She was built for the coal carrying trade and has a capacity of about 6000 tons.

LEFT HATCHET BEHIND

But Carrie Nation Manages to Create Commotion In Congress

Washington, Dec. 16.—"You ought not to smoke," admonished Carrie Nation to a doorkeeper as she entered the gallery of the house of representatives. The doorkeeper just laughed.

In one of the corridors adjoining the house chamber a messenger was smoking a cigaret. "Biff" went a blow at the demon of nicotine and Carrie Nation's right arm shot the cigaret into the air. Mrs. Nation played no favorites, but made a general round of the Capitol.

In the senate office building Carrie started to harangue the crowd from the interior steps and was escorted outside by the Capitol police.

$825 PER SQUARE FOOT

High Price Paid For Land In New York's Financial District

New York, Dec. 16.—A new high record for real estate prices in the financial district was established by the sale of a nineteen-story building, at the corner of Nassau and Wall streets, to the Manhattan Trust company.

It is generally understood the price paid was $1,500,000. The plot on which the building stands contains 1825 square feet, so the price was approximately $825 a square foot.

Octupus Journeys South

Newport, R. I., Dec. 16.—The submarine Octopus left here last night for Charleston, where she will take part in the winter maneuvers of the under-water fleet.

Death of Governor Hughes' Father

Albany, Dec. 16.—Rev. David C. Hughes, father of Governor Hughes, died at the executive mansion late last night, following a recent stroke of apoplexy.

The Weather

Almanac, Friday, Dec. 17.
Sun rises—7:08; sets—4:13.
Moon sets—9:12 p. m.
High water—2:15 a. m.; 2:30 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Generally fair; moderate west winds.

AID OF MEXICO IS NOT NEEDED

United States Capable of Dealing With Nicaraguan Matters

ENVOY IS SNUBBED BY KNOX

Secretary of State Asks Senators to Delay Aggressive Action, as Administration Is Confident of Zelaya's Overturn—May Not Be Necessary to Make Hostile Demonstration—Madriz Unacceptable as President

Washington, Dec. 16.—Members of the diplomatic corps are discussing what they regard as the snubbing of Enrique C. Creel, the special ambassador from Mexico, who announced that he had come to Washington to assist the state department in the settlement of the Nicaraguan difficulty.

COPYRIGHT BY WALDON FAWCETT

ENRIQUE C. CREEL.

Mr. Creel was received by Secretary Knox. The latter accepted the Creel statement and laid it on his desk. Then Creel was informed that the state department could adjust the difficulty incident to the killing of Groce and Cannon without outside assistance. It was made quite plain that this was an affair that concerned no other nation, save the United States and Nicaragua.

At the request of Secretary Knox the senate committee on foreign affairs decided to take no steps for the time being in the direction of authorizing the president to take aggressive steps in Nicaragua, to the end of winding up the carrer of President Zelaya. The administration is now confident that the Estrada forces will overturn the Zelaya government. Knox is depending on this outcome, and thinks it will not be necessary for the government of the United States to land marines or make other hostile demonstrations in Nicaragua.

Chairman Cullom of the foreign affairs committee, and Senator Lodge, also a member of this committee, had a talk with Knox. They told him they thought it would be well for him to come up to the Capitol and tell the members of the committee some of the details about the situation in Nicaragua. They also stated that the committee intended to report a resolution authorizing the president to proceed against Zelaya.

Secretary Knox stated that he thought it would be inadvisable for the Senate to take any action of this character. He assured his callers that the situation was working itself out to the satisfaction of the department. The rebels appear to have Zelaya on the run, and the latter's overthrow is expected any day. In view of these assurances Cullom advised the members of his committee that it would be unnecessary to ask Knox to appear before them. He also counselled delay in adopting a resolution.

Dispatches containing an account of the anti-Zelayan demonstration in Managua were confirmed by a telegram received at the state department from Vice Consul Caldera. From this dispatch it appears that some of the demonstrants were arrested by government authorities, but who the people placed under arrest were is not indicated.

The dispatch also says that Zelaya has published a statement promising to resign the presidency of Nicaragua in favor of Madriz who, as Zelaya's candidate, is not the choice of the people there.

Should Zelaya carry out his purpose of resigning and installing Madriz in his place as president there is reason to believe that the Estrada faction would continue their activities with even greater vigor than they have against Zelaya. It is also known that Madriz' selection would not be satisfactory to the government of the United States, and therefore his installation into the office of president of Nicaragua would rather tend to complicate than to simplify the situation in that country.

Taking Testimony on Brownsville

Washington, Dec. 16.—The taking of testimony of such discharged members of the Twenty-Fifth infantry as desire to appear before the Brownsville court of inquiry to have their status determined has begun here. The sitting of the court is behind closed doors.

What the Professor Wanted.

The professor steps into the barber chair and assumes an attitude of premeditation.

"Hair cut, sir?"

"Please!" The barber cuts his hair.

"Like a shampoo?"

"Um—please!" He gets the shampoo.

"Shave you, sir?"

"Um—yes!" One shave.

"Massage?" He nods assent and consequently is massaged. The barber removes the towel; the professor arises and mechanically takes the proffered check.

"What's this?"

"Your check, sir."

"My check?"

"Certainly, sir—hair cut, shampoo, shave and massage."

The professor rubs his hand over face and head.

"Did I get all that?"

"Surely, sir."

"It's queer—very queer—most extraordinarily queer! A most wonderful example of philosophical phenomena!"

"What's queer?" asks the barber in dismay.

"Why, the working of the human mind. What I came in for was to get my razor honed."—Puck.

What Constitutes Baseball?

The essential apparatus of baseball is simple and inexpensive. All that is required is a field, a stick, the ball itself and police protection for the umpire. One advantage of the game as played professionally is that those sitting in the grand stand can play the game a great deal better than the eighteen men on the diamond. It is also true that any one of the spectators, even though perched on a telephone pole across the street or looking through a knothole in the fence beyond right field, can judge of the pitcher's skill or the runner's fleetness much more intelligently than the arbiter who stands behind the battery. The great merit of the game is that the people can participate in it. It is not like bridge whist. Its science is not synonymous with silence. The thing to do is to take off your coat and root as long and as loudly as you can, even if you don't know what is happening.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Taking It Out In Trade.

The proprietor of a certain Turkish bath establishment, seeing a strong looking young man working in a butcher's shop and being impressed by his magnificent muscles, told him to resign and take a rubber's position with him.

"I'll give you more than you are getting now," he said.

The young butcher, resigning in good faith, turned up the next morning at the bath house.

"Well," said the proprietor to him, "I'll put you on at once. What did you get at the butcher's?"

"Six dollars and my week's meat," returned the young man.

"What did that amount to?"

"About $3."

"Well," said the proprietor, "I offered you more to come here, didn't I? I'll give you $6 in money and $4 worth of baths weekly. That is a dollar more than you got at your old place."

Dutch Engagements.

A custom among the Dutch is the exchanging of engagement rings, which are narrow bands of plain gold, with the initials of the betrothed and the day of the betrothal engraved on the inside. They are worn on the left hand before and on the right after marriage. Dutch engagements extend over a period of from two to five years. During this time the young woman gives up all amusements in which her fiance does not participate. If he is not of the dancing sort she refrains from that recreation, however much she may desire to engage in it. She never goes in company anywhere if he is not present, and when they go together to a ball no gentleman will ever ask her to dance without formally gaining his permission. — London Scraps.

The Sure Thing.

A theatrical manager once offered a famous actress $1,000 a week to make a tour of the world. She insisted on $1,500. But the manager said $1,000 was all he could give, and he reminded her of the fabulous jewels that South American millionaires, Russian grand dukes and Indian rajahs are wont to lavish on the ladies of the stage when they are touring.

"Go home," said the manager; "think the matter over and let me know your decision in the morning."

In the morning the actress sent the manager this message:

"Give me my terms and you can have the jewels."

Little Barbara's Complaint.

Four-year-old Barbara went to church with her two sisters and came home crying.

"What is the matter, dear?" inquired her mother.

"He preached a whole s-sermon—about—M-Mary and Martha," sobbed Barbara, "and—never said—a—w-word about me."—Lippincott's.

Work Fascinating.

There is an indescribable fascination about work. The laziest man in town will stand watching with evident enjoyment the labors of a street gang laying pavement.—Fort Worth Record.

Suits the Case.

"That prisoner over yonder, warden, has rather a mischievous look."

"Do you think so?"

"Yes, quite a roguish expression."—Baltimore American.

To me the meanest flower that blows can give thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.—Wordsworth.

Dear John:

I wont be home until 6 o'clock but your dinner is all ready for you. I put it in the Mother's Oats fireless cooker at 11 o'clock this morning and you will find everything hot and steaming just right as always.

Your loving wife
Mary.

Why shouldn't Mary have a good time now and then with her friends? John's dinner will be just as well cooked since a Mother's Oats Fireless Cooker is in the house; it will be just as hot and steaming. Mary paid nothing for the Cooker; she saved coupons out of and other Mother's Cereals, and secured a $3.75 Cooker free. She saves 80% of her fuel bills; she hardly goes into the kitchen at all, and she isn't forced to bend all afternoon over a hot stove; she arises an hour later than usual, and doesn't have to rush down stairs to prepare Mother's Oats for breakfast.

Mother's Oats

The coupons are found in:

Mother's Oats
Mother's Corn Meal (white or yellow)
Mother's Wheat Hearts (the cream of the wheat)
Mother's Hominy Grits
Mother's Corn Flakes (toasted)
Mother's Coarse Pearl Hominy
Mother's Old Fashioned Steel Cut Oatmeal
Mother's Old Fashioned Graham Flour

Ask your grocer to tell you how to get a Mother's Oats Fireless Cooker free. If he doesn't keep Mother's Cereals, write us today, giving his name and yours, and we'll tell you all about the free Fireless Cooker and send you a useful souvenir free.

THE GREAT WESTERN CEREAL COMPANY
OPERATING MORE OATMEAL MILLS THAN ANY OTHER ONE CONCERN
AKRON BOSTON NEW HAVEN PITTSBURGH NEW YORK ALBANY PHILADELPHIA ST. LOUIS CHICAGO

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE

Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall

PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.

Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.

Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.

WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.

All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.

Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

Sprague's New River
STEAM COAL

Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined

Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.

J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS

TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET

Quincy, June tf

WHEELER'S

Christmas Christmas

See what we offer for Christmas.

All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear

Belts
Aprons
Gloves
Xmas Cards
Booklets
Post Cards
Handkerchiefs
Stamped Linens
Stationery
Handkerchief Boxes
Glove Boxes
Collar Boxes
Pocket Books
Purses
Bags
Calendars
Needle Books
Shaving Cases

We also have a good line of

"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists

Christmas Christmas

CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY
(DRY GOODS STORE.)

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 13, | 11.30 | 11.45 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.30 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.15 | 2.30 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.30 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Treasurer Lee McClung.

Former Football Star, Now Keeper of the Nation's Money.

The task of counting the money in the United States treasury, made necessary by the appointment of Lee McClung to succeed Charles H. Treat as treasurer of the United States, has been occupying the time and attention of the treasury's clerical force. Mr. McClung was the treasurer of Yale university when he was selected by President Taft for his important new position. He is known in football annals as one of the best players that ever wore the Yale "Y."

BRIEFS

The new Merchants Association will meet tonight.

Christmas will be observed in many of the churches on Sunday.

The best place to do your Christmas shopping is in Quincy with the Daily Ledger advertisers.

Rev. D. M. Wilson, formerly of Quincy was today installed as pastor at Kennebunk, Maine.

George Monk of this city was in the orchestra at the cotillion party given by Gov. and Mrs. Draper to their daughter at Hotel Somerset on Tuesday evening.

WHIST PARTY.

On Monday evening the Jolly Sixteen met with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stoddard of Baxter street. Although the night was an unpleasant one all of the jolly ones were present. Whist was enjoyed for two hours the high scorers being Mrs. Merritt with a score of 52 followed by Mr. Stoddard, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Dexhiemer, after which lunch was served.

During the lunch the hostess in behalf of Mrs. G. W. Gragge, presented Mr. John Smith who is one of the fun makers of the club and an excellent judge of squash pie, with a small pie measuring two feet across and fifty inches around. Mr. Smith after recovering from his surprise thanked the maker, and started in to fulfill the old saying that the proof is in the eating. After two-thirds had disappeared he divided the remainder with the rest of the club.

The sixteen hold a New Year's eve watch party with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shores.

—The Florence Crittenton missions are known the world over, being founded by the late Charles N. Crittenton in over 74 cities in memory of his daughter. By his will he shows further interest by leaving half of his estate, some $2,000,000, to the national Florence Crittenton mission.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

ROOSEVELT ATTACKED

Accused by New York Congressman of Being a Dictator

Washington, Dec. 16.—War was again declared on ex-President Roosevelt in congress and Representative Harrison of New York declared vehemently that the former president had usurped authority in the canal zone and that he was a "dictator."

The attack followed a debate on the Panama canal bill. The abolition of the Isthmian canal commission and the centralizing of responsibility and authority for the construction of the canal and the government of the canal zone, under the president as a director general, were bitterly opposed by many representatives, among them Harrison, who brought in the name of the former president.

Support for Taft's predecessor and claims that he did not exceed his authority were made by Representatives Oldstead (Pa.) and Mann (Ills.).

MRS. MARTIN ARRESTED

Mother of Bathtub Victim Is Betrayed by Telltale Note

New York, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Caroline B. Martin, mother of the bathtub victim, was arrested last night. She was much sought in connection with the mysterious death of her daughter, Mrs. Ocey W. M. Snead, at East Orange, N. J., and appeared in New York yesterday with characteristic eccentricity for a brief time, disappearing again, after defying the police of two states, and left behind her the most valuable bit of evidence in the case yet discovered.

In the bathroom of her vacated room in an uptown hotel were found three undated notes written on soiled notepaper in a round, girlish hand, identical with the handwriting of the note found in the East Orange bathroom pinned to the little heap of clothes near the body of Ocey Snead.

ALLEGED VIOLATION OF CONTRACT LAW

Federal Government Gets After the Ludlow Company

Boston, Dec. 16.—With a view to prosecuting the Ludlow Manufacturing Associates, who have been evicting strikers from their mill houses at Ludlow, George B. Billings, commissioner of immigration at this port, submitted to United States District Attorney French the report of Immigration Inspector Burke, who recently investigated charges of violating the contract labor laws which have been made against the Associates.

The action of Billings in bringing complaint against the company was the result of advices received from the department of commerce and labor at Washington, to which Billings had previously submitted the report with the suggestion that legal steps be taken.

The prosecution, it is understood, will be based on the company's prospectus sent to foreign countries, inviting laborers to emigrate to Ludlow.

ELLIS GETS THREE YEARS

Light Sentence For Man Who Committed Murder In Courtroom

Little Rock, Dec. 16.—Judge Lea sentenced W. Y. Ellis, who pleaded guilty to killing N. P. Willis of Indianapolis, to a three years' term in the penitentiary.

Ellis killed Willis in the circuit court room during a trial in which Willis was attempting to procure possession of his daughter from Mrs. Ellis, his former wife. Several persons narrowly escaped death when Ellis shot Willis.

Judge Lea said he lightened the sentence because physicians reported that Ellis is suffering from tuberculosis.

JUDGE LURTON'S AGE

Judiciary Committee's Only Criticism of Supreme Bench Appointee

Washington, Dec. 16.—The senate committee on judiciary voted unanimously to report favorably the nomination of Judge Horace H. Lurton to be an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States.

Some members of the committee expressed the opinion that it would have been better to name a younger man, Judge Lurton being in his 66th year, but there was no general opposition to him, or any criticism except as to his age.

Dooin to Manage Quakers

New York, Dec. 16.—Charlie Dooin, catcher of the Philadelphia team, will handle the reins as manager there next season. This disposes of the rumor that Dooin intended to leave the diamond permanently for the stage.

Young Morgan Returns Home

New York, Dec. 16.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., came back to the United States from England with seventy-eight odd pieces of baggage and a denial of the report that he would take charge of his father's great interests.

Haskell In Serious Condition

Guthrie, Okla., Dec. 16.—Although Governor Haskell, who was stricken with acute indigestion, is somewhat improved, he still is in a serious condition. Physicians say gall stones are the source of the governor's trouble.

GEBRACHT WAS MAN HIGHER UP

Named by Bendernagel as the One Who Fixed Wages

CASHIER DEFENDS HIMSELF

Statement That He Had to Obey General Superintendent's Orders, Even Though Were Illegal, Corroborated by Spitzer—Arbuckle Concern Settles Sugar Case With Governmnet by Paying Nearly $700,000

New York, Dec. 16.—"I had to take the instructions of Superintendent Gebracht and pay out what he instructed," was James F. Bendernagel's reply on the witness stand to the prosecution's questions regarding the compensation of the checkers on the Williamsburg docks of the American Sugar Refining company.

The government has charged that the men now on trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud received larger pay than other employes performing similar service because of the surreptitious work they stand charged with doing.

Bendernagel, cashier of the plant, indicted with them, defended himself under cross-examination from the intimation that he was in any way responsible for the fixing of these employes' wages, and stated that the orders came from "higher up."

"The wages of the checkers were definitely fixed at the head office of the company at 117 Wall street," Bendernagel testified.

"Do you mean to say that if Gebracht ordered you to make payments that were illegal that you had to do so?" he was asked.

"I do not see what else I could do," Bendernagel replied. "I was subject to his instructions in paying out money and would have to make such payments as he ordered."

With regard to the evidence of Mallen and Sands, that the checkers now on trial received envelopes containing more money than was shown by the inscription outside, Bendernagel said he had no knowledge of such a practice. It was quite possible that Gebracht might have instructed the clerks in the cashier's office to fix pay envelopes in that way. They would have to obey Gebracht's instructions.

Oliver Spitzer, the dock superintendent, corroborated Bendernagel, saying that recommendations for increases in pay for the men on the docks were submitted by him to Gebracht, the general superintendent, and that Bendernagel was never consulted about such matters. At the conclusion of Spitzer's testimony the defense rested its case.

It was arranged that today shall be devoted to the argument before the jury. This argument will take all day, as the defense want four hours, and the court promised the government three hours in which to make the final presentation of its case. The judge's charges to he jury will probably be postponed until Friday morning and the jury will have that day for its deliberations.

Announcement was made by Henry L. Stimson, the government special prosecutor in charge of the investigation of the sugar weighing frauds, that the big sugar and coffee firm of Arbuckle Bros. had paid into the treasury $695,573.19 in settlement of back dues on sugar imported by the firm at less than the true weights.

The announcement contained no details of the fraudulent practices in the case of the Arbuckle shortages, but stated that the settlement, while covering all civil claims, in no way affected the criminal investigation that is going on here.

ESCAPED IN BREAD BOX

Naval Prisoner Experienced No Difficulty In Gaining Freedom

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 16.—After twenty-four hours of unsuccessful searching by the marine guard for the escaped naval prisoner, William J. Myers, the officers at the navy yard solved the mystery of his disappearance.

Myers, who was assisting in coaling ship, concealed himself in a large bread box used daily by a Boston concern which supplies bakery products to the navy yard, and when a consignment of boxes was shipped from the yard Myers went with it.

Mrs. Ford Pleads Not Guilty

Cincinnati, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Jeannette S. Ford apepared before Judge Woodmansee and pleaded not guilty to the indictment charging her with attempting to blackmail Charles L. Warriner, former local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, who, it is alleged, stole $643,000 from the railroad.

High Price For Harriman's Seat

New York, Dec. 16.—The sum of $2750 was paid in Chicago for the seat formerly owned by E. H. Harriman on the Chicago stock exchange. This is the highest price ever paid for a seat on that exchange.

Wilder Cables His Resignation

Honolulu, Dec. 16.—Arthur A. Wilder, associate justice of the supreme court of Hawaii, has cabled his resignation to President Taft and asked for its immediate acceptance.

TOLL OF GAME SEASON

Thirty-Three Human Lives Have Been Lost In the Woods

Boston, Dec. 16.—Thirty-three lives was the sacrifice demanded by the chase of the moose, deer and other wild game in the northeastern corner of the United States and the neighboring provinces during the season which closed generally last night.

Twenty-three persons were killed by being mistaken for deer, the accidental discharge of firearms or other causes in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts, and three more in the provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, while contributory causes added seven more deaths.

Among the score or more known to have been seriously injured five are not expected to live, two will lose their sight and half a dozen more will remain maimed or badly scarred for life.

MAE WOOD IN COURT

Surety Company Which Furnished Her Bond Surrenders Her

New York, Dec. 16.—Mae C. Wood appeared unexpectedly in court here and announced that she was ready to stand trial under the indictment charging her with forgery and perjury in her breach of promise suit against former Senator Thomas C. Platt. She was placed under arrest on the motion of the surety company which furnished her $5000, but which yesterday announced that it wanted to surrender her. Although the court reduced her bail to $1000, Miss Wood was unable to secure a new bond and was sent to the Tombs to await trial.

Platt was too ill to appear. Judge Foster said that if the case was not tried by the end of the present term he would entertain a motion for its dismissal.

MORGAN INVESTS IN TELEPHONE STOCK

Deal In Ohio Represents Cash Outlay of Eight Millions

Toledo, Dec. 16.—Announcement was made here that J. P. Morgan & Co. are the purchasers of two of the independent telephone properties in which James S. Bailey, Jr., of this city recently secured control.

Details of the deal and future operations are not made known officially, but five other companies are involved. Control of the seven companies is said to represent a cash outlay of $8,000,000.

The deal is said to be the first investment or financial interest of Morgan & Co. in independent telephone properties. The United States company is the long distance service of the Independents of Ohio and Michigan, and the New Long Distance company of those in Indiana. The management will remain practically the same as now.

WOOD IS CHIEF OF STAFF

Young Army Officer Has Made Wonderfully Rapid Advancement

Washington, Dec. 16.—Major-General Leonard Wood, now in command of the department of the east, will be the next chief of staff of the army, according to the announcement of Secretary Dickinson. Wood will succeed General Bell, whose term at the head of the general staff will expire next spring.

Entering the medical corps as an assistant surgeon in 1886, he has been promoted by leaps and bounds so that next April, when he assumes his new duties at the war department, he will be at the head of the whole army. He is only 49 years of age.

WEEK'S FIGHTS SCHEDULED

Cock Fighting on an Enormous Scale In Capital of Alabama

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 16.—More than 1000 roosters, gathered from all parts of America, are engaged here in the biggest cocking main ever held in this country.

The main began Monday and will last a week. Thousands of dollars are involved and hundreds of sports from far and near are taking in the battles.

The main is being held under the name of the Midwinter Barbecue and for months preparations have been made for it. The purses hung up for winning birds vary from $300 to $1500.

Injunction Against Strikers Refused

St. Louis, Dec. 16.—Judge Dyer of the United States circuit court refused to issue a temporary injunction against striking union bricklayers and stone masons, restraining them from interfering with men who took their places on the new Roman Catholic cathedral.

Inmates Saved as Convent Burns

Montreal, Dec. 16.—The convent of the Sisters of Montford, at St. Agathe, was burned to the ground. The lady superior was the last to leave, and saw to it that all her little charges were saved.

Actor Drew Leaves Hospital

New York, Dec. 16.—John Drew left the hospital last evening for the first time since he was injured by falling under his horse in Central park on Dec. 7. He has almost entirely recovered.

Begin with the First Chapter next Monday.

The Fourth Estate

How the power of the press may be wielded in behalf of the people

The story of an editor's sacrifice of love on the altar of principle

A Romance of Newspaperdom

NOVELIZED BY FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Much Talked About Newspaper Play by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford

Realistic, Thrilling, True to the Life of Today

This is the New Serial

Which will be started next Monday in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

"The Fourth Estate"

Presents Pictures of Scenes in Editorial and Composing Rooms of a Newspaper Office which are startlingly true to life . . . .

The Story is a Graphic Pen Picture

Of the Social conditions of the day. It has a real hero in Wheeler Brand, the managing editor, who sacrifices his love for a woman to his sense of duty. . . . . .

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

There is a strong feeling of optimism among the local merchants and business men of the city as the Christmas season approaches. The fall has been a busy one and now the Christmas rush is on. The stores will be open evenings next week and there will be the usual crowd of late buyers notwithstanding the oft repeated advice to shop early and avoid the crowd.

A member of Congress from a Western state recently received a letter from a constituent who desired a copy of a government publication known as "The Disease of the Horse." He said: "I am a short coarse student and want horse deezeez." It is apparent that the Congressman's correspondent is a Roosevelt Man. Phonetic spelling is one of the Roosevelt policies that will endure to the end of time even though it may never have the sanction of learning.

When the delegates from the National Retail Monument Dealers Association told the Quincy granite manufacturers that they did not want monuments at lower prices, but that they were willing to pay a fair price for the best of work, they opened up the way for better profits on work, which the Quincy granite industry sorely needs. Because of competition among themselves they have failed oftentimes to make good on contracts. Quincy granite manufacturers have a reputation for honest dealings and for being hard workers and they should make money from their business, but the percentage of some has been small. There is no satisfaction in doing work below cost, and it would be better to do less business and make something out of it. A profit helps not only the firm but the local industry and the city.

People who were rather skeptical about the Brockton canal scheme and looked upon it as a joke are beginning to sit up and take notice for it is not at all improbable that this generation will see a waterway connecting Boston harbor with Taunton river. Inland waterways, and river and harbor improvements are the topics of the day with progressive business men all over the country. With so much interest aroused results are sure to follow. Quincy is right in line and up-to-date in this movement having an unusually active man in Frank Fessenden Crane, appointed by the city as Commissioner of Water Front, Water Ways and Navigation. Mr. Crane has recently attended two conventions, a full report of the first appearing in the Ledger a few weeks ago and the one at Washington will appear as soon as Mr. Crane has submitted it for approval to Mayor Shea. President Taft is in sympathy with the movement as will be seen by his speech at the Washington convention which is published in another column.

To establish an endowment fund for parks and playgrounds, as proposed by the Park Commissioners is indeed novel, and establishes a questionable precedent. Quincy has today a playground debt of $28,000 upon which it is paying interest which amounts to $1,100 or more annually, yet it is proposed to put a balance of $2,525.30 into a fund for playgrounds and use the interest only for improvements. It would be better to expend this sum for a playground for Ward One, and let the taxpayers or City Council decide each year how much shall be expended for current expenses of parks and playgrounds, to include skating ponds, bath houses, etc. The interest on $2,525.30 would amount to only $100 annually and would accomplish but little.

Were Quincy free from debt it might establish several endowment funds possibly. A bequest to the city from some individual, for parks and playgrounds, would naturally be placed in an endowment fund, unless otherwise specified, but this sum of $2,525.30 is a balance from an appropriation made by the city some years ago for playgrounds. and the city is practically paying interest on this sum today. The money should be used for what it was originally appropriated.

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

President Taft's nomination of Judge Horace H. Lurton of Tennessee to succeed Justice Peckham as Justice of the United States Supreme Court does not come as a surprise. Dozens of prominent lawyers and jurists were mentioned for this high office, nearly every state having a favorite son whom it deemed worthy of sitting on the highest court of the land. It was generally understood from the beginning that the President would appoint a Democrat. There was a two-fold reason for this. The court as now organized consists of two Democrats and six Republicans. Justice Peckham was a Democrat and the President felt that it would be inadvisable to go to the dominant political party for his successor. Mr. Taft is extremely anxious that the general public shall continue to have confidence in and respect for the court of last resort. The appointment of a Republican in Justice Peckham's place would be certain to arouse adverse comment in Democratic ranks and the result would be to involve the court in political controversy. Secondly, it is generally believed that Chief Justice Fuller will retire from the bench before the close of Mr. Taft's administration. He will be seventy-six years old in February. It goes without saying that a Republican President, unless an exceptional condition should arise, would not appoint a member of the opposite political part to the highest judicial office of the nation.

Judge Lurton has a flawless record on the federal bench and the only criticism against him is his age. The argument of age appealed somewhat to the President, but he felt that the eminent judicial qualifications of his old friend more than counterbalanced the age objection. It will be ten years before Judge Lurton reaches the present age of Chief Justice Fuller. He is in full possession of his physical and mental vigor and his long training as a member of the Federal Judiciary has qualified him for his new honors. Mr. Taft would be the last man in official life to weaken the United States Supreme Court by the appointment of a man unfit to meet the responsibilities of that high office. In the absence of specific and authoritative proof to the contrary, bench, bar and laymen will believe that he made no mistake in his choice of Horace H. Lurton.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Nothing that can be said here can add to or detract from the allurment of the Christmas advertisements even if a moment could be spared from the contemplation of their superior attractions. We prefer to leave them to tell their own seductive stories, with only the observation that those persons who are apt to chide the newspapers for obscuring the brightness of life by printing so many stories of sin must concede that they devote all the space which is called for to the cheeriest most optimistic literature of the twentieth century—the advertisements. Whatever of gloom may overshadow the newspapers and whatever of pessimism may at times taint the editoral columns, there is joy in the present and hope for the future in the advertisements. Particularly is this true of the Christmas time advertising and we blame nobody who turns to it as a relief from the sombreness with which life is apt to be presented by many exceedingly well-intentioned persons. —New Bedford Standard.

"What is going to take the place of war as a means of producing heroes?" a peace promoter asks, and a contemporary suggests that the answer may be found in the sporting columns. Most persons would be effectually debarred from the list of heroes if they were limited for opportunities to the activities of the sports. Rather are there chances close at hand. One open to almost everybody at this season is to refrain from giving holiday presents where you have no other impulse than that you "have" to give them; and another to give presents to people who can by no possibility give you anything but thanks, and may not give even that, in return. A little ingenuity and reflection will provide many other ways of becoming heroes. Perhaps nobody else will know it. But a hero is none the less a hero because he does not draw a Carnegie medal.—New Bedford Standard.

—For three months Mr. Taft has had "a real good time," now his troubles begin and he will know no peace of mind and little rest of body till Congress shall have come and gone.—Norfolk Virginian Pilot. Dem.

(ADVERTISE.)

PRES. TAFT'S SPEECH

At National Rivers and Harbors Congress At Washington

Upon being presented to the assemblage by Mr. Ransdell, President Taft spoke at length, dwelling upon his interest in the policy of waterway improvement, and offering advice to the delegates upon methods for attaining the ends they are seeking. The President said in part:

"I don't know that I have any right to be here to talk about waterways, unless it makes a man an expert on the subject to have gone down the Mississippi River. The dangers to which one was exposed on that journey, by reason of the shoals and other obstacles and temptations of the journey, certainly offered an opportunity for careful study and deliberation. Now, I think I am a sufficiently established resident of Washington to make what I have to say an address of welcome. I am delighted that you selected Washington as your place of meeting. You have done it wisely, first, because when you want a thing done it is just as well to get close to the man that is to do it, and, secondly, Washington is always a good place to come to, and you can induce the ladies of the family to come with you, which is always an assurance of both work and pleasure.

Congratulates the Congress.

"I congratulate this congress on having brought the subject of waterways to such a point that the representatives in Congress, from one end of the country to the other, recognize it as a subject that calls for action. They have not come to a definite conclusion as to the policy that ought to be adopted, but they have come to the conclusion that some policy must be adopted with reference to the development of those instrumentalities which nature has furnished for the transportation of goods and for the controlling of railroad rates.

"Now, speaking to this assembly—I think it was this assembly (we have got so many congresses in favor of so many good things that some times there is a little difficulty in distinguishing, and when you all meet together in Washington at the same time there is danger of mistaken identity as to associations)—but, at any rate, a year ago President Roosevelt and I were together on a platform before the conservation of resources convention, I think it was, in which we both advocated the issuing of bonds in order that a project for improving waterways when begun should be completed in a reasonable time. Now, I am still a consistent advocate of that theory. I believe that the government is entitled to as rapid a method of developing an enterprise and putting it through as private corporations, and as they always issue bonds, or generally do—some of them are fortunate enough not to have to—in order to expedite the completion of these projects, it would seem wise for the nation to do so where it will accomplish the same result.

A Word of Caution.

"But I want to suggest a word of caution. You are going to encounter in Congress great opposition to the policy of issuing bonds right out of hand. You are much more likely to get from Congress a declaration of policy in the shape of a declaration that a certain improvement ought to be carried out and spread upon the minutes of Congress in the form of a resolution or a declaration in a statute. Now, what I advise you to do is to get that declaration. Then when the time comes that political exigency shall prevent the appropriation of sufficient from the current revenues to put the proper part of project through the coming year or the coming two years as economy requires, then the question of issuing bonds will arise. I would get the declaration first, and not have the will encounter the objection by Congress that the issuing of bonds and the receipt of the money will develop a desire to be extravagant. That may not meet your views, but I have thought it over, and I know some thing about Congress.

"I tell you, gentlemen ,you are getting, as the boys and girls used to say in hunting a button—you are getting warm. You are at a point where you can accomplish something if you don't stop it by doing it the wrong way. I don't feel justified in giving advice to a body like this on a subject which they have studied so much, or I should not feel it except that I have had pretty close association as Secretary of War and otherwise with the army engineers, who have given their lives to the study of these improvements.

"I count it one of the great good fortunes of this country that when the country had to build the Panama Canal after using the great ability of civil engineers, we finally settled down upon the army ,engineers to carry that project through.

"So it is with respect to the waterways. They have recommended to the chairman of the waterways committee in the House a system of improvements that I believe will meet the judgment of this convention, if it be moderated to the possibilities of what can be accomplished.

"And, now, ladies and gentlemen, I am very much obliged to you for giving me such attention. I realize that what I have said comes from the lips of a mere tyro, but it comes from one who has some temporary responsibility in respect to the matter, and from one who is thoroughly in sympathy with the general object which you seek here—to wit, the development of all the waterways of this country by a general policy in such a way as to reduce and control railroad rates and in such a way as to stimulate upon the bosom of the waters the transportation of such merchandise as is peculiarly fitted to that character of carriage."

At the conclusion of the President's address a flashlight photograph of the convention was taken.

☞The Ledger Ad Man is at your service at any time to help you write up your ads. All you have to do is to phone the Quincy Daily Ledger 425 and he will call at once. Try him.

CHRISTMAS BOOKS.

No Christmas present is more acceptable than a book that suits the tastes and temperament of the reader, and as nearly everyone likes a good story well told, it is usually safe to make a selection among the best new fiction.

People who like Thackery, Dickens, or George Elliott's works will like William De Morgan's, "It Never Can Happen Again" just issued by Henry Holt & Company. Taken up at first by the inner circle of the reading public the De Morgan books are now eagerly read by a widening circle of those who neglect more ephemeral fiction. The novel has humor, pathos and an all embracing optimism that is uplifting.

"The Rosary"—Mrs. Barclay's new story of a plain girl with a beautiful soul and character, that is revealed to an artist as she sings, is the story of a mistake and how love finds a way, which will appeal especially to girl readers while "Old Rose & Siver"—Myrtle Reed's latest publication will find favor with the large circle of nice women who appreciate her pleasant writings, filled with charm, tenderness and quiet humor. Stories that leave no after-taste of morbid bitterness in the memory. A third Putnam book is a breezy stirring story of the Tennessee mountains.

"The Wooing of Lance Cleaverage"—a tale of love with most of the telling after the primitive marriage. Two positive natures caught in the web of circumstance and environment, and how in spite of tragic obstacles they win their goal. With glimpses of the quaint customs, pithy humor and philosophy of the mountain folk.

"The Florentine Frame" is a most unusual novel with a theme like "Henry Esmond," but the rivalry between the middle aged mother and her very young daughter, is all very modern and graphically portrayed. The scene being New York and the vicinity with a bridal trip to Europe. Genie, the girl is so up-to-the-minute in her manners and outlook that she is somewhat startling, yet so sympathetically drawn that she never quite loses her appeal to the reader. Published by Moffit, Yard & Co.

BOYS' BOOKS.

Ernest Seton-Thompson's new animal story "The Biography Of a Silver Fox"—will delight any boy or girl of any age who loves a fine animal and life in the open. It is a beautiful book, well printed on heavy paper with the wide margins of the pages decorated with foot tracks, sketches of cubs, traps and other things in the story, and with lifelike pictures of Domino, Snowyruff and the other animals by the artist author. The Century Co.

"Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's Stories of the Great West" is another Century publication that makes special appeal to boys who like clear-cut, stirring tales of adventure on the Great Western Plains. The illustrations by Frederick Remington and other artists add to its attractions.

"Captain Club"—is a breezy story of schoolboy life during a summer vacation on a house-boat that moves up and down the Hudson with Tom, Dick and Harriet; Harriet's father and Roy all sharing in the numerous adventures and wholesome fun. The Century Co. Eleanor Frances.

COIFFURE CIRCASSIENNE.

The flat hairdressing now worn in America is called the coiffure a la Circassienne. This particular kind of arrangement has as many names attached to it as the modern turban. There seems no end to these. Mop, Sans Gene, Britany, Moyen-Age turban, are among some of the first that greeted the coiffure. This much many be said of it; there are more ways of doing it than there are names for it.

The requisite thing is to have it flat. How one manages this is one's own secret.

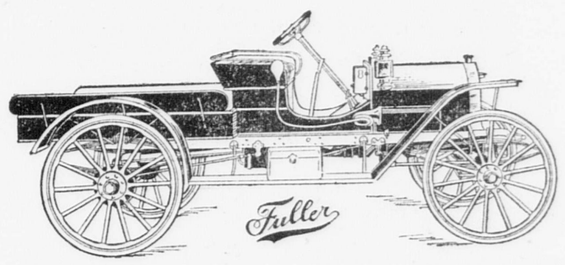
No three hairdressers do it alike. The hair may be loosely braided and wound around the head, or it may be twisted into a rope and placed from nape of neck to forehead in as near a circle as the head will permit.

Again, it is arranged in a long puff cap in the middle of the head and luxurious ropes or braids of hair are wound around this.

No hairpins must show except the four huge shell ones that are to hold the coils in place. There is no perceptible pompadour and the extremists are endeavoring to make the ears imperceptible.—New York Times.

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

Until New Years
USE THE
Red Cross Stamps



A CHRISTMAS BOX OF
Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
Men's Hose
ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.

The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.

PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00
Can you beat it for the Price?
GEORGE W. JONES
No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

A GOOD CAR.

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.
For Sale by
S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.
Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

FOR CHRISTMAS
BUY YOUR BOY A
Flexible Flyer
THE UP-TO-DATE SLED.
We also carry the Barney and Berry
SKATES
Both Clamp and Key.
Also the good old-fashioned kind for Ladies, with leather heel and toe straps.
HOCKEY STICKS, PUCKS and BALLS.
NATHAN AMES,
5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.
D c. 11 tf

GAS PIPING AT COST.
We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.
Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.
We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.
Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.
We do not pipe new buildings.
CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181
Dec. 13 tf

H. R. HOLMES

Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.

Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted. Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering. Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired

Antique work a specialty

Nov. 20

E. M. FREEMAN

653 Washington St., Cor. South St., QUINCY POINT.

Real Estate Bought and Sold

MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES

INSURANCE

Boston Office, Old South Building. 294 Washington Street

Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,

Real Estate Insurance

Auctioneer Care of Property.

Corner School and Hancock Streets. QUINCY.

OSCAR F. FRISK,

Real Estate and Insurance,

NOTARY PUBLIC

Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building, QUINCY SQUARE.

Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN

Piano Tuner

Office at C. F. Fettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.

Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P M.

SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

EDWARD J. FEGAN

Counsellor at Law

538 Tremont Building, Boston

QUINCY OFFICE

Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block

Evenings, 7 to 9

Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 448 May 2 1p-'y

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.

FIRE INSURANCE.

The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.

Insurance Department, 1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.

Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

H. ALMON JONES

DENTIST

Formerly at Braintree

Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.

16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy

July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,

PAINTER and GLAZIER.

LEADED STAINED GLASS.

DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.

OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.

15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

ALBERT J. DURAND

101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
38 Huntington Avenue, Boston.

PIANO TUNING.

TELEPHONES:

Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 200

Oct. 1. tf

JAMES F. BURKE

Real Estate and Insurance

AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES

Justice of the Peace Notary Public

Room 4, Savings Bank Building

Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

Gallagher's Express

Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK

Furniture and Piano Mover

IN AND OUT OF TOWN

Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING

Telephones { 400-3 Quincy 229-3 Quincy 308-7 Milton

1p-tf

R. D. CHASE

QUINCY MASS.

Established 1887. Probate Business Savings Bank Buildings.

(ADVERTISE.)

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

Allison Marsh was in Quincy last week having come down to attend the Freshman banquet that evening at the Lenox. He said that they arose with the early glimpse of dawn and took the first train out of town in order to escape the Sophs.

Sylvester Brown of Farrington street a post graduate at the High school has left school and is at present employed by Wigging and Elwells a brokerage firm in Boston.

Ralph Austin has entered the employ of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y.

Harold Richards a graduate of the class of 1909 has entered his father's business, granite manufacturing, at South Quincy.

The Golden Rod which came out this week with its initial issue for 1909 and 1910 reflects great credit on the board of editors. The frontispiece is a large half tone of the football squad. There are editorials by Miss DeWolfe, editor in chief; a poem entitled "Ten Little Freshmen," by Gordon Jameson, '10; Athletic notes, by Ted Corey and Locals by "Bill Northrop, funny man." The alumni notes and exchange column were in charge of Mary Cleveland. There were three good stories turned in by A. D. Innis, '12; Marion Hicks, '10; and Eleanor Mahoney, '11. This completes one of the most varied and interesting school papers turned out for some time, and as there are 2 or 3 more issues coming the scholars have something to look forward to in the coming year.

At the first basket ball practice Capt. Bates told the candidates that they would have to consider three things in coming out for the team this year. First, that every candidate would have to keep in strict training, which means no smoking and no late hours. Second, that they would have to be at practice promptly and that they could play on no outside teams. Third that every man would have to keep up in his studies.

The fact that a High school fellow cannot smoke and keep late hours and still give his best to the school has been amply demonstrated in the past two seasons. Also has it been shown that a player can only serve one team and serve it well. In regard to studies, the fellow who keeps his work up is the one who does the hardest work for the team and its success.

There will be a meeting of the Athletic committee before the end of this term ,and for the first time in its history action will be taken to endorse the captain's stand in this matter. As soon as this is done it means that if a fellow breaks any of the rules the captain will have no option but to lay him off. This will be one of the best results accomplished in the school if the committee will do as they intend at present, and it will make a captain's lot a much easier one than heretofore, as in laying down distinctly what a player shall or shall not do, they'll have them in a position to realize what will happen if they disobey.

At the football reception last week Mr. Cleveland, when presenting the Q's, spoke of one of the boys and said that although he had not played a sufficient number of games to get a letter still the Athletic committee had voted him one because of his work for the team ever since he has been in school. This was Leon Brown of Wollaston. The lad has come out for the team for three years and every year with the brightest prospects of making the eleven. He has had hard luck, and in the middle of each season has so injured himself that for the rest of season he has had to perform a football player's hardest function,—sit on the sidelines and watch. The High school editor extends congratulations in unison with all who know Brown, as the recipient of the Q which has always seemed, "so near and yet so far," to him.

ASSETS, $450,000.

ESTABLISHED 1889

SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU

DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month

MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS

OWN YOUR HOME.

SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS BK BUILDING

R. D. CHASE Treas

ADVERTISING

Is a Good Investment.

ALPHA HALL OPENING

One Hundred Couples at Dance of Mt. Wollaston Club

When the members of the Mt. Wollaston Club arrived at Alpha hall on Wednesday evening they found carpenters still busy getting the building in readiness for the opening night. Since Sunday the floor of the hall has been laid and there is much yet undone, but everything was so new, bright and attractive that only words of commendation were heard for the enterprise of Henry L. Kincaide.

Coats and outer wraps were checked in a cloak room on the street floor, being hung on hooks instead of placed in boxes. Soon nearly 100 couples were dancing in the new hall on the second floor to the inspiring selections of Wilson orchestra of six pieces. After a few dances the floor was in good condition. The large mirror-like windows, the artistic lighting by electricity, the pretty stage setting with palms on the platform, the perfect heating and ventilation system, the ladies' parlor and men's ante rooms, the large balcony, and all appointments are very pleasing.

It was a 1 o'clock party and during intermission at 10.30 ice cream was served by Emanuel.

The committee of arrangements was composed of Charles Barron, D. Edward McDonald, Abel Gomez, Thomas E. Furnald E. Frank Mitchell, Benjamin Bishop, Charles S. Jones and George Fisher.

Charles Barron served as floor director and the aids were: James Moorehead, Henry L. Kincaide, and Charles L. Hammond.

QUARRY ACCIDENT.

Nester Fredricson of Grove street was badly cut and bruised about the hand on Tuesday, having one finger on his right hand smashed. It is feared that the finger must be amputated. While trying to repair a steam drill which he operates, he accidently turned on the steam, and the drill started to work. His hand was caught and it was held there for a few minutes until a fellow workman could stop the machine. A doctor was immediately called and Fredricson was removed to the hospital. He is 50 years old and is in the employ of the Quincy Quarry Co., once known as the O. T. Rogers Co., and has a wife and five children.

NEW OFFICERS.

At the regular meeting of the Quincy court No. 76, M. C. O. F., held Wednesday evening in G. A. R. hall the following officers were elected for the year 1910:—

C. R.—David R. Frazier.
V. C. R.—Michael Dorley.
F. S.—Margaret O'Hara.
R. S.—Mary E Thompson
T.—Mrs. Lucy G. Howard.
S. C.—John J. Avery.
J. C.—Alside Carron
I. S.—B. Duran
O. S.—John F. McDonald.

The new officers will be installed the first meeting of the New Year, January 5.

—New England will furnish over 800,000 Christmas trees this year. Pinchot of the U. S. Forestry service is out with the statement that the forests are not menaced if the cutting of young evergreens is done with discrimination. He further says: "Trees are for use. There is no other use to which these trees could be put which would contribute so much to the happiness and good of mankind as their use for the children and family on Christmas day. As far as endangering the future life of our forests is concerned, the effect is infinitestimal compared with the destruction caused by forest fires and wasteful lumbering."

—"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

OLD-FASHIONED QUARTETTE

At Entertainment at Wollaston M. E. Church

A successful sale and entertainment was held in the vestry of the Wollaston Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon and evening by the Queen Esther circle. "At the sign of the Christmas tree" read the placard, and one inside one found all sorts of fancy and useful articles for Christmas.

Following were those in charge of the various tables:

Candy table—Miss Cherry Newell.
Plants—Miss Mabel Lupton.
Fancy articles—Miss Ethel Smith.
Ice Cream—Miss Juanita Methere-all

Included in the evening's entertainment were: Mandolin sols by Herbert Cassidy; readings, "A rainy day" by Miss Bessie Wilbur; and "Maude Muller" by Miss Mary Cleveland. The old-fashioned quartette composed of Herbert Cassidy, Chester Cleveland, Miss Irma Douglas and Miss Nettie Crittenden, in antique costume, proved one of the hits of the evening, in many old and familiar songs.

FRYBERG—JONES.

The home of Dr. Edwin Noah Hardy was the scene of the quiet wedding of two well known Quincy people early Wednesday evening, when Charles O. Fryberg and Miss Laura Jones were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock. The best man was George S. Fryberg a brother of the groom, and the maid of honor was Miss E. Grace Jones, a sister of the bride. The couple will be at home to friends after February first at 50 Jackson street.

FUNERAL OF MRS. JONES.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Jones was held from her late home at 194 School street Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock and was very largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy was in charge of the funeral services. He dwelt strongly upon her loving character and the quiet charitable work performed for years which had won for her many friends in the city. Several of her favorite passages were read. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes from loving friends and relatives. The interment was at Mount Wollaston.

THE COLLEGE CLUB.

A tasty program is announced for the first annual banquet of the College Club of the Young Men's Christian Association to be held Friday evening at the Association building. There will be addresses by W. A. Minot, who played fullback on the Harvard football team the past year; H. W. Gibson, the boys' State secretary; and E. C. Worman, students' States secretary.

CHRISTMAS EDITION.

The Christmas edition of the Sunday Standard of New Bedford of Dec. 12 was a most enterprising number of 52 pages, profusely illustrated. New Bedford people need no Boston daily with such a wide awake daily and Sunday papers as are issued by E. Anthony & Sons. And the business men have patronized its advertising columns so liberally that all the Christmas shopping will be done at home. New Bedford is growing very rapidly, but the Standard always keeps a little ahead. It is one of our model contemporaries; bright, clear, newsy and able.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES.

Not to be opened until Christmas day or similar inscription, may be written only on such parcels as bear postage at first-class rates; but packages that are rated at third class or fourth class rates may bear the same inscription providing that it is printed or stamped on them. When written on the parcel with pen or pencil the words are held to be a personal communication from the sender to the addressee, thus making the matter subject to first class rates.

—A net income of over a million dollars a month has just been reported to the probate court by the executors of the Marshall Field estate in Chicago. This will be of especial interest to the average man who is obliged to make a desperate effort to make his own income cover the present cost of living. —Milford Gazette.

CROCKER'S BRAVE FIGHT.

How Son of the California Millionaire Shared In Father's Estate.

That malignant and insidious foe of man, cancer, is to be fought now with renewed activity, thanks to the generosity of George Crocker, youngest son of Charles Crocker of California, who died in New York recently. A victim himself of this dread disease, as was also his wife five years ago, he has left to Columbia university a fund of $1,500,000 to be known as the "George Crocker special research fund," the income of which is to be applied in the prosecution of researches as to the cause, prevention and cure of cancer. After the death of Mrs. Crocker in 1904 Mr. Crocker made a study of cancer, and his battle with the disease before it killed him was a brave one, many operations being performed.

GEORGE CROCKER.

The demise of Mr. Crocker recalls another brave fight that he made a number of years ago. Charles Crocker, the father, a man of great daring in his business enterprises, was one of the California pioneers. He built the first railroad across the Sierras, worked a number of mines, and in all the early industries of the state his name figured. His associates were such men as Flood, Fair, Mackay and O'Brien.

He died in 1888, leaving $30,000,000 to his children, but stipulating that in this his son George should have no share till "for the space of five years continuously he shall abstain from the use of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors to the extent that he shall not during this period have been intoxicated."

If he did this he was to get $6,000,000.

Three years later George Crocker notified his brothers, Colonel Fred and William Crocker, the trustees of his share, that his abstinence had begun, and he never drank a drop of liquor in the next five years.

NEW CAPITAL HOMES.

Many Millionaires Planning and Building Residences In Washington.

A Washington society leader who will be much in the public eye this winter is Mrs. Robert Hitt, widow of the late congressman of Illinois. Mrs. Hitt is planning to entertain lavishly in the national capital in her new $1,000,000 residence, which is a veritable palace. The Hitt home is located on Dupont circle, and most of the furniture, paintings and appointments were purchased abroad.

MRS. ROBERT HITT.

Many millionaires are now seeking homes in Washington, and a large number of costly residences have been erected within the past year.

The much heralded mansion of the Perry Belmonts, the creation of a French architect, is now well nigh completed. It is a somewhat spectacular structure, shaped like a flatiron and located on the triangular shaped site at New Hampshire avenue, R and Eighteenth streets.

Sheridan circle, where there are more palatial residences to the city block than in any other part of Washington, has seen much building activity of late. Two handsome large residences have been erected, the one for Mrs. John Wyeth, widow of the millionaire manufacturing chemist from Philadelphia, and another for Gibson Fahnestock of New York.

Only One

There is only One Oil Heater for the housekeeper who wants the Best.

By best is meant thorough, all-around work and faultless efficiency down to the smallest detail.

This work must be performed day after day without fuss and fume and without smoke.

PERFECTION Oil Heater

(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

No other oil heater in the world has attained the high heat efficiency and the sure smokeless performance reached by this splendid achievement of modern science.

Turn the wick up as high as it will go—there's no smoke—as low as you please, there's no smell—no fuss.

In raising, the wick is checked before it reaches the point at which it would smoke, by the new, quickly-removed

Automatic Smokeless Device

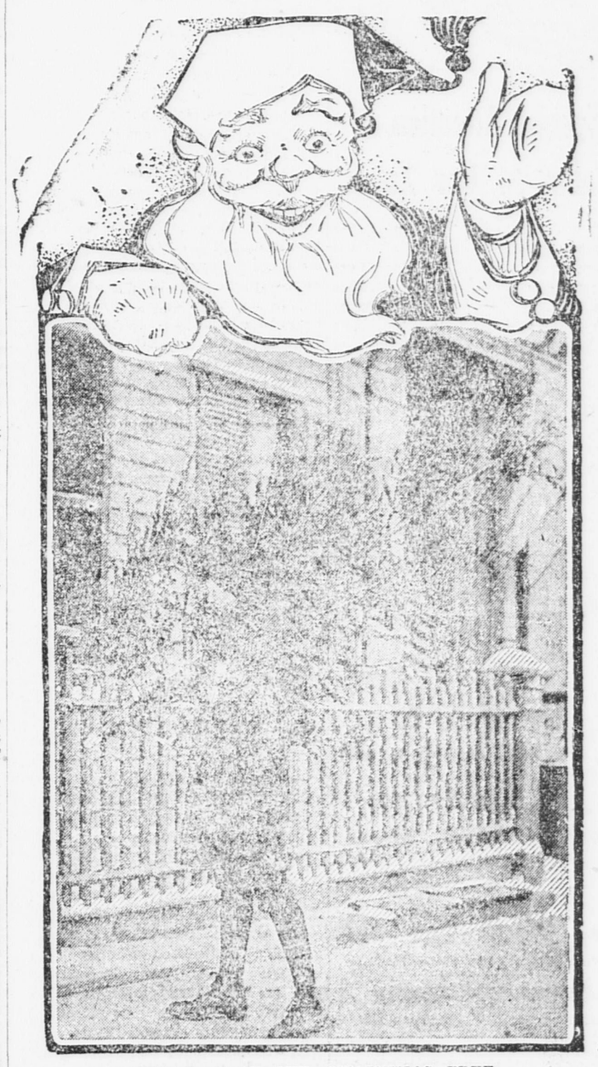
The flame is at its zenith of power, when the wick is locked, thus getting the heater's full capacity.



The heat is as cleanly as that which comes from a steam radiator—and more certain. You may have it just where you want it—beside the window—in the library—in the bath room or in the living room.

Brass font holds 4 quarts of oil—burns 9 hours. Finished in nickel or Japan. Various styles and finishes. Damper top—cool handle—aluminum window frame.

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not At Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY

(Incorporated)

TAKING HOME THE CHRISTMAS TREE.

MAKARIA LEAGUE.

The Makaria bowling league will start Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. alleys when Matty Nicols' South Quincy team will bowl the Upland road team captained by Eggleton. Great interest is being manifested in the games and a large bunch of rooters have signified their intention of being on hand for both sides.

Such has been the interest taken in this league that two new teams will probably be formed. At present the teams are captained by the following Makaria men: T. King, Nicol, Eggleton and Penley. The new captains will probably be chosen this week and they will start right in on their schedule. With the astonishing popularity which bowling seems to have developed this season there should be some good matches rolled before the season ends.

No Cough

Your doctor's approval of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will certainly set all doubt at rest. Do as he says. He knows. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Have not coughed once all day? Yet you may cough tomorrow! Better be prepared for it when it comes. Ask your doctor about keeping Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. Then when the hard cold or cough first appears you have a doctor's medicine right at hand.

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE

NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE

Bought, Sold and Exchanged

Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new

THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy

Aug. 23 1o-tf

HOUSEHOLD CARES

Tax the Women of Quincy the Same as Elsewhere.

Hard to attend to household duties
With a constantly aching back.

A woman should not have a bad back,

And she wouldn't if the kidneys were well.

Doan's Kidney Pills make well Kidneys.

Here is a Quincy woman who endorses this claim:

Mrs. Deborah Prouty, 39 Quincy avenue, Quincy, Mass., says: "I am in a position to speak in the highest terms of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached nearly all the time and caused me considerable trouble. Any sudden movement or an attempt to stoop, sent sharp pains through my loins. My health was much run down and I had but little strength or energy. I was very much alarmed about my condition. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I had known so many people who had used them with benefit, that I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. The use of three boxes convinced me that they were the best kidney remedy to be had. I am now in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Red Cross Stamps
FOR THE
Tuberculosis Camp

Wadsworth's QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth's QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING
1357 Hancock Street
Quincy, Oct. 12

Pine Wood For Sale

Ashes, Rubbish and Stable Manure carted away.

Peter McConarty
5 Pearl Street, - Quincy, Mass.
Nov. 15-1m

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

As a FAMILY DAILY PAPER has no equal and is appreciated by ADVERTISERS

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A Romance of Newspaperdom for the Ledger

Probably there was never a play or a story written of as keen interest to the world of newspaper workers of all kinds, editorial, reportorial and mechanical, as "The Fourth Estate," now running at Wallack's theatre, New York. The story based upon the play will appear as a serial in the Daily Ledger beginning next Monday.

"The Fourth Estate"is quite an extraordinary work in several ways. It describes scenes familiar to newspaper men in a marvelously realistic way and the authors have taken up questions that are frequently issues in newspaper offices and woven them into the plot of the drama and the story in such a way that while one is stirred by the moral questions involved the discussion of the latter in no way lessens but rather intensifies the interest in the romance itself.

The play is by Joseph Medill Patterson, who is just now quite a picturesque figure in the literary world and the field of journalism. He was assisted by Miss Harriet Ford who has done some notably good things as a playwright.

Skilful work in the novelization of the story has been performed by Frederick R. Toombs, so that the dramatic interest inherent in the play is retained in the story form of the work. It is illustrated by Frank Parker and Will Jones and makes 48 columns. Don't miss the first chapter Monday, Dec. 20.

On the stage of Wallack's theatre, New York, a composing room was shown in full activity, with linotype machines clicking, foreman and make-up men discharging their usual duties and in the rear stereotypers making their casts from the forms just as such work is done in this department of a metropolitan paper today. Whenever during the performance of the play the curtain rose on this scene, with actual members of Typographical union No. 6 of New York seated at the machines, there was an outburst of applause.

In the story this scene is described with the utmost faithfulness to detail yet without making the narrative tedious.

It is in the composing room of the Advance, owned by one of the characters in the story, that some of the most dramatic episodes of the narrative occur, and it is here that the thrilling denouement of the romance takes place.

A BILLIKEN FUND.

Pretty Florence Pretz, creator of Billiken, "God-of-Things-as-They-Ought-to-be," little dreams that the idol she banished from her modest home at Kansas City because he proved an ungrateful wretch to his maker, meanwhile bringing luck to scores of thousands of worshipers at his shrine, has a pleasant surprise in store for her. The ridiculous, grinning fetish will bring recognition of a substantial kind for her, if the movement to be launched in Spokane is as successful as its promoters expect it to be.

Arthur W. Jones, secretary of the One Hundred and Fifty Thousand club of Spokane, which will disband to be reorganized as the Quarter Million club on the evening of January 13, is planning a small assessment on the 3,000 members of the organization, also 1,000 candidates to be initiated than night, as a nucleus of a Billiken fund. A committee of 250 will then make a canvass of the homes and officers of lumbermen, mine operators, railroad builders, bonanza wheat ranchers, apple growers, land owners and others to levy an assessment of not more than nine cents for every clay idol found on the premises.

"We expect to raise not less than $1 000 before the close of the campaign," said Mr. Jones in outlining the plan, "and every penny of it will be forwarded to Miss Pretz, in the event she desires to resume her art studies. The brave girl belongs to us as much as if she were a native daughter of 'the City Beautiful,' and we hope to be able to change her keen disappointment over losing control of her creation to a joyful realization of things as they should be, and prove that after all Billiken, now repudiated, is indeed her god of good fortune."

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days

E. W. Grove on box. 25c

The Model Army of the World.

What army was the strongest of its time? Judging by results, the Roman army was so from the fifth century B. C. onward until the division of the empire. Its fighting organization was as complete as and possibly more practical than that of any army of today. It was based on a territorial system which maintained the comradeship of locality without bringing it into antagonism with that of the corps, for each of the thirty-five Roman "tribes" was required to furnish to each legion four "centuries" of 120 men, each of which worked together as a local unit. The legion was divided into five cohorts or battalions, of which three were troops of the line, two were a kind of militia and the fifth was a depot battalion. For almost eight centuries the army thus constituted not only conquered the then known world, but acted as explorers beyond its limits and at the same time made and unmade kings and emperors in Rome itself.—Pearson's Weekly.

Too Well Done.

Mrs. Elliphalet Howe of Centerville had never encountered "Hamlet" either in the pursuit of literature or on the stage up to the time of her first visit to her Boston niece. On that occasion she was taken by the niece and her husband to see a performance of the play.

"How did you like it, Aunt Jane?" asked her nephew-in-law as he piloted the old lady up the aisle by her elbow when the performance was over.

"If that's what you call a 'play,' I call it hard work," said Aunt Jane indignantly. "How you and Nettie can sit calm in your seats and see such heartless doings is beyond me. Why, that Hamlet man looked so sick I shouldn't have been surprised if he hadn't lived to finish out his talking. And by the expression of those other folks I'll venture to say they felt the same. I had my smelling salts all ready in case o' need from the first minute he came on to the platform."

The Finicky Humor of Leschetizky.

Some amusing stories are told of Leschetizky, the great piano teacher, whose comic spirit is one of the predominating features of his character. It is well known that he is a man of strong likes and dislikes. When an American pianist a dozen or so years ago went to Vienna to study with him he wore his hair long, a habit much affected at that time by the aspiring young artist. So greatly did his general appearance annoy the professor that at the end of the first lesson the student received instructions to go and have his hair cut short. Although loath to part with his locks, the young pianist nevertheless obeyed and turned up at the next lesson with his hair cut in the conventional way. Still Leschetisky was not satisfied. "There is something about you that I don't like!" cried the professor. "Your ears are too long. Have them cut off and let your hair grow again!"—Smith's Magazine.

Electrical Discharges From Plants.

The atmosphere surrounding our earth is known to be electrified, and its charges are bound to play an important part in many phenomena. Atmospheric electrification thus is responsible for the formation of rain and hail, and, while fine weather generally is characterized by the presence of positive electricity, a change in the weather is generally accompanied by a change in the sign of atmospheric electricity. That the electrification of the air does exert some influence on plant growth is inferred from the fact that electrified plants, under the influence of sunshine, can give off electricity from the leaves, and as the air is naturally electrified relatively to the soil all plants are bound to be in a constant state of slow electrical discharge which is made active on the rising of the sun. —Technical World Magazine.

Helped Out.

A grocery clerk in a small town had been considerably bored one day by solicitors for church fairs, raffles, charity and other purposes and was getting disgusted when a small, red haired urchin came in and asked him if he could help him out with a baseball glove.

"Got the glove with you?" asked the impatient clerk.

"Er—no," answered the urchin.

"Then," said the irritable clerk as he caught him by the neck and trousers, "I'll help you out without it!"—Judge.

In a Dilemma.

"A necklace of diamonds has been stolen from me!" said Mrs. Cumrox.

"Aren't you going to notify the police?"

"I don't know what to do. It does seem rather classy to be robbed of jewelry, and yet I hate to have people think that I'd ever miss a little thing like a necklace."—Washington Star.

Exclusive.

"Where do the Hottentots live, Mary?" a schoolteacher asked one of her pupils.

"I don't know, 'm," said Mary primly. "Ma won't let me visit any of the people in this neghborhood."

The Exceptions.

"Binks has a fine new apartment."

"Everything stationary in it, I suppose."

"Absolutely everything—except his wife and the cook."—Harper's Bazar.

Cynical.

Sillicus—Do you think it is possible for one woman to make another woman perfectly happy? Cynicus—Oh, yes, simply by envying her.—Philadelphia Record.

You cannot dream yourself into a character; you must hammer and forge yourself one.—Thomas Carlyle.

A Culinary Capture

The Sequel to Nanon's Birthday Banquet.

By VIRGINIA TYLER HUDSON.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

Though women were few, and single women fewer, in the construction camps along the keys, it must be admitted that the coming of Nanon O'Higgins caused scarcely a flutter in the busy camp life.

When old Jim O'Higgins carelessly remarked that he would not eat at the camp table, as he had his daughter with him and would take his share from the commissary to his shack, it was the cue of Anjer Regan and Peter Ingraham and Frenchy Despard to stroll casually over toward the O'Higgins shack at the close of the first day's work. It was not because of a lack of welcome that they went no more—at least for some time.

"Not much for looks, sure," was the pronunciamento of Anjer Regan as they went back to the bunk boat down at the edge of the scraggly coral beach. "Her eyes gave me the creeps too. Looks as if she had a regular grouch at the world."

"Mos' probably," put in Frenchy, "she have—not with ze worl', but with ze old O'Higgins, who have name her Nanon. Parblieu! Such a name for such a femme! Youth and beauty, certissement, it means, and when you see her, pouf! It vaneesh!"

One day Ingraham was stretched on the white sands when O'Higgins came upon him.

"We want you and some of the boys to come up to the shack for dinner tonight, Mr. Ingraham," said the old man hesitatingly. "This is my little girl's birthday, and I thought"—

Ingraham hesitated.

"Oh, why not?" he thought. "This once won't hurt me. The old chap's fond of the girl, I suppose, too, and he hates to see her neglected." So he answered as he rose, yawning: "All right, O'Higgins, we'll be on deck."

All three of the men knew what it was to dine well. In the city Ingraham was known as such an epicure that it was a standing joke with his friends that he would starve down on the keys on the construction camp commissary. Like all true Frenchmen, Despard, too, knew the value of things culinary. But each was compelled to admit that never, even in the best clubs and restaurants, had they sat down to a daintier feast than that provided in the little Florida shack. And that, too, on the necessarily limited fare.

"Mais oui!" exclaimed the delighted Frenchman as together they strolled toward the beach. "Such soup! Such an entree! Such sauce bernaise! It would appear that we have underrated the Mlle. Nanon! Never have I had such a salad of cocoanuts. It was beautiful—enough to make Oscar turn the envious green!"

"At last he has been smitten with the charms of Nanon," solemnly murmured Anjer. "The little god has got busy and hit him in the stomach. But surely he don't expect to be without a rival. I, too, monsieur, have these many years been in search of a good cook."

Ingraham looked at his companions scornfully.

"Little beasts!" he muttered.

"I weesh to inform you," said Frenchy Despard one night, after a longer visit than usual, when he and Nanon had gone for a walk along the coral beach, "zat I have ze honaire to be betrothed to Mlle. Nanon O'Higgins." He bowed low.

"Well, you turned the trick on us, all right, Frenchy," said the somewhat discomfited Anjer. "May I hope to have an occasional invitation to eat at your house? I can't say but what, on the whole, I'm just as well satisfied. We'll at least have the cook in the family, so to speak."

Ingraham looked up with a frown. For the first time the girl's side of this occurred to him. She was to be sacrificed! But, with a shrug as if he would efface the thing, although the girl's dark eyes haunted him, he turned to his book.

Two days later Despard came in from the construction camp early. He was intrusted by the superintendent with a message for O'Higgins to prepare for a visit from one of the board of directors whose yacht had been sighted. He went, therefore, at once across the beach to the shack in the palm trees. With the freedom of the accepted lover he turned the corner of the house toward the little kitchen.

"She will be preparing for me the grand dinner," he said to himself unctuously and leaned across the sill of the window through which he could hear the rattle of pots and pans. The sight that met his eyes made his jaw drop and stilled the greeting on his lips. More quietly than he had come the man withdrew and slunk across the beach to the bunk boat.

Only an idling darky boy was in sight when Despard reached the waiting motorboat, into which he hurriedly climbed, carrying a suit case and three notes he had written.

"Here, you," he called as he started the motor, "deliver these notes as soon as this boat is out of sight!" Out in the channel he turned in the opposite direction from Knight's key and headed for Miami. The negro boy waited until a little promontory hid the boat from view and the chug-chug of the motor could no longer be heard and started on a dogtrot with the missives, which were addressed to old O'Higgins, Nanon and Ingraham.

When the men came in later Ingraham hurried to the O'Higgins shack. Old O'Higgins, more bent and forlorn than ever, sat in the little doorway softly weeping.

"Despard?" queried the superintendent. "Has he been here? I sent him"—

"He was here—yes," answered the old man bitterly. "And has gone away, but if I live long enough to find him he will answer for this insult to my little girl"—

"Insult?" cried Ingraham, astonished. "Who—Despard? Has Nanon"—

"Read these!" said O'Higgins, handing him Frenchy Despard's notes. He took the opened one of O'Higgins first.

"You have deceived me grossly," it started, without introduction. "You have tried to foist your ugly daughter on me under false pretenses, and I rebel. I have gone away—so far that you will never be able to find me to marry your daughter that cannot cook."

Bewildered, the man opened the other note.

"Dear M. Ingraham," it read, "I am forced to the flight, ignominious. Mlle. Nanon, my fiancee, I find is no cook at all. On arriving at her home unannounced today I saw her father preparing those so elegant dishes we have thought she made. Of course I cannot marry her, but fear they will try to force this so unpleasant state on me. Your motorboat I return from Miami."

Uncertain whether to laugh or join the O'Higgins' lament, Ingraham stood staring at the epistles. Then the thought of the girl's sad eyes came to him.

"And Nanon?" he asked somewhat awkwardly.

"Knows, and it will break her proud heart to see you all again. Oh, my poor little girl, to think I brought this on you! And I thought I was doing it for your good!" The old man's sobs broke out afresh.

"Did she love this Despard so much, then?" queried Ingraham.

"No, no!" was the hasty answer. "Lately I've come to think she didn't love him at all, but was doing it to please me. She knew I wanted her to marry a Frenchman and thought this was her only chance. You know, my poor Nanon isn't exactly what might be called beautiful," he broke off deprecatingly.

Ingraham's face broadened in a suppressed smile, but the father went on.

"I have a confession to make to you, Mr. Ingraham," he said, "something you should have known before, but Nanon said I mustn't tell. The reason goes back a long time. Once I had everything I wanted, and then it wouldn't have been necessary for me to do what I have to get a husband for Nanon. You boys maybe thought we didn't know what brought you here so much, but we did. It was the cooking. Nanon knew, but she only laughed and let me have my way. Always she only had it in her mind to let me have my way and please me. But, to go back, after my wife died things went wrong, and I lost all I had. I had never been taught to work, so could do little, and there came a time when we didn't know where to get our next meal. Then came this chance down here. Nanon told me to accept it. 'But I can't keep accounts,' I told her. 'Never mind,' said she; 'we'll fix that so they'll never know.' And she did. On account of my lameness I got permission to work here in the shack. Now, don't you see? She did the work, while I kept the house and cooked.

"Cooking was the only thing I could do, you see, but I can cook. French cooking has always been my hobby, and I learned from some of the best experts alive. Well, I began to think Nanon ought to get married, for I wanted some little children about in my old age. She never attracted men, though, if they knew how beautiful her heart and mind are. Instead of looking at the face I would not have had to plan a scheme for getting attention for her. I thought if a man really got to know her it wouldn't matter about the means. But I've failed, you see," he finished, "and that's all. I've disgraced my child, and we'll have to start all over again somewhere else."

"Where is the girl?" asked Ingraham soberly. O'Higgins nodded at the pines.

Seated on a dead tree trunk he found the girl, her somber eyes gazing out through the vista of pine trees into the patch of opal sea beyond.

"Nanon," he said, offering his hand, "I've come to see if there isn't something I can say—something I can do"—

"What is there to be said?" she answered, ruefully smiling. "Only—only please don't say you'll bring him back."

"Then you don't love—didn't love"—

"I love my father," she said simply. "And he wanted me to marry."

As the man looked down into the deep eyes that told so much of self sacrifice and love, that would have made her even sacrifice her life to give an old man passing happiness, the slow dawn of a comprehension broke over him, a comprehension of what it meant to know a woman who knew only one law—the law of devotion. He had never been a man of impulse, but as Ingraham gazed at her the one that came to him was heeded.

"There are other men to marry, Nanon," he said, looking her squarely in the eyes. The girl winced a bit, but laughingly replied:

"It cannot be that you, too, are looking for a cook?"

"I'm looking for a woman," he said, "and I think I've found her. I won't ask you to answer me now," he went on hurriedly. "I have only found myself that I love you, and the sensation is so wonderful that I, too, must have time to think of it. But you will think of me a little, won't you?"

The girl put out her hand as a glad light flitted in the somber eyes through their wondering.

"I think I've always done that," she said.

Some Laughs With Harry Lauder

MOST people in this country have enjoyed Harry Lauder's songs through the phonograph only, and it will be good news to many to learn that the famous Scotch comedian is now to tour America from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Many of the smaller towns will be visited on this tour, and he is to make quite a stay in the United States. People who speak of Lauder's phenomenal success tell of the time when he used to hang around the music hall and try to get a hearing from some one of the officials. He displayed a dogged perseverance, and day after day, in spite of "jeers and sneers and tears and fears," as he says in one of his songs, the Scotch comedian was on hand.

Finally his opportunity came. Some one dropped out of the bill at the last moment, and, tearing his hair, the stage manager inquired for "the danged Scotchman" who was always hanging round and talking so that no one could understand a word of his vile brogue.

Lauder was rushed on the stage, and the staff waited fearfully for the ten minutes of riot that would ensue. The ten minutes passed, but Lauder did not. He stayed on and on and on. In vain he was motioned to and sworn at from the wings. The gallery was with him, and the house, and after three-quarters of an hour of tumultuous applause Lauder came into his own.

As all who have ever seen him can testify, Lauder is only a little man—small in any company, but particularly diminutive when contrasted with the average Scotchman. When surrounded by highland pipers at a reception just before leaving for this country he looked like a small boy, and the gigantic Sandys looked down upon him with kindly, patronizing smiles.

HARRY LAUDER.

"I canna eemagine, Harry," said one of the big fellows, "hoo ye came to be a Scotchman. Ye must ha' been stunted-like by leeving sae lang in England Mon, mon, but ye wad make a gey show tossing the caber!"

"Dinna ye fash yersel' aboot that," laughed Lauder. "Canna toss the caber, na doot; but, Sawney, mon, try me at tossing the highball, and ye shall see that I am weel versit in ane Scottish sport, hoocever."

One of Lauder's friends, about to be married, gave a last bachelor dinner to the "boys," and the Scotch comedian appeared with a parrot in a cage, with this presentation speech: "Here, Jaime it's a rare scheecher. I bred it myself When you an' the wife hae a row it'l yell like the devil and keep the neebors frae hearin'."

Lauder, when asked if he had had any amusing experiences on the vessel coming over to America, told this story:

"One night I emerged from my cabin on to the deck feeling just a trifle under the weather and thought it would be a discreet thing to take a quiet walk. I was leaning over the rail when along stalked a worthy from the smoking room, and he certainly was 'fou th' noo'—in fact, he was very 'fou,' and he was feeling his way along the deck. He came up to me with a bump, as the rolling sea made the ship lurch, and whispered in my ear, with an apologetic tone for asking such a favor, 'I shay—I beg your pardon, old chap, but could you get me a hansom?'"

The comedian was born in Portobello, Scotland, in 1870 and as a child worked in a flax mill. For ten years after he worked in a coal mine and still treasures the implements of his craft.

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY

Mothers who value their own comfort and the welfare of their children should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children, for use throughout the season. They break up Colds, Cure Feverishness, Constipation, Teething Disorders, Headache and Stomach Troubles. THESE POWDERS NEVER FAIL. Sold by all Drug Stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. A trial package will be sent FREE to any mother who will address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Red Cross Stamps

CUT FLOWERS

Funeral Designs
Decorations of All Kinds
William Patterson,
Central Avenue, Wollaston
Telephone 392-1 Quincy.
Nov. 27 tf

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.

L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the froning board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.
Dec 7 1m

Administratrix Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administratrix of the estate of late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased intestate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

ANN SAMPSON,

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

MABEL G. SAMPSON, Adm.
(Address) 2 Wharf St., Quincy, Mass.
Nov. 12, 1909. 3t--9-16--20

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John Masson of Quincy to Mabel E. Adams, Trustee under the will of Joseph Adams, late of said Quincy, dated the 11th day of November, 1899, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 858, Page 9, for the purpose of foreclosing said mortgage for breach of condition thereof, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, at Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, on SATURDAY, the first day of January, 1910, at two o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular, the premises described in said mortgage as follows:—

"A certain parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situated in said Quincy, being lot numbered "One" on plan of land in Quincy, made by Alexander Wadsworth, Surveyor, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Vol. 257, Page 187; said lot contains by estimation 20,055 square feet and is bounded and described as follows, to wit:—

Westerly by Franklin Street, One Hundred and Ten (110) feet;

Northerly by land now or formerly of J. Crane, One Hundred and Eighty-nine (189) feet;

Easterly by land formerly of Charles Francis Adams, One Hundred and Eight and one-half (108-1-2) feet; and

Southerly by land formerly of said Adams, One Hundred and Ninety-three (193) feet;

Be any or all said measurements more or less, or however otherwise bounded, measured or described.

The Southwesterly corner of said lot is distant Northerly One Hundred (100) feet from a street Forty feet wide, laid out over land of said Adams, measuring on the line of said Franklin Street."

Said sale is to be subject to a first mortgage dated November 11th, 1899, given to George L. Baxter, and to all taxes and other liens outstanding.

Terms: $100 to be paid at time and place of sale.

EZEKIEL C. SARGENT,
Assignee of said mortgagee.
Quincy, December 8th, 1909.
3t-Dec. 9-16-23.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

The Battle

By

Cleveland Moffett

Copyright, 1909, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Novelized by the Author From His Great Play of the Same Name

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER XVIII.

MORAN FINDS HIS MAN.

THE young man started violently. His father!

This, then, was the mystery of his parentage, which Gentle had known so long. But Margaret—how did she know?

But, then, was it true? Neither Gentle nor Haggleton had volunteered to affirm the statement. A doubt came to him. "My name is Philip Ames, is it not?" he asked Gentle.

The old diver answered, "Your name is Philip Haggleton."

So it was true. Suddenly he began to see clear. Much that had puzzled him was explained, though as much again remained obscure.

"So that's why you are leaving me, Margaret?" he asked. "That's why you will not marry me?"

He was in love, deeply in love. He did not stop to realize what he gained; he only appreciated what he would lose! Margaret would not marry him!

He turned to his father.

"What reason had you," he asked sternly, "for not telling me that I am your son?"

"Because, Philip, I wanted you to know me as a man before you knew me as a father."

Margaret interposed.

"Was that your only reason, Mr. Haggleton?" she asked severely. "Didn't something happen in your first talk with Mr. Gentle?"

Philip, anxious to probe to the bottom of this mystery, acted upon her suggestion.

"Did something happen, Gentle?" he asked.

"Yes, Philip, something happened."

"Some wrong has been done, and Mr. Gentle knows it," persisted Margaret.

"Whatever wrong there was," said the old diver impressively, "will be atoned for nobly. Your father, Philip, will put aside $10,000,000 for a splendid campaign against poverty."

"So that's how he managed you, Mr. Gentle!" cried Margaret, tears of defeat in her eyes.

"One moment," cried Haggleton in that crisp, penetrating voice of his, which commanded attention.

"Philip," he went on, "you have said that you did not want to judge any man. Now listen well. Can you understand a man doing something under sudden temptation that he regrets afterward?"

"Yes, I can."

"Can you understand that there might be some one whom this man loved very much who would suffer pain—needless pain—if told what he had done? Can you understand that?"

"Yes," said Philip once more, glancing at Margaret, "I can."

"That's not the case," interrupted the girl. "This is it: Your mother deprived you of your name and birthright. That was a monstrous crime unless she had justification. You can understand that?"

"You are right, Miss Lawrence," admitted Gentle, suddenly convinced.

"For his mother's sake," he continued, turning to Haggleton, "I'm sorry, but—here, Philip."

He drew from his pocket the incriminating document in its envelope and handed it to the young man.

"Is this something I ought to read?" he asked of his old friend.

"In my opinion, no. That's why I have kept it from you. But if you insist"—

"I don't insist."

Haggleton was waiting, watching breathlessly.

Philip made a movement as if to return the envelope to Gentle, who refused to take it with a gesture.

"Think of your mother, Philip," implored Margaret.

Haggleton saw on the young man's face that he had won.

"My mother is dead," said Philip softly. "I have a right to think a little of my father."

"Philip!"

"You know I love you, Margaret," his son went on, with wistful tenderness. "Whatever you do, wherever you go, I shall always love you—always. I love Gentle too. He has been a father to me. I trust him. He knows the secret of this paper; you don't. He can judge, and," with a sudden rush of appeal, "let me do my duty, dear, as I feel it. I must."

He went over to the stove, threw the envelope and its secret into the glowing coals.

The flames died down, leaving an oblong of black ashes, curling at the corners, rapidly turning to a whitish gray.

"I have tried to save you, Philip," she said sadly, "and I have failed. I am going."

"Do not go yet, Miss Lawrence," Haggleton was saying. "You started this trouble; now you will see it through."

"It is all very well to burn that statement," he went on with great deliberation, "but you cannot burn the memory of it, Philip. It would always come between you and me—always. I am going to tell you what was in that paper. It was an order I wrote over my own signature that an opposition oil refinery should be destroyed."

"Heavens!" Philip exclaimed. "A crime! Ah, that is why my mother left you!"

He buried his face in his hands and moved toward Margaret at the closed door.

"We were desperate," went on the father. "Our whole business future depended on our getting control of the field. We had to remove that opposition. We tried to buy them out. We made them generous offers, but that stubborn fool Lawrence"—

Margaret rushed forward.

"Stop!" she cried. "You are speaking of my father."

"I beg your pardon," said Haggleton simply.

The words of his beloved had torn down the last veil that hung between Philip's eyes and the secret. His mother—the crime—Margaret! Ah, yes, retribution and the sins of the fathers!

He staggered a little, groping blindly for support.

"Her father," he moaned, "and I am this man's son."

Haggleton decided swiftly.

"There is no use making this out worse than it is," he said coldly. "I am sorry for what I did. I will do whatever you think is right in the matter."

"Whatever I think is right?" asked Philip in surprise. He thought a moment deeply, then asked:

"How much were you worth when you committed this crime—a million—half a million?"

"Possibly. But what is your idea in asking me that?"

"I thought," replied Philip reflectively, "that we might consider some part of your fortune as honestly earned and give back the rest."

"To whom?"

"To those who earned it—the people."

"Have you any idea how rich I am?"

"You are to keep half a million. The rest you will give back."

"Do you think that I will do such a crazy thing?" shouted Haggleton.

Philip remained unmoved.

"I am not setting myself up as your judge, but I can dispose of my life and decide about my conduct. And I tell you that I will not be known as the consenting son of a man whose riches have come from a crime. You can keep all your fortune; you need not give back a penny of it, but you cannot have me under the same roof with you!"

"I thought you a son to be proud of!" Haggleton shouted. "I worked hard to gain your confidence and affection, but you are a prig and a fool! I came down here and lived with you. I was ready to learn from you, and all that you have taught me is that you are just as ignorant and selfish as all reformers!"

The millionaire turned to Margaret.

"If you were not selfish," he said, with ominous calm, "you would follow that boy through anything—through weakness, through wickedness. The worse the father the closer you would stick to the son."

He paused a moment.

"But you are a reformer," he went on, with infinite scorn. "He is tempted by money, and you clear your skirts of him as my wife did of me. He can go to the devil if he likes. Heavens, girl, if that's the way saints love give me sinners!"

"Don't speak to her like that!" commanded Philip.

"No? Very well, then. I will speak to you. You have had the greatest opportunity a roolish dreamer ever wasted. Go tell your starving tenement friends that John J. Haggleton offered them $10,000,000, and you refused it for them!"

He looked around the room, took up his hat and concluded, with a dry laugh in his throat:

"And this is the end of the experiment!"

Moran, half drunk, insane with rage and grief, rushed in, dragging behind him his daughter in her cheap finery, terrified and looking ghastly under the paint on her cheeks.

"Now, then," he thundered, "you wait! I found her in that Tenderloin dive. There is more of your devil's work, Jackson!"

"You're crazy!"

"Who made me crazy?" bellowed Moran. "John J. Haggleton did! He ruined my little business in the west; he killed my wife in this foul tenement of his! By the eternal, if I had him here I—I would show him."

Haggleton turned upon him.

"Well, show me," he challenged. "I am Haggleton!"

Moran's hand dived with lightning quickness into his pocket.

"Father! Look out! Oh!" The warning cries came from Jenny, from Philip, from Margaret, but before Gentle, who stood nearest the half insane man, could grasp him the pistol flashed, was leveled and—

"Philip! My son!" cried Haggleton, for the young man had flung himself before his father and received the bullet in his chest.

"My son!" cried Haggleton again, catching him in his arms and lowering him to the ground. The old diver, Jenny and Margaret crowded around the father on his knees over the prostrate form of his son.

Haggleton looked up at them.

"This is your gratitude," he said pathetically to Gentle. "He risked his life for me!" There was triumph in the voice that addressed Margaret.

"Philip! My son!" cried Haggleton.

And, rising, he exulted:

"I told you that nothing could keep us apart. It is the call of the blood! Now he is mine, mine! I am going to take him home!"

His voice broke as he added:

"My boy! My boy! My little boy!"

He stooped down and kissed the forehead of his unconscious child.

(To be Continued.)

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

A Cheerful Letter.

The following was sent by a country man to his son in college not many years ago:

My Dear Son—I write to send you two pair of old breeches, that you may have a new coat made of them; also some new socks, which your mother knit by cutting down some of mine. Your mother sends you $10 without my knowledge, and for fear you will not spend it wisely I have kept back half and only send five. Your mother and I are well, except your sister Annie has got the measles, which we think would spread among other girls if Tom had not had them before, and he is the only one left. I hope you are well and will do honor to my teachings. If you do not you are an ass, and your mother and myself are your affectionate parents

—Nantucket Inquirer and Mirror.

A Nice Bird.

"Do you like a nice bird?" asked the host as they sat down to the table.

"Oh, yes!" responded the guest immediately and enthusiastically.

"You ought to call on my sister," explained the other. "She's got one of the finest canaries you ever saw. Well what kind of a sandwich do you think you can eat?"—London Telegraph.

An Arbitrary Classification.

"So you think every patriot has a more or less clearly defined ambition to hold public office?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "As a rule, patriots may be divided into two classes—the appointed and the disappointed."—Washington Star.

The Usual Thing.

"What's the proper thing at a wedding?"

"Wish the pair happiness and tell everybody else there's no earthly chance for it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

There is a paradox in pride—it makes some men ridiculous, but prevents others from becoming so.—Colton.

A Puzzle.

Bacon—There's one thing I can't understand. Egbert—What is that? Bacon—When a couple get married they become one. But they say it takes two to make a quarrel.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Christmas Presents

For reasons of sentiment and economy it is often preferable to fashion Christmas presents for brothers at home. A few suggestions are given for articles that combine the three qualities of attractiveness, usefulness and inexpensiveness.

There are lots of brothers who own phonographs who will be happy Christmas morning if they find that some member of the family has made them a holder for phonograph disks. This album is made slightly larger than a square that would box a disk. Its pages are of heavy cardboard, and around each page is folded a sheet of heavy paper with a circular opening in the center of each fold. This provides a pocket on each side of the page in which a record disk can be kept, its name visible through a circular opening. If the disks are kept in the album in alphabetical order and the pages indexed the finding of any record desired is a matter of seconds, and the risk of breakage is eliminated.

PHONOGRAPH ALBUM.

Soldier Suit For Small Boys.

Boys from six to twelve years of age always love to play at soldiering, so why not make one of them a sure enough rough rider suit in which to indulge his warlike proclivities? There are patterns on the market that make such a suit a simple garment to manufacture. The material used is khaki, with brown trimmings. The suit consists of jacket and regulation long trousers. The jacket has a number of pockets with pointed overlaps. The same pattern trimmed with red and yellow cotton strips cut up into fringe could easily be transformed into an Indian suit, and with a feathered headdress the costume would be complete.

Something Clever In Penknives.

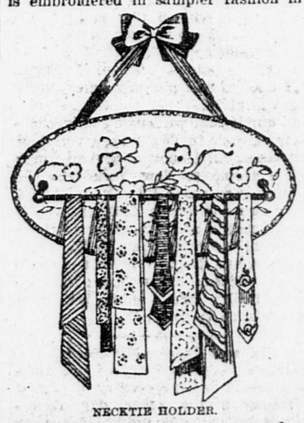
The question of a really attractive gift for a man is solved to some extent by a novelty in the way of a penknife.

The new idea is a silver knife of the finest quality, with an emblem worked out in colored French enamels inserted in the case.



The insignia of his college society or his crest is attractively wrought in colors, making the little keepsake something quite out of the usual run. Girls who are adept at making arts and crafts jewelry would find no difficulty in working the emblems into the silver penknife.

A Novelty In Leather.

One of the new leather triple cases for bills and all manner of memoranda would be a fine Christmas present. The top case holds a thin, shallow watch which has a white surface and black lettering. It is large and distinct and is readily seen and so thin that it does not make a bulge in the case.

Necktie Holder.

Necktie holders are not new things in the way of gifts, but they have the advantage of being useful and always acceptable. Two or three such affairs are not too many for the collection of ties the college boy or up to date man has among his numerous belongings. The newest necktie holder that has been brought out for Christmas is oval in shape and about a foot or more in length. It is made of a stout piece of cardboard, which may be purchased already cut in the shops or cut by the maker of the offering, as desired. This oval is covered with a piece of grayish heavy crash which is embroidered in sampler fashion in odd old time colorings. The wooden frame from which the ties are hung is also to be bought and is fastened through the cardboard and held in place with carpenter's nuts. To make the gift more personal the monogram of the recipient may be embroidered on the crash.

NECKTIE HOLDER.

GIRLS WHO SLOUCH.

A Little Lecture Aimed at Those Whom It Will Hit.

It is not an elegant expression nor is it a pleasant subject to contemplate, but it is a fact that among all the bad habits and disagreeable mannerisms which are practiced by womankind, and especially by young women, that of slouching is probably the most inexcusable.

It is an insidious fault. Most of those who have fallen victims to the habit are not at all aware of it. So oblivious are they to the fact that it is frequently a delicate matter to call their attention to it without exciting their resentment.

Slouching, of course, results from negligence. It becomes in time a lack of self control.

If taken in the beginning a trifling exercise of energy will be sufficient to overcome it. Although it may seem to you to be only a trifling matter, it does not appear that way to others. They will not be slow to criticise you severely, and perhaps it will lead to further unpleasant results, even loss of valued friendship.

It is really a matter of so much importance that it behooves every girl to pause. Try to see yourself as others see you. If you are able to convince yourself that you are perfectly free from the habit, you are to be congratulated. If a self examination reveals to you the fact that you are a victim, begin at once to apply the remedy. You may be your own physician, and there need be no uncertainty as to the cure.

Remember, my dear, you may have a charming face, an angelic disposition, the most brilliant wit, the most decided talent, but all your charm will be in vain if your carriage and gait are so faulty as to be the subject of remark.

The habit of letting the shoulders droop and the back stoop may have been acquired by rapid growth or by overzealous study, but whatever the cause it should be remedied as quickly as possible. Let the arms hang freely at the sides. Don't fold your hands while walking or standing, and train yourself to walk with free, long strides instead of hopping or waddling, as so many women do. Don't neglect while walking to see to it that the poise of your head is correct—well held back instead of being thrown forward in advance of your body.

It has been charged against the American woman that she does not stand well. She seems to find it difficult to plant her feet firmly on terra firma and is disposed to let the weight of her body fall on one extremity. This gives her a distorted bodily appearance, as if she were not symmetrical. Perhaps this is the most slouchy attitude a woman can assume. It breaks up all the graceful lines of her figure and converts her into a shapeless nondescript.

INCORRECT STANDING POSITION.

As in all else, the secret of success in battling with this habit lies in a determined will to be victorious, paying no heed to the little irritating discouragements which are certain to occur when one is in earnest about personal reform of any kind.

ALICE PLYMPTON.

Rich Girls Must Cook.

Wealthy mothers in Chicago have organized a club for the purpose of training their daughters how to cook. Some of the things which the daughters will be required to learn are the following: How to broil a chuck steak with bacon in order to get the delicious flavor found in more expensive steaks; how to bake salt rising and potato bread and the best methods of keeping it moist; how to stuff and roast a piece of pork with sweet potatoes and save half the gas; how to arrange a week's meals in order to use all of the leftovers without too great duplication; how to bake beans in order to get the maximum of food value and flavor out of them; how to make "indigestionless" mince pie that is different from the New England variety; also to make the mince pies so delicious that husbands will prefer them to lobster. Pupils will also be taught to know that the rich pastries and custards and rich dressings for meats, especially fowls, must never be prepared, or if prepared they must never be served. Instructions are to be given on stated days during the winter.

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m

STORAGE
— FOR —
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

NEW UPRIGHT PIANO
Now in storage at my home.
PRICE LOW.
Apply to
WM. WILSON, Pianist and Tuner,
President's Avenue, South Quincy
Tel. 137-2. Oct. 18-tf

HOUSE LOTS
FOR SALE
Elm and Dysart Streets.
Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
| c *5 14 | abcdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | ihgfedcba | 6 16 r |
| c 6 13 | abc | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | 6 45 r |
| c 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| c 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| c 7 21 | adef | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| c 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp. | 10 00 |
| c 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| c 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| c 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| c 8 4 | abcd | 9 06 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| c 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp. | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| c 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| c 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| c 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 00 |
| c 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| c 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| c 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | cdcba | 5 11 r |
| c 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | deba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| c 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| c 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | ihgfedcba | 6 15 r |
| c 5 29 | abcdefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| c 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| c 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedcba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedcba | 8 38 r |
| c 8 05 | abcdef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| c 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| c 10 09 | abcdef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedcba | 11 04 r |
| c 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| c 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 24 | ihgfedcba | 6 52 r |
| c 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| c 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | ihgfedcba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | ihgfedcba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | ihgfedcba | 2 45 r |
| c 11 16 | abcdefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| c 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | ihgfedcba | 3 45 r |
| c 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| c 4 16 | abcdefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| c 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | ihgfedcba | 6 45 r |
| c 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | ihgfedcba | 8 53 r |
| c 7 08 | abcdefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| c 8 08 | abcdefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | ihgfedcba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| c 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.15, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46. A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.21, 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."
Quincy Daily Ledger

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m

STORAGE
— FOR —
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

NEW UPRIGHT PIANO
Now in storage at my home.
PRICE LOW.
Apply to
WM. WILSON, Pianist and Tuner,
President's Avenue, South Quincy
Tel. 137-2. Oct. 18-tf

HOUSE LOTS
FOR SALE
Elm and Dysart Streets.
Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

Have Your Clothes Washed by the
NEW SYSTEM
WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.
Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.
Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS
TWO TRIPS DAILY
Furniture and Piano Moving
Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

PATENTS
promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references. Widewake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell patents. What inventions will pay. How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.
D. SWIFT & CO.
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Satuadays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.
THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

H. L. Kincaide & Co.—Book Cases Wanted

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 43 degrees |
| Dec. 16, 1908 | 44 degrees |
| Dec. 16, 1907, | 40 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

There will be another dance at Alpha hall on Saturday evening.

Peter Kerr of Hall place, a well known member of the Bryant A. C., was taken sick on Wednesday.

William A. Bradford who is at the Quincy Hospital is reported to be resting comfortably from an operation for appendicitis.

L. M. White is the janitor of the new Alpha hall block on Cottage avenue. He was for twelve years superintendent of the Pope building in Boston.

There was a baptismal service at 18 Bay View street on Wednesday evening when the Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood assisted by Deacon Bonney baptised Robert Herbert, child of Charles C. and Kate Foster. A quartet of young people furnished music and refreshments were served.

The Y. M. C. A. Employed Boys held their regular monthly meeting and supper Wednesday evening in the assembly hall at the Y. M. C. A. There was a full attendance of members. Nothing special was arranged but all enjoyed a good supper and a fine time.

Harry Hopkins of Hall place will leave Friday for Wisconsin; much to the regret of his many friends. He will be employed as an engineer. Mr. Hopkins has been in the employ of the Swingle Granite Co. for many years under his father, who was boss and will have the same foreman when he reaches his designation.

No, those ash barrels in front of the Ledger office are not very ornamental, but they are patiently waiting to be dumped by the city. They have been out three days and all efforts to have the city do its share have failed so far, although two weeks' endeavor has been put forth by telephone and otherwise, to have the city teams call.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The Ledger desires to inform the merchants of Quincy that they now have an AD MAN who will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better this year than ever before. If you want help in writing up your advertisements, the kind that will bring speedy returns, phone our office, Quincy 425 and our man will call. This applies to all advertisers whether your ads are now appearing in the Ledger or not.

GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUB. CO.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire through the press to express our sincere indebtedness to our friends, neighbors and relatives for their help and sympathy during the sickness and after the death of our mother and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Jones. We also wish to thank all those who sent the profusion of beautiful floral offerings.

Miss Mercy B. Jones
Miss Sarah Fletcher.

Quincy, Dec. 16, 1909 1t 18-1w

CARD OF THANKS.

We the undersigned desire to express our appreciation of the many kindnesses and expressions of sympathy extended to us by words and floral tributes during our recent bereavement.

G. WILLIAM JONES
JOHN PETERSON AND FAMILY.

Dec. 16 1t

MARRIAGES.

FRYBERG—JONES—In Quincy, Dec. 15, by Rev. E. N. Hardy, Mr. Charles O. Fryberg to Miss Laura Jones, both of Quincy.

DEATHS.

FIELD—In Wollaston, Dec. 14, Charles Henry, son of Edgar H. and Elizabeth Field, age 2 months, 12 days.

WHITE—In West Quincy, Dec. 16, Mr. James A. White beloved husband of Annie White, of the granite firm of James N. White & Son, aged 45 years.
Funeral from late residence, Miller street, West Quincy, Saturday Dec. 18, at 9 30. Requiem of High Mass at St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. Relative and friends invited. Member, Quincy Council, K. of C., No. 96, Quincy Lodge 943 B. P. O. E., and St. Francis Court 25, M. C. O. F. 2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

GOLDEN MAY LIVE

But His Injuries Are of Very Serious Nature

Hugh Golden, who was severely injured Wednesday noon at the quarry of T. F. Mannix, when a six-ton block of granite fell upon him, passed as comfortable a night at the City Hospital as could be expected, although he had not fully recovered from the surgical operation. Besides having his left leg broken, he sustained a dislocated ankle and had several ribs fractured, besides being cut and bruised about the scalp.

It cannot be told at present whether he was injured internally. If not, he may recover, although his injuries were of such a serious nature that it will be a long time before he is about again.

The block of granite when it fell, hit him in such a way that he was pinned beneath it, and it was some minutes before the workmen who rushed to his assistance, could remove it. He was put into a boat and taken to the top of the quarry, where he was attended by Dr. Ash, who ordered his immediate removal to the City Hospital, where he was operated upon.

WHIST AND GRIDLE CAKES.

Nine tables participated in the whist tournament at the Granite City Club Wednesday night, and some remarkably good scores were made. There were several who secured over 60 per cent, but it remained for T. G. Smith to secure the top score. In the 25 hands played he won 47 points and lost but 10, which gave him 82.4 per cent. George T. Magee was second with 37 won and 17 loss which gave him 68.4 per cent. After the play Henry P. Furnald served the players with hot gridle cakes and maple syrup and they kept him busy for nearly two hours. The evening was one of the most successful whist nights of any held this winter.

THE HARDY A. A.

The Hardy A. A. of West Quincy held a smoker in their rooms Wednesday evening. Archie Shannon danced a buck and wing. Singing and refreshments were enjoyed. Mr. McLaughlin and Paul Mulligan gave a boxing exhibition for those present who are interested in the art of self defense. The good time ended with a short speech from Charles Lyons.

NEW BASKET BALL TEAM.

The St. Mary's 2nd basket ball team elected Edward Bennett as their captain and manager for the coming season at a meeting Wednesday evening, and will open the season at their hall the first Saturday in January with the Bryant A. C. The players picked are: Peter Duggan R. F.; Raymond Morrill, L. F.; Frank Canavan, centre; Edward Bennett, L. B.; James Collins and Charles Hebert, R. B.

WYOMING LAUNCHED.

The six-masted schooner Wyoming was successfully launched at Bath on Wednesday. The vessel is of wood, with a gross tonnage of 3,700, or 22 tons more than the William L. Douglas built of steel at Quincy. The Wyoming cost $190,000.

—Whether you do your Christmas shopping in town or out of town do it now. Stores will soon be crowded and your tempers and the clerks' tempers will then be in a mood easily susceptible to the utterance of harsh words. Today will soon be yesterday, tomorrow will soon be today, and if you put off your trading until tomorrow you will find yourself greatly inconvenienced.—Mansfield News.

DO YOUR Christmas Shopping NOW
and do it in
QUINCY.

Red Cross Stamps
On Christmas Letters
Carry Good Cheer

HUESTON'S CHALLENGE.

Pool Champion Wants Three Cushion and 18.1 Billiard Titles.

Tommy Hueston, the world's champion pool player, is now hotfoot after the three cushion billiard title and 18.1 balk line honors. Hueston is willing to play any man in the world for $1,000 a side, each style of game to be played three successive evenings, the three cushion billiard game to consist of 150 points and the 18.1 balk line to be of 400 points. This challenge, while open to the world, is especially pointed to De Oro, holder of the world's title at the cushion.

TOMMY HUESTON, POOL CHAMPION OF THE WORLD.

Hueston is unquestionably one of the best cue artists the game has ever produced. He has defeated such men as De Oro, Keogh, Clearwater, Sherman, Weston and all the cracks who have held the pool championship. He also bears the distinction of having held both the pool and three cushion billiard championships at the same time. He lost both titles within two months, but recently won the pool title back from Johnny Kling.

Hueston is a spectacular player and makes the long, hard shots which always please the gallery. He had defeated Kling twice before the latter held the pool honors. The first time they met was about eight years ago, and Hueston was just breaking into the spot light. He won this match. About a year and a half ago, while he had the title, Kling challenged, and Tommy successfully defended.

WESTERN GOLFERS TO FIGHT

Will Go to a Finish With Eastern Division In Annual Meeting.

Official announcement has been made by President Charles F. Thompson of the Western Golf association that a special committee had been named to draft amendments to the constitution for submission to the annual meeting Jan. 15 in Chicago. The appointment of this committee is the forerunner of a possible "fight to the finish" between the Western Golf association and the United States Golf association.

The amendments, if adopted, will include in the territorial jurisdiction of the Western Golf association the entire western hemisphere from Alaska to the Argentine Republic. The committee consists of the incoming president, Horace F. Smith of Nashville, Tenn.; former President Albert R. Gates of Chicago and Director W. L. Yule of Kenosha, Wis.

Dickinson Elects Felton as Captain.

Dickinson's football wearers of the "D" elected as their captain for the coming year John L. Felton of Everett, Pa., who played left tackle during the past season. Captain Felton's experience consists of two years on Conway Hall's speedy eleven and two at Dickinson college. He was unanimously selected after the grueling Easton game against Lafayette.

FUTURE SPORT EVENTS

The Fitzsimmons-Lang glove fight for the championship of Australia will take place at Sydney on Dec. 27.

The tenth annual indoor track meet of Columbia university will be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, March 12.

Winter yacht races are to be held by the South Coast Yacht club of New Orleans. They will be sailed every two weeks.

The Toronto Driving club will put up $1,500 for trotters and pacers to race for at the ice meeting to be held there on Dec. 23 and 29 and Jan. 1.

Louis W. Winans of Brighton, England, will race some of his harness horses in the United States next season, including Allen Winter and Silko.

Two of the leading Canadian socker football teams will visit Philadelphia and many of the larger cities of the United States and play the leading teams of these cities and also play the big university teams. The trip will be made during the Christmas holidays.

SCHEME TO MAKE INVALIDS HAPPY

Good Cheer Club Plans a Twenty-eight Story Home.

TO BE ERECTED IN NEW YORK.

Idea Came to the Club's President When She Lay Friendless In a Chicago Hospital—Society Organized by Twelve Girls Has Grown to Great Proportions.

A dozen young girls on the upper west side of New York city banded themselves together last September and incorporated a tiny club, which they called the "Society of Good Cheer." Their avowed object was simply the "cheering up"—nonfinancially—of the convalescent sick. Today, only three months after incorporation, they have branches in almost every prominent city in America. They have entered the tuberculosis campaign and the field of children's charities, and they have already ordered plans for a twenty-eight story skyscraper, to be erected in the very near future on the island of Manhattan and to be called the "House of Good Cheer."

What have they done, and how did they do it? Their president, Miss Thecra Carter, who has headquarters at 131 West Seventy-fourth street, New York, explained the matter.

"It all started simply," she began. "Last year I was ill in Chicago. My home is in Seattle, Wash., and I was all alone when I was taken sick. For weeks and weeks I lay in the hospital utterly uncheered in any way by any one. It was the most horrible experience of my life. And I realized that hosts of other girls and men and children, even, are suffering that way all the time. And I thought it was time something was done.

Primarily a Time Charity.

"I wished from the start to make my movement truly national, so I knew I must begin it in New York. My people were glad to have me do it, though it meant going so far away from them. So I just came on here to New York and got in touch with a few old friends and made a few new ones—and we began.

"From the first I made it clear that we were primarily a time charity, not a money one. We planned at first simply to give so much of our time each week to visiting the convalescent and friendless sick. We had no treasury at all to begin with. It was just understood that if you individually wanted to buy a bunch of violets for the person you were cheering up you had a right to do so. But as a club we didn't commit ourselves financially at all.

"We were only young girls, you see—not millionaires. But then—people began to be so generous.

Use of Clubhouse Offered.

"Two automobile firms contributed a machine apiece to take our sick friends riding. A gentleman on Long Island gave us the use of a beautiful clubhouse and estate of eighty acres, with stables and all buildings entirely at our disposal. Another man offered us $1,500 to buy some very desirable land in Texas for a consumptives' home. We are negotiating for the purchase of that now, and next spring we intend to erect a tent city there for recoverable tuberculosis patients. Those who can will pay us what they can, but we intend to help those who are deserving without money and without price.

"It was in talking to Mr. Wheeler, the chaplain at St. Luke's chapel, New York, where we've done a great deal of our visiting, that I first voiced my idea for our most wonderful plan of all—the Good Cheer building for convalescents. The architects of the building have already nearly completed the plans. The building will be twenty-eight stories in height, and the lot of ground on which it will stand must be at least 75 by 100 feet. The cost will probably go into the millions, for we have determined to build somewhere in the borough of Manhattan.

Will House 3,000.

"We should be able to house at least 2,500 or 3,000 people at once. We are not going to have wards. We don't want a hospital. Each guest must have his own separate room. Then we shall have a general assembly room, where famous doctors may come and lecture to us and our patients on hygiene. We shall have an entertainment room with a tiny stage. We shall have offices and rooms for some of our members. We shall have a perfectly appointed kitchen, of course, and doctors and nurses in attendance day and night.

"I admit that we haven't as yet collected all our funds for the erection of our home, but I know of several worth while people in New York who are getting very much interested. And I have an uncle, Henry Calhoun, who is a millionaire, and I'm going to make a special trip to St. John, N. B., where he lives, and do my very best to rouse his enthusiasm. Oh, we'll get what we want finally, and I don't believe it will take so very long."

Tailored Saddles For Steeds.

General Crozier, chief of ordnance, in a report to the secretary of war at Washington the other day recommends tailor made saddles for army horses. General Crozier observes that, while horses' backs differ, all saddles are alike. He believes that the horse could be made more comfortable and useful if a saddle were fitted to him.

HINGHAM HARBOR.

A Washington dispatch in the Boston Advertiser says the Army engineers have reported to congress that Hingham harbor is unworthy of any further large improvement, but they recommend that the unexpended balance still available for the improvement of the harbor be expended in re-dredging the channel and extending it to the wharves in the upper harbor at a mean depth of eight feet above low water.

THE COCHATO CLUB.

There were a large number of spectators at the club Monday afternoon to witness the match game in bottle pins, between a picked team of lady bowlers from the Cochato club and the Allston Golf club. The Allstons won with a gain of 98 pins. We were sorry to have the Allstons carry away the honors, but the Cochatos rolled well, and especially Mrs. Andrews with the highest single string of 190, as this is exceptionally high rolling.

After the bowling a very dainty lunch was served and great credit should be given the committee in charge who were as follows: Mrs. George E. Williams, Mrs. C. Frank White, Mrs. Laura Morrill, Mrs. Harry Hall and Mrs. Herbert Curtis all daintily clad in white. The scores:

COCHATO.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Mrs. Wilder | 118 | 124 | 112 | 354 |
| Mrs. Andrews | 128 | 190 | 121 | 439 |
| Mrs. Norton | 166 | 135 | 126 | 427 |
| Mrs. Bird | 93 | 98 | 78 | 269 |
| Mrs. Higgins | 116 | 102 | 90 | 308 |
| | 621 | 649 | 527 | 1797 |

ALLSTON.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Miss Rogers | 142 | 144 | 138 | 424 |
| Mrs. Sellers | 126 | 128 | 102 | 356 |
| Mrs. Ashley | 125 | 166 | 132 | 423 |
| Mrs. Jones | 114 | 118 | 107 | 339 |
| Mrs. Taylor | 113 | 124 | 116 | 353 |
| | 620 | 680 | 595 | 1895 |

There were over sixty people attended the informal dance given at the club Saturday evening between eight and nine o'clock and all thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

A woman recently engaged to a widower asked his son, a little fellow of seven years:—

"How would you like me for your stepmother?"

"First rate as far as I am concerned," he replied. "You will have to speak to pa about it, though."—Illustrated Bits.

THE TELEPHONE AT CHRISTMAS

THERE is no need for you to be worn out by holiday preparations if you make good use of your telephone.

The Bell telephone companies have found that just before Christmas the number of daily connections is the highest for the year. The telephone has become a necessity of the holiday season, because without it most people would not have time to do what they have planned.

Christmas cheer extends beyond the city limits, and the universal Bell System helps to carry it throughout the land.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
Every Bell Telephone is the Center of the System

Dec. 15 1

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers, cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all thletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—On 11.20 train from Boston Saturday evening, a suit case marked T. B. L. No questions asked and large reward if return to 195 Goffe street, Quincy, Mass.
L Dec. 14-6t O 18-1w

FOUND

FOUND—A Ladder. Address L, Ledger Office, Quincy Dec. 15-3t

FOR SALE

For Sale WOLLASTON

On FORBES' (THIRD) HILL

House Lot, 10,875 feet. Good location, grand view, moderate price. Near neighbors. Save money by buying now. Price advanced in spring if unsold then. Address Box 42 Wollaston. Dec. 15-2t-p—18-1w

FOR SALE—Automobile cheap in fine shape. Make an offer this week or else you lose a bargain. Will demonstrate any night after 6. Apply CARL BERGLUND 10 Washington street Quincy. Dec. 14 3t

FOR SALE—New house 7 rooms and bath at "Fairview," East Braintree, near shipyard. 10,000 feet land high and dry, select neighborhood, very easy terms, small payment down balance as rent, bargain Leave Weymouth Landing cars at Hayward street. H. F. McINTIRE, 1433 Hancock street, Quincy. Nov. 17 tf

MAKE YOUR PURCHASES FROM LEDGER ADVERTISERS. BE SURE TO READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN TODAY'S LEDGER

WANTED.

WANTED—Places to care for furnaces, ashes, etc. Apply to J. M. LYNCH, 121 Phipps street. Dec. 16-7t

WANTED—Trustworthy and Capable Man would like to add to his present employment the care of one or two furnaces about Quincy Center. Address PAUL MADISON, 26 West street, Quincy. Dec. 15-2t

TO LET.

TO LET—A New Tenement of five rooms second floor; with bath, hot and cold water, range, furnace heat, gas and set tubs. Beautiful pine grove in back, on Glendale road. Ready for occupancy. Apply at 188 Glendale road. Quincy, Dec. 10-6t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec. 10-12t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 64 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-1f

TO LET—Half house 7 rooms and bath $15 and half house 5 rooms and bath $16 at "Fairview" East Braintree near shipyard. New house, large rooms, hard wood floors, screens and storm windows, stove heat. Leave Weymouth Landing cars at Hayward street. H. F. McINTIRE, 1433 Hancock street, Quincy. Nov. 17 tf

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-tf

TO LET

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x2 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x43 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

TELEPHONE CODE HOURS 9 to 12 1 to 5
DR. A. B. PACKARD
HARVARD '00
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY MASS.

HOUSES

Will Not Remain

VACANT

If Advertised.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 283 QUINCY, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 17, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

We Help Young Folks To Furnish Their Homes.

We go upon the principle that if we do what's right we're going to get our just reward. If we treat young married couples right,—help them all we can in furnishing their homes and in being satisfied with a small margin of profit we're going to add so many more to our long list of loyal store friends. The result is we furnish nine out of ten new homes in this locality. If you are about to be married we can help you. We can save you money in the furnishing of the home. Even if you are not quite ready—come in and talk it over with us.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

New England's Lowest Priced Home Furnishers

1495 Hancock st., Quincy. Open Monday, Friday and Saturday Evenings

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

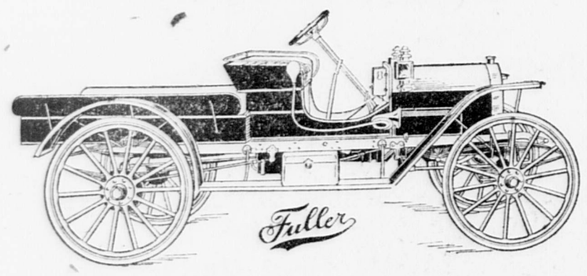
You Can Get Good Coal

You Can Get Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.

It's your business and right to investigate.



SEARCHLIGHT US!

'Phone 238-3 238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.

Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

A GOOD CAR.

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO

Shipbuilding as Early as 1696 Active 50 Years Ago

At the suggestion of members of the Quincy Historical Society, the Daily Ledger has started the publication of local historical papers which will relate to industrial, social, civic, ecclesiastical, military, biographical and other phases of Quincy of years ago. The Historical Editor invites the corporation of members of the Historical Society and citizens generally. He would like to publish at least one historical paper a week, and would prefer original articles of 600 to 800 words. At the same time the editor will endeavor to answer all queries concerning Quincy of the past which may be asked.

Historical Paper No. 1.

Many who have taken up their residence in Quincy are under the impression that shipbuilding in this city dates from the establishment of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company less than ten years ago, but before the days of the steel ships, 30 to 60 years ago, many fast wooden ships were built at Quincy Point. In Pattee's History of Quincy is the following chapter on shipbuilding:

Shipbuilding was first carried on in Quincy at Ship cove, Knight's Neck, now called Quincy Neck. The first vessel we find that was built there was the Unity, in 1696, and was constructed for the fishing trade, as most of the ketches were at that period. From that time to 1880 vessels at stated and various periods have been built in this neighborhood, but the greater amount of tonnage has been constructed at Quincy Point. The most noted master ship builders, who have been engaged in this business here, were Mr. Daniel Briggs, Mr. John Souther, James Brothers, Mr. Josselyn, Mr. Peleg F. Jones and Deacon Thomas.

The most noted and largest ship built at this early date, in Massachusetts, was constructed at Germantown. Mr. Eli Hayden was the contractor, and Capt. Wm. Hackett, of Amesbury, was the draughtsman. The master builder was Mr. Daniel Briggs, of the noted Briggs family who were largely engaged in ship building. This family originated in Pembroke, Plymouth county. Daniel and his five brothers were employed in the construction of the old Massachusetts. The building of so large a ship was quite an undertaking at this time, and so great was the novelty, that when the time came for her departure from her blockings and ways, hundreds of people came here from adjacent towns to see her launched. She dipped gracefully into her mother element, amid the exultant congratulations of the assembled multitiude in September, 1789, and the bottle smasher christened her by the name of Massachusetts.

The dimensions of this ship were as follows, viz:—Length of keel, 116 feet; length of beam, 36 feet, 10 inches; lower hold, 13 feet, 6 inches; depth of lower deck, 5 feet, 10 inches; gun deck to upper, 6 feet, 6 inches; gunwale, 1 foot, 6 inches; length of foremast, 81 feet, and 27 inches in diameter; mainmast, 84 feet, and 28 inches in diameter; mizenmast, 70 feet, and 20 inches in diameter; foretopmast, 48 feet, and 15 1-2 inches in diameter; maintopmast, 50 feet, and 15 1-2 inches in diameter; mizentopmast, 36 feet, and 12 inches in diameter; fore yard, 68 feet; main yard, 74 feet; mizen yard, 62 feet; spritsail yard, 50 feet; foretopsail yard, 48 feet; maintopsail yard, 50 feet; mizentopsail yard, 37 feet; cross-jack yard, 50 feet.

The Massachusetts was built for Shaw & Randall, expressly for the Canton trade, and was pierced or arranged for thirty-six guns, but only carried an armament of twenty-six-pounders and other musketry.

Sailors were at that time largely possessed of and influenced by superstitious notions, and Moll Pitchen of Lynn, a noted fortune teller, so played on their credulity that three crews were shipped before one could be procured to sail in her; as she had prophesied that all who should embark in her would bring up in Davy Jones' locker. This sort of a voyage the credulous seamen desired to steer clear of hence the trouble of getting a crew to man her.

The great benefit of ventilating ships' holds on long voyages, in this early time of navigation, was not so well known by shipmasters as it has been since. The hatches of the Massachusetts were caulked down and not opened until her arrival at Canton. On opening them, to their surprise, the air was found so impregnated with poisonous gas, that a lighted lamp, on being lowered into the hold, was immediately extinguished, and the four or five hundred barrels of beef stored there was found to be nearly boiled and ready for consumption. This voyage of the Massachusetts not being financially successful, she was sold to the Danish East India Company, at Canton for $65,000, and Mr. Delano, her second officer, relates that he "hauled down her colors, for the Danes to raise theirs."

Jobe Prince, Esq., was commander of the Massachusetts on her first voyage, with the following officers and crew:—Four mates, one purser, one surgeon, three midshipmen, five carpenters, three boatswains, one gunner, two stewards, one cooper, four quartermasters, one servant of the owner, two cooks and forty-two seamen making a total of seventy besides the captain.

While in the port of Canton she was visited by the naval officers of England, France and Holland, and by them much admired for her naval architecture. This account of the old Massachusetts is compiled from Capt. Amasa Delano's voyages.

Mr. John Souther came to Quincy in 1815, and commenced shipbuilding. He established his yard at what is called Souther's wharf on Town river bay, where he for years successfully carried on business. The next shipwright of any note was Mr. Nathan Josselyn, who had learned his trade of Mr. Souther. Mr. Josselyn's yard was located a short distance above the Point bridge. Mr. Peleg F. Jones also carried on the business of ship building at the Point. Small crafts were occasionally built in this locality until Mr. Thomas, of Rockland, Maine, came to the Point and began the construction of vessels there in 1854.

During the twenty-four years Mr. Thomas was engaged in the shipwright business at the Point, he built nineteen fine large ships, some of which have not been surpassed in making rapid voyages; he has also constructed one brig and six schooners. Their tonnage ranged from two hundred and twenty-five to two thousand two hundred, making in the aggregate about thirty-five thousand tons.

The following are the names of the vessels built at Quincy Point by Deacon Thomas:—

Ships—King Philip, Shakespeare, Magdalen, Athena, Gerbain, Logan, Upton, E. H. Taylor, Maritana, Dexter C. Lulin, Mauran, Geo. Griswold, Belle Creole, Imperial, Northern Light, Triumphant, America and Red Cloud.

Brig—J. L. Bowen.

Schooners,—D. H. Bills, J. L. Newton, Nellie Brown, Addie Walton, Angie Amesbury, Lucy D. and Montana.

In 1877, Mr. Thomas, at the ripe old age of eighty-two, modeled and built a ship of twenty-two hundred tons, which is a remarkable instance of vitality and energy, considering the age of this gentleman. Mr. Thomas' yard was located on Granite wharf.

Mr. John Souther was born at Hingham, Sept. 13, 1781, and received his education at the Derby Academy of that town. After leaving school he commenced an apprenticeship with his father at the shipwright trade. On becoming of age he was admitted as partner with his father in the ship building business, in 1807, where he remained until 1815, when he came to Quincy and established business for himself. Mr. Souther was a careful and successful business man; so much so was this the case, that the town selected him as one of the selectmen and assessors for nine years; representative to the Legislature five years; school committee two years; and he served on many prominent committees in town affairs. On retiring from business, he removed to Boston and there pleasantly enjoyed the remaining portion of his days. Mr. Souther's death occurred March 28, 1878 at the age of 96 years, 6 months and 15 days, and was buried at Hingham. He was married to Lydia Nichols Lincoln, of Hingham, Jan. 20, 1805, who died in Quincy, July 19, 1856, aged 73.

BARRE TO ARBITRATE

Will Proceed Under Making for Peace Plan

Arbitration is probable in the granite industry of Vermont, as the Granite Manufacturers' association, through its representative in the national association, has offered to leave the whole matter of the Northfield labor trouble to the national executives of the manufacturers and union to arbitrate under the "making for peace plan" adopted by manufacturers and unions some four or five years ago says the Globe.

The matter has been referred to the Northfield branch, and if that body accepts the suggestion the whole matter will go there for settlement. This refers to the Northfield situation only, but if the trouble is adjusted there the men at Barre and Montpelier will return to work.

Contrary to general expectations the opening of the sheds of G. R. Bianchi & Co. at Montpelier Wednesday did not set an example that was contagious. It was rumored that several sheds were to open in Barre, but the Bianchi shed in Montpelier and the sheds of the Union granite company of Waterbury are the only ones doing business with anything but apprentices.

BIG SHIPMENT OF GRANITE

Over 7,400 Tons in Month of November

The shipment of rough and finished granite from the two railroad terminals for the month of November shows a total output of 14,977,687 pounds, which was practically the same amount as forwarded during the previous month. Of the grand total 9,454,005 pounds were forwarded from West Quincy, and 5,523,682 pounds from Quincy Adams. At the present time the shipments are largely of rough stock, as there has been an increasing demand for Quincy stock all over the country. There was a time when nothing would do but Quincy. Then the producers became a little lax and other granites began to be used. Dealers and customers are tiring of these other granites, however, and are coming back to their first love. With modern machinery and increased facilities Quincy is better able today than she ever was to enter into the markets of the world with her natural product. All it requires is a spirit of hustle to be instilled into the quarry owners to see a great increase in the demand for Quincy granite, both for building as well as monumental purposes.

MAY SEND FOR BALLOTS.

The Galvin-O'Connell contested election case was considered briefly by the house committee on elections number 1 on Thursday says the Washington correspondent of the Globe. The contentions of both sides were discussed and some members expressed the opinion that the case was a very hard one to decide.

The commitee will go over the evidence between now and Jan. 6, when it will meet again to decide whether the contestd ballots shall be sent for from Boston for examination. Should it be thought necessary for the committee to examine these ballots a resolution providing for their transfer to Washington will be presented in the house. It is believed that this course will be followed, since it is the opinion of members that a fine point of law and right is involved. After the ballots are examined the committee will give hearings to the contestants.

RAILROAD FARES DISCUSSED AT WEST QUINCY MEETING

A Lower Single Fare to Boston Wanted by the Improvement Association

A largely attended and very enthusiastic meeting of the West Quincy Improvement association was held Thursday evening. President Stephen B. Little presided, and there was a general discussion on some of the needs of the city, particularly West Quincy.

One of the matters that came in for quite a general discussion was that of railroad fares between West Quincy and Boston. Under the present arrangement a holder of a 25-ride book may use it on either the main of Granite branch line, but a holder of a twelve-ride book from West Quincy to Boston cannot use it between Quincy and Boston. One of the reasons advanced for this was that the 25-ride book was voluntary while the 12-ride book was created by an act of the legislature. The gentlemen present looked upon this condition in the nature of discrimination.

Another act which was characterized as one of discrimination, was the fact that people who could not afford to purchase a 25 or a 12-ride book had to pay 15 cents for a single fare or nearly sixty percent more than the more fortunate individual who could buy a 25 or 12-ride book. No definite action was taken on this question, however, but it was voted to invite the senator and representatives from Quincy to attend the next meeting of the association, to be held Thursday evening, Dec. 30, at which time this matter will be taken up with them, to see of some act of the legislature cannot be passed to equalize the railroad fares.

The question of a new depot for West Quincy was discussed again, it being pointed out that for twenty or more years the residents had put up with the present structure, and it was time that a new depot was built.

The speakers did not forget to again speak of the extension of the street railway line from its terminus at East Milton over Granite avenue to connect with the Adams street line of the Elevated, also the building of a loop line through Beale street to Wollaston.

New industries for West Quincy were touched upon, the desire being to get new industries that employment may be had for the young men and girls near home. Plenty of available land can be had for manufacturing buildings and good railroad facilities.

Twenty-eight new members were enrolled at this meeting, swelling the membership to over 75 active members. With such a membership and all working harmoniously much can be accomplished for this section of the city.

REBEKAH WORK.

The degree team of the George L. Gill Rebekah lodge initiated two candidates Thursday evening in the presence of about a hundred members. Frank Flowers as director of the degree team, and Noble Grand Mrs. Charles Barron, received numerous congratulations because of the fine work of the team. Two prominent visitors were present Miss Grace Mitchell, P. M. G., of Weymouth, president of the Rebekah assembly and Miss Lydia G. Wurst, P. M. G., and district deputy grand master.

POULTRY SHOW.

The premium list has been issued for the next annual poultry show in Boston, which will be the fourteenth annual exhibition of the Boston Poultry Association. It will open in Mechanics building Tuesday, Jan.11, and continue until Saturday evening of that week. Entries will close on Dec. 27, at the offices of the association 30 Broad street. Efforts have been made each year to surpass the previous exhibition. This rule has been followed with respect to the next event, and indications now are that it will be the biggest show ever held here.

The honorary patrons of the 1910 show are: Gov. Draper, Gen. Appleton, Walter C. Baylies, Charles M. Bryant, Oliver Ames C. Minot Weld, A. R. Sharp. The officers are: President, George B. Inches; vice president, John Lowell; secretary and manager, W. B. Atherton.

NOTICE

Quincy Lodge, No. 943, B. P. O. E.

The funeral of BRO. JAMES A. WHITE will be held from his late residence, 25 Miller street, Saturday, Dec. 18, at 9.30 o'clock. Brothers are respectfully requested to attend.

WILLIAM J. COLEMAN, E. R.
EDMUND W. COURTNEY, Sec.
Quincy, Dec, 17 1t

WE HAVE SOME

fine hind-quarters of Lamb, also fresh Eastern Pork, which would go well for Sunday's dinner.

Everything to go with them.

| | |
|---|---|
| Hind-quarters Spring Lamb | lb. 15c |
| Fresh Eastern Pork | lb. 15c |
| 10 lbs. Sweet Potatoes | 25c |
| Best White Potatoes | pk. 22c |
| Fancy Cranberries | 3 qts. 25c |

Ivory White Flour holds its popularity on account of high quality.

PROMPT ATTENTION TO Telephone Orders No. 367-3

R. E. FOY & CO
COR WATER AND QUINCY STS.
QUINCY ADAMS

Only One Cent

Means Help for the

Tuberculosis Camp

Plants for Christmas

Azaleas, Cyclamens

FERNS, FERN DISHES

In Great Variety

William Patterson,

Central Avenue, Wollaston

Telephone 392-1 Quincy.

Dec. 17 tf

YOUR APPOINTMENT

is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.

THIS DENTAL OFFICE IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.

Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.

YOU RISK NOTHING HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.

Our charges are never high.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.

DENTIST

37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.

Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Dec. 15 to-2w

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

"The Angel of Labrador."

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell Is a Famous Missionary.

It is not given to many living men to be called an "angel." That term has been applied many times to Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, who is known to readers of English in all parts of the world as "the angel of Labrador." Dr. Grenfell, who has won fame as a medical missionary in the bleak and little known Canadian territory, was married recently to a Chicago girl. She will share in the work in which Dr. Grenfell has been engaged since 1892.

BRIEFS

Fair and colder.

Next Wednesday will be Forefathers' day.

The local stores will probably be open nearly every night next week for late Christmas shoppers.

The Meadow Brook Ice Co., is building a large new dam at their ice pond.

At the Granite street alleys this evening a team of Fore River machinists will bowl a Cohasset team.

Mrs. Harvey Robinson of Cincinnati Ohio, is the guest of Mrs. G. Hillman Eggleton of Upland road for a few days.

Colonial hall was the scene Thursday evening of a very pretty party, when the Fore River draughtsmen held the first of a series of winter dancing parties, there being about twenty-five couple present. Charles Laing was floor director and F. J. Ruch acted as his assistant. Under their direction the dance proved most successful in every way.

RING UP THE FARES.

Two more conductors in the employ of the Old Colony Street Railway Co. have been placed under arrest on a charge of larceny of fares from the company. They are Andrew Owen of Fall River and Leslie C. Greenleaf of Brockton.

CHRISTENING PARTY.

A houseful of neighbors and friends gathered Wednesday evening at the home of John and Annie Hynes, Broadway, to see their son, Alfred John, christened by the Rev. A. R. Atwood pastor of the Washington Street church. Deacon Bonney assisted in the service. "Jesus Loves Me" and "When He Cometh" were sung by Selma Thayer, Effie Waddell, Eva Forrest and Jennie Gibb. At the close of the service refreshments were served. Mrs. Robert A. Falconer was appointed God-mother.

☞ Special holiday number of the Ledger next Wednesday.

CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD

Sugar Trust Employes Are Guilty, Says the Prosecution

BLAME PLACED ON CHECKERS

Declared to Have Perjured Themselves to Cover Spitzer, Who Furnished Brains For Fraud Which ontinued For Thirteen Years—Defense Declares That Motive Originated In Wall Street

New York, Dec. 17.—Arguments were in order Thursday at the trial of the six former employes of the American Sugar Refining company on charges of complicity in the sugar-weighing frauds on the Havemeyer and Elder docks in Williamsburg.

Winfred T. Dennison, who is associated with Special Assistant United States Attorney General Stimson in the investigation of the sugar frauds, opened the summing up on behalf of the prosecution with a statement that the government had proved that the accused had taken part in the conspiracy to defraud the government throughout the period covered by the indictment, and moreover that a system of fraud had been in operation for thirteen years, and more especially back to 1901.

Taking up the tabulated statement of sugar weight cargoes prepared by Customs Liquidator Water, Dennison analyzed it, showing that the weights jumped up every time an investigation was being made on the docks.

"If the checkers are not guilty, no one can be guilty. Who is the man who furnished the brains? Who put them there? Who had the shelf constructed to make it more handy to reach the holes?" asked Dennison. "That was Spitzer. He does not deny that the holes were there. He intimates that they may have been made by his enemies. He even says that they may have been made by some of the checkers here, through jealousy—these four miserable men who sit here between Spitzer and the jury, who have gone on the stand and perjured themselves to cover Spitzer, instead of making a clean breast of the whole thing."

Mr. Cochrane entered an exception to this expression and the court ordered it out.

"Bendernagel was the connecting link between 117 Wall street and Spitzer and his gang," said Dennison. "His O. K. was necessary to have the company pay for the sugar. Bendernagel got city weighers' returns, but he knew that there were government weighers, and knew that on the invoice cargoes, the government weights always ran below the invoice weights. Only two small bundles of weights certified by Bendernagel have been produced. It has been shown that all the others had been sent over to the refinery or the warehouse under Bendernagel's charge. It is a fair inference that Bendernagel made away with them because he considered them a proof of his guilty knowledge."

Charles M. Beattie, who appears especially for Bendernagel, the former cashier of the Williamsburg refinery, made the first argument for the defense. He devoted nearly his entire effort to a plea that not Bendernagel, but persons higher up in the main office of the sugar company should have been the objects of the government's attack.

"Where are the men who had the motive?" asked Beattie, "They are in Wall street. It wasn't these poor men at the refinery who originated the practices or who can be charged with responsibility for them. You know as well as I do that the prosecution has not got the right men.

"It is preposterous for the people at 117 Wall street to put it all up to an overworked cashier. Wall street was where the money was paid out both to the government and to the importers of the sugar, and the Wall street office is the place where people knew that the money was being paid to the government on one basis and to the importers on another."

Wholesale Thefts From Freight Cars

New York, Dec. 17.—More than $100,000 worth of goods have been stolen recently from freight cars of the Michigan Central, the Pennsylvania and the Lehigh Valley railroads, according to detectives who appeared against four men charged with being partly responsible for the thefts.

Haytian Revolt Quieted by Simon

Port au Prince, Dec. 17.—President Simon has returned from his trip in the northern part of the republic. He succeeded in appeasing the malcontents at Cape Haitien and effecting a reconciliation between General Gilles and his adversaries.

Reruvian State Tobacco Monopoly

Lima, Dec. 17.—A law has been promulgated establishing a tobacco monopoly for the state.

The Weather

Almanac, Saturday, Dec. 18.
Sun rises—7:08; sets—4:13.
Moon sets—10:25 p. m.
High water—3:15 a. m.; 3:30 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Rain or snow and colder; variable winds, becoming east and possibly brisk.

SENATOR RAINES DEAD

Greatest Fame Came as Father of New York's Liquor Law

Canandaigua, N. Y., Dec. 17.—State Senator John Raines, who has been chief of the Republican forces on the floor of the New York state senate since his election as its president pro tem in 1902, died here, after an illness of several weeks, of intestinal trouble.

SENATOR JOHN RAINES.

John Raines was the son of a Methodist clergyman. He was born in Canandaigua May 6, 1840. He was educated in the public schools and was graduated from the law school of the Albany university in 1861. He served successively as assemblyman, senator, congressman and again as senator. He was perhaps best known as the author of the state liquor tax law.

In 1861 he raised a company of volunteers and was commissioned captain of Company G of the Eighty-Fifth regiment of New York volunteers. He served in the Army of the Potomac until July, 1863, when he resumed the practice of law.

RAVAGES BY DEER

It May Result In a Short Open Season In the Bay State

Boston, Dec. 17.—As a result of the many claims presented to the state treasurer this year on account of damage done by deer, a strenuous effort will be made in the next legislature to have an open season adopted, for a part of the fall, at least.

This year the amount paid out of the state treasury for deer damages is $7,923.09, with probably a large number of claims still to come in, and this in spite of the law passed two years ago permitting farmers to kill deer discovered in the act of injuring crops or trees.

Most of the claims this year come from the western counties, although the town of Salisbury has presented eighteen for small abounts.

ZELAYA IS FORCED FROM PRESIDENCY

Tenders His Resignation to Nicaraguan Congress

Managua, Dec. 17.—Jose Santos Zelaya has resigned from the presidency of Nicaragua. He placed his resignation in the hands of congress Thursday.

Apparently there was no other course for him to take. The people were at last aroused. The guns of the revolutionists threatened. The warships of the United States lay in Nicaraguan ports.

Managua has been seething for days. The spirit of revolt has spread even to the gates of the palace. Zelaya surrendered himself with an armed guard.

Who will take up the reins no one knows or cares. It is sufficient that Zelaya as dictator will be known no more.

Jose Madriz, judge of the Central American court of justice at Cartago, who has been close to Zelaya and is now his choice for president, is on his way here.

IN "NO MAN'S" TERIRTORY

Bill Allowing Operation of Coal Lands Reported to the Senate

Washington, Dec. 17.—Senator Lodge, for the committee on foreign relations, reported an amendment to the Straus act, extending its provisions to apply to "no man's" territory containing "coal, phosphates or other minerals."

The immediate purpose of the amendment is to protect the rights of Frederick Ayer, John M. Longyear and other Massachusetts capitalists to operate coal mines on the Spitzbergen islands.

Indiana Option Law Stands

Indianapolis, Dec. 17.—The supreme court of Indiana held constitutional the county option election law, enacted in 1908, under which sixty-five of the ninety-two counties of Indiana have closed their saloons.

Mae Wood Out on Bail

New York, Dec. 17.—Mae C. Wood, charged with perjury and forgery in connection with a suit for divorce, which she brought against Thomas C. Platt, was released from the Tombs under $1000 bail.

WRECK OF THE GOVERNOR AMES

Famous Five-Masted Schooner Goes to Pieces In Gale

FOURTEEN LIVES ARE LOST

Sole Survivor, Picked Up Day After Disaster, Tells of Desperate Fights For Life—Life Preservers Too Rotten to Float—Captain's Wife Was Crushed to Death by a Falling Spar as Schooner Breaks Up

Charleston, Dec. 17.—Telling a thrilling story of the wreck of the five-masted schooner Governor Ames, in which the captain, A. M. King of Everett, Mass., his wife and twelve men were drowned, Josiah Spearing, the sole survivor, was brought here on the steamer Shawmut.

The Governor Ames, bound from Brunswick, Ga., to New York, with a large cargo of railroad ties, grounded and went to pieces off Wimble Shoals, twenty-five miles north of Cape Hatteras, Monday.

Spearing was picked up Tuesday by Captain Swenson of the Shawmut, from the wreckage where he lay. He was badly injured and is still unable to walk.

Spearing says that in the forenoon of last Monday, in a high wind and heavy, foggy sea, the Governor Ames struck rocks and broke aft. The sea came in on the quarter deck and the sailors lashed the captain's wife to the spanker rig. The men then got the life preservers, but when they tried to use these they fell to pieces.

The captain's wife was almost frozen and blankets were brought for her. The men who went for them had hardly gotten on deck before the stern broke in two and the cabin filled with water. About 2 o'clock the boat went to pieces completely.

The woman had been changed from place to place, but at length a falling mast crushed her to death, killing one of the men at the same time.

Spearing climbed up on a mast and found there another seaman with his fingers cut off. "Hold me!" cried the latter, and Spearing attempted to do so, when a heavy sea dashed them both into the water. Spearing grabbed some floating ties and hung on all night until picked up by the Shawmut the next morning.

The catastrophe occurred about five miles from shore, but the water was too rough to make rafts available, all efforts to launch them failing.

The Governor Ames was the first and for a long time the only vessel of her type on the coast. She was built at Waldoboro, Me., in 1888 and cost $75,000.

MADE WIFE SUPPORT HIM

Man Convicted of "White Slavery" Receives the Maximum Sentence

Providence, Dec. 17.—The first step in the wiping out of the white slave traffic in this city was taken when a man who for four years had made his own wife, now but 18 years old, a veritable "white slave" in every sense of the word, was sent to the state work house for one year. The police brought such a web of evidence against him that he presented no defense whatever.

The case was that of James Pisco, 21 years old. Four years ago Pisco married a girl of 14 years of age, so Captain Matthews told Judge Gorham. Almost as soon as the couple became settled in their home, it was said in court, Pisco compelled his wife to support him.

The recitation of the story shocked the court, and there was no hesitancy in pronouncing the maximum sentence under the charge brought.

CREATE DRUG HABIT

Dr. Wiley Sees Menace to Children In Some Soda Concoctions

Washington, Dec. 17.—Delegates to the Reformers' conclave were taken sharply to task for their methods of accomplishing results by Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, who attacked the sale of drugs, especially cocaine, which, he said, was becoming such a menace to the general health that unless its use was better regulated he would advocate that its sale be prohibited entirely, even in medicines.

Caffeine, Wiley continued, was another drug that offered a serious menace to health, especially the health of children, to whom it was served in numerous so-called "harmless" soda fountain drinks. This substance, he declared, did more to create the drug habit in the young than any other.

Senate Agrees to Adjourn

Washington, Dec. 17.—The senate agreed to the house resolution providing for the adjournment of congress from Dec. 21 to Jan. 4 for the Christmas holidays. The senate has adjourned until Monday.

New Mexico's New Governor

Washington, Dec. 17.—The nomination of William J. Mills to be governor of New Mexico was ordered favorably reported by the senate committee on territories.

The Sneeze.

There exists an ancient semi-medical statement which tells us that the sneeze is healthy and should not be suppressed. It is one of those stock sayings which are always uttered by laymen on the vague authority of some traditional doctor whose name is suppressed in favor of the adjective "eminent." It is one of the things about which you mentally pledge yourself to ask your own doctor, but when it comes to the point you never do. Either you do not get the opportunity or if a chance does present itself an inner voice seems to warn you to let it be until some future occasion. To our own mind the odds are that sneezing is a wholesome habit, for it is an unpleasant one. Of course there are people who can sneeze and not look ridiculous, but they are few. Any one caught in the act of trying to suppress a sneeze is a terrible addition to the landscape, and if you want to sneeze and cannot what gargoyle could hold a candle to you? That hideously contorted face, that quivering mouth and that deflected nostril—why, your countenance is something worth building two cathedrals round! It is as though some mad potter were gripping your facial clay and wrenching it this way and that to amuse his frenzied humor. Have you ever heard a succession of half a dozen sneezes? It is an experience that has an extraordinarily irritating effect.—London Globe.

A Spa's Curious Origin.

The discovery of the famous Woodhall spa in Lincolnshire was very curious. Just about a hundred years ago a shaft was sunk in search of coal, but the effort had to be abandoned owing to a rush of water. In time the water found its way into a small brook, and in due course the inhabitants began to speak of the curative powers of the stream. Science investigated the mystery and discovered that the water in the coalless shaft was richly impregnated with various salts and bromine and iodine. Geologists expressed the interesting opinion that ages ago the place was the sandy bed of a shallow lagoon or bay of a tropical sea where seaweeds of giant growth abounded. A mighty convulsion of nature lowered the sea bed, a great river flowed over the place, and in time its debris was formed into a mass of spongy rock or sandstone. Forcing itself through this mass at great pressure some 600 feet below the ground, the water now extracts the constituents of the original seaweed.—London Family Herald.

Olden Tea Table Etiquette.

Tea table etiquette was somewhat complicated in the days of that "hardened and shameless tea drinker," Dr. Johnson, when many people thought nothing of drinking ten or twelve cups at a sitting. It was considered proper for the cups and saucers of a party of tea drinkers to be all passed up to the hostess in one batch when replenishment was considered necessary, and in order that each person might be sure of getting back the right cup the teaspoons were numbered. When the cups were passed up those who did not require any more were supposed to place the spoon in the cup. And this writer remembers a very ancient dame teaching a small boy to place his spoon in his cup after the first cup had been emptied. He wondered for the reason. Now he knows that tea was once very expensive, and little boys were not expected to ask again.—St. James' Gazette.

Private Hospital Guests.

"Hello, old man! Didn't know you were in New York? Where are you stopping?"

"Glad to see you. I'm at a private hospital uptown."

"Private hospital! Why, I'm sorry. What's the trouble?"

"No trouble at all myself. My sister went there for an operation, and I'm staying with her. There are plenty of patients there with relatives or friends. We pay high prices, of course, but the rooms are light, comfortable and clean, and we can order anything on earth we want for meals and get it. Things are served to us as though we were invalids, and there's no kick coming, I'll tell you that. And we can have as much company as we wish for meals at a dollar and a half a head."—New York Press.

His Air Tight Compartment.

The passenger who was crossing the Atlantic for the first time timidly approached the pompous purser.

"Is it true, sir," he said, "that this whole ship is divided into air tight compartments?"

"True as gospel," replied the purser in surprise.

"Then," remarked the passenger gloomily, "I guess I'll have to put up with the one I'm occupying if I can't better myself!"

Suspicious.

The seeing New York automobile was moving through the financial district. "This is Wall street," announced the man with the megaphone. "Keep your hand on your purse, Hiram!" hoarsely whispered a lady from the open country to her husband.

Premonition.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is the meaning of premonition?

Pa—Premonition, my son, is what ails people who are afflicted with the "I told you so" habit.—Chicago News.

The Complaint.

A magistrate looked at a disreputable specimen of manhood in the dock and turned to the policeman. "Officer," he asked, "what is the complaint?"

"Rheumatiz, y'r honor!" exclaimed the prisoner, answering for himself.

THE BATTLESHIP MISSISSIPPI, THE PRIDE OF THE SOUTH.

The Mississippi was launched at the Cramps' shipyard, Philadelphia, Sept. 30, 1905. She and her sister ship, the Idaho, have a displacement of 13,000 tons and a length of 375 feet. The Mississippi has the distinction of being the first modern battleship to navigate the river of the same name. Against the protests of the naval experts she was taken over the bar at the mouth of the river and piloted carefully up to Natchez, whose citizens presented to her a splendid silver dinner service. She is commanded by John C. Fremont, son of "the Pathfinder."

SHAWMUT RUBBERS
NOT MADE BY A TRUST

"SOLD IN QUINCY ONLY BY GRANITE SHOE STORE."

WHEELER'S
Christmas Christmas
See what we offer for Christmas.
All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Belts | Handkerchiefs | Pocket Books |
| Aprons | Stamped Linens | Purses |
| Gloves | Stationery | Bags |
| Xmas Cards | Handkerchief Boxes | Calendars |
| Booklets | Glove Boxes | Needle Books |
| Post Cards | Collar Boxes | Shaving Cases |

We also have a good line of
"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists
Christmas Christmas
CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY
(DRY GOODS STORE.)

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES CLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

Sprague's New River
STEAM COAL
Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined
Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.
J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS
TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 13, | 11.30 | 11.45 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.30 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.15 | 2.30 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.30 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

J. J. Astor on His Yacht.

Picture Taken on the Deck of the Nourmahal.

The Nourmahal, Colonel John Jacob Astor's yacht, reported incorrectly to be missing in the West Indies, is one of the biggest seagoing yachts afloat. Colonel Astor is an enthusiastic yachtsman.

BRIEFS

The afternoons are a minute longer.

Don't fail to get next Wednesday's Ledger.

The Ladies' Aid of the Hall Place M. E. church is to hold a sale Saturday afternoon in Lamb's store.

Several West Quincy people were among those attending the Chapman-Alexander services in Boston, Monday and Tuesday.

Fowler chapter of the Methodist Brotherhood of the Hall Place M. E. church entertain the ladies of the church, Monday evening. Each lady is requested to bring a gentleman friend. Rev. H. W. Hook of the Mattapan M. E. church will be the speaker of the evening his subject being, "Woman." Mr. Hook is well known to West Quincy people and an interesting evening is looked forward to.

PROFESSOR BUSH.

The Belleview correspondent in the Ocala Florida, Weekly Star, says: "The regular meeting of the directors of the Belleview library was held on the 6th. At said meeting Mrs. Ellen F. Bush, president of said library association, presented to the library a framed, life-size photograph of the late Professor Bush, which was accepted by the directors with a vote of thanks, and hung on the library wall. It is a fine picture and quite an addition to the library." Mrs. Bush is a well known Quincy lady who spends her winters in the south.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"
That is LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. Used the World over to Cure a Cold in One Day. 25c

☞ You will not want to miss reading the Ledger of Wednesday, Dec. 22.

Red Cross Stamps

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

"DAY OF RECREATION"

Blue Sundays Will Be Shelved Under Administration of Gaynor

New York, Dec. 17.—During the administration of William J. Gaynor as mayor of New York there will be no "blue" Sundays. No attempts will be made to close Coney Island, to prevent a man from getting a drink, or to stop boys from playing baseball, or athletes and others from engaging in their favorite pastimes.

At a conference that Gaynor hal in his home with Charles S. Whitman, the district attorney-elect of New York county, they mutually agreed on this proposition. They say, however, that the abolition of the "blue" law during the next four years does not mean that flagrant violations of the law will be permitted or that crime is to be winked at.

Gaynor stated that he favors the people spending Sunday as a day of recreation, free from police or governmental restraint, so long as they act peaceably, and that the more recreation and outings they have the better citizens they will be.

ACCUSED OF LARCENY

Lawyer Said to Have Taken Money From Federal Clerk's Office

Boston, Dec. 17.—Accused of larceny from the receipts of the office of the clerk of the United States circuit court, where he was employed as an auditor, Edward F. Hollis, a lawyer, was arraigned before Judge Dodge of the United States district court and his brother gave bail for him in $1000 for his appearance for trial. Hollis was secretly indicted by the federal grand jury.

It is understood that Hollis was caught by Clerk Darling in the act of taking money from the drawer in the office. He was forced to make a clean breast of the affair. It is understood that as much as $30 a day was taken.

When Hollis was accused he was also ordered to leave the office. Darling felt obliged to take the matter before the United States district attorney for action.

ROOSEVELT HUNT TROPHIES

Placed on Private Exhibition For Regents of Smithsonian Institution

Washington, Dec. 17.—Over in the Smithsonian institution there is an expert on sign painting who is learning to spell names of animals that he never found in his grammar school geography. They are to be placed over the collections of Roosevelt trophies which have arrived and were shown yesterday for the first time at a private exhibition to the regents of the institution.

One collection contains almost a dozen skulls of the dik-dik, the little antelope. There was also a large collection of other antelope skulls, hippopotamuses and rhinoceroses and the skulls of giraffes and of wild boars.

CROSSED OCEAN TO COOK FOR MRS. EDDY

One-Legged Woman Detained by Immigration Authorities

Boston, Dec. 17.—There is a woman named Mary B. Ettinger in detention at the immigration station, Long wharf, who is thought to have crossed the Atlantic in the steamship Ivernia to become a cook in the household of Mrs. Eddy, the Christian Science leader. She is detained because she has only one leg.

At a hearing before a special board the board ordered her deportation on the ground that she might become a public charge, owing to her physical deficiency. Mrs. Ettinger said that she was better off than the majority of foreign arrivals, for she had one leg of flesh-and-blood, another of cork that was serviceable, and still a third in her trunk. But the board could see no reason why she should be landed.

NO PLOT AGAINST COOK

Charges Against Explorer Said to Have Been Made For Money

New York, Dec. 17.—Captain Osbon of this city, secretary of the Arctic club, has written Captain Bernier and others that Captain Loose's story of his dealings with Dr. Cook, as published in a New York newspaper, was concocted for sale, without regard for the truth.

"In the presence of witnesses," said Osbon last night, "I heard Loose say: 'I was out for the money, and I didn't care how I got it.'"

Captain Osbon does not believe that Loose's narrative, as supported by his affidavits, was a part of any plot to discredit Cook.

Locker Liquor Raids Illegal

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 17.—The state supreme court finally established what is known as the locker club decision wherein it is held that a person may own and store liquors where he pleases and as much as he pleases if acquired legally. Liquors, the court says, are legitimate property. Application for rehearing was denied.

Baroness as an Actress

London, Dec. 17.—Beerbohm Tree's revival of the Christmas play, "Pinkie and the Fairies," was notable for the successful debut as an actress of Baroness Von Hutten, formerly Betsy Riddle of Pennsylvania, in the role of Aunt Imogen.

SHORT SPELL OF WEAKNESS

Quickly Followed by Death of Leopold, King of Belgium

COLLAPSE WAS UNEXPECTED

Much of the World Was Against Monarch For His Attitude Toward Congo Independent State—Amassed Fabulous Fortune as Result of Ability and Shrewdness—Nature of His Private Life Open to Criticism—Son of His Brother Succeeds to Thone

Brussels, Dec. 17.—King Leopold died at 2:35 this morning, his aged and wasted body being unable to stand the strain put upon it.

The collapse occurred suddenly and at a moment when the doctors seemingly had had the greatest hopes for his recovery.

The public at large was satisfied that the king was on the road to recovery, but within the pavilion, where the king lay, there was a feeling ing of anxiety, chiefly because of Leopold's great age. After a restful day, the patient was able to sleep for a brief time early in the evening, and the night passed quietly. But towards 2 o'clock alarming symptoms appeared.

PRINCE ALBERT OF FLANDERS

Suddenly the king turned and called to Dr. Thiriar and cried that he was suffocating. Dr. Depage was summoned, and the two physicians did everything possible to prolong life, but without avail. The end came quickly, and after a spell of weakness, peacefully. Prince Albert arrived at the deathbed about twenty-five minutes later.

He was accompanied by Princess Clementine. Albert kissed the dead king and left the chamber weeping.

Many Years on Throne

Leopold II, King of the Belgians, son of the late King Leopold I, upon whose death, which occurred Dec. 10, 1865, he succeeded to the throne, was born at Brussels April 9, 1835. His father was the former prince of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and his mother Princess Louise, daughter of King Louise Philippe of France. On Aug. 12, 1853, he married Archduchess Marie Henriette, daughter of Archduke Joseph of Austria. She died Sept. 19, 1902. Three daughters were born of this union, Louise, Stephanie and Clementine. The two elder princesses have been estranged from their father, but Clementine remained in his affections.

While always conspicuous before the public on account of the nature of his private life, particularly in recent years, King Leopold latterly had much of the world against him on account of his attitude toward the Congo Independent state. His greatest interest lay in the development of that country, for he was practically the founder of it and was its ruling sovereign. On Nov. 15, 1908, Belgium formally assumed control of the state, and since then efforts at reform have been inaugurated, but not carried out in an entirely satisfactory manner.

Criticisms against King Leopold in this matter are said to have shattered the buoyant spirits of the sovereign, although it was only in private that he gave expression to these feelings.

Shrewd and Able

King Leopold was regarded as one of the shrewdest and ablest men of the times. He was essentially a man of business, cold, reticent and calculating. He was of particularly independent spirit, and more than once is said to have told other sovereigns who attempted to advise him in connection with his private affairs to mind their own business. For this reason he became estranged from many of the courts of Europe.

Baroness Vaughan, who is said to have been the king's morganatic wife, occupies a chateau close to the pavilion where Leopold died. She is the daughter of parents of the name of Delacroix, who were janitors first at Liege and afterwards in Paris. Her mother is dead and her father is an inmate of an asylum for the insane. She is the mother of two children.

King Leopold spent a great deal of his time with the baroness and gave his ministers much concern on this account. At one time there was talk of abdication, but as months went by his subjects apparently became accustomed to his ways and abdication became a thing of the past. The king leaves a fabulous fortune.

King Leopold's recent illness dated from about two weeks ago, when he was compelled to take to his bed, suffering from rheumatism. His confinement brought about intestinal obstruction, for which an operation was performed on Tuesday, and it was feared then that his age would prevent ultimate recovery.

New King Is Popular

There being no direct hereditary heir the crown of Belgium passes to Prince Albert, the only son of Leopold's brother, the late Philippe, Count of Flanders. The new monarch was born April 8, 1875, and on Oct. 2, 1900, married Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria. They have three children, Prince Leopold, 8 years of age, Prince Charles, 6 years old, and Princess Marie-Jose, 3 years old.

PRINCESS ALBERT.

Prince Albert is one of the most popular members of the reigning house of Belgium. His wife is equally popular, their home life being such as to attract the admiration and love of the people. Prince Albert has traveled extensively, and is a man of affairs. He has been a great student of politics and economics, and has frequently lectured on these subjects in public. To broaden his grasp on the affairs of the world he visited the United States and other countries, always studying, and always adding to his store of knowledge and philosophy.

There is another side to the new king which appeals to the popular fancy. He dearly loves clean and healthy sport. He is an accomplished horseman, enjoys motoring and has taken a flight or two in a dirigible balloon.

In his intercourse with others he is most gracious. His frank, good-natured face bespeaks intelligence and invites confidence. Democratic in his tastes and manners, he is, nevertheless, a man of firm decision and kingly dignity.

PARASITES MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Doing Much Toward Eliminating Moths In New England

Washington, Dec. 17.—No action respecting a gypsy and brown tail moth appropriation will be taken by the committee on agriculture until after the holidays. Secretary Wilson has recommended $300,000, but it is practically certain that the amount will not be increased over that of last year, $250,000. All this money is spent in New England.

The most encouraging feature of the situation is the rapidity with which the natural parasitic enemies of the pests are spreading. The parasites now cover an arear of 500 miles. The areas of infestation are clearly defined in the New England states and the work of extermination is carried on there scientifically.

THROWN DOWN BY HORSE

Boston Boy Awarded $3500 Damages For Injuries Received

Boston, Dec. 17.—The sum of $3500 was awarded Stephen F. Bresnahan, a young boy, in the superior court, for injuries received by being thrown to the sidewalk by a horse owned by Dennis F. O'Connell.

About four years ago Bresnahan was walking along Atlantic avenue and had occasion to pass near a horse which was standing near the curb. He had not more than passed the horse's head when the animal grabbed him by the coat collar and threw him to the sidewalk.

Protocol on Alsop Claim

London, Dec. 17.—American Ambassador Reid and Chilean Minister Gana formally presented to the foreign office the American-Chilean protocol inviting King Edward to arbitrate the Alsop claim dispute. The protocol will be transmitted to the king, who has expressed already his willingness to act.

Widow's Million Exempt From Tax

Chicago, Dec. 17.—It was decided by Judge Rinaker in the county court here that the $1,000,000 paid from the estate of the late Marshall Field to his widow by an ante-nuptial agreement cannot be taxed by the state under the inheritance tax law of Illinois.

Begin with the First Chapter next Monday.

The Fourth Estate

How the power of the press may be wielded in behalf of the people

The story of an editor's sacrifice of love on the altar of principle

A Romance of Newspaperdom

NOVELIZED BY FREDERICK R. TOOMBS
From the Much Talked About Newspaper Play by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford

Realistic, Thrilling, True to the Life of Today

This is the New Serial

Which will be started next Monday in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

"The Fourth Estate"

Presents Pictures of Scenes in Editorial and Composing Rooms of a Newspaper Office which are startlingly true to life . . . .

The Story is a Graphic Pen Picture

Of the Social conditions of the day. It has a real hero in Wheeler Brand, the managing editor, who sacrifices his love for a woman to his sense of duty. . . . . .

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.
Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50
Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2
Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

The figures which the Daily Ledger presented on Thursday relative to increase of houses in the city must convince the most skeptical that a boom has struck Quincy. Four hundred and six houses erected in the city for the year ending May 1, 1909, and over 300 permits issued since that date for new houses, are remarkable figures, which no Massachusetts city smaller than Quincy can equal, and which surpasses many of the larger cities.

But few houses in Quincy are vacant, so that new houses mean an increase in population an increase in voters, an increase in school children, an increase in taxable property, and demands for more water, more sewer extensions, more fire protection, more police more schoolhouses, and everything else.

It is very important that Quincy should have a comprehensive plan for improvement, and that the needs should be promptly anticipated. It is not necessary to plunge further into debt, for the increase in taxable property should permit a larger sum to be raised annually for current expenses, and the new debt should not exceed the large instalment of maturing debt in 1910, something over $100,000 for municipal purposes $40,000 for water, $20,000 for sewers $2,000 for parks, and $3,300 for street improvements on long loan. An effort should be made in prosperous times to reduce the debt and the large interest account.

The figures showed that 1744 houses had been built in Quincy in 10 years, and 3,568 in 20 years. An average of 178 is good ,but the average promises to double now, and should be 365 for the next few years, or one new house a day in Quincy. More than that number have been built the past year.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

We cannot rely longer on the mere improvement of our domestic commerce; we must seek the foreign field. I for one am convinced that our trade never can be successfully introduced abroad until it is introduced from our own decks. American enterprise has succeeded in every other line of endeavor except in that of the merchant marine. That is convincing to me that there is something wrong, and that there is something that the Federal government can do and should do to remedy it. When we are young we are pretty sure of our ground in deciding the right and wrong of things, and as we grow older experience modifies our convictions.—Secretary Nagel of Department of Commerce and Labor.

—The Old Colony railroad has declared a quarterly dividend of one and three-quarters per cent.

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

HOUCHS NECK SCHOOLHOUSE

Plans Call for Attractive Four Room Building

Mayor Shea has signed the order appropriating $20,000 for a four-room school building at Houghs Neck, and the troubles of the Houghs Neck Association on that account are over. It now remains for the Commissioner to advertise for bids and award the contract. It is doubtful if much work on the foundation can be done the coming winter, but the building should be ready for occupancy with the opening of the fall term next September.

The new building will be built according to plans of Messrs. Cooper & Bailey. The main building is 80-8 by 36 feet with projections on the centre and rear. There are to be two rooms on each floor each of which is 30 0b0y0 028. In the basement there will be coal and boiler rooms, janitors and fresh air rooms. Also a boys' recreation room, 22 by 18 feet and a girls' recreation room 30 by 14 feet.

At the right of the main entrance on the first floor is the principals' room, 11 by 8 feet, and at the left a stairway leading to the upper floor. The wardrobes of the two school rooms on the first floor are in the rear. In the projection on the rear, which is 32 by 7-10 feet, there are also stairways leading up and down. The front projection it might be mentioned is 36 by 14 feet. The size of the principals room is 11 by 8 feet.

The arrangement of the second floor is practically the same as that of the first floor. The school rooms are of the same size.

Over the principal's room on the second floor is a teachers' room, 11 by 8 feet, and a small hall, 44 by 10 feet on the rear. There is also ample provision for wardrobes on the second floor. The building will be of brick with granite trimmings.

Allowing fifty pupils to a room it will be seen that the school will accomodate about 200 children.

The original plan of the building called for a hip roof, but the modified plan calls for a flat roof. The name of the new school as has been previously stated is the Atherton Hough school.

SOUVENIR SEALS.

The Quincy seal hat pins, brooches and fobs manufactured for T. L. Williams are among the novelties for Christmas presents. The seal is a very faithful reproduction in relief both in gold and silver the dates being in a band of blue. They are sold at a low price and are one of the best souvenirs of Quincy issued.

THE BOSTON TRANSCRIPT.

Guide of the Home and Companion of the Evening Lamp.

The great praise of the Transcript is that it reflects not only good Boston, but also better Boston and best Boston. There can be no higher crown of achievement for the daily newspaper. It is the straight and narrow way, and few there be who find it in journalism. How many other instances are there in America? They are easily countable. Send for sample copies.

—Modestly laying claims to the premiere honors as a Marathoner on a typwriting machine, H. D. Press, who is transcribing the evidence in the Cunningham case at the Alaska coal land inquiry in Spokane, has issued a challenge to operators to a contest of speed, accuracy and endurance for anywhere from $50 to $5,000 a side, open to the world. He stipulates, however, that at no time for any one minute during the trial shall the speed be less than 50 words a minute and this must continue until one of the competitors is exhausted. Since coming to Spokane, 10 days ago, Press has worked full eight hours daily, transcribing from graphophone, stopping only long enough to change cylinders and place fresh paper in the writing machine. He writes at a speed ranging from 65 to 80 words a minute and frequently makes bursts of 100 words, which he maintains for pages of matter. He believes he can outdistance any operator in the world in a Marathon and will go anywhere to back up his claims.

(ADVERTISE.)

KNOCKERS AT DINNER

Milton, Braintree and Quincy Represented

After a respite of several weeks the Knockers' Club was called to order Thursday afternoon at their usual meeting place, the dining table at Thompson's restaurant. The death of James A. White, a boyhood chum of Mayor Shea, kept him from being present. Chief Pierce, Deputy McDermitt and Officer Fallon the terror of the auto speeders, represented the Milton contingent. With so many braves away it is a wonder some one did not run away with the town. Chief Pierce, however, had arranged to call out the reserves in case anything should happen while he was absent. Braintree was represented by Lawyer Phil Sullivan, and the district court by its probation officer, F. A. Spear, and court officer W. M. Marden. Overseer Elcock represented the city. Then there was the ever present scribes. Roll call showed several absentees, but they all had good excuses.

The menu served was:

Soup Cream of Tomatoes
Fried Scallops on Toast
Tartar Sauce
Hashed Brown Potatoes Celery
Roast Spring Chicken
Mashed Potatoes Cranberry Sauce
Banana Fritters
Ice Cream and Cake Fruit
Toasted Crackers Roquefort Cheese
Coffee

During the courses a few reminiscences were indulged in, and the usual number of knocks exchanged. Spear worked off a few of his old ones on the unsuspecting visitors from Milton, while the local members, to whom they were only too familiar, threw in a few side remarks just to show that they recognized the same old story in its new dress.

All good things come to an end, and so did this dinner, and as each knocker dug down deep into his pocket for the necessary coin to pay for what they had eaten they vowed that one more at least was necessary before the annual at which Spear pays the freight.

SALVATION ARMY CONCERT.

The Salvation Army concert at the headquarters on Granite street Thursday evening was a real success. The attendance was large, every chair being taken. The program was an interesting one, including some fine selections by the new brass band also selections by a string band, songs, duets and musical numbers. The new piano was used. There were vocal solos by Mrs. Annis, a duet by Miss Ida Nilson and Miss Selma Grahn, duet by Mr. and Mrs. Nathson, piano solo by Miss Annie Lundgren trio for violins and clarinet by Fred, Willie and Arthur Carlson of North Easton.

GOVERNMENT PROTECTION.

The campaign of the New York chamber of commerce to revive the American merchant marine was continued Thursday at a meeting which received a report from a special committee appointed some time ago to submit plans. The committee reported that the greatest need was government backing of new mail lines and postal subventions.

Welding Ring, president of the produce exchange, suggested free registry for foreign-built ships, and Lewis Nixon proposed "discriminating duties which would necessitate the repeal of obstructing commercial treaties." Mr. Nixon contended that the future of the navy depends largely upon whether the United States shall have a merchant marine from which sailors and colliers may be drawn in time of war.

—The consolidation of the Weymouth post office with the Boston office will take place Jan. 1 not July 1.

—The members of the Oriental Fife and Drum Corps of Weymouth have chosen the following officers: President, John E. Robery; vice president, Frederick D. Storm; secretary and treasurer Edward E. Lawson; recording secretary, Leon B. Shaw.

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

Until New Years
USE THE
Red Cross Stamps

LEOPOLD'S GERMAN BATH.

Embarrassing Situation In Which the Belgian King Figured.

That kings have feelings and are subject to embarrassing situations quite as frequently as ordinary persons is proved by an incident in which King Leopold of Belgium was the chief figure. Henry W. Fischer in his work "The Private Lives of Emperor William and His Consort" tells of the incident as follows:

"Court Marshal Liebenau was all in a flutter when in August, 1890, his Belgian majesty came to return the kaiser's visit to Ostend, for his colleague of Brussels had informed him that the sovereign gentleman was addicted to the daily bathing habit and demanded a hot bath at that.

"At last Liebenau hit upon a plan. He set up a modern enough bath that was fed by a cold water faucet and placed under one end of it a row of gas jets intended to heat the water in the tub. Should his majesty find the bath too warm, calculated the official, with true native acumen, he can moderate the heat by turning on the cold reservoir.

"Now, Leopold had enjoyed the previous night's festivities very much, and, observing in the morning that his slightest wishes in regard to bodily comfort had been anticipated, he rose in right good humor. Stepping buoyantly into his bath at the cool end and turning round, he sat himself down at the other, which, the gas having just been turned off, was nothing short of a furnace with the redhot coals removed.

"At the same moment an unearthly yell rent the castle from marble hall to scullery. The sentinels marching up and down before the great gate called out the guard, and dozens of officials and servants ran to the king's suit of apartments, thinking that his majesty had been attacked. At last, the cries not ceasing, Herr von Llebenau, together with the housekeeper and the king's adjutant, took courage and burst into the bathroom, where they found his majesty dancing an impromptu highland fling and warwhooping alternately in French and German for liniments and cold cream. What he said to the court marshal became known only after the latter's dismissal and disgrace.

"As a further consequence of the incident it might be recorded that King Leopold did not ride to the parade held in his honor that morning, but viewed the ceremonies from his window."

FEEDING BY FORCE.

American Suffragette Describes Her Strange Experience In English Jail.

Miss Alice Paul, an American, who is a master of arts of the University of Pennsylvania and the daughter of a judge of New Jersey, was discharged from Holloway prison in London the other day after serving thirty days at hard labor for raising the suffragette disturbance and breaking windows at the lord mayor's banquet.

While in prison she refused to eat or lie in bed to prevent her jailers making her well. She says she was fed by force in this manner:

"The largest wardress in Holloway sat astride my knees. Two other wardresses sat on either side and held my arms. A towel was placed around my throat, and one doctor from behind forced my head back, while another doctor put a tube in my nostril. When it reached my throat my head was pushed forward. The tube came through my mouth, and I got it between my teeth.

"My mouth was then pried open with an instrument. Sometimes they tied me to a chair with sheets. Once I managed to get my hands loose and snatched the tube, tearing it with my teeth. I also broke a jug, but they succeeded in forcing me to eat."

CARL SCHURZ MEMORIAL.

Wisconsin Society Plans to Establish One In Watertown, Wis.

A project to purchase the site near Watertown, Wis., which was the first American home of Carl Schurz, the late publicist, and to make it a permanent memorial to him was recently presented to the Wisconsin Society of New York. A number of men headed by Henry C. Davis and H. L. Horton have been discussing the idea among themselves, and at the informal dinner which was given the other night at the Hotel Astor, in New York, the society indorsed the idea and left it to Mr. Davis, who is its president, to appoint a committee at his leisure to finance the proposition.

The strip of land for the site of the memorial can be purchased, it was said, for something like $3,500, which Mr. Davis personally pledged would be raised. It is intended to collect the speeches and writings and other relics of Schurz and to preserve them in the house that stands on the ground. The society holds an option on the site. Carl Schurz, Jr., was elected an honorary member of the society.

"Jungle Dinner" For a Club.

The members of the Wells Hawks Press club in Brooklyn, formed at the end of the Dreamland summer season at Coney Island, will hold a "jungle dinner" at Bostock's animal arena on New Year's night, setting a precedent for unique feeding affairs. The diners will be caged like regular animals, and they will be fed through the bars by waiters dressed animal fashion. The waiters' costume will be obtained from the Hippodrome's wardrobe, and they will be garbed all along the line from possum to bear, according to size and disposition.

Get the Habit of being cheerful. Don't knock, don't kick, don't worry. Be an optimist. There's no excuse for pessimism. Not even when you are feeling run down and bilious. In fact then least of all, for there is a sure, infallible remedy, one that has for years extended its friendly aid over all the civilized world. There is no excuse for being ill, when it is so easy to acquire the custom

Of Being Well

Since the introduction of Beecham's Pills, indigestion, dyspepsia, disordered liver, inactive kidneys and all their attendant ills have been shorn of three-fourths of their terrors.

The worker whether in mill or office, finds right at hand a safe, pleasant and infallible remedy for all those troubles that arise from stomach or intestinal derangements. They strengthen the stomach, correct the bowels, improve the circulation and cleanse the system of the poisons that are the cause of most diseases. At the first symptoms of indigestion or other derangement,

TAKE
BEECHAM'S PILLS
In boxes, with full directions, 10c. and 25c.

ASSETS, $450,000.

QUINCY CO-OP BANK $$$$$ for The People

ESTABLISHED 1889
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS BK BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, SS, PROBATE COURT

TO the heirs-at law, next-of-kin and all other persons interested in the estate of HELEN V. JOSSELYN

late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Maria C. Josselyn of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond;

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the fifth day of January A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 17 3t 17-20-27

FOR CHRISTMAS
BUY YOUR BOY A
Flexible Flyer
THE UP-TO-DATE SLED.
We also carry the Barney and Berry
SKATES
Both Clamp and Key.
Also the good old-fashioned kind for Ladies, with leather heel and toe straps.
HOCKEY STICKS, PUCKS and BALLS.
NATHAN AMES,
5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.
D c. 11 tf

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS
If YOU Want Business

QUINCY'S MOST POPULAR CHRISTMAS STORE
TO SHOP IN
KINCAIDE'S ANNEX
AND 5 AND 10 CENT STORE

Thousands upon Thousands of People visit this store to secure their Christmas Gift Things. Dismiss from your mind the thought that this Quincy Store is not the equal of any Boston store. It is better suited to your needs in a hundred ways. A store that makes a specialty of popular priced gift things. Toys in almost endless variety direct from the largest German, French and American toy factories. Dolls, Books, Musical Instruments, Fancy Boxes, Fancy China, Fancy Glassware, Ornaments, Household labor-saving articles, Kitchen Furnishings, Skates, Sleds, Carts, Doll Carriages, Christmas Tree Ornaments, Stationery, Table Ware, Etc., Etc.

Thousands of Useful Articles at 5 Cents
Thousands of Attractive Gift Things at 10 Cents
Hundreds of Beautiful Gift Things 10 to 25 Cents
Hundreds of More Beautiful Presents 25 to 98 Cents
More Costly Ones from .98 to $4.98

Come early while stocks are complete. Come often, otherwise you will miss much that you would wish to see. Bring your friends and multiply your own pleasure by adding to theirs.

Santa Claus in his Arctic suit will be here the week before Christmas to meet the little tots and learn just what they want him to bring down the chimney. . .

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.,
1459 Hancock St., Quincy, A Few Doors from our Furniture Store
L 4:—12-15-17-18 O—18

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted. Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering. Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St.. QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building, 294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets, QUINCY.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 406-1 July 27-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Busines Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Burgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, May 2 Haymarket 724—Quincy 448 1p-1y

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department,
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
17 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
38 Huntington Avenue, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 20
Oct. 1. tf

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 469-3 Quincy 239-3 Quincy 508 7 Milton
1p-tf

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings

(ADVERTISE.)

ENCOURAGE HOME TRADE

Considerable Interest in New Merchants' Association

The second meeting of the Merchants' Association was held Thursday evening in Electa hall and a large number of the retail merchants from all parts of the city attended.

Eben W. Sheppard presided and from the time the meeting opened at 8 o'clock until it adjourned at 10.30, discussion was continuous and interesting. Before the meeting was over nearly every one present expressed himself in some manner in regard to the forming of an association on a permanent basis. Henry L. Kincaide spoke at length on the matter, as did also the chairman Mr. Sheppard, and they in unison with other speakers voiced the sentiment strongly, in regard to the encouragement of home trade. They considered the association a long step in the right direction toward improving the trade conditions of the city.

After a lengthy discussion the motion was put to organize a permanent organization in Quincy to be known as the Merchants' Association and it was carried unanimously. A committee was appointed to work in conjunction with the chairman and draw up a constitution and bylaws. This committee consisted of the following members:—Eben W. Sheppard chairman, Robert E. Foy, Dexter E. Wadsworth, Henry L. Kincaide and Frederick S. Zoller.

It was voted to hold the next meeting after the holidays in Union hall, kindly offered by Mr. Kincaide. This meeting will begin with a supper, after which the business will be transacted. All retail merchants will be invited by letter.

Among those present at the meeting were: W. G. Shaw, H. L. Kincaide, G. R. Williams, W. H. Berry, F. F. Green, R. E. Foy, E. W. Sheppard, H. E. Crane, J. A. Keating, A. H. Remick, D. E. Wadsworth, A. L. Whitman, A. W Newcomb, F. S. Zoller, Nathan Ames, A. Peterson, O. Sandberg, W. Crowell, H. Kennedy, G. W. Wheeler, E. Keating S. Nutting, G. W. Nightingale, and Joseph P. Prout.

SUPERIOR COURT.

In the Superior criminal court at Dedham this week Patrick Murray of Quincy paid a fine of $75 for keeping and exposing liquors for sale. Michele Mangratorde of Quincy was found guilty of falonous assault on Grovanina Lupan on Nov. 11 and sentenced to three years in the house of correction.

JACK THE HUGGER.

"Jack the hugger" is abroad. That is to say he was abroad on Spear street Thursday night, according to a lady who had an experience with him. It was between 8 and 9 o'clock when the lady was walking through Spear street and had reached a point near the residence of Franklin Hardwick, when she saw a man ahead of her. The men, as she thought, turned into one of the yards, but instead of that he hid behind a tree and waited for her to pass. As she passed the tree he jumped out from behind, and made a grab for her. Fortunately she was quite a few feet away from the tree and although his hands caught her sack he was not near enough to catch hold of her and hold her. Uttering a loud scream she ran down the street to a place of safety, and the stranger disappeared.

MUST NOT READ NEWSPAPERS.

Back of the enclosure at the District court room, a part from lawyers, is a row of tables at which the reporters who cover the court usually set when the seats are not occupied by officers. It frequently happens, however, that the reporters have to seek seats with "the jury." Some of the occupants of these seats read newspapers. It cannot be the reporters for they never read papers. However, it is rather annoying and will not be done any more if the following notice, pasted on the blotters at the tables is heeded. "Occupants of this seat are requested not to read newspapers while the court is in session."

ADVERTISING
Is a Good Investment.

WILLIAM J. CALHOUN.

Career and Caliber of the New Minister to China.

Uncle Sam's new minister to China, William J. Calhoun of Chicago, is probably best known as one of the trusted friends and advisers of the late President McKinley. When the probability of war with Spain was confronting this country and armed interference in Cuba was being demanded McKinley sent for a friend of his boyhood in whom he had entire confidence, William J. Calhoun, and asked that he go to Cuba to investigate matters. His report, coupled with that of Senator Proctor, formed the basis on which war was declared with the dons. Later he was sent on a special mission to Venezuela by President Roosevelt, which was another most successful trip.

The new minister to China is a man of very wide experience and culture and is called "the Choate of the west." A native of Pittsburg, where he was born sixty-one years ago, he began the practice of law at Danville, Ill., and has been most successful in that profession, at present being a member of the firm of Calhoun, Lyford & Shean of Chicago. Mrs. Calhoun, who died in 1898, was Miss Alide D. Harmon of Danville.

Mr. Calhoun was a lad of sixteen when he ran away to enlist as a soldier. Tales of war brought back from the front in 1864 had fired his patriotism, and without taking the trouble to consult anybody he offered himself at a recruiting station.

WILLIAM J. CALHOUN.

"How old are you, young man?" demanded the officer in charge.

"Sixteen last October," was the ready reply.

"Too young—move along," was the curt decree.

Disheartened, but not to be "bluffed," young Calhoun pleaded and begged in vain. He came the next day and tried it again. Then he hung about the station for several days until he saw another officer temporarily in charge. The fatal question was put again, but the boy was ready for it.

"Well, I reckon I'm old enough to lick any boy around here that's under twenty. I can take care of myself all right."

That was the answer that won Calhoun's first battle, and he became a member of the Nineteenth Ohio volunteers.

For many years Mr. Calhoun has won important legal battles in the courts of Illinois. His eloquence at a murder trial in Danville about twenty years ago is still talked of in the town. In the face of overwhelming evidence his pathos and pleading swept the jury to a verdict of not guilty. After it was all over a town character expressed the sentiment of the community when he said:

"I allow we all know the feller's guilty, but nobody believes it."

GOTHAM'S NEW CLINIC.

Dentists Now Employed to Save Teeth of Tenement Children.

If the philanthropists keep on, the tenement children of the east side in New York city will be the healthiest and best cared for youngsters in the land. The latest move to benefit them was the opening recently of the new dental clinic of the Worth street Italian school of the Children's Aid society. The work of saving the teeth of the rising generation among the tenement house population is not entirely new. For the last two years a number of public spirited dentists have been conducting a free dental clinic among the indigent children at the Fifty-third street school of the society.

TREATING TEETH OF TENEMENT CHILDREN ON THE EAST SIDE, NEW YORK.

The new downtown clinic, however, is the first fruit of the investigation of dental disease, the results of which were made public last summer. At that time the tabulation of dental statistics gathered from the examination of 500 school children, boys and girls between the ages of fourteen and sixteen, who made application to the department of health for "working papers," showed that only fourteen had sound teeth and that these needed cleaning.

QUINCY MEN TO SUPPLY COAL

School Committee Divide the Contract

A special meeting of the School Committee was held Thursday evening to consider the bids for fuel for the public schools which were opened Monday evening.

The committee awarded the bids as follows:

660 tons of George's Creek coal to William Cashman, at $4.18 per ton.

130 tons of Lehigh broken at $5.70 per ton, and 45 tons of Lehigh egg at $6.45 per ton, and 4 tons of white ash egg at $6 per ton to J. F. Sheppard & Sons.

The committee appointed Francis M. Curtis to supervise the weighing of the coal for the schools under these contracts.

MUST PROTECT THE PUBLIC

Commissioners Tell Railways Concerning Drunkards

The finding of the Railroad Commissioner as to the transportation of intoxicated persons on street cars is of interest to Quincy, where there has been more or less complaint about persons under the influence of liquor on late cars. The case on which the finding was rendered was the Worcester consolidated street railway.

The commissioners say that it is the duty of the railway management absolutely to protect the traveling public from intoxicated persons, and that wherever conditions lead to the presence of such persons on the cars there must be an active and energetic enforcement of the law.

The statutes relative to the employment of street railway police are called to the attention of street railway managers generally. The board does not give any weight to the suggestion of partitions in cars for the segregation of persons under the influence of liquor.

"Conditions similar to those in Worcester," says the board "have been brought to our attention in Fall River. Both of these cities are no-license cities and it appears that certain residents of each ride upon the street railways to adjacent towns where liquor is sold. This state of affairs creates conditions which at times outrage all sense of delicacy or decency.

"In the cities the police are of sufficient number to preserve order and make arrests when occasion requires; but on long interurban rides a territory is covered where local officers are frequently beyond the call of the employes of the companies. While local officers should be relied upon in town centers to cooperate with the employes of the company to prevent intoxicated persons from boarding the car, the managements of the companies ought themselves at all times to afford protection to their passengers.

"This does not appear to have been accomplished and we therefore direct the attention of street railway companies to the provisions of the statute and recommend that seasonable and efficient measures be taken to secure to their patrons the protection to which they are entitled by law.

"We fully realize that complaints against intoxicated persons upon railroads and street railways are not new and, doubtless as long as persons become intoxicated conditions such as now complained of must to some degree exist. But we are clearly of opinion that those conditions can be minimized and that managers of companies can, with the cordial cooperation of public authority, secure this result.

"Where conditions lead to the presence of intoxicated persons upon cars, an active and energetic enforcement of the law will tend in our opinion to substantial improvement, and we are convinced that the traveling public can be freed in a large measure from the annoyance caused by their presence.

"The operation of partition cars or 'extras' is but an invitation to a class the street railway is not intended to serve. Such persons should be not upon the railway, but in the custody of the law."

TENDERFOOT ABROAD.

Interesting Address Before the M. E. Club

A most interesting as well as instructive address, entitled "Adventures of a tenderfoot abroad," was delivered before the Men's club of the Wollaston Methodist church on Thursday evening by Charles H. McIntyre of Boston.

Mr. McIntyre took his audience on a trip through Great Britain and Ireland, giving them the impressions received in a holiday study of the institutions and people of the United Kingdom. The experiences of the "tenderfoot" on the voyage across were interesting to say the least, while the subject of British hotels and living expenses proved instructive.

The railroads and general transportation system were mentioned and comparisons made with those in force in America at the present time. Visits to many historic places were described, as were trips to the model English villages of Bourneville and Port Sunlight. The influence and importance of the shipbuilding, manufactures and other industrial achievements of Clyde Belfast, and other cities was dealt with.

Mr. McIntyre then launched into a description of the characteristics of the British people, pointing out the social and economic conditions which underlay the race. The address closed with a view of the British press and its functions, and then followed the voyage home.

Following the address J. A. Sedgwick, new editor of the Wollaston Herald, the organ of the club which is read at each meeting, brought out a most promising edition. The question box, filled with sayings both wise and otherwise, was read. Refreshments were served. President George Taylor presided.

MOURNED AT WEST QUINCY.

The sudden and shocking death of James A. White has cast a shadow of gloom over West Quincy where he has always made his home, and where he was extremely popular with all. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning from St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. The question of abolishing the grade crossings in West Quincy has been touched upon from time to time, and it is probable that some action may be taken toward separating the grades on the Granite branch. There are several bad crossings in West Quincy, all of which are dangerous particularly at Robertson, Willard and Cross streets and Furnace avenue.

—A quarterly dividend of one and three-quarters per cent has been declared on the preferred stock of the American Shipbuilding Co.

TRUSSES Fitted.
CRUTCHES In All Sizes.
Athletic Supporters
For Gymnasium Work
Abdominal Supporters
Elastic Stockings
The Rexall Store
Edward J. Murphy
THE ORIGINAL LOW PRICED DRUGGIST
1415 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

For Evening Hours
The Rayo Lamp

Some of the sweetest hours of home-life are passed under the gentle, kindly light of the evening lamp.
If it be the Rayo Lamp, the light contributes an added charm—makes reading and sewing easy. There are no aching eyes after reading or sewing under the rays of the Rayo Lamp.
The Rayo Lamp diffuses a steady white light. It is the least trying of any artificial light. Made of brass throughout—nickel plated—improved central draught burner.
The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but you cannot get a better lamp at any price.
Once a Rayo user, always one
Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not at Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the
STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

SUPPER AT WOLLASTON

Followed by an Address and Music

A most successful supper, sociable and entertainment was held in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening by the Ladies' Alliance. At 6.30 a record crowd sat down to a very bountiful supper served by the following committee in charge of Mrs. H. A. Stevens: Mrs. H. J. Gurney, Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. Samuel Couch, Mrs. Walter M. Baker, Mrs. Charles E. Barker, Mrs. Sylvester Brown, Mrs. Henry G. Fay, Mrs. Morris O. Capron, Mrs. C. E. Jameson, Miss Helen Foster, Miss Jennie Foster, Mrs. James Geddes, Mrs. Fred Snow, Mrs. F. C. Merrill, Mrs. George Glover.

Assisting the committee were the following young ladies attractively gowned in white: Miss Marion E. Browne, Miss Helen R. Browne, Miss Eva Briggs, Miss Miriam Chase, Miss Mildred Polk and Miss Gladys Howe.

Included in the evening's program was a very interesting description of English army life by Mr. Wyett. Dr. Dawes and Mr. Chase added much to the evening's entertainment with pleasing vocal solos.

A candy and apron sale was held in the vestry beginning at 3 o'clock; the former in charge of Mrs. W. E. Rowe; the latter in charge of Mrs. E. S. Taylor; assisted by Mrs. Charles E. Munroe, Mrs. Adelaide Armstrong, Mrs. Charles W. Brigham and Mrs. F. A. Page.

Y. M. C. A. EVENTS.

The meeting for younger boys of the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday morning will be the last of this year. The attraction is "Ted" or "What became of hooking Jack." Every boy is invited to be present.

The meeting for older boys is unusually strong, having as the speaker George S. Paine of Brockton. Mr. Paine is the writer of the stories that have been used for younger boys meetings and is indeed an exception to the rule. It is hoped that a large number of older fellows will be out to hear Mr. Paine at 3.30 Sunday afternoon.

Remember the College Club banquet tonight at 7 o'clock, the big event of the year. W. M. Minot of Harvard and E. C. Worman of Yale. No student can afford to miss it.

TINSEL POSTCARD.

Postcards bearing particles of glass, metal, mica, sand, tinsel or other similar substances are unmailable except when enclosed in envelopes tightly sealed to prevent the scape of such particles or when treated in such manner as will prevent the objectionable substances from being rubbed off or injuring the persons handling the mails.

STOPS FALLING HAIR
Ayer's Hair Vigor is composed of sulphur, glycerin, quinin, sodium chlorid, capsicum, sage, alcohol, water, perfume. Ask your doctor about this. Follow his advice. Promptly checks falling hair. Completely destroys dandruff. An elegant dressing.
Does not Color the Hair
J. C. AYER COMPANY, Lowell, Mass.

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 1o-tf

TO ADVERTISERS
If you want help in writing up your Christmas advertisements (the kind that will bring returns) 'phone the Ledger Office, Quincy 425, and our Ad Man will call. He will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better than ever before. This applies to present and prospective advertisers in the
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

Gloves
Handkerchiefs
Umbrellas
Pocket Books
Bags
Pin Cushions
Crochet Slippers
Silk Scarfs
Neck Wear
Fancy Hosiery
Mexican Drawn Work
Linens
Waist Pattern
Aprons
Belts

Coats
Suits
Furs
Skirts
Sweaters
Silk Petticoats
Moire Petticoats
Silk Waists
Lingerie Waists
Nuns Veiling Waists
Brilliantine Waists
Scotch Flannel
Linen Waists

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

Dec. 14—1m.

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING

1357 Hancock Street

Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

Pine Wood For Sale

Ashes, Rubbish and Stable Manure carted away.

Peter McConarty

5 Pearl Street, - Quincy, Mass.

Nov. 16-1m

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee. Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLB, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

As a FAMILY DAILY PAPER has no equal and is appreciated by ADVERTISERS

AN ELECTRICAL HOUSEHOLD

The house which has just been fitted up in the heart of Paris by M. George Knap, of Troyes, is the last and most perfect illustration of modern comfort; and although a household of this character is not within the reach of everyone, its originality well merits description.

After having opened the door, by pressing a button, and confided to the telephone the object of our visit we are conducted to the dining room. If a meal is being served, we are surprised to see no waiter moving around the room. The servants remain in the kitchen, and send up every dish at the proper moment. In the dining room is a switchboard with electrical measuring instruments and the necessary keys and commutators. The function of each key is inscribed above it, in order to diminish the chance of error, and a large bipolar commutator allows the switchboard to be cut off from the illuminating circuit. Various combinations of lights are used according to circumstances. A large ornamental piece and dishes of fruit adorn the central part of the table, which is strewn with roses in which tiny electric bulbs are concealed. This central portion is surrounded by an oval groove, which leads to the two silver-plated doors which cover the entrance to the electric elevator. The area devoted to the plates and other utensils of the guests is bounded by low parapets of glass and silver. Below the table nothing appears except two nickel-plated bars which serve to guide the elevator, which is placed in the basement directly under the dining room. One of these bars supports the mechanism which operates the elevator and the crescent-shaped doors above it. On the table, beside the host, are four push buttons. When all the guests are seated, the host presses the white button, which causes a little drum to beat in the kitchen. Immediately the doors of the elevator shaft open, the soup tureen ascends to the table, and the doors close and conceal the opening. By pressing a red button at the right or left, the dish is caused to travel around the table in the corresponding direction. It is arrested at any point by removing the finger from the button. Other dishes are served in the same manner. The function of the fourth button is to cause the dish to rotate, in order to assist the guest in helping himself. When the course has been thus served, the dish is brought back to the elevator by the operation of the buttons, and the drum in the kitchen is caused to strike twice. Immediately the elevator doors open, and the elevator descends to the kitchen, whence it returns with the next course, after the plates have been changed.

Let us now take a look at the clean and neatly furnished kitchen. The electric range is incased in wood and marble, so that it resembles a buffet. Attached to it are a switchboard, an electric clock, a rheostat by which the strength of the current and the heating effect are varied, and an ammeter which measures the current employed in cooking each dish. The range contains four separate electric heaters of polished aluminum, which can be operated singly or simultaneously. By means of the electric clock, every dish can be cooked to precisely the proper degree. If, for example, a fowl is placed in the electric oven, it is known from M. Knap's experiments that it will require 30 minutes to roast it by radiation. The electric contact of the clock is, therefore, set at the figure 30, and at the moment when the desired number of minutes have elapsed, the current is automatically cut off, and an electric bell advises the twentieth century chef that his fowl is cooked to a turn.

Milk is automatically drawn into the stew pan, sauces and cakes need merely to be placed on or in the range, and the current does the rest. The cook can go off and smoke a cigarette without risk of burning his sauces or pastry. This method of electric cooking would not be very expensive when the current can be obtained from water power or from the waste power from a large motor.

The electric kitchen contains a rotating table, on which are placed machines for chopping meat, churning cream, washing dishes, and other apparatus, driven by a small dynamo. Some curious phenomena may be observed in this electric kitchen. For example, eggs are "boiled" without the use of water, and, in contrast to what occurs in cooking with wood, coal, or gas, a fowl begins to cook at the centre, and the skin is not browned until the cooking is finished. M. Khap asserts that this method of cooking does not dry out the meat, and gives it a particularly agreeable flavor.

Near the kitchen is a laundry with electric washing machines, electric drying stoves, electric irons and ironing machines, etc.

In the bedroom we find other novelties. The hot-water bag or bottle is replaced by an electric bed warmer containing a small lamp, which is operated by compressing a bulb which hangs above the sleeper's head. In the morning the occupant of the room has only to press a button, and an elevator concealed in a small table will bring him his breakfast and his morning newspaper.

Finally, "electric spies," distributed in all the rooms behind the wall paper and the hangings and connected with sensitive microphones, make is possible for the master of the house, by pressing a button without leaving his bed, to know everything that is being done and said in the house.—Jacques Boyer in Scientific American.

One of Edison's Jokes.

Edison was always a great joke player. Those ones he seemed to enjoy most were like the one he worked on one of the laziest operators in the office where he was once employed. One night, when this fellow thought his day's work was over and was getting ready to go home, Edison slipped around to the office switchboard, made a connection with the lazy fellow's telegraph key, called him down to the table and, supplied with an old newspaper, proceeded to send Mr. Lazy a long lot of presumably Associated Press stuff from New York. Edison was a lightning sender (as well as receiver) from almost the beginning of his career, and the way he made that fellow work for two solid hours was a joy. After wearing him completely out, making him receive and copy the equivalent of about three or four newspaper columns, Edison suddenly came from behind the switchboard, exposed the joke to the poor fellow and wound up by pelting him on the nose with the newspaper he had been sending from.—Pearson's.

Scolded and Comforted.

At a lunch given in his honor Sven Hedin read an amusing letter written to him by Alfred Nobel at a time when Hedin was still a student, but already filled with a longing to explore unknown Asia. He applied to the government for funds, but the answer was so slow in coming that he wrote to Nobel, who promptly replied: "I take no interest in these geographical exploration trips. In fact, I regard them as an anachronism. Men communicate with each other today from one end of the earth to the other by means of telegraph and post. There are in Asia, too, explorers and savants who are surely better qualified than you, sir, to study and describe their native country. I therefore believe that you could make better use of your ambitious impulses than by undertaking trips to Asia. But in order that you may see that I do not always act as I think I send you a sum which may serve as the best confutation of my own convictions."

Squandering Ability.

Doing the lower when the higher is possible constitutes one of the greatest tragedies of human life. The squandering of money seems a wicked thing when we think of the good that might be done with it. But what about the wicked waste of ability, the deliberate throwing away of 50, 75, perhaps 90 per cent of one's success possibly just because he never trained himself to use it, to grasp it with such vigor and power that he can fling his life into his career with its maximum effectiveness? Most people take hold of life with the tips of their fingers. They never get hold of the life proposition with that grip and tenacity of purpose and vigor of determination which do things worth while. They just hang on the outskirts of things, playing upon the surface of their possibilities without ever getting down into the marrow of their being, where efficiency and power dwell.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

Exclusive Perfumes.

The late Dr. Andrew Wynter in a charming article on perfumes suggested the desirability of every lady having her own special and self prepared perfume. The custom, however, would have its disadvantages. More than one sensational story might be mentioned wherein the heroine or villain was saved or unmasked, as the case might be, by the recognition of a distinctive scent. In "Diplomacy" the denouement is effected by the telltale perfume of the adventuress being detected in the dispatch box she had rifled. As a matter of history, the assassins of the oriental sovereign Yezdijird were discovered by one of them smelling of the perfume with which the robes of the murdered king had been redolent.—London Globe.

A Sacrifice.

Fat Man—What! Are you going to let this small boy shave me? Barber—Let the boy have his fun for once. It is his birthday, sir.—Fliegende Blatter.

A scar nobly got is a good livery of honor.—Shakespeare.

LEARN TO ACT QUICKLY

Women Should School Themselves In Making Quick Decisions In Ordinary Matters—Indecision a Feminine Fault.

FROM time immemorial it has been charged against woman that she lacks facility in making up her mind—that she cannot decide readily. When some problem which requires prompt decision confronts her she is unable to come to an agreement with herself as to the solution.

Are you a woman of that sort? Do you vary in your notions of what you should do, wavering from one extreme to the other, not only in weighty matters in which temporary uncertainty might be excused, but in the thousand and one small things of daily life, the trifling matters which should be settled without too great a strain upon your logical faculties?

For example, take the matter of choosing meat for dinner. Perhaps you go to market without any well defined notion of what you really prefer. Beyond the fact that you must have meat of some kind for dinner and that it is on sale at the butcher's you have not progressed mentally. When you arrive at the market your mind is not yet made up. The sight of meat in great variety, all attractively displayed, does not help you in coming to a decision. You flutter along by the counter, keeping the butcher waiting, plenty of excellent cuts before your eyes, but you wrinkle your brow and bite your lips and finally, in sheer desperation, pounce on something that is not at all what you really wanted.

To refresh yourself after the strenuous effort made to choose something, which, after all, was not what you wanted, you stop in at the corner confectionery shop on your homeward way with the innocent and even praiseworthy intention of indulging in an ice cream soda. At the outset you come

"SHALL I OR NOT?"

face to face with another perplexing dilemma. The flavor—what shall it be? Ranged most appetizingly within easy range of your vision are a dozen toothsome fruit sirups, but which is your preference? The impatient clerk is waiting, and so are half a dozen others who have already made up their minds. In the agony of the moment you commit yourself irrevocably to coffee only to recall at the very instant that it is the one flavor of the lot which disagrees with you.

If you are a sufferer of this sort begin at once to correct this fault by the severest self discipline. If you neglect to do so you will continue to be a trial to your friends and an absolute torture to yourself. Much of your time will be passed in regretting your acts, for it is always the case that the flighty one does what she likes least of all. There is nothing more certain to weaken the character and even render the victim undesirable as an acquaintance than this utterly abhorrent habit of doing constantly precisely what one does not intend to do.

Now, all this does not mean that there are not matters in life, many of them, which cannot be decided in an instant or even in an hour or a day. Every individual is certain to be confronted with a greater or less number of these problems, real ones requiring deliberate thought, calm and deliberate consideration and clear judgment. Such are matrimony, the disposition of property, a change of business or residence. Even in less important things—the purchasing of a season's outfit, for instance—there is sometimes much to be planned out in advance, and much mental exercise must be permitted. Hasty judgments are quite as unsatisfactory as none at all, and any business requiring a regular plan should be worked out mentally long before the final moment.

There is nothing more satisfactory than to be able to decide quickly in an emergency and to act intelligently and without faltering. The most forlorn and hopeless cry ever uttered by womankind is the wail of not knowing what to do. It is the sure stamp of lack of capability.

Do not look for help outside of yourself. You and you alone must be the physician in this case. As in all other functional mental disorders the victim alone is best able to cure herself. Learn to decide at once. You can do it if you will. SHIRLEY BREESE.

HAIR WHITE AS SNOW

Restored to Natural Color with One Bottle of

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER

The Only True Hair Restorer, Tonic and Rejuvenator

ALMOST A MIRACLE

My hair was as white as snow when I commenced using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Restorer. One bottle restored my hair to its natural dark brown color. As I am now 70 years old, I consider the result most remarkable. It is an agreeable and refreshing hair dressing, keeping the hair soft and glossy, without being in the least greasy or sticky.

WM. WESTLAKE,
210 West Main Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Why hesitate when WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER is daily producing just such results?

After years of study and analysis of the hair, we have been able to produce an ideal Hair Tonic and Restorer, which contains an actual constituent of hair, combined with ingredients of recognized merit for treatment of hair and scalp diseases. It makes and keeps the scalp clean and healthy, gives life, strength and lustre to the hair, and restores faded and gray hair to natural color.

IT IS NOT A DYE

No matter how long and thick your hair is, WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER will make it longer and thicker. It will remove every trace of dandruff in a few days, stop falling in one week, and start a new growth in from one to three months.

These are facts that have been proven in scores of cases. WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER is guaranteed to do all that it is claimed to do or the price will be refunded.

LARGE BOTTLES 50 CENTS - - AT ALL DRUGGISTS

If Your Druggist Does Not Keep It Send 50c. in Stamps and We Will Send You a Large Bottle, Express Prepaid

Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 CORTLANDT STREET NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

FOR SALE AT EVERY DRUG STORE IN QUINCY.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

By FRANK H. SWEET

ONLY a star, a shining star,
More glorious than our planets are,
But watched by wistful eyes and bright,
And longing hearts, that wondrous night.

Only a manger, shadow thronged,
That to some public inn belonged,
Where sweet breathed cattle quietly
For midnight slumber bent the knee.

Only the light of tapers small,
That on two tender faces fall,
Two tender faces—one divine—
That still through all the centuries shine

TWO TENDER FACES—ONE DIVINE.

From palace walls, from thrones of gold,
From churches, shines, cathedrals old,
Where the grand masters of their art
Wrought faithfully with hand and heart.

Only a Babe, in whose small hand
Is seen no scepter of command,
But at whose name, with freedom's sword,
Move the great armies of the Lord.

Only a cross! But, oh, what light
Shines from God's throne on Calvary's height!
His birth, his life, the angels see
Written on every Christmas tree.

A Feminine Reason.

"But," asked the first co-ed, "why did you elect to take up the study of German instead of French?"

"Oh," replied the other, "the German professor was so awfully handsome, you know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Red Cross Stamps
FOR THE
Tuberculosis Camp

A CHRISTMAS BOX OF

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Men's Hose

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.

The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.

PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00

Can you beat it for the Price?

GEORGE W. JONES

No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

GAS PIPING AT COST.

- We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.
- Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.
- We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.
- Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.
- We do not pipe new buildings.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.

11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181

Dec. 13 tf

REAL ESTATE For Sale? Advertise in The Ledger.

The Battle

By

Cleveland Moffett

Copyright, 1909, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Novelized by the Author From His Great Play of the Same Name

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER XIX.

MARGARET UNVANQUISHED.

THERE followed weeks of pain and anxiety in the great Haggleton mansion in Fifth avenue. Meantime Philip was passing through a moral as well as a physical crisis. In his weakness and suffering, in the long restless nights when his mind wandered in incoherent mutterings, in his days of increasing strength and courage, in every moment of wakefulness or half wakefulness, there was present before him, vaguely or distinctly, this one thought, that a sudden and tremendous responsibility had been placed upon him. What course should he decide upon? Here were dreams of his eager youth in the way of amazing realization.

And this stern, worldly man, dreaded by thousands, envied by millions—this great lord of taskmasters in whose hands lay all power over toiling multitudes—here he was, this richest man in America, Philip's own father, ready and eager to please him with untold benefactions, to do good instead of evil, to make amends for—for the past, as he had vowed in tender, broken words at that tortured bedside while he waited and hoped and possibly prayed (if Haggleton could pray) that his son's life might be spared him.

He would tear down "lung block," and he would put aside several millions for immediate steps toward solving that problem and several millions more for miscellaneous charities in which his son might be interested. In short, Philip would have at least $10,000,000 at his disposal in a campaign of practical reform. Ten million dollars!

Margaret had nursed him with a sort of passionate intensity.

Philip assumed that the catastrophe had wiped out the past, that the obstacle which had risen between them had been leveled by it. Her evasive answers when he spoke of their coming marriage worried him a little, but her professional assertion that for the present his mind must be set first of all upon his recovery reassured him in a measure.

Her mind was fully made up. No, she could not bring herself to marry the son of a man who had destroyed and in a way disgraced her father.

She loved Philip, loved him in spite of this hateful relationship. She would have married him joyfully as Philip Ames, a man of the people; she would have married him in poverty, in obscurity, in sickness, in anything except his present state.

Her relations with the old millionaire were difficult. He spoke to her as little as possible. Yet it was unavoidable that time and again they should stand side by side watching over the patient when the fever rose and his chances of recovery seemed doubtful.

It was then that they listened together to his delirious mutterings in which his love for her, his admiration and affection for him, his reverence for his mother's memory, his perplexity over the wrong committed, were intermingled.

She began to like Haggleton, to admire the unvarying readiness of resource, the determination and efficiency that always were at his service in the sickroom, as they had been in the marts of men and in Moran's tenement.

Haggleton was fighting his final battle. He had conquered Philip, Gentle, Joe Caffrey, Jenny, Moran even, repentant in his cell awaiting trial. Now he was seeking to conquer Margaret.

Gentle had long since surrendered to the enemy, gone over to his camp, bag and baggage, his almoner already, marveling every day at the way Haggleton had or making every one of his preliminary gifts to the poor yield its hundred per cent of benefit. Jenny had been provided for. Haggleton had seen to this too.

And the bakery trust, forgotten now, flourished. It was selling better bread and cheaper bread to the whole east side. Joe Caffrey had found himself there. He was in temporary charge of the offices in Moran's transformed rooms. "If you want to make a lazy man hustle give him a job bossing somebody else," Haggleton had said laughingly to Gentle.

Thus three weeks passed, weeks of diminishing anxiety. Philip had been declared out of danger and was to make his first appearance at the dinner table that night. Margaret's service as a nurse had come to an end. She must make her final choice.

Haggleton left her alone with him, in his usual mental attitude of preparedness for whatever might happen, hoping that he had won her for Philip and Philip for himself, yet doubtful and ready to do battle to the very last.

Haggleton talked with Gentle in the library. He turned to the large picture of his wife and their infant son over the mantelpiece and looked at it.

"You have recovered your son, Mr. Haggleton," Gentle said, with reassuring conviction. "Philip answered the call of the blood, as you said he would. He loves you."

"Yes, he loves me. That's the great, precious fact—my boy loves me. But he knows this girl, too, and—she won't change. I have watched her all these weeks while she has been nursing Philip. The doctor says that he owes his life to her devotion, but—no, she won't change; she can't forget."

"She can forgive."

"I doubt it, and I don't blame her. I like her. She has narrow ideas, but she holds to them hard! I'd rather have a person strongly wrong than weakly right."

"She will never leave Philip now," persisted Gentle.

"Suppose she makes Philip leave me?"

"It's inconceivable!"

"Nothing is inconceivable, Mr. Gentle, when a good woman thinks that she is fighting a bad man. A conscientious woman has no scruples."

"At any rate, she must speak out soon."

A servant entered.

"There's a person asking to see you, sir," he announced. "He says his name is Joe Caffrey. There is another person with him, a woman."

"It's Jenny," said Gentle in an undertone. "They want to plead for Moran, I guess. His case comes up next week."

"Show them both in."

"How was Moran when you last saw him in the Tombs?" asked the millionaire.

"Sincerely sorry for what he did. When I told him what you have done for Jenny he broke down."

"I'll see that he is dealt with leniently. After all, his mad act was prompted by a father's love, like mine."

The servant opened the door again and admitted Joe Caffrey, followed timidly by Jenny.

(To be Continued.)

"HAIL TO KING CHRISTMAS!"

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constitution.

Begging In Paris.

Giving up his profession, a Paris beggar offers his "pitch" for sale. His advertisement reads: "For sale, present holder retiring to the country, good situation for one legged man; neighborhood of the Etoile; hours of work, 2 p. m. to 7 p. m.; receipts, $2.40 to $3.15; regular passersby, children and strangers; or any infirmity would suit."

MODERN HAIR DRESSING

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

The Meeting of Governors

and public. The legislatures, of course, would have absolute freedom to pass it or not, but the recommendation would have a greater dynamic effect and a stronger moral influence when each legislature knows that twenty-four other legislatures are considering the same proposed bill.

The conference called by the Civic federation will consist of about 1,000 delegates named by state governors from the most prominent and public spirited men of each state. Ex-Judge Alton B. Parker is chairman of the program committee, with John Hays Hammond as chairman of the committee on arrangements. Working with the Civic federation for the success of the conference is the commission on uniform state laws, and it is pointed out that with at least forty governors sitting in the conference much progress in the right direction will certainly be made.

Describing the scope and importance of the conference, Seth Low, president of the federation, recently said: "The movement for the conservation of our natural resources inaugurated by President Roosevelt cannot be carried to its perfect consummation until the states adopt with considerable uniformity laws upon the subjects of forestry, water power and reclamation of land by irrigation. In the effort to propose suitable amendments to the Sherman anti-trust act our committee was not unmindful of the fact that if satisfactory amendments were finally made their effect would be nullified in many important instances unless the anti-trust laws of the various states were made to substantially conform. Probably no better illustration could be given than that of railway regulation. The interstate commerce commission, of course, can deal only with interstate, while the states can deal only with intrastate, traffic. The confusion and conflict without uniform action can readily be imagined.

SETH LOW, PRESIDENT OF NATIONAL CIVIC FEDERATION.

"The National Association of State Bank Supervisors and the American Banking association have come to agreement on certain propositions upon which they desire uniform state legislation. In the matter of insurance, both life and fire, national associations have been organized and in the latter case are working with the state supervisors of insurance in an effort to secure state uniformity. The agricultural organizations, the wholesale grocers, the wholesale druggists and a number of other national organizations are working for uniform pure food laws."

The need for a conference of governors is illustrated by a few facts vouched for by investigators. Government experts say that between 300,000,000 and 400,000,000 tons of coal were lost in 1906 by penny wise and pound foolish methods and that the total so wasted since the beginning of the industry is 50,000,000,000 tons. Millions upon millions of horsepower are going to waste through failure properly to utilize and conserve the water power of the United States.

At the present rate of timber consumption it is estimated that the price of every kind of lumber will be about double the present price only one decade from today.

It is said that the total iron ore available in the world today is 25,000,000,000 tons, of which three-fifths is in the United States.

Copyright by Brown Bros.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND.

Should the rate of consumption continue to increase in the United States in the same ratio that it has increased in the last score of years, at the end of two centuries there would be no more ore to be mined.

In the United States there are an area of 175,000,000 acres of land susceptible to reclamation by irrigation and 500,000,000 acres of western public range which may be made available for increased production of meat by restricting the grazing and reseeding portions which have been destroyed by unrestricted grazing.

Washington's Big Gathering

Copyright by Pach Bros.

PRESIDENT TAFT.

WASHINGTON is to have in the near future the largest and most important gathering of prominent men that has assembled in the United States since the constitutional convention. This will be the meetings of governors in the national capital on Jan. 18, 19 and 20, and also on the same dates the conference of uniform legislation, which was called by the National Civic federation. These conventions will bring together many of the most public spirited men of each state, all working for the betterment of the country, and much progress in the right direction should be the result.

It was on May 13, 1908, that the first conference of governors was held at Washington. Of the number invited thirty-two reported. New Mexico, Arizona, Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico were also represented, and others came in later. On Dec. 8, 1908, the second conference of this kind was held, also at the national capital. Mr. Taft as president elect was there, as were also representatives from Canada. In his speech at Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 26, while he was en route to New Orleans, President Taft extended an invitation to the governors who were accompanying him down the river to attend a third conference.

This meeting is for the purpose of taking up the questions discussed at the previous conferences—conserving the natural resources of the country by preserving the forests, irrigating arid lands and improving the waterways. In referring to the omission of congress to make any appropriation for the meeting of governors President Taft told the state executives at Memphis that they need not stay away on that account, as the White House latchstring would be where every visitor could put his hand on it.

The idea of a conference of governors did not originate with President Roosevelt, but was the aftermath of a proposition made by William George Jordan, formerly editor of the Saturday Evening Post, in 1907. The Jordan idea was more farreaching than the conferences already mentioned, and it is not to be confounded with the meetings held in Washington. Mr. Jordan communicated his ideas to President Roosevelt, who soon thereafter called the conferences held during his administration.

The Jordan suggestion was for an organization to be called the "house of governors" and made up of chief executives of each state, who were to meet annually and work for the country's good. This plan met with the hearty approval of the governors who came to Washington last year, and after their session they met and appointed a committee to arrange time and place for a session of their own. This committee has now set the dates Jan. 18, 19 and 20, 1910, for the first meeting of the house of governors in Washington.

WILLIAM GEORGE JORDAN.

[Courtesy of Fleming Revell company.]

The plan, which is remarkably simple, can best be given in Mr. Jordan's own words:

It is proposed that the governors of the forty-six states meet annually for a session of two or three weeks to discuss, consult and confer on vital questions affecting the welfare of the states, the unifying of state laws and the closer unity of the states as a nation. The house of governors would have no lawmaking power, nor should it ever aspire to such power. Its force would be in initiative, in inspiration and in influence. The governors would seek to unite on a general basis of action on great questions to be submitted to the legislatures of the respective states in the governors' messages. It would seem that an august, dignified body of forty-six governors, representing their states, with the lawmaking power of forty-six legislatures behind them, should in time become an inherent part in the American idea of self government and a powerful factor for good in the nation.

The method of procedure of this body on a great question like a uniform divorce law would be somewhat as follows: It is proposed that is the house of governors no majority vote should be binding on the minority, so no pressure would be brought to force legislation on unwilling states. If twenty-five of the governors in a session of the house were to agree on a general plan of divorce the governors thus concurring would suggest to their respective legislatures the passage of a bill in accordance with the general recommendation. The proceedings of the house being open, there would be a wide discussion of the plan by press

Christmas Presents FOR SISTER

Dresden silk is so much liked nowadays that it is even used to cover the backs of hairbrushes. Hand mirrors and hairbrushes with Dresden silk backs are beginning to supersede the silver backed articles on some women's toilet tables.

TOILET SET COVERED WITH SILK.

Backing a brush or a hand mirror with Dresden silk is really a very simple matter, and any one with deft fingers can manage it. The silk is glued to the wooden backed brush, and gold braid is glued around the edges. A comb and brush tray and a powder box can be covered in the same manner, and the set makes a dainty present for a woman. The Dresden silk pincushion is shaped a little like a pair of bellows. The sides are of silk covered cardboard, and the cushioned edge holds the pins.

A Pin Case For the Schoolgirl.

A dainty present for the room of a schoolgirl is the ever useful pin case in a form that appeals to her love of decoration.

A small bisque doll head has fastened around its neck two pieces of satin ribbon three inches wide and ten inches long. This is gathered in such a way around the neck of the doll that it appears to be dressed in a long, straight slip of silk.

Between the ribbons are shorter pieces of flannel, as many as are desired. Each piece is featherstitched in the same color as the ribbon, or it may be pinked. Through the flannel is stuck white and black pins, safety pins, colored pins of all sizes, such as are so useful in the adjustment of stocks and belts.

If one knows the color of the room decorations of the girl for whom the pin case is intended it should be made of a harmonizing color.

For the Trousseau.

Engaged girls will appreciate several of the ribbon holders that are made for keeping in place certain sets of lingerie or table linen. The gift is simple enough, being merely a length of ribbon which in the center has a square of linen covered cardboard embroidered with the girl's initials sewed to the ribbon. The ends are then put together and a round slide like those used on directoire sashes is made of linen. This slide is drawn about the article that is to be surrounded with the ribbon band.

FOR THE TROUSSEAU.

Cover Hatpins For Christmas.

The latest fad is to cover hatpins. Does that sound strange? It is not, however, for if you possess a plain and unattractive pin and wish to give it the cachet of originality all you have to do is to embroider a tiny disk of black satin or any shade that you prefer with gold thread, put the disk over the head of the pin, tie it tight, and the deed is done. If you had a jeweled pin and the real diamond, or whatever it was, has disappeared, cover a small button in any way you like and paste it into the empty space left by the lost bit of glass. If a hatpin is too small, make a little rosette of gold tissue and run the pin through the middle.

The ways of decorating such pins are really too numerous to mention in detail, but any one may do it and get the best results with the least effort and expense. Indeed, it is not difficult to make.

A Laundry Book.

For the college girl a laundry book is fine. Select a neat nice paper for the leaves and cut the double cover from red paper of a heavy variety, then tie the leaves together with red baby ribbon. Between the leaves of white paper are blue carbon paper slips, so that a duplicate copy is made when one marks off her laundry.

AQUAS READY ROOFING

GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST

SANBORN & DAMON

QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

STORAGE

— FOR —

Furniture and Pianos

Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms

Furniture and Piano Movers

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

1405 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

NEW UPRIGHT PIANO

Now in storage at my home.

PRICE LOW.

Apply to

WM. WILSON, Pianist and Tuner,

1 President's Avenue, South Quincy

Tel. 157-2. Oct. 18-tf

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood.

Gas and Water.

Four valuable houses built on property

Apply at 45 Elm Street.

Quincy, Dec. 3

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
| r *5 14 | abcdefghi | 5 49 | *5 47 | lhgfedcba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 12 | abc | 6 38 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abc | 7 08 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adef | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 20 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 42 | abc | 8 03 | 9 41 | Exp | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 | abcdc | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp. | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abc | 11 38 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 00 |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edcba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | dcba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 50 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | lhgfedcba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 23 | abcdefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedcba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedcba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abcdef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 | abcdef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedcba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 21 | lhgfedcba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | lhgfedcba | 10 45 r |
| 9 38 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | lhgfedcba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | lhgfedcba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abcdefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | lhgfedcba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc . | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abcdefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | lhgfedcba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | lhgfedcba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abcdefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abcdefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | lhgfedcba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 55 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Crescent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.14, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.06, 7.21, 9.21" 11.37 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

AQUAS READY ROOFING

GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST

SANBORN & DAMON

QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

Have Your Clothes Washed by the

NEW SYSTEM

WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley st.

Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.

Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY

Furniture and Piano Moving

Office 1598 Hancock Street, Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2

Quincy, June 10 tf

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patents procured exclusively. Highest references.

Wideawake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell patents. What inventions will pay. How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.

501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 20 mins. to 9.30 p m. Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m. and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.46, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,

Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMMON,

Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

For Sale—Show Case
H. L. Kincaide & Co.—Home Furnishers
R. E. Foy & Co.—Lamb, Fresh Pork, etc.
Probate Notice
William Patterson—Christmas Plants
For Sale
Found.
To Let.
Notice

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 49 degrees |
| Dec. 17, 1908 | 32 degrees |
| Dec. 17 1907, | 41 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

Mrs. Edward J. Badger of Park street is recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Miss Mary McGrath of Fayette street who has been critically ill is much improved.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Board of Trade was held Thursday evening at which matters of interest to the board were discussed.

Ben Johnson is receiving the congratulation of his many friends on the advent of a son which arrived at his home this morning.

Thomas Elgar, the prison evangelist, speaks this evening at Bethany church on "Wonders in the Dark." The public is cordially invited.

Old Colony lodge I. O. O. F. of Hingham paid a visit Wednesday evening to John Hancock lodge of Wollaston and worked the first degree on a class of candidates.

Mrs. Frances M. Wainwright of Hancock street who passed away on Wednesday is survived by one son, Rev. Francis C. Wainwright of Hartford, Conn., and two daughters.

The quarterly meeting of the Norfolk County association of the Grand Army and Woman's Relief Corps was held Wednesday at the Milton Town hall. Delegates were present from Paul Revere post and the W. R. C. of this city.

The Social Six gave a surprise party at Faxon hall Thursday evening to Joseph Fitzgerald and presented him a purse of gold. Dancing was enjoyed until 12 o'clock. Ice cream and cake were served at intermission, and there was a specialty act. The Crescent orchestra furnished music.

James Milne a well known resident, passed away Thursday night at his home 86 Glencoe place, after a long illness, in his 54th year. Mr. Milne was employed as a stone cutter, which trade he learned in Scotland. He was a member of Clan McGregor O. S. C. He leaves a widow, two sons and three daughters.

"Resolved, that the will is superior to the environment in the moulding of character" was debated pro and con at the meeting of the Men's club of Christ church this week by Carlton D. C. Beale, N. M. Spencer, Henry W. French and Walter E. Burke. The date of the banquet was changed to Jan. 19. There will be a debate Jan. 19.

NOTICE

Will the members of Quincy Council No. 96, K. of C., kindly attend the funeral of the late brother JAMES A. WHITE, at his late residence, on Miller street, Saturday, Dec. 18, at 9.30. High mass at St. Mary's church at 10.

E. J. MURPHY, G. K.
E. D. BARRETT, Rec.

Dec. 17 1t

BIRTHS.

JOHNSON—In Quincy, Dec. 17, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Johnson of Hancock street.

MARRIAGES.

COBB—KING—In Chicago, Dec. 16, by Rev. L. R. McDonald, Mr John Chandler Cobb of Milton, Mass., to Miss Mary Louise King of Chicago.

DEATHS.

MILNE—In Quincy, Dec. 16, Mr. James Milne of 86 Glencoe place, age 53 years, 4 months, 17 days.

HOWE—In Wollaston, Dec. 15, Mrs. Hattie Eva, wife of Mr. Franklin A. Howe of 235 Newport avenue.

WHITE—In West Quincy, Dec. 16, Mr. James A. White beloved husband of Annie White of the granite firm of James N. White & Son, aged 45 years.

Funeral from late residence, Miller street, West Quincy, Saturday Dec. 18, at 9.30. Requiem of High Mass at St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. Relative and friends invited. Member, Quincy Council, K. of C., No. 96, Quincy Lodge 949 B. P. O. E., and St. Francis Court 25, M. C. O. F. 2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1185 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

OLD COLONY BOWLING

Protest Game to be Rolled Over Tonight

In the Old Colony bowling league on Wednesday evening Quincy defeated Weymouth 3 to 1, and the Braintrees defeated the Norfolk Downs team 3 to 1.

On the opening night Dec. 8, Norfolk Downs defeated Quincy 3 to 1, while the match of the Braintrees at Weymouth will be bowled over again, the protest having been allowed.

Without the protested match the standing to date is as follows:

| | Won | Lost. |
|---|---|---|
| South Braintrees | 3 | 1 |
| Quincys | 4 | 4 |
| Norfolk Downs | 4 | 4 |
| Weymouths | 1 | 3 |

The protested match will be bowled this evening at Weymouth. Should Weymouth win 3 out of four, all the teams will be tied. Braintree must win two to continue in the lead.

The scores in the Weymouth match this week were:

QUINCY

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Grant | 80 | 82 | 122 | 284 |
| Wentworth | 89 | 92 | 85 | 266 |
| Burke | 85 | 92 | 83 | 260 |
| Boutin | 87 | 90 | 82 | 259 |
| Dumny | 77 | 74 | 76 | 227 |
| | 418 | 430 | 448 | 1296 |

WEYMOUTH

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| T. Connell | 92 | 74 | 88 | 254 |
| Guertin | 82 | 84 | 79 | 245 |
| J. Connell | 77 | 81 | 76 | 234 |
| Kiley | 93 | 82 | 82 | 257 |
| Smith | 89 | 87 | 94 | 270 |
| | 433 | 408 | 419 | 1260 |

The scores in the Braintree match

SOUTH BRAINTREE

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Welch | 80 | 84 | 80 | 244 |
| Howland | 82 | 78 | 92 | 252 |
| Alex | 78 | 78 | 80 | 236 |
| Melanson | 93 | 82 | 86 | 261 |
| Beane | 92 | 94 | 83 | 269 |
| Total | 425 | 416 | 421 | 1262 |

NORFOLK DOWNS

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Osgood | 81 | 71 | 71 | 223 |
| Poland | 104 | 84 | 92 | 280 |
| Bugbee | 84 | 77 | 84 | 245 |
| Dunn | 85 | 89 | 82 | 256 |
| Guinon | 83 | 87 | 84 | 254 |
| Total | 437 | 408 | 413 | 1258 |

All the games will be bowled on Wednesdays and the schedule is as follos: w

Dec. 8—Downs at Quincy.
Dec. 8—Braintree at Weymouth.
Dec. 15—Quincy at Weymouth.
15—Downs at Braintree.
Dec. 22—Braintree at Quincy.
22—Weymouth at Downs.
Dec. 29—Quincy at Downs.
29—Weymouth at Braintree.
Jan. 5—Quincy at Braintree.
5—Downs at Weymouth.
Jan. 12—Weymouth at Quincy.
12—Braintree at Downs.
Jan. 19—Downs at Quincy.
19—Braintree at Weymouth.
Jan. 26—Quincy at Weymouth.
26—Downs at Braintree.
Feb. 2—Braintree at Quincy.
2—Weymouth at Downs.
Feb. 9—Quincy at Downs.
9—Weymouth at Braintree.
Feb. 16—Quincy at Braintree.
16—Downs at Weymouth.
Feb. 23—Weymouth at Quincy.
23—Braintree at Downs.
Mar. 2—Downs at Quincy.
2—Braintree at Weymouth.
Mar. 9—Quincy at Weymouth.
9—Downs at Braintree.
Mar. 16—Braintree at Quincy.
16—Weymouth at Downs.
Mar. 23—Quincy at Downs
23—Weymouth at Braintree.
Mar. 30—Quincy at Braintree.
30—Downs at Weymouth.
Apr. 6—Weymouth at Quincy.
6—Braintree at Downs.

DO YOUR Christmas Shopping NOW
and do it in
QUINCY.

Red Cross Stamps
On Christmas Letters
Carry Good Cheer

FORTY FIVE AND CRIBBAGE

Tammany Club Defeats the St. Marys

The Tamany Club and St. Mary's teams met at St. Mary's hall Thursday evening for their matches in "forty-five" and cribbage, and there was great sport.

At forty-five the scores were:

| | Tamany | St. Mary's |
|---|---|---|
| Team 1 | 4 | 5 |
| Team 2 | 18 | 16 |
| Team 3 | 18 | 16 |
| Team 4 | 5 | 0 |
| | 45 | 37 |

At cribbage the scores were:

| | Tamany | St. Mary's |
|---|---|---|
| Team 1 | 3 | 5 |
| Team 4 | 5 | 0 |
| | 8 | 5 |

Each team plays one hour when the score is taken. The Tamany teams were composed as follows:

Team 1—Griffin and Sweeney.
Team 2—Peter Farrell and John O'Connell.
Team 3—J. Hallian and J. Curtain.
Team 4—J. Leary and Daniel O'Connell.

The teams representing St. Mary's both at forty-five and cribbage were:

Team 1—William and Daniel Duggan.
Team 2—R. Connelly and William Dawane.
Team 3—D. Manning and Charles Perkins.
Team 4—D. Ford and W. Foley.

DEBATE ON LABOR UNIONS

Atlantic Men's Club Growing at Each Meeting

The December meeting of the Atlantic Men's club was held Thursday evening. The subject of the evening for open discussion was "Labor Unions; are they a benefit or a detriment." The idea being to have a voluntary expression of opinion by different members present.

Although it was not assigned as a debate, the discussion waxed hot and many members exercised their privilege of using free speech. Fourteen men participated, including members of labor unions. A notable feature of the meeting was the fact that every one of the invited guests of the members were so much interested in this season's policy of the club, and its object of having debate for each evening, that all applied for membership without persuasion.

At the next meeting which comes January 20 the club expects to have a debate on a good, live subject with two leaders appointed for each side, followed by a general debate by club members.

Officers for the present season are as follows:

President—H. Von Emden.
Vice President—W. F. Cummings.
Treasurer—William Arthur.
Secretary—F. M. Burditt.

And an executive committee consisting of above officers and H. G. Beeman, F. E. Badger, H. J. Bahe.

SECRETARY BAILEY TO SPEAK.

The Men's club of the Wollaston Congregational church will have a rare treat at the meeting Tuesday evening, Dec. 21. Secretary Charles O. Bailey of the Gipsy and Brown Tail Moth Commission will address the club on "The gipsy and brown tail moth problem." Not only interesting but instructive and profitable will be this talk. Tree owners will learn how they may assist in exterminating these pests. It is no longer "Workman, spare that tree," but "Die, ye moths." Tickets which admit to the address at 7.45 P. M. may be had without charge on application to Chester J. Hogee, president, Lincoln avenue, Wollaston.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

—Grand Army post, Woman's Relief corps and the Sons of Veterans of Randolph are to have a joint installation Jan. 4.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS

Park Theatre.

Fannie Ward in "Van Allen's Wife" at the Park theatre, is well worth seeing. Those who saw her in "The New Lady Bantock" will surely want to see her in the new play, the big Chicago success, as it is a stirring drama. So intense, so vivid, so wonderfully true is Miss Ward's portrayal that the audience is thrilled and thrilled and no amount of praise can do her justice. Notwithstanding this is the busy Christmas season large audiences are the rule at the Park theatre for the Wednesday and Saturday matinees as well as the evening performances.

American Music Hall.

The long awaited Consul the Great, the wonderful man monkey will make his first Boston appearance at the American Music hall next week. Boston is familiar with the average trained monkey, but Consul is more than a monkey. He is equal to the average man in everything but in the power of speech. He eats, drinks and smokes like a man, rides a bicycle, uses roller skates and in fact does everything but talk. Consul is the only monkey who has ever appeared before King Edward and Queen Alexandra and is the only monkey that has been taken up by New York and Newport society. His act is educational and forcibly exemplifies the Darwinian theory. A pleasing novelty is in store for the youngsters in the shape of Santa Claus who will make his appearance after the matinee on Friday and Saturday and continue his visits during every matinee of the week following. He will present to every boy and girl present, a beautiful toy and a bag of candy.

Keith's Theatre.

The greatest interest has been aroused in Boston over the coming to Keith's theatre of a new juvenile comedian named "Little Billy," said to be the smartest and at the same time the cleverest youngster that has ever appeared on the stage. Billy has been for several years playing small parts in a reportoire company in which he learned to sing, dance and do things "just like a man." The women declare him the cutest youngster and the most precocious they have ever seen. In fact, everywhere he has appeared he has become an immense favorite and Mr. Keith has now engaged him to appear in the large cities in which his theatres are located. He will make his first introduction to Boston, Christmas week, where he will be a feature of a splendid holiday bill prepared especially for the Christmas season.

Boston Theatre.

"The Circus Man" begins its fourth week at the Boston theatre with the performance of Monday night. There has been a constant regular increase in attendance until now every performance is witnessed by such numbers that the conventional phrase "Large and enthusiastic audiences" can justly be used. "The Circus Man," as is now generally known, is a dramatization, by E. W. Presbrey, of Holman F. Day's story of New England life, called "Squire Phin."

As "Fighting Hime" proprietor of what is left of Look's Leviathan Aggregation, the rest of it having been bought out at a big figure by a syndicate, Maclyn Arbuckle has a character which fits him capitally, and to which he easily lends his own bighearted, buoyant personality. Miss Esther Lyon makes a most captivating widow. There are regular matinee performances on Wednesday and Saturday.

Castle Square Theatre.

After several weeks preparation, the novel and original musical comedy by Theodore Friebus entitled "1915" will be produced at the Castle Square Theatre next Friday evening, Christmas eve. In order that everything may be perfect for the first performance, the theatre will be closed all next week up to Friday evening, and "1915" will then be given for the first time on any stage. It has been written by Mr. Friebus expressly for the John Craig Stock Company, and as may be surmised by its name it deals with people, incidents and scenes in the Boston of six years from now. It will also contain many surprises in the way of spectacular effects and other features, and it will certainly provide entertainment of the most varied kind, consisting of music, dancing, witty dialogue, brilliant costumes and scenery. More than seventy-five people will take part in it, there will be a large chorus and members of the John Craig Stock Company will have roles that will be sure to catch the favor of the public.

THEATRE NOTES.

Fannie Ward is winning the heartiest praise from the critics for her work as Muriel Van Allen in her new play, "Van Allen's Wife," by Forrest Halsey and Lee Arthur. Heretofore Miss Ward has played only the lighter dramatic roles before American audiences, but in London, where she has appeared in heavier roles, a brilliant future was predicted for her. In "Van Allen's Wife" she fulfills every promise, meeting every demand made upon her for the strong virile acting that the part requires. The play itself is gripping and is well staged.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," the dramatization of the "Rebecca" stories by Kate Douglas Wiggin and Charlotte Thompson, which will open at the Tremont Theatre in Boston, Jan. 3d, is the theatrical surprise of the year. Mr. Joseph Brooks, under whose direction the play was produced, felt the firm had a success, but neither he nor the most sanguine of the friends of the authors ever expected hearty recognition from the public so quickly or so surely. The play itself is a story of optimism and the awakening of a charming, lovable girl, surrounded by quaint characters. In fact, the character drawing by the author is one of the strong elements of the play. The appeal of "Rebecca" lies in the wholesome simplicity of the character and the lines, which are witty and radiate one of Rebecca's speeches: "It's good to be just alive."

"The Circus Man," the dramatization of Holman F. Day's story, "Squire Phin," with Maelyn Arbuckle in the title role, is playing a very successful engagement at the Boston Theatre. Holman F. Day, the author of the book, saw his characters staged for the first time in Boston. He was delighted with Maelyn Arbuckle's conception of the role of "Fighting Hime" Look.

TODAY'S COURT.

Michael Gibbons was fined $10 for drunkenness at Milton.

Vittorio Caveiglio was sent to the State farm for being a tramp at Weymouth.

MAKE YOUR PURCHASES FROM LEDGER ADVERTISERS. BE SURE TO READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN TODAY'S LEDGER

THE TELEPHONE AT CHRISTMAS

THERE is no need for you to be worn out by holiday preparations if you make good use of your telephone.

The Bell telephone companies have found that just before Christmas the number of daily connections is the highest for the year. The telephone has become a necessity of the holiday season, because without it most people would not have time to do what they have planned.

Christmas cheer extends beyond the city limits, and the universal Bell System helps to carry it througout the land.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY
Every Bell Telephone is the Center of the System

Dec. 15 1t

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards, golf, hockey, checkers, cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—On 1.20 train from Boston Saturday evening, a suit case marked T. B. L. No questions asked and large reward if return to 195 Goffe street, Quincy, Mass.
L. Dec. 14-6t O 18-1w

FOUND

FOUND—A sailboat. Enquire J. MACNAB, 371 Quincy avenue. Quincy. Dec. 17 3t

FOUND—A Ladder. Address L., Ledger Office. Quincy Dec. 15-3t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Johnson-Daniels show case in good condition. Apply at 25 Grant avenue, Milton between 8 and 9 in the morning.
Dec. 17 3t

WANTED.

WANTED—Places to care for furnaces, ashes, etc. Apply to J. M. LYNCH, 121 Phipps street. Dec. 16-3t

TO LET.

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and appartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-12t

TO LET—A New Tenement of five rooms second floor; with bath, hot and cold water, range, furnace heat, gas and set tubs. Beautiful pine grove in back, on Glendale road. Ready for occupancy. Apply at 188 Glendale road. Quincy, Dec. 10-6t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec. 10-12t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 61 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-1f

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-4f

TO LET

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x45 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

TELEPHONE CONNECTION Hours 9-12 2-4
DR. A. B. PACKARD
HARVARD '91
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

HOUSES

Will Not Remain

VACANT

If Advertised.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 284 | QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 18, 1909 | PRICE TWO CENTS

BOSTON'S OLDEST AND MOST RELIABLE

Carpet House

ESTABLISHED 1817

Rugs, Carpets, Upholstery
Lace Curtains, Wall Papers
Interior Decorations

Nearly a century of continuous business dealings with the people of New England.

John H. Pray & Sons Co

646-658 Washington St., Opp. Boylston St., Boston.

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy

REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY

Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

AT THIS STORE
Your Credit is Good

We therefore urge you to use our Easy Payment plan in buying your Xmas Gifts.

Our liberal credit system bridges the chasm between your desire to buy and your inability to pay spot cash at time of purchase. Our liberal policy in dealing with people has built for us the largest suburban furniture business in New England. Our customers come from almost every city and town from Boston to Cape Cod. We urge you to pick out what you need to comfortably furnish your home—or whatever you wish to give for Xmas. We arrange the rest. No interest. No extra charges.

HENRY L. KINCADE & CO.

New England's Lowest Priced Home Furnishers

1495 Hancock St., . Quincy.

Open Monday, Friday and Saturday Evenings.

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get Good Coal
You Can Get Poor Coal

It's your business at right to protect yourself.
It's your business at right to investigate.

SEARCHLIGHT US!

'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.

Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

COAL CONTRACT FOR SCHOOLS

Remonstrance from One of the Out of Town Bidders

Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

Does politics control the majority of the School Committee of the city of Quincy? Why did they vote to pay the Quincy dealers $120.00 more for the same quality of coal, rather than apply the money towards providing accommodation for the primary children of the Quincy schools, who are compelled to submit to one-half day in school for lack of room?

Facts and figures show that competition saved $528.00 in 1907. This same competition saved $354.00 in 1908. The sentiment of this vote shows competition is to be eliminated in future coal contracts, and the lo-rather than the education of the coming citizens of Quincy.

A copy of the bid for coal, published in the Quincy Ledger, was mailed to us in the official envelope of the School Committee ,on which we supposed we were invited to bid, but are now under the impression that we were to be used simply as a lever to jam down the prices of the local dealers. This illustrates to us very plainly that in the future our bids will be figure heads until after the passing of certain members of the School Committee.

High prices and long profits will be the result of this deal, with a restoration of the old system which the local dealers are looking forward to. Are the taxpayers aware of this state of affairs and are they to allow this decision to be handed down without even a question?

We are a Massachusetts corporation, capitalized for $50,000.00, and ready to file a bond that we can deliver any quality of coal that we bid on, and must ask why we were not given a chance to do so.

Below are the totals of the three bids filed December 13 1909:

| | |
|---|---|
| Neponset River Coal Co. | $3,693.86 |
| Cashman Coal Co. | 3,822.80 |
| Sheppard Coal Co. | 4,060.05 |

Very truly yours,
Neponset River Coal Company.
Dorchester Centre, Dec. 18 1909.

QUINCY REAL ESTATE SALES.

Charles E. Ball to Margaret Bestgen, Vershire street.

Margaret Bestgen to Charles E. Ball gen, Vershire street.

Elizabeth M. Brigham to James Mctear, Beach street.

Joseph Catler to Arthur B. Hultman, Jackson street.

William M. Chase to Ida M. Chase, Davis street.

Wilton A. Dunham to Carl B. Stowers, Houghs Neck.

Eastern Clay Goods Co. to William J. Barry, east of the intersection of Willard and West streets.

A. William Erikson to Hilda A. Johnson, Glendale road.

Sarah B. Feltis to Kate S. Townsend, Pond street and Mill street.

Julia A. Giles to Alex C. Hagerthy.

Rebecca Goldberg to Samuel Castleman et al trs.

Charlotte A. Hunter to Mildred D. Richmond, Fayette street.

Erik Johnson to Albert M. Thompson, Glendale road and way.

Mary A. McDonnell to Old Colony R. R. Co., Bridge street.

James M. Nowland to Marion J. Jackson, Edgemere road, $500.

Ida M. Porter to Ede T. Plaisted, Vassall street.

Mildred D. Richmond to Victor R. Weston, Fayette street.

Fred W. Wood et al trs to Ede T. Plaisted, Vassall street.

Alfred Viden to Ida Anderson Glendale road.

VANNER—HANNON.

At St. Mary's church Thursday evening Miss Alice Hannon and Mr. Albert Vanner were united in marriage by Rev. Fr. Grady. They were accompanied by Miss Katie O'Neil of Charlestown and Mr. Joseph Hannon of West Quincy. A reception followed at their new home at 9 Kent street, when a wedding supper was served ,and music and dancing were enjoyed.

NO ARBITRATION AT BARRE

Granite Cutters Refuse to Refer Their Troubles

The Northfield branches of the granite cutters' union turned down with hardly a dissenting voice on Friday, says the Globe the proposition that the labor dispute in Montpelier and Barre, growing out of the use of the pneumatic bush hammer, should be referred to the National association of manufacturers and cutters in accordance with the so-called plans for peace.

Unable to reach an adjustment any other way the Barre association of manufacturers took this way as a last resort of ending existing labor troubles, it amounting practically to arbitration.

The reason given by the Northfield cutters for turning down the proposition is that they do not want to let the adjustment of the trouble go out of their own hands, because they believe they can settle it as well as anybody.

The action of the cutters ends all hope of an early settlement of the trouble and in all probability no further action will be taken by the manufacturers or cutters until after the New Year.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

FIRST CHURCH.

An interesting program of Christmas music has been arranged for both services at First church. At the regular 10.30 A. M. service, the church quartet assisted by Theodore Corey, violinist, will give the following selections:

Service: Prelude, "Prayer" Vermann
Violin and Organ
Anthem, "The hush of night hath fallen" Spence
Anthem, "The Cradle Hymn" Barnby-Gow
Violin Obligato
Response, "Hear us, Lord" H. M. Dunham
Anthem "The Hym of the Angels" West
Or, an Postlude, "Hosannah" Lemmens

The vesper service at four o'clock will consist chiefly of a Christmas cantata, "The Shepherds' Vision" by Irene Berge, to be given by the regular choir, assisted by a mixed chorus of twenty voices, under the direction of the organist, William Ellis Weston. This composition is one of the most recent cantatas written in a very masterly style and bids fair to be heard very often in the future.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

The musical program at the Methodist church at Wollaston Sunday morning will be:

Organ Prelude Grison
Anthem, "Calm on the listening ear" Flaxington Harker
Response, "Alleluia" Neidlinger
Offertory, Selection Handel
Anthem, "He shall reign forever" Shaper
Organ Postlude, Let the heavens rejoice Gaul

At the evening service there will be a children's concert with music:

Organ Prelude Read
Offertory, Christmas Joy Wilson
Organ Postlude Christmas March Le Blanc

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

Christmas in the Wollaston Congregational church will be celebrated by a service of devotion on Friday night at 7.30 Dec. 24 at 7.30; a Christmas tree on Saturday at 5; Christmas service on Sunday, Dec. 26, at 10.30; a Sunday school gift service at 12.15; and Christmas vespers at 4 P. M.

BRIEFS

The Junior Laymen, a club of boys of the First church, are rehearsing for a play which they are planning to give sometime during the Christmas vacation.

Of much interest is the collection of photographs, maps and prints of old Boston in the art gallery of our Public Library until the 27th inst. There are a few pictures of Boston, England, followed by maps and views of our own Boston from 1722 until the present century. There are also prints from Stark's "Antique views," pictures of old mansions, taverns, streets and birthplaces of famous men with descriptive text, much of it from Drake's "Old Landmarks." Attention is called to a list of new books published in another column.

NOTABLE FUNERAL OF JAMES A. WHITE

Granite Manufactures, Elks, Foresters, Knights of Columbus and Others Attend

Grand Music, Beautiful Floral Tributes, and Marks of Respect by Fire Department and Friends

The funeral of James A. White was held this morning from his late residence on Miller street and was probably the largest funeral ever held in that section of the city. Not only was it attended by a large number of his personal friends, but by large delegations of the several orders with which he was affiliated as well as many from the Granite Manufacturers' Association. The flags on City Hall and fire stations were at half mast during the services.

The impressive burial service of the Elks was held at the house at 9 o'clock, and was conducted by Exalted Ruler William J. Coleman with John D. Smith as chaplain, D. J. Deasey as esteemed loyal knight, Robert McDonnell as esteemed lecturing knight, P. H. Sullivan as esteemed leading knight, and Edward Desmond as esquire. During the Elks' service the Temple quartette sang "Eternal Goodness," "My Heavenly Home" and "Our Absent Brother."

Following the services at the home the body was escorted to St. Mary's church by St. Francis court, M. C. O. F.; St. Mary's C. T. A. society; Quincy council, Knights of Columbus; Quincy lodge of Elks, the Copeland club, and the Granite Manufacturers' Association. The honorary bearers were Hon. W. T. Shea, James F. Burke, James H. Elcock, William H. Callahan, Peter T. Fallon, William F. Powers, William J. Coleman and William Cashman.

As the funeral cortege moved toward the church, the bells on the fire alarm struck 45 blows.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock with Rev. Henry T. Grady as celebrant, Rev. J. P. Cuffe as deacon and Rev. William J. Duffy as subdeacon. On the altar were Rev. John J. Coan of St. John's church and Rev. William J. Foley of St. Mary's the Angel church of Roxbury.

Schmidt's mass was sung by the regular church choir, Mrs. J. F. Fennessey, Mrs. Cecelia Lorenzo, Miss Delia Burke, Dr. D. B. Reardon, Joseph Daley, Paul Morrissette and Robert J. Teasdale, assisted by Thomas Clifford and Miss Lucy Phillips of Boston under the direction of Miss Mary McKay, organist.

At the offertory, Mrs. Fennessey sang De Profundis; at the elevation, Miss Phillips sang Pie Jesu; and after the mass, Mr. Clifford sang O'Jesu Deus Pacis.

The ushers at the church were Paul Morrissette, John McLaughlin and Ambrose Shortle.

The flowers were many and beautiful, each of the orders sending set pieces. There were also many beautiful pieces from the family and friends. The flowers included the following:

Pillow from St. Francis court of Foresters.

Standing wreath from the Knights of Columbus.

Standing cross from St. Mary's society.

Broken column from the Granite Manufacturers' association.

Standing pillow from the Copeland club.

Pillow from James White and family.

Pillow from his brothers and sisters.

Standing wreath from Mr. and Mrs. William Cashman.

Mound from Mrs. William Shea and family.

Wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Murphy.

Wreath from the principal and teachers of the Willard school.

Wreath from Benjamin Johnson.

Wreath from Mr. and Mrs. James F. Burke.

Flat bouquet from Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Reynolds.

Standing wreath and cross from Quincy lodge of Elks.

Wreath from Mr. and Mrs. William Callahan.

Standing wreath from Ambrose Shortle.

Spray of pinks from Mrs. John Hussey and family.

Spray of pinks from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ash.

Forty-five roses from Miss Alice M. Desmond.

Wreath from Miss Elizabeth Gaugher.

Flat bouquet from Phalian club.

The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

BATTLESHIP UTAH.

The battleship Utah will be launched next Tuesday at Philadelphia. The sponsor will be Miss Mary Alice Spry, the daughter of Gov. Spry of Utah.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

DIMOCK & PATTEN
Carpenters and Builders

Plans furnished and estimates given.
All work personally and promptly attended to.

133 PROSPECT AVENUE
WOLLASTON
Telephone 532-1 Quincy.

Dec 18—1yS

BANQUET OF COLLEGE CLUB

Harvard and Yale Men Among the Speakers

Over forty fellows listened to the addresses by W. A. Minot of Harvard, and E. C. Worman of Yale, at the first annual banquet of the College Club held in the Y. M. C. A. assembly hall last evening. The hall was handsomely decorated in bunting and banners representing as far as possible all the larger colleges in the country. This was the work of Roland Estey, a member of the club.

At 7 o'clock the banquet began and for an hour the boys satisfied the wants of the "inner man."

At 8 o'clock chairs were pushed back and tables cleared. Then J. A. Sedgewick as presiding officer introduced Roy L. Sidelinger as toastmaster. Secretary Gay and President R. D. Chase of the Y. M. C. A. were in turn introduced by the toastmaster, and they both complimented the boys on the success of the undertaking.

W. A. Minot, full back on Harvard Varsity the past season, and Walter Camps, "All American" full back was the next speaker. Taking for his subject the matter of training, as applied to sports, he considered it in all its phases, and gave the youthful athletes present a clear idea of the value of real scientific training.

H. W. Gibson, boys State secretary, was the next speaker, and he spoke on "Youth, Manhood and Christian aspiration. E. C. Worman, Yale '05, students State secretary was the concluding speaker, giving an interesting discourse on "Hidden Treasures."

The banquet committee consisted of Roy L. Sidelinger, Roland Estey and Clarence P. Cassidy. The menu was a full course turkey dinner which went to the right spot.

Red Cross Stamps
On Christmas Letters
Carry Good Cheer

Two Shows at Music Hall, Christmas

Matinee at 2.30, Evening at 8.

3 ACTS, 5,000 FEET MOVING PICTURES.

Advance Sale of Coupon Reserved Seat Tickets.

GET YOURS TODAY

Admission 10 Cents. Reserved 20 Cents. Dec. 18-6t

YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER

Will not be complete without having some of OUR FAMOUS

MINCE or SQUASH PIES

on the table. We guarantee absolute purity and cleanliness. We use no substitutes or adulterations.

Just Like Mother Used to Make.

BARNARD'S PURE FOOD BAKERY

1587 Hancock Street, Quincy. Dec. 18 6t

A CHRISTMAS BOX OF

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Men's Hose

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.

The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.

PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00

Can you beat it for the Price?

GEORGE W. JONES

No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

The Simple Life.

"If you were to put more water into the meal, they'd digest it in half the time."

"Tolme hain't of no 'count to these ere pigs, mister."—Tatler.

BRIEFS

The Quincy men now serving on the jury at the Norfolk criminal court are: Samuel E. Ames, Fred S. Boyden, William J. Parker, William Souden, and Charles H. Tower.

A new electric light has been placed at the corner of Prospect street and Walker place, which was very badly needed especially since the three new three apartment houses were erected on Prospect street.

Judge Sherman of the Norfolk superior civil court directed a verdict for the defendant in the case of Peter Battistini vs John Q. A. Field, et al, of Quincy, to recover $5000 for personal injuries.

A verdict was given the defendant this week in the case of William D. Dwyer, editor of the Brockton Searchlight vs. John F. Tobin of Quincy, president of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union, for alleged libel and slander.

The foot ball team of the Milton gymnasium is planning to give a minstrel show at an early date under the direction of Andrew J. Dinegan of West Quincy. John Lauabee of East Milton has again been reelected manager.

The Granite City club will observe the night before Christmas this year as usual. There will be a lunch served during the entire evening, and an entertainment at Colonial hall. Owing to the limited accommodations the entertainment will be for members only.

C. W. Guy, the well known Boston furniture dealer who makes his home in Quincy, is a great lover of nature. In the summer time he takes great delight in his flower gardens. Just now it is canary birds, and visitors to his home are greeted with sweet notes from several bird cages.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days

E. W. Grove on box. 25c

MONK'S ORCHESTRA
First Class Music Furnished for any Occasion.
Address 241 Washington Street, Quincy
Tel. Connection. Nov. 27-o-1w-1-tf

White House Mail
& ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

MISS EDWARDS LOCATED

Girl Who Was Once Supposed to Be Suit Case Murder Victim

Providence, Dec. 18.—Gertrude Edwards, the young Scituate woman who was at first thought to have been the victim in the gruesome Tiverton suit case murder, has been located by her mother in Brooklyn.

Miss Edwards disappeared from home a few days before the dismembered portions of what later proved to be Miss St. Jean of Woonsocket were found scattered in the wooded highway near Tiverton. Mrs. Edwards made a pathetic appeal through the daily papers for some word from her daughter, but no reply came.

In a letter to a local newspaper, dated from Brooklyn, and postmarked Dec. 17, Mrs. Edwards says that she has searched in four states, but has finally located the girl in Brooklyn through the assistance of friends. She claims that her daughter is in the employment of a family there and is in good health.

EXCEPTIONS FOR MANTI R

Filed by Counsel For Young Man Convicted of Murder

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 18.—Attorneys Winslow and Maroney, who appeared for James Mantir, one of the defendants in the Mullins murder case, filed exceptions to the court's rulings denying a plea for jurisdiction regarding the drawing of the jury and a motion to quash the indictment.

In addition, Mantir takes exception to the evidence of Patrolmen Gordon, Byrnes, Urquhart and Mrs. Elizabeth Delorey on the ground that he at no time made any answer which was an admission of guilt and that all his statements were in denial of guilt, and he declares that none of the statements made by Peter Delorey in the latter's alleged confession are admissible against him.

MEYERS' NAVAL IDEAS ALREADY IN EFFECT

Secretary Now Wants Congress to Sanction Them

Washington, Dec. 18.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer appeared before the house committee on naval affairs and explained in minute detail his naval reorganization plan. When he had closed he informed the committee that he had put most of his ideas into effect several weeks ago and could legally continue them so without legislation, but that unless congress sanctioned them he would feel it his duty to go back to the old plan.

After this frank statement of the situation in the navy department Meyer asked the committee to prepare a naval appropriation bill that would, if enacted into law, definitely legalize the changes he has made and others that he hopes to make in the near future.

To this end he handed to the committee memoranda showing to what bureaus appropriations should be given and in a parallel column the present method of appropriation.

COOK REPORT ABOUT READY

Quick Work Not Regarded as Good Omen by Explorer's Friends

Copenhagen, Dec. 18.—The examination of Dr. Frederick A. Cook's data regarding his alleged discovery of the Pole is almost completed. It is asserted that the findings of the University of Copenhagen committee may be returned today. The committee declined to consider the statements of Captain Loose and George Dunkle of New York, who say they prepared data for Cook.

The prospects of such an early termination is not regarded as a good omen by the public, which is friendly to Cook.

PRISONERS TORTURED

"Inhuman, Incredible and Vile" Conditions In Atlanta Prison

Atlanta, Dec. 18.—After a rigid inspection of conditions in the city prison, a grand jury indicted Superintendent Vining and Guard Cornet and pronounced the conditions "inhuman, incredible and vile."

The jury's report told of unsanitary conditions, torture machines and other alleged horrors seen in the men's and women's quarters, white and black.

Arbitration Rejected by Strikers

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 18.—A proposition to submit their cause to arbitration was refused by the striking granite cutters at Northfield, who started the strike that has thrown 6000 men out of work in Vermont granite works.

$1,250,000 Paid on Lost Steamer

London, Dec. 18.—Three hundred persons on the Australian liner Waratah were officially given up for dead and the $1,250,000 insurance claims on the steamer were paid at Lloyds. The Waratah has been missing since July.

The Weather

Almanac, Sunday, Dec. 19.
Sun rises—7:09; sets—4:14.
Moon sets—11:37 p. m.
High water—4 a. m.; 4:50 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Generally fair; moderate to brisk west winds.

WITH MADRIZ AS PRESIDENT

Conditions In Nicaragua Would Not Be Improved

ZELAYA POLICIES MUST GO

Washington Officials Realize That Election of Anybody In Sympathy With Former President Would Only Prolong Struggle—Speculation as to Exact Mission of Mexican Gunboat In Nicaraguan Waters

Washington, Dec. 18.—Selection of a successor to President Zelaya, whose resignation as president of Nicaragua has been tendered, is expected to complicate instead of improving the troubled situation. It is reported that any attempt to elect Jose Madriz, his probable successor, will precipitate further broils, because the people, especially the revolutionists, believe he is too closely allied with Zelaya and that his administration would be dominated to a great extent by the retiring president.

JOSE MADRIZ

It is admitted that if a successor to Zelaya, who would be favorable to the revolutionists and the people clamoring for reform were elected, the troubles of the country would soon abate and normal conditions be restored, but so long as a vestige of the Zelaya power remains, especially in the person of his successor, there will be strife and revolution.

The only solution, it is pointed out, is the election of a man absolutely opposed to Zelaya and his policies. Only then will it be possible to restore peace. In such an event the revolutionists will be satisfied, for their purpose, the complete overthrow of the tyrannical rule of Zelaya, will have been achieved.

The officials here are admittedly worried over the possible outcome of the selection of Zelaya's successor. It is recognized that the election of anybody known or even supposed to be in sympathy with Zelaya will only prolong the struggle and disrupt the country to an even greater extent than it is now.

That the retirement of Zelaya came so soon after the first conference between Secretary Knox and Enrique Creel, the special Mexican ambassador, would indicate that the unyielding attitude of the United States was quickly transmitted to Zelaya.

The published statement from Zelaya to the effect that on Dec. 4, in a telegram to Secretary Knox, he suggested that an American commission be appointed to visit Nicaragua and stating that if the findings of that commission should show his administration too detrimental to Central America he would resign, is regarded here as one of the many mis-statements by him. It is officially announced at the state department that no such telegram ever was received from Zelaya, and the strong inference is that none was sent.

The presence of the Mexican gunboat General Guerrero at Corinto has aroused in official circles here an interest as to her exact mission in Nicaraguan waters. This is stimulated by the fact that Mexicans and Mexican interests are not thought to be in the least imperilled by events in Nicaragua, and the question naturally arises as to whether or not her real mission is not to furnish an easy way for the retiring president to leave the country.

No one in an official position here is willing to say that such an act would be in itself an unfriendly one to the United States, but on the other hand the opinion seems to be general that it could not by any possibility be regarded as a friendly act. Developments in this direction are awaited with interest here.

Chauffeur Accused of Manslaughter

Providence, Dec. 18.—Charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Frederick Whipple, Albert E. Newsham, a chauffeur, was arrested in Pawtucket. It is alleged by the police that he was driving the automobile which inflicted fatal injuries on Whipple.

Two Killed In Georgia Wreck

Woodbury, Ga., Dec. 18.—Two persons were killed instantly, one fatally and three seriously injured when a fast train plunged through a mail car at the railroad here.

POLITICS LAID ASIDE

Asquith Spending His Time at Bedside of Grief-Stricken Daughter

London, Dec. 18.—In one of the greatest crises Great Britain has seen in years, Premier Asquith has abandoned practically the campaign and the Liberal party to be at the bedside of his daughter, Violet, who is prostrated by the death of her fiance, Archibald Gordon, third son of the Earl of Aberdeen.

Gordon was injured in an automobile accident on Nov. 28, and was taken to a hospital at Winchester. There Miss Asquith hurried as soon as she heard the news and there she remained until his death yesterday. She hardly left his bedside during the whole time, and not for a moment since 10 o'clock Tuesday night, when the doctors said that death was imminent.

HAS QUIETING EFFECT

Immersion Cure Proves Beneficial to Highly Nervous Patients

New York, Dec. 18.—At a hearing before John P. Mitchell, commissioner of accounts, Dr. Gregory, in charge of the psychopathic ward in Bellevue hospital, who has at various times been acting superintendent, gave testimony as to "immersion" treatment for violent patients. He said it had become regarded as the best method of treatment for highly nervous and insane patients.

"The method," he said, "is to place the patient in a hammock, with pillows under his head, well covered up and suspended in a bath tub, through which water of an even temperature is kept running. Its quieting effect is remarkable. We have not as many such baths as we should have."

LUDLOW STRIKE QUICKLY RENEWED

Followed by Suits Against Foreman For Alleged Assault

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 18.—Three suits were filed in the superior court here, all actions of tort asking for damages because of alleged assaults in the mills of the Ludlow Associates in Ludlow yesterday.

Annie Wanz and Sophia Golenbeski ask for $3000 each from James Smith, foreman in Mill No. 10, for pushing and roughly handling them, and John Hrabscz asks for $1000 for an alleged assault on his person by Richard Brady, a foreman in Mill No. 1.

The suits were brought upon the advice of the Central Labor union officials here and followed a renewal of the strike.

A majority of the strikers went to work yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, but the truce established by the state board of arbitration and conciliation came to an abrupt end shortly after 8 o'clock, when the Poles left the mills, vowing they would not return until the strike-breakers now at work had been sent away.

At the mills the Pinkerton guards have been increased, and Chief Storer has asked that additional special officers be rushed to Ludlow as soon as possible.

INFATUATED WITH CHINESE

White Woman's Action Causes Her Husband to Obtain Divorce

New York, Dec. 18.—Sun Chann, Mongolian cashier in a Chinese curio shop, broke up the family of Frank B. Paulsen, cashier in the auditor's office of the Mutual Life Insurance company, who obtained a divorce from his wife Sarah. Sun Chann was named as corespondent.

The Paulsens separated by mutual agreement a year ago, and Mrs. Paulsen went to her former home at New Platz, N. Y. Her alleged infatuation with Sun Chann dated from that time, her husband said. Mrs. Paulsen denied the charges.

ACTION IS DELAYED

Advocates of White Slave Bill Think Opponents Will Soon Weaken

Washington, Dec. 18.—The "white slave" bill introduced by Chairman Mann of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce was considered at yesterday's meeting of Mann's committee, but was not acted upon. The committee will assemble again today to take it up.

The advocates of the bill believe that one or two of the minority are weakening in their opposition to the measure.

Frick Helps Beverly Y. M. C. A.

Beverly, Mass., Dec. 18.—Henry C. Frick, steel magnate and summer resident at Pride's Crossing, has sent a check for $10,000 to the Y. M. C. A. building committee. Citizens have already contributed $88,000 of $100,000 required.

Alleged Poisoner Held

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 18.—Charles Reeves, accused of attempting to murder his daughter and son-in-law by poison, was held under bonds of $5000, charged with attempt to murder. He was unable to furnish bail.

Jennesca Visits Taft

Washington, Dec. 18.—Dr. Thomas Jennesca, the advocate of stovaine as an anaesthetic, was the guest of President Taft at the White House yesterday.

HADLOCK HELD IN $2500 BAIL

Boston Mayoral Candidate Arrested In Granite State

FILING OF FALSE PAPERS

Charge Upon Which a Hub Lawyer Is Arraigned For Violating Law—Election Commissioners Said to Have Found Forged Names of Many Supporters of Storrow or Fitzgerald—Inspectors Hunted Evidence

Boston, Dec. 18.—John C. Hadlock, a lawyer, who filed papers nominating himself mayor of Boston, was arrested on an indictment of forty counts, charging him with violating the election law in filing false papers of nomination.

Hadlock was found at his father's home at Milford, N. H., and was brought here by Inspector Lynch of police headquarters. He waived extradition and willingly accompanied the police inspector.

When he was taken before Judge Wait in the superior criminal court for arraignment, District Attorney Pelletier asked that bail be fixed at $5000. After a conference, Judge Wait reduced this to $2500. Hadlock's father came from Milford and furnished bonds.

The arrest was the result of an investigation begun by the election commissioners. When Hadlock filed fifty papers, containing 5000 alleged signatures, the commissioners went over them for verification with the voting lists. They found a striking likeness between many of the signatures, and reported the fact to the district attorney and to police headquarters. Fifteen inspectors were detailed to look up the names, and after three days' examination they were summoned before the grand jury by Pelletier.

Among the names Hadlock is accused of forging are those of some very prominent supporters of Storrow or Fitzgerald.

On one nomination paper there are fifty-one signatures and by a coincidence or otherwise they are the same as a row of names from a voting list. On the Hadlock papers there are the names of about 400 citizens who vote in Ward 8. On one paper there are the names of more than eighty Italians in Ward 6.

Hadlock is a graduate of the class of 1896 at Dartmouth, and was born in Milford in January, 1873. After leaving college he went to the Boston university law school. Upon receiving his law degree he went into the office of former Attorney General Pillsbury. There he stayed for several years, and then went into business for himself.

DRAGGED TO DEATH

Teamster's Blood Stained Street For Distance of Half a Mile

Waltham, Mass., Dec. 18.—A bloody trail extending a half mile along Main street, through the Beaver brook section of Waltham, bore testimony last night to the frightful death of Lawrence P. Connors, a teamster.

Falling by some accident from his seat, his feet caught in the whiffletree of the big lumber wagon, and the horses slowly walked to their stable, dragging the driver to death behind them.

Although the horses walked for more than half a mile to the stable of Peter J. O'Malley, the police could not find a single person who had seen the team.

DANGER OF LOSING GIFT

Bible Society Has but Two Weeks In Which to Raise $163,000

New York, Dec. 18.—In order to obtain $500,000 from Mrs. Russell Sage, offered by her almost two years ago, the American Bible society will have to raise $163,000 before Dec. 31.

Mrs. Sage offered $500,000 toward an endowment fund of $1,000,000 if the society could raise the rest within a year. About this time last year the society got Mrs. Sage to give it another year of grace. So far there is $337,000 on hand.

Labor Union Men Unseated

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 18.—As the result of a premptory order from the American Federation of Labor, the local Central Labor union unseated the delegates from the Weavers' union and the Slasher Tenders' union. These two unions have left the United Textile Workers of America, the national textile organization.

Abused Little Girls

Boston, Dec. 18.—A sentence of twenty to twenty-two years in state prison was imposed upon Thomas Lipton in the superior criminal court. He is 58 years old, a widower, and lived alone in a flat of four rooms. He was charged with having improper relations with two girls, 12 and 13 years old respectively.

Painters and Paper Hangers Agree

Cincinnati, Dec. 18.—The differences between the painters and the paper hangers which threatened a split in the International Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers, was settled at the convention of the body in this city.

Smokeless

Until science discovered a way to construct the Automatic Smokeless Device, and make it completely dependable, all oil heaters had one common great fault—smoke.

With the advent of the Automatic Smokeless Device, and its practical application to the

PERFECTION Oil Heater
(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

the smoke problem was successfully solved.

The Perfection Oil Heater is the only heater equipped with this which insures a steady, full-glowing heat, with the wick turned up as high as it will go, without a shred of smoke. Reverse the motion, turn the wick down—there's no odor.

Automatic Smokeless Device

The smokeless device automatically locks and prevents the upward movement of the wick beyond the proper exposure. That is the secret. This splendid result gives leadership to the Perfection.

You may now have all the heat you want—when you want it—and where you want it—without the annoyance of smoke or odor.
Brass font holds 4 quarts of oil, which permits a glowing heat for 9 hours.
Brass wick tube—damper top—cool handle. Cleaned in a minute.
The Perfection is beautifully finished in Nickel or Japan.

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not At Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

WHEELER'S

Christmas Christmas

See what we offer for Christmas.

All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Belts | Handkerchiefs | Pocket Books |
| Aprons | Stamped Linens | Purses |
| Gloves | Stationery | Bags |
| Xmas Cards | Handkerchief Boxes | Calendars |
| Booklets | Glove Boxes | Needle Books |
| Post Cards | Collar Boxes | Shaving Cases |

We also have a good line of

"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists

Christmas Christmas

CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY
(DRY GOODS STORE.)

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 1o-tf

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

Sprague's New River STEAM COAL

Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined

Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.

J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS

TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf

Good Fellowship

occasionally leads to over-indulgence in the good things of the table. Be good to your stomach. Right it at once with

Beecham's Pills

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

Only One Cent

Means Help for the

Tuberculosis Camp

Plants for Christmas

Azaleas, Cyclamens

FERNS, FERN DISHES

In Great Variety

William Patterson,

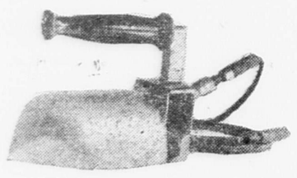
Central Avenue, Wollaston

Telephone 392-1 Quincy.

Dec. 17 tf



Wadsworth QUINCY MASS TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS TRADE MARK REGISTERED

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

Dec. 14—1m.

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING

1357 Hancock Street

Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

Pine Wood For Sale

Ashes, Rubbish and Stable Manure carted away.

Peter McConarty

5 Pearl Street, - Quincy, Mass.

Nov. 15-1m

ADVERTISING

Is a Good Investment.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 13, | 11.30 | 11.45 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.30 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.15 | 2.30 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.30 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Mrs. John W. Mackay.

Widow of "Bonanza King" and Mother of Financier.

Mrs. John W. Mackay is the widow of the famous capitalist, who died in 1902. Clarence H. Mackay, who took his father's place in the financial world is her son.

BRIEFS

The front of the Savings Bank building is being cleaned.

The public schools will close next Wednesday night for the holiday, reopening Monday, Jan. 3.

There was quite a snow flurry about 11 o'clock last night, but all the snow disappeared before morning.

The electric light pole on the corner of Chestnut and Hancock street which had become rotten is being replaced.

Former superintendent of schools Frank E. Parlin and family are now located in their new home in Cambridge.

There is some good skating on Butler's pond and the young people are making the most of it. The young people hope that the Park Commissioners will see their way to have skating ponds in every ward.

The ladies and gentlemen who are to sing in the chorus of the opera "Chimes of Normandy," to be given early in January by the Knights of Columbus are rehearsing two nights a week, and are fast nearing perfection.

Santa Claus is making his headquarters at the H. L. Kincaide Annex and as he rides out through the city in his big auto filled with Christmas trees and toys he is the delight of the children.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening. This will be the last regular meeting of the City Council of 1909. An adjourned meeting will probably be held during the week to clean up matters on the calendar.

The Athol Chronicle says: Rev. Carl G. Horst of Wollaston, formerly of this town, occupied the pulpit at the Second Unitarian Church Sunday morning and was greeted with a very large audience. He delivered a powerful and helpful sermon on what constitutes a useful life,— one that left a deep impression with all who were so fortunate as to hear it. After the service an informal reception was held by Rev. and Mrs. Horst in front of the pulpit, and they were warmly greeted by their Athol friends.

☞ You will not want to miss reading the Ledger of Wednesday, Dec. 22.

Red Cross Stamps

CONTEST FOR KING'S WEALTH

Leopold Left but $3,000,000 to His Three Daughters

PRACTICALLY DISINHERITED

Monarch Turned Large Portion of Vast Fortune Over to Baroness Vaughan and Her Children—Latter Have No Succession Rights—King's Favorite Will Be Banished If Found to Be of Foreign Birth

Brussels, Dec. 18.—The filing of the will of King Leopold shows that he divided $3,000,000 between his three daughters, Princess Louise, Princess Stephanie and Princess Clementine.

This practical disinheritance of his children signifies the launching of a gigantic legal battle to obtain the king's wealth, similar to that which ensued at the death of their mother, Queen Henrietta.

The exact amount of Leopold's fortune probably never will be revealed. Senator Winer, the king's friend and confidential legal adviser, says that Leopold had turned over a considerable portion of it to Baroness Vaughan and her children and had created a stock company of his estates in order to forestall a possible raid upon them by Princesses Louise and Stephanie or their creditors.

Senator Winer said that perhaps later considerable portions of his estate would be handed over to Belgium.

Princess Clementine, aside from the bequest she will receive, is provided for by a special income from Congo properties.

Investigation shows that the rights of succession to the throne of a child of the king by Baroness Vaughan are not worthy of serious attention. It is pointed out by Winer that if there was only a religious ceremony the laws of the kingdom would prevent the accession of a child of such a union. Winer, however, does not believe there was a religious marriage.

If it is established that Baroness Vaughan is of foreign birth she probably will be expelled from Belgium, like the favorite of Leopold I, Baroness Meyer, whose house was attacked and destroyed by a mob after the king's death.

The entire kingdom of Belgium mourns its departed ruler. Courts, schools and theatres are closed, parliament and the municipal council have adjourned and flags are at half-staff in every city, town and village of the kingdom in honor of the dead monarch.

Under the constitution the affairs of the nation are in the control of the cabinet until Prince Albert takes the oath of succession next Thursday, the day following the funeral of his uncle, before the joint houses of parliament in the senate chamber.

An official decree issued yesterday lauds King Leopold's career and declares his creation of the Congo Independent state was an act unique in the annals of history. "Posterity will judge Leopold a great king with a great reign," it says.

The body of Leopold remains in the mortuary chamber of "The Palms." This evening it will be removed to the palace in Brussels. The face of the dead monarch will not be exposed again to public view.

Marriage Considered Illegal

Paris, Dec. 18.—it is not believed here that complications are likely to arise over the question of the right of accession to the Belgian throne of the son of King Leopold and Baroness Vaughan, as a religious marriage without a civil ceremony is illegal alike under the French, Belgian and Italian law.

It appears most probable that there will be much litigation over Leopold's estate, especially his property in the Riveria, where he was one of the largest holders of real estate. It is understood that the king made some arrangements for withdrawing this and other of his property from the right of general succession in order to convey it to the baroness.

Under the Belgian law a parent is not permitted to bequeath more than a quarter of his belongings away from his children and reports are current here that counsel for Princess Louise already has made the first move for a legal battle.

Five Deaths In Coffin Factory Fire

Philadelphia, Dec. 18.—All doubt as to the fate of the five girls who were reported missing after the fire at Shrack & Sherwood's coffin factory was removed when the five bodies were found on the third floor of the damaged building.

Fall Causes Priest's Death

Seymour, Conn., Dec. 18.—Losing his balance as he stood on the landing of the second story of his home, Rev. Father Martin Rigney fell over the stairs and was killed. He was 50 years old.

Aviator Badly Injured

Dover, Eng., Dec. 18.—Thrown to the ground by a plunge of his speeding aeroplane, Aviator Ogilvie was badly hurt near Rye. The plane was almost demolished.

OIL TRUST FILES APPEAL

May Be Two Years Before It Reaches the Supreme Court

St. Louis, Dec. 18.—The appeal of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, its subsidiaries and the seven individuals against whom the government recently won its dissolution suit in the United States circuit court, were filed here yesterday.

Sixty-five assignments of error are claimed in the suit. If an appeal is granted the case will go direct to the United States supreme court, which may advance it on the docket for an early decision, because of its importance.

Some lawyers, however, believe the latter would let it take its regular course, in which event it would not be reached for at least two years.

CONFERENCE ARRANGED

Weavers In Fitchburg Silk Mills Are Out For Higher Wages

Fitchburg, Mass., Dec. 18.—The seventy weavers whose strike at the Conforth & Marx silk mills in West Fitchburg has thrown 100 other employes at the mill out of work appointed a committee which will confer with the mill owners.

The weavers demand an advance of from 2¼ cents a yard to 3 cents. The mill men have offered to compromise by giving 3 cents a yard on one grade of goods for which the weavers have been receiving 2¼ cents and by granting an additional quarter of a cent on all other grades.

TEXAS TO GIVE UP THE IRON BUSINESS

State Finds No Profit In It With Convict Labor

Austin, Dec. 18.—The state of Texas has decided to go out of the iron business. It is claimed by the state board of penitentiary commissioners that the iron industry has proved unprofitable, and that it cannot be successfully carried on with convict labor under existing conditions.

The state established the industry at the Rusk penitentiary several years ago and everything was arranged for carrying on the industry. The legislature made an appropriation of $150,000, which was used in experimenting as to the possibilities of the industry.

The results were satisfactory for a time, but during the last two years the 100-ton furnace has been operated at a heavy loss. The last legislature made another appropriation of $100,000 in aid of the industry. The last of this money has been spent without bringing in any returns to the state.

DRINK THE CHIEF TARGET

Reformers Adjourn After Discussing Many Forms of Vice

Washington, Dec. 18.—Upon two principles of reform the twenty-one societies represented in the reformers' conclave agreed unanimously before the meeting closed here. One is total abstinance for the individual, and the other prohibition for the state.

Out of the mass of reform projects, which included the white slave traffic, the drug habit, race track gambling and many other forms of vice, drink alone got the unanimous whacking of the reformers.

NO TRACE OF CREW

Whaleboat of the Marietta Found Off the Coast of Panama

Panama, Dec. 18.—The whaleboat from the U. S. S. Marietta, lost with five men off Port Limon on Nov. 26, was found on the beach eighteen miles east of Colon, by the Panamanian police.

The boat had the letter M on its bow and was identified as the Marietta's. Nothing was learned of the crew, and it is believed they were drowned.

Wireless Laws Wanted

Washington, Dec. 18.—The exploits of amateur Jack Binnses resulted in the introduction of a joint resolution in the house for the appointment of a board of seven experts to prepare a comprehensive system of regulations to govern the operations of all wireless plants afloat and ashore, both government and commercial.

Shoots Two and Kills Self

Philadelphia, Dec. 18.—After shooting and seriously wounding Minnie B. Carey, aged 23, and William B. Bostick, aged 37, in the dining room of a boarding house in this city, Joseph E. Murray committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. He was jealous of the girl.

Mill Hand Drawn to Death

Madison, Me., Dec. 18.—Saying "Good-bye, boys," to his fellow employes in a paper mill when he realized his fate, James Perkins, aged 23, was drawn through a nine-inch space by a shaft on which his clothing had caught and was so severely injured that he died.

Judge Found Dead In Bed

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Supreme Court Justice George H. Fitts of Albany was found dead in bed at the Eagle hotel. He had been presiding at the trial term here.

Begin with the First Chapter next Monday.

The Fourth Estate

How the power of the press may be wielded in behalf of the people

The story of an editor's sacrifice of love on the altar of principle

A Romance of Newspaperdom

NOVELIZED BY FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Much Talked About Newspaper Play by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford

Realistic, Thrilling, True to the Life of Today

This is the New Serial

Which will be started next Monday in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

"The Fourth Estate"

Presents Pictures of Scenes in Editorial and Composing Rooms of a Newspaper Office which are startlingly true to life . . . .

The Story is a Graphic Pen Picture

Of the Social conditions of the day. It has a real hero in Wheeler Brand, the managing editor, who sacrifices his love for a woman to his sense of duty. . . . . .

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

That is an appropriate motto for this week selected by the First Presbyterian church. It reads: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Already there is interest in the series of historical papers inaugurated by the Daily Ledger this week. Draughtsmen at the Fore River shipyard took much pleasure in reading of the local shipbuilding industry of years ago, particularly in the dimensions of some of the ships. Can anyone tell whether any of the ships built by Deacon Thomas are now in commisison?

Prolonged labor differences are unfortunate for cities and all concerned, and it is to be regretted that the granite cutters at Montpelier and Barre have refused to arbitrate. It is only by arbitration that a settlement can be reached, and the earlier the better. Quincy is not so selfish as to desire a prolonged lockout in Vermont, although Barre was built up because of the granite strike in Quincy. Arrangements should be made for more conferences of the granite manufacturers and the granite cutters, looking to an early agreement.

There are many things a city like ours must do to keep abreast with the requirements of the times. We have in an exceptional degree the right people to plan and to get results. We meet opposition and temporary defeat, but where there is a will there is a way. What most towns mainly need is a force to destroy the spirit of narrow-mindedness and there is no better way to accomplish that than to embody the teachings of civic government and what makes for civic pride in the general lessons in all our schools. It may be a slow way, but it will ultimately bring mighty results. We have clubs, associations, charity organizations, and so forth, all private institutions tending to one end, working for the advancement of the city in growth, beauty and comfort. United action would bring good results.

"The Story of Uncle Tom's Cabin" given by Dr. Charles Edward Stowe at Bethany church Sunday evening will interest many who are not regular church attendants. No other American book has ever wielded the moral and spiritual power of this book. It has been printed in scores of different languages and the circulation of the book in this country has been enormous, and it is still one of the most popular books in our libraries. The story of the writing of this book and the life of its famous writer form such an interesting chapter of American history that thinking people will be glad of the opportunity to better inform themselves concerning the influence of the book and its famous authoress. Dr. Stowe in his literary style and earnestness is a forceful reminder of the eloquence of the famous Beecher family. Dr. Stowe is a Congregational clergyman and has but recently relinquished pastoral work because of the great demand for his services as a platform speaker.

Are the business men of West Quincy sure that it is a reduction of railroad fares to Boston, and a more direct street railway line that will benefit their part of the city? When the street railway line to Quincy was opened it was a great injury to store business at West Quincy. If better railroad facilities would attract people to West Quincy, a benefit might accrue; but if they simply make it easier for people to get out of West Quincy that is quite another thing. The Improvement Society should work for a new depot, the abolition of the grade crossings, the double tracking of the Granite branch, and the opening up of new stations rather than lower fares. Let the aim be to make West Quincy more beautiful as a place of residence, and more diversified in manufacturing, so that there will be work for women and girls as well as men. And also other lines for men.

SANTA CLAUS DANGERS.

There is more evidence than usual that Christian people are awake to two dangers that attend the annual visit of the genial and beloved old fiction saint of the Christmas season, Santa Claus. Both dangers are grave. One is that Santa Claus will be given the chief place in the Christmas exercises of the Sunday school, instead of the Christ-Child whose birthday Christmas is; the other that children's faith in their parents and friends will be shaken or destroyed by being told the Santa Claus myth as though it were true.

The Sunday School Times does not believe that "Santa Claus" ought to be done away with, for it has long expressed its belief that, properly introduced, he is a harmless and joyous old figure, whose loss out of childlife would be a real loss and one that is wholly unnecessary. But we need to be reminded that there is a right way and a wrong way of bringing him into the life of our homes.

It is never well and it is never necessary to lead a child to believe in something that does not exist, and when this unreality is made to crowd out Christ himself the loss to the child is unspeakable. But we and the chillren can have our Santa Claus and all the Christmas good times and mystery and jollification that are so dear to the child "when Santa Claus comes" without any of the danger that has been so earnestly and wisely spoken against in these letters. How this is to be is shown in the letters themselves. The child does not have to believe that Santa Claus is a real being to enjoy him. No one responds so readily to "make believe" as does the natural healthy-minded child, nor does anyone enjoy it more. The make-believe world and friends of the child are often among his most real and treasured facts, yet never for a moment resulting in actual self-deception nor the need that anyone else shall deceive him.

It is in this make-believe world of the child's that Santa Claus belongs, and there he will be gladly welcomed. If children are told about Santa Claus and his mythical doings in this spirit they will be quick to accept him and enjoy him, yet will never need to pass through the unsettling and certainly harmful experience of learning that they have been deceived by those whom they trusted. That is too high a price to pay for our children's Christmas fun.—Sunday School Times.

Length of Life Among Animals.

The maximum length of life of some of the best known animals is as follows: The horse lives to a maximum of 35 years and the donkey a like period; the dog does not exceed 25 years, the rabbit from 8 to 10, the goose 30, the duck, the hen and the turkey a dozen years. Among the animals having the best established reputation for longevity are: The crow, which lives 100 years; the parrot and the elephant, which attain an age of 150 years. Carp, on the other hand, appear to have usurped their reputation, which was based on ill understood facts from Chantilly and Fontainebleau. They rarely become centenarians. The tortoise appears to be the animal that lives the longest.—Vulgarization Scientifique.

The Shake.

"What did you say last night when Jack asked you to marry him?"

"I shook my head."

"Sideways or up and down?"—Boston Transcript.

There is no piety in keeping an unjust promise.—German Proverb.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

Until New Years
USE THE
Red Cross Stamps

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Following is a list of new books recently added to the Public library:

Balzac, Honore de Country parson Albert Savarus 319 17

Blake, G. H. United States paper money: reference list of paper money, including fractional currency, issued since 1861. Also, List of United States coins issued by the U. S. mints since their organization. 65 153

Carus, Paul. God: enquiry into the nature of man's highest ideal and a solution of the problem from the standpoint of science. [Christianity of to-day series] 542 121

Castle, Egerton. "Young April." 296 91

Colby, J. W. Easy introduction to the old Indian language of the Atlantic coast. 77 58

Cornish, Vaughan. Panama canal and its makers. 477 117

Galsworthy, John. Island pharisees. 212 57

Gilman, Arthur. My Cranford: phase of the quiet life. Hollis, N. H. 152 82

Gray, Asa. New manual of botany, 505 122

Greely, A. W. Handbook of Alaska; its resources, products, and attractions. 157 50

Herrick, Robert. Memoirs of an American citizen. 302 60

Hodges, George. Apprenticeship of Washington, and other sketches of significant colonial personages. 447 64

Holder, C. F. Adventures of Torqua: adventures of three boys, refugees on the island of Santa Catalina, Pimugna, in the 18th century. j275 41

Horton, R. F. My belief; answers to certain religious difficulties. 531 101

Kipling, Rudyard. Stories and poems every child should know. [Every child should know books.] j281 121

Loti, Pierre. pseud. Iceland fisherman. 223 94

Macdonald, D. B. Religious attitude and life in Islam: the Haskell lectures on comparative religion, before the University of Chicago, 1906. 539 11

Marshall, H. E. Stories of William Tell and his friends. [Told to the children series.] j430 65
Story of Napoleon. [Children's heroes series] j437 3

Mighels, P. V., and others. Adventures with Indians, [Harper's adventure series] j287 88

Mills, E. A. Wild life on the Rockies. 157 42

Morse, W. F. Collection and disposal of municipal waste. 492 89

New student's reference work for teachers, students and families 4v. Ch. R.

Oxley, J. Macdonald Fife and drum at Louisbourg. j289 4

Podmore, Frank. Naturalization of the supernatural. 530 56

Sand, George. pseud. Antonia 236 43

Scott, Sir Walter. Ivanhoe; Rob Roy. Retold for children by Sir Edward Sullivan. j269 52

Sernberg, C. H. Life of a fossil hunter. [American nature series] 482 39

Stewart, C. D. Partners of Providence. 325 98

Stuart, Ruth M. Napoleon Jackson: the gentleman of the plush rocker. 304 39
Sonny: a Christmas guest. 304 33

Student's manual, with page references to the New student's reference work. Ch. R.

Trowbridge, John. Story of a wireless telegraph boy. j269 19

Turgenef, Ivan. Virgin soil. 2v. 300 79-80

Van Dyke, Henry. Story of the other wise man 321 82

Viele, H. K. Last of the Knickerbockers: comedy romance. 250 124

Wells, H. G. War of the worlds. 292 44

Zangwill, Israel. Mantle of Elijah. 209 35

SOUTH BRAINTREE.

Rev. and Mrs. Watson, parents of Dr. William Watson of Washington street are spending the winter with their son and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph La Breck of Washington street welcomed a little daughter to their home this week and are receiving congratulations of their friends.

The members of the Matrons' whist club were entertained Monday evening by Mrs. W. F. Woodsum of Pearl street. Mrs. William Pettendreigh made the highest score.

Mrs. Rufus A. Thayer of Randolph has been quite ill and threatened with pneumonia but is greatly improved now. Her many friends here will be glad to know of her improvement.

It was no doubt pleasing to Mr. John Orth, the piano virtuoso at the recital Wednesday evening, to meet his old friend William Cuff of Franklin street whom he used to know in days gone by, when they both lived in Taunton.

Mrs. Stephen Gammons of Pond street entertained the members of the A. B. C. at whist Friday afternoon. The souvenirs were secured by Mrs. M. C. Gillette and Miss Catherine Cummings.

Friends and schoolmates of Lowell Holbrook expressed their pleasure at his return to health and home in a substantial manner, Tuesday evening when about twenty surprised him and presented him with a gold signet ring. The evening was spent in games and a general merry making.

Last Saturday evening the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Hayden of Town street surprised them at their home and took possession of the house. The happy occasion was the eighth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden's marriage.

SUNDAY SERVICES

FOURTH SUNDAY IN ADVENT

Church services are inserted in this paper without charge, but none will be accepted to run until further orders. A notice should be sent each week even though it is put a renewal. Give subject and special services when possible. Let all churches be represented.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH (Unitarian)—Rev. E. C. Butler, Russell Park, pastor; Rev. C. B. Ames, 86 Greenleaf street assistant pastor Morning service at 10.30 sermon by Rev. E. C. Butler. Vesper service in the church at 4 P. M, Y. P. R. U. in the chapel at 7 P. M. Special Christmas Program. Special music by Everett Rhodes, violinist.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH Junction Hancock and Chestnut streets—Rev E. N. Hardy, Ph. D, pastor. Morning service at 10.30. Preaching by pastor. Bible school at 12 M. Norwegian service at 4 P. M Young People's meeting at 6.15 P. M. Evening church service at 7.30. Lecture by Rev. Charles E. Stowe "The Story of Uncle Tom's Cabin." The lecture is of thrilling interest throughout.

CHRIST CHURCH, EPISCOPAL—Quincy, Corner Elm street and Quincy avenue. Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector. Holy Communion at 8 A. M. Morning prayer and Litany and sermon at 10.30 Sunday school Galahad Brotherhood at 12.07. Evening Prayer and address at 7. Wednesday St. Thomas's Day 10.00 A. M. Holy Communion. Friday 7.00 P. M, Christmas Eve Festival in the church Saturday Christmas Day, 8.00 A. M. Holy Communion. 10.30 A. M. Holy Communion and sermon.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST CHURCH, Washington Street. Rev. Clark L. Paddock, pastor. Morning service at 10.30 A. M. Rev. C. L. Paddock will preach. Sunday school at 11.45 A.M. Y. P. C. U. at 6 P. M. Subject "Christmas Christ the King."

WASHINGTON STREET CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood, pastor. Residence 10 Farnum street. Morning worship at 10.40. Preaching by Rev. Charles P. Marshall. Sunday School at 12. Deacon Charles Sherburne Supt. 7.30 P.M. Preaching by the Rev. Charles P. Marshall. Friday Jr., and Intermediate C. E. societies at 3.45. Friday evening prayer meeting at 7.30. We have a place for all and a welcome for all.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH, — Franklin street—Rev. R. J. Davis, pastor, residence 206 Franklin street. Preaching service at 10.30 A. M. Theme: "The Unchangeable Christ." Sunday School at 11.45. A. M. B. Y. P. U. at 6 P. M. Praise and preaching service at 7 P. M. Theme, "God's Knowledge of Men." Bible study class, Tuesday evening at 7.30 at the home of Mr. Robert Farquhar 28 Arthur street. Prayer and Conference service Thursday at 7.30 P. M. Everybody welcome. "Come thou with us and we will do the good." Seats free.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH — Corner Quincy and Water streets. Rev. James A Matheson, minister. Morning worship at 10.30. Sabbath school, Brotherhood and Bible classes at 11.45. C. E at 6. Evening praise and worship at 7 Topic "The Potter and the Clay." This weeks motto: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

ST. PAUL'S SWEDISH M. E. CHURCH Fort Street Carl E. Rydstrom, pastor. Residence 272 Whitwell street. Morning service at 10.30. Address by pastor. Sunday school at 12. Preparing for the Christmas program. Epworth League prayer meeting 6.30. Evening service at 7.30 Preaching by pastor. Subject "A Deserter." Good special singing All are heartily welcome

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH—West Quincy. Rev. Carl H. Raupach pastor, Morning Worship at 10.30. Sunday School at 11.45 A. M. Junior League at 3 P. M. Epworth League at 6.15. Leader Miss Beryl Hannant. Evening praise and gospel service at 7. Prayer meeting Friday evening at 7.30.

SWEDISH CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Garfield street Rev. G. W. Palmgren pastor. residence, 174 Glendale road. Morning worship at 10.45 preaching by the pastor. Special sing by male chorus. Sunday school rehearsal for the Christmas program at 12 M. Young people's meeting with Misses Anna and Evelyn Tinglof, Federal avenue at 4 P. M. Public evening service at 7 o'clock. Gospel sermon by the pastor. Special singing.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST CHURCH—Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor. Residence 81 Prospect avenue. Tel 341-4 Morning worship at 10.45. Sermon by the pastor. Subject "The Wonderful Power and Possibilities of prayer." Sunday School and women's class in chapel, men's class in the church at 12.15. Junior Endeavor meeting at 4 P. M. in charge of Mrs. Kendall F. Harriman. All children 8 years and over invited. Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 6 P. M Subject "Our Christmas Gifts." Leader Miss Marion Covey. Evening service at 7 o'clock. Sermon by the pastor. Sixth in series on the "Buts" of Scripture. "Pleasant But." Seats free at all services, everyone cordially invited.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Rev. Edward A. Chase, minister. Residence 20 Marion street. Morning worship and sermon "Jesus Christ, the gift of God in His love for the World." The Primary, Intermediate and Senior grades of the Sunday School. 6.30 meeting of the Society of Christian Endeavor Topic: 'Gifts" Leader Miss Taylor.

WOLLASTON M. E. CHURCH— Corner Beale and Safford streets. Rev. Wesley Wiggin, pastor. Residence 52 Brook street, Telephone Quincy 378-2. Sermon at 10.45 A M. by pas- Subject "Christmas sermon." Sunday School 12 M. Junior League at 4 P. M. Epworth League devotional meeting 6 P. M. Subject: "Leaving the Lump." Luke 15; 28-21. Leader Mrs. Wesley Wiggin. Christmas concert at 7 P. M. Tuesday class meeting in the vestry. Friday Christmas Cantata.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH Hancock street, Wollaston—Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg, rector. Holy Communion at 8 A. M. Morning prayer, Litany and sermon at 10.30. Sunday school at 12 M. Children's service with Instruction at 4 P. M. Evening prayer and sermon at 7.30. Tuesday, St. Thomas day, Holy Communion at 7 A. M.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH—Corner Beale and Farrington streets, Rev. Carl G. Horst, minister, residence 4 Berlin street. Tel Quincy 442-3. Sunday Forefathers' Day. Morning service at 10.45 sermon by minister Subject. "Our debts to the Pilgrims." Kindergarten Sunday School in the vestry at 10.45, Miss Evelyn Cummings, superintendent. Regular session of the Sunday School at 12.10 o'clock. Frank A. Page, superintendent.

PARK AND DOWNS CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Rev. Edward Norton, acting pastor. Morning service at 10.45. Theme "The World's Sunrise." Sunday school at 12.15 M. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6 P. M. Evening service at 7. Theme "A visit to Bethlehem." Midweek prayer service Friday evening at 7.45. All cordially invited.

MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH — Atlantic. Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor. Morning service at 10.45 Sermon by pastor. Subject, "The Spirit of the Fathers." Music by Quartet. Sunday School at 12. Christmas concert by Sunday school at 7 P. M. Also music by Chorus. Everybody welcome.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST Braintree, Post Office Block. Morning service and Sunday School at 10.45. Subject: "Is the Universe, including Man, evolved by Atomic Force" Golden Text: "Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear." Hebrews 11-3. Wednesday 7.45 P. M. a testimony and experience meeting Reading rooms open every week day from 4 to 5 P. M. and Tuesday evening. All are welcome.

Makaria
Fraternity
SUNDAY 12 TO 1—SHARP
Bethany Church, City Square

If YOU are a young man, and not associated with any other Quincy church, YOU are most cordially invited to come to our meeting.
A warm welcome—Hearty singing—A helpful hour together.

Hope.

"Have you seen the account in this morning's papers about Dr. Cutting having brought a dead man back to life?"

"No. Did he do that?"

"Yes. It was a wonderful demonstration of his skill."

"Well, I shall be more hopeful now than I have been for some time. If he can bring the dead back to life he may be able to bring back the book he borrowed from me about two years ago."—Chicago Record-Herald.

DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS
WHAT WILL YOU HAVE FOR CHRISTMAS?
The Granite Shoe Store
SUGGESTS AN IDEAL SHOPPING LIST
We open every night from now till Christmas. Double Legal Stamps every morning till Christmas.
We will cheerfully exchange any purchase after the Holidays.
THESE ARE USEFUL GIFTS
Men's Slippers, 50c. to $2.00. An immense assortment; all Styles; all Leathers, at Lowest Prices.
Women's Slippers, 50c. to $1.50. Cloth and Leather; all Colors, Fur Trimmed Juliets and Boudoir Slippers.
Gaiters and Leggins, 25c. to $1.00. For Men Women and Children. Best quality Gaiters, in all Colors.
Arctics and Overshoes, $1.00 to $2.75. Our Prices on Overshoes as on other goods are the very Lowest.
A new pair of Shawmut Rubbers, (Double wear) makes an acceptable present.
OUR LESS THAN BOSTON PRICES will save you money.
It's convenient to trade at the Granite Store. You save time, trouble and cash. You can make somebody happy by presenting a pair of Walk-Over, Nesmith, Lafrance or Patrician Shoes.
Granite Shoe Store
QUINCY'S SHOE MARKET
DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS
DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS
DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS

FOR CHRISTMAS
BUY YOUR BOY A
Flexible Flyer
THE UP-TO-DATE SLED.
We also carry the Barney and Berry
SKATES
Both Clamp and Key.
Also the good old-fashioned kind for Ladies, with leather heel and toe straps.
HOCKEY STICKS, PUCKS and BALLS.
NATHAN AMES,
5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.
D c. 11 tf

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS
If YOU Want Business

QUINCY'S MOST POPULAR CHRISTMAS STORE
TO SHOP IN
KINCAIDE'S ANNEX
AND 5 AND 10 CENT STORE
Thousands upon Thousands of People visit this store to secure their Christmas Gift Things. Dismiss from your mind the thought that this Quincy Store is not the equal of any Boston store. It is better suited to your needs in a hundred ways. A store that makes a specialty of popular priced gift things. Toys in almost endless variety direct from the largest German, French and American toy factories.
Dolls, Books, Musical Instruments, Fancy Boxes, Fancy China, Fancy Glassware, Ornaments, Household labor-saving articles, Kitchen Furnishings, Skates, Sleds, Carts, Doll Carriages, Christmas Tree Ornaments, Stationery, Table Ware, Etc., Etc.
Thousands of Useful Articles at 5 Cents
Thousands of Attractive Gift Things at 10 Cents
Hundreds of Beautiful Gift Things 10 to 25 Cents
Hundreds of More Beautiful Presents 25 to 98 Cents
More Costly Ones from .98 to $4.98
Come early while stocks are complete. Come often, otherwise you will miss much that you would wish to see. Bring your friends and multiply your own pleasure by adding to theirs.
Santa Claus in his Arctic suit will be here the week before Christmas to meet the little tots and learn just what they want him to bring down the chimney. . .
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.,
1459 Hancock St., Quincy, A Few Doors from our Furniture Store
L 4t—13-15-17-18 O—18

The Social Realm

Do what conscience says is right,
Do what reason says is best,
Do with willing mind and heart,
Do your duty and be blest.
—Whittier.

* * *

Mrs. George L. Badger of West Quincy gave one of the "circle of tight" parties at her home on Thursday evening which took the form of a musicale. There were solos by Mrs. Frank J. Moore and Mrs. Henry Tirrell and duets by Mrs. Moor e and Mrs. Tirrell; piano selections by Mrs. Charles Sampson and the reading of the life of Whittier by Mrs. Victor E. Miller, interspersed with his poems given by Mrs. Tirrell. Refreshments were served. It was a most delightful evening.

* * *

On Tuesday night the Atlantic Study club was entertained by Mrs. Cecil Marble of Squantum street. The subjects of the papers were "Burgos" by Mrs. Arthur Rogers and "Ins and Outs of Travelling in Spain" by Mrs. William E. Tower.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Nichols of Presidents hill has been in New York a few days this week.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Smith entertained a party at whist Thursday at their home on Hancock street, Wollaston. Souvenirs were given to Mrs. Wales, Mrs. Smith, Mr. Bain and Mr. Thomas.

* * *

Mrs. John Meehan of Jamaica Plain is to entertain several Atlantic ladies at luncheon today.

* * *

Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, Mrs. Luther W. Glover and Mrs. Russell A. Sears, are to be the matrons at the Quincy Tennis club dancing party at Music hall on the evening of December twenty-nine.

* * *

Esther Sidelinger '13 is one of seven Radcliffe college delegates to attend the sixth international student volunteer conference at Rochester, N. Y., during the holidays. The party leaves Boston next Tuesday. Miss Sidelinger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Sidelinger of Presidents hill and a Woodward graduate.

* * *

Men's club of St. Chrysostoms church is to enjoy the hospitality of their secretary John L. Hamilton Monday evening at a "smoker" at Elmhurst, Elm avenue.

* * *

Invitations have gone out from Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Rothenberg of the Ilkley, Boston, for the marriage of their daughter Fannie and Samuel Ruff of Brookline on Tuesday evening, January fourth, at six o'clock. After a wedding trip the young people will make their home in Brookline where Mr. Ruff is in business and will receive their friends after February fifteenth at 10 Sewall avenue.

* * *

Mrs. Thomas Spooner of Middleboro is visiting her son George F. Spooner of Revere road.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammond and their little son Wilson visited relatives in Atlantic on Sunday. Mr. Hammond has been employed by the government as inspector of public buildings with headquarters in Detroit, Michigan, for the past six years. He has accepted a new position in Lowell with Connor Brothers, contractors, who have constructed many of the finest post office buildings in the United States.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Fryberg, nee Laura Jones who were married on Wednesday evening at Bethany parsonage, are to reside at 50 Jackson street where they will be at home to their friends after February first.

* * *

Miss Roberta Smith of the senior class of the Bridgewater Normal school is to take part in the play, "The Merchant of Venice," to be given Jan. 28. Her character is to be one of the most interesting, being that of Launcelot Gobbo, the clown. As Miss Smith's brightness and quickness of movement is in keeping with the part which she is to take, her role is looked forward to with great anticipation.

* * *

Mrs. Shirley Nutting of Cotuit is the guest of Mrs. John Hall of Revere road.

Guest Day of the Phllergians will be observed the afternoon of Dec. 21, in Cochato hall. The Presidents and Secretaries of a large number of women's clubs have been invited to attend. "The Love Chase," (Old English Play Sheridan Knowles,) will be presented by Miss Elizabeth Pooler. The Phillergian Quartet will entertain and a reception with Christmas tea will fill the program for guest day.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Cobb and daughter Margaret of Portland, Maine, are spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hamilton of Elmhurst.

* * *

The following well known men are to usher at the Quincy Tennis club dance at Music hall on Wednesday evening the twenty-ninth: Walter E. Burke, Delcevare King, J. Brooks Keyes, Henry R. Holden, Nathaniel S. Hunting Charles A. Price, Warren G. Ogden, Lorenzo H. Brown, George F. Hall, Carlton C. Lane, Laurance H. Sturtevant, George E. Pfaffmann, James H. Slade H. E. Frick and Moreton T. Swallow.

* * *

Miss Marguerite Davis of Chestnut street is at home from Vassar college for the holidays.

* * *

The Atlantic Shakespeare club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Millard F. Baker of Walker street. This meeting finished the reading of Othello. The next play to be studied is Henry the Eighth.

* * *

The engagement is announced of Miss Josephine Norris of Braintree, and Dr. Joseph B. Twadelle of Livermore Falls Maine.

* * *

Miss Harriet B. Pierce entertained a few friends at whist Thursday evening at her home 242 Granite street. A lunch was served at the close of the evening.

* * *

The date of the Choral concert is definitely set for Tuesday evening, February fifteenth and some of the most talented singers in this part of the country are already engaged for the solo parts in Handel's Messiah. The chorus work promises to be unusually good and all conditions assure a splendid rendering of this great oratorio.

* * *

Mrs. John O. Holden has returned to her home on Adams street from a month's visit in New York, where she has been the guests of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Holden.

* * *

The third monthly meeting of the Alpha Phi was held at the home of Miss Agnes Henchey, Washington street Friday evening, Dec. 10. Out of the ten girls who were to be admitted, only one did what was required to enter the club, Miss Helen King of South Braintree and she was welcomed and initiated into the club. A delightful evening was spent, Miss Hinchey proving herself a charming hostess.

* * *

Mrs. John E. Quimby of East Milton left this week to join her husband at Pinehurst, North Carolina.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Thompson of Brackett street East Milton left Thursday for Los Angeles, California to spend the winter months.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Bird and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coussens all of Wollaston and Miss Louise Wilde of Atlantic were among those present at the promenade and dance given by the Cadets in Boston this week.

TODAY'S COURT.

Phillip Pitts was before the district court on the charge of assault against George Germain which occurred August 4 last. He was found guilty and fined $100. Last week Chief Burrell brought him back from Brooklyn, N. Y., where he had been arrested for the Quincy police.

John R. Davis of Boston, for overspeeding was fined $15.00.

John W. Ladd of Boston, for overspeeding was fined $20.00.

Lester Leland of Boston, for overspeeding, was fined $15.00.

---

Bridget—Ye didn't stay long in yer new place, Mary Ann.

Mary Ann—Faith, I did not. Me own self-rispict wouldn't let me. Shure, they had the kayhole of iviry door in the house plugged up.

SANTA CLAUS IN PORTO RICO.

CHRISTMAS in Spain is a religious festival rather than a social one. It was so originally in Porto Rico, but the population has been influenced partly by the spirit of the new world and partly by the many American merchants who reside in the cities and who exert an influence much greater than the numbers would seem to warrant.

The churches welcome the day with chimes which begin at midnight and last until the midnight of the next day. What with one church beginning ten minutes too soon and another ten minutes too late and a third at the right moment, what with bells which ring every fifteen minutes and bell ringers who under some ancient custom will sound the great bells every half hour, the air is filled with music which never seems to end.

If you are near a campanile the effect is not altogether pleasant on account of the volume of sound striking the ear with too much force, but in a public square several hundred yards from the nearest belfry, where trees and buildings break the sound waves, or in suburbs on the hillside the effect is unspeakably delightful.

A DAUGHTER PLAYS ON THE GUITAR.

Pleasantest of all is it when you are sitting in the inner court or quadrangle of a Porto Rican home. Around you on four sides the house rises above you, and in the grounds or in great tubs and porcelain pots rich flowers, graceful vines and restful trees afford shade, color and perfume. The sound of the bells descends from the air above very much like a benediction. You sit in an easy chair, and servants bring you tea or steaming coffee, sweetmeats and biscuits, confections and cigarettes, while a daughter or son plays ancient songs or dances upon a mandolin or guitar.

The churches are crowded; so are the clubs and most of the places of recreation. Every vehicle is in use, and here and there can be seen young men and women trying to imitate English models. Some of the people of the mountain districts carry out many of their early superstitions in regard to Christmas. They hang over the doors of their houses boughs of trees which are supposed to possess charms and often conduct marriage ceremonies under great canopies made of these charmed trees.

A great many wild flowers are in bloom at Christmastide, and these are worn by children of the mountain districts in wreaths and garlands about their heads, necks and waists. The Christmas giving is sadly missing in our new possessions. The churches hold no Christmas tree, and there are few charitable societies to give feasts. However, one hospital for old people and orphans in Ponce gives a Christmas fete, and the inmates have a good meal and receive warm clothing, medicines and other needful gifts.

The American occupation has brought extra Christmas cheer to the people of the island. The American residents celebrate the day in good American fashion, and, best of all, they put money into circulation and give zest to industry and business.

When Shepherds Watched by Night.

Some historians contend that the shepherds could not have watched by night on the Bethlehem plains in December, it being a period of great inclemency. In answer to this a well known student says: "Bethlehem is not a cold region. The mercury usually stands all the month of December at 46 degrees. Corn is sown during this time, and grass and herbs spring up after the rains, so that the Arabs drive their flocks down from the mountains into the plains. The most delicate never make fires till about the end of November, and some pass the whole winter without them. From these facts I think it is established without doubt that our Saviour was born on the 25th day of December, the day which the church throughout the world has united to celebrate in honor of Christ's coming in the flesh."—Washington Star.

The Most Popular Christmas Poem.

The most popular Christmas poem ever written for children was that familiar to the world, beginning:

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house—

The poem was written by a very learned man, Dr. Clement Clarke Moore, a profound Greek and Hebrew scholar. He was a professor in the General Theological seminary in this city. He was born in 1779 and died in 1863.—New York Globe.

BRAINTREE

Miss Maude G. Carlton of Goffstown, N. H., formerly a teacher in the Penniman school, is spending the week end with Mrs. Orrin W. Hollis of Cleveland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Habberley of Lynn announce the arrival of a bouncing boy Wednesday, Dec. 8. Mr. Habberley will be remembered as a former resident of Braintree, and a member of the Cochato club.

Mrs. Horace L. French and daughter Miriam will start next Tuesday for Seattle, Wash., where they will join Mr. French. Their plans are to spend the winter in Passadena, Cal.

The Local club met with Mrs. Henry Binney of West street on Friday, December the tenth. A bountiful dinner was served. Gifts of various kinds were exchanged. Mrs. Binney is an ideal hostess.

Joe Beal is to read "Santa Claus and the Mouse" this afternoon at the Christmas meeting of the Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution at Sewall hall, Huntington avenue, Boston. He will also be one of the ushers at the dance which follows the entertainment.

Mr. Shaw of Cochato road had the misfortune to break through the ice, while on Quincy Reservoir Sunday forenoon. But for the timely assistance of William C. Harrison and Mr. Hollingshead, Mr. Shaw would have undoubtedly ended his earthly career in the icy waters, as he was terribly handicapped with heavy clothing. It was doubly unfortunate for Mr. Shaw to meet with this accident, as he had but recently recovered from an illness, but up to the present time no serious results have occurred.

EAST BRAINTREE.

Mrs. F. L. Flowers entertained the Clover Bridge Whist club on Thursday P. M., at her home on Commercial street. The club consists of 12 members. They are all popular society ladies of Braintree and South Braintree.

Members of the Epworth League of the M. E. church will omit their regular evening service tomorrow evening. They will attend the meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Union Congregational church.

Jordan's new store building is nearly completed. Mr. Jordan has moved in his stock and is open for business. The store formerly occupied by him is to be remodelled into a tenement.

Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Cressey of Cambridge formerly of Weymouth were in town Monday calling on friends. Mr. Cressey came to conduct the funeral of an old friend and neighbor Mr. John Phillips of Broad street, Weymouth.

---

John Phillips who died at his home in Weymouth last Friday aged 88 with the late Freeman Whitmarsh in 1863 built the sea wall at the Mare Island Navy Yard, California. They also for a number of years ran the stone packet Hardscrabble between Quincy and Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Crane entertained members of the Union Literary circle at their home on Quincy avenue Tuesday evening. Prof John H. Gutterson spoke on Verde's opera "Ill Trovatore" its story, its music and the composer assisted by Mrs. Lund who rendered songs.

Mrs. John H. Guy entertained the members of the Elmwood whist club at her home on Elmwood park yesterday afternoon. A social and lunch followed the whist.

ALL SOULS CHURCH.

Sunday at All Souls Church, Braintree there will be a Christmas service conducted by Rev. A. T. Bowser. There will be special music as follows:

Voluntary (Violin and Organ) "Adagio" Merkel
Anthem, "Sing, O Heavens" Manney
Soprano Solo (with violin obligato "Agnus Dei" Bizet
Anthem, "There were Shepherds" Matthews
Offertory (Violin and organ) "Priere" Gounod

The regular Christmas collection for the benefit of the Sunday school tree and party will be taken at this service.

There will be a children's Christmas service in the Sunday school room at 12 P. M. The service will be conducted by John W. West, superintendent, and will consist largely of carols and recitations. Parents and friends of the school are especially invited to join the children at this hour.

Friday, December 24, at 4.30 oclock there will be the children's party and Christmas tree in Sunday school rooms. The entertainment, tree and presents are in charge of committees.

---

Charles H. Johnson, autioneer has a large sale of household furniture at East Weymouth Wednesday afternoon which includes a fine upright Jewett piano in good condition.

BRIEFS

Rev. Charles P. Marshall of Westboro preaches at the Point church Sunday morning and evening.

Christmas Sunday, Dec. 26th, the choir of the Washington Street church is to render some choice musical selections.

Dr. Manchester is to give an illustrated lecture on Egypt at the First Presbyterian church on Monday evening.

Friday evening at 6 o'clock the Sunday school of St. Chrysostoms church will hold its annual Christmas festival in the church.

Eliab Ramsdell of Oak street, one of the oldest residents of Quincy, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia is slowly improving, being able to sit up a little each day.

At First Church chapel, Sunday evening the Y. P. R. U., will hold a Christmas service Miss Blanche Morrison being the committee. The special music will be violin solos by Everett Rhodes.

Rev. C. E. Stowe who told the life story of his mother Harriet Beecher Stowe so entertainingly a few weeks ago at the Quincy Mansion school is to repeat the lecture Sunday evening at Bethany church.

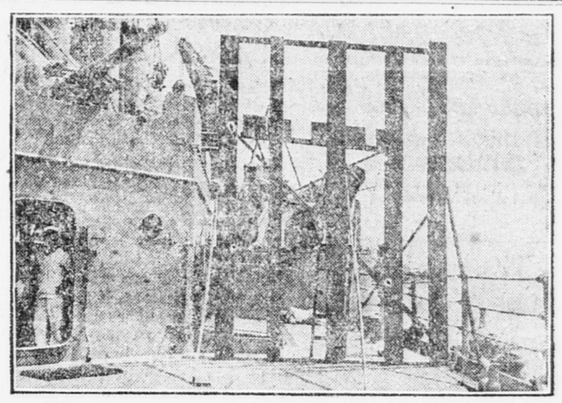
Children of First church Sunday school will assemble in the church at 6.30 Friday evening for a carol service. At seven there will be an entertainment in the chapel and a Christmas tree.

Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution of Massachusetts are to give a Christmas part this afternoon, from 2 till 5, at Sewall hall, New Century building, Boston. Members of each Chapter will take part in the short program of music and readings; marching, dancing and refreshments will follow. A contribution of gifts is solicited for poor and needy children from those attending.

Men are at work getting the Ward Six playground ready to flood the next cold snap. Residents of Atlantic will appreciate this as the nearest place for skating the past few years has been at Neponset and it is not considered safe to allow youngsters to cross the bridge alone. There is also great danger in venturing on salt water ice. With good skating on the Atlantic playground, it may save many a one from an icy bath and possibly death. A boy near the Wollaston Golf links broke through the ice on a salt water pond last Saturday and if it had not been for a golfer who happened to be near and rushed to his assistance, the little fellow would have frozen to death.

---

Just like mother used to make are the Christmas mince and squash pies baked at Barnold's Pure Food Bakery, Hancock street.



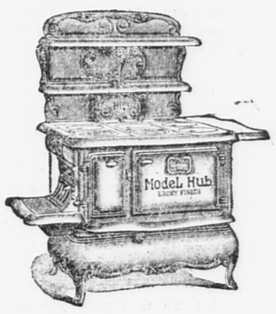
---

Dimock & Patten of Wollaston have an ad in today's issue which should interest those who are planning to build. Their work is reliable and attractive. Among the houses recently built by this firm are the Lawton, Wadsworth and Lane on Presidents hill; a large colonial house on Russell park and several at Wollaston.

---

TRUSSES Fitted.
CRUTCHES In All Sizes.
Athletic Supporters For Gymnasium Work
Abdominal Supporters
Elastic Stockings
The Rexall Store
Edward J. Murphy
THE ORIGINAL LOW PRICED DRUGGIST
1415 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

A WARSHIP'S CREW PREPARING FOR TARGET PRACTICE.



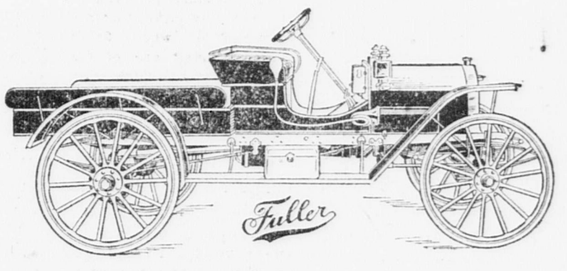
Target practice is one of the features of naval life which never grow tiresome to the crew. Sometimes the fixed target is a large red painted buoy, and a few hundred yards beyond it is the movable target—three buoys pyramid shaped and twelve feet square, used to represent a battleship. The first and third buoys are 145 yards apart, the ordinary length of a battleship. Between the two end buoys the second is used to represent the vital part, or boiler and machinery rooms, of a battleship.

One Doctor

Ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for throat and lung troubles. Doctors have prescribed it for 70 years. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Have only one doctor—just one! No sense in running from one doctor to another! Select the best one, then stand by him. No sense in trying this thing, that thing, for your cough. Carefully, deliberately select the best cough medicine, then take it. Stick to it.

HUB RANGES



One-half ton Coal---Free with every HUB Range purchased before Jan. 1, 1910

The ovens are large, and being quickly heated, give steady and perfect baking and cooking the least fuel.

BERMAN TEA CO., 1625 Hancock St., QUINCY.

A GOOD CAR.

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

TO ADVERTISERS

If you want help in writing up your Christmas advertisements (the kind that will bring returns) 'phone the Ledger Office, Quincy 425, and our Ad Man will call. He will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better than ever before. This applies to present and prospective advertisers in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St., QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building, 294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets, QUINCY.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building, QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-4 July 27-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
38 Huntington Avenue, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 209
Oct. 1. tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 469-3 Quincy, 229-3 Quincy, 308-7 Milton
3p-tf

R. D. CHASE
QUINCY MASS.

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 448
M v 2 1p-1y

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

(ADVERTISE.)

CHRISTMAS AND AN ICEBOAT.

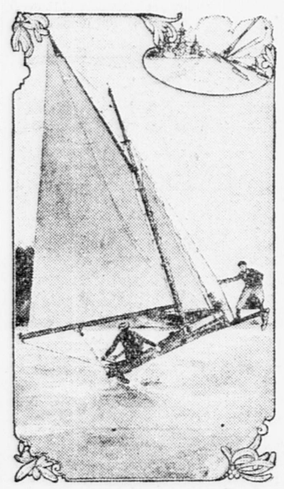
By GEORGE P. CARD
Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

IT had stopped snowing, but the wind still blew a hurricane. The sun was shining, but the air was so filled with the drift that the outside world was hidden from those who tried to peer into it through frosted windowpanes. Myles Fearing had been trying to penetrate the shimmering mist, but he finally gave up the attempt in disgust.

"How long am I likely to be held up in this infernal place!" he wondered audibly.

"Reckon ye'll have a chance to hang up yer socks in that thar chimley," consoled his host, the proprietor of the comfortless little public house in which he had taken refuge from the storm when the stage which had brought him thus far had succumbed to the inevitable. "There won't be anythin' leavin' here 'fore mornin', anyways, and mebbe not then. Better make up yer mind to stay here overnight. Sandy Claws is the only feller likely to do any travelin' fer some time in these parts."



Fearing did not take kindly to the proposition. His knitted brows did not relax, and he drummed viciously against the frosted windowpane.

"For two cents," he threatened, "I'd cross the lake on foot."

Mine host shifted his quid and looked properly serious. "I wouldn't—not even to spite the meanest life insurance company in Amerika. Seventeen miles and a half to Oriskany as the crow flies and a good thirty-eight around the lake rond—I reckon ye'd better take pot luck with us."

With this wholesome advice he left the room.

There seemed to be no help for it, and the weather tricked young man flung his six feet of baffled humanity into a big splint bottom armchair and proceeded to lose himself in a far from agreeable reverie. He really had abundant reason to resent his unexpected captivity. Just across the lake in the snow enveloped village of Oriskany, as he knew perfectly well, a certain young woman for whose good opinion he would have risked anything capable of being risked was trying to convince herself—all against her better judgment—that he was a hero quite superior to ordinary, everyday heroes; that by some clever maneuver possible only to ideal heroes he might circumvent the evident design of fate to prevent him from keeping his engagement and make his appearance at about the hour fixed in his letter of acceptance of her invitation to spend the Christmas holidays in Oriskany.

WOULD HAVE MADE A BIRD ENVIOUS.

He had pictured it all so minutely. She would be at the station to meet him, and together they would walk leisurely to her father's house. That house would be agleam with lights, and holly wreaths would hang in every window. Of course there would be mistletoe suspended from the hall light, and as they passed beneath it—

All off schedule now, postponed indefinitely by the stress of weather. The realization was sickening, but—

"Want to go over this afternoon?"

Fearing saw before him an overgrown boy of sixteen, a shock of red hair falling low upon his forehead, his dark eyes agleam with interest.

"Pop sez yer anxious to git to Oriskany," he continued.

"He hasn't suggested any way to do it, has he?" Fearing returned glumly.

"Kin ye skate?"

"Never had a pair of skates on my feet."

"Too bad. By sundown the ice 'll be as clean as a wax floor and twice as slippery. The northeast wind is sweepin' all the snow on t'other side of the lake."

"Then I'll foot it! Seventeen miles isn't much of a tramp," Fearing declared, with a sudden revival of energy.

The red headed youth sniffed disapprovingly. "If ye've got to cross," he said, lowering his voice and moving nearer to Fearing, "I can put ye on to somethin' better—that is, if ye've got the nerve and—and a little somethin' to make it interestin' to me," he added, with a mysterious pantomime that Fearing understood perfectly.

"I've plenty of both," he declared, "and am ready to use them to the best advantage. If you doubt it, try me and see."

"Oh, you're all right," the lad admitted, with an appreciative gleam in his eyes. "Now, listen. Right in that shed at the bottom of this here lot there's an iceboat belongin' to a city chap that comes out here every summer. He'll be here after Christmas to sail his boat, and I'm goin' to help him. Now, what's to prevent me and you from takin' a skim over to Oriskany? Just to see if the thing's in good runnin' order, you know," he added, with a suggestive squint of his left eye.

Fearing did not stop to go into the moral consideration of the situation. The prospect of getting to Oriskany was too attractive for that. His eagerness to accept the proposition was so great that he could hardly wait until the youthful originator of the scheme was ready to put it into execution. Toward nightfall the precious pair made their way through the drifts to the boathouse, and half an hour later the rakish looking craft was ready for business.

As the landlord's son had predicted, the frozen surface of the lake was as free from snow as if it had been swept. The force of the wind had also lessened greatly, but enough remained to make the voyage a daring venture. It was a ticklish business to put on full sail in such a breeze, but Fearing would be satisfied with nothing less, and his reckless companion was only too willing to have it so. Almost before the self appointed crew of two could adjust itself the machine made a leap for the open roadway and before the first half mile was completed was speeding at a rate that would have made a bird envious.

Luckily there was nothing to oppose its progress. The ice was in prime condition and as smooth as crystal. All the intrepid navigators had to do was to keep the craft in position and hang on for dear life. Fearing was sport enough to enjoy the risky business even divested of its ultimate object, and the lad was too excited to remember the financial end of the matter. The seventeen miles and a half were traversed with a speed that must have made a new record in ice yachting had it been noted. Almost too soon the lights of Oriskany admonished them that it was time to lower the canvas and make ready the drag. Five minutes later they were once again on terra firma, the yacht's neck buried in an immense snowdrift that rose like a fortification along the shore.

"That was dead easy," said the lad. "The hardest job's to come. I've got to get this concern back, and—and probably I'll have to explain how it all happened."

"I'll keep the secret," Fearing promised laughingly, "and here is something to help pay the damages," he added, handing him a brand new twenty dollar bill.

"Gee!" the other ejaculated. "Ye must 'a' wanted to git to Oriskany mighty bad."

A little later, when Fearing and the girl for whom he had accepted a desperate chance stood under the mistletoe, he did not reproach himself for what he had done.

OH, Christmas is the children's day,
Made purposely for all of them,
And he who fashioned it that way
Was once a child in Bethlehem!
Those who still the holy vigil keep
Hail him as the shepherd of the sheep.

THIS is the maiden so dainty and sweet
Who regretted she wasn't provided with feet
Elephantine—so the stockings she wore
Might hold Santa's stock and very much more.

Effect of Fear.

A vigorous young greengrocer, aged twenty-seven, was arrested on a Tuesday on charges of drunkenness and assaulting a policeman, who was assisted in securing him by a Mr. Lyons. On Wednesday it was announced in court that Mr. Lyons was dead, and the greengrocer was remanded to see whether the coroner's jury would hold him in any way responsible for the tragedy. By Saturday it had been found that Mr. Lyons' death was due to heart disease of long standing, but meanwhile the agonizing suspense had aged the young prisoner terribly, his black hair having become completely white.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Sinister Comment.

"That new neighbor of ours asked us to let him use our hatchet and our clothesline," said Sirius Barker's wife.

"Did you give him the hatchet?"

"Yes; the one that has nicks in it and a wabbly handle."

"And did you give him the clothesline that has been tied together in eight places?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's a case of borrowing trouble, all right."—Washington Star.

Russian Princesses.

In Russia the term "princess" does not mean very much, for the simple reason that there are so many of them and that it is never a royal title. All the female descendants of a prince of a certain rank are princesses, and the result is that many princesses are as poor and of as little account as any ill used princess of a fairy tale. The real royal princesses of Russia are styled grand duchesses. They are the daughters and sisters of the czar.

Their Real Duty.

"I was just reading of a man who has a hen that can sing; another man has a hen which whistles and imitates various birds."

"I don't care for those vaudeville hens. A hen should stick to the legit and lay eggs."—Kansas City Journal.

On the Safe Side.

"How do you ever get on so well with your wife? Don't you ever have any differences of opinion?"

"Of couse we do. But I don't let her know it."—Cleveland Leader.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Residents of this vicinity are constantly testifying to permanent cures.

Richard Smith, South Central avenue, Wollaston, Mass., says: "I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I had dull pains through the small of my back and on arising in the morning, I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly dress myself. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply and in a short time after beginning their use, I was relieved. After I had taken the contents of two boxes of this remedy, I was in good health and I have had no kidney trouble since. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this change for the better and I gladly recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

Red Cross Stamps
FOR THE
Tuberculosis Camp

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

ASSETS, $450,000.
QUINCY CO-OP BANK
$ $ $ $ $
For The People
ESTABLISHED 1889
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE
Room 1 SAVINGS BK BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest. Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

CASTORIA
The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.
What is CASTORIA
Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.
GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

GAS PIPING AT COST.
We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.
Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.
We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.
Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.
We do not pipe new buildings.
CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181
Dec. 13

LLOYD'S OPERA GLASSES

Just Arrived from France
Selected PEARL Glasses
Genuine Lemaire
Marquise Style
White, Smoke, Oriental Shades
$15.00.
By registered mail with privilege of return
$15.25.
Please send for Opera Glass Catalogue.
ANDREW J. LLOYD CO.
75 Summer St.
315 Washington St. 310 Boylston St.
Boston and
1252 Massachusetts Ave. Cambridge

REAL ESTATE For Sale?
Advertise in The Ledger.

The Battle

By

Cleveland Moffett

Copyright, 1909, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

Novelized by the Author From His Great Play of the Same Name

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER XX.

THE BATTLE WON.

JOE was gorgeously attired, according to his own ideas. He wore a brown suit with large and loud checks—green and yellow and red—a blue striped shirt, a green knotted silk tie with a flashing scarfpin and a green tyrolean hat, which for the moment he held respectfully in his hand.

Jenny was neatly dressed in black. Haggleton was again struck by her possibilities, her beauty.

"Gee," exclaimed Joe involuntarily, "this is a swell shop!"

"Good evening, Jenny," said Haggleton kindly. "How are you, Joe?"

"I'm all right, Mr. Jackson—Mr. Haggleton, I mean. Say, Mr. Haggleton, Jenny has something to say to you. It is important. That's why we have come. Soon's she told me I had an intuition."

The millionaire turned to the girl.

"Well, Jenny?"

His voice was very gentle.

"You have been very kind to me, Mr. Haggleton," she began diffidently, "and—and—I would rather tell you alone."

"Come along, Joe," said Gentle.

"You know, Mr. Haggleton," began Jenny, "I told you after my husband was killed he left me with a little baby and no money. So I had to go out as a nurse. Then I sent my child—my beautiful baby girl—to a baby farm, and she died. They always do. I was all alone and so lonely in that beautiful house, and he—Mr. Lawrence"—

"Yes, Jenny. You told me."

"I can prove it all," she announced triumphantly. "I have his letters here."

Haggleton had often thought of this skeleton in the family closet of the unsuspecting Margaret when she had betrayed more plainly than usually her youthful contempt for the weaknesses and stumblings of poor human nature. But of these letters he had known nothing. So there were incriminating documents in the house of Lawrence as well as in that of Haggleton! Well, well!

Jenny held out the letters.

"Do you want them?"

He saw her meaning plainly now.

"Why should I take these letters?" he asked.

"I know more than you think, Mr. Haggleton. I watched that girl, Miss Lawrence. She looks down on you, and—these letters would help."

"She would be unhappy."

"Why shouldn't she be unhappy? She makes others unhappy! I am unhappy."

"Jenny," he continued gravely, "you can't get happiness for yourself by taking it away from somebody else. You don't want to hurt Phil?"

"No, no; indeed not!"

"Then forget all this. Make a clean start."

"Yes, you have given me a chance."

Now her better nature won.

"Yes, I see," she said with frank contrition. "It's wrong. Joe suggested it. I will destroy the letters. No! You destroy them!"

She laid the package on the table before him.

"All right," he said. "I will burn them."

He led her to the door.

"Good night, Jenny, and good luck to you! You will find Joe at the end of the hall and can go out with him."

"If you don't mind, sir," she stammered, "tell Phil that I wish him luck. Good night!"

She was gone.

Haggleton returned to the table, took up the package of letters and looked at it passively. Here was his last trump! He knew it. Haggleton stirred impatiently. Why could not Margaret be a little reasonable? Why did wisdom come so late in life? These letters might prove to her that she had no right to judge and condemn Philip's father. But, then, it would make her unhappy, and should Philip ever know—

Haggleton weighed the package in his hands, pondering. Gradually a light came into his eyes. He had found the way!

Philip should not suffer. It was he, Haggleton, who would renounce.

He had learned to do his loving himself.

He approached the open fire in the huge fireplace, but ere he could thrust into its glow the compromising letters Margaret and Gentle entered. He hastily placed them on the mantelpiece and faced around interrogatively.

Margaret was in street costume.

"Good evening," said Haggleton. "Are you going out, Miss Lawrence?"

"Miss Lawrence is leaving us," said Gentle. His voice was grieved and disapproving.

"You are not going to marry Philip?"

"No. You and he are one flesh, as you said yourself. I have no right to come between you."

"But you love him still?"

"I love him more."

"This will be a great shock to Philip. It may set back his recovery."

The girl saw his intent. Her face grew cold and obstinate.

"He is quite well," she answered in her professional tone, "and—he is a man."

"Listen to me."

Margaret steeled herself.

"There is nothing you can say," she announced. "I cannot change."

Haggleton took up the package of letters.

"No," he said half aloud, as if to himself, "you cannot change."

She loved Philip, oh, yes, she reflected, but she loved her grievance more and most of all her conception of her own superior righteousness.

He stood there near the fire. He looked tired and old, but in his eyes shone a great light.

Margaret was determined to end this painful interview.

"I cannot live under this roof," she announced with an air of finality—"under the same roof with the man who ruined my father."

"It is bad business ruining another person, eh?" asked Haggleton in a curious tone of voice.

He looked again at the bundle in his hands, then turned and threw it into the fire, watching the flames leap up around it.

Margaret watched him anxiously. What were those papers? Why did he destroy them now?

"Well," announced the millionaire, lifting his bowed head and squaring his drooping shoulders, "I will get my son. You renounce him; you do not even offer him his choice. But, as you say, he is a man."

He went to the door. With his hand on the knob he turned and added:

"Whatever happens, I want you to know that I have had more happiness in the last few weeks, since that shot was fired, than in all the rest of my life put together. I have had my son for six weeks!"

"Philip!"

He went out, softly closing the door behind him.

The door opened again, and Philip entered, pale, weak, listless, his slow steps supported by his father.

"He knows now that your decision cannot be shaken," said Haggleton to Margaret. "It was best that his father should tell him."

"Margaret!" implored Philip from the chair into which he had sunk, exhausted.

"Philip!"

There was agony in her voice as she sank down on her knees beside him.

"Wait!"

Haggleton spoke again in that curiously level, enigmatic, commanding tone of his.

"I am not going to argue or plead," announced the millionaire. "I am going to yield. I have done wrong. I have got to suffer. That's the eternal law! Well, I will suffer."

"No!" cried Philip.

"My son, I have only a few more years before me. You have a lifetime before you—with her. You have the best thing in the world, as I had once, the love of a good woman."

He turned toward the picture of his wife and looked at it, then continued:

"Don't lose that love, my boy, as I did. Don't let anything part you from it, not even your father. You must go with her. It is I who must renounce. And—we can see each other once in awhile."

With a still, trembling little smile he asked of Margaret:

"It won't hurt him to see his father once in awhile, will it?"

Margaret rose to her feet precipitately. Her pride was broken, her enmity dissipated. A realization of the grandeur of this sacrifice, so simply proffered, overwhelmed her and filled her heart with humility and contrition and love and the impulse of atonement.

"I can't do it!" she cried. "I am not going! I love you too!"

The three were in one another's arms. Gentle turned away deeply moved.

"My daughter! My son!"

Haggleton's voice trembled.

"I will devote the rest of my life to business—don't look astonished—the business of making you happy. And we will make the poor happy, too, if that will make you happier. See here: I am going to put $10,000,000 aside for you three—for my son, my daughter and our good friend Gentle. You shall be custodians."

A twinkle came into his eyes as he asked:

"Now, what scheme would you three students of poverty propose to utilize $10,000,000 in helping the poor of this city without demoralizing them? It's up to you."

"Ten million dollars!" speculated Gentle. "We could cover this island with model tenements."

"Cover the island!" cried Philip. "We could build about fifty! And they would never pay. We would waste our millions."

Haggleton was watching them, the twinkle still in his eyes. Something he had anticipated was amusing him.

"Well, then, what would you suggest?" Gentle was asking of Philip, with just a little heat in the tone of his voice.

"I'd suggest homes for consumptives!" The answer came with unhesitating promptness. "That's what the city needs."

"I don't agree with you," Margaret now broke in firmly. "We do not want homes for consumptives. We must build homes to prevent consumption. We must think of the next generation. We must help the poor children; we must give them sunshine, green fields"—

"Impossible!" Philip pointed out. "You can't take them away from their parents."

"Let the parents go too!"

"No, no; the parents have to work!" and "No, no; that would pauperize them!" cried Philip and Gentle at the same time.

"I never thought of that!" confessed the girl in bewilderment.

Haggleton was smiling broadly.

"Well, what is it to be?" he asked. "You three have been studying the problem for years, you now have all the money you want, and the first thing you do is to condemn each other's plans!"

And here he received the greatest tribute that had ever been paid him in his wonderful career. These three reformers, so sure of themselves, turned to him with implicit reliance upon his talent for organization, his genius for leadership and without a doubt of his ability to solve their problem for them asked, as if with one voice:

"What would you do?"

The millionaire went to the library table, unlocked one of its drawers, took from it a bundle of blue prints and typewritten papers and spread them out before them.

"It is the easiest way in the world," he began deliberately. "There's only one sound, practical, common sense way to help the poor of New York city with $10,000,000 without demoralizing them, and this is the way"—

* * * * * * * * *

They were seated at the table now, Margaret between Philip and his father, her head leaning against the shoulder of the one, her hand holding that of the other. Gentle, at Haggleton's right, was beaming with contentment.

They were examining plans, reading memoranda, commenting, discussing, asking questions and receiving prompt, clear replies.

Haggleton was happy.

He had taught many lessons, but learned one far greater than all those he had given.

He had learned to do his loving himself.

The battle was won.

THE END.

Human Tree Dwellers.

In the interior of Malaya live about 5,000 people, the remnant of an old tree dwelling race called the Sakai. They dwell in little thatched huts built in trees at the height of from eight to twenty feet. And no wonder, considering how they have been almost exterminated by the Malays. The Sakais are the aborigines of the peninsula. They are rather small and of fairly light complexion, with ugly faces, but well shaped and active bodies. They are not yet provided with modern weapons, but at a distance of sixty feet can shoot darts from their blowguns with almost unerring accuracy, thus getting plently of small game. In their trees the people are almost invisible to hunters and explorers who thread their wilderness. Some few of the Sakais have left their forest homes to live in huts on the ground level on the outskirts of the Malay towns. But under British rule the remnant of the tribe seems fairly likely to survive and to keep its arboreal habits for years to come.

A Blow in the Back.—An overcoat is a necessary nuisance and the tendency to take it off on warmish days in late autumn and winter is as strong as it is unwise. A treacherous wind hits you in the back and the next morning you have lumbago. Rub well and often with Perry Davis' Painkiller and you will be astonished to find how quickly all soreness is banished.

(ADVERTISE.)

HERE IS RELIEF FOR WOMEN.

If you have pains in the back, Urinary, Bladder or Kidney trouble and want a certain, pleasant herb relief from Women's ills, try Mother Gray's "AUSTRALIAN-LEAF." It is a safe reliable regulator, and relieves all Female Weaknesses, including inflammation and ulcerations. Mother Gray's Australian-Leaf is sold by Druggists or sent by mail for 50 cts. Sample sent FREE. Address, The Mother Gray Co., Le Roy, N. Y.

THE RIDE TO CANDY TOWN

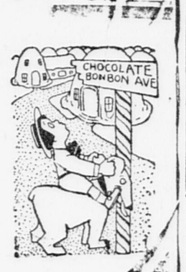
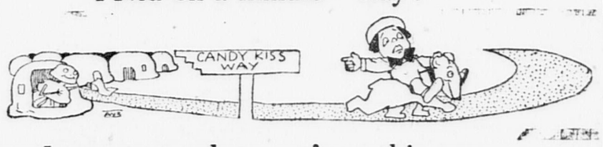
BY ROBERT DONNELL



COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

When Charley rode to Candy Town
Astride a Teddy bear,
He looked in wonder up and down
With many a hungry stare,
For all the streets were named for sweets,
And, oh, so many there!

They entered town by Gumdrop road,
Where all the candy shops
Were stuffed as full as any toad
With most delicious drops.
As Charley glanced he almost danced,
While Teddy licked his chops.



They turned a corner, when,
in view,
Before their very eyes,
Came Chocolate Bonbon avenue,
Which filled them with surprise,
For every shop was a chocolate drop
Of most amazing size.

But on they went with even jog,
Since shops are not to eat,
And soon they passed, with eyes agog,
Through Peanut Brittle street,
And every brick was a peanut stick
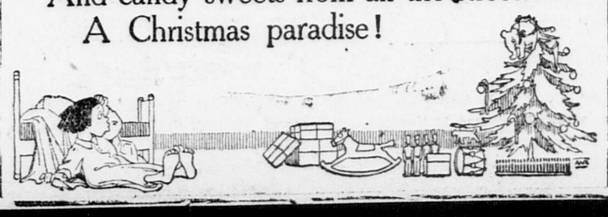
And doubtless very sweet!

But Teddy trotted right ahead
Through Candy Kisses way,
Though Charley pulled his ears and said:
"Hold on a minute—stay!

Lemme get down an' eat this town.
I'll finish up today!"



That Teddy bear plugged straight along
Until he chanced to see,
Surrounded by a merry throng,
A great big Christmas tree.
"Now I can climb and have a time,"
Says Ted. "Hooray for me!"

As Teddy started climbing up
His passenger slid down
And struck the bedroom floor kerplup,
And in his nightie gown!
Now, wasn't that a sorry bat
To get in Candy Town?

But, after all, the town was there.
When Charley oped his eyes,
High up the tree was Teddy bear,
Of real riding size,
And candy sweets from all the streets—
A Christmas paradise!

AQUAS READY ROOFING GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST

SANBORN & DAMON QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood. Gas and Water.

Four valuable houses built on property

Apply at 45 Elm Street.

Quincy, Dec. 3

STORAGE —FOR— Furniture and Pianos

Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms

Furniture and Piano Movers

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

1405 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

NEW UPRIGHT PIANO

Now in storage at my home.

PRICE LOW.

Apply to

WM. WILSON, Pianist and Tuner,

1 President's Avenue, South Quincy

Tel. 137-2. Oct. 18-tf

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
| *5 14 | abdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | ihgfedeba | 6 16 r |
| 6 15 | abc | 6 33 | 6 27 | eba | 6 46 r |
| 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | eba | 7 14 r |
| 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | eba | 7 43 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 12 r |
| 7 21 | ader | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | eba | 9 43 r |
| 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 41 | Exp | 10 00 r |
| 7 52 | abede | 8 15 | 10 27 | eba | 10 49 r |
| 8 15 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | eba | 11 49 r |
| 8 4 | abed | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | eba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp. | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | eba | 1 00 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | eba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | eba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | eba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 0" |
| 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | eba | 4 49 r |
| 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edeba | 5 11 r |
| 3 06 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | deba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | eba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | ihgfedeba | 6 15 r |
| 5 29 | abedefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | eba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | eba | 6 59 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedeba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | eba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedeba | 8 38 r |
| 8 05 | abedef | 8 29 | 9 27 | eba | 9 49 r |
| 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| 10 00 | abedef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedeba | 11 01 r |
| 11 29 | abc | 11 40 | 11 29 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | eba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 21 | ihgfedeba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | eba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | ihgfedeba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | eba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | ihgfedeba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | ihgfedeba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abedefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | ihgfedeba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | eba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abedefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | eba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | ihgfedeba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | eba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | ihgfedeba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abedefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abedefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | ihgfedeba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | eba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 55 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.09, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15, 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.40 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.27 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY

Furniture and Piano Moving

Office 1598 Hancock Street, Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2

Quincy, June 10 tf

Have Your Clothes Washed by the

NEW SYSTEM

WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.

Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.

Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references. Wide-awake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and sell patents. What inventions will pay. How to get a patent and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.

501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice.

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m. and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m. then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

P. L. Kincaide & Co.—Credit is good
Barnard's Home Bakery
Music Hall—Two Shows Christmas.
Granite Shoe Store—Christmas Slippers
Berman Tea Co.—Hub Range
To Let

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 35 degrees |
| Dec. 18, 1908 | 32 degrees |
| Dec. 18 1907, | 40 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

The Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostoms church holds its monthly missionary meeting in the parish rooms on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30.

A resolution has been introduced into Congress to govern the operation of all wireless plants afloat and ashore.

There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at St. Chrysostoms church at seven o'clock Tuesday morning to commemorate the apostleship of St. Thomas.

Hettie B. Houlton secured a decree nisi in the divorce court at Dedham last week from Joseph Houlton, for cruel and abusive treatment, with alimony of $7 a week.

Those who attended the prayer meeting of Bethany church last evening were much interested in the letter from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fay, now of Irvington, Ill., read by Rev. E. N. Hardy.

Grand Army men will find the address on the life of Harriet Beecher Stowe at Bethany church Sunday evening of exceptional interest. Mme. Morey the organist has arranged for the singing of "Old folks at home" as a solo, and "Massa, dear" as a chorus.

The Christmas tree festival of St. Chrysostoms church will be held Friday night at six o'clock. A short service of songs followed by distribtuion of presents and candy will be held for the little children after which they will go home while the older ones remain for games and a good time.

Keen regret is felt by the pupils of the Quincy school at the resignation of their popular teacher Miss Florence Cummings, who has taught there for the past three years. Miss Cummings has engaged to teach in New Jersey and will enter upon her duties in the new year.

Fowler chapter of the Methodist Brotherhood of the Hall Place M. E. church entertain the ladies of the church, Monday evening. Each lady is requested to bring a gentleman friend. Rev. H. W. Hook of the Mattapan M. E. church will be the speaker of the evening his subject being, "Woman." Mr. Hook is well known to West Quincy people and an interesting evening is looked forward to.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. James A. White and family wish to extend their heartfelt thanks to the friends and different societies for the kindness shown in their recent bereavement also for the profusion of beautiful flowers.

Mrs. James A. White and family.
Quincy, Dec. 18. 1t

RESOLUTIONS.

At a regular meeting of Quincy Chapter O. E. S., No. 88, a committee was appointed to draft the following resolutions:

Whereas, our Heavenly Father has seen fit in his infinite wisdom, to remove from our midst our beloved brother, William John Tilley. The golden chain is broken, we shall miss him from our Chapter room; he was a faithful member, ever willing to do all he could for the good of the order.

Therefore be it resolved, that our Jewels be draped in mourning, a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved widow, and the daily papers of the city. May she have the trustful faith of Martha, it will lighten her burden of sorrow.

Fraternally submitted,
ABBY M. KEITS,
FLORENCE A. SWINGLE,
E. LINNELL HIGGINS, P. P.
Dec. '8 1t

BIRTHS.

LABRECK—In South Braintree, Dec. 11, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaBreck of Washington street.

MARRIAGES.

VANNER—HANNON—In Quincy, Dec. 16, by Rev. Henry Grady, Mr. Albert Vanner to Miss Annie Hannon.

DEATHS.

MILNE—In Quincy, Dec. 16, Mr. James Milne of 86 Glencoe place, aged 53 years, 4 months, 17 days.

Funeral services at late home, Sunday, Dec. 19. Relatives and friends invited.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

MAKARIA BOWLING

Upland Road Team Defeats South Quincys

The initial game in the Makaria bowling tournament was run off last night when Eggleton's Upland road team took Matty Nicols' South Quincy team into camp, capturing two out of the three strings bowled, winning the rubber by the small margin of six pins.

The total scores read 1203 to 1194, a difference of 9 pins. Wetherall was high man with a total of 267 and Lee Brooks came second with 262. The other high men were Eggleton with a total score of 254, and Nicols but two behind him, having 252. There was a large bunch of rooters on hand for each team, and by the enthusiasm put forth on first night there is a promise of some "very warm times" ahead.

The scorekeepers were Charles Ganzel and Ted Penley, the two rival generals, who will match their strength next Monday evening, and the claim was made, although not substantiated, that they were present only in the hopes that they might be able to take advantage in the future of any weaknes brought out by either of the teams who were bowling last night. "Let it suffce," as the Upland road captain put it, "that they did not see much." The game as far as possible will be played every Friday night. Next Friday, however, conting the night before Christmas the game will be bowled Monday evening.

Summary of match:

UPLAND ROAD.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| R. Bates | 70 | 78 | 85 | 233 |
| S. Bates | 82 | 78 | 61 | 221 |
| L. Brooks | 87 | 87 | 88 | 262 |
| H. Eggleton | 94 | 72 | 88 | 254 |
| R. Ganzel | 77 | 70 | 86 | 233 |
| | 410 | 385 | 408 | 1203 |

SOUTH QUINCY.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| R. Marden | 65 | 71 | 74 | 242 |
| R. Marden | 65 | 71 | 74 | 210 |
| R. Wetherel | 93 | 81 | 93 | 267 |
| J. Michael | 76 | 76 | 71 | 223 |
| M. Nichol | 85 | 82 | 83 | 252 |
| | 397 | 393 | 402 | 1194 |

MAKARIA SCHEDULE.

The schedule of the league will be as follows:

Dec. 17—Upland Road vs. South Quincy.
Dec. 24—Married Men vs. Wollaston.
Jan. 7—Upland Road vs, Married Men.
Jan. 14—South Quincy vs. Wollaston.
Jan. 21—Upland Road vs. Wollaston.
Jan. 28—South Quincy vs. Married Men.
Feb. 4—Upland Road vs. South Quincy.
Feb. 11—Married Men vs. Wollaston.
Feb. 18—Upland Road vs. Married Men.
Feb. 25—South Quincy vs. Wollaston.
Mar. 4—Upland Road vs Wollaston.
Mar. 11—South Quincy vs. Married Men.
Mar. 18—Upland Road vs. South Quincy.
Mar. 25—Married Men vs. Wollaston.
Apr. 1—Upland Road vs. Married Men.
Apr. 8—South Quincy vs. Wollaston.
Apr. 15—Upland Road vs. Wollaston.
Apr. 22—South Quincy vs Married Men.

COLUMBUS LEAGUE.

The Quincy team was outclassed last evening in the Columbus Club bowling league by the Fitton team, the totals being:

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fitton, | 442 | 454 | 427 | 1323 |
| Quincy, | 395 | 427 | 420 | 1242 |

The Mt. Bowdoin team defeated the Elm Hill team 1400 to 1363.

PRISON EVANGELIST.

At Bethany church last evening Mr. Thomas Elgar, the prison evangelist, gave the thrilling story of his work among the prisoners all over the country. Telling of the work with the "chain-gangs" of the South, and work in the far west and here in New England. Mr. Elgar has spent nearly a quarter of a century in this work, and has a wonderful story to tell. More interest attaches to the story told of his work when it is known that he himself was converted in prison and started out in his mission to save others largely by the influence of the poem "The Bird with the Broken Pinion," and throughout the years he has been true to the sentiment.

"But the bird with the broken pinion
Kept another from the snare:
And the life that sin had stricken
Raised another from despair."

MILTON.

Jesse B. Baxter who has served the town for several years as chairman of the Board of Selectmen has announced that for business reasons he will not be a candidate for reelection at the annual meeting in March. His decision is received with general regret as he has been most faithful in the discharge of his duties. Mr. Baxter is paymaster for Walter Baker & Co., and treasurer of the Milton Savings bank.

Alice Whittemore of Eaton street been so seriously ill with scarlet fever that she was taken to the Homeopathic hospital Thursday.

Mrs. Annie F. A. Hunt of Huntington F. Wolcott, W. R. C., has been appointed a special aid on the staff of the national president of the W. R. C.

Miss Grace Woodbury of Eaton street and J. J. Hammers' drug store have the Red Cross stamps on sale.

A fence is being built along the tracks on Willard street, East Milton, by the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad to prevent street car passengers crossing the tracks.

The quarterly meeting of the Norfolk County association of the Grand Army and Woman's Relief Corps was held Wednesday at the Milton Town hall. Delegates were present from Paul Revere post and the W. R. C. of this city.

Banking hours at the Milton Savings bank have been changed to Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 4 until 6.30 P. M. There are now 1,497 depositors who are credited with $314,893.27.

Mrs. John Torrey Linzee of Milton gave a dinner last evening at her Boston home, 229 Marlboro street, to young people who attended the ball given to Miss Katharine Saltonstall.

At Chicago, on Thursday, John Chandler Cobb of Milton and Miss Mary Louise King were united in marriage by the pastor of the Epiphany church. Miss Emma May Cobb of Milton was one of the bridesmaids, Augustus Cobb of Milton was best man, and Stanley Cobb one of the ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Cobb came east on their wedding trip.

The plans for the minstrel show to be given by the football enthusiasts of the Cunningham gymnasium are nearly completed and the date will soon be announced.

A large number have been taking advantage of the chance to view the book plate exhibition at the Public library.

Mrs. E. M. Howell of Wollaston was renewing old acquaintances in Milton the past week.

Several cases of scarlet fever have been reported to the board of health there being three cases in one school, one death resulting.

There will be two fast games of basket ball at the Cunningham gymnasium Saturday night when the first team line-up against the Boston Y. M. C. A. first, and the Silent five play the Boston Y. M. C. A. second team.

Tuesday afternoon the Milton High five, in an exciting game defeated Reading High 14 to 11. The home team put up a great exhibition of passing and shooting but as in former games their covering was poor. During the second half, O'Connell of Milton broke two ligaments in his leg in a collision with a Reading man. The score in the first period was close, ending 8 to 7 in Milton's favor, but the second half proved easier, the final score reading 14-11. For the home five, Stuart and Sangster played good ball and for the visitors Frenholm and Fairbanks excelled. The summary:

| MILTON | | READING |
|---|---|---|
| H. Stuart, rf | | lb, Stratton |
| W. Stuart, lf | | rb, Stembridge |
| Carson, c | | c, Michelme |
| Reid, rb | | lf, Frenholm |
| O'Connell, Sangster, lb | | rf, Fairbanks |

Score, Milton H. S. 14, Reading H. S. 11. Goals from floor, H. Stuart 2, Sangster 2, Frenholm 3, W. Stuart, Carson, Stembridge. Goals from fouls, H. Stuart 2, Fairbanks 2, Frenholm. Referee, Craig. Umpire, Robertson. Scorer, Cross. Timer, Grey. Time, 20 and 15m periods. Attendance 200.

ANTIETAM CAMP.

The meeting of Antietam camp held Tuesday evening was more than usually well attended, it being the annual election of officers. The popular commander J. E. Hayden was elected for another term as well as the other officers, except a few changes in the minor offices. The progress of the camp has been very gratifying for the past year and the members are hoping for still better things in the future. The following are the officers elect:

Commander—J. E. Hayden.
S. V. C.—M. C. Gillette.
J. V. C.—A. H. Holbrook.
Camp Council—W. H. Paine, Albert Moors, N. E. Hayden.
Treasurer—Paul Monaghan.
Delegates—H. H. Marston and Augustus Wentworth.
Alternates—Fred Penney and Frank Call.

Mother—"Where's your little sister?"

Johnny—"Lost; but Jane will find her when she sweeps in the morning."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

COCHATO BOWLING

Teams Closely Bunched For First Place

The standing to date is as follows:

| | Strings | Points | Pinfalls |
|---|---|---|---|
| Team 8 | 24 | 58 | 18808 |
| Team 2 | 24 | 55 | 18833 |
| Team 3 | 24 | 55 | 18776 |
| Team 4 | 24 | 53 1-2 | 18690 |
| Team 1 | 24 | 52 1-2 | 18896 |
| Team 9 | 24 | 46 | 18466 |
| Team 5 | 24 | 40 | 19010 |
| Team 6 | 24 | 24 | 17772 |
| Team 7 | 24 | 23 | 17576 |

In the gentlemen's bottle pin tournament team eight holds the lead in points while team two has advanced to the second place and has the best total on pinfalls. The scores of the week are as follows:-

Tuesday Evening

TEAM TWO.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| J. E. Arnold | 161 | 165 | 164 | 490 |
| G. A. Arnold | 171 | 167 | 175 | 513 |
| W. S. Perry | 145 | 198 | 138 | 481 |
| W. F. Dinsmore | 180 | 118 | 132 | 430 |
| C. D. Hopkins | 110 | 110 | 110 | 330 |
| | 776 | 758 | 719 | 2753 |

TEAM EIGHT.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dr. H. A. Jones | 160 | 160 | 160 | 480 |
| A. N. Hunt | 162 | 121 | 157 | 440 |
| W. L. Arnold | 175 | 149 | 143 | 467 |
| H. E. Spear | 117 | 117 | 117 | 351 |
| Dr. E. Johnson | 120 | 153 | 137 | 410 |
| | 734 | 691 | 717 | 2142 |

TEAM NINE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dr. E. Bent | 156 | 156 | 156 | 468 |
| C. W. Dow | 127 | 207 | 128 | 462 |
| E. B. Bird | 133 | 120 | 132 | 385 |
| C. S. Cozzins | 118 | 128 | 107 | 353 |
| J. H. Stedman | 144 | 114 | 114 | 342 |
| | 628 | 725 | 637 | 1990 |

Wednesday Evening.

TEAM ONE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| L. O. Crocker | 169 | 157 | 149 | 475 |
| E. A. Haskell | 149 | 109 | 144 | 402 |
| G. M. Keating | 136 | 113 | 116 | 425 |
| O. B. Oakman | 152 | 115 | 86 | 373 |
| O. A. Bridgham | 133 | 128 | 104 | 365 |
| | 789 | 622 | 649 | 2020 |

TEAM FIVE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H. W. Macomber | 96 | 108 | 116 | 320 |
| A. M. Dow | 148 | 167 | 144 | 459 |
| W. C. Harrison | 141 | 202 | 140 | 483 |
| F. K. Patch | 129 | 126 | 126 | 378 |
| W. T. Case | 115 | 115 | 115 | 345 |
| | 616 | 718 | 651 | 1985 |

TEAM SIX.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| G. V. Pennock | 136 | 161 | 144 | 441 |
| W. E. Field | 175 | 96 | 153 | 424 |
| H. W. Hall | 158 | 158 | 158 | 474 |
| J. L. Haddie | 122 | 118 | 114 | 354 |
| J. W. Davy | 140 | 146 | 122 | 378 |
| | 741 | 679 | 671 | 2011 |

Thursday Evening

TEAM THREE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| G. H. Hamblett | 156 | 150 | 179 | 477 |
| S. H. Thayer | 168 | 171 | 109 | 448 |
| C. H. Gould | 195 | 145 | 169 | 439 |
| G. E. Sampson | 124 | 107 | 157 | 388 |
| W. L. Shaw | 115 | 115 | 115 | 345 |
| | 691 | 697 | 709 | 2097 |

TEAM FOUR.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| W. F. Rogers | 177 | 215 | 156 | 548 |
| W. H. Reynolds | 191 | 158 | 204 | 553 |
| F. A. Powdrell | 135 | 155 | 135 | 405 |
| G. H. Wetherbee | 120 | 120 | 120 | 360 |
| G. W. Treat | 97 | 185 | 97 | 379 |
| | 720 | 813 | 712 | 2215 |

TEAM SEVEN.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| G. E. Williams | 156 | 156 | 156 | 468 |
| M. T. Swallow | 110 | 107 | 103 | 320 |
| H. W. Gore, Jr. | 139 | 139 | 139 | 417 |
| W. E. Dow | 120 | 120 | 120 | 360 |
| G. L. Anderson | 84 | 124 | 93 | 301 |
| | 619 | 646 | 641 | 1936 |

FORE RIVERS WIN.

A team of shipyard machinists met a team from Cohasset at the Granite street alleys last night and won two out of three and on totals. The Fore Rivers lost the first string by 2 pins, but they won the next two by 28 and 16, and the totals were 1,168 to 1,126. The Enos boys of Cohasset were a tie for the best total, but Nesline and Tirrell were close upon them. The best string was 85, and three divided the honors.

The full score:

| FORE RIVER. | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Nesline | 73 | 85 | 84 | 242 |
| Kelley | 78 | 81 | 76 | 235 |
| Keating | 80 | 76 | 71 | 227 |
| Moran | 72 | 73 | 78 | 223 |
| Tirrell | 80 | 85 | 76 | 241 |
| | 383 | 400 | 385 | 1168 |
| COHASSET. | | | | |
| A. Enos | 85 | 81 | 77 | 243 |
| Leonard | 75 | 65 | 78 | 218 |
| Butman | 76 | 61 | 74 | 211 |
| Ar. Enos | 83 | 83 | 77 | 243 |
| Campbell | 66 | 82 | 63 | 211 |
| | 385 | 372 | 369 | 1126 |

FORFEITED TO WEYMOUTH.

The postponed game, in the Old Colony bowling league between Weymouth and Braintree to have been played at Weymouth last night was forfeited to Weymouth as the Braintree men did not show up. This gives Weymouth the lead in the league.

BICYCLE CLUB WIN.

The tournament of the Foresters and Bicycle club ended this week, the latter scoring 72 points to 68 for the degree team of the Foresters. Another tournament will be opened in January.

John Smart, the actor of Beach street, has left Wollaston for another theatrical tour.

BASKET BALL.

Winthrop High school basket ball team visited Braintree yesterday afternoon and played the Thayer academy quintet to a standstill. It was everything considered one of the best and cleanest games ever witnessed at the academy and kept the spectators on their feet throughout. After 35 minutes of hard playing the game was called, and both managers agreed not to play overtime in order that Winthrop might catch a train and return home at an early hour. Thayer will visit Winthrop for a return game Feb. 4. The score:

| Thayer | Winthrop |
|---|---|
| Alden r. f. | l. b. Phillips |
| Morrison, l. f. | r. b. Snow |
| Willard c. | c. Margeson |
| Avery, r. b. | l. f. Fielding |
| Wilson, l. b. | r. f. Fielding |

Score Thayer Academy 18; Winthrop High, 18.

Goals from floor Alden 3, Morrison 2, Willard 3, Wilson, Snow 5, Margeson 2, Fielding 2. Referee MacDonold. Scorer Bacon. Timer Neil. Time 15 and 20 minute halves.

The annual Christmas entertainment for the Sunday school of the Wollaston Unitarian church will be held in the vestry on Thursday evening, December 23, at 6.30. A play which will introduce flying machines and other timely attractions will be presented by 20 of the children.

Harold M. Gore of Newport avenue, one of the popular students at the Massachusetts Agricultural college, returned from Amherst on Friday, for the Christmas holidays.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists price 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

YOUR APPOINTMENT

is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.

THIS DENTAL OFFICE
IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.

Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.

YOU RISK NOTHING
HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.

Our charges are never high.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.
DENTIST
37 A Washington Square, • Weymouth.
Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Dec. 15 1o-2w

WE HAVE SOME

fine hind-quarters of Lamb, also fresh Eastern Pork, which would go well for Sunday's dinner.

Everything to go with them.

| | |
|---|---|
| Hind-quarters Spring Lamb | lb. 15c |
| Fresh Eastern Pork | lb. 15c |
| 10 lbs. Sweet Potatoes | 25c |
| Best White Potatoes | pk. 22c |
| Fancy Cranberries | 3 qts. 25c |

Ivory White Flour holds its popularity on account of high quality.

PROMPT ATTENTION TO Telephone Orders No. 367-3

R. E. FOY & CO.
COR WATER AND QUINCY STS.
QUINCY ADAMS

WEYMOUTH CANDIDATES.

The Weymouth Gazette says: "One of our local politicians, who is a candidate for anything in the shape of public office, has been at Quincy this week candidating for the office of assistant probation officer. If the office is to come to Weymouth, Chief of Police Thomas Fitzgerald should be the man, and we doubt if a better selection could be made if the judge who has the appointing power, looked the district over for a man. Chief Fitzgerald is a man above reproach and would be an ideal man for the position."

NORTH WEYMOUTH.

Christmas music at the Pilgrim church, Sunday will be as follows:

Organ prelude,
Offertory, two Christmas hymns Guilmant
Anthem, "Sing, O Heavens" Simper
Anthem, "Arise! Shine! for they light is come." Dudley Buck
Christmas solo Miss Orr
Organ postlude, Hallelujah chorus Handel

Herbert A. Hayden, Organist.

In the evening at 7 o'clock there will be exercises by the Sunday school which will include songs, recitations and dialogues in which the Kindergarten, primary, junior and intermediate department take part.

—We have always maintained that it is absurd to be expending millions to abolish grade crossings when the majority of people killed by railroad locomotives are those walking on the tracks. Last year the Pennsylvania railroad arrested 11,000 trespassers on its tracks. On the Pennsylvania in 1908, 915 trespassers were killed. Other railroads have been too indifferent in regard to these accidents. The Pennsylvania has adopted the right tactics and will undoubtedly reduce its death roll to a great extent.—Malden News.

DO YOUR Christmas Shopping NOW
and do it in
QUINCY.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—On 11.20 train from Boston Saturday evening, a suit case marked T. B. L. No questions asked and large reward if return to 195 Goffe street, Quincy, Mass.
L Dec. 14-6t O 18-1w

FOUND

FOUND—A sailboat. Enquire J. MACNAB, 371 Quincy avenue. Quincy, Dec. 17 3t

FOUND—A Ladder. Address L, Ledger Office. Quincy Dec. 15-3t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE or TO LET—Before you buy or rent, consult me. Houses for sale or to rent in the finest residential section in Quincy All improvements. Close to school, churches stores and depot. C. A. ERICSON, Builder 117 Glendale Road. Tel. Quincy 28-2. May 22-tf W and Sat.

FOR SALE—Johnson-Daniels show case in good condition. Apply at 25 Grant avenue, Milton between 8 and 9 in the morning. Dec.17 3t

WANTED.

WANTED—Places to care for furnaces, ashes, etc. Apply to J. M. LYNCH, 121 Phipps street. Dec. 16-3t

TO LET.

TO LET—Office and Stables, now occupied by the Boston & Quincy Express Co., 136 Washington street. Also Hall occupied by the Socialists club, corner Washington and Canal streets. Apply to ALBERT KEATING. Quincy, Dec. 18 2t

TO LET—Furnished Room. Apply at 81 Revere road. Quincy, Dec. 11-3t—11-13-18

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and appartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-12t

TO LET—A New Tenement of five rooms second floor; with bath, hot and cold water, range, furnace heat, gas and set tubs. Beautiful pine grove in back, on Glendale road. Ready for occupancy. Apply at 188 Glendale road. Quincy, Dec. 10-6t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec. 10-12t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 64 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-tf

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-tf

TO LET

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

21 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x45 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

Read
Ledger Advs

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, hockey, checkers, cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 285 | QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 20, 1909 | PRICE TWO CENTS

FIRST CHAPTER OF NEW SERIAL TO-DAY

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY JOSEPH MEDILL PATTERSON AND HARRIET FORD.

In "The Fourth Estate" the effectiveness of newspapers in fearlessly exposing political and judicial corruption and the safeguard they are to the public are interestingly and convincingly set forth. A young, earnest newspaper writer and editor is the central figure, and his battles with a dishonest United States judge against big odds and against the cunningly underhanded machinations of the lawyer lobbyist Dupuy form one of the most valuable as well as most entertaining pieces of fiction of the day. That the false judge's daughter, the reigning beauty in the fashionable life of a leading city, should play a sensational part in this gripping story of strong honest men and of strong dishonest men, fighting each other in a war of dollars, evidences the romantic possibilities of the narrative. This is a story of today's America, a fact story torn out of life's book, dealing with the most vital issues that confront every one of us. Romance and humor vie with stirring action for supremacy in this instructive and fascinating novel, which teaches that the path of duty is the path to love and happiness and that in success, nobly won, lie rewards of greater and more lasting value than in a triumph ignobly and more easily gained.

CHAPTER I.

Burke said there were three estates in parliament, but in the reporters' gallery yonder there sat a Fourth Estate more important far than they all.—Carlyle.

THE silence in the managing editor's room of the Daily Advance was abruptly broken by the entrance of Ross McHenry through a private door. His eighteen years of active newspaper work in a career extending from cub reporterhood to his present important office had drilled into him the necessity, even the habit, of constant action, quick thought, keen and accurate perception and readiness for emergencies. He hastily threw off his coat, glanced at several papers laid on his desk while he was out at dinner and seated himself in his managerial chair. He wrote a few rapid words on a pad of paper at his right hand as he pushed a button with his left to summon an office boy.

"Any one here while I was gone?" McHenry queried sharply as the boy entered.

"Yes, sir. Woman whose boy was pinched wants to keep it out of th' paper. Been outside two hours. She's sittin' outside an' bawls an' bawls an' bawls."

"Tell her we're printing a newspaper and I've left for the night."

"Then there was a few phone calls. We handled 'em all 'cept th' last. He was a man named Nolan, an' he wanted ter see you."

"What'd you tell him?"

McHenry immediately became interested.

"What'd you tell him?" he asked, rising.

"That you was to th' theayter."

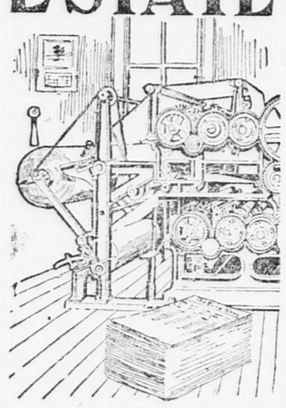
The managing editor picked up a Congressional Directory and shied it forcibly at the lad.

"Well, next time, young man, you tell him I've just stepped down to the night editor's room. Nolan; remember his name—Nolan. He's the new owner."

"Cheese it, another owner. Nobody keeps us long, do they?"

"No," responded McHenry laconically. "Like certain other luxuries, nobody keeps us long. We're too expensive, Durkin."

The boy grinned and hurried away to summon the night editor at McHenry's command and to dispose of the "bawling" woman.



McHenry seated himself and turned to the ever ready telephone at the right hand corner of his desk:

"Hello, Miss Stowe! Get me Mr. Nolan—Mr. Michael Nolan—on the wire right away."

As the managing editor hung up the receiver Moore, the night editor, entered carrying a bundle of galley proofs in his left hand, a schedule in his right.

"Well, Moore, what have you got for part 1?" asked McHenry.

The night editor repeated rapidly in a dead flat monotonous voice:

"Thirty-five columns of ads. Telegraph editor's hollering for twenty columns. He just got a couple of nice flashes—one from Pittsburg about a man eloping with his daughter-in-law; very fine people. Another first class murder from St. Louis. Local has twenty-six scheduled, sports are very heavy, bowling, fights, checkers, and Kentucky's shut down on racing; they want two pages. We've got a tip that Morgan has the asthma. Steel will probably open soft on Monday."

McHenry took down the telephone receiver and held it expectantly at his ear. He took the proofs from Moore's hand and began looking them over. They contained important articles which had been set up, but which he had not previously seen.

"Hello, there's a live one," he suddenly exclaimed, glancing over one of the sheets. "Bill, I'd like to run that one. Senator Deering dead yet?"

McHenry turned to the telephone.

"No, not yet."

The managing editor was disgusted.

"Pshaw!" he exclaimed. "I'll bet the old codger dies for the afternoon papers. We're having rotten luck lately."

The telephone rang.

"Hello! Who's this?" cried McHenry savagely. But his voice changed abruptly to its most sugary tones.

"Oh, Mr. Nolan, this is Mr. McHenry. Yes; why, the boy said I'd gone to the theater. He's new to newspaper offices. Yes, indeed. He doesn't know we newspaper men have little time for theaters—no, indeed—ha, ha! I was downstairs in the press room all the time—yes, indeed; trouble with the roller on cylinder 5 of the color press, and I happen to have a bit of a mechanical turn of mind—yes, indeed. Anything I can do for you, sir? Hope we may have the pleasure of showing you over the office—your office—pretty soon. Yes, sir. Tonight? Yes, any time. We're always here. Yes, sir. Thank you."

He hung up the receiver and reverted to his natural voice. "It's the new boss, Moore. 'S coming down tonight."

"I wonder if that means more changes?" observed the night editor as he filled his pipe.

McHenry sighed.

"Ain't a man who gets into this business a sucker?"

The night editor smiled grimly.

"Wonder what kind of a joke is this Nolan anyway?" he asked.

The night editor's brow wrinkled.

"All I know is that he's a Colorado miner with a hill of ore all his own." He glanced over the night editor's schedule. "What is this T—T—golf or politics?"

"Taft—both; golf 2 down—conference with Aldrich."

McHenry snorted.

"Gosh, the White House is dead since Teddy left!" He pointed to the schedule. "What's this? 'Baltimore, one column.'"

"Double divorce. They exchanged partners."

"Good people?"

"Not much."

"Fifty words 'll be enough. Dead heavy—stupid paper," grunted the managing editor.

McHenry rang for the boy, Durkin, and on his belated arrival sent him to summon the city editor. "What you got?" saluted McHenry as the editor arrived.

Downs, the city editor, went straight to the point.

"Are you going to use that follow up story about Judge Bartelmy throwing the Lansing Iron company into a receivership?" he queried.

"I dunno. Any kicks on this morning's story?"

"I should say yes — telephone going all day."

McHenry turned and pounded the desk with his fist.

"If they kicked on that they'd get our jobs on this." He pointed at the proof of the new Bartelmy story which he had taken from Moore. "All the same, the judicial ermine is getting rather soiled these days. It makes me sore to think of what they're pulling off on the federal bench. He's bad all through, that Bartelmy. Whose story is it—Brand's?"

"Yep," responded the city editor.

"By heaven, he is a newspaper man."

"That's why he won't last in this office," put in Moore sarcastically.

"Yep," supplemented the city editor.

McHenry's face took on a resigned expression as he said: "Well, we'll have to pass it up." He paused. "It's likely to be libelous."

He laid aside the proof sheet and resumed his perusal of the schedule of articles intended to be used in the next morning's paper.

(To be Continued.)

"Double divorce. They exchanged partners."

QUINCY TIRRELL

The Well Known Carriagesmith Passes Away

Quincy Tirrell, one of Quincy's long time residents, passed away this morning at his home on Franklin street in his 82d year. Mr. Tirrell was taken with a fainting spell three weeks ago at Emerson's carriage manufactury where he was employed, and he has been confined to his home practically ever since although he did visit the polling place at the recent city election.

Mr. Tirrell was a son of Charles P. Tirrell, for many years a well known carriage manufacturer. He was born and has always made his home in Quincy. When a young man he entered the employ of his father afterward being admitted to the firm of Tirrell & Sons carriage manufacturers in the building now occupied by T. L. Williams and others. Mr. Tirrell was a carriagesmith, and it was this part of the business which he looked after, living for many years nearby.

Shortly after the death of his father in 1884, he retired from the firm, and went into business for himself, his shop being on Franklin street. This he carried on for some time. In 1886 he was elected as the tax collector of the town, which office he held for one year. This is the only public office that he ever held.

Of late he had been employed at his trade at Emerson's carriage manufactory. He was a member of Maple lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor. He leaves a widow and three sons, George W., Harry W., and Henry W. One of his sons, Harry W. Tirrell has been the City Messenger ever since Quincy became a city.

—The Brockton Association for the Control of Tuberculosis has asked the school board to have an examination made of pupils in one of the schools to determine the percentage if any, of children affected with symptoms of tuberculosis.

PROVIDES FOR NEW STATION

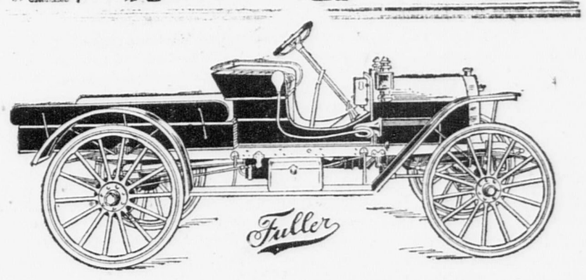
Bill Connecting the Two Railroad Branches

Accompanying the petition of Chas. A. Ufford and others to the Legislature of 1910 for an act authorizing the connection of the Granite and Shawmut branches of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., is the following bill:

Section 1. The Old Colony Railroad Company is hereby authorized to locate, construct and maintain an extension of its railroad beween the Shawmut and Milton branches thereof in the city of Boston and the Granite branch thereof in the city of Quincy, crossing the Neponset river, and extending over and taking any lands which may have been heretofore appropriated to another public use, and specifically lands held for the purposes of metropolitan parks, upon such route and in such manner as the board of railroad commissioners may after a public hearing fix and prescribe.

Section 2. The Old Colony Railroad Company shall pay all damages caused by laying out, making and maintaining said railroad, or by taking land or materials therefor. Such damages shall be secured and recovered in the manner provided by the general law for the recovery of damages caused by the laying out, making and maintaining of railroads.

Section 3. The running of daily heavy freight trains in the residential district on the Shawmut Branch from Cedar Grove Station to Fields Corner after the extension of tracks at Mattapan is completed, except in case of accident to the main Old Colony line, is prohibited.



Section 4. The Old Colony Railroad Company is hereby authorized to issue such bonds and stock for the construction of railroads bridges, connections at Cedar Grove and Mattapan extension and in such manner as the Board of Railroad Commissioners may after a public hearing fix and prescribe, provided that said stock shall be first offered to the public in ten (10) dollar shares, interest payable annually at four (4) per cent; subsequently what remains unsold shall be offered at such rate and terms as the Railroad Commissioners shall decide. Each ten (10) dollar share shall be entitled to one-tenth (1-10) of a vote. The Old Colony Railroad Company is authorized to issue sufficient bonds to protect the distribution of required stock; said bonds shall be deposited with an authorized Trust Company, Boston as security, and draw an additional one (1) per cent. per annum. This one (1) per cent. is to be subdivided as follows: one-quarter (1-4) of one (1) per cent. to the Authorized Trust Company or its successors, the three-quarters (3-4) of one (1) per cent. shall annually be paid the Treasurer of an old age, pension and accident insurance fund of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad employees, to be forthwith incorporated under the insurance laws of the State of Massachusetts.

Section 5. A railroad station shall be placed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, lessees of the Old Colony Railroad at Granite Bridge Street in East Milton, as shown on map herewith filed.

Section 6. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

A GOOD CAR.

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

Two Shows at Music Hall, Christmas

Matinee at 2.30. Evening at 8.

3 ACTS, 5,000 FEET MOVING PICTURES.

Advance Sale of Coupon Reserved Seat Tickets.

GET YOURS TODAY

Admission 10 Cents. Reserved 20 Cents. Dec. 18-6t

YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER

Will not be complete without having some of OUR FAMOUS

MINCE or SQUASH PIES

on the table. We guarantee absolute purity and cleanliness. We use no substitutes or adulterations.

Just Like Mother Used to Make.

BARNARD'S PURE FOOD BAKERY

1587 Hancock Street, Quincy. Dec. 18-6t

FOY

Makes a Specialty of

Supplying GOOD THINGS FOR Christmas

The largest and freshest stock of Christmas Groceries and Sweets in Quincy. We carry everything you need for Christmas Dinner. Our prices are right.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cranberries | 3 qts. 25c. | Rice Pop Corn | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Fancy Drained Citron | lb. 18c. | Common Crackers | lb. 8c. |
| Seeded Raisins | 3 pkg. 25c. | Large Native Onions | pk. 25c. |
| Cleaned Currants | pkg. 10c. | Florida Oranges | doz. 15c. |
| Ideal Not-a-Seed Raisins | pkg. 10c. | 2 lb. box Ribbon Candy | 25c. |
| Slade's Sage | box 5c. | Dates | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Bell's Poultry Seasoning | box 9c. | Cluster Raisins | box 10c. |
| | | Matinee Biscuits | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| | | Takoma Biscuits | 6 pkg. 25c. |

R. E. FOY & CO.

COR WATER AND QUINCY STS.

QUINCY ADAMS

Red Cross Stamps

On Christmas Letters

Carry Good Cheer

JUST A MINUTE

How about a case of our FANCY DRINKS for your Christmas Dinner

German Seltzer For Digestion

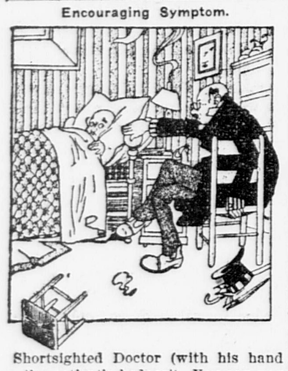
Temperance BEER For your table drinks

Mixed Tonic For your Company

CALL, WRITE OR PHONE

GERMAN SELTZER MFG. CO.

QUINCY, MASS.



Dec. 20—4t Phone 146-1

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 148 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Encouraging Symptom.

Shortsighted Doctor (with his hand on the patient's bedpost)—You say you feel feverish, but your forehead is as cool as it can be.

BRIEFS

J. A. Keating bought the Josselyn property on Standish avenue on Saturday for $2,500.

Harold Thomas of Newton street is at home from Acadia College for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Carr of Safford street are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son born on Monday.

The street railway company has all its big snow plows ready for immediate service as soon as snow arrives.

The general impression among fire chiefs, who have seen Quincy's new steamer is that she is a dandy. At the factory in Providence it was said that she is the best second class steamer ever turned out, and can be depended upon to do her work faithfully at any and all times.

The last week for Christmas shopping and wise people will patronize local stores which have a large assortment of Christmas novelties, and thus avoid the crowds and jam of Boston stores, as well as the chance of finding the purchase damaged when they arrive home. The local stores are unusually well stocked this year.

New street lights are being located in City Square and the existing lights are being relocated so as to give better results. Saturday a new arc light was installed at the junction of Hancock and Chestnut streets. The arc light at the corner of Hancock and Temple streets whose rays are obscured by the trees, will be suspended over the middle of the street. These and other changes will better light City Square.

HOLLY TREES.

Suburban Life for December has an interesting description of ilex aquifolium and other ilexes, that is holly and its relations. English holly is a deeper green than ours and has deeper spaces between the spines than ours. American holly grows from the southern states all the way to Maine but is not abundant in the North. though beautiful trees have been seen near Boston, where the protection of other trees forwarded growth. The southern holly is rapidly disappearing through extravagant use. Black alder and the winterberry are ilexes that grow in New England more freely. The Japanese holly is very beautiful, with larger leaves and berries than ours. It has been imported to some extent.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

ONCE "KING OF UMPIRES"

Lynch Is Elected President of the National Baseball League

New York, Dec. 20.—Thomas J. Lynch of New Britain, Conn., once known as the king of umpires, was elected president of the National League of Professional Baseball clubs. Lynch was the darkest kind of a dark horse, and his election came in the nature of a big surprise. He was nominated by John T. Brush of the New York club, and the vote was made unanimous without argument or delay of any kind.

Lynch was born in New Britain, where he owns a theatre, 51 years ago. He umpired his first game in the New England league, and did so well that he was appointed to the National league staff in 1885. Lynch soon demonstrated the fact that he was an autocrat on the diamond. He was a stickler for the rules, and ruled rigidly over the rowdies with an iron hand. But his path was not strewn with roses, and he had a stormy time of it all over the circuit.

ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Three Sisters Will Be Indicted In the Great Bathtub Mystery

New York, Dec. 20.—The three eccentric sisters, Miss Virginia Wardlaw, Mrs. Mary Snead and Mrs. Caroline W. Martin, all charged with the murder of Ocey Snead, whose emaciated body was found in a bathtub at East Orange, N. J., will be indicted by the Essex county (N. J.) grand jury on Tuesday next, according to the program mapped out by the county authorities.

Immediately thereafter a petition for the extradition of Mrs. Snead and Mrs. Martin, now held in the Tombs, will be made. It is believed that the two sisters in New York, will consent to go to New Jersey for trial without legal resistance.

Prosecutor Mott of Essex county, N. J., says that he has positive evidence that both Mrs. Snead and Mrs. Martin were instrumental in engaging the East Orange house in which Ocey Snead died.

SHORTER WORKDAY AND WAGE INCREASE

Trainmen Serve Notice on Eastern Railroad Systems

Boston, Dec. 20.—The chairmen of the system committees of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors will today notifiy the officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford and the Boston and Maine railroads that those organizations have decided to request a revision of the present wage scale and working rules agreements.

By the terms of the present agreement with the railroad a thirty days' notification of a contemplated change is required. The official request for changes will be served on the railroad officials Jan. 3.

The men will ask that there be an equalization of wages and working hours so as to bring the standards on the eastern roads up to those on the western roads where the work is lighter and less onerous. On some of the eastern roads the request will be for a 50 percent increase on this basis.

VATICAN IS ALARMED

New Italian Ministry Considered Hostile to Catholic Church

Rome, Dec. 20.—Because of the known hostility of certain members of the new Italian ministry there is much alarm felt at the Vatican over its accession to power. Signor Scialoja is the new minister of worship and justice. As a member of the Giolotti cabinet his first acts in office were extremely hostile to the church.

He insisted that the letter of the law suppressing the religious congregations should be rigidly enforced and ordered a general census to be taken of all ecclesiastical properties still held in the Italian kingdom.

It is feared, now that he is again in power, Scialoja will be bent upon carrying out his strong anti-clerical program. The Italian authorities, however, are doing their utmost to check such tendencies.

THREE HUNDRED ARRESTS

Diligent Search For Negro Assailant of Street Car Crew

East St. Louis, Ills., Dec. 20.—Three hundred negroes, each answering in some particular the description of the highwayman who shot and killed Motorman Gouby and probably fatally wounded Conductor O'Brien on a street car Saturday night, are held at police headquarters.

The thug sought to obtain $40 from O'Brien by cutting out his pockets and taking the money changer. The car, after the negro left it, ran uncontrolled for four miles.

Russian Officers Arrested

St. Petersburg, Dec. 20.—Colonels Zinovieff and Svatogoi of the quartermaster's department were arrested as a result of the discovery of irregularities involving more than $1,000,000.

Satolli Is Much Worse

Rome, Dec. 20.—The condition of Cardinal Satolli, who recently suffered a relapse from nephritis, is very much worse. Alarming symptoms developed and there is some delirium.

WILL BENEFIT BY CONFESSION

Sentences of Men Convicted In Sugar Cases Postponed

SPITZER'S BAIL IS RAISED

Mercy of the Court Will Be Extended to Weighers If They Were Led to Do Wrong Through Influence of Stronger Minds—Federal Authorities Lay Plans to Get at Men "Higher Up" In Frauds

New York, Dec. 20.—Oliver Spitzer, the Williamsburg dock superintendent, and the four checkers found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government by under-weighing sugar imported by the American Sugar Refining company, have not been sentenced. Instead the criminal branch of the United States circuit court allowed them freedom under bail until Jan. 8, when they will present arguments for a new trial.

Spitzer's bail was raised from $5000 to $10,000; that of the others was continued at $2500.

It is believed that the federal attorneys welcome the stay in sentence because they hope that some of the indicted men might give them valuable information on the chance of thus lightening their punishment. Patrick Hennessey, a veteran of the weighing docks and one of the convicted men, talked earnestly in court with Henry L. Stimson, special prosecutor for the government, and Mr. Stimson was heard to say: "I will be pleased to see you in my office."

In granting the stay of sentence, Judge Martin intimated that confessions involving superiors might win the convicted men lighter sentences. "If these men," he said, "were led to do wrong through the influence of stronger minds, they are entitled to the full benefits of the mercy of the court. They should not now be shielding persons who might have controlled their actions at the risk that the court may not take into consideration the recommendation to mercy."

After "Men Higher Up"

Washington, Dec. 20.—Collector Loeb of New York, who was at the treasury department, expressed his satisfaction over the outcome of the trial in New York of the former employes of the American Sugar Refining company, accused of defrauding the government. He was disappointed over the failure to convict Bendernagel. There were two men "higher up" than he, however, whom Loeb said the government was after, one of them Gerbracht, who had been superintendent of the sugar refining docks at Williamsburg, and who was now under indictment, and another, whose name he did not care to make public.

Application is to be made to the supreme court early in January by the department of justice to advance for hearing the appeal of the government from the decision of Judge Holt at New York, practically exempting from prosecution certain officials of the sugar trust because their acts are barred by the statute of limitations.

CHARITY WORKER A SUICIDE

Miss Boswell Had Tried to End Her Life Six Years Ago

Boston, Dec. 20.—The woman whose body was found in the water off Winthrop was identified as Miss Carrie L. Boswell, aged 63.

Miss Boswell was a vative of Vermont, the daughter of a Congregational clergyman, and for the past twenty-five years had been a resident of Somerville.

She was attached to the Nickerson home for destitute children on Tyler street, Boston, and had been generally interested in charitable institutions. She had for many years been in poor health and was suffering from stomach trouble. She attempted suicide about six years ago, and is known to have contemplated it since.

DRANK FURNITURE POLISH

How a Vermont Man Got a Jag on Substitute For Liquor

Rutland, Vt., Dec. 20.—When City Judge Swinnerton asked Bartley McGarrity to tell where he obtained the liquor on which he became intoxicated, the man claimed he had been drinking nothing but furniture polish, and investigation proved this to be a fact.

When arrested he had a can of the liquid in his pocket and inquiry at one of the local hardware stores disclosed the fact that McGarrity had been a good customer for this particular article.

Laborer Killed by Dynamite

Worcester, Dec. 20.—Fillippo Brigemenio was blown up by dynamite while at work in a quarry here and died two hours later. Just how the accident happened no one can say, as he was alone, probably tamping a charge for a blast.

The Weather

Almanac, Tuesday, Dec. 21.
Sun rises—7:10; sets—4:14.
Moon sets—12:50 a. m.
High water—6 a. m.; 6:30 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Generally fair; moderate west winds.

TO AID WAIST WORKERS

Mrs. Belmont Raises $100,000 on Her New York Mansion

New York, Dec. 20.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, one of the wealthiest of the social leaders in New York, has mortgaged her palatial home on Madison avenue to advance the cause of the striking shirtwaist makers.

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT.

This devotion to the cause of labor in its fight against capital became known Sunday morning, when she offered the $400,000 house as security in the night court, where she had waited until 3 o'clock to bail out four of the shirtwaist workers. In offering the house as security for $800 bail Mrs. Belmont said:

"It is valued at $400,000. But I think there may be a mortgage on it for $100,000, which I raised to help the shirtwaist strikers and the woman's suffrage movement."

The bail was accepted as soon as the magistrate recovered from the surprise that her startling announcement caused. That she had pledged her home in order to advance the cause of her less fortunate sisters has been accepted as proof of her sincerity.

DOINGS OF SPOOKS IN A MAINE TOWN

Unwelcome Visitors at Two Houses In Bowdoinham

Bangor, Me., Dec. 20.—Bowdoinham boasts of a ghost house where it is said that the chairs in the middle of the night slide out and draw together in groups, just as if guided by visible hands. Then there is a spirit cane that goes walking all by itself just at midnight, tapping its way along from room to room, and finally taking up its abode in the chamber where a member of the family sleeps. That this statement is true is affirmed by those who have seen the phenomena and who are not at all afraid of ghosts.

At another house in the village is a phantom light that shines each night, no matter whether it be moonlight or darkness, just above the closet door in an upper chamber. For years this light has disturbed the people who at different times have occupied this room. From time to time different explanations have been offered, but none has proved satisfactory.

GIFTS FROM ROOSEVELT

Lions, Leopards, Warthog and Other Animals For Washington Zoo

Philadelphia, Dec. 20.—Five lions, a leopard and a variety of other wild animals, the gift of former President Roosevelt to the Zoo at Washington, were unloaded from steamer Moltkefels here. The animals were presented to Roosevelt by an African ranchman, who captured them when they were young.

The five lions and the leopard were shipped direct to Washington. The other animals, including two hartebeests, two elands, one gazelle, one warthog and one waterbuck will remain in quarantine for fifteen days, after which they will be sent to the national capital.

VICTORY FOR THE STORK

Chicago Landlords Cannot Bar Tenants Who Have Children

Chicago, Dec. 20.—The stork has won a suit against landlords. They can no longer bar tenants with children.

The state law, which landlords and their attorneys have laughed at, asserting that it is unconstitutional and class legislation to prohibit their turning away tenants with children, was upheld as constitutional by Judge Himes.

Drowned In Son's Presence

Waterville, Me., Dec. 20.—While his son and some boy skaters looked on, too frightened to give aid, Bernard Roy, aged 40, drowned in the Sebasticook river.

Thirty Years In Bed

Boston, Dec. 20.—Mary Beraeat, 60 years old, single, was found dead in bed at her home in South Boston. She had been bedridden thirty years.

HOMAGE PAID TO DEAD KING

Thousands File Before Catafalque of the Late Leopold

HIS BODY LIES IN STATE

Nuns and Priests Kneel Before Casket Draped With Colors of Old Grenadier Regiment While Stream of People Pass For Three Hours—"Apostle of Peace and Justice" Lauded In Pastoral Letter

Brussels, Dec. 20.—The body of King Leopold lay in state in the royal palace Sunday, while thousands who had patiently waited their turn to be admitted filed silently before the catafalque and paid homage to their late sovereign.

In the presence of Prince Albert and the officers and dignitaries of the court and government, the coffin had been borne to the mortuary chamber, while priests chanted the Miserere and a procession of nuns with bent heads told their rosaries for the dead.

Passing through the garden and courtway up the broad marble staircase, banked with magnificent floral pieces, and across the vast reception hall, those who had come to the palace found themselves in a room of state, the draperies of which were black with silver fringe.

It was lighted up by the glare from electric globes and the softer glow of hundreds of candles. The mahogany casket in which the king lay was half draped with colors of the old grenadier regiment and surmounted by his daughters' floral wreaths. It was guarded on either side by three officers in uniforms glittering with gold and swords brought up to the royal salute.

Against the walls and between the tall palms other officers held the standards of the kingdom. In front of the coffin were kneeling nuns and priests. For three hours the stream of people passed through the palace, witnesses of the impressive scene.

The Belgian episcopate issued a pastoral letter eulogizing King Leopold as the apostle of peace and justice, the glorifier of the Catholic faith and the promoter of Christian civilization, through the foundation and development of the Congo Independent state.

STATE LAWS VIOLATED

Claim of Congressmen Opposed to Mann White Slave Bill

Washington, Dec. 20.—There will be a very vigorous minority report by four Democratic members of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce on the Mann white slave bill, which was favorably acted upon by a majority of that committee.

The minority report will assert that the whole matter is one to be handled by the immigration committee; that the interstate commerce committee has no jurisdiction whatever, and that the Mann bill, which aims at the suppression of the traffic by means of regulation of interstate commerce, is unconstitutional and a gross violation of the rights of states to regulate the morals of their own inhabitants.

The minority report will be signed by Representatives Richardson (Ala.), Bartlett (Ga.), Adamson (Ga.) and Peters, (Mass.).

OLEOMARGARINE FRAUDS

Heavy Fine and Jail Sentence Imposed Upon a Detroit Man

Detroit, Dec. 20.—John Hart of this city was sentenced to pay fines aggregating $1800, a tax of $600 and to be confined in the Detroit house of correction for one year and ten days for violations of the federal laws regarding the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine. The defendant gave bonds pending an appeal.

Milwaukee, Dec. 20.—United States Marshal Weil found a plant said to have been used in furtherance of oleomargarine frauds. Edward Klimic and A. E. Graham of Janesville are under arrest, charged with manufacturing uncolored oleomargarine.

WOULD DESTROY SQUIRRELS

Agricultural Department Says That They Spread Bubonic Plague

Washington, Dec. 20.—The possible spread of bubonic plague by ground squirrels to such an extent as to become a very real menace to sections where no cases have so far appeared has been called to the attention of the house committee on agriculture by Secretary Wilson.

The public health service has asked the biological bureau of the department of agriculture to devise some means of destroying the squirrels.

Mind Injured Over Poem

London, Dec. 20.—In October, 1892, when Lord Tennyson died, William Watson was called upon for a memorial poem. His brother says he worked fifty hours on the verses and the strain unhinged his mind.

Academician Honor For Roosevelt

Paris, Dec. 20.—The academy of moral and political sciences elected Theodore Roosevelt to a foreign associate membership.

The Sewing Light
The Rayo Lamp

makes the long evening brilliant with its steady white light for sewing or reading. Made of brass, nickel plated and equipped with the latest improved central draft burner.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but you cannot get a better lamp at any price.

Once a Rayo user, always one

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not At Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

WHEELER'S

Christmas Christmas

See what we offer for Christmas.

All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear

Belts, Aprons, Gloves, Xmas Cards, Booklets, Post Cards
Handkerchiefs, Stamped Linens, Stationery, Handkerchief Boxes, Glove Boxes, Collar Boxes
Pocket Books, Purses, Bags, Calendars, Needle Books, Shaving Cases

We also have a good line of

"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists

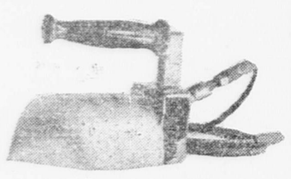
Christmas Christmas

CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY
(DRY GOODS STORE.)

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 1o-tf

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES CLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

Sprague's New River
STEAM COAL
Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined
Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.
J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS
TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf



REAL ESTATE For Sale?
Advertise in The Ledger.

WRITING TO DEAR OLD SANTA CLAUS

Only One Cent
Means Help for the
Tuberculosis Camp

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.
Dec 7 1m

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.
Dec. 14—1m.

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING

1357 Hancock Street
Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

Pine Wood For Sale

Ashes, Rubbish and Stable Manure carted away.

Peter McConarty

5 Pearl Street, - Quincy, Mass.
Nov. 15-1m

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Copyrights and Copyright notices. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively, surpassing references. While awake inventors should have our handbook on how to obtain and sell patents. What inventions will pay. How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY

Furniture and Piano Moving

Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

Have Your Clothes Washed by the

NEW SYSTEM

WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.

Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.

Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.

L. A. FAGEN, Manager

Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.

1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 20, | 5.00 | 5.30 |
| Tuesday, | 6.00 | 6.30 |
| Wednesday, | 7.00 | 7.30 |
| Thursday, | 8.00 | 8.30 |
| Friday, | 9.00 | 9.30 |
| Saturday, | 9.45 | 10.30 |
| Sunday, | 10.45 | 11.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Federal Solicitor General.

Lloyd W. Bowers Holds Importan Post In Government.

Among the men mentioned for the supreme court bench in succession to the late Justice Peckham has been Lloyd W. Bowers, who was recently appointed solicitor general of the United States. Before taking office Mr Bowers was a Chicago lawyer. He is a Massachusetts man by birth and a graduate of Yale. The office of solicitor general of the United States was held by Mr. Taft in 1890-2.

BRIEFS

The nice house now being built on Glendale road by George E. Thomas is being constructed for Edwin Livingston of Belmont.

E. W. Courtney who has been appointed manager of the National Cash Register office in Lynn, will make his home in that city.

The last regular meeting of the City Council of 1909, will be held tonight. The calendar is pretty well cleared, but another meeting will be necessary to finish up some of the matters pending.

E. A. Messier, chaffeur for R. E. Foy & Co., has so far recovered that he was taken home from the hospital today. It will be over two months before he will be able to be around on his feet again. All his friends are congratulating him on his recovery.

The City Council Committee on Fire Department made a tour of the fire stations of the city on Sunday, in company with Chief Engineer Williams. They also looked at the locations for which petitions and orders for fire alarm boxes are pending before the City Council.

Two weeks from today will be inaugurated day, and Mayor Shea has already commenced to outline his third inaugural address. The address of the Mayor this year will be short and will deal largely with the financial condition of the city. He will have some recommendations to make.

Several hundred young people enjoyed the skating on Butler's pond on Sunday. This is practically the only skating pond at present in Ward One, and the other wards of the city are about as bad off. It is probable, however, that the Park Commissioners will see that skating ponds are provided this winter in every section of the city.

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

Red Cross Stamps
FOR THE
Tuberculosis Camp

CLAIM NOT YET ESTABLISHED

Danes Want Further Proof That Cook Reached the Pole

PRELIMINARY REPORT IS MADE

Data Thus Far Submitted by Explorer Considered Insufficient by Copenhagen Committee—Some Regret That Honors Were Paid to Brooklyn Man Before Thorough Investigation Was Made—Change In Sentiment

Copenhagen, Dec. 20.—It is said by a high authority that the committee of the university of Copenhagen, in its preliminary examination of his records, failed to discover proof that Dr. Frederick A. Cook reached the North Pole.

The consistory of the university of Copenhagen at a secret session received a preliminary report covering the first stage of the work of the committee which is examining the North Polar records of Cook.

An excited discussion followed. The committee has not completed its investigation. It appears that the data so far submitted are not held sufficient to establish the explorer's claim.

The result of the discussion was a request on the part of the consistory that the committee continue its work. The university body will leave to the investigators proper the matter of making public later the results of their inquiries.

In the meantime, it is announced by an official of the university that the consistory will not make public any communication based upon information received orally from the committee at Saturday's meeting.

Popular opinion here appears to have undergone a gradual change. From the beginning of the controversy the populace of Copenhagen has been decidedly pro-Cook. Patriotism has strengthened this sentiment.

Recent developments, however, have been disappointing, and now the general impression prevails that Cook's papers, as submitted, do not constitute proof that he discovered the North Pole.

It is learned that several members of the university consistory are exceedingly angry over the rector's preliminary report, one of them expressing regret that the university did not wait until Cook's claim that he reached the Pole had been proved before honoring him.

The Copenhagen newspapers up to the present have been wholly friendly to Cook, but some of the leading dailies print articles throwing doubt on Cook's trustworthiness. They point out that the Danish people regarded Cook in the light of a national hero and hope that he is an honest man. The slightest evidence that this is not the case, the papers assert, will oppress all Danes with grief.

There is further rumor, well substantiated but impossible of positive verification, that Cook is nearing Copenhagen, ready to appear personally before the university consistory if his presence he desired. The doctor so wrote Rector Torp, his friends assert.

AGED SISTERS FOUND DEAD

One Probably Stabbed the Other and Then Hanged Herself

Newark, N. J., Dec. 20.—Two elderly sisters were found dead in the kitchen of their home here. They are Frances and Isabel Ritchie, who since the death of a large dog, their only house companion, had been very despondent.

Isabel apparently stabbed her sister to the heart with a hatpin, and then hanged herself with a piece of clothesline made fast over a door.

The women had lived alone since the death of their mother more than fifteen years ago, with a large dog as their sole companion. Recently the dog died and since that time the women had been despondent.

FERRYBOAT SINKS AT DOCK

Sustains Damage of About $60,000 by Fire Before She Goes Down

Boston, Dec. 20.—Ferryboat General Sumner, the latest boat of the fleet of the East Boston ferries, was so badly damaged by fire which broke out in the boiler room that she sank in the repair dock of the south ferry.

The boat was built in 1900, was valued a nearly $100,000, and the opinion is that it will cost at least $60,000 to repair the damage. The cause of the blaze is not known, but it is supposed to have started in the boiler room.

Battery Named For Morris

Washington, Dec. 20.—The seacoast battery on the Fort Standish (Mass.) military reservation has been named "Battery Morris," in honor of Brevet Major General W. W. Morris, who died Dec. 11, 1865.

Long Flight In Curtis Biplane

St. Louis, Dec. 20.—Charles K. Hamilton, in his Curtis biplane, starting from the ice on Lake Contrary, made a flight of twelve minutes' duration. He covered eleven miles.

CHUM STOLE SWEETHEART

Marriage Proved a Failure and Old Sweethearts Are Joined

New York, Dec. 20.—For years Lawrence Ford of Baltimore, son of Rear Admiral Ford, U. S. N., retired, and Mabel Michaels, daughter of a wealthy ship broker of that city, were sweethearts, and Ford's chum was Frank Brown. Ford took Brown to see Miss Michaels. In thirty days he had lost his sweetheart. She and Brown came to New York and were married in 1906.

Brown is a millionaire clubman and son of former Governor Brown of Maryland.

Last July Mrs. Brown asked the courts in Baltimore to give her an absolute divorce, charging cruelty, and three months ago she was granted her decree.

A few days ago Ford was at Atlantic City when he learned that Mrs. Brown was at a hotel there. He sought an interview and they were married. Ford says he has forgiven Brown and they ever will be friends.

FRUIT JUICE BENEFICIAL

Sole Nourishment of Invalid For Forty-Five Days

Flint, Mich., Dec. 20.—For forty-five days nothing save orange and lemon juice and water passed the lips of Miss Jennie Marshall, 29 years of age.

About three years ago she submitted to an operation for appendicitis, and suffered no serious results until Oct. 1. At that time inflammation set in in the young woman's right side and various remedies failed to restore her to health. As a last resort a fast was advised by physicians.

Miss Marshall started in on the fast and for forty-five days she lay in bed suffering at time incessant pangs of hunger. Thanksgiving day she was given her first solid food. At present she is able to eat solid food in small quantities and it is believed the fast was a success and that Miss Marshall will be restored to her normal health in a short time.

LUDLOW STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK

Going Back to Houses From Which They Were Evicted

Ludlow, Mass., Dec. 20.—The Ludlow Associates have agreed to take back the strikers and will construe the agreement of last week as understood by the strikers in the same light as the Poles, and the operatives returned to work today.

The operatives will return to work in batches of 150, one group returning in the morning and one in the afternoon and continuing until such time when all of the strikers will be back at work. The company will allow the strike breakers to leave the mills; the returning operatives will not be asked to instruct any of the strike breakers.

The company has agreed to move the furniture of those operatives whose goods were removed from its houses at the time of evictions back to the buildings at its own cost.

PAINLESS SURGERY

Girl an Interested Spectator of Amputation of Her Own Leg

Auburn, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Professor Jonnesco's new spinal anesthetic, stovaine, was used in the amputation of the right leg of Miss Anna Donovan, a girl living at Poplar Ridge. She froze her foot several weeks ago and gangrene set in.

Drs. Heazlit, Cheeseman and Laurie injected the stovaine at a point between the third and fourth vertebre in the spinal channel. The woman was conscious throughout and showed interest in the work of the surgeons, who took about half an hour to complete the operation, which was declared a success. The girl said that she felt not the slightest pain.

NOT A CHANCE GAME

Judge's Decision on Poker Deals a Blow at Utica Reformers

Utica, Dec. 20.—As the result of a ruling by City Judge O'Connor that poker is a game of skill and not a game of chance, a wave of reform which, it was believed, was about to sweep this community, has subsided, and the gambling resorts will continue to flourish.

Judge O'Connor's ruling followed the arraignment of half a dozen proprietors of alleged gambling houses and their aids. The best the police could do was to prove hat poker was played in the various resorts.

Idle Plant to Be Reopened

Bristol, R. I., Dec. 20.—The Estey Manufacturing company of Fall River will take over in January, at a price exceeding $80,000, the plant of the Cutler Manufacturing company in this city. The Estey company manufactures window cords and other cotton products. The plant here has been closed for two years.

Frightful Fall to Death

Pittsburg, Dec. 20.—Slipping off a snow-covered beam over the elevator shaft on the roof of the 24-story Oliver building, John McNally, 45 years old, plunged 412 feet into the basement. His skull was fractured and arms were broken. He lived forty-five minutes after the accident.

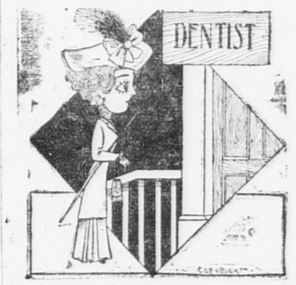
"SANTA CLAUS HAS BEEN HERE."

ASSETS, $450,000.

QUINCY CO-OP BANK $$$$$ For The People

ESTABLISHED 1889
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS B'K BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas.

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE



Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

STORAGE
FOR
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

NEW UPRIGHT PIANO

Now in storage at my home.
PRICE LOW.
Apply to
WM. WILSON, Pianist and Tuner,
4 President's Avenue, South Quincy
Tel. 137-2. Oct. 18-tf

YOUR APPOINTMENT

is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.

THIS DENTAL OFFICE IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.

Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.

YOU RISK NOTHING HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.

Our charges are never high.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.

DENTIST

37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.

Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Dec. 15 1o-2w

CHICHESTER'S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-ches-ter's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

(ADVERTISE.)

A CHRISTMAS BOX OF

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Men's Hose

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.

The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.

PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00

Can you beat it for the Price?

GEORGE W. JONES

No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

The message gives firm Presidential sanction to retrenchment ,and may help to bring back again the homely virtue of prudence and thrift in government affairs.

In his first mesage of Congress in regular session President Taft has pointed the way to the achievement of an amount of work that will suffice to keep the National Legislature busy.

This is the time when every one is wondering about what they can select for a suitable Christmas present. In the wealth and variety of the display and suggestion one would think there should be no trouble in this matter. That is just the difficulty oftentimes; the assortment is so large and the variety so great that it becomes confusing and often very tiresome in making a choice. If one visits a large city store at this season it is very easy to become so confused that a selection is made which will not prove satisfactory when it is unpacked at home. The smaller stores, such as are found right at home in Quincy, are sure to be found more satisfactory places to do the holiday shoping. In purchasing for the holidays just the same as purchasing at other seasons, the purchaser should keep in mind the fact that the commercial importance of a town is dependent very largely upon the element of co-operation that enters into it. If the people go to the city under the mistaken idea that they can purchase their necessities cheaper, they will sooner or later discover they have reduced the value of their property and lessened the attractiveness of their community as a place in which to reside by reducing its commercial influence and importance. Reciprocity is the lever that lifts in town affairs. If you live in a town look about and see if you cannot do your spending in it. At least look at the stock of goods of the home-merchant before going elsewhere and paying the same or more for the same thing.

Until New Years
USE THE
Red Cross Stamps

The action of the School Committee in awarding the contract for coal to Quincy dealers is generally commended, even after a perusal of the letter of the Neponset River Coal Company. The Daily Ledger and many others never approved of the award to out-of-town contractors the past two years. We believe in home trade, and are willing to pay a little more than Boston prices, for we feel there is a guarantee back of goods sold by Quincy merchants. And we know home trade helps the city, helps local business, and helps the purchaser. We expect the city government to set the example; to purchase supplies for all departments in Quincy when possible. Not only the School Department, but the Street department, the Water department, the Poor department, the Park department, the Assessors, the City Clerk, the City Treasurer, the Public Library, and other departments.

Coming to the coal contracts for 1910, the firm of J. F. Sheppard & Sons bid 28 cents less per ton for the Lehigh furnace than did the Neponset company, and the bid of William Cashman for George's Creek coal was only 20 cents more than the Neponset company. It was not politics that caused the School Committee to reach the decision that they did, but they simply carried out the home-trade policy which should prevail. The out-of-town company will not be able in the future, when inviting trade of Quincy people, to say in their letters that they supplied coal for the Quincy schools in 1910.

PRESENTATION.

A number of the members of the Star of Erin club of Boston called upon Daniel Mannix, a past president of the club, at his home on Cottage street, Sunday afternoon, and presented him with a parlor stove. The presentation was made by James C. Roche, the president of the club. During the afternoon the guests were taken to Hibernian hall on Franklin street where they were entertained by Division 5, A. O. H., which was holding a meeting. Later they returned to Mr. Mannix's home where they spent the evening.

—Rev. Ernest J. Dennen of St. Stephens Episcopal church, Lynn, has announced that hereafter he will perform the marriage ceremony only for those with whom he has a personal acquaintance, or, can furnish satisfactory identification. He objects to indiscriminate marrying.

Bilious?
Doctors all agree that an active liver is positively essential to health. Ask your own doctor about Ayer's Pills. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
"How are your bowels?" the doctor always asks. He knows how important is the question of constipation. He knows that inactivity of the liver will often produce most disastrous results. We believe Ayer's Pills are the best liver pills you can possibly take. Sold for over 60 years.

HUB RANGES

One-half ton
Coal----Free
with every HUB Range purchased before Jan. 1, 1910

Hub Ranges are made in over twenty-five different designs and several hundred styles and combinations.

BERMAN TEA CO., 1625 Hancock St., QUINCY.

COMMENTS FROM LYNN

Quincy Shipyard a Great Industry for State

The Lynn Item comments as follows:

"It is only a little more than nine years ago that the first steel vessel was launched from the Fore River shipyard in Quincy. The Daily Ledger of that city, on Monday last gave a list of what may be not inaptly described as the Quincy fleet, which now numbers 58, including four battleships, the Rhode Island, the New Jersey, the Vermont and the North Dakota. Also the United States cruiser Des Moines, the United States cruiser Salem, the United States cruiser Birmingham, two torpedo boat destroyers artillery steamers, lightships, and several submarine boats for the government, and several steamers, car floats, lighters, etc., for the merchant service.

"All these are steel ships. This is a great industry for Massachusetts. The business has been good the past year, as may be seen by a comparison which the Ledger gives. In 1905 there were two launchings, in 1906 there were 7 to 1907 there were 11, in 1908 there were 15, and thus far in 1909, to date there have been 13, including the largest of all, the battleship North Dakota. To have turned out 58 steel ships in nine years is a great record, and proves the ability of Massachusetts to still furnish the government with war vessels of modern construction just as she did in the days when wooden ships were the dependence of the navy of the United States."

POST OFFICE CLERKS.

The Massachusetts Branch, United National Association of Post Office Clerks will have a banquet at the American House, Saturday Jan. 1 at 8 P. M. Hon. John W. Weeks, the new chairman of the House Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads of Congress, will address the body. Other speakers will be Hon. E. C. Mansfield postmaster of Boston; Frank T. Rogers, National President of Post Office clerks. George A. Sullivan of the Quincy post office has been appointed a member of the committee of Boston Post Office Clerks, which will cooperate with the State officers to make this banquet a success.

QUINTILIANI—FRANTIELLO.

Cesidio Quintiliani of Granite street and Miss Maria Frantiello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saverio Frantiello of Granite street were married in this city Saturday afternoon by William M. Marden, Esq., in the presence of a party of their friends. The bride was given away by her uncle, Vincenzo Frantiello, who also acted as best man, while the bride was attended by Miss Angelina Quintiliani.

BATES—BRIDGHAM.

Miss Alice Maud Bridgham of Buckfield, Me., and Henry T. P. Bates formerly of South Central avenue, were married Saturday noon at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bridgham, in the presence of only her immediate family. They will live for the present in Dorchester. Mr. Bates is on the city staff of the Boston Herald.

MILTON ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ellen Forbes, elder daughter of J. Malcom Forbes, to A. Waldo Emerson Forbes, son of Mrs. William Hathaway Forbes, who is a daughter of Ralph Waldo Emerson, the poet. Both live in Milton. They are cousins, and the groom is a brother of William Cameron Forbes, governor general of the Philippines. The prospective groom is a Harvard man, class of '02, and a member of the Exchange, Tennis and Racquet clubs. He owns a large farm in Milton, in the shadow of the Blue Hills, where he will take his bride. The date of the wedding has not been announced.

—At the last meeting of Reynolds Post 58, G. A. R., of Weymouth, the following officers were elected for 1910: Dr. William V. Drake, commander; David Dunbar, S. V. G.; Benjamin J. Loring, J. V. G.; Oliver Burrell, adj't.; George Dunbar, chaplain; J. Quincy Spear, surgeon; George L. Newton, O. D., Wm. H. Moran, O. G.; Elbridge Nash, Q. M.; Addison Belcher, S. M.; Bradford Hawes, Qm. S.; F. A. Bicknell Bradford Hawes and George Dunbar delegates to department convention.

NEW COMET TRANSPARENT.

Discoverer Sees a Star Right Through It, Millions of Miles Beyond.

Fifty-six million miles away from the earth, 146,000,000 miles from the sun and more than three times as large as the earth in diameter—these are the facts which have been determined by Zaccheus Daniel, a graduate student of Princeton university, about the new comet which he discovered on the evening of Dec. 6 while perched on the roof of the Princeton observatory sweeping the heavens, as he has done on every clear night, winter and summer, for years, with his five and three-quarter inch telescope.

Mr. Daniel holds the Thaw fellowship in astronomy, the annual income of a gift of $10,000 by Mrs. William Thaw of Pittsburg. However, he has been absorbed in astronomy ever since he was a boy, and long before he went to the university he possessed a four inch telescope mounted on a tripod.

When asked about the new comet Mr. Daniel said:

"Of course, while the new comet appears about three times as large as the earth, according to measurements estimated from the computation of its orbit, it doesn't contain one-thousandth part of the matter, or solids, which the earth does. Gases and vapors appear to make up a large part of it. Yet it seems to have a starlike nucleus.

"A remarkable thing about it, too, was that on the night I saw it I could distinguish a star many millions of miles farther away shining right through the comet. It moved very slowly, however, at the rate of only one degree of arc a day. We know its orbit now, and from that we have determined its distance from the sun and from the earth, its diameter, which is about 25,000 miles, and that it was at perihelion, or nearest the sun, on Dec. 5, about a day before it was discovered."

HUDSON-FULTON PARK.

Home at New York Planned For Half Moon and Clermont.

Trustees and members of the Hudson-Fulton commission and members of the various committees in charge of the recent celebration at New York city have devised a plan for a Hudson-Fulton park wherein will be a water basin in which the replicas of the Clermont and the Half Moon will be preserved.

The project now before the committees is to buy a piece of property at Spuyten Duyvil a few blocks north of the Hudson River railroad station at the foot of Two Hundred and Thirty-first street, New York, on which there is a subway station. Three piers are to be built into the Hudson and the two vessels moored in places between the piers. There will be, it is proposed, a terrace leading down from Palisade avenue, and 139 feet above the level of the river a bridge crossing the rail road tracks and then steps down to the basin. George Gardiner Fry, a member of the Half Moon committee, worked out the plan and has sufficient funds in hand to start the work.

FINEST PHYSICS LABORATORY

Martin Ryerson to Give Chicago University $1,000,000 to Complete It.

Plans are in contemplation for giving the University of Chicago the finest physical laboratory in the United States, if not in the world. It is said that before all the plans are consummated the plant will cost $1,000,000. All of the money is to be furnished by Martin Ryerson, president of the board of trustees of the university, who also was the donor of the present Ryerson laboratory at the university.

One of Mr. Ryerson's objects is to afford to the physics department of the university the best facilities that can be obtained for original research. In Professor Albert A. Michelson, as winner of the Nobel prize for discoveries relating to optics and light, the university has a scientist of the first order, and it is felt that he and the men associated with him in the laboratory work at the university should command all the aid that intelligent investment of money can furnish.

Roosevelt's African Trophies.

The American hunting expedition in Africa headed by ex-President Roosevelt to date has collected and roughly prepared for preservation 6,663 large and small mammals and birds.

When Christmas Comes.

We're apt to think at this time of year
That trinkets and toys add all our sums,
But lessons are whispering, low, yet clear,
If only we'll hearken, when Christmas comes.

Those grudges, for instance, we think we "owe"
And cherish as if they were bosom chums.
A this week's friend of a last week's foe
May be made, if we will, when Christmas comes.

Hard thoughts are heavy to carry at best
With their leaden weight that our love benumbs.
Why should we plod on by that load oppressed?
Why not cast it aside when Christmas comes?

Do you know a neighbor as good as you,
Though he draws from the old world's pie few plums?
The slightest of favors that you can do
Will give him a lift when Christmas comes.

The little folk, too, who play such parts
In our lives, we may give them far more than drums;
We may give them more of our inmost hearts,
Stand closer to them, when Christmas comes.

Don't be afraid that you'll do too much.
There are hungry mouths for a world of crumbs.
There are hands stretched out for your every touch.
Do a man's full work when Christmas comes!

—Warwick James Price in Pittsburg Dispatch.

DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS

WHAT WILL YOU HAVE FOR CHRISTMAS?

The Granite Shoe Store

SUGGESTS AN IDEAL SHOPPING LIST

We open every night from now till Christmas. Double Legal Stamps every morning till Christmas.
We will cheerfully exchange any purchase after the Holidays.

THESE ARE USEFUL GIFTS

Men's Slippers, 50c. to $2.00. An immense assortment; all Styles; all Leathers, at Lowest Prices.

Women's Slippers, 50c. to $1.50. Cloth and Leather; all Colors, Fur Trimmed Juliets and Boudoir Slippers.

Gaiters and Leggins, 25c. to $1.00. For Men Women and Children. Best quality Gaiters, in all Colors.

Arctics and Overshoes, $1.00 to $2.75. Our Prices on Overshoes as on other goods are the very Lowest.

A new pair of Shawmut Rubbers, (Double wear) makes an accepta e present.

OUR LESS THAN BOSTON PRICES will save you money.

It's convenient to tradeat the Granite Shoe Store. You save time, trouble and cash. You can make somebody happy by presenting a pair of Walk-Over, Nesmith, La France or Patrician Shoes.

Granite Shoe Store

QUINCY'S SHOE MARKET

DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS

DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS

DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS

NEW OFFICERS.

The annual election of officers of the St. Jean Baptiste Society was held recently and these officers elected:

President—Auguste Deschenes.
Vice President—Leo Dufour.
Second Vice President—Napoleon Larandeau.
Recording Secretary—Joseph Landry.
Assistant Recording Secretary—Eugene Amet.
Financial Secretary—Emile Badot.
Corresponding Secretary—Emile Badot.
Treasurer—Charles LeClair.
Janitor—Jacques Chouinard.
Assistant Janitor—William Rouleau.

TODAY'S COURT.

William E. Gorman was sentenced to two months in the house of correction for drunkenness at Weymouth. Sentence suspended.

James E. Sullivan was fined $10 for drunkenness at Braintree.

Lillian M. Blanchard was arraigned for assault with a dangerous weapon at Quincy. Case continued until Dec. 29.

—A London firm has introduced black wall paper with good success. It is said to be a fine background for other colors, but it is to be hoped it will not be extensively used on cold north rooms which never get the brightness of the sun's rays.

TRUSSES Fitted.
CRUTCHES In All Sizes.
Athletic Supporters For Gymnasium Work
Abdominal Supporters
Elastic Stockings

The Rexall Store
Edward J. Murphy
THE ORIGINAL LOW PRICED DRUGGIST
1415 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

FOR CHRISTMAS
BUY YOUR BOY A
Flexible Flyer
THE UP-TO-DATE SLED.

We also carry the Barney and Berry
SKATES
Both Clamp and Key.

Also the good old-fashioned kind for Ladies, with leather heel and toe straps.

HOCKEY STICKS, PUCKS and BALLS.

NATHAN AMES,
5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.
D c. 14 tf

LLOYD'S OPERA GLASSES

Imported From Germany
ZEISS OPERA GLASSES
Black Morocco
$40.00.
LAZARD
$45.00.
Please send for Opera Glass Catalogue.

ANDREW J. LLOYD CO.
75 Summer St.
315 Washington St. 310 Boylston St.
Boston and
1252 Massachusetts Ave. Cambridge

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS

If YOU Want Business

SUNDAY IN QUINCY CHURCHES

Christmas Services Held In Several---Others Arranged for Next Sunday

BETHANY CHURCH.

Christmas will be observed at Bethany church next Sunday. At the services yesterday morning the sermon was by the pastor. W. G. Shaw, the chairman of the finance committee, made a statement relative to the finances of the church, and the need of larger appropriations for 1910. Pledge cards were circulated and $2,300 were promptly pledged. More however will be necessary.

At the session of the Bible school pledges were also sought with good results for work in 110.

The church was crowded at the evening esrvice to hear the illustrated address of Dr. Charles Edward Stowe on "The story of Uncle Tom's Cabin," written by his mother.

Dr. Stowe spoke of the conditions under which slavery grew. It could only exist on virgin soil, he said, and had to expand or die. It developed aristocrats in the South, and degraded free labor everywhere. Not until the invention of the cotton gin was slavery profitable. He told of the conflict of Calhoun of the South, and Webster of the North, and the stand of John Quincy Adams for the right of petition. One side was as conscientious as the other in the great struggle, but it was their environments.

It was about this time that Mrs. Stowe wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which was read in every household of the North, and also stirred the wage earners of Great Britain. Brief reference was made to the rising of the North, and then Dr. Stowe told of his mother, her childhood, marriage and large family. How the story came to her while at church. Joshua Henson, the original of Uncle Tom, was shown, also the house where the story was written.

The important scenes of the story were also thrown upon the screen, giving the younger genetation a much better knowledge of the evils and cruelty of slavery than was otherwise possible, and Dr. Stowe was able to portray well in voice the old slave owners and other characters. Pictures were also shown of Uncle Tom and his wife, of Topsy and Little Eva, of slaves at work, of auction sales, and of fugitive slaves. Mrs. Stowe, he said, was intensely domestic, devoted to her family and the cause alike.

The singing of "Massa Dear" as a chorus, and "Old folks at home" as a solo, added much to the program of the evening.

FIRST CHURCH.

Christmas was observed at the First church on Sunday. At the morning service the sermon and music were appropriate to the season.

At the vespers at the First church on Sunday at 4 o'clock the program included these musical numbers:

Organ Prelude, "Rhapsodie," Gigout
Christmas cantata, "The Shepherd's Vision," Irenee Berge
Introduction
Chorus, "Awake! put on thy strength, O Zion"
Baritone solo, "And in those days all went"
Chorus of women, "Angel voices"
Soprano solo, chorus of women, "Wondrous name of gift divine"
Tenor solo, "Lo! a star appeareth"
Chorus, "Blessed be the Lord"
Pastoral, "The Shepherds' Vision"
Contralto solo, "And there were shepherds"
Tenor recitative
Chorus, "Glory to God in the highest"
Hymn, "O little town of Bethlehem"
Benediction
Postlude, "March Triomphale" Lemmens

The Young People's Religious Union of the First church rendered a very interesting Christmas program before a large attendance in the chapel at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. After the usual opening devotional exercises Everett Rhodes of Wollaston rendered a violin solo which was exceptionally well played, and very much enjoyed. Miss Minnie Packard accompanied him. Then came several very interesting Christmas sketches by the following young people: Misses Ruth Packard, Lela Smith and Beatrice Morrison. These were interspersed with chorus singing by a group of girls, including Misses Minnie Hardwick, Gerna and Catherine Saville, Marion Howe, Ruth, Ella and Minnie Packard, and Lela Smith. Miss Ruth Penniman was the accompanist. The program closed with an old English carol, sung by five girls, accompanied by William E. Weston.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

This Church accepts the Religion of Jesus, holding in accordance with his teaching, that practical religion is summed up in love to God and love to man.

This church welcomes to membership all who "In love of the truth and the spirit of Jesus Christ desire to unite for the worship of God and the service of man."

This church is supported by voluntary subscriptions. The pews are all free and anyone may occupy any seat at any time. Strangers and casual attendants are cordially invited to speak with the pastor after any of the services.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst are at home to receive callers Monday evenings.

The members and friends of the Young People's Religious Union will be interested to hear that the total proceeds to date of the recent fair held at the Vendome is $1,926.49.

Remember the first of a series of vesper services will be held Sunday, Jan. 2, at 4.30 P. M.

The pastor's sermon Sunday, appropriate to Forefather's day, was from the text: "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage."—Psalm 16-6. After describing the great debt we owe to the forefathers, Mr. Horst said "Would to God that our own age so full of indifference and self complacency had a little more of the Puritan conscience and backbone and religious earnestness.

"For a time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands;
Men whom the lust for office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess convictions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking."

ATLANTIC MEMORIAL.

"The Spirit of the Fathers" was the subject of the Sunday morning sermon delivered by the pastor Rev. Thomas Davison at the Memorial Congregational church. Anthems appropriate to the Christmas tide were well rendered by the choir.

In the evening under the direction of Mrs. Harry Wells, assisted by Misses Annie Harding, Louise Wilde and May Young, the Sunday school Christmas concert was given. The program was a lengthy one of 29 numbers, and included songs, recitations and exercises. There were songs by the chorus choir, by the primary department and by different groups of girls, and a solo by Edith Stocker accompanied by a chorus. The exercises were by different groups of boys and girls. The recitations were by Collina Brown, Margaret Schultz, Ralph Smith, Margaret Brown, Esther Jenkins, Bazel Lecco, Barbara Hobbs, Horace Young, Gertrude Overturf, Eleanor Marvin, George Hill, Miriam Priest, and Clara Von Emden. The recitation of Lucy Whittier was accompanied by music, and Miriam Priest and Miss Whittier gave a recitation and duet. It was a most pleasing Christmas concert.

Y. M. C. A. SERVICE.

At the Y. M. C. A., Sunday afternoon, George Payne, boys' work director of the Brockton Young Men's Christian Association, gave about thiry of the younger fellows of the local association a fine discourse on "A young man's responsibility to God." Drawing mental pictures describing the various ways a boy can show that he appreciates his responsibility to his maker, he held his audience interested during the whole afternoon talk. Mr. Payne has had a great deal of experience in the boys' field in association work, and to many of the boys he was in no way a stranger. The meeting closes one of the most successful years in association work, a fact that has been due largely to the efforts of Lester Clee, the boys' work director, who has been most successful in obtaining well known and interesting speakers for the boys.

AT ST. MARYS.

Masses at St. Marys church on Sunday were held at 6.45, 8, 9.15 and 10.30. The masses were said by the Rev. Fr. Grady and Fr. Duffy, who gave short instructions at the 9.15 mass. Fr. Grady preached a short sermon. He said, at the end of the world the Lord will be seen by all and we will be judged; the valleys will fill and become level, and the hills will become level also, so that the people may see the Lord. The Lord will look over the world and see if his work has been done well and I wonder if he will be as pleased with us as he was with Paradise, when he gazed with delight at the prettiest spot outside of heaven? Now we must prepare for the coming of Our Saviour who died for us and wants us to do penance for our sins. We are just like a ship on the ocean in a storm and out of its course, and the captain who strives to keep the ship on its right course never gives up until he is safe, and then he watches all the time so that it will never fall from the right course again. So we are like the ship when we fall into sin. We must repent through confession, and after we are in the grace with the Lord again, we must strive to keep from falling. Then the Lord will love and bless us.

The Junior Holy Name Society met Sunday afternoon at 3.30.

The Ladies Sodality will meet Tuesday evening.

On Christmas day services will be held at 5.30, 6.45, 8.00, 9.15 and 10.30 A. M., and there will be Christmas vespers at 3 P. M. by the entire choir.

AT ST. CHRYSOSTOMS.

At St. Chrysostoms church Sunday morning the rector Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg took for his text, St. Luke III:4, "The voice of one crying in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight." He said in part:

"When John the Baptist was eight days old his father uttered that glorious prophecy known as the Benedictus. From that moment the eyes of the knowing ones were cast upon St. John. His immediate relatives looked upon him as one who was set apart to do God's work. We find him, later in life, doing all that he could to bring glory upon the clean life, the humble life, the life that had not self ever in view. His preaching was "Prepare ye for the Lord's coming, make your life straight before the eyes of God." and as he preached so he lived.'

"You will find preachers today coming before their people with a definite message, even as John the Baptist had a definite message. You do not get the whole truth about God, His Kingdom, or His will for all people, from any one preacher. You must read God's word yourself, ask God in prayer to illumine your mind, and then listen to the different messages that God sends to His people through His messengers. By doing all this, and not by relying upon any one message, you will get a more complete knowledge of the will of God for you."

At the evening service the fourth address on the life of Christ was given "John the Baptist and the Baptism of Christ."

See Wednesday's Ledger for Christmas services and music.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

Christmas was observed on Sunday at the Methodist church at Wollaston. The morning service opened with the organ prelude "Christmas" by Grison. The anthems included "Calm on the listening ear" by Flarington Harker; "And He shall reign" by Simper. As a response "Alleluia O Lord of All" by Neidlinger, was sung, and "Messiah" by Handel was the selection for the offertory. The pastor's subject was: "Christ the culmination of all things."

A large audience assembled for the Christmas concert at 6 P. M. the program being an excellent one, as follows:

Organ voluntary
Hymn, "While shepherds watched their flocks
Scripture Lesson—S. A. Kay
Prayer—Pastor.
Reading and solo—"For We Have Seen His Star," Miss Mary Cleveland.
Exercise—"Christmas Stars."
"Would you like a Merry Christmas?" Primary Department.
"Christmas Day," Gordon Ewertz.
"The star that points to Him" Rodney Gott.
Exercise—The Stars.
"Beautiful Angels," Male Quartet.
"Wreaths of Love," Leonard Blades.
Remarks by pastor.
Offering.
Hymn—All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name.
Benediction.

HALL PLACE CHURCH.

"The mother of my Lord" was the text of the morning sermon by Rev. Carl H. Raupach at the Hall Place M. E. church on Sunday. A gain was made in the attendance at the session of the Sunday school at 11.45. The Junior League was held at 3 P. M. Rev. Carl H. Raupach lead the Epworth League devotional service at 6.15 in place of the regular appointed leader who was suffering from a severe cold. At the evening service the pastor took for his subject this question. "Why are so many on the outside?" All the services of the day were well attended.

(Continued on Page 8.)

MR. WILSON'S NEW FIELD

Installed as Pastor of Church at Kennebunk

The Rev. Daniel M. Wilson, formerly pastor of First Church and writer of much about Quincy and its eminent men and women, was installed minister of the First Congregational Parish (Unitarian) in Kennebunk, Maine, Thursday Dec. 16.

The place in which Mr. Wilson has now taken up his residence was formerly a part of the town of Welles, to which the Rev. John Wheelwright, the first minister of our own ancient church, fled to escape the persecution of the Boston Puritans. So in a way Mr. Wilson is following in the footsteps of one of his predecessors, although he is moved by far other motives.

The Kennebunk parish is the oldest as well as the leading parish in the town, and worships in one of those large white meeting-houses which adorn so many of our New England communities. It was well filled on the above date by people of all denominations, and delegates from Portland, Saco and elsewhere. The quaint interior, with its square pews, was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants, the sunshine of a wonderful December day flooded it, and a large choir and animated congregation helped make the occasion a notable one.

The sermon was delivered by a friend of years, the Rev. Dr. William H. Lyon, of Brookline, and brother intimate friend, the Rev. Alfred Manchester of Salem delivered the charge to the minister. The other parts were taken by ministers prominent in the neighboring towns and cities.

In the evening a reception was tendered the Rev. Mr. Wilson and his wife. This was quite a brilliant affair. The decorations were fine, the orchestral music excellent, the light refreshments abundant and the sociability of the genial Maine variety.

The departure of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson from Northfield was also marked by signal manifestations of good will. The Northfield Press says of a farewell reception: "The company assembled was not limited to the church of which Mr. Wilson has been pastor for the past six years, for during that time he and Mrs. Wilson have so firmly established themselves in the hearts of all our citizens, regardless of church affiliations, that it looked very much like a town affair.""

In addition to this reception the Masonic lodge at a special meeting gave Mr. Wilson a large silver loving cup, sang "Auld Lang Syne" while it was being circulated, and wished him "God-speed." Then the "Fortnightly" a ladies' literary society, presented Mrs. Wilson with a beautiful gold brooch inlaid with opals, for "the inception and formation of the Fortnightly were largely due to the interest and enthusiasm of one woman, the present chairman of the literary committee, Mrs. Ella C. Wilson".

Don't fail to get the special Christmas edition of the Ledger on Wednesday.

ays Left as shopping. Don't wait
ncy stores have a splendid your purchases tomorrow

THE Q

QUINCY, MASSACHUS

Quincy Stores are Better Than Those of Boston

Mr. Editor:

I have been and am much interested in the Telegram's campaign for a Bigger and Busier Quincy. I agree with you that every citizen, and especially every permanent householder in Quincy should do all in their power to advance the interests of the City and help it to grow Bigger and Busier, and I believe that one step in this direction is patronizing the Quincy stores; not for any sentimental reasons, such as the merchants being fellow citizens and sharing with their customers the hard times and the good times the ups and downs, the adverse and the prosperous conditions that may exist. Nor because we are neighbors and friends, members of the same lodge, church or societies: But for the main solid reason, That it pays to patronize home industry.

To do so is not a matter of feeling or patronage. It is a matter of profit. It is dollars and cents in the pockets of the customer as well as to the merchants and I am able to prove it. The other day two ladies of my acquaintance had occasion to furnish a home. They were discussing where to make their purchases, Siegel's or Jordan's or White's, etc., when it was suggested to them that they try Quincy. They didn't think they could do as well here as in Boston, but after a little talk, consented to make a comparison of goods and prices, and buy where they could do best. They visited one of our Quincy stores, saw the quality of goods and prices, then went to Boston and made a tour of several of the large stores there, comparing goods and prices. After spending several hours in their search they took the train for Quincy, convinced that there was "No place like Home," and that in the matter of quality and prices Quincy had Boston "Beaten to a Frazzle." So the late afternoon saw them back in the Quincy stores again where they made their purchases to the amount of nearly $150.00, surprised that Quincy people should be so foolish as to go out of Quincy in search of bargains. But the surprise did not end there, There was more and greater surprises in store for them. When the lady paid her bill she was more than surprised when she was handed back $20.00 discount for cash, and she and her friend presented with a beautiful plate as a premium. Are they convinced now that it is more profitable to buy in Quincy than in Boston? Well, if it be true that "Money talks," they have a very sound argument of that fact, and if experience is worth anything they have profited to their amount of more than the $20.00 cash discount. Quincy is good enough for them now. B. B. Q.

Signed—

THERE ARE OTHERS MORAL---TRADE IN QUINCY

The above letter appeared in one of our Quincy papers, December 14, 1909.

OUR FURNITURE STORE IS THE ONE ALLUDED TO

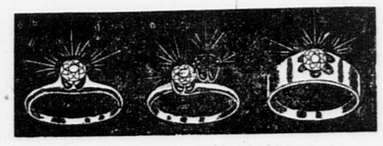
A COMMON OCCURRANCE WITH US

Young couples looking for their new outfit, and all close buyers, look over our large stock, get prices—then say, "Well! We can do better in Boston." Butthey soon are back and buy their goods from us remarking "YOU DO BEAT BOSTON."

WE CAN SAVE YOU MONEY ON YOUR HOUSEFURNISHINGS

USE OUR NEW CREDIT SYSTEM

W. G. Shaw



FURNITURE. CARPETS. RANGES

CITY SQUARE OPPOSITE THE FOUNTAIN.

Are You Puzzled About What to Give?

If you are, let us help you decide. Our cases gleam with beautiful presents. We shall gladly make suggestions to you and allow you a careful inspection of any articles we have. A giver is judged by his gifts so it is necessary that you buy the best. To be sure of getting the best, select a store that has a reputation of handling only the best. That is where we help you.

DIAMONDS

We buy and sell below regular marked value. To be convinced come and look them over.

WATCHES. We carry all grades. Our guarantee is a bond that cannot be broken as we are here to make good.

JEWELRY. The high grade we carry in stock is warranted to give satisfaction in every way and returnable if not so.

SILVERWARE. In Sterling Silver we carry a full line of Table Flat ware. In plated goods—Rogers 1847, and Rogers & Bros. Star Brand and also other makes.

In Tea Sets and other hollow ware our leading makers are Fairpoint, E. B. Rogers and Pool Silver Co. A big stock of Berry Dishes, Nut Bowls, Chocolate Pots, etc.

In Brassware we have Candle Sticks, Jardineres, Smoking Sets and Tea Sets at the lowest prices.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

For Ladies. Toilet Sets, Manicure, Puff Boxes, Jewel Cases, Photo Frames, Nail Files, Bracelets, Lockets, Chains, Brooches, Hat Pins, Buckles.

For Men. Smoking Sets, Shaving Mugs, Ink Stands, Military Brushes, Clothes Brushes, Fountain Pens, Gold Pencils, Cuff Links, Scarf Pins, Emblem Pins, Watch Chains, Fobs.

ALL HAND ENGRAVING FREE. OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Sandberg Bros.

JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE

Dec, 20 tf

TO ADVERTISERS

If you want help in writing up your Christmas advertisements (the kind that will bring returns) 'phone the Ledger Office, Quincy 425, and our Ad Man will call. He will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better than ever before. This applies to present and prospective advertisers in the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St., QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building, 294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets. QUINCY.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building, QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
38 Huntington Avenue, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 201
Oct. 1. tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building!
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 409-3 Quincy 229-3 Quincy 308-7 Milton
1p-tf

R. D. CHASE
QUINCY MASS.

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 448
May 2 1p-1y

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

(ADVERTISE.)

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING

Female Machinists a Chicago Institution—Boston Girls as "Dog Walkers"—Engineer's Daughter Runs Engine In Missouri.

WOMEN are preferred as machinists in many of the big plants in Chicago. Foreigners are mostly employed, because American girls, as explained by a foreman, object to coming in contact with the oil and dust of the shop and because the wages are small. Many of the employees were married women who found that sort of life a failure, and they drifted into the machine shops. They learn the trade much more readily than men or boys. Three dollars a week is paid to beginners in most of the plants.

* *

A new field for the wage earning woman of Boston—namely, the calling of "dog walkers," has been opened by the Animal Rescue league of that city. Young girls are reported to be much in demand among the Bostonese, who employ them to lead their pet dogs out for daily airings. The president of the league pronounces the work easy and healthful.

* *

The Woman's Christian Temperance union at its recent convention in Omaha decided to organize its own printing plant in which to do its own work, to abolish the Chautauqua salute for sanitary reasons and to establish Feb. 17, the anniversary of the death of Miss Frances Willard, as a special memorial day on which contributions to the Frances Willard memorial fund are to be made.

* *

Miss M. Cary Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr college and chairman of the committee that has gathered statistics concerning college women in the United States, reports that when men and women were educated together there were no more marriages than when the sexes were educated apart. Her report also showed that married college women had an average of 3.6 children each, while noncollege women had an average of 3.5 children, although college women married later in life.

* *

Mary Adelman, sixteen years old, is believed to be the youngest of her sex to understand the running of a railroad locomotive. Her father is a veteran engineer on the Chicago and Alton railroad. Mary used to meet his train when it reached the end of the old engineer's run and ride with him on the engine to the roundhouse. She did this every run for many months and in that way picked up her knowledge of the locomotive. She was wonderfully quick, and now she is able to take a locomotive for a short run, but she never does so alone, although her father believes that she is competent to handle an engine as well as he is. The home of the old engineer is Slater, Mo.

* *

Queen Alexandra's bedroom at Balmoral castle is paneled in pale rose silk, with hangings of white satin, those of the bed being surmounted by the imperial crown. The curtains of her boudoir are of ivory silk bordered with heliotrope. Here the panelings are of ivory silk in gilt mountings. Beauvois tapestry, French carpet and Louis XVI. furniture give the room a splendid appearance. Her majesty's bathroom is fitted with a bath of Grecian marble from quarries which had not been worked for 1,000 years.

* *

Miss Rose L. Fritz, the champion typist of this country, says that piano playing is a hindrance to typewriting—at least she finds it so in her own case. The successive stroke on the key of a type machine is the proper one. She never allows her finger to rest upon a letter—in fact, she takes the letters off her machine and substitutes celluloid caps as being more comfortable for the finger tips. She never looks at the letters on her keyboard, having accustomed herself to that when she was learning. She has educated her fingers so that she knows by them when she makes a mistake. She also says, what most people know who use the type machine, that there can be no speed unless the machine is absolutely clean.

* *

A young woman has been called to the pastorate of the First Congregational church in Tewksbury, Mass., and will take up her duties during the present autumn. The Rev. Sarah A. Dixon was formerly an assistant pastor at Lowell. She has traveled extensively and is an entertaining speaker and quite progressive. The church in Tewksbury which will be under her charge is an old organization and has always had ministers of the opposite sex.

* *

In South Carolina $20,000 has been subscribed for a monument to commemorate the work of southern women in the civil war. No woman was permitted to give a penny. The monument is a tribute from southern chivalry, and when it is ready to be set up it probably will be placed in Richmond, the capital of the Confederacy, where already there are many tokens in the Confederate museum of work done by the mothers, wives and sisters of the "lost cause."

MARY DALE.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Following is a list of new books recently added to the Public library:

Balzac, Honore de Country parson Albert Savarus 319 17
Blake, G. H. United States paper money: reference list of paper money, including fractional currency, issued since 1861. Also, List of United States coins issued by the U. S. mints since their organization. 65 153
Carus, Paul. God: enquiry into the nature of man's highest ideal and a solution of the problem from the standpoint of science. [Christianity of today series] 512 121
Castle, Egerton. "Young April." 296 91
Colby, J. W. Easy introduction to the old Indian language of the Atlantic coast. 77 58
Cornish, Vaughan. Panama canal and its makers. 477 117
Galsworthy, John. Island pharisees. 212 57
Gilman, Arthur. My Cranford: phase of the quiet life. Hollis, N. H. 152 82
Gray, Asa. New manual of botany. 505 122
Greely, A. W. Handbook of Alaska; its resources, products, and attractions. 157 50
Herrick, Robert. Memoirs of an American citizen. 302 60
Hodges, George. Apprenticeship of Washington, and other sketches of significant colonial personages. 447 64
Holder, C. F. Adventures of Torqua: adventures of three boys, refugees on the island of Santa Catalina, Pimugna, in the 18th century. j275 41
Horton, R. F. My belief; answers to certain religious difficulties. 531 101
Kipling, Rudyard. Stories and poems every child should know. [Every child should know books.] j281 1-1
Loti, Pierre. pseud. Iceland fisherman. 223 94
Macdonald, D. B. Religious attitude and life in Islam: the Haskell lectures on comparative religion, before the University of Chicago, 1906. 539 11
Marshall, H. E. Stories of William Tell and his friends. [Told to the children series.] j430 65
Story of Napoleon. [Children's heroes series] j437 3
Mighels, P. V., and others. Adventures with Indians, [Harper's adventure series] j287 88
Mills, E. A. Wild life on the Rockies. 157 42
Morse, W. F. Collection and disposal of municipal waste. 492 89
New student's reference work for teachers, students and families 4v. Ch. R.
Oxley, J. Macdonald Fife and drum at Louisbourg. j289 4
Podmore, Frank. Naturalization of the supernatural. 530 56
Sand, George. pseud. Antonia 236 43
Scott, Sir Walter. Ivanhoe; Rob Roy. Retold for children by Sir Edward Sullivan. j269 52
Sternberg, C. H. Life of a fossil hunter. [American nature series]. 482 39
Stewart, C. D. Partners of Providence. 325 98
Stuart, Ruth M. Napoleon Jackson: the gentleman of the plush rocker. 394 39
Sonny: a Christmas guest. 201 38
Student's manual, with page references to the New student's reference work. Ch. R.
Trowbridge, John. Story of a wireless telegraph boy. j269 19
Turgenef, Ivan. Virgin soil. 2v. 360 79-80
Van Dyke, Henry. Story of the other wise man 321 82
Viele, H. K. Last of the Knickerbockers: comedy romance. 250 124
Wells, H. G. War of the worlds. 292 44
Zangwill, Israel. Mantle of Elijah. 209 35

A Mistaken Uniform.

Uniformed officials are often a puzzle to American travelers. An instance of this is given in "Recollections of a Varied Career," by General W. F. Draper, formerly American ambassador to Italy. General and Mrs. Draper were traveling in Russia when they had the following amusing experience in the sleeping car:

Mrs. Draper's maid, Marie, speaks German as well as French, but Russian is beyond her. After Mrs. Draper's bed was made she desired another pillow, and Marie rushed into the corridor to get one. Seeing a man in uniform—the railway porters wear uniforms—she demanded a pillow in German.

"I have no pillows," said he.

"A bolster, then," said Marie.

"I have no bolster."

"Then give me a couple of towels to wrap up one of these dirty cushions."

"I have no towels either," said the uniform. "I am a colonel in his majesty's imperial guard."

Poor Marie nearly went into hysterics, and I was called in to explain that no offense was meant.

Wonders of a Japanese Hamlet.

Perhaps the most astonishing presentation of "Hamlet" ever seen on any stage was a Japanese version given by native actors at Kobe. The Kobe Herald describes it as "a wonderful mixture of the beautiful and the grotesque. With an Ophelia sometimes in graceful kimono and sometimes in western evening costume and a king who at one time appears in the picturesque costume of a Japanese nobleman and at others dons a silk hat and a swallowtail coat, the effect is so kaleidoscopic that a spectator has the sensation of being perpetually transferred from one phase of civilization to another. The climax is reached in Hamlet himself, who in the earlier scenes wears the uniform of a student of the Imperial university, in the third act makes his appearance on a bicycle, clad in a bright blue cycling suit and striped stockings, and at the finish is seen in conventional evening dress with a flower in his buttonhole."

Duffy, Brakeman

"Jist a Big, Stupid Lad That's Faithful Intirely."

By FRANK H. SWEET.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

Duffy, brakeman on No. 3, sat in the roundhouse with his head in his hands.

Katie had been accepting McArdle's attentions with ostentatious favor of late, and the evening before starting out, in his presence, she had turned to McArdle and spoken of the delights of trolley riding. It had resulted in a prompt invitation, while he stood stupidly by and listened.

So when the warning toot of the engine recalled the men from their lunch Duffy rose with all the indecision gone from his gray eyes and square chin.

An increasing rumble was vibrating the rails to the west. Another few minutes and the express would sweep in, making its three minutes' stop and then tear off into the east. As its rear car passed the rails of the siding the switch tender would connect the rails and allow the freight to roll out. Duffy climbed to the top of the last box car and grasped the brake wheel, then turned toward the engine and waited for the signal. His face was white, but inflexible, his gaze steady. The vibration became a roar, and the express rounded the curve and rushed down upon them, past the siding. Then came the signal, the brakes were loosed and the long freight straightened out upon the main track like a huge snake slipping from its lair.

It had been snowing for an hour, soft and sticky and clinging to whatever it touched. Presently the snow became rain, and a little later the weather dropped 20 degrees and the oozy mass froze into a smooth, solid coating over the tops of the cars.

Old brakemen know what that means—the worst peril in the lives of men who walk freights. Usually there is snow in the ice or the ice is frozen with enough roughness to allow foothold. But when it is perfectly smooth and so hard that a heavy boot can make no indentation then the brakeman knows that with all precautions he is very, very near to death. With the cars motionless it is a feat to walk the narrow planks of their tops; with them jerking and bumping and swaying on side grades and around curves it is a feat that well nigh becomes a miracle.

Duffy was naturally slow and methodical and, though daring all, careful to a degree. Fortunately there were few stops or grades that called for extra braking, and for the most part he was able to stay at the rear car brake and even occasionally during long runs to slip down into the caboose.

But as the afternoon grayed into evening and the evening blacked into night his face grew more troubled and anxious. Beyond Elton was a wild country, with sharp up and down grades where brakes would have to be frequently changed. On that part of the road in the darkness a careful man on top of the freight would be in such danger as the soldier facing batteries

Duffy had been thinking of the hills and of the almost certain fate of reckless, inexperienced McArdle on the night trip through them. His square chin and white face meant the extending of the right hand of friendship to his successful rival and the giving up of any personal matter or advantage that would tend to the rival's help, for that would be the best way to help Katie. There was a scarcity of brakemen in the passenger service, and before long one of them would be sure of promotion. His name would come before McArdle's on the freight promotion. Now he must find some way to lower his record so that McArdle's name should rank first. The passenger service meant comparative safety and better remuneration.

But those hills! He had been thinking of them since the melted snow became rigid, glassy ice, and now the words of the experienced brakeman confirmed his worst fears. If McArdle took the hill trip there would be no use planning help for Katie through him. As for planning help without, if such thoughts occurred to Duffy they were spurned unceremoniously aside. Katie loved McArdle. But what could he do?

Nothing presented itself until they reached Marshall Junction, where the conductor found a telegram stating that No. 7, down freight, was an hour behind and that instead of waiting for her there they would hurry on and wait at Norwood, ten miles beyond Elton. This would bring them to Elton twelve minutes in advance of schedule and instead of remaining the usual twenty minutes they would only stop four or five, just long enough to change men. Usually the new shift were lounging about the station, smoking and exchanging experiences, but Duffy remembered that McArdle, with his customary recklessness, was in the habit of hurrying across the station at the last moment and swinging himself upon the train after it had started. With the remembrance came a sudden desperate plan.

Almost before the train stopped he was upon the platform, as were the conductor and other brakemen.

"Rush the new men out here, quick!" the conductor shouted. "We must make Norwood on time, and the icy rails will make it stiff work. Oh, here you are"—as the new shift hurried forward—"all but McArdle! Duffy, do you know where McArdle boards? We can't spare many minutes here."

"Yes, sir; he has a room just across the street. He's likely ready, but doesn't know we're here ahead of time."

"Well, let him know quicker than lightning. The rest of you swing up to your places."

Duffy ran across the station, through the opposite door, then circled round to the rear of the train, coming up on the far side. In two minutes he was standing on top of a car, with his hat tilted rakishly to one side in the manner that McArdle wore his. The conductor, hurrying back from the telegraph window where he had gone to see if there were later orders, saw the figure with its face turned away.

"Oh, there you are, McArdle!" he called. "All right." Then he shouted, "All aboard!" and his hand made a quick half circle in the air, and the engineer, looking back, saw and opened his throttle.

It was a night that Duffy and all others who walked freight trains on that road never forgot. An hour out, and the wind became a hurricane, sharp as needles and bitter as death. No brakeman thought of such a thing as attempting to walk upright on his cars. When it was necessary to cross from one brake to another they went in the only way possible, upon hands and knees, even crawling with fingers gripping the edges of the plank to keep from being swept away by the wind.

Duffy was vigilant and careful that night as he had never been before. Every movement of a foot, every grip of his fingers, was made with the thought that it might be the one which was to hold him back from death. But all his care, his vigilance, his tense muscles, were without avail. There was a sharp grade where the car wheels slipped on the icy rails and where the help of every brake became necessary. Duffy had set his and was edging across a car to assist a chilled neighbor when his foot slipped the fraction an inch. But it was enough for the wind and a sudden lurch to wrench him loose and send him slipping and rolling off the car top into the darkness.

When they picked him up and brought him back the trainmen said he was the luckiest man who had ever fallen from a car top under full speed, for he had struck upon a steep embankment and slid a hundred yards down the snow with only a broken leg and some bruises to show for the fall. As he had no people to notify, they took him straight to the Elton hospital, where he would be cared for by the railroad, though Duffy insisted that he should pay his own expenses. There was an odd look of content on his face as the surgeon made the examination. It was a small price to pay for McArdle's life and Katie's happiness.

He was not much surprised the next day to see Katie herself coming down between the cots, her face pale and her eyes full of tears, or to have her sink on her knees beside him and press her face down close to his. Katie was loving and impulsive, and of course she was grateful for what he had done. But there was a warm glow in his heart, nevertheless, even for this remembrance.

"Duffy, me own sweetheart," she whispered tenderly, "is it that you are not much hurt? Tell me for true, darlin'. They said it was jist a broken leg an' some bruises, but maybe they was tryin' to make it aisy for me. Tell me true, an' how was it that ye was on McArdle's run? The men say the conductor told ye to tell him, an' McArdle says ye never come for him at all, at all."

Duffy had raised himself to an elbow. Now he sank back. Katie was excited, and she was loving and impulsive, and they had always been good friends.

"There wa'n't much time," he answered evasively. "The conductor said only a few minutes an' it was a bad night entirely, an' they would be needin' some one, so I wint."

Katie's tear dimmed eyes were studying him suspiciously.

"Was it for McArdle ye wint," she demanded suddenly, "him that is no friend to ye? It was a bad night entirely, as many a brakeman could tell if he was here, an' everybody knows that McArdle wid his foolish ways would have been one o' thim had he gone. Was it for him, Duffy?"

"No, it wasn't for him," he answered almost savagely. "It was for you, Katie, darl"—

His lips closed upon the word sharply, so sharply that the teeth met them, and a dark red line oozed along the grimly shut mouth. Then the mouth quivered, relaxed, and the gray eyes flung wide their lids with amazed inquiry. Two arms were around his neck, a fair, sweet face was pressed penitently against his, and tears, not from his own eyes, were wetting his cheeks.

"'Tis a bad crathure I am, acushla!" the girl sobbed. "But we've been sweethearti'n' ever since we were childer in school, Duffy, an' ye ought to have known. Only ye was so—so slow that I got tired wid the waitin', an' whin McArdle come along I thought I could make ye a bit jealous so maybe ye'd spake. An'—an' ye wint off to kill yoursilf for a light head that isn't worth your little finger. 'Tis a hero ye are, Duffy, an' I'm proud of ye, but I couldn't love ye a bit more. I—I"—The sobbing grew less, and the face was raised so that sudden reproach flushed upon him through misty eyes. "'Tis shame for a girl whin a man is that slow an' stupid she has to do both the seekin' an' the speakin'," she said with pitying scorn. "I take back the words I jist spoke. 'Tis no hero ye are, Duffy, but a big, stupid lad that's faithful intirely."

GAS PIPING AT COST.

We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.

Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.

We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.

Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.

We do not pipe new buildings.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181
Dec. 13 tf

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!
You Can Get Good Coal
You Can Get Poor Coal
It's your business and right to protect yourself.
It's your business and right to investigate.
SEARCHLIGHT US!
'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.
Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

That Necessary Magazine
—for the thinking man—for the professional man—for the busy business man—and his family; in short, it's for You
25 cents per copy

$3.00 a year

The Review of Reviews
first, because it is a necessity—that is the rule in magazine buying of America's intellectual aristocracy. It is indispensable to the busy business man, who must keep abreast of the times, because it gives him the real news of the day in concise, readable form; it is invaluable to the thinking man, who demands only the truth and then draws his own conclusions, because it gives him just plain, straight facts.
¶ It is helpful to the whole family. In it you will find a monthly picture of men and affairs by Dr. Albert Shaw, in his comprehensive editorial, "Progress of the World;" a clever cartoon history of the month; book reviews; the gist of the best which has appeared in the other magazines and newspapers of the world; pithy character sketches; and interesting articles on the all-important topics of the day. Authoritative, non-partisan, timely and very much to the point, "it's a liberal education," is the way subscribers express it.

OUR 1909-10 CATALOGUE
of all American magazines is a money-saver. You can't afford to order for next year without first seeing it. If you appreciate superior agency service, and demand maximum magazine value for the fewest dollars, write for it—today. It's free to YOU.
The Review of Reviews Company, New York

A CHRISTMAS AT CAPE HORN.

ONCE I had a shipmate who celebrated the most grateful Christmas of his life at the Horn.

It was on the Mary Ann, in December, 1897. She was a deep cut steel clipper, but she was a four masted bark, and four masted barks are all ugly in heavy seas. The best sea boat afloat will plunge at Cape Horn, but four masted barks are all the time under water. Sometimes they are swamped altogether and float waterlogged around the Horn. Then the current pushes them south to perish in the ice jam.

Some sailors can be likened to the four masted barks. They are the sailors who have been too long away from home. All sailors plunge liberally into shore life, but the "too long away from home" fellows are, as a rule, swamped in shore life's breakers.

One of my mates on the Mary Ann was Bob Jones, a typical "too long away from home" unfortunate. But Bob still had somebody dear to his heart. He had started on more than one trip around the world with the set determination that the end of the voyage should see him rejoin his own loved ones at home.

But on pay day at the end of his trips his good resolutions had been broken. It had often gone so, and Bob was hiding self despair under the grim surface of a man hating man.

Bob and I, with twelve other Yankees, Dutchmen and Swedes, were on the starboard watch under Chief Mate Dickson of the Mary Ann. When we went below on Christmas eve the sea was running high. Sleet and hail came down in the squalls. The western gale had trimmed our sails down to the lower topsails.

We had hardly fallen asleep when we heard the man at the wheel strike one bell. Before the signal for "All hands on deck" was answered forward Bob and I were out of our bunks and had our sea boots on.

"What's up now?" growled Bob, and he got his answer from Jimmy, the deck boy, who came rushing in without preliminary warning.

"Rise, rise, rise, sleepers! Weather ship for icebergs on the leeward bow. Rise, rise, rise!"

The watch on deck was already setting the fore staysail to head the vessel off the wind. She was running easy when we came on deck, and the storm spanker was hauled out to bring the vessel to the wind on the other tack. Bob was sent forward to furl the fore staysail. The rest of us went to the braces and pulled the yards in to starboard.

BOB AND THE ROPE DROPPED.

Then came the ugliest part of the job. Slowly the Mary Ann turned to face her foe again. But before she could head her bow against the mighty seas they broke over her from stem to stern.

Bob came aft from the staysail to join us just as we all jumped out of the way, for a big breaker came thundering over the weather rail.

The breaker caught Bob at the fore backstays. He jumped up and put his arm through the coils of the fore sheet, hanging in straps in the royal backstay.

The straps were rotten, and Bob and the coil sheet rope dropped and disappeared in the boiling deck waters.

The waters surged to leeward and carried a dark object with them.

The skipper threw a life buoy from the poop.

"Poor Bob!" said everybody to himself. It was all we could do for him. Bob was gone, and there seemed to be no help for it.

We had the Mary Ann snug at last. Our watch had still an hour more below, not long enough to make it worth while to crawl into our bunks, and we lighted our pipes, lay down on our chests and discussed poor Bob.

Bill, who was Bob's own chum, went to Bob's bunk and overhauled the things.

"It is enough to make anybody rip ping mad to think of a rotton old strap chucking a poor fellow overboard," mused Bill. "Christmas night too. Say, boys, when we auction this stuff off we've got to show Bob up handsome to his friends."

It must be explained that when sailors die at sea their belongings are sold at auction to the crew. This custom serves a double purpose. It is easier to ship money halfway around the globe than to insure the safe delivery of an old wooden chest. A good sum of money is also more welcome to most heirs than a chestful of tarred rags. Besides, the sea auctions give the shipmates of the dead an opportunity to "raise his reputation" by adding generously to his account.

Everybody wanted to fill the Christmas stockings of poor Bob's folks. The chief mate, Dickson, good naturedly consented that the auction should be held then and there and came to the forecastle with pencil and paper to record the sales as fast as they were made.

"Here you are, boys—here you are! Get your money ready. The greatest Cape Horn sale ever held will now start," rasped the old chief. "First article is a valuable straw pillow. Remember what Bill Shakespeare says, 'Uneasy rests the head that hasn't got a pillow.' What am I bid? Two dollars? Thank you! Three—four—five—six—six I have. Cape Horn prices, gentlemen. Eight—ten—ten—are you all done? Tom, you can have it for $10. You may get a better one in San Francisco for 50 cents, but you can't duplicate it for $50 within a thousand miles of this place.

"Next article is a handsome stand-up linen collar. It has only been worn by poor Bob in Liverpool and can be washed absolutely clean for the small price of 5 cents. It is the only article of its kind that has ever been for sale at Cape Horn. What am I bid—a dollar—two, two-fifty, three-fifty, four—four—are you all done? Sold to Dick for $4. Dick is a sport now. Wait a minute; there is a button in the back of the collar. You will have to buy the button separately, Dick."

And so each worn and patched garment of poor Bob was sold at "Cape Horn prices." Bob's shipmates took care that none of them contributed less than a month's wages to Bob's final pay day.

A VALUABLE STRAW PILLOW.

The mate at last put his hand to the bottom of Bob's chest, and from a corner he brought up a bundle of papers wrapped in an old piece of canvas tied together with yellow silken cigar bands. The mate held the bundle thoughtfully in his hand. He hesitated to trespass.

"Open it up!" shouted the men in chorus.

"Hem! Well, we will see what is in it anyway," assented the mate.

When the canvas cover was opened a score of letters in soiled and torn envelopes dropped out.

"I see no harm in letting you fellows get a little home sentiment out of these old letters," said the mate, "but you must not keep them. They must be forwarded to Bob's friends. You boys can bid for the privilege of reading the letters."

Dick for $9 bought the right to first pick. He took the best preserved envelope and its inclosure and went away to read the letter.

The sale continued, letter after letter fetching a neat sum. Half the letters were sold when Dick came from his corner and interrupted the sale. He looked troubled and shook his letter in our faces.

"Boys, this letter is from the girl," said he. "She's a dandy. Bob was no good. He didn't go home when he was paid off in Liverpool; he didn't go home from New York; he didn't go home from San Francisco when he could have made the trip in a day. The girl is waiting yet."

The mate, who had been intently reading one of the letters, here interrupted.

"Bob's mother is getting old, and she is poor. She does not ask for money, however. All she wants is her boy. He will never return to her now. Poor Bob's mother! Poor Bob!"

At four bells the lookout gave us his "All's well! Side lights burning bright." Suddenly he began to beat the forward bell like mad.

The lookout was shouting and waving his arms from the forecastle head, where he stood clinging to the rail. When we reached the fore part of the house the lookout attracted our attention to a dark object leaning limply against the starboard lighthouse.

It was Bob Jones.

We carried him into the forecastle. The mate and the whisky bottle were brought forward, and Bob slowly came to his senses.

"I was slambanged something fearful, boys," drawled Bob. "That breaker caught me right, and the blamed strap broke. Then over she rolled to leeward"—

"And I saw you go over the side," interrupted Dick.

"Not I. It may have been the sheet coil," continued Bob. "I was washed away up under the forecastle head. I guess I went clean off in a faint after I had crawled to a dry place. When I woke up I made for the forecastle, but I couldn't make it. I dropped right off again at the lighthouse."

IT WAS BOB JONES.

When Bob had been bandaged up and given a warm breakfast he was the old Bob once more. The boys poked lots of fun at him when they returned his things to him.

"Hold on, boys; let us make a bargain with Bob," the imperative Dick broke in. "Here is my Bible. If Bob will swear to go home to his mother and the girl from San Francisco he can take the auction money along as a Christmas present."

"That's right! Come on, Bob. Swear, man, swear!"

"I do, so help me, God, and a merry Christmas to you all, boys!" sobbed Bob. "I will go home, boys—I will!"

And he did.—Philadelphia Ledger.

IDENTIFIED.

The Bank Teller Was Silenced and Paid the Money.

A lady with a severe and determined looking face and in whose eyes there was a gleam of triumph entered a bank and presented a check to the paying teller.

"I'm very sorry to trouble you, madam," said the bank teller politely, "but you'll have to be identified." He pushed the check across the marble slab toward her as he spoke.

"Identified!" repeated the lady. "What does that mean? Isn't the check good?"

The bank man did not smile, for this was the thirty-seventh lady who had asked this question that day.

"I have no doubt it is," he said, "but I don't know you. Do you know anybody in the bank?"

"Why, I'm Mrs. Weatherley!" exclaimed the lady. "Didn't you see my name on the check? See, here it is." The teller shook his head wearily.

"I'LL SHOW YOU WHO I AM."

"You must be identified," he insisted. "You must bring somebody who knows you." The lady drew herself up.

"That check," she said with dignity, "was given me by my husband. There's his name on it. Do you know him?"

"I do," said the teller, "but I don't know you."

"Then," said the lady, "I'll show you who I am. My husband is a tall man with reddish hair. His face is smooth shaven. He has a mole on one cheek and looks something like a gorilla, some people say, but I don't think so. When he talks he twists his mouth to one side, and one of his front teeth is missing. He wears a No. 15 collar, a No. 6 shoe and won't keep his cont buttoned. He's the hardest man to get money out of you ever saw. It took me three days to get this check." The banker waved his hand.

"I guess it's all right," he said. "Put your name right there—no, on the back, not the face."—Galveston News.

The Last Great Prize.

As we grow older and the shadows begin to lengthen and the leaves which seemed so thick in youth above our heads grow thin and show the sky beyond, and as those in the ranks in front drop away, and we come in sight, as we all must, of the eternal rifle pits beyond, a man begins to feel that among the really precious things of life, more lasting and more substantial than many of the objects of ambition here, is the love of those he loves and the friendship of those whose friendship he prizes.—Henry Cabot Lodge.

No Boxes For Two.

Telephone girls sometimes glory in their mistakes if there is a joke in consequence. The story is told by a telephone operator in one of the Boston exchanges about a man who asked her for the number of a local theater. He got the wrong number, and without asking to whom he was talking he said, "Can I get a box for two tonight?"

A startled voice answered him at the other end of the line, "We don't have boxes for two."

"Isn't this the —— theater?" he called crossly.

"Why, no," was the answer; "this is an undertaking shop."

He canceled his order for a "box for two."

Something Missing.

This is J. M. Barrie's favorite story about Bret Harte. When Harte reached Glasgow after his appointment as the American consul to that city his finances were at a comparatively low ebb, and instead of going at first to a hotel he found it expedient to seek lodgings at once. His search led him to a dour Scotch landlady, arrangements were made, and after leaving his belongings in his new home he went out to look after his official duties. Upon his return that evening he was met by the landlady. Her attitude was stern and questioning. "I've been looking over your belongings, Mr. Harte," she said, "but whaur's your Bible?"—Bookman.

One on the Professor.

One sarcastic college lecturer has got his deserts. A frequently inattentive member of his class appeared to be drawing in his notebook—perhaps a caricature of the instructor.

The lecturer paused and asked impressively, "Do you think that scribbling you are doing is important?"

"I don't know sir, I'm sure," responded the youth. "I was taking down what you were saying."

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

King's Business Catches Bostonians —Buttermilk for the Bibulous, Ten Thousand Quarts of It.

An enterprising twelve-year-old merchant shouted his wares on Boston's Winter Street late one evening recently. "Here you are, only a nickel, half a dime, five pennies—fine Christmas wreaths, only a nickel!" A lady paused and examined the wreaths, which were to say the least the worse for wear. "These are not very good," she remarked. The youthful vender looked at her scornfully. "Well, what d'yer expect for a nickel ,anyway?" he replied and the lady walked on, duly crushed.

The King's business was among the most important considerations last week. The singing evangelists, Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman and Charles M. Alexander, with their great chorus gathered from twenty-five choirs of Boston, conducted six crowded meetings on Monday and Tuesday at Tremont Temple and Mechanics building. Not the least interesting of the things which Dr. Chapman had to say were reports of the meetings in Australia, China and other places, where, even through the medium of an interpreter, the evangelists made thousands of conversions. Yet some people will talk as if Christianity were a spent force.

Bostonians ought to be long lived, if there is anything in the theory of the great Russian scientist. Ten thousand quarts of buttermilk a day is the standard which the New England capital maintains at present, and the amount is daily growing larger. One lunch room alone, patronized by men, serves forty gallons a day in summer and nearly as many in winter. So large is the demand for the health giving beverage that this lunch concern prepares its supply on its own premises, in accordance with the most approved scientific rules. The habit is not one to be contracted as readily as the ice cream soda habit, for it takes some courage to get through the first stage of familiarizing one's self with the peculiar taste of buttermilk. The study in expression on the face of the first offender is worth the price of the treat. Masculine buttermilk adherents are very much in the majority, for the women still stick to the more alluring syrups and fancy mixtures of the old regime. Perhaps that is to enable the men, who are shorter lived anyway a chance to catch up.

Santa Claus and Christmas trees are in full bloom nowadays in Boston as in every large American city. The evening crowds in the downtown district constantly grow larger as the eventful day draws nearer. The stores are practically all in festal array, filled with wonderful visions for the excited eyes of the little ones, and not a few wistful ones of grown-ups. Parents seem to be taking the trouble more and more to take the children down town to see the gaily decorated trees and Santa Claus groups. Unfortunately ,there are always the thin, white faces of the tots who do not know what Santa means, but who stand transfixed before the beauties and marvels of the toy shop windows, or still more pitifully before the exhibits of confectioners' bakers' and provision dealers' windows.

Is the holy state of wedlock in danger of disruption? A very serious problem confronts this Commonwealth —that of stopping the tendency of young people to defer marriage. The report of the Massachusetts Secretary of State for 1908 ,recently issued, shows a decrease in the number of marriages during the year to be 27,071 as against 31,055 in 1907. There is also a slight decrease in divorces and deaths, while the birth rate increased somewhat. The decrease in marriages is largely due, in the opinion of students of the subject, to the increased cost of living ,and if the cause continues to grow more and more serious, it is argued that marriages will become less and less frequent. According to the steady ascent of prices nowadays, there will be no such thing as marriage before long.

Christmas recitals, whether good, bad or indifferent, have been de rigeur at the various educational institutions in the Hub. Musical programs composed of the Christmas anthems and choruses are just revelling in Christmas lore. One institution which makes a special point of observing the holiday season has presented two Christmas programs and has in preparation two or three more entertainments for the benefit of those students who come from far distant homes and are obliged to spend a somewhat lonely vacation in a strange city. Dr. and Mrs. Curry, who conduct the famous School of Expression in Copley square are warm hearted and hospitable, and always have a Christmas tree at the school studios, when games and entertainments are enjoyed, and the tree is hung with good natured jokes and inexpensive remembrances for those students who are deprived of similar enjoyment at home.

Shall the state give the M. I. T. the mitten? Shall this institution which has trained thousands of young men and a few young women to great professional usefulness be allowed to become crippled through lack of sufficient funds to pay general expenses? Such a possibility faces the famous institution which has no equal in this country, or in fact any other, unless the state will make a larger yearly appropriation and the graduates will come together and raise an endowment fund. President Maclaurin has said that $1,000,000 will be necessary to put the institution on a sound business basis, and unfortunately fifty per cent of its graduates have left the doors of "Tech" within the last ten years, so that, comparatively few have yet acquired fortunes, making the proposition more serious than it would be in the older colleges which have two or three generations of graduates composing their alumni associations. Technology, like all educational institutions, has more or less endowments for specified purposes, these purposes many times not of first importance and requiring additional appropriations from the general expense fund for their continued maintenance. President Maclaurin's appeal is likely to be met with hearty response from the graduates of the world famous school of technical education, and many of the corporations and business organizations which constantly call upon Technology for trained men will doubtless also contribute to the cause.

"What's that? Votes for—O, Votes for Women! O, that's some of those suffragettes again. Don't they make you tired? Now look at that—half of them young girls. What do they know about women's rights—they ought to be home where they belong!" This was but one of the varied opinions that came to the ears of the Boston girl as the gaily decorated taxicabs of the "Seeing Boston" party formed to act as escort to Mrs. Philip Snowden, passed through the city's streets one morning last week. It happened, of course that the large majority of women who composed the party which took this method of killing two birds with one stone—that is of entertaining the brilliant English orator, and advertising the meeting to be held that night at Tremont Temple—were well known and highly respected ladies who though still young and attractive, had fulfilled the duties of wives and mothers with remarkable success, and from serious study of the civic conditions in this country and others are perfectly well qualified to explain the meaning of equal rights. As the little procession of autos with their waving banners and smiling occupants passed, the aforementioned spectator said: "And there's that woman who spoke in Faneuil hall—about the Ludlow troubles or something like that. I didn't read her speech, but the idea of her getting up there like that—what does she know about it, anyway?" The speaker, who had all the appearances of possessing normal intelligence was a sad commentary on many of her sex who obtain their information and form their opinions by "not reading the speech," or anything else, for that matter. The venerable and beloved Julia Ward Howe, though a suffragist of many years, still commands the highest respect of any American woman, and could the author of the above remarks have been present at the meeting at which both Mrs. Howe and Mrs. Philip Snowden explained some of the reasons why they want "women's rights" she might have "known what she was "talking about" a little better.

Ethel Angier.

—Andrew Owen, a former conductor in the employ of the Fall River division of the Old Colony Street Railway Co., was found guilty by Judge McDonough in the Fall River police court Saturday morning on a charge of larceny of fares from the company. He was sentenced to three months in the house of correction. He appealed and was held in bonds of $500.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constitution.

☞ You will not want to miss reading the Ledger of Wednesday, Dec. 22.

Red Cross Stamps

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of ERNEST A. HICKS

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased:

Whereas a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, for allowance, or disallowance, by Mae A. Lincoln Hicks of said Quincy, who prays that if allowed letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-second day of December, A. D. 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this ninth day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 11 3t--11-13-20

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, SS, PROBATE COURT

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin and all other persons interested in the estate of HELEN V. JOSSELYN

late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Maria C. Josselyn of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond;

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the fifth day of January A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 17 3t 17-20-27

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
| r *5 14 | abcdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | ihgfedcba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 | abc | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adei | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp. | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 0 |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | cdeba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | deba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | ihgfedeba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 | abcdefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedeba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedeba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abcdef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 | abcdef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fe bcba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 35 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 21 | ihgfedeba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | ihgfedeba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | ihgfedeba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | ihgfedeba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abcdefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | ihgfedeba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abcdefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | ihgfedeba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | ihgfedeba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abcdefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abcdefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | ihgfedeba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.15, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.27 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of ERNEST A. HICKS

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased:

Whereas a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, for allowance, or disallowance, by Mae A. Lincoln Hicks of said Quincy, who prays that if allowed letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-second day of December, A. D. 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this ninth day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 11 3t--11-13-20

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, SS, PROBATE COURT

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin and all other persons interested in the estate of HELEN V. JOSSELYN

late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Maria C. Josselyn of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond;

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the fifth day of January A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 17 3t 17-20-27

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, SS. PROBATE COURT.

TO Maud E. Mather of New York City, N. Y., the next of kin and all other persons interested in DORIS LOUISE MATHER

of Hyde Park in said County of Norfolk minor:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Harry B. Mather of Hyde Park in the county of Norfolk praying for the appointment of himself, or some other suitable person as guardian with the custody of said minor:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline, in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-second day of December, A. D. 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a guardian should not be appointed as aforesaid

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give notice thereof, to the next of kin of said minor, and others interested, by publishing this citation once in each week for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, or by delivering a copy thereof to the said Maud E. Mather at least seven days before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 9 3t 9-13-20

Administratrix Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the subscriber has been duly appointed Administratrix of the estate of late of Quincy in the County of Norfolk, deceased intestate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond as the law directs.

ANN SAMPSON,

All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

MABEL G. SAMPSON, Adm.

(Address) 2 Wharf St., Quincy, Mass.

Nov. 12, 1909. 3t--9-16--20

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO Maud E. Mather of New York City, N. Y., the next of kin and all other persons interested in DORIS LOUISE MATHER

of Hyde Park in said County of Norfolk minor:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Harry B. Mather of Hyde Park in the county of Norfolk praying for the appointment of himself, or some other suitable person as guardian with the custody of said minor:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline, in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-second day of December, A. D. 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why a guardian should not be appointed as aforesaid

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give notice thereof, to the next of kin of said minor, and others interested, by publishing this citation once in each week for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, or by delivering a copy thereof to the said Maud E. Mather at least seven days before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 9 3t 9-13-20

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Ponit, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

Sandberg Bros.--Diamond
W. G. Shaw--House furnishings
German Seltzer Co.
R. E. Foy & Co.—Christmas Groceries
Auction Sale
Berman Tea Co.--Hub Range
Andrew J. Lloyd--Opera Glasses
City Flower Store.
William Patterson--Flowers
To Let.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 35 degrees |
| Dec. 20, 1908 | 38 degrees |
| Dec. 20 1907, | 36 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

Radcliffe college closes Thursday, until Jan. 3d.

The scout cruiser MacDonough, built at Quincy, arrived in Boston last week.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. will meet Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Simpson Kay of 287 Beale street.

A Neighborhood prayer meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. D. M. Dacey of 52 Pope street, Montclair.

The second degree team of Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., will visit Neponset lodge this evening and perform the work on several candidates.

The Tamany Club will meet Kiley's checker and cribbage club Wednesday evening at the rooms of the latter.

Miss Maude Read entertained Miss Marguerite Wills of Dallas, Texas, and Miss Besse Marie McDavid of Lancaster, Texas, over Sunday. Both are classmates of Miss Read's at the Leland Powers School of Oratory.

The revenue cutter Androscoggin, which has been undergoing extensive repairs at the Fore River ship yard at Quincy, Mass., has sailed for Portland, Me. This will be her headquarters during the present season of winter cruising.

The many friends of John C. McGovern of Whitwell street will be sorry to learn of his death after a brief illness. He is survived by four daughters and three sons. The funeral will be held from St. John's Church, Quincy, Tuesday morning at nine o'clock.

William Williams who is teaching at Stafford Springs, Conn., and Ernest Williams, who is teaching in Arcadia College, Wolfville Nova Scotia returned home this week to spend the Christmas holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams of Barry street.

A very pleasant surprise party was tendered to Miss Margaret Bennett in her home on O'Connells avenue Saturday evening. Music and games were enjoyed throughout the evening. Refreshments were served. A beautiful pair of skates were presented to Miss Bennett in a short speech by Harry Kennedy.

The funeral of James Milne, was held Sunday from his late residence on Glencoe place. Rev. James Matheson of the Water Street Presbyterian church officiated. The services were attended by Clan McGregor, O. S. C., escorted the remains to Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. James Milne and family wish to extend their heartfelt thanks to the many friends and societies for the sympathy and kindness shown in their recent bereavement, also for the beautiful flowers.

MRS. JAMES MILNE AND FAMILY.
Quincy, Dec. 20 1t

MARRIAGES.

BATES—BRIDGHAM—In Boston, Dec. 18, Mr Henry T. P. Bates, formerly of Wollaston, to Miss Alice Maud Bridgham of Buckfield, Maine.

QUINTILIANI—FRANTIELLO—In Quincy Dec. 18, by William M. Marden, Esq., Mr. Cesidio Quintiliani and Miss Elmelinda Frantiello, both of Quincy.

DEATHS.

TIRRELL—In Quincy, Dec. 20, Quincy Tirrell, aged 81 years 2 months and 16 days. Funeral from late home 169 Franklin street, Wednesday Dec. 22, at 2 P. M. Relative and friends invited. Burial private. 2t

COSTELLO—In Boston, Dec. 19, Miss Sara Frances Costello, formerly of Chubbuck street, Quincy Point.

LITCHFIELD—In Egypt, Scituate, Dec. 19, Mr. Thomas Litchfield, aged 85 years and 3 months.

McGOVERN—In Quincy, Dec. 18, Mr. John C. McGovern of Whitwell street, aged 66 years. Funeral services at St. John's church, Tuesday morning, Dec. 21, at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

LIVELY HOCKEY GAMES EXPECTED

Amateur Teams More Evenly Balanced Than Last Season.

CANADIAN STARS ON CLUBS.

Many Cracks From Across Border Will Be on New York and Pittsburg Teams—Outlook For Game In Cleveland and Chicago.

Judging by the intense interest that is being manifested by the American sporting public in ice hockey, it looks as if that fast, furious and brilliant national pastime of the lads across the Canadian border will have one of the most prosperous seasons the game ever had since its introduction into this country some years ago.

Ice hockey is a game for men. Essentially it is a game for the youth. It needs strong, full blooded men. Weaklings cannot survive in it, the puny cannot play it, and the timid have no place in it. It is perhaps one of the greatest games that man can play unaided.

The campaign in the Amateur Hockey league in New York probably will be fiercer and hotter than ever. The victorious New York Athletic club seven, winner of the championship last season, has its work cut out to retain the title. The Wanderers will be represented on the ice by one of the greatest aggregation of amateurs that any New York team ever boasted. That is saying a great deal, for it will be remembered that last season's Mercury Foot seven won the amateur championship of America by defeating the Victorias of Montreal, the Canadian amateur champions, and showed the hockey world that the amateur teams in the United States are fully up to the standard of the best Canadian sevens.

The St. Nicholas seven, amateur hockey champions of 1907, expect to have a great team on ice. The St.

J. C. COOLICAN, STAR FORWARD ON NEW YORK A. C. SEVEN.

Nicks have a squad of twenty-eight men in training. Among the recruits are several Harvard, Princeton and St. Paul players. In fact, the only team that looks weak in the amateur league is the Hockey club of New York.

Though the first of the regular games for the championship of the league will not be played till Jan. 4, there will be several practice matches between college and amateur sevens from now on until Jan. 1. The hockey season in Pittsburg and Cleveland is now on in full blast. The opening games in both cities were by far more auspicious than last season, and if the quality of hockey dished out during the season is in keeping with that in the initial contests the fans will surely get a good run for their money.

Last year the league in Cleveland was made up of only three teams. While the Clevelands and Crescents always put up a good fight, both teams appeared to have the call over the Thistles in almost every game they played. The result was that the fans did not turn out as strong as was expected. This year, however, with four teams, all of which should be in the running for the championship up to the last two or three weeks, the sport is sure to be more popular with Clevelanders than ever before.

Hockey has been played in Pittsburg, both amateur and professional, and Chicago is now following the lead of the two other cities and will introduce the sport shortly. Something like $250,000 has been invested in a mammoth skating rink.

WHY BARRE OBJECTED

To the Plan for Arbitration of Granite Trouble

In their explanation for turning down the proposition to refer their differences in the granite business at Northfield to the two National executive committees for adjustment, the press committee of the Barre branch made the following statement:

"This sagacious 'plan' was tried two years ago, when the Quincy dispute was referred thus to be settled. The decision was given adverse to the manufacturers' association, when that body promptly repudiated the decision and would not abide by it, thus discrediting a method of settlement of disputes of which they themselves were the chief authors.

"In the present trouble, had this plan been adopted, the men who were locked out over a month ago would have had to return to work upon the old terms, and wait probably a month or two before this outfit would make a decision, and even then there is no guarantee that the manufacturers would abide by it, unless it was favorable to themselves.

"No self-respecting body of men would stand for anything of this kind, besides it has generally been the policy of branches in this vicinity to settle their own disputes among themselves."

CHRISTMAS IN SCHOOLS.

W. H. Bentley, principal of the Coddington school called the school children together this morning in the school hall for their Christmas exercises and also to try out a fine Chickering Concert Grand piano, which has been installed in the school recently. After the regular morning devotional exercises, Mr. Bentley gave the children a short talk on the "Christmas Spirit," and after this the children read and sang. Clarence Fouche, the musical director, rendered several fine selections on the new piano. The eighth grade children sang a Christmas carol and the exercises closed with a reading of a Christmas story by Mrs. Isabelle Davis. Mrs. Davis and Mr. Fouche were both enthusiastically encored.

Y. M. C. A. BASKET BALL.

The Y. M. C. A. basket ball team lost their first game away from home Saturday night when Lawrence defeated them at Lawrence by the close score of 32 to 28. The result was in doubt up to the last minute of play, and it was only after one of the hardest kinds of fights that the heavier team were able to nose out a victory. The one pleasant feature about Quincy's play was its passing and the fact also that McKenzie showed some of his old time form; he left the floor with 8 of the 12 baskets scored by Quincy to his credit. Tupper caged the ball twice and showed some class at shooting fouls getting four out of five tries.

GOLF EXPERT.

Ralph Cracknell, the golf editor of the Globe, places T. M. Claflin of the Wollaston club second among the all round golf amateurs of Massachusetts, P. W. Whittemore being first. Mr. Claflin qualified in U. S. amateur championship at Chicago and took a Sillwell to second extra hole in first match; won Lesley cup match with W. T. West and won foursome match also; won Connecticut match; won open amateur tournament of Philadelphia cricket club, defeating H. W. Perrin in match that went 20 holes; won Myopia invitation tournament; runner-up at the Country club spring meeting at the Essex county club and at the Abenaqui club.

FAKE STORY.

A morning paper has a story of the rescue of two young men from drowning on Butler's pond, Sunday afternoon when a human chain was formed by four girls. The article also states that the pond is from 18 to 20 feet deep in places. The story is simply a yarn with no foundation for there was no rescue and the pond in its deepest place is not over five feet.

☞Charles H. Johnson, autioneer has a large sale of household furniture at East Weymouth Wednesday afternoon which includes a fine upright Jewett piano in good condition.

QUINCY CHURCHES

(Continued from Page 5).

This evening the Fowler chapter of the Methodist Brotherhood of this church will hold its regular meeting to which all the ladies of the church and congregation are invited to be present.

Rev. H. W. Hook of the Mattapan Methodist church will be the speaker of the evening and his subject will be "Woman."

The choir rehearsal will be held on Thursday of this week instead of Friday at 8.30.

On Friday night the Sunday school will hold its usual Christmas tree gathering in the vestry of the church to which the friends of the school are invited.

Next Sunday will be observed as Christmas Sunday in the church, with special music by the choir and an appropriate sermon by the pastor. In the evening the Sunday school will render a Christmas concert.

WEST QUINCY SALE.

A very successful sale was held by the Ladies' Aid of the Hall Place M. E. church Saturday, December 18, in the vacant store owned by Mr. Lamb, situated on the boulevard near the Willard school. Candy, popcorn, a large variety of home-cooked food, preserves and squashes, aprons and fancy articles were on sale during the afternoon and evening.

The following committees were in charge:

Candy—Mrs. Blaisdell and Mrs. Bent.

Aprons and fancy articles—Mrs. George Hawes and Mrs. H. D. McNeil.

Cooked food—Mrs. Charles Goucher, Mrs. William McCormick, Mrs. F. Badger, Mrs. H. Doble and Miss Nettie Loud.

BRIEFS

The Sunday school of the Union chapel on Bay View avenue, Houghs Neck, will hold a Christmas festival and tree Friday evening.

The Wollaston Boys' club holds its next meeting in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church on Thursday evening.

Christmas tree exercises will be held in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church on Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Frank Percival has sold a lot of 16,266 square feet, corner of Pine street and Hillside avenue, to F. Favorite, who will develop it.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Moyle of Nightingale avenue will go to Westerly, R. I., to spend the holidays with Mrs. Moyle's mother.

The girls' choir club of the Wollaston Congregational church will hold its December meeting with Miss Avis Tobey of Lincoln avenue on Wednesday evening.

Quincy attorneys have been invited to attend a meeting in Boston on Wednesday, the purpose of which is to organize the Massachusetts Bar Association. Many of the legal fraternity of the city will attend.

A scene from the "Birds' Christmas Carol" and a Christmas tree will be enjoyed by the Sunday school of the Wollaston Congregational church on Saturday evening at 5 o'clock.

The annual Christmas tree and festival for the children of Houghs Neck will be held Wednesday evening at Brown's hall. The ladies having the affair in charge will see that the children have a good time and that every child receives a gift.

The regular Christmas entertainment for the Sunday school of the Wollaston Methodist church will be held in the vestry on Friday evening at 7.30. All those wishing to leave presents for contributions have been requested to leave them at the church at 4 o'clock.

The annual meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates will be held Wednesday evening. Under the rules of the club no member can serve the club more than one year in succession as president. There are several candidates for the office.

—Having been at vast expense in building war ships, the Secretary of the navy has set about such a reorganization of navy management as to enable the nation to get its money's worth out of the investment. This involves a great shaking up of dry bones and the disturbance of wayback prescription and precedent; but there is no doubt the country will approve. With a navy in excess of any apparent need, the more effective it can be made in all departments the less reason there will be for undesirable future outlay in enlarging it—Philadelphia Record, Dem.

Makaria

WOMAN IN COURT

Sacredness of Home at Issue in Assault Case

The question of the sacredness of a person's home and the right of the occupant to defend himself or herself against intruders, was raised this morning, when Lillian M. Blanchard of 31 Everett street, Atlantic, was summoned into court to answer to a complaint for assault with a dangerous weapon on Frederick A. Bartlett.

The alleged assault took place last Wednesday, when Mrs. Blanchard is said to have drawn a revolver on Bartlett who had entered her home uninvited and who refused to leave when she ordered him out.

It seems that Mrs. Blanchard had some trouble with an instalment house, and an agent of the house visited her home. She admitted him, and while he was talking with her, Bartlett, who is said to have been his helper, entered. This Mrs. Blanchard resented, and she promptly ordered him to leave. He refused to comply with her demand, and it is alleged that she drew a revolver and threatened to shoot him if he did not get out. He promptly got out, and then swore out a warrant against Mrs. Blanchard.

Bartlett had no right to enter the house, and if the facts are as have been stated, it would seem that Mrs. Blanchard was justified in what she did. The case went over until Dec. 29 for a hearing.

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

Letter unclaimed for the week ending Saturday, Dec. 18: A. H. K. Blood, Francesco Famiglietto, F. L. Hayward, Alex. Jansson, M. H. Lane, W. J. Leigh, Arthur Mitchell, Franco Mucci, H. E. Ricketson, Samy (33 Revere road) and Timothy Sullivan.

It cost $23,999,308.28 to run the State of Massachusetts during the financial year ending Nov. 30, according to the cash statement just issued by State Treasurer Stevens. This is $1,199,219.35 more than in the previous year.

By C. H. JOHNSON, - - AUCTIONEER
Office: Room 3, Adams Building, Quincy, Mass
Tel. Quincy 192-1.

Large Auction Sale

15 Rooms of Household Furniture and Piano at Public Auction at the Hawthorn House, 543 Madison St, East Weymouth, Mass.,

Wednesday, Dec. 22nd, at 1.30 P. M.

PIANO. Upright Jewett Piano in good order.
OFFICE. Roll Top Desk, 2 Tables, 4 Chairs, Stove.
PARLOR. Large Stove, Brussels Carpet, 5 Rugs, Morris Chair, Sofa, M. T. Table, Willow Rocker, large Mirror, Pictures, Oak Table, etc.
DINING ROOM. 6 Dining Tables, 38 high back cane seat Chairs, large lot of Crockery, Glassware, Napkins, Table Linen, Lamps, Hall Stand.
KITCHEN. Glenwood Cabinet Range in good order 1 small Range and 5 small Chamber Stoves, 2 wood Stoves, large lot Kitchen Utensils, 2 Refrigerators.
12 Bed rooms containing Bed Springs, Commodes, Chairs, Mattresses, Quilts, Sheets Blankets, Pictures, Rugs, Tables, etc.
Large Sign Board, Steam Boiler and Fixtures and a large variety of goods used in this well-known hotel. All the above goods are clean and and worthy the attention of buyers.

DO NOT MISS THE SALE
Hawthorn House, Wednesday, Dec. 22, 1909, 1.30 P. M., East Weymouth.
Dec 20—3t

WHEN IN WANT
OF GOOD
Plants and Flowers
for XMAS GIFTS call up
WM. PATTERSON
HE HAS THEM
Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths
Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias
at Reasonable Prices.
92 South Central Ave., Wollaston
Tel. 392-1 Quincy. Dec 20-4f

Christmas Flowers
CUT FLOWERS OF ALL KINDS
Wreaths, Potted Plants and all Floral Designs for the Holidays can be found at our store.
Flowers make appropriate gifts for mother, sister, sweetheart or your sick friends.
We have Poinsettias, Azaleas, Cyclamen, Ferns, Palms, Primroses, Jerusalem Cherries, etc.
CALL TODAY.
CITY FLOWER STORE
CARL JOHNSON, Prop.
1361 Hancock St., City Sq., Tel, 275-2
Dec. 20 4t

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—On 11.20 train from Boston Saturday evening, a suit case marked T. B. L. No questions asked and large reward if return to 195 Goffe street, Quincy, Mass.
L Dec. 14-6t O 18-1w

FOUND

FOUND—A sailboat. Enquire J. MACNAB, 371 Quincy avenue. Quincy, Dec. 17 3t

FOUND—A Ladder. Address L, Ledger Office, Quincy Dec. 15-3t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Johnson-Daniels show case in good condition. Apply at 25 Grant avenue, Milton between 8 and 9 in the morning.
Dec.17 3t

—As Mrs: Harriet Beecher Stowe was sailing up the river Mersey from the steamer to Liverpool on her first visit to England she remarked the dingy and muddy quality of the water of a stream that would otherwise be very beautiful. She asked some one, "Why is the water so muddy?" "Oh, don't you know," replied the other, "the quality of mercy is not strained."

☞Late shoppers will find some timely suggestions in the advertisements in Wednesday's Ledger and also be able to get fresh goods at very reasonable prices. Do not fail to get the Ledger and read the ads.

☞Telephone William Patterson the florist if you want plants or flowers for Christmas—he has them at reasonable prices and in great variety.

"HAIL TO KING CHRISTMAS!"

WANTED.

WANTED—Places to care for furnaces, ashes, etc. Apply to J. M. LYNCH, 121 Phipps street. Dec. 16-7t

TO LET.

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neighborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-tf

TO LET—Office and Stables, now occupied by the Boston & Quincy Express Co., 126 Washington street. Also Hall occupied by the Socialists club, corner Washington and Canal streets. Apply to ALBERT KEATING, Quincy, Dec. 18 2t

TO LET—Furnished Room. Apply at 81 Revere road. Quincy, Dec. 11-3t—11-13-18

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and appartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-12t

TO LET—A New Tenement of five rooms second floor; with bath, hot and cold water, range, furnace heat, gas and set tubs. Beautiful pine grove in back, on Glendale road. Ready for occupancy. Apply at 188 Glendale road. Quincy, Dec. 10-6t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec 10-12t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 64 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-4f

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-tf

TO LET

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x45 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

DO YOUR Christmas Shopping NOW
and do it in
QUINCY.

TELEPHONE CONNECTION HOURS 9-12 1-5
Dr. A. B. PACKARD
HARVARD DENTAL
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING 20 QUINCY, MASS.

Read
Ledger Advs

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers, cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 286 QUINCY, MASS., TUESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 21, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

SALARY INCREASES BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

City Engineer Is Successful But Inspector of Buildings Not as Fortunate

Monday night's meeting of the City Council was a prolonged one. It was the last regular meeting for the year. However an adjourned meeting will be necessary Thursday evening to clean up the calendar.

The debate of the evening came on the report of the joint committee on Finance and Ordinances on the order increasing the salary of the Inspector of Buildings. The committee reported a substitute order, which carried with it an amendment to the Building ordinance. The debate lasted nearly two hours and then the order was killed.

Another debate was on increasing the salary of the City Engineer. The order was killed once. Then the vote was reconsidered and the order recommitted. Later the order again came up when it was passed.

Councilman Nowland was the only absent member.

TRAVERSE JURORS.

A venire was received for the drawing of traverse jurors the Mayor, City Clerk and Councilman Hadlock drew the following: James Joss, Robert Beattie John J. Chisholm, James F. Desmond, John H. Gillis and William P. Chase.

MAKING SNOW FLY.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works asking for the transfer of $700 from the appropriation for removal of snow to the appropriation for miscellaneous highways. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered the necessary order which was referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication was received from the Mayor with enclosure from the Commissioner of Public Works, stating that it would cost $400 to put water into the new tuberculosis camp and asking for a transfer for that amount from Removal of Snow appropriation. Laid on the table until later, when Councilman Bryant offered the necessary order. Referred to Finance Committee.

APPOINTMENTS.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing L. Merton White a constable and Thomas E. Sullivan and S. O. Williams weighers. Confirmed.

PETITIONS.

The Mayor forwarded a petition from residents at Houghs Neck asking for additional firemen for the Houghs Neck fire station. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

A petition was received from J. J. and T. F. Mack for permission to run three guy wires across Phipps street for holding a derrick during the erection of the parochial school. Laid on the table until later, when Councilman Moir offered an order granting the permission. Communication and order referred to the Executive.

REPORTS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass, on the order transferring $411.84 from the appropriation for plumbing Gridley Bryant school to repairs of public buildings. Rules suspended and order passed.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $100 for the abatement of nuisance on Cyril street, transferring the amount from the appropriation for removal of snow. Rules suspended and order passed.

The joint committee on Finance and Ordinances reported ought not to pass on the order increasing the salary of the Registrars of Voters. Report accepted.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order making transfers in the interest account of the City Treasurer. Rules suspended and order passed.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Telephone company attachments and location for poles. Ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light Co. a location for poles. Ordered to a second reading.

FIRE ALARM BOXES.

The Committee on Fire Department reported an order appropriating $1,475 for the purchase and installation of fire alarm boxes as follows:—

Corner Washington and Foster streets.

Corner Franklin and School streets.

Corner Dimmock street and Upland road.

Engine House, Houghs Neck.

Sea street near the Willows.

Corner Rockland and Rhoda streets, Rock Island.

Corner Centre road and Darrow street.

Corner South street and Clairmont avenue.

Corner Commonwealth avenue and Broadway, Ward Two.

Corner Washington and Union streets.

Corner Federal and Independence avenues.

Corner Furnace avenue and Willard street.

Corner Buckley and Arthur streets.

Corner Warren avenue and Belmont street.

Corner Brook and Granger streets.

Corner Berlin and Woodbine streets.

Corner Glover and Newbury avenues.

Corner Oak and Walnut streets.

Corner Prospect and Billings streets

Corner Squantum street and Hucklings avenue.

The Finance Committee reported reference to the next City Council on the order appropriating $500 to rebuild Larry place. Accepted.

BALANCE FOR PARKS.

The Finance Committee reported no legislation necessary on the communication from the Park Commissioners relative to the use of the interest of the balance of the amount received from the sale of the Ward Five playground as in the opinion of the committee the sum can not be used for other than for the purchase of land for playgrounds. Report accepted.

CITY ENGINEER.

The joint Committee on Finance and Ordinances reported ought not to pass on the order increasing the salary of the City Engineer. Report rejected.

Councilman Bryant moved the order be recommitted to Finance Committee. Motion lost, 9 voting yes and 10 no.

By a vote of 11 yes and 8 no, the order was ordered to a second reading. Order read.

Councilman Hadlock moved suspension of the rules in favor of the order. Motion lost 14 voting yes and 8 no.

The order was then referred to the Finance Committee.

The Committee on Streets reported reference to the next City Council on the order for $500 for catch basins on Old Colony street. Accepted.

BUILDING INSPECTOR.

The joint Committee on Finance and Ordinances reported a substitute order for the order increasing the salary of the Inspector of Buildings. The substitute increased the salary to $1,000 per year, and provided that he should give his whole time to the duties of the office. It also provided that the ordinance regulating the constructions of buildings be amended so as to provide that the Inspector of Buildings under the Commissioner of

(Continued on Page 5.)

BOLD AND MALICIOUS

Burglars Ransack Store on Willard Street

The store of Charles Mullen, on Willard street near the Gridley Bryant school, was entered by burglars at 10 o'clock Monday night, who carried off goods to the value of $75. They also did $25 damage to the store by smashing windows and furnishings. John O'Leary, a young man, passed the store about 10 o'clock and saw two men working at one of the windows. He ran home and informed his parents, who in turn notified Charles Bearce, who has charge of the store. Mr. Bearce visited the premises and found that the men had made a wreck of the inside. Appearances indicated that they must have had a team handy for they carried off a large quantity of tobacco, groceries and canned goods. In fact, they nearly cleaned out the store. The O'Leary Boy can give but little description of the two men he saw at the store.

ALARMED BY GAS.

The visitors to the Johnson building Monday night were alarmed by the presence of a large quantity of gas, the source of which could not at first be traced. It was finally found to be issuing from the dentistry rooms of A. B. Nutting, and amidst wild rumors of attempted suicide, the door was opened by the janitor, who found a gas jet wide open and the room full of gas. A large number of the ladies who intended to attend the whist party on the top floor refused to go upstairs for some time, as they feared an explosion. But the excitement finally calmed down and at about 8.30 the evening's interrupted enjoyment proceeded.

ASSISTANT DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Albert F. Barker of Brockton qualified on Monday as district attorney for the Norfolk and Plymouth counties and has appointed as his assistant Frederick G. Katzmann of Hyde Park. Though only 34 years of age Mr. Katzmann has had a notable success in his profession and in public life. He represented Hyde Park in the Legislature in 1907 and 1908, is chairman of the Republican town committee of Hyde Park, and a member of the congressional county and senatorial committees. He is also a member of the school committee and the Masonic lodge. He was married five years ago.

SERIOUSLY ILL.

Patrick Maguire, the well known granite manufacturer of East Milton, is seriously ill with blood poisoning. Last week, in putting his hand into his pocket, Mr. Maquire cut his finger on a broken eye glass that was in the pocket. The cut bled considerable, but it was not thought to be serious. Then blood poisoning set in, and this morning serious doubts were entertained of his recovery.

FOY

Makes a Specialty of Supplying Good Things for Christmas

The largest and freshest stock of Christmas Groceries and Sweets in Quincy. We carry everything you need for Christmas Dinner. Our prices are right.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cranberries | 3 qts. 25c. | Rice Pop Corn | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Fancy Drained Citron | lb. 18c. | Common Crackers | lb. 8c. |
| Seeded Raisins | 3 pkg. 25c. | Large Native Onions | pk. 25c. |
| Cleaned Currants | pkg. 10c. | Florida Oranges | doz. 15c. |
| Ideal Not-a-Seed Raisins | pkg. 10c. | 2 lb. box Ribbon Candy | 25c. |
| Slade's Sage | box 5c. | Dates | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Bell's Poultry Seasoning | box 9c. | Cluster Raisins | box 10c. |
| | | Matinee Biscuits | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| | | Takoma Biscuits | 6 pkg. 25c. |

R.E. FOY & CO.

COR. WATER AND QUINCY STS.

QUINCY ADAMS

Dec. 20-5t

OPEN EVERY EVENING UNTIL CHRISTMAS | CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS | OPEN EVERY EVENING UNTIL CHRISTMAS

FROM

Quincy's Leading Clothing, Men's Furnishing & Shoe Store

UNUSUALLY ATTRACTIVE IS OUR STOCK OF HOLIDAY GOODS, THE LARGEST AND MOST COMPLETE LINE TO BE FOUND IN QUINCY.

Neckwear

50c Neckwear all very latest effects ..... 35c

75c Neckwear made specially for us for Christmas ..... 50c

All styles and colorings in neckwear ..... 25c

Large Assortment

$1.00 Neckwear ..... 75c

$1.50 Neckwear ..... $1.00

Gloves

Men's Dress Gloves Lined and Unlined ..... 50c to $2.00

Boys' Dress Gloves ..... 50c to $1.50

Children's Dress Gloves .. 50c to $1.00

Ladies' Dress Gloves .... 75c to $2.00

Large Variety Men's, Boys', Women's and Children's Wool Gloves 25c to $1.00

Sweaters.

All the new Colors and Combinations

Men's ..... 50c to $6.00

Boys' ..... 50c to $3.00

Girls' ..... 50c to $5.00

Children's ..... 50c to $2.00

Ladies' ..... $1.00 to $6.00

Umbrellas.

All the newest handles Covering Guaranteed. Men's and Ladies'

A very Handsome Gift .. $1.00 to $6.00

Children's Umbrellas.. 50c, 75c, $1.00

Bags and Suit Cases.

Special all Leather ..... $4.98

Large Assortment..... 98c to $10.00

50c to $1.00 Less than Boston Prices

Trunks.

$1.48 .... ..... to .... .... $18.00

Bath Robes and House Coats.

Large variety and prices the lowest.

Night Robes and Pajamas

50c .... ..... to .... ..... $2.00

Plain and Fancy Effects

Fancy Arm Bands.

50c grades ..... 39c

75c grades ..... 59c

Large variety ..... 25c

Handkerchiefs.

Everything you can think of Plain, Fancy and Initial Men's Ladies' and Children's .....5c to $1.50

Mufflers.

Beautiful Assorted, Plain and Fancy Silk ....50c-75c-$1.00-$1.25-$1.50

$1.75 $2.00 $2.50 $3.00

Ladies' Pheonix Mufflers. 29c and 50c

Jewelry.

All the new effects in Cuff Buttons and Scarf Pins .....25c to $1.50

Suspenders.

Handsome Assortment

25c-50c-75c-$1.00-$1.50

In Individual boxes an ideal present

Men's and Young Men's Overcoats.

$18.00 All Wool, Black Kersey and the new Fancy Effects ..... $14.87

Other grades ..... $6.87 to $25.00

Men's and Young Men's Suits.

$18.00 grades in all the new Fancy Worsted Effects ..... $14.87

Other grades ..... $6.87 to $25.00

Men's Reefers.

Body and Sleeves Interlined with wind and rain proof material

$4.98 $6.87 $7.87

Men's Blanket Lined Working Coats.

$1.48 $1.98 $2.48 $2.98

Not a very ornamental but decidedly useful Gift.

Men's Lamb Lined Working Coats.

$2.98 $3.98 $4.87 $5.87 $6.87

A very warm and useful Gift

Rain Coats.

$15.00 Genuine Rain Proof Coats $11.87

Other grades ..... $9.87 to $25.00

Boys' Overcoats and Reefers.

Ages 8 to 16.

$6.00 grade plain and fancy effects very latest models ..... $4.98

Other grades ..... $2.98 to $8.00

Boys Suits.

Ages 7 to 17.

$6.00 grades, Worsted and Fancy Scotch Effects ..... $4.98

All styles and Colorings. $1.48 to $8.00

Children's Overcoats.

2 1-2 to 10.

Plain and fancy effects, latest styles ..... $1.48 to $7.00

Children's Suits.

$5.00 Russian and Blouse Suits Knickerbocker Pants .....$3.98

Other grades

$1.98 $2.48 $2.98 $4.98 $5.87

Boys' Knee Pants.

Knickerbocker Style .....50c to $2.00

Straight Pants .....25c to $1.50

Men's Caps.

Fur Band .....98c to $3.00

Fast Color Winter Caps, large variety .....50c to $1.50

English Golf and Varsity Caps. .....50c to $1.00

Boys' Caps.

About anything and everything a boy would want will be found in this department .....25c to $2.00

Men's Shoes.

High Cut Black and Tan Calf Storm Shoes

$3.00 $4.00 $5.00 $6.00

Largest line Men's shoes in the city .....$1.50 to $4.00

Fellow Craft Shoe .....$3.50

Regent Shoe .....$4.00

Best on earth. Every pair guaranteed.

Ladies' Shoes.

Sole agents in the city for the celebrated Queen Quality Shoes all Leathers .....$3.00, $3.50, $4.00

Other lines all Leather. $1.50 to $4.00

Little Gents' Storm Shoe Straps and Buckles.

$1.50 $2.00 $2.50

Boys' Storm Shoes, Straps and Buckles.

$2.00 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50

Children's Rubber Boots.

$1.25 $1.75

Children's Head Gear.

Mothers know what we can do in this department. We have larger variety than ever this season. If you need a Hat, Cap, Toque, Tam O'Shanta or anything for the child in this line we must have it.

Men's Slippers.

Black and Tan, Everett, Opera and Romeo .....50c to $2.00

Special Men's Tan Slippers regular 75c .....59c

Ladies' Slippers.

Variety too large to mention. If you are going to buy a pair of ladies' slippers come and see us.

Boys' and Children's Slippers.

We have them all kinds. 50c to $1.00

Knockabout Shoes for children and Misses nothing to add to what we have before said about this line. All leathers. The most satisfactory line made.

Misses and Children's High Cut Storm Shoes, Straps and Buckles

Music Hall Block | REMICK BROTHERS | QUINCY

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS EVERY MORNING UNTIL CHRISTMAS.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Cragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Childhood's Simple Ways.

"I'll have ter run yez in, young feller. You've been a-violatin' the law regulatin' the speed of horseless vehicles!"—New York World.

BRIEFS

Christmas vacation for all the public schools will commence tomorrow night.

A Christmas cantata will be given on Friday evening at the Memorial church, Atlantic.

At the Wollaston M. E. church on Sunday a deaconness will present the Deaconness cause.

The annual meeting of Bethany Bible school will be held on Wednesday evening. Reports will be made and officers elected.

A week from tonight Harold Gore and Philip Barnes of Wollaston will run one of their delightful assemblies at Brazee hall, Wollaston.

Braintree's former popular telephone operator, Jack Wigmore, is now situated in Hingham, much to the regret of his many friends in Quincy and Braintree.

The skating, thanks to the continued good weather, is in great shape all over the city. The following places are frozen over and in good condition: Butler's pond in Ward One, Bakers in Ward Three, The Lake in Ward Five, and the Atlantic playground.

A BIG STORE.

"Great oaks from little acorns grow." This oft repeated proverb can well be applied to the growth of the firm of Remick Bros, which is at present doing a thriving business in Men's outfittings at Music hall block on Hancock street. Coming into Quincy some five years ago and opening up a small store they began to do business. Their square, honest dealings with all patrons soon became well known and they found they must enlarge to keep up with the march of progress. Gradually they spread out until today they occupy space which was originally four stores covering somewhere in the neighborhood of 5,000 square feet with a frontage of 50 feet. Mr. A. H. Remick of firm who resides in this city attributes the success to honest dealings, advertising the truth, civil employes and last but not least well trimmed windows. The Quincy people who have yet to buy their gifts will do well to read their advertisement which appears in this paper.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

(ADVERTISE.)

BANISHMENT OF BARONESS

Perhaps Reason For Her Abrupt Departure From Brussels

STATUS OF KING'S FAVORITE

Discussed In Conference Between Belgian Minister at Rome and Papal Secretary of State—No Pity In Hearts of Populace For Mme. Vaughan, to Whom Was Left Bulk of Leopold's $56,000,000 Estate

Brussels, Dec. 21.—Much comment was caused when Baroness Vaughan, morganatic wife of the late King Leopold, left abruptly for her chateau at Ballincourt, France, after having announced her intention of staying in Brussels until after the funeral. She was accompanied by a physician and nurse. One report says she was ordered by the government to leave.

BARONESS VAUGHAN

Baroness Vaughan's status, it is rumored, has become a matter of negotiations between the council of the regency, the present government of Belgium and the Vatican. The Belgian authorities sent to Rome a lengthy dispatch bearing on the morganatic wife of the late Leopold II and her children. This dispatch led to an immediate conference between the Belgian minister at Rome and Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state.

Baroness Vaughan is the sister of Mme. l'Alouette, who keeps a vegetable stall in the Menilmontant market in Paris. The baroness started life as a barmaid. She and Mme. l'Alouette were the daughters of a concerge at Liege.

There is no pity for Baroness Vaughan in the hearts of the populace and there is none in the heart of Princess Louise, who continues her plans to beggar the baroness.

The latter has called down a storm on her head by insisting on placing under Leopold's head a pillow in which she embroidered "Rest in Peace." This is denounced as an insult to the dignity of a royal funeral.

Leopold II left an estate of $56,000,000, it is reported. Of this $6,000,000 is in art treasures and jewels. Headed by Princess Louise, the royal family has taken steps to contest the fortune in the courts. Baroness Vaughan, to whom was left the bulk of the estate, and the Societe Immobiliere Anonyme, founded by Leopold, and the Congo Royal Endowment will be the defendants.

It is believed that Leopold transferred this property before his death, as his will mentioned only the $3,000,000 he received from his father, which he in turn bequeathed to his children.

Prince Albert's happy plan to reunite the exiled and separated family was was fulfilled yesterday.

As Baroness Vaughan passed out forever from Belgian life, Princess Louise triumphantly entered the city and was officially greeted at the station and acclaimed by the people. She was conducted with royal honors to the Chateau Belvedere, which henceforth will be her official home.

Woman Loses Life In Fire

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 21.—Mrs. Catherine Carney, aged 70 years, was suffocated to death in a fire at her home here. Her son and two companions escaped by jumping from a second story window. They were arrested later on a charge of drunkenness. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Quadruple Lynching In Prospect

Selma, Ala., Dec. 21.—A mob composed of citizens of Arlington is trailing Clinton Montgomery, a negro, and his three brothers, who are charged with murdering from ambush A. L. Lewis. If the negroes are caught, a quadruple lynching is expected.

Yale Professor Dies Suddenly

New Haven, Dec. 21.—Rev. George P. Fisher, D. D., LL. D., professor of ecclesiastical history at Yale, died suddenly at the saniatrium of Dr. J. L. Buell in Litchfield from a hemorrhage of the brain.

NOT AFTER HEIRESS-BRIDE

Prince Who Possesses Rare Distinction Arrives at New York

New York, Dec. 21.—A rare type of transatlantic traveler, a prince who is NOT—and he asked especially that the negative be emphasized and capitalized—in pursuit of an American heiress-bride, arrived on the steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria to spend several weeks in New York.

The young man is Prince G. de Bourbon-Cecile. On his mother's side he is closely related to the house of Bourbon and distinctly connected with King Alfonso of Spain. He is about 25 years old, tall and slight and of an interesting pallor, caused by a recent illness.

"I am not engaged," he said in reply to a question, "and I do not seek an alliance with any of your countrywomen. They are charming, no doubt, and worthy of being welcomed into any noble house, but I will never consider such a thing unless my heart leads me, and as yet it has shown no indications of being a guide."

TO PROBE CONTROVERSY

President Taft Yields to the Demands of Ballinger and Critics

Washington, Dec. 21.—President Taft has yielded to the demands of both Secretary Ballinger and his critics for a public investigation of the whole subject matter underlying the so-called Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. Ballinger served upon the president yesterday virtually an ultimatum that such an investigation was the price of his remaining in the cabinet.

Mr. Taft, it is said, reluctantly admitted his disappointment that the country at large would not accept as final his own vindication of Ballinger in his dismissal of the charges brought before him against the secretary of the interior by L. R. Glavis, the former special agent of the land office, and his conclusion that the investigation demanded by both sides in this matter was inevitable.

COURT DECLARES "COUNT" A FRAUD

Shatters Prospects of Inheriting Vast Estate In Prussia

Posen, Dec. 21.—"Count" Joseph Kwilecki, the youth who has been known as the son of Count Ignatius and the late Countess Isabella W. Kwilecki, and heir to one of the finest estates in Russian Poland, will not inherit the property upon the death of the present owner.

The superior provincial court shattered his prospects by ruling that he was not the son of the pair, but the offspring of the wife of a railway watchman named Meyer.

The estate, on the death of the present count, will therefore go to his next of kin, the young man being left portionless as far as the entalled properties are concerned.

This decision of the court is the latest move in litigation in which criminal as well as civil prosecution has figured, and which at one time threatened to stir up racial feeling to the point of violence. The noted trial had been in progress for a long period.

MEAT DEALERS' PROFITS

Chicago Retailers Clear an Average of Forty-Six Percent on Each Animal

Chicago, Dec. 21.—The assertion of the United States department of agriculture that Chicago retail meat dealers made an average profit of 46 percent, was affirmed by John H. Schofield, secretary of the American Asosciation of Master Butchers.

According to a test he conducted, taking the price submitted by George Duddleston as an average, Schofield declares that from a single animal he would receive $59, or a gross profit of $29, which is 47½ percent gross profit.

DREW GUN ON SALESGIRL

Act of Youthful Paroled Prisoner Sends Him Back to Prison

Boston, Dec. 21.—Charles H. Partland, aged 16, who has been out on parole from Rainesford Island, yesterday pointed a revolver at a salesgirl in one of the department stores when she stopped him and accused him of stealing from the counter. The girl was greatly frightened and her cries brought men in the store to her aid.

Partland was sent back to the island by Judge Baker. It turned out after the police had arrived on the scene that the revolver was unloaded.

Black Hand Men Demand $50,000

Atlanta, Dec. 21.—Menaced by Black Hand letters threatening his own life and that of his family by dynamite unless he surrenders $50,000, Asa G. Candler, the richest man in Georgia, has employed officers to guard his home and never goes out himself unless accompanied by detectives.

The Weather

Almanac, Wednesday, Dec. 22.
Sun rises—7:11; sets—4:15.
Moon sets—2:04 a. m.
High water—7 a. m.; 7:30 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Fair, except occasional snows in northwest portion; continued cold; moderate west winds.

COOK'S DATA INCOMPLETE

Way Not Clear For Danes to Stand Pat on Pole

A NON-COMMITTAL REPORT

It Will Neither Endorse Nor Deny Claim of Brooklyn Explorer That He Reached Long-Sought Goal—Danes Favor Giving Cook Benefit of Every Doubt, While Foreign Investigators Take a Reverse View

Copenhagen, Dec. 21.—The committee that is investigating Dr. Frederick A. Cook's polar data, deeply embarrassed by the former championship of the explorer by nearly all of its members and the inability to find anything that approaches proof in the data, will get out of the muddle as gracefully as possible by making a non-committal report, neither adverse nor favorable to Cook.

This is the situation as outlined by one of the university of Copenhagen professors who is cognizant of the work that is going on inside the committee's room.

This professor declared that the members om the committee were unable to reach a unanimous decision, the Danish members insisting on resolving every doubt in Cook's favor, while the foreign members favor the complete rejection of his evidence.

In view of this it has been practically decided, according to a report, to give a verdict declaring that the committee is not warranted in saying that Cook either did or did not reach the Pole. Even Cook's stanchest friends on the committee admit that the data leaves much room for doubt and that a favorable verdict would be open to attack along many scientific lines.

The data is so incomplete that it is said that Cook's presence before the committee could not help matters any. For this reason he will not be asked to appear.

Professor Stromgren, president of the investigating committee, said that one of the results reached by the committee would be given out before the meeting next Monday of the university of Copenhagen consistory. He explained the committee's secretiveness by saying that it was impossible to arrive at "final judgment before all the data is considered."

Professor Stromgren's attitude is one of worry, whereas heretofore he has always shown a decided hopefulness regarding the efficiency of Cook's data.

Says Cook Is In Europe

New York, Dec. 21.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, whose mysterious disappearance from the Gramatan Inn, Bronxville, on Nov. 24, caused a sensation, is in Europe. This positive announcement was made by William L. Cook, who received a letter from his brother yesterday.

ROOSEVELTS IN UGANDA

Guests of Governor During Their Brief Stay at the Capital

Entebbe, Uganda, Dec. 21.—After a delightful voyage across the Victoria Nyanza, Theodore Roosevelt and party arrived here Monday. At the pier they were met by government officials. A guard of honor for the visitors was made up of Indian Sikhs.

Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit entered a motor car and were driven to the government house, where the were the guests of the governor of Ugnda until their departure for Kampala today.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed himself astonished at the beauty of the lake and the comfort provided for the steamer's passengers.

RUNWAY ACROSS TRACKS

Trains Are Killing Deer Near East Portal of Hoosac Tunnel

North Adams, Mass., Dec. 21.—Three deer killed by trains of the Boston and Maine railroad in as many days and four within nine days is the record at a point near the east portal of the Hoosac Tunnel.

There is a runway across the tracks at that point, and the deer evidently are without fear of being able to take care of themselves against the engines.

ASKS KING TO ABDICATE

Nationalist Deputy Creates Uproar In Servian National Assembly

Belgrade, Dec. 21.—The national assembly was the scene of an uproar when a Nationalist deputy presented a motion calling upon King Peter to abdicate, because it was not likely that he would ever be received by the foreign courts.

The president of the chamber refused to allow the motion to be formally put, and all the newspapers mentioning the incident have been suppressed.

Winter Begins Tomorrow

Boston, Dec. 21.—Today is the last day of autumn and tomorrow at 6 o'clock in the morning the winter begins. At that hour the sun will be directly above the Tropic of Capricorn, the farthest away from us during the year.

MAKES GOOD FOR SANTA

Taft Acts as Referee For Doubting Grandson of a Congressman

Washington, Dec. 21.—When little Henry G. McMorran, the 6-year-old grandson of Representative McMorran of Michigan, was introduced to President Taft during the congressional calling hour at the White House yesterday, he bluntly told the chief executive that he had begun to doubt the authenticity of "all this Santa Claus business."

At the suggestion of his parents he had decided to leave the matter to President Taft for settlement.

The president was taken aback for a minute, but looking down on the little fellow and patting him on the head, said:

"Well, young man, if you write a letter to Santa Claus and on Christmas morning find he has brought you all that you asked for, isn't that enough to show that he not only exists, but is a mighty fine fellow?"

The boy agreed to suspend judgement.

$2,500,000 FIRE IN LONDON

Three Lives Lost When Great Department Store Is Destroyed

London, Dec. 21.—A disastrous fire, involving so far as has been ascertained the loss of three lives and the destruction of the big drapery store of Arding & Hobbs, occurred at Clapham, a southwestern quarter of London.

The fire was due, it is believed, to the breaking of an electric bulb, which started a blaze among celluloid articles beneath. It occurred when the store, covering an acre of ground and having five floors and 100 departments, was crowded with customers.

The Christmas trade was in full swing, but in little more than an hour the building was a mass of ruins. The damage is estimated in the vicinity of $2,500,000.

MADRIZ ELECTED TO PRESIDENCY

Not Acceptable to Nicaraguan Revolutionary Forces

Managua, Dec. 21.—Dr. Jose Madriz, former judge of the Central American court of justice at Cartago, and Zelaya's candidate, was elected president of Nicaragua yesterday by the unanimous vote of congress.

The session was a stormy one, but there seemed to be perfect unanimity with regard to the election of Madriz, and when the official announcement was made there was vociferous cheering.

Dr. Madriz assumed the presidency at 10 o'clock this morning. He urged harmony and pledged himself to uphold the rights of the citizens, granting free elections and establishing a policy of equal opportunities for all.

It is known to both Zelaya and Madriz that General Estrada, the leader of the revolutionists, is strongly opposed to the new president, for it is well understood that Estrada himself aspires to fill the presidential chair.

SAVES MISTRESS' LIFE

Dog Plunges Into Icy Water and Drags Her to Place of Safety

Pawtucket, R. I., Dec. 21.—"Jack," a Newfoundland dog, owned by Michael Curry, saved the life of his mistress, Katherine Curry, on Bishop's pond.

Miss Curry, in company with a number of young people, went skating and fell through. "Jack" plunged into the water after her. He got her skirt in his teeth, dragged her onto the solid ice and was comforting the unconscious girl with his tongue when other rescuers arrived.

WRIT OF ERROR REFUSED

Thaw Loses Again In His Petition to United States Supreme Court

Washington, Dec. 21.—Justice McKenna of the supreme court of the United States denied a petition of Harry K. Thaw for a writ of error to the court of appeals of New York in the case in which Thaw made an effort to obtain release from the Matteawan asylum.

In that case a petition for a writ of habeas corpus was denied, and the effect of McKenna's decision will be to leave the decision of the court of appeals undisturbed.

Hadley to Remain With Yale

New Haven, Dec. 21.—Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale university, has set at rest a report that he would retire as head of the university to accept one of the American embassies. "There is no truth in the report," he said.

Makes Head Tax Ten Dollars

Washington, Dec. 21.—Representative Gardner of Massachusetts introduced an immigation bill with the additional feature of increasing the head tax from the present rate of $4 to $10. The bill prescribes an educational test.

Telephones For Constantinople

Constantinople, Dec. 21.—Mr. Webb, representing a group of foreign telephone companies, has completed arrangements for establishing a telephone system in Constantinople and its suburbs.

Little Things Annoy or Please Us

Little things annoy us—the little curl of smoke that, if left alone, would soon smudge the furnishings and make work for the house-wife.

There are no annoying little things in the

PERFECTION Oil Heater

(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

They've been banished by hard thought and tireless work. In their stead there are little things that please—that make for comfort and satisfaction. The little self-locking that actually prevents smoke—the little lock on the inside of the tube that holds the wick in check—keeps it below the smoke zone, so accurately adjusted that it cannot go wrong—these are some of the little things that please—that have contributed to the name and fame of the Perfection Oil Heater.

Automatic Smokeless Device

The most satisfying heater you can buy—always ready—easy to manage—always dependable—quickly cleaned.

Brass font holds 4 quarts—burns 9 hours. Attractively finished in Nickel or Japan in various styles and finishes.

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not At Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, RECILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES CLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

Sprague's New River
STEAM COAL
Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined
Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.
J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS
TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf

GAS PIPING AT COST.
We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.
Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.
We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.
Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.
We do not pipe new buildings.
CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181
Dec. 13 tf

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS

MAKES RAPID HEADWAY

Add This Fact to Your Store of Knowledge.

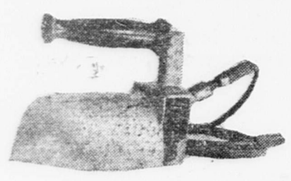
Kidney disease advances so rapidly that many a person is firmly in its grasp before aware of its progress. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptom of kidney disorder. If there is a dull pain in the back, headaches, dizzy spells, or a tired, worn-out feeling, or if the urine is dark, foul-smelling, irregular and attended with pain, procure a good kidney remedy at once.



Your townspeople recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the statement of this Quincy citizen.

P. J. Garrity, 367 Granite street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Some time ago I suffered so severely from kidney disease that I could hardly get about. I was restless at night and could not find any position that was comfortable. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and contained a heavy sediment at times. I was rapidly growing worse and was at a loss to know what to do, as the many remedies I tried failed to help me. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. After I had taken the contents of four boxes I was in good health. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

Dec. 14—1m.

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING

1357 Hancock Street

Quincy, Oct. 15 tf

Pine Wood For Sale

Ashes, Rubbish and Stable Manure carted away.

Peter McConarty

5 Pearl Street, - Quincy, Mass.

Nov. 15-1m

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY

Furniture and Piano Moving

Office 1598 Hancock Street, Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2

Quincy, June 10 tf

Have Your Clothes Washed by the

NEW SYSTEM

WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.

Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.

Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.

L. A. FAGEN, Manager

Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture

Also Upholsterers.

1056 Hancock Street, Quincy

Tel. Quincy 159-4

Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights reprocured. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references.

Wide awake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell patents. What inventions will pay. How to get a partner and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.

501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 20, | 5.00 | 5.30 |
| Tuesday, | 6.00 | 6.30 |
| Wednesday, | 7.00 | 7.30 |
| Thursday, | 8.00 | 8.30 |
| Friday, | 9.00 | 9.30 |
| Saturday, | 9.45 | 10.30 |
| Sunday, | 10.45 | 11.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Delaware's Federal Judge.

E. G. Bradford, a Jurist of Long Experience.

Edward G. Bradford, United State district judge for the district of Dela ware since May 11, 1897, was born i Wilmington in 1848. He was marrie to a member of the prominent Du Pont family in 1872. He is a graduate of Yale and was admitted to the bar in 1870.

BRIEFS

Mrs. W. M. Marden of Spear street has returned from a few days' visit with her sister in Winthrop.

William Lyons of West Quincy has severed his connection with the engineering department at City Hall.

Great social plans are being made for the observance of Christmas week at the Y. M. C. A.

Miss Leonilla Finn of Foster street, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Fred Rowe of Sharon, for the past month, returned this week.

Walter Lakin a senior at High school, is working during the holidays at the book counter of R. H. White & Co.

An entertainment is to be given by the Girls' Club in the Congregational church of Atlantic, Saturday evening Jan. 8th. A most interesting program is being prepared.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Giles of Trafford stret are congratulating them on the birth of a bouncing 10 pound boy, born Sunday, December 19..

Be careful of your dogs. Poison is being distributed and the death of two was reported last week at Atlantic, and the near death of three others.

A sixth grocery store is about to open in Atlantic. Herbert Hunt of Squantum street who has been peddling goods from a team for three years, is to open a fruit, vegetable and fish store in the lower part of Atlantic Music hall. John Hunt, his father will aid him and his sister as bookkeeper. Mr. Hunt has a large trade and it is hoped he will better it by this move.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-2. Residence 323-3.

Red Cross Stamps

FOR THE

uberculosis Camp

BACON NAMED FOR FRANCE

Other Changes of Importance In Diplomatic Service

REID REMAINS AT ST. JAMES

His Retirement, However, Together With That of Minister Straus and Ambassador Rockhill, Expected Within Two Years—Some New Appointments Made Without the Customary Consultation With Senators

Washington, Dec. 21.—Among renominations sent by President Taft to the senate Monday are those of Asa P. French to be United States district attorney of Massachusetts, James O. Lyford of Concord, N. H., to be naval officer of the port of Boston and Francis Norwood, to be postmaster at Beverly, Mass. All are assured of confirmation.

Senator Smith of Michigan appears to be the only opponent of the confirmation of Robert Bacon to be ambassador to France. The statement that "a group of middle western senators" would oppose the confirmation of Bacon thus simmers down to the opposition of one man.

The grounds for this are understood to relate to what Smith regarded as insufficient recognition of his dignity by Bacon while secretary of state.

The Michigan senator is a hard fighter, and probably will press his objections with as much determination as if they were founded on broader grounds. He is now in California, but has filed a protest against confirmation with the committee on foreign relations.

Authoritative statement is made that Whitelaw Reid will retain his post of ambassador to the court of St. James. David J. Hill will remain at Berlin and Thomas O'Brien at Tokio. Reid's retirement is expected within two years, however, along with that of Oscar S. Straus, minister to Turkey, and W. W. Rockhill, ambassador to Russia.

President Taft sent to the senate the following nominations of ambassadors and ministers:

Robert Bacon of New York, ambassador to France; Richard C. Kerens of Missouri, ambassador to Austria-Hungary; Henry L. Wilson of Washington, ambassador to Mexico; Charles P. Bryan of Illinois, minister to Belgium; William J. Calhoun of Illinois, minister to China; Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, minister to Chile; Henry T. Gage of California, minister to Portugual; R. S. Hitt of Illinois, minister to Panama; John B. Jackson of New Jersey, minister to Cuba; Fenton R. McCreery of Michigan, minister to Honduras; Edwin V. Morgan of New York, minister to Paraguay; Charles W. Russell of the District of Columbia, minister to Persia; Laurits S. Swenson of Minnesota, minister to Switzerland; Horace K. Knowles of Delaware, minister and consul general to the Dominican republic.

The president also sent in the names of ten men to be secretaries of embassies.

President Taft has ignored senatorial influence again in a manner which makes the oldtimers gasp. Some weeks ago Senator Cullom favored the reappointment of W. S. Trautmann and W. A. Northcott for United States district attorneys of the eastern and southern districts of Illinois. He had not presented the names to the president, however, and intended to consult with his colleague, Lorimer, and decide peaceably with him whether these men would be satisfactory. Senator Lorimer called at the White House Saturday to see the president, but was unable to do so, and was told to come back in a week.

To the profound astonishment of both senators, the nominations of the men were sent to the senate. With this blow at his prestige stinging him, the junior senator refuses to say whether the appointments are satisfactory to him or not. All the Illinois senators know of the proceeding is that the president did not wait to inquire as to their preferences.

Considerable interest attached to the nomination of Chrles P. Hitch to be marshal of the eastern district of Illinois. It had been current gossip that President Roosevelt, before leaving office, had selected this place as a reward for James Sloan, Jr., of Danville, Ill., the secret service man who always accompanied him in his travels through the country, who swam creeks with him in the dead of winter, climbed precipices and participated in all the strenuous out-door doings of the last administration.

Mr. Roosevelt adopted this method of rewarding secret service men attached to the White House when he appointed Frank Tyree, Sloan's senior in the service, as United States marshal in West Virginia. Sloan has been on duty with President Taft since the latter's inauguration and it was not until a few days ago that it became understood that he had decided not to appoint Sloan.

Poison Plot Charged

Denver, Dec. 21.—Accused by his daughter of having given his wife a powder which caused her death, Theodore Ehrhardt is in jail.

IS HEIR TO $40,000,000

Two Rich Men of Washingon Rejoice In Advent of a Grandson

Washington, Dec. 21.—Two of Washington's most distinguished citizens and multi-millionaires congratulated each other when they learned that Santa Claus had brought them a grandson.

The two happy grandfathers are John R. McLean, proprietor of the Washington Post, and Thomas F. Walsh, the Colorado miner. The grandson is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean. Mrs. McLean was Miss Evelyn Walsh, the only child of Thomas F. Walsh, and Edward McLean is the only child of John R. McLean.

Their marriage united two vast fortunes, the joint amount being estimated at $40,000,000. The new McLean baby is, therefore, one of the richest youngsters in the world, in prospect.

SUGAR FRAUD REWARD

President Taft Will Name the Man Entitled to Receive It

Washington, Dec. 21.—President Taft is to be the final judge as to what, if any, financial reward is to be given to Richard Parr, a deputy collector in the New York custom house, who is expecting a large sized fortune for his claimed exposure of the celebrated sugar trust frauds in New York. No action for this reward is to be taken in this claim, according to a high treasury official, until the litigation growing out of the frauds has terminated. This official said:

"When the end of the litigation has been reached it will be found that the size of the expected financial pie, which Parr and three other claimants for reward are anxious shall be cut for their benefit, will be of the boarding house size and variety."

Collector Loeb last April recommended Parr for the reward.

DISCONSOLATE AS TO HIS HEALTH

Mark Twain Declares He Is About "All In"

New York, Dec. 21.—"Yes, boys, I'm about all in. My life's work is near the end. I'm about through with my work in this world and in this life."

Looking pale and haggard and very feeble, Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), America's foremost humorist, made this statement to the newspaper men following his arrival here on the steamship Bermudian, from Bermuda, where he had spent the last eight weeks in an attempt to regain his lost strength.

Twain's humor that has made him known throughout the world was missing during the interview. Several reporters, who had met him many times before, began playing upon his humorous traits to no avail.

"I can't, boys," he said slowly. "I'm not my old self any more. I have a fearful pain here," he said as he placed his hand over his right breast in the region of the lungs. "It hurts and hurts badly. I feel that I am through with the work of this life and in this world. I'm about finished."

TO KILL OFF TRUSTS

New Bill Is Introduced In House by a Colorado Congressman

Washington, Dec. 21.—An anti-trust bill, giving United States circuit courts authority to dissolve combinations convicted of monopolizing any part of trade or commerce between the states and with foreign countries, and to appoint receivers for them, was introduced in the house by Representative Martin of Colorado.

The bill specifically exempts labor, agricultural, horticultural, fraternal and other associations.

SIX THOUSAND QUIT WORK

Philadelphia Shirtwaist Operators Follow Lead of New Yorkers

Philadelphia, Dec. 21.—At least 6000 operators in shirtwaist factories in this city have struck as a result of the strike in New York.

Their principal demands are for an increase in pay, a nine-hour working day, with Saturday afternoons off, and that the manufacturers provide needles and cotton free.

There is a rumor that 7000 strike breakers will be brought here from Baltimore.

Damaged Battleship to Be Docked

Norfolk, Dec. 21.—The battleship Georgia, which was damaged below her armor line by the blades of the collier Vestal's propeller, withdrew from the Schroeder fleet in Hampton Roads and came to the navy yard, where she will be docked at once for examination and repairs.

Scientific Name of Stovaine

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Dr. Jonnesco, who is demonstrating the new anaesthetic, "stovaine," says the correct name for the discovery is benzolethylaminopropanel hydrochloride.

Little Hope For Satolli

Rome, Dec. 21.—Cardinal Satolli, who is suffering from kidney trouble, is kept alive by the use of stimulating injections into the veins. His recovery is almost hopeless.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY JOSEPH MEDILL PATTERSON AND HARRIET FORD.

In "The Fourth Estate" the effectiveness of newspapers in fearlessly exposing political and judicial corruption and the safeguard they are to the public are interestingly and convincingly set forth. A young, earnest newspaper writer and editor is the central figure, and his battles with a dishonest United States judge against big odds and against the cunningly underhanded machinations of the lawyer lobbyist Dupuy form one of the most valuable as well as most entertaining pieces of fiction of the day. That the false judge's daughter, the reigning beauty in the fashionable life of a leading city, should play a sensational part in this gripping story of strong honest men and of strong dishonest men, fighting each other in a war of dollars, evidences the romantic possibilities of the narrative. This is a story of today's America, a fact story torn out of life's book, dealing with the most vital issues that confront every one of us. Romance and humor vie with stirring action for supremacy in this instructive and fascinating novel, which teaches that the path of duty is the path to love and happiness and that in success, nobly won, lie rewards of greater and more lasting value than in a triumph ignobly and more easily gained.

Did You Begin With the Opening Chapter In the Daily Ledger of Monday?

A Free Copy of the Daily Ledger of Monday with the First Chapter on application at Office

Full of Heart Interest as Well as Dramatic and Stirring Episodes.

YOUR APPOINTMENT

is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.

THIS DENTAL OFFICE IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.

Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.

OU RI SK NOTHING HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.

Our charges are never high.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.

DENTIST

37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.

Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Dec. 15 1o-2w

Only One Cent

Means Help for the

Tuberculosis Camp

ADVERTISING

Is a Good Investment.

A CHRISTMAS BOX OF

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Men's Hose

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.

The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.

PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00

Can you beat it for the Price?

GEORGE W. JONES

No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE

NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE

Bought, Sold and Exchanged

Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new

THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy

Aug. 23 1o-tf

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.
Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50
Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2
Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

The platform of Candidate Storrow to the citizens of Boston is the best we have ever seen promulgated by a mayoralty candidate. He stands "for mayoralty candidate. He stands "for ment." As he says: "The problem is how to spend $85,000,000 during the next four years so as to get the most for the people of Boston. It is a big problem. It will require hard work. It will require systematic planning. We must not put our money into miles of useless unconnected sewers. Sewers must be built, but they must be built for use. Money must be saved for schools, more streets, better streets, cleaner streets and other things the people need."

On Friday of last week Miss Susan E. Stevens retired as a teacher in the public schools of Pittsfield after a service of fifty years in that town and city, and will receive a pension of $10 per week. We are glad to see that Pittsfield recognizes the long and faithful services of one of its teachers in this way. Anyone who has taught school fifty years in one town or city should receive a pension, and Quincy is remiss in its duty when it neglects to pension one now teaching in her 55th year at the Coddington school. One who has always kept abreast of times, and today has no equal in the primary grades of the city.

It is a pleasure to quote from the "valedictory of Miss Stephens at Pittsfield:

"Whatever success I have attained in teaching for the past 50 years has been due, first, to the interest my scholars have taken in my work; second, to the respect that parents have taught their children to have for me; third, to my fondness for the work.

"To succeed in anything you must love your work; love it with an unbounding enthusiasm, which will make the doing of it a pleasure. If a teacher likes her work I would advise her to keep at it; if she doesn't like it, she had better find something else to do as quickly as she can. If a teacher enjoys the companionship of children, if she loves to teach them, to see them grow in knowledge, she will be happy and contented in her work. That is the secret of success in her profession."

It is plain why Miss Stevens and Miss Underwood have made a success of teaching.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The American public dearly loves to eat and is willing to pay well for the service. In addition to the host of hotels and restaurants that are already running in New York a huge new restaurant has just been opened. Building and land represent an outlay of over five millions of dollars. The manager, who has had experience in London and Paris, is said to receive $50,000 a year for his services. A band of fifteen pieces plays, and every man in the band is a picked artist. The head waiter has directly under his charge 715 dining hall employes. On the opening night little silver horseshoes were presented to women patrons of the place. It requires no special ability in the guessing line to convince anybody who has ever patronized hotels or restaurants that this gorgeous show place is one that no ordinary pocketbook should become acquainted with; yet on the opening night 2000 persons dined at the new place, and a lot of others were turned away, unable to gain accommodation. To surpass it somebody later will have to construct some other great palace of a place a little more ornate, gay and expensive than this one, and consequently with just a shade higher prices; and the American public will flock to that one too. It is not surprising that a New York hotel manager entertained other hotel men and guests with a dinner the other evening that cost $100 a plate. If anybody can afford these little luxuries it would seem to be a successful New York caterer to the public appetite.—Brockton Enterprise.

During license in Lynn several hundred thousands of dollars was spent in the saloons. During no-license this money is diverted to other channels. It runs in rivulets into a hundred and one channels, for it is expended for rent of better houses, pianos or other musical instruments, winter coats and comfortable winter underwear, toys for children, books, theatres baseball games, and all other things of Lynn that appeal to the people. A considerable portion of it finds its way into the savings banks, and another portion into the churches. More than one child owes its course of study in the High school or even in college, to the saving in the family of the money that would be spent in the saloons were they open. No-license in a community seems to lead to increase in wages in that community, Beverly, which has always been a no-license city, pays the highest average wages in the State, and Brockton, which has been a no-license city for a number of years pays the second highest average wages in the State. Beverly, a community devoted to the manufacture of shoes and shoe machinery, pays an average wage of $640.17 for the men who are employed in its manufacturing industries. The average wage in Brockton is $635.49.—Lynn Item.

A POINSETTIA TABLE.

Red is the Christmas color, and the more vivid a table is the more appropriate. Formerly the tone was given by holly and red ribbon, but lately the poinsettia has superseded everything.

If possible have a huge mass of the natural flowers in the middle of the table. These look lovely when arranged in one of the miniature peach baskets to be had at a florists, gilded if desired. The effect is heightened by having a bunch of poinsettia at each plate.

If one cannot afford the real flowers or but a few of them, they can be made from paper so well as to escape detection, especially if mixed with a few natural blossoms.

The candle shades should be paper poinsettias edged with red bead fringe. The ices may be served in poinsettia cups on a standard representing stem and leaves.

For more elaborate effects garlands of paper poinsettia can be bought and festooned over the windows or from the chandelier to corners of the room. It can also be draped on the tablecloth.

For a place card use a poinsettia blossom with tiny doll's head set in the cup of the flower. Should one not wish to use the poinsettia plants as favors, the small red sleds filled with candy are new and attractive. These can also be filled with waxed papers and used for entrees. After the dessert could be passed a poinsettia pie, from which each guest draws a small gift.

George III. and the Wigmakers.

When George III. ascended the throne of England his wealthy subjects were beginning to leave off wigs and to appear in their own hair, "if they had any." As the sovereign was himself one of the offenders, the perruke makers, who feared a serious loss of trade, prepared a petition in which they prayed his majesty to be graciously pleased to "shave his head" for the good of distressed workmen and wear a wig, as his father had done before him.

When the petitioners walked to the royal palace, however, it was noticed that they wore no wigs themselves. As this seemed unfair to the onlookers they seized several of the leading processionists and cut their hair with any implement that came most readily to hand.

From this incident arose a host of curious caricatures. The wooden leg makers were said to have especial claims on the king's consideration, inasmuch as the conclusion of peace had deprived them of a profitable source of employment; hence the suggestion that his majesty should not only wear a wooden leg himself, but enjoin the people to follow his laudable example.

As Others See Us.

"The man who can pick out the best picture of himself is a rare bird," said a photographer. "Even an author, who is reputedly a poor judge of his own work, exercises vast wisdom in selecting his best book compared with the person who tries to choose his best photograph. Every famous man or woman who has been photographed repeatedly has his or her favorite picture. Usually it is the worst in the collection. It shows him or her with an unnatural expression, sitting or standing in an unnatural attitude. The inability to judge of his best picture must be due to the average man's ignorance of how he really looks, or perhaps it can be partly attributed to a desire to look other than he does. A stout man will swear that the photograph most nearly like him is the one that makes him look thin, a thin man the one that makes him look stout, the solemn man selects the jolliest picture, the jovial man the most cadaverous.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Famous Quotation.

A story about Keats is quoted by the late Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson in his "Lives" of disciples of Aesculapius. Mr. Stephens, a friend of the doctor, once told him that one evening at twilight when he and Keats were sitting together in their student days, Stephens at his medical books, Keats engrossed in his dreaming, Keats called out to his friend that he had composed a new line—"A thing of beauty is a constant joy."

"What think you of that, Stephens?"

"It has the true ring, but is wanting in some way," replies the latter as he dips once more into his medical studies.

An interval of silence, and again the poet, "'A thing of beauty is a joy forever.' What think you of that, Stephens?"

"That it will live forever."

A happy prophecy indeed!

JUSTICE LURTON OF TENNESSEE

An Estimate of the Jurist Nominated by President Taft to Succeed Justice Peckham on the Supreme Bench of the United States.

Tribute Paid to His Ability In Rendering Decisions In Monopolistic Cases --- What Judge Alton B. Parker Says of Lurton's Qualifications.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

IT is not often that a president of the United States is called upon to name a member of the supreme court. There are only nine justices in our highest tribunal, and they remain in office practically for life, although theoretically they may retire after seventy, provided they have served ten years. As a matter of fact few of them do retire. Three of the present members of the court are over seventy, Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan and Brewer. All of them have served more than ten years, and hence they are eligible for retirement on full pay. But do they avail themselves of the opportunity? Not perceptibly. In this they only follow precedent, for voluntary retirement has been the exception in that court. Many members of it have served till over eighty. Very few have retired, except for ill health.

Justice Horace Harmon Lurton, the man nominated by President Taft to succeed the late Rufus W. Peckham, is sixty-five. He has been for sixteen years a United States circuit judge and for seven years prior to that time was on the supreme bench of Tennessee, part of the time as chief justice. Justice Lurton is an ex-Confederate soldier and a Democrat. As Justice Peckham was also a Democrat the new appointment does not disturb the political balance of the court. The other Democrats in the body are Chief Justice Fuller and Justice White, three out of nine. White was also a Confederate soldier. A rather striking coincidence is that there are likewise two ex-Union soldiers in the court, Justices Harlan of Kentucky and Holmes of Massachusetts.

JUDGE HORACE H. LURTON.

MRS. VAN DEVENTER, DAUGHTER OF JUDGE LURTON.

Served With Taft Seven Years.

The connection between President Taft and Justice Lurton has been of the closest. When Lurton was appointed United States district judge in 1893 it was Judge Taft, already a member of that court, who administered to him the oath of office. The two served together for seven years. Then Taft went to the Philippines in 1900, and it was through the instrumentality of Judge Lurton that General Luke E. Wright, also of Tennessee, was made Taft's associate and finally his successor as governor. It is not impossible that Lurton also had something to do with making another Tennessean, Jacob M. Dickinson, secretary of war in President Taft's cabinet. It is known that Taft urged Roosevelt to appoint Judge Lurton to the supreme bench, but Roosevelt had other views and gave the office to his attorney general, William H. Moody.

For some time the supreme court has been working with seven members, the death of Justice Peckham and the illness of Justice Moody having caused two temporary vacancies. Fortunately Moody is now practically recovered, and this, with the confirmation of Justice Lurton, will again make a full bench. It is fortunate that it is so not only because of a congestion of cases before the court, but for the further reason that two very important trust suits are to come up for hearing this winter, that against the tobacco trust and the famous decision of Circuit Judge Sanborn dissolving the Standard Oil company. Just what the attitude of the new justice will be toward the government cases against the trusts is a matter that is causing much comment in Washington and throughout the country.

One of the arguments urged against his appointment was that he had decided an employer's liability case against labor, and he was further charged with corporation leanings. Against this view it is urged that nobody knows Judge Lurton's record and habits of thought better than President Taft. Not only so, but the only and original John Wesley Gaines, the former congressman from Tennessee, who used to take such keen delight in making the corporations jump sideways and turn double back handsprings, says that the allegation that Judge Lurton is a trust jurist is absolutely false. "I wouldn't support my brother if he was a trust owned man or judge," said Mr. Gaines, "and I know what I am talking about when I say that Judge Lurton is no one sided man in anything. His decisions on monopolistic cases are considered the greatest in existence in this country and have been sustained by the supreme court. Three of his decisions were cited the other day by Judge Sanborn in the Standard Oil case."

Supported by Democrats.

Judge Alton B. Parker, Democratic candidate for president in 1904, may not be as good anti-trust authority as Mr. Gaines, but from the fact that Parker was also urged for this vacancy on the supreme bench his tribute to his successful rival is not only graceful, but evidently sincere. Says Judge Parker:

"I know Judge Lurton both socially and professionally, and in my judgment one better equipped for service in that greatest of all courts, the supreme court of the United States, could not be found. The country is to be congratulated."

MRS. H. H. LURTON.

HORACE H. LURTON, JR.

It is told of the new supreme court justice that at one time he had before him the case of a Tennessee bad man and gun fighter who was known to have several killings notched on his gun handle. Thinking to intimidate Lurton, the bad man, fully armed, entered the office of the judge and locked the door. Lurton looked the bad man out of countenance until he unlocked the door and slunk out of the room. I do not vouch for this yarn, but if it is true it shows that the Tennessee jurist either has plenty of nerve or a hypnotic eye.

While a soldier Lurton was twice taken prisoner, once at the surrender of Fort Donelson, after which he escaped and re-enlisted, and again as a member of Morgan's famous raid. This time he did not get away till the end of the war. He was born in in Kentucky in 1844, ran away from college to enter the army, was admitted to the bar in 1867 and entered practice at Clarksville, Tenn. In 1875 he was made chancellor, but resigned three years later to resume the practice of law. He was once a bank president and is trustee in one or two southern universities.

CHRISTMAS AT POST OFFICE.

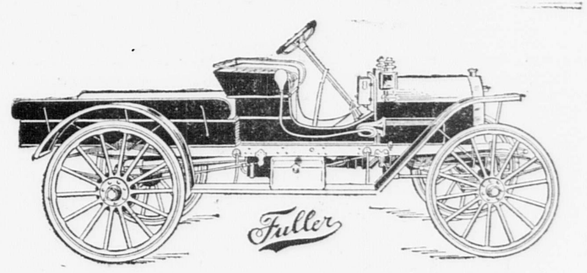
The Quincy post office has been doig a large money order business this month, and large sums are being sent to the old country. Up to date about 700 foreign money orders have been issued this month. These orders are for different sums varying from $5 up. Most of the foreign orders go to Sweden and Norway, although quite a few go to Rusia and Italy. Just how much has been forwarded to the old country they could not readily tell at the post office. The largest day's business in the money order line was two weeks ago when over $3,000 was sent off.

Although the business in this time has been heavy this month. It was said at the post office this noon that the volume of business this Christmas would not vary much from other years. Quincy has a large foreign population and has always done a large money order business.

☞The biggest store in the city for men's furnishings is offering some fine Christmas goods. Just read Remick Bros. ad, and see for yourself. Don't stop at reading the ad but visit the store before the best goods are sold.

☞Late shoppers will find some timely suggestions in the advertisements in Wednesday's Ledger and also be able to get fresh goods at very reasonable prices. Do not fail to get the Ledger and read the ads.

Until New Years
USE THE
Red Cross Stamps



JUST A MINUTE
How about a case of our
FANCY DRINKS
for your
Christmas Dinner
German Seltzer
For Digestion
Temperance
BEER
For your table drinks
Mixed Tonic
For your Company
CALL, WRITE OR PHONE
GERMAN SELTZER MFG. CO.
QUINCY, MASS.
Dec. 20—4t
Phone 146-1

WHEN IN WANT
OF GOOD
Plants and Flowers
for XMAS GIFTS call up
WM. PATTERSON
HE HAS THEM
Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths
Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias
at Reasonable Prices.
92 South Central Ave., Wollaston
Tel. 392-1 Quincy. Dec 20-4t

Two Shows at Music Hall, Christmas
Matinee at 2.30. Evening at 8.
3 ACTS, 5,000 FEET MOVING PICTURES.
Advance Sale of Coupon Reserved Seat Tickets.
GET YOURS TODAY
Admission 10 Cents. Reserved 20 Cents. Dec. 18-6t

YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER
Will not be complete without having some of
OUR FAMOUS
MINCE or SQUASH PIES
on the table. We guarantee absolute purity and cleanliness
We use no substitutes or adulterations.
Just Like Mother Used to Make.
BARNARD'S PURE FOOD BAKERY
1587 Hancock Street, Quincy. Dec. 18-6t

A GOOD CAR.

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.
For Sale by
S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.
Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

Our Educational System Overlooks the Wage Earner.

By Dr. JAMES C. MONAGHAN, Secretary of the International Society For the Promotion of Industrial Education.

MANY universities are putting the black hand on our schools, restricting and confining courses of study, sending out their "extension course" and demanding that the schools serve as feeders for the colleges, when ONLY ONE OUT OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY EVER GOES TO COLLEGE AND ONE IN THIRTY-FIVE EVER GETS TO THE HIGH SCHOOL.

IT IS A SYSTEM UPSIDE DOWN, A PYRAMID ON ITS APEX.

Education is not what President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia says it is, "an entering into our inheritance." The accumulation of all learning, admirable as it may be, is only KNOWLEDGE, of no greater service than a FINE LIBRARY WHICH NEVER IS OPENED.

Abraham Lincoln did not know most of the things that are taught now, but he LEARNED TO READ THINGS AND COMPARE THEM WITH LIFE, and education is but FITTING ONE FOR LIFE—and for death.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS ARE TAUGHT TO BE ASHAMED OF WORK. THE BOY WHO GRADUATES FROM SCHOOL WITH HIS CONCEITED IDEAS, HIS ABSOLUTE UNFITNESS TO BRING RESULTS, HIS DISRESPECT FOR HIS PARENTS AND ALL AUTHORITY, PREFERS TO GET A "SALARY" OF $15 RATHER THAN TO WORK FOR WAGES OF $25. HE WON'T FLING OFF HIS COAT AND WORK AS HIS SUCCESSFUL FATHER DID.

Ingredients of Ayer's Hair Vigor: Sulphur, Glycerin, Quinin, Sodium Chlorid, Capsicum, Sage, Alcohol, Water, Perfume.
Anything injurious here? Ask your doctor.
Anything of merit here? Ask your doctor.
Will it stop falling hair? Ask your doctor.
Will it destroy dandruff? Ask your doctor.
Does not Color the Hair
J. C. AYER COMPANY, Lowell, Mass.

TO ADVERTISERS

If you want help in writing up your Christmas advertisements (the kind that will bring returns) 'phone the Ledger Office, Quincy 425, and our Ad Man will call. He will work jointly with all who desire to make their Christmas sales better than ever before. This applies to present and prospective advertisers in the
QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

OBJECTION TO THE SITE

Mt. Pleasant People Do Not Want Tuberculosis Camp

Editors of Daily Ledger:

In the Sunday issue of a Boston paper, there appeared an article on the proposed site for the Tuberculosis camp on Mt. Pleasant, South Quincy, in which Mrs. Royal, the vice president of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, is reported to have said that the petition of the residents of Mt. Pleasant that the camp be not erected there, did not originate with the said residents, but was the work of a prominent doctor in Quincy who was formerly an officer of the society and who was recently deposed through her instrumentality.

In all justice and fairness to this doctor (who is unknown to me) I desire to contradict the above statement and to give the true story of the petition which is as follows:

Some weeks ago an article appeared in an issue of one of the Quincy daily papers saying that the committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society had selected a site for their camp on Mt. Pleasant, and would proceed at once to build.

With another resident of Mt. Pleasant I visited the proposed site, and, believing that it was not a suitable place for such an institution, on account of its nearness to the houses, immediately drew up a petition asking that it be not built there, and went among the residents of Mt. Pleasant for their signatures.

Now in regard to the site selected. Many of the houses on Mt. Pleasant (in some of which there are young children) are so near that if the camp is built there it will be possible for the occupants of the houses to look directly into the camp, and I am sure that it would not be pleasant for these occupants to have to look out on the poor unfortunates confined there, in all stages of the dread disease. On warm nights in the summer when the residents of Mt. Pleasant are taking comfort out of doors (or the doors and windows of their homes are open) they are bound to be disturbed by the coughing of the inmates of the camp, especially so if from time to time it becomes necessary to enlarge the camp and a number of patients are confined there.

While I am heartily in favor of such a camp being built in Quincy, and sincerely hope that it will be, still I must say that in my opinion the site as selected certainly is not a suitable one, and that there are a number of other places in Quincy, on higher and drier land, just as easy of access, and away from habitation, where this camp could be built and maintained to better advantage.

I will add that after this said petition was filed with the chairman of the committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, several doctors and men of affairs in Quincy were interviewed on this subject and in nearly every case they agreed that the proposed site was not a proper place for the camp, the chief objection being its nearness to the houses on Mt. Pleasant.

Frank R. McGram
Bartholemew Duran.

South Quincy, Dec. 20, 1909.

LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS.

Dear Santa Clause:

I am a little girl 7 years old. My papa is dead. I have a stister and a brother. My Mother has to bring us to the Day Nursery. Dear Santa Clause will you please bring us a pare of mittenes and a pare of stoking thier is many poor children down the Day Nursery. Mamma goes out working. Dear Santa Clause will you please come up the Day Nursery our Nursery is at 96 Garfield street, Quincy.

Alice Johnson.

The above letter was given to the matron of the Day Nursery by little Alice to be mailed to Santa Claus.

Surely there are many readers of the Ledger who would like to contribute something to help make the Christmas celebration at the nursery a specially happy occasion this year. Contributions of money may be sent to Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth, President or Mrs. R. R. Allen, Treasurer, Presidents hill, Quincy.

The H. L. Kincaide Annex seems to be the mecca for all the children in town, and the store is crowded with eager buyers. Santa Claus and reasonable prices are big attractions.

Watch the Christmas bargains advertised in the Ledger. It will be a great help in selecting your gifts.

QUINCY CHURCHES

ATLANTIC METHODIST. .

Christmas Sunday was observed at the Atlantic Mchodist Episcopal church on Sunday. In the morning the pastor, Rev. W. J. Heath, preached a Christmas sermon, taking for his text, "The Birth of a King." A large mixed chorus choir rendered two beautiful selections.

In the evening at 6 o'clock, the Sunday school gave a Christmas concert, the primary department furnishing most of the program. Not one of the children had to be prompted, and much credit is due Miss Mabel Stewart and Mrs. Fred Burr, who trained them.

The recitations were by George Burr, Edward Stewart, Ruth Parker, Marjorie Dane, Charlotte Fox, Irma Spinney, Edna Benson, Florence Brown, Freddie Wilcox, Catherine MacDonald, Alice Beal, Mary Beal, and Thelma Morton. There were also several exercises by boys and girls songs by the mixed choir and by the school, songs by the primary department, a solo by George Dean, and address by the pastor.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST... ...

The preaching both morning and evening was by the pastor. The morning text was taken from James 4:2, "Ye have not, because ye ask not," showing the wonderful power and possibilities of prayer. The preacher said in part that two words should go side by side. "Work and prayer." Great men are great because they are great workers. The names of noted artists and writers were mentioned that had won their fame by hard work. He said that the text might well read, "Ye have not, because ye work not." The reason why so many are not great is because they simply do things that are actually required. Prayer was emphasized very strongly. The prayer of a righteous man availeth much. What prayer has done in the past, prayer will do now. God will not always answer the call of men, because men will not hear the call of God. One is to be pitied who never prays when the power and possibilities are so wonderful.

The subject of the evening service was the sixth in series on the "Buts" of Scripture. "Pleasant But"—Men are more pleasant to the world than to God. Pleasant without, but not within. God uses clean men to convey the salt of the earth (which is Christianity) to the world.

The Walther Bible class was well attended on Sunday. A good interest is being shown among the men, and the class adds much to the Bible school.

The Neighborhood prayer meetings held each week Tuesday evening are proving to be a great success and help. This week the meetings will be held at the home of Mrs. D. M. Dicey, 52 Pope street, Montclair. The pastor will be in charge.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The pastor will preach a sermon appropriate to Christmas on Sunday, Dec. 26. Immediately following the morning service of worship the regular communion service will be held. All (no matter to what church they may belong) that desire to unite in the grateful commemoration of the life and character of Jesus Christ, are cordially invited to participate in this memorial service. "Christmas" is the subject of the Y. P. R. U. meeting at 7 in the evening; leader, Lucien Thayer; speaker, Miss Gertrude Green.

The Christmas entertainment will be held at the church on Thursday evening, Dec. 23. Members of the Sunday school with parents and home friends should meet in the audience room not a minute later than 6.30 P. M. A play introducing flying machimes and other timely attractions will be given by twenty of the children. No one connected with the society can afford to miss this crowning good time of the year. Members of the school will bring gifts to be given to those less fortunate and similar gifts, not necessarily toys, but useful preesnts as well are expected from all others who come to share in the pleasure of the evening.

L. O. L. OFFICERS.

Bay View, L. O. L., No. 187, elected the following officers for the ensuing year at a meeting on Monday evening:

W. M.—Nicholas Williams.
D. M.—Murdoch McKinnon.
Recording Secretary—Mal. McLeod.
Financial Secretary—Alex Ross.
Treasurer—W. F. McCalder.
Chaplin—Rev. A. M. Thompson.
D. of C.—James Ross.
I. Tyler—Frank Abbott.
O. Tyler—Neil McInnis.
Foreman of Committee—Malcolm Stewart.
Trustee for 3 years—Malcolm McKenzie.
Delegate to S. G. lodge D. F. Tinney.
Delegate to State Lodge—M. McLeod.

Installation will take place Jan. 3 at Orange hall, Hancock street.

HILL FOR BETTER FARMING.

Declares That Present Methods Soon Will Not Meet Demand.

"Seek a system of farming in the United States which shall greatly increase the productiveness of the soil," advised James J. Hill, the great railroad builder, in an address before the National Corn exposition in Omaha, Neb., the other day.

Mr. Hill warned the congress that the time is not far distant when the farms of the United States as tilled at present will not feed the people of the country. He said:

"There are final limits already in sight to the quantity of tillable land. The productivity of the soil and the food supply as compared with acreage and with population both decline. Our total agricultural product has been growing so rapidly and so immensely that we find it hard to realize that this may be entirely consistent with failure at the same time to keep pace with the growth of national needs.

"The country, unless there shall be a change, is approaching a time when it must import wheat to meet home needs. Other food products also lag behind the constant new demand. Since that demand cannot be escaped and since not to meet it means want or a lowering of the standard of life and comfort in this country, which no American would wish to see, there is but one course before the nation. That is to increase the productiveness of the farm so that the earth's gifts may year by year equal or exceed the people's requirements."

NOVEL MISSION VILLA.

Californian to Have Attractive Residence on Balboa Island.

An island villa home which promises to be one of the attractions of the southern California coast will shortly be started by W. S. Collins on a small tract of land which he is having cut off from the north end of Balboa island. Plans have been prepared for the entire project, including elaborate landscaping and the building of a retaining wall and a bridge across the channel to the main island. The little island which Mr. Collins is cutting off for a site is to be when all the dredging and filling work is completed 500 feet by 250 feet in size. A retaining wall of concrete and stone will be built around the isle in what will be roughly an oval shape. There will be four mission style entrances at the ends and sides of this wall. The pier ends will be treated in pergola effect. The bridge will be of the arch type and of concrete. It will be wide enough to accommodate automobiles.

The house itself will stand at the center of the oval. It will be of mission type and of re-enforced concrete construction. The dimensions will be 50 by 80 feet, including porches. The living room will be 18 by 32 feet and contain a large stone mantel. The ceilings throughout will be beamed. The grounds will be terraced, and sunken gardens will be arranged in the four angles formed by the walks leading to the wall gates.

A CENTRAL BANK.

Would Be Under Standard Oil Control, Says Leslie M. Shaw.

Former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, speaking to about 400 business men at the board of trade meeting in Indianapolis the other night, declared that there was no doubt in the minds of those who had studied the proposed central bank that such an institution would be owned or at least controlled by the Standard Oil company. Mr. Shaw added:

"I am frank to say that it seems to me quite un-American to place with any group of men the power to contract or expand our currency at will and to grant or withhold credit to any bank, to any merchant and to any corporation at pleasure.

"But, lest it be charged that I am appealing to popular prejudice, I am willing to go on record that if we are to have a central bank I shall welcome control by the Standard Oil company or by the United States Steel corporation, though preferably by both combined. This is not based on personal friendship, but it is based wholly on the question of fitness for the task."

Moving Pictures by Day.

By a new development in Paris of the cinematograph pictures can be shown with brilliant effect in the full light of day and even in the brightest of artificial illuminants. Hitherto it has been necessary to hold such exhibitions in darkened rooms, a system in which the danger of sudden panic is always a possibility to be considered. The new apparatus renders this quite unnecessary. The brighter the light the better the pictures show up. The process is simple. The lantern is placed behind the screen, which may be either of dull glass or prepared canvas, and the essence of the invention is a dark chamber in which the projection is directly effected.

Souvenir Chair For President Taft.

President Taft is to have a new chair, which is being made in one of the furniture factories in Grand Rapids, Mich. It is to be a souvenir of the trip he made as secretary of war to Japan and the Philippines. At that time members of the party secured several koa logs. These were brought home and seasoned and after being sawed into lumber at Grand Rapids are being made into chairs for various members of the Taft party.

A Christmas Query.

"Why does Santa reindeer use?"
Asked eager little Kate.
"This time of year I think snow deer Much more appropriate!"
—Lippincott's Magazine.

CITY COUNCIL

(Continued from Page 1.)

Public Works shall inspect all public buildings in the process of erection and report to him thereon during the progress of the work. That no payment shall be made under the contract until a report in writing signed by the inspector has been filed with the Commissioner and City Treasurer, which report shall state if in his opinion such payment is properly due. A similar report shall be made before final payment, stating if in his opinion the contract has been fully complied with. It also provided a penalty of $100 for violation of the ordinance.

A lengthy discussion followed. Councilman Richards said the idea was to have some one in authority that will assume the responsibility if the inspector entered a protest.

City Solicitor McAnarney in reply to questions analyzed the proposed order, telling wherein it was faulty. It made no difference if the contract had been violated the contractor could collect his money under the contract.

The order raises a grave question whether or not the City Council has a right to abridge the power of the Mayor. The Legislature places the authority and responsibility on the Mayor, and the Council can not divest the Mayor of the authority given him by the Legislature.

Councilman Abele said the proposed ordinance was to provide that the inspector should have charge of public buildings without extra compensation. He agreed that we did not have the authority to withhold payment of the money.

Councilman Bryant by questions tried to find out who was in authority in the case of the erection of a public building.

The City Solicitor replied that the title rests in the city and not in any one man.

Councilman Bryant—Who is the agent of the city?

City Solicitor—Under the charter the Mayor is the supreme officer of the corporation and if the inspector finds defects he should report to the Mayor.

Continuing, the City Solicitor said that he had grave doubts if the Council could select the employees of the Commissioner. The ordinance undertakes to say that the contractor shall not get his pay until the creation of the Council gives it his approval. He doubted if the Council could do this.

Councilman Abele said the City Solicitor lays himself open to giving hasty opinions before the Council. When we ask questions we are entitled to more consideration than he seems willing to give at this time. He did not think his analysis of the ordinance fair. He objected to more or less political opinions given this Council. The report of the inspector is simply a memoranda of what he finds. What brought this up was the Coddington school. The inspector reported that the contract was not being complied with. At the Lincoln school not even the building ordinance was fully complied with, and it was objected to by the inspector. The object of this ordinance was that we may have a record and an inspector who shall give his whole time to the office.

Councilman Bryant said that the Council drafted an ordinance. When the city is erecting a building the inspector cannot say what they shall do. We are trying to fix it so that he can see to it that the contract is lived up to. The Council wants something so that if a building is wrong the blame can be placed where it belongs.

After some further discussion, in which Councilman Richards, Freeman McDevitt Whiton and Abele took part, Councilman Whiton moved to amend by striking out certain sections which left the order so that it provided the inspector should give his whole time to the office and should receive $1,000 per year.

The amendment was lost by a vote of 7 yes and 10 no.

The substitute order was then accepted. The order was ordered to a second reading and the rules were suspended, and the order put on its final passage. It failed to pass on roll call, the vote being 10 yes and 8 no, as follows:

YES—Abele, Beal, Bryant Freeman Gardner McDevitt Moir Richards, Whiton—10.

NO—Bishop Carey. Charrington, Flynn, Hadlock, Russell Smith Walsh—8.

ABSENT—Bean Flaherty, Nelson, Nowland, 4.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs.

BOULEVARDS.

Councilman Freeman for the special Committee on Boulevards made a report for the committee which was accepted. The report was an important one and will be published in full in Wednesday's Daily Ledger.

The Special Committee on new industries reported recommending that the communications received by the committee from the American Cloak Co., and the Sorosis Shoe Co., and other letters be referred to the Board of Trade and other Improvement Associations of the city. Accepted.

MORE FIRE ALARM BOXES.

Councilman Flynn offered an order for a fire alarm box on the corner of South and Chubbuck streets, and on the corner of South street and Winthrop park. Referred to Finance Committee.

A RECONSIDERATION.

Upon motion of Councilman Whiton the vote on the order relative to the Inspector of Buildings was reconsidered and the order laid on the table.

Councilman Bryant moved and it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be until Thursday at 7.35 o'clock.

Councilman Russell offered on order for a light on the corner of Quarry and Kidder streets. Referred to the Executive.

Councilman Richards offered an order for $100 for a skating pond in Ward Three and other sections of the city. Referred to Finance Committee.

MAYOR EXPLAINS.

At this point the Mayor said he desired to make a statement as to the Coddington school building. He said that the inspector had reported about certain things and that he had taken up the matter with the architect, and as the architect said the plans were being complied with he took his word for it in preference to the Inspector.

Councilman Bryant offered an order transferring $185.33 from pay of men of the Fire department to horse shoeing and keeping of the same department. Adopted.

The order taking land for a school lot at Montclair by right of eminent domain for a school house was taken from the Committee, on motion of Councilman Bryant, and referred to the next City Council.

Upon motion of Councilman Hadlock the order relative to the salary of the City Engineer was recalled from the committee.

After some discussion, during which Principal Assessor Adams informed the Council that under the $12 limit the Council could appropriate about $30,000 more next year than the present year, the order was passed to be ordained by a vote of 13 yes and 4 no as follows:

YES—Beal, Carey, Charrington, Flynn, Gardner, Gilson, Hadlock, McDevitt, Richards, Russell, Smith, Walsh, Whiton.—13.

NO—Abele, Bishop, Bryant, Freeman—4.

ABSENT—Bean, Flaherty, Moir, Nelson, Nowland.—5.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs.

Adjourned at 10.48 until Thursday, Dec. 23.

A GOOD CUSTOM.

The custom established by a great many large concerns in the larger cities of giving employees a certain percentage of the cash sales of Christmas week, is in vogue this year, as in the past, at the store of R. E. Foy & Co., Quincy and Water streets Quincy Adams. It has always been the policy of Mr. Foy to treat his employees well, and the result is a hearty co-operation of employees and employe to make the business the finest in Quincy.

Patrons of R. E. Foy & Co., should bear in mind the arrangement for this week and help swell the fund which will be divided among the employees at Christmas.

Oh, cherished city mine,
Rouse that great soul of thine,
The siege to raise!
Up from thy hills of stone,
To thine own heart alone,
The dread White Plague has flown
To lay waste thy homes!

Let all thy people learn,
Let all thy sons be stern,
That foe to rout!
Let no low act of treason,
Blind thy brave men to reason,
Let strength and means be given
Freely to help the Fight!

Thus shall the siege be raised,
Thus all thy works be praised,
The camp shall stand!
Through sun and rain and hail,
Though wrong men's scorn assail,
God's own cure shall prevail
To thy great good, for aye!

Christmas Flowers

CUT FLOWERS OF ALL KINDS

Wreaths, Potted Plants and all Floral Designs for the Holidays can be found at our store.

Flowers make appropriate gifts for mother sister, sweetheart or your sick friends.

We have Poinsettias, Azaleas, Cyclamen, Ferns, Palms, Primroses, Jerusalem Cherries, etc.

CALL TODAY.

CITY FLOWER STORE
CARL JOHNSON, Prop.
1361 Hancock St., City Sq., Tel, 275-2
Dec. 20 4t

Very Attractive and Spacious.

Design 831, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This plan contains everything that is required in making a home complete. The wide projecting cornices with large brackets give an individuality to the house which is not possible in the old colonial design, and the expense is not any more than for the plain looking residence. There is a basement under the entire house. Size of house is thirty-five feet wide and twenty-seven feet six inches deep. First story nine feet six inches high and second nine feet. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $4,750.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 831 for $30.

GLENN L. SAXTON.

Only a Few Days Left
TO BUY YOUR
Christmas Presents

We Have Something for Father, Mother, Sister and Brother.

We have a Complete assortment of Carving Knives and Forks, Skates, Sleds, Jack Knives, Safety Razors, Razor Strops, Punching Bags, Foot Balls, Family Scales, Daisy Air Rifles, Flash Lights and Batteries, Electrical Toys for Children.

NATHAN AMES,
5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.
D e. 21 tf

Are You Puzzled About What to Give?

If you are, let us help you decide. Our cases gleam with beautiful presents We shall gladly make suggestions to you and allow you a careful inspection of any articles we have. A giver is judged by his gifts so it is necessary that you buy the best. To be sure of getting the best, select a store that has a reputation of handling only the best. That is where we help you.

DIAMONDS

We buy and sell below regular marked value. To be convinced come and look them over.

WATCHES. We carry all grades. Our guarantee is a bond that cannot be broken as we are here to make good.

JEWELRY. The high grade we carry in stock is warranted to give satisfaction in every way and returnable if not so.

SILVERWARE. In Sterling Silver we carry a full line of Table Flat ware. In plated goods—Rogers 1847, and Rogers & Bros. Star Brand and also other makes.

In Tea Sets and other hollow ware our leading makers are Fairpoint, F. B. Rogers and Pool Silver Co. A big stock of Berry Dishes, Nut Bowls, Chocolate Pots, etc.

In Brassware we have Candle Sticks, Jardineres, Smoking Sets and Tea Sets at the lowest prices.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

For Ladies. Toilet Sets, Manicure, Puff Boxes, Jewel Cases, Photo Frames, Nail Files, Bracelets, Lockets, Chains, Brooches, Hat Pins, Buckles.

For Men. Smoking Sets, Shaving Mugs, Ink Stands, Military Brushes, Clothes Brushes, Fountain Pens, Gold Pencils, Cuff Links, Scarf Pins, Emblem Pins, Watch Chains, Fobs.

ALL HAND ENGRAVING FREE. OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Sandberg Bros.
JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE
Dec, 20 tf

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 448
May 2 0-'y

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 402-3 Quincy / 228-3 Quincy / 308-7 Milton
1p-4f

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St.,
QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building,
294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets,
QUINCY.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 343-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
38 Huntington Avenue, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 209
Oct. 1. tf

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 585-3 Jan. 17-tf

(ADVERTISE.)

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING

Female Machinists a Chicago Institution—Boston Girls as "Dog Walkers"—Engineer's Daughter Runs Engine In Missouri.

WOMEN are preferred as machinists in many of the big plants in Chicago. Foreigners are mostly employed, because American girls, as explained by a foreman, object to coming in contact with the oil and dust of the shop and because the wages are small. Many of the employees were married women who found that sort of life a failure, and they drifted into the machine shops. They learn the trade much more readily than men or boys. Three dollars a week is paid to beginners in most of the plants.

⁂

A new field for the wage earning woman of Boston—namely, the calling of "dog walkers," has been opened by the Animal Rescue league of that city. Young girls are reported to be much in demand among the Bostonese, who employ them to lead their pet dogs out for daily airings. The president of the league pronounces the work easy and healthful.

⁂

The Woman's Christian Temperance union at its recent convention in Omaha decided to organize its own printing plant in which to do its own work, to abolish the Chautauqua salute for sanitary reasons and to establish Feb. 17, the anniversary of the death of Miss Frances Willard, as a special memorial day on which contributions to the Frances Willard memorial fund are to be made.

⁂

Miss M. Cary Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr college and chairman of the committee that has gathered statistics concerning college women in the United States, reports that when men and women were educated together there were no more marriages than when the sexes were educated apart. Her report also showed that married college women had an average of 3.6 children each, while noncollege women had an average of 3.5 children, although college women married later in life.

⁂

Mary Adelman, sixteen years old, is believed to be the youngest of her sex to understand the running of a railroad locomotive. Her father is a veteran engineer on the Chicago and Alton railroad. Mary used to meet his train when it reached the end of the old engineer's run and ride with him on the engine to the roundhouse. She did this every run for many months and in that way picked up her knowledge of the locomotive. She was wonderfully quick, and now she is able to take a locomotive for a short run, but she never does so alone, although her father believes that she is competent to handle an engine as well as he is. The home of the old engineer is Slater, Mo.

⁂

Queen Alexandra's bedroom at Balmoral castle is paneled in pale rose silk, with hangings of white satin, those of the bed being surmounted by the imperial crown. The curtains of her boudoir are of ivory silk bordered with hellotrope. Here the panelings are of ivory silk in gilt mountings. Beauvois tapestry, French carpet and Louis XVI. furniture give the room a splendid appearance. Her majesty's bathroom is fitted with a bath of Grecian marble from quarries which had not been worked for 1,000 years.

⁂

Miss Rose L. Fritz, the champion typist of this country, says that piano playing is a hindrance to typewriting—at least she finds it so in her own case. The successive stroke on the key of a type machine is the proper one. She never allows her finger to rest upon a letter—in fact, she takes the letters off her machine and substitutes celluloid caps as being more comfortable for the finger tips. She never looks at the letters on her keyboard, having accustomed herself to that when she was learning. She has educated her fingers so that she knows by them when she makes a mistake. She also says, what most people know who use the type machine, that there can be no speed unless the machine is absolutely clean.

⁂

A young woman has been called to the pastorate of the First Congregational church in Tewksbury, Mass., and will take up her duties during the present autumn. The Rev. Sarah A. Dixon was formerly an assistant pastor at Lowell. She has traveled extensively and is an entertaining speaker and quite progressive. The church in Tewksbury which will be under her charge is an old organization and has always had ministers of the opposite sex.

⁂

In South Carolina $20,000 has been subscribed for a monument to commemorate the work of southern women in the civil war. No woman was permitted to give a penny. The monument is a tribute from southern chivalry, and when it is ready to be set up it probably will be placed in Richmond, the capital of the Confederacy, where already there are many tokens in the Confederate museum of work done by the mothers, wives and sisters of the "lost cause."

MARY DALE.

A PUZZLER.

The Enigma the Secretary Was Unable to Decipher.

From Horace Greeley's time great men have been noted for their poor chirography, and in this connection Joaquin Miller, the "poet of the Sierras," is no exception. But the best story regarding the poet's handwriting that I have heard came recently from the secretary of a well known local club. It seems that the club desired to have the poet address the organization at an annual affair at which an elaborate program had been prepared. The secretary addressed a letter to Joaquin telling him of the purpose of the jinks and requesting his co-operation. He was scheduled for a recitation.

In due time there came an answer from the poet. It was in his own hand and covered four pages. In vain the secretary pored over the manuscript. He turned it over to the president, the board of directors and the members in turn, but all failed to decipher the scrawl. The question before the club was, Has Miller accepted or has he declined?

The secretary finally took the matter into his own hands and addressed the following note to Miller:

My Dear Mr. Miller—Your letter received, but I have been unable to determine whether you have accepted or declined our invitation. If you will be present on the date mentioned will you kindly make a cross on the bottom of this letter? If it will be impossible for you to appear will you kindly draw a circle?

In due time the letter came back marked as requested, but the secretary could not decide whether it was a cross or a circle.—San Francisco Call.

Don't Seek Trouble.

Dispel that prophetic gloom which dives into futurity to extract sorrow from days and years to come and which considers its own unhappy visions as the decrees of Providence. We know nothing of tomorrow; our business is to be good and happy today.—Sydney Smith.

A Popular Role.

Mrs. Rogers had the barrel of russet apples placed in the attic because they were not quite ripe enough to eat, and she warned her three boys, whose ages range from five to eleven years, not to touch them.

Then one rainy day when she sought the attic to get something from a trunk she came full upon her sons surrounded by apple cores. At her approach two of the boys drew closer together, but the third, a little distance off, who lay on his stomach contentedly munching an apple, apparently paid no attention to his mother's entrance.

"WHATEVER ARE YOU DOING?"

"Jack! Henry! Willie!" she exclaimed reproachfully. "Whatever are you doing? And those apples! Didn't I tell you not to touch them?"

"Yes, mamma," replied Jack, the eldest, "but we're not really eating them. We're acting the garden of Eden. Willie and I are Adam and Eve, and Henry, over there, is the serpent trying to lead us to our downfall by showing us how good the apples are."

"But," began the mother as sternly as she was able, "you two must have been eating apples. Henry hasn't done it all. I see as many as ten cores around you."

"Oh, yeth," returned Willie, the youngest, "we've all been taking turnth being the therpent."—Green's Fruit Grower.

Mistaken Identity.

A man going home at a late hour in the night saw that the occupants of a house standing flush with the street had left a window up, and he decided to warn them and prevent a burglary.

Putting his head into the window he called out:

"Hello, good peop"—

That was all he said. A whole pailful of water struck him in the face, and as he staggered back a woman shrieked out:

"Didn't I tell you what you'd get if you wasn't home by 9 o'clock!"

Counterfeiters.

Tommy had been reading a great deal in the newspapers about senators and congressmen and lawmaking, and his mind was filled with legislative matters. On many occasions his father had explained as best he could the articles of which the newspapers treated and took pains to voice his opinion, which was not always favorable.

With his mind so actively fertilized and growing Tommy could not help asking his father one day:

"Say, pop, why is a senator like a counterfeiter?"

"That's too strong for me," replied his father. "What's the answer?"

"Because," answered Tommy triumphantly, "he makes and tries to pass some pretty bad bills."

The Governor's Pardon

Story of a Man Who Showed Himself Brave and True.

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

The snow had been falling steadily for three days, and the long, low house at the edge of the woods was almost buried from sight.

A tall young man wearing a fur lined overcoat was busily engaged in removing heavy drifts from the wide verandas and in tunneling a pathway to the door. A great St. Bernard dog watched the performance with dignified approval.

It was a strange house to be placed alone in all this vast expanse of snowy landscape, built of logs, yet with white pillars supporting the veranda and over the doorway a rustic sign bearing the words, "The Bungalow." Behind the house, also built of logs, was a garage or small stable.

The man stopped his labor to pat the dog's head. "No walk for us today, old man," he said. "We must content ourselves with rereading the day before yesterday's paper."

The dog followed his master into the house, one long room of which reached from end to end. The man threw more logs into the fireplace and as the day grew darker lit a great lamp and glanced again at the discarded paper as though longing for the sound of a human voice. He read aloud, and the dog flapped his tail understandingly.

"Here is a society notice, Laddie. We can't get away from society, you see, though we live in snowy solitude: 'Miss Antoinette Marion Drew has left town for two or three weeks' rest. Upon her return invitations will be issued for her marriage to Governor James P. White.' And, after the strenuous work of landing Governor White, Laddie, no doubt Miss Drew, whoever she may be, deserves a rest."

The man yawned and cast the paper from him.

A loud knocking echoed through the house. He hesitated a moment, then, frowning, opened the door. A girl stood before him in the lamplight, a girl with white face peeping out from the scarlet hood of her cloak.

"May I come in?" she asked. "We have lost our way, and it is so very cold."

"Certainly," the man responded; "come in at once. You said 'we.'" He peered questioningly into the darkness.

"My horse," the girl explained. "Have you any place to put poor Billy until we are warmed and rested?"

"If you will step in," the man said, "I will attend to the horse presently."

The girl seated herself before the fire as he drew on his overcoat and lighted a lantern. "Fortunately there are a stable and some fodder," he said, "and if Billy does not object to a stale meal we may make him fairly comfortable."

The girl removed her cloak and settled back into the leather chair with a sigh of comfort as the cheering warmth brought the rose color flooding back to cheeks and lips.

She told him that she was staying with Aunt Martha and Uncle Ben down near the village. He remembered the old red farmhouse which she described and offered to drive her safely there when the storm had abated, but the wind rattled the windows and shook the house to its very foundation, and later when he had forced the horse and sleigh to the roadway he staggered back blindly through the pelting ice to the house.

"You can't go," he told the girl, who stood ready in her scarlet cloak. "It would be impossible tonight. There is just one thing to be done—you must stay here with Laddie, who will guard you well, while the horse and I will try to find our way to the farmhouse to assure your people of your safety. If I should not return until morning you must not be alarmed. You must keep warm, and, above all things, do not let the fire die out." He turned to look at her as she still sat silent. "I am sorry that you must do this," he added, "sorry to leave you alone."

The girl came and stood looking up at him. "You must not think of me," she said. "Is it safe for you to go?"

"Quite safe," he answered smilingly.

Impulsively the girl put forth her hand, and the man clasped it. "Good night," she said. "We will be anxiously waiting for you, Laddie and I."

"I have been examining the doors and windows," the girl replied, "and am afraid it means that we are snowed in."

When the morning dawned he returned from a fruitless search. He slept till 9 o'clock and, noticing that the house was dark, asked the girl what it meant.

The man hurried about the house, looking in vain for a glimmer of light from the outside. Presently he came back to her. "I am afraid it is true," he said. "You wonderful girl, do you take all your misfortunes so happily?"

The girl laughed merrily. "You cannot tell fibs successfully, but I am very sure that Aunt Martha will not worry. It isn't her nature. She will know I have 'fetched up' somewhere."

Early in the afternoon they sat, one on either side of the fireplace, the dog's shaggy length stretched at the girl's feet, while the man read aloud. Presently, feeling the concentration of her eyes upon him, he looked up from the book.

"John Ryder," said the girl suddenly, "why did you come here?"

The man started visibly, and his face paled. "So," he said, "you know my name?"

She lifted a book from the reading table and, opening it, held it out to him in the lamplight. Upon the fly leaf was inscribed, "To John Ryder, From His Mother." The man's face hardened, then he said: "You must have heard the whole miserable story. It has been well advertised throughout the country."

The girl leaned forward. "Will you let me tell you all that I have heard?" she asked gently. He made an impatient gesture of dissent.

"It will be better for you," the girl urged, "to talk it over. Bearing so much alone has made you morbid."

"As you will," said the man and buried his face in his hands.

"I remember the day"—her voice was tender with sympathy—"that the newsboys were calling, 'Extra!' along the streets and I stopped to buy a paper with its glaring headlines, 'John Ryder Absconded!' I had heard about his extravagant entertainments, his generous gifts to charity. Now I read of widows and orphans left destitute, of homes destroyed because of his dishonesty. Then, while the world was still talking of his great crime, another extra was called—'John Ryder Dead!' As I read the sad story tears filled my eyes, for he was returning home, returning old and broken after one week to give himself up to the authorities, when they found him. But he never reached the prison walls. Heart disease, the papers said, though it seemed to me that, realizing the enormity of his crime and sorrowing for it, he had died. Then I read of the son left to bear the shock and disgrace. They had blamed him, too—the papers—with sharp, stinging words, hinting that, associated closely with his father in business affairs, he must have known that the money which provided him with every luxury was not honestly earned. Oh, I was glad when he showed himself true and longed to go to this second John Ryder to tell him how splendid he was, for he gave up everything—the independent fortune which his mother had left her son, his automobiles, not even withholding the beautiful horse which had been his pet and pride. Then, penniless and quite alone, he disappeared.

"John Ryder," asked the girl again, "why did you come here?"

The man raised his face. "It was the coward instinct, I suppose," he said bitterly. "The fight was too strong for me, so I deserted. My mother loved this little place, and I could not let it go, so it was here we came to hide away from them all, Laddie and I."

"You a deserter," cried the girl, and her eyes were gleaming—"the bravest man that I have ever known! Shall I tell you why you came here to be alone for a time? It was that you might gather your forces together and then, going back into the very midst of the fight, show them, not what a John Ryder has been, but what a John Ryder can be."

The man's eyes seemed to have caught fire from hers. "I could do all that and more," he cried, "if you were waiting for me at the end!" The girl's face was very white. "Forgive me," said the man huskily—"forgive me if you can. I have been quite carried away." There was a long silence before the girl spoke.

"You have also heard my name," she said. "I am Antoinette Drew, the promised wife of the governor."

"You!" cried the man incredulously as he looked at the girlish face in its frame of curling hair.

"He was my father's friend," she explained, "and held me upon his knee as a child. It was mother, I think, who made him realize that he wanted me for his wife. We have been taught, my sisters and I, that to achieve prominence and wealth leaves nothing to be desired, and we have done credit to our teaching. Out here in the great white world I have been thinking things over, wondering if I dare be true. I, too, have a battle before me, and I am going to play the game fair. I am going back to brave my father's anger and my mother's displeasure—to tell the governor all and ask pardon for the great wrong done him. I am glad," she added softly, "that my decision had been made before I knocked at your door, else I might question my own motive today."

The man leaned forward. "If he holds you to your promise," he asked tensely, "what then?"

The girl sighed. "I shall at least have been honest."

"And if he releases you?"

With a rush and a slide a great weight of snow came thundering down from the roof. "John Ryder," cried the girl unsteadily, "our furlough is over. Get out your shovel and set me free."

For days he haunted the little postoffice. His last memory of her had been as she stood upon the platform of the train that was carrying her away. Just as the car turned the curve she drew herself erect and made a stiff little military salute. There had been a smile upon her lips and tears in her eyes. The picture came back to him this morning as the postmaster handed out a businesslike looking envelope and then a small square one. He hurried out into the sparkling world to be alone.

"It has come, Laddie," he said to the dog; "it has come at last." For a moment he feared to break the seal, then stood still as the full significance of her message came to him. "The governor has granted our pardon," he read.

The man went running up the shining roadway, the great dog leaping and barking joyously at his side. When they had gone some distance he remembered the other envelope and tore it open. It was an offer of a position of great trust and was signed by the governor.

When You Are in Doubt about the diagnosis and cure of your indisposition, don't get anxious. Your safest remedy is within reach of your hand. Most disorders have their origin in neglect or over-crowding of the intestinal tract. The stomach is gorged, the intestines are inactive, the liver is torpid, and the entire body is in the grip of pain and disease. Don't experiment with unknown drugs. Many cures are worse than the disease. Use what for three generations has been found safe and sure.

Try the Old Reliable Remedy

which cured our grandparents of their ills, and which is as good and effective to-day as then. Beecham's Pills never fail to relieve the troubles connected with the stomach, bowels, liver or kidneys. They are good if taken in the earlier stages, and most valuable when taken to relieve aggravated forms of trouble. They strengthen the digestive organs and make new healthy blood. No one can give you a better remedy than

BEECHAM'S PILLS

In boxes, with full directions, 10c. and 25c.

WHEELER'S

Christmas Christmas

See what we offer for Christmas.

All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Belts | Handkerchiefs | Pocket Books |
| Aprons | Stamped Linens | Purses |
| Gloves | Stationery | Bags |
| Xmas Cards | Handkerchief Boxes | Calendars |
| Booklets | Glove Boxes | Needle Books |
| Post Cards | Collar Boxes | Shaving Cases |

We also have a good line of

"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists

Christmas Christmas

CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY

(DRY GOODS STORE.)

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get Good Coal
You Can Get Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.

¶ It's your business and right to investigate.

SEARCHLIGHT US!

'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.

Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

"How about divorces?" McHenry asked suddenly, raising his head to the city editor.

"The Sarrup divorce is up again. Two new corespondents named." He pointed them out among the photos.

McHenry drew a few lines on one of the photos and rang for the boy. "Bring me an artist, Durkin," he ordered. The artist soon appeared.

"Here," spoke up the managing editor, "take these corespondents and run 'em with the two you had yesterday, but fix those up different. Put a hat on one and the other in low neck, and put Sarrup himself in the middle with a dado of hearts around." McHenry changed his mind. "No; make it a big question mark of cupids and the caption 'Which of These Women Does This Man Love?' Yes, and frame in his wife too. Three columns."

"Yes, sir," responded the artist, starting away with the photos.

But McHenry called him back.

"Hey!" he cried. "Make that 'Which of These Beautiful Women Does This Man Love?'"

The artist bowed in acquiescence and escaped.

McHenry took up another photograph.

"Ha, what a beauty!" he said enthusiastically. "What's she been doing?"

"She is Judith Bartelmy, the judge's daughter. She gave a reception today," answered Downs, the city editor.

"High society all there as usual, I suppose?" mused McHenry. "The Bartelmys are an old family, and they've held on to some of their money. Here, Downs," he went on, "play her up for two—no, three columns. Maybe it will square it with the judge for what we did to him in the paper this morning. You explain to an artist."

"All right."

"The new boss, Nolan, is coming down to look us over tonight," added McHenry.

"Wonder where we'll all be working next week?" was the city editor's reply over his shoulder as he quickly made his exit.

The boy came in and laid a card on the managing editor's desk.

"Miss Judith Bartelmy!" exclaimed McHenry as he glanced at it. "Well, what do you think of that, Moore?"

"It's a kick sure, and"—

"By the way," interjected McHenry deliberately, "this girl, Judith Bartelmy, isn't she engaged to Wheeler Brand?"

"Seems to me I've heard something of the sort," assented Moore vaguely.

"Well, same here, and Brand wrote that story this morning showing up her father, the judge, as a trickster of the worst, most dangerous sort. Now the girl comes to this office—probably to defend her dad. Say, Moore"—the managing editor was becoming excited—"things are getting warm around here. Brand certainly had his nerve with him to hand such a roast to his prospective father-in-law."

McHenry turned abruptly to one side and reached for his coat, which he quickly donned.

"Show her in," he called to the boy.

Moore hastily retreated from the room as Judith Bartelmy entered, leaving the judge's daughter alone with the managing editor. McHenry had long flattered himself that he had met many attractive women in his time, but as he rose to meet Judith Bartelmy and surveyed this fashionably gowned young woman he made a mental note that she surpassed them all. Her blond features were of distinctly patrician cast. Her blue eyes had the magnetic qualities so envied by the many less fortunate women, and the pure whiteness of her finely curved chin and neck was advantageously revealed by the low cut collar of her princess gown of wine colored silk which clung to a figure that celebrated artists had pronounced unusual in its symmetry.

"I desire to complain about the article attacking my father this morning," the girl began.

"Yes?" answered McHenry.

"I wish an apology for it."

"Is this a message from your father?"

"That's not the point. This is the first time in his life that any one has ventured to question his honor. The article is false, and I think your paper should apologize for it immediately."

"Before saying as to that," returned the managing editor, "I should have to refer the matter to the new proprietor, Mr. Nolan. You know it is not customary for a newspaper to take back what it says."

The judge's daughter raised her eyebrows in surprise as she drew close to McHenry's desk, where he had resumed his seat.

"I should think you'd have a good many lawsuits," she suggested.

"Oh, no; not many. We go up to the line, but we try not to step over it." He picked up several newspapers from his desk. "For instance"—scanning the papers—"I don't think your father will feel inclined to sue us." He rose as if to end the interview.

Judith, however, was not to be thus disposed of.

"I don't want to detain you," she remarked, "but I should like to ask you who was responsible for that article." She seated herself in a chair which McHenry indicated.

"We never tell the name of our writers," answered the managing editor.

Her father had diplomatically suggested to her that Wheeler Brand might have written the story. This she found difficult to believe. But she must be convinced, and one of her motives in visiting the newspaper had been to ask him—to ask him to tell her that he was not the author of the new attack on her father. She must see him and learn the truth from his lips alone.

"Is Mr. Brand in the office now?" she asked.

"Yes, I think so."

"Would it be possible for me to see him?"

"Why, yes, if you wish. I'll send for him."

McHenry summoned the boy and told him to "ask Mr. Brand to come in."

"We've noticed"—she hesitated—"all his friends have noticed that he's becoming very radical lately." Judith rose from the chair and stepped nervously toward the editor's desk.

"Oh," he laughed, "they all get that when they're young, like the measles."

"And that's something they all get over, isn't it?" she asked eagerly.

"Yes," responded McHenry, stirring as though to leave the room.

Judith stepped squarely in front of his desk.

"But I don't want to disturb you. Can't I go to his office?"

"He hasn't got any office, and they're all bunched in the local room in their shirt sleeves smoking. You wouldn't like it. We haven't a reception room." McHenry laughed as he spoke.

In his shirt sleeves, rolled to his elbows, with quick steps and squared shoulders, Wheeler Brand, one of the ablest men on the city staff of the Advance, strode into the office of the managing editor through the door leading from the city and telegraph rooms.

"Yes, sir," he greeted McHenry. Then he stopped short both in his steps and in his speech. He had caught sight of the managing editor's visitor. "Why, Judith!" he gasped. "What in heaven's name are you doing here? I"— At this point words failed him, and he stood staring at her, with his breast heaving violently as the result of his surprise.

The girl was also deeply disturbed in spite of her previous knowledge that she was to be confronted by the man she loved.

McHenry thought that the moment had arrived when his presence was no longer necessary.

"Miss Bartelmy has asked to see you for a few minutes," he said, rising and starting toward a door. "You may talk here." A handful of proof sheets rustled in his grasp as he disappeared.

Wheeler Brand started toward the girl.

"Is there anything the matter?" he queried anxiously.

She hesitated before answering. Then she spoke determinedly.

"Yes; two things. First, you did not come to my reception this afternoon; secondly, there is that article about father this morning."

"I couldn't get off from the office to attend the reception, and I am awfully sorry," he protested. "But as for the story about your father—well, did he send you here?"

"No, he didn't send me. But I couldn't help seeing how disturbed he was, and"—

"Then he knew you were coming?"

"Why, yes." Judith was trying hard to understand what he meant by seeking out her father's knowledge of her present mission, one which was to her decidedly unpleasant.

Wheeler was plainly impressed, and unfavorably so, at the girl's reply.

"Oh!" he ejaculated disappointedly.

The quickly thinking girl detected the significant tone of the newspaper writer's reply and hastened to explain.

"I heard my father say at dinner that he feared there would be another attack tomorrow," she said, "and I hoped through you to prevent its publication and to make the Advance apologize for what it said this morning. I don't see how your paper dares to publish such things."

"But, Judith," he answered, "we couldn't dodge a story as big as that. We had to print it. That's what we're here for."

But she was still insistent.

"Oh, of course, print the story, but I mean the insinuation all through. Why, by using such unfair means newspapers can bring discredit on any one. Mr. McHenry refused to apologize. He wouldn't even tell me who wrote it. Do you know?"

Brand gave a violent start. At first, in her present mood, he hardly dared answer the girl. With a determined effort he pulled himself together and answered her question.

"Yes, I know who wrote it."

"Who?" Judith leaned toward him, gazing intently into his eyes.

"I wrote it," he announced.

Judith started back aghast.

"You, Wheeler? Why?" she cried hysterically.

"I had no choice." He struggled to maintain his grip on himself.

"You had no choice?"

"Judith, when this Lansing Iron case first broke loose," Brand responded firmly, "I saw straight off that it was one of the slickest—well, that there was a big story in it. I didn't know your father was involved in this at first. I just followed the path, and when I saw where it was leading me I wanted to turn back because of you, but I couldn't." He stopped for a moment, then went on: "No, no. I could not stop—not—even—for—you!"

"But it isn't loyal of you," was her response. "It wasn't like you—to attack him suddenly in this way. It's almost as if you struck him from behind. And do you not see, Wheeler, that you are hurting me as much as you injure him? I am his daughter, Wheeler, and if you ruin my father you will ruin me."

"I wrote it, Judith," he announced.

She covered her face with her hands, and her bosom heaved convulsively in her anguish.

(To be Continued.)

A Hungry Rabbit.

"I do not think I was ever so nonplused in my life," said a conjurer, "as once when performing my card and rabbit trick. I ask a member of the audience to tear a card into small pieces and give them all to me except one. Later in the trick I produce a rabbit from a box, and tied round its neck is a card with a piece missing. It is then found that the piece which the member of the audience holds exactly fits and completes the second card. On this particular occasion I allowed the rabbit to remain in the box too long and when I produced him found that he had chewed the card round his neck to bits. Needless to say, the laughter when the audience grasped the trick the animal had played on me was loud and long."

As Walter Saw It.

Walter, aged seven, is a wise son who knows not only his own father, but his own mother likewise.

"Now, Walter," said the teacher, "if your father could do a piece of work in one hour and your mother could also do it in one hour, how long would it take both of them to do it together?"

"Three hours!" replied the scholar without hesitation.

"Wrong!" said the teacher. "How do you make that?"

"Three hours," repeated Walter stolidly, "counting the time they'd waste arguing about how it should be done."—London Scraps.

All Marriages Are Love Marriages.

"Was it a love marriage, do you think?"

"Certainly. All marriages are love marriages."

"Isn't that rather a sweeping statement?"

"Not at all. There is a love of adventure, you know; love of luxury, love of advertising and various other kinds of love. There is no need of going into details when one speaks of a love marriage."—Chicago Post.

As to Luck.

"I wonder if anybody's as unlucky as I am," grumbled the first pessimist. "I never have any luck at all."

"Huh!" snorted the other. "You're lucky. It's better to never have any luck at all than to be always having bad luck like me."—Philadelphia Press

The Average.

"Pa, what's an average man?"

"One who thinks his employer's business would be run a good deal better if he could have more to say in the matter himself."

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

USE ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. If you have tired, aching feet, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It rests the feet and makes new or tight shoes easy. Cures aching, swollen, hot, sweating feet. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and gives rest and comfort. Try it to-day. Sold by all Druggists and Shoe Stores, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. For FREE trial package, also Free Sample of the FOOT-EASE Sanitary CORN-PAD, a new invention, address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

☞ You will not want to miss reading the Ledger of Wednesday, Dec. 22.

FRENCH JUNK FROM PANAMA.

Machinery That Cost Millions to Be Transported.

FINDS MADE IN ODD PLACES.

Old Locomotives, Cars, Dredges and Girders Will Be Sent to New York to Be Sold—How They Helped Us on the Canal Before Being Condemned.

The isthmian canal comission has begun the job of transporting about 100,000 tons of old French junk from the isthmus to New York city. The junk includes old locomotives, dump cars, tanks, barges, boilers, girders, dredges, sheet iron, parts of old machinery and other things for which the French canal company paid millions of dollars and which it left to go to ruin on the isthmus.

The commission is selling on competitive bidding all the old iron and steel along the canal route, except such parts as may be reserved for canal work.

About 700 tons will be moved to the States every two weeks by the steamships Ancon and Cristobal. It will take three years to transport all of the junk. Most of it will be scrapped where it lies on the isthmus. The commission will ship no pieces of more than twenty tons in weight. This will permit the shipping of locomotive boilers with fire boxes and flues.

Most of this old material is of foreign manufacture, and as it is landed in New York Uncle Sam is confronted with the proposition of being obliged to pay himself $1 a short ton on the entry. Under a provision in the sundry civil act of May, 1908, this duty will be returned by Uncle Sam to the canal funds, but to accomplish this without a special appropriation each year it will be necessary to have the sale consummated only after the junk has passed through the New York custom house. Each contractor will be under a bond of $75,000, and payments are to be made to the canal commission after each delivery.

Much Junk In Gatun Lake Basin.

The sale is being made at this time chiefly for the purpose of getting out the old material that lies in the great basin of Gatun lake before the basin is filled with water. There are large quantities of the junk in the lake basin.

Each of the locomotives left by the French yields between $400 and $600 worth of copper alone. The commission will save the old steel rails on the isthmus to be used as re-enforcement in the concrete work and as telephone and telegraph poles.

Some of this old French junk has been found in extraordinary places. Dredges have been discovered almost completely buried in sand hundreds of feet away from any body of water and overgrown with dense tropical vegetation. Apparently they had been carried away from the river bed by high water or the river itself had shifted its course. Several of these buried dredges were in a fairly good state of preservation and are now doing work on the isthmus.

Some of the junk has been lifted from the bottom of the Chagres river and from the bottom of the old French canal prism, where hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of equipment sank after the French abandoned the work. Some of the relics in the canal prism near the crossing of the Rio Grande river were dislodged only after heavy charges of dynamite had been exploded under them. Others have been raised from watery graves and are now helping to link the Atlantic with the Pacific.

Relics Put to Good Use.

The profit from the sale of the French junk will be small compared with the value of the service that the commission already has derived from the castoff equipment. For the first two years of their work the commission relied absolutely upon the old locomotives left by the French. In 1906 there were 106 of these weather beaten locomotives in service compared with only fifteen American made engines. Since that time the percentage of the French locomotives has steadily decreased.

French dump cars were used almost exclusively by the commission in the first two years. At one time more than 2,000 of them were hauling dirt from Uncle Sam's shovels. The French relics furnished also many shop tools, stationary engines and much repair material in the early days of the construction work.

In fact, Americans may thank the old French equipment for the fact that the canal is today just half completed. Without the aid of this rusty, storm battered assortment of French machinery there would have been long delays in providing an adequate equipment from the States. It is estimated that the French supplies and equipment thus far utilized amount to fully $1,000,000.

Big Yale Honor For a Chinaman.

Yon Hsiang Ts'ao, a Chinese student at Yale university, recently won the Ten Eyck prize at the annual junior exhibition. This is the first time a student from the orient has captured the prize. He spoke on "America and the Far East." The Ten Eyck prize was established by the Kingsley Trust company in 1888 in memory of Henry J. Ten Eyck of the class of 1879, and it is considered one of the biggest honors at Yale.

He Dodged Cold Mutton.

Green, the English historian, one day asked a friend which of all the inventions of their day had done the most for the people as a whole. His friend guessed this and that, but the answer was:

"Beyond doubt, sixpenny photographs."

A reply involving quite as great an absurdity as that was made by Cecil Rhodes in answer to a lady who, seeking to draw him out, suggested that he owed his phenomenal rise to the impetus of noble sentiments.

"Madam," returned Mr. Rhodes, "I owe my fortune simply and solely to cold mutton."

"Cold mutton!" gasped the lady. "Oh, Mr. Rhodes, what do you mean?"

"When I was young," continued the South African millionaire, "I was so dosed with cold mutton and I hated it so cordially that I resolved to grow rich in order to put it on one side for the rest of my life. Yes, madam, cold mutton was at the root of my success. Noble sentiments had nothing to do with it."

Preparing For a "Dewel."

One of the most remarkable documents that have ever come under our observation, says a law journal, is to be found in the case of ex parte Scoggin, 6 Tex. App., 546. Mr. Scoggin was under indictment for the murder of one William Gerrard, and an extract from a memorandum book in defendant's handwriting and found near the body ran as follows:

Johnson Co., Tx., Jan. 24, 1875.

As it may bee the last penciling that I may ever do on earth May heven Bless me and the man that I am going to fite, for we have been traviing to geather some time and have fell out a bought the sum of $25 and have agreed to fight a dewel this Butiful night of our lord, and as one of us has to die May heven bless us, as this is the last half hour on earth with one of us, heven Preserve me now and forever. Written by Jesse Scog—, Bornd and rased in Tx. Sined by William Jirod, Bornd in Illinois.

Mr. Scoggin's piety apparently brought victory to him in the "dewel," for his adversary when found appeared to have been struck behind the ear by a thirteen inch shell.

A Substitute.

The young lawyer, having been nominated for the office of county attorney, thought to surprise an eccentric genius of the name of Si who was working as a hired man on the young lawyer's father's farm.

"Well, Si, what do you think?" the young man began.

"Sometimes one thing, Lonny, an' sometimes 'nother."

"But, Si, they have nominated me for county attorney."

"They might 'a' done worse, Lonny. Howsomever, don't holler till you're out of the woods."

The young attorney was duly elected and on his next visit to the farm announced the fact unctuously to Si, who was at the wood pile, saw in hand.

"Well, Si, I am elected by a large majority. What do you think of that?"

"Well, Lonny, down in our parts, where I was raised, when we wanted a stopper an' hadn't any cork we generally took a corncob."—Exchange.

Practicing on Wooden Legs.

Of the five cases in the accident ward that were pronounced cured at the same time three remained in the hospital more than a week after the other two had gone home.

"They had to stay," said an interne, "to get used to their wooden legs. It takes some time to learn to manage them, and most men who will have to peg along with them for the rest of their natural lives stay in the hospital several days after they get well to practice stumping around on their new legs. Of course they can learn outside, but the man who has just acquired a wooden leg feels so awkward and is so likely to fall down and break the other leg or an arm or maybe his neck that we prefer to keep him here so he can take his first lessons under our supervision."—New York Press.

Thousand Islands.

The Lake of the Thousand Islands is forty miles long and varies from four to seven miles in width. It is both a continuation of Lake Ontario and the beginning of the St. Lawrence river. The Thousand islands are really about 1,700 in number, big and little. Many of them are favorite summer resorts, with hotels and boarding houses of rich Americans and Canadians. The voyage through them is picturesque, and many of the islands are illuminated at night.

Who Voted?

Benjamin Franklin once discussed the property qualification for voting in Pennsylvania. A man owned a donkey of sufficient value to enable him to vote, but before the next election the donkey died, and the man's vote was refused. "Now," asked Franklin, "who voted at the previous election, the man or the donkey?"

A Tribute.

Waiter—They do say ye're a great hand at a Welsh rabbit, sir. The Clubman—They do, eh? The Waiter—Yis, sir. Oi heerd wan man say ye made wan that was worth all the throuble it gev him afther he ate it.

Dodging a Slander.

During a suit for slander brought in an Ohio town one of the parties was asked by the presiding magistrate:

"Is it true, as alleged, that you declared that Thomas Mulkins had stolen your pocketbook?"

"Your honor," responded the man, "I did not go so far as that. I merely said that if Mulkins had not assisted me in looking for the pocketbook I might have found it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Good Looking Brides Wanted.

Shortly after an angry looking couple flounced out of the chapel the pastor of an uptown church presented a perplexed countenance before the busy sexton.

"As you know," said he, "I am new in this parish and new in the city. Perhaps there are a few things I ought to know. Why, for instance, do so many people who never attend service in this church wish to be married here?"

"Because our church," said the sexton, "has the name of turning out the youngest and handsomest brides in New York. Our reputation for good works is dwarfed by our reputation for beautiful brides. To say that a woman is married here is equivalent to saying that she is a 'good looker.' We are not supposed to deal in brides of any other description."

"No wonder," groaned the pastor, "that that plain looking woman went away in a huff. I earnestly advised her to be married in her own parish."—New York Globe.

AQUAS READY ROOFING

GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST

SANBORN & DAMON

QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

Red Cross Stamps

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

TO BOSTON — Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| r *5 14 abedefghi | | 5 42 |
| r 6 13 abe | | 6 33 |
| r 6 43 abe | | 7 03 |
| r 7 13 abe | | 7 33 |
| r 7 21 adef | | 7 42 |
| 7 29 a | | 7 45 |
| r 7 43 abe | | 8 03 |
| r 7 52 abede | | 8 15 |
| r 8 13 abe | | 8 33 |
| r 8 31 Exp. | | 8 47 |
| r 8 4 abed | | 9 05 |
| 9 00 Exp. | | 9 16 |
| r 9 15 abe | | 9 33 |
| 10 01 Exp. | | 10 17 |
| r 10 13 abe | | 10 33 |
| 11 03 Exp. | | 11 18 |
| r 11 13 abe | | 11 33 |
| 12 01 Exp. | | 12 17 |
| r 12 13 abe | | 12 33 |
| 12 59 Exp. | | 1 15 |
| r 1 13 abe | | 1 33 |
| r 1 43 abe | | 2 03 |
| r 2 13 abe | | 2 33 |
| r 3 05 a | | 3 21 |
| 4 03 Exp. | | 4 18 |
| r 4 13 abe | | 4 33 |
| 4 59 Exp. | | 5 15 |
| r 5 13 abe | | 5 33 |
| r 5 23 abedefghi | | 5 57 |
| 6 01 Exp. | | 6 17 |
| r 6 16 abedefghi | | 6 44 |
| r 6 52 abe | | 7 12 |
| 7 34 ab | | 7 51 |
| r 8 05 abedef | | 8 29 |
| r 9 17 abe | | 9 35 |
| r 10 02 abedef | | 10 32 |
| r 11 29 abe | | 11 40 |

FROM BOSTON — Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| *5 47 ilngfedeba | | 6 16 r |
| 6 27 cba | | 6 46 r |
| 6 52 cba | | 7 14 r |
| 7 27 cba | | 7 49 r |
| 7 52 a | | 8 11 r |
| 8 45 b | | 9 02 |
| 9 27 cba | | 9 49 r |
| 9 43 Exp | | 10 00 |
| 10 27 cba | | 10 49 r |
| 11 27 cba | | 11 49 r |
| 11 43 Exp. | | 12 00 |
| 12 27 cba | | 12 49 r |
| 12 45 *Exp | | 1 02 |
| 12 47 cba | | 1 09 r |
| 1 10 (Sat) | | 1 27 |
| 1 27 cba | | 1 49 r |
| 1 43 Exp. | | 2 00 |
| 2 27 cba | | 2 49 r |
| 2 40 Exp. | | 2 57 |
| 3 27 cba | | 3 49 r |
| 3 4 Exp. | | 4 0 |
| 4 12 a | | 4 29 r |
| 4 27 cba | | 4 49 r |
| 4 50 edeba | | 5 11 r |
| 5 15 a | | 5 34 |
| 5 19 deba | | 5 41 |
| 5 27 cba | | 5 49 r |
| 5 45 dba | | 6 07 r |
| 5 46 ilngfedeba | | 6 15 r |
| 5 57 cba | | 6 19 r |
| 6 15 dba | | 6 37 r |
| 6 27 cba | | 6 49 r |
| 6 57 fedeba | | 7 23 r |
| 7 27 cba | | 7 49 r |
| 8 13 fedeba | | 8 38 r |
| 9 27 cba | | 9 49 r |
| 10 40 fe leba | | 11 04 r |
| 11 20 Exp. | | 11 36 |
| 11 27 cba | | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 abe | 8 03 | 6 24 ilngfedeba 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 abe | 9 03 | 8 57 cba 9 19 r |
| 9 13 abe | 9 33 | 10 16 ilngfedeba 10 45 r |
| 9 33 a | 9 51 | 12 27 cba 12 49 r |
| | | 1 16 ilngfedeba 1 45 r |
| 11 00 Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 ilngfedeba 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 abedefghi | 11 44 | |
| r 1 13 abe | 1 33 | 3 16 ilngfedeba 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 abe | 3 30 | 4 27 cba 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 abedefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 cba 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 abe | 5 33 | 6 16 ilngfedeba 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 cba 7 19 r |
| | | 8 24 ilngfedeba 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 abedefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 Exp. 9 02 |
| r 8 08 abedefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 ilngfedeba 9 56 r |
| 9 04 Exp. | 9 20 | |
| r 10 30 abe | 10 50 | 10 37 cba 10 59 r |
| | | 10 53 Exp. 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.21, 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

ASSETS, $450,000.

ESTABLISHED 1889

QUINCY CO-OP BANK $$$$$ Be the People

SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU

DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month

MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS

OWN YOUR HOME.

SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS B'K BUILDING

R. D. CHASE Treas.

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood.

Gas and Water.

Four valuable houses built on property

Apply at 45 Elm Street.

Quincy, Dec. 3

STORAGE

—FOR—

Furniture and Pianos

Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms

Furniture and Piano Movers

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

1405 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Rturn, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.46, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Ponit, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

Lost
Remick Bros.--Christmas Goods
Nathan Ames--Christmas Gifts
Notice
Lost
To Let
For Sale

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 34 degrees |
| Dec. 21, 1908 | 42 degrees |
| Dec. 21 1907, | 42 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

The Thomas Crane Public Library will be closed on Christmas eve and Christmas day and evening.

F. P. Horton of Merrymount road has been in Albany, N. Y., attending the convention of Insurance men.

The Anti-Tuberculosis association was made happy this morning by the receipt of a check for $200 from Melden N. Bray of the Tubular Rivet works at Wollaston.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Cass of Dover, Maine, are the guests for the Christmas holidays of Mrs. Cass' parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Tirrell of Gay street.

Asa P. French of Randolph was on Monday renominated by President Taft as United States district attorney for Massachusetts. He was graduated from Adams Academy in this city.

That yarn in the Boston papers of heroic rescue from drowning on Butlers pond on Sunday made the old settlers smile. The depth of the pond was put at 18 feet whereas the width is hardly that.

The prize winners at the whist party held Monday evening in Protection hall by the Spanish War Veterans and Ladies' Auxiliary were: Mrs. G. Spooner, Mrs. E. E. Fields, Miss Zeta Pitts, W. F. Carman, J. Drumgold and J. A. Lapham.

The engagement is announced of Miss Elizabeth H. Lippincott of Philadelphia to Avery L. Bennett of Arlington street, Wollaston. Mr. Bennett was graduated from Adams Academy in 1900 and from Harvard in 1904 and at present is senior master at the Mann school in Stamford, Connecticut.

CHRISTMAS NUMBER.

Editor Alger of the Rockland Standard is to be congratulated on the Christmas number issued Dec. 17. The special number had 28 pages and a colored cover, 32 in all, and was filled with wide-awake news and large advertisements of local merchants which show that Rockland is an up-to-date and progressive town. Such an edition will do much to build up the town. We congratulate the Standard also upon having installed a type setting machine.

—Great Britain has temporarily withdrawn the prohibtion against the use of "Christmas stamps" of any kind upon mail matter directed to Great Britain. Consequently articles bearing Red Cross stamps and other stamps of this nature addressed for delivery in Gerat Britain will be forwarded from this country in the usual course of mails until further notice.

☞Many would appreciate as a Christmas gift the new 1909 map of Quincy issued by Ernest W. Branch. It is compiled from the latest surveys, showing all the new streets, the location of public buildings, etc.

☞"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

Red Cross Stamps
On Christmas Letters
Carry Good Cheer

DEATHS.

GILES—In South Quincy, Dec. 19, a son to Mr. and Mrs. James Giles of Trafford street.

TIRRELL—In Quincy, Dec. 20, Quincy Tirrell, aged 81 years 2 months and 16 days. Funeral from late home 149 Franklin street, Wednesday Dec. 22, at 2 P. M. Relative and friends invited. Burial private. 2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

GREAT DEVELOPER OF ALL MUSCLES

Kansas City Man's Game For Benefiting Business Men.

TWENTY CAN PLAY TOGETHER

Athletic Director of Kansas City Club, Deviser of Push-of-war Game, Tells How It Can Be Played—Deemed Better Than Tug-of-war.

The time worn assertion that "there's nothing new under the sun" has been given a severe jolt on the solar plexus by Dr. J. A. Reilly, athletic director of the Kansas City Athletic club. The Reilly scheme is so new that he hasn't even secured a name for it, but for want of a better handle it is called "Reilly's push-of-war." It is a scheme whereby twenty men can take strenuous exercise at the same time, combined with an exciting game which brings every muscle in the body into action. The new game is played with a heavily padded perpendicular frame fifteen feet long by three and a half feet high placed on rollers or casters. Ten men are placed on each side of the frame and attempt to push the frame across a goal line twenty-two and a half feet from the center of the court. Instead of sitting down and pulling, as in a tug-of-war, the men stand up and push.

How Idea For the Game Was Conceived.

"I believe I have solved the problem of getting business men to take exercise and derive the fullest benefits therefrom," Dr. Reilly said the other afternoon. "It is new, too, as far as I am able to learn. I have been trying for some time to devise some exercise that will induce a group of men to enter into it with good spirit, and my experiments along this line have extended several years. I conceived this idea from looking at the dumbbell and Indian club rack standing on the floor there. It is movable, and as an experiment I placed a wrestling mat across the top of it and induced my noonday class of business men to get on opposite sides of the frame and push against each other. The plan was a success from the start. The iron lips or holders used to hang the Indian clubs or dumbbells on made the pushing machine dangerous, so I ordered one built. The new machine will be so padded that there will be no danger from injury, and if a man's arm becomes tired he can use his shoulders or back and push against it.

Better Than a Tug-of-war.

The old tug-of-war exercise was bad in that the chest and other muscles were drawn together and cramped as the men pulled on the ropes. In the new plan all of the muscles are expanded and many parts of the body never used in the hardest kinds of exercise are brought into play. Add to this the excitement of a struggle against an opponent and you can see that it will be a successful game.

"One of the hardest things to overcome for a physical director is to get a class of business men interested in exercise. If a man feels that he is inferior to other men on the floor he doesn't enjoy getting out and making a show of himself, but in this kind of exercise it will not be known who is doing the bulk of the work, and at the same time every man will be doing his utmost for the sake of his team. I shall organize several teams as soon as I get my new pushing machine in the gymnasium."

Museum In a Prison.

Paris is to have yet another museum of the revolution. It is to be fitted up in the Conciergerie prison, and the two apartments devoted to it are to be the Salle des Girondins and the cell occupied by Marie Antoinette. This cell is to be fitted and furnished exactly as it was when the unhappy queen awaited her fate in it, and a number of authentic relics are available. Among them are included the queen's velvet seated armchair, the lamp by the light of which she wrote her last letter and the simple black wooden crucifix which she kissed on her departure to the place of execution. A credit of 1,000 francs has been voted for the purposes of the museum by the Paris municipal council.

A Whistling Kitchen.

Official trials of a "whistling kitchen" for army use have recently been made by the Japanese war office, and the results are said to have been eminently successful. The inventor is a paymaster named Okezaki. The kitchen travels on two wheels and can be drawn over almost any ground by one horse. It not only boils rice and heats soup, but it notifies by whistle when the cooking is finished. It can take up a supply of water from the muddiest of ditches or ponds and transform it into good drinking condition and carry it in that state to the front. The vehicle can be taken asunder and carried on the shoulders of two men.

Biggest Salmon Hatchery.

The biggest salmon hatchery in the world has been opened at Booneville, Ore. It will be the central plant for the state and is located on the Columbia river, where most of the fry will probably be liberated. The building has a capacity of 60,000,000 eggs. There are now 20,000,000 eggs on hand ready for hatching. Nursery and feeding ponds are supplied sufficient for feeding 3,000,000 young fish.

NEW LEAGUE STARTS TONIGHT

Four Teams in Norfolk League Schedule

A new bowling league has been formed at the alleys at Norfolk Downs. It consists of four teams as follows:

Team 1—MacLeod, J. Burns, S. Burns, Tabb and Ross.

Team 2—C. Bugbee, Forsythe, Herrick, Hunt and Stenzel.

Team 3—W. Bugbee, Dunn, Bane, Richardson and Stovall.

Team 4—Poland, Robbins, Osgood, Gibney and Welch.

Play begins tonight with this schedule:

Dec. 21—Teams 1 and 2.
Dec. 23—Teams 3 and 4.
Dec. 28—1 and 3.
Dec. 30—2 and 4.
Jan. 4—1 and 4.
Jan. 6—2 and 3.
Jan 11—1 and 2.
Jan. 13—3 and 4.
Jan. 18—1 and 3.
Jan. 20—2 and 4.
Jan. 25—1 and 4.
Feb. 1—2 and 3.
Feb. 8—1 and 2.
Feb. 10—3 and 4.
Feb. 15—1 and 3.
Feb. 17—2 and 4.
Feb. 21—1 and 4.
Feb. 24—2 and 3.
Mar. 1—1 and 2.
Mar. 3—3 and 4.
Mar. 8—1 and 3.
Mar. 10—2 and 4.
Mar. 15—1 and 4.
Mar. 17—2 and 3.

Valuable prizes will be given to winning team and for highest league average seventy-five per cent. of games to be rolled.

Old Colony league rules will be used.

The officers of Downs Bowling League are: Wm. Bugbee, president, Charles Bugbee, manager, E. A. Poland, secretary and treasurer.

SARAH F. COSTELLO.

The funeral of Miss Sarah Frances Costello, formerly of Quincy, who died in Boston on Sunday, was held this morning at 10 o'clock from St. John's church, and was largely attended. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers. A solemn high mass of requiem was sung with Rev. John J. Coan as celebrant, Rev. John J. Casey, as deacon, and Rev. Fr. Scannell as sub-deacon. Rev. W. P. Deasey was master of ceremonies. Rev. John P. Cuffe of the Sacred Heart church of Atlantic was on the altar. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Costello was a sister of Joseph F. Costello a former well known newspaper correspondent, and she was a highly esteemed resident of Quincy Point for a number of years. She conducted a millinery parlor at 149 A Tremont street, Boston, and socially she was a great favorite.

She has been making her home with her brother, William H. Costello of 30 Hecla street, Dorchester and was taken from there to the Carney hospital to undergo an operation on her lip. Blood poisoning set in and she lived but a few days.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Quincy team is at the bottom in the Columbus club bowling league, having won but 2 games out of 24.

The world's record at bowling was broken at Fall River last week when Mr. Lynch had a three string total of 444, which was 7 above the record. On the same evening the Fall River team made a single of 615 and a total of 1,835.

NOTICE

The Thomas Crane Public Library will be closed after 6 P. M. Friday Christmas Eve, and on Christmas Day.

Per Order of the Trustees.

Dec, 21 4t

LOST
SAVINGS BANK BOOKS

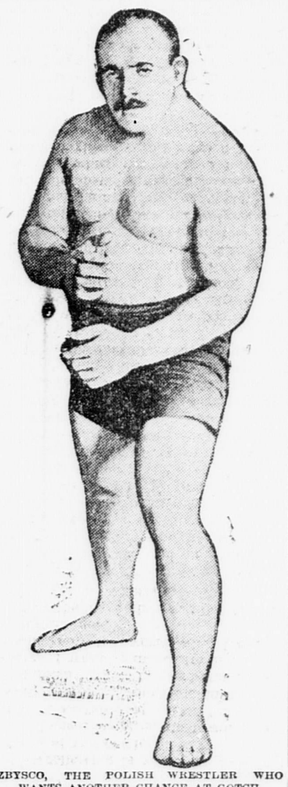
Savings Bank Books as listed below have been lost and application has been made for payment of the accounts in accordance with Section 40, Chapter 590 of the Acts of 1908. Payment has been stopped.

| | |
|---|---|
| Book No. 8285 | Book No 11761 |
| Book No. 22110 | Book No. 22319 |
| Book No. 22767 | Book No. 24181 |
| Book No. 23017 | Book No. 26042 |
| Book No. 2 889 | Book No. 30278 |
| Book No. 31407 | Book No. 3[illegible]69 |
| Book No. 23346 | |



QUINCY SAVINGS BANK
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer
4t Dec. 21-28-Jan. 4-11

ZBYSCO GETS CHESTY.

Polish Wrestler Says He Can Defeat Champion Gotch.

Zbysco's showing against Frank Gotch, the champion, in their recent wrestling match in Buffalo was of such an encouraging nature to the big Polish mat artist's followers that they are willing to back their man in a finish go for $10,000. Zbysco's work surprised every one, and as a result of the bout he has won a number of new admirers. Gotch apparently was surprised with the tussle Zbysco gave him, as he is quoted as saying:

"Zbysco is a big man with which to do battle. He has wonderful strength. As a matter of fact, I believe him to be equally as powerful as Hackenschmidt. He lacks the cleverness of 'the Russian Lion,' however. My meeting with Zbysco has taught me a lesson I am not likely soon to forget. When I met him I had not trained, as I thought he would be an easy victim. But I must confess that he did give me a hard battle. If I ever meet him again I will prove that he is no match for me."

ZBYSCO, THE POLISH WRESTLER WHO WANTS ANOTHER CHANCE AT GOTCH.

The following is what the Pole had to say of the battle:

"If I meet Gotch again I will defeat him. I am sure of that. I had him pretty well tired out, and in a battle to a finish I think I would stand a fine show. I want to meet him again, and I will show the world what I can do to his toe hold."

Since the big Polish wrestler has met Gotch he has received any number of challenges from various mat artists all over the country. He has accepted quite a few of these and from now on will be a busy man.

ICE SKATING CHAMPIONSHIPS

Saranac Lake, N. Y., to Have Competitions Next February.

Lewis Reubenstein, president of the Montreal Skating association, has withdrawn that city's claim to the championship races of the International Amateur Skating association in favor of Saranac Lake, N. Y., where the events will be held early in February after ratification of the election by the International association, which meets in Chicago on Dec. 21.

President John Harding of the Saranac association will attend the Chicago meeting and present the appeal of Edmund Lamy, last year's champion, from the decision of the Eastern association, which has barred him from amateur rings on technical grounds of professionalism.

New Hockey League.

The increasing popularity of the game of ice hockey is evidenced by the many projects for organizing leagues that are arising in different sections of the country. Talk is still rife of a league to include Cleveland, Chicago, Pittsburg and New York and one or two cities across the border. However, it seems as though this plan has not taken tangible form that would lead one to expect developments this season. On the other hand, the organization of minor amateur leagues throughout the middle west and the evident booming of the sport at the eastern colleges lends color to the thought that the game of the crooked stick and rubber disk will in a few years attain really big proportions.

Sullivan to Tour the World.

John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain will start on a tour of the world early next year. Sullivan will go through the United Kingdom. Charley Mitchell will greet the veterans when they appear on the other side, where both participated in bouts early in their careers. Sullivan intends to call upon King Edward, whom he met when he was Prince of Wales.

Coy Will Coach Yale.

Ted Coy, the famous Yale gridiron star, has been appointed head coach of the Blue team. Coy's work on the field in the last three or four years has won him a high place in the records of the game. Coy was not overanxious for the job.

WEYMOUTH LEADING

In Old Colony Bowling League Tournament

The games in the Old Colony bowling league tomorrow night will be: Quincys at Norfolk Downs; Weymouths at Braintree. The standing to date is as follows:

| | Won | Lost | Average |
|---|---|---|---|
| Weymouth, | 5 | 3 | 412 |
| Downs, | 4 | 4 | 421 |
| Quincy | 4 | 4 | 419 |
| Braintree, | 3 | 4 | 421 |

High single,—Grant 122.
High total,—Bugbee 292.

Individual averages:—
Poland, Downs—93.
Beane, Braintree—90.
Bugbee, Downs—8.
Grant, Quincy—89.
Smith, Weymouth—88.
Boutin, Quincy—87.
Melanson, Braintree—87.
Guinon, Downs—85.
Wentworth, Quincy—85.
Natson, Weymouth—85.
Dunn, Downs—84.
Howland, Braintree—84.
Kiley, Weymouth—83.
T. Connell, Weymouth—82.
Welch, Braintree—81.
Burke, Quincy—81.
Alex, Braintree—79.
Guertin, Weymouth—78.
J. Connell, Weymouth—78.
Osgood, Downs—77.
Langill, Downs—76.
Moran, Quincy—76.

PASTOR CALLED.

There was a large attendance at the parish meeting of All Souls' church, Braintree, Monday evening. Five names were added to the membership list. Rev. Daniel Leroy Freeman of Dorchester was unanimously elected as pastor. It was voted to appropriate for minister's salary the sum of $2,000.

NEW FIREMEN.

Chief Engineer Williams has appointed James C. Gallagher a permanent fireman under the civil service rules, and assigned him to the Central station. He has also appointed under the civil service rules Joseph E. McTiernan and Arthur G. Pinel as call firemen, and assigned them to the West Quincy station. The appointments take effect Jan. 1.

☞Don't fail to get the special Christmas edition of the Ledger on Wednesday.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured
with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O
Sold by Druggists price 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS TRADE MARK REGISTERED
Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

MAKARIA BOWLING

Wollaston Wins and Tie with Upland Road

Ted Penley's Wollaston team applied the brush in fine style to the Married Men on Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. alleys, taking two out of the three strings and winning with a margin of 88 pins. Charlie Ganzel had the highest total, 248 pins, and G. W. Gifford was a close second with a 246 total. Gifford also rolled the highest single string, getting a score of 105. Harry Brooks began the bowling but dropped out in favor of Mr. Gifford after the first string. Ted Penley got the highest total for the Wollaston team, 245, and Howard Andrews rolled the highest single string, tallying 94.

The summary:

WOLLASTON.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| R. Jones | 84 | 79 | 79 | 242 |
| H. Andrews | 73 | 74 | 94 | *241 |
| G. McKenzie | 64 | 83 | 72 | 219 |
| D. Morris | 80 | 76 | 80 | 236 |
| T. Penley | 79 | 90 | 76 | 245 |
| | 380 | 402 | 401 | 1183 |

MARRIED MEN.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| W. Baalfour | 72 | 56 | 82 | 210 |
| D. King | 67 | 61 | 69 | 197 |
| H. Brooks | 71 | *70 | *105 | 246 |
| T. King | 59 | 63 | 72 | 194 |
| C. Ganzel | 90 | 82 | 76 | 248 |
| | 359 | 332 | 404 | 1095 |

——*Rolled by G. W. Gifford.

THE STANDING.

In the Makaria league each string counts a game, but the total does not count. The standing to date is as follows, the Upland Road team being tie with Wolaston in games won, but ahead on pinfalls:

| | Won. | Lost. | Pinfall |
|---|---|---|---|
| Upland Road | 2 | 1 | 1203 |
| Wollaston | 2 | 1 | 1183 |
| South Quincy | 1 | 2 | 1194 |
| Married Men | 1 | 2 | 1095 |

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—In Quincy, Monday afternoon, a small brown leather shopping bag with money, keyes and owners name inside. Reward if F. J. Ledger office is notified. Dec. 21 1t

LOST—On 11.20 train from Boston Saturday evening, a suit case marked T. B. L. No questions asked and large reward if return to 195 Goffe street, Quincy, Mass. L. Dec. 14-6t O 18-1w

FOUND

FOUND—A sailboat. Enquire J. MACNAB, 371 Quincy avenue. Quincy, Dec. 17 3t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Light express wagon suitable for grocery or general delivery, will carry a ton; first class condition. Apply at 10 Sumner street, Quincy. Dec. 21-3t

FOR SALE—Johnson-Daniels show case in good condition. Applp at 25 Grant avenue, Milton between 8 and 9 in the morning. Dec.17 3t

TO LET.

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN. Dec. 21 6t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neighborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-1f

TO LET—Office and Stables, now occupied by the Boston & Quincy Express Co., 126 Washington street. Also Hall occupied by the Socialists club, corner Washington and Canal streets. Apply to ALBERT KEATING. Quincy, Dec. 18 2t

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and appartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9 12t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec. 10-12t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 64 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-4f

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-4f

TO LET

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x2 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block. Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x43 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

DR. A. B. PACKARD
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

Read
Ledger Advs!

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 287 QUINCY, MASS., WEDNESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 22, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

BOSTON'S OLDEST AND MOST RELIABLE

Carpet House

ESTABLISHED 1817

Rugs, Carpets, Upholstery
Lace Curtains, Wall Papers
Interior Decorations

Nearly a century of continuous business dealings with the people of New England.

John H. Pray & Sons Co

646-658 Washington St., Opp. Boylston St., Boston.

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy

REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY

Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

FOY

Makes a Specialty of
Supplying Good Things for Christmas

The largest and freshest stock of Christmas Groceries and Sweets in Quincy. We carry everything you need for Christmas Dinner. Our prices are right.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cranberries | 3 qts. 25c. | Rice Pop Corn | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Fancy Drained Citron | lb. 18c. | Common Crackers | lb. 8c. |
| Seeded Raisins | 3 pkg. 25c. | Large Native Onions | pk. 25c. |
| Cleaned Currants | pkg. 10c. | Florida Oranges | doz. 15c. |
| Ideal Not-a-Seed Raisins | pkg. 10c. | 2 lb. box Ribbon Candy | 25c. |
| Slade's Sage | box 5c. | Dates | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Bell's Poultry Seasoning | box 9c. | Cluster Raisins | box 10c. |
| | | Matinee Biscuits | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| | | Takoma Biscuits | 6 pkg. 25c. |

R.E. FOY & Co

COR. WATER AND QUINCY STS.

QUINCY ADAMS

Dec. 20-5t

A GOOD CAR

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

Two Shows at Music Hall, Christmas

Matinee at 2.30, Evening at 8.

3 ACTS, 5,000 FEET MOVING PICTURES.

Advance Sale of Coupon Reserved Seat Tickets.

GET YOURS TODAY

Admission 10 Cents. Reserved 20 Cents. Dec. 18-6t

If YOU Want Business

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS

METROPOLITAN PARKS AND BOULEVARDS

City of Quincy Has Paid State $103,412.23 in Assessments and Lost $74,155.07 in Taxes

State Has Expended in Quincy $237,614.03 for Land and $338,128.23 for Construction in Addition to Blue Hills Reservation

The report of the special committee of the City Council appointed to consider the matter of boulevards as made by Councilman Freeman, chairman of the committee at Monday night's meeting of the City Council was very complete and gave much information that will be news to many residents. The report gives in detail the amount expended for land and construction on the Quincy Shore reservation, Furnace Brook parkway and Blue Hills reservation.

It also gives the number of acres of land taken for these reservations or boulevards, and the valuation of the same. Taxes including 1909 and park assessment including interest from 1902 to 1909 inclusive. In conclusion, the reports quotes the assessors as saying that adjacent land where the boulevard has been finished has advanced in value but land adjacent to unfinished boulevards has not advanced.

The report of the committee in full was as follows:

Quincy, Mass. April 7, 1909.

Councilman Richard R. Freeman,

Dear Sir:—Following is a copy of a resolve adopted by the City Council at its meeting Monday evening April 5, 1909.

RESOLVED: That a special committee of three be appointed by the Chair to act in conjunction with the Mayor, President of the City Council and City Solicitor to inquire into this City's situation in relation to Driveways Boulevards and Reservations under the control of the Metropolitan Park Commission, and report the result of their investigation covering the following and any other material points as soon as possible.

What amount has been expended for land takings?

What amount has been expended for construction?

What amount has Quincy paid in assessments?

What amount has Quincy lost in taxes on account of the land taken?

What effect has the construction, non-construction and kind of construction had on taxable values of adjacent property, to the so-called Furnace Brook and Quincy Shore Reservations?

What benefits or injuries have resulted to Quincy taxpayers?

What remedial action is recommended?

The Committee may hold public meetings and prosecute their inquiries as they may determine.

The Committee appointed by the Chair is:—Councilmen Freeman, Hadlock and Abele.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE T. MAGEE,
Clerk of Council.

Boston May 26, 1909.

Mr. R. R. Freeman,

95 Commercial Street, Boston.

Dear Sir:—The amount expended for land and construction of parks and parkways the whole or a portion of which are in Quincy, to December 1, 1908 has been:—

QUINCY SHORE RESERVATION

| | |
|---|---|
| Land, | $73,716.26 |
| Construction, | 198,071.43 |
| Total, | $271,787.60 |

FURNACE BROOK PARKWAY

| | |
|---|---|
| Land, | $163,897.77 |
| Construction | 140,056.89 |
| Total, | $303,954.66 |

BLUE HILLS RESERVATION

| | |
|---|---|
| Land, | $363,069.09 |
| Construction, | 287,115.40 |
| Total, | $650,184.49 |

TOTAL EXPENDITURE

| | |
|---|---|
| Land, | $600,683.12 |
| Construction, | 625,243.63 |
| Total, | $1,225,926.75 |

How much of the cost of Blue Hills Reservation, land and construction, is in Quincy, must necessarily be a matter of estimate. It may be roughly estimated as one-third. This would make the total expenditure for land and construction of Metropolitan Parks and Parkways in Quincy $792,470.42.

Very truly yours,
JOHN WOODBURY,
Secretary.

| | |
|---|---|
| Takings of 1894, 2,573.56 acres | $128,675.00 |
| Takings of 1900, 3,462,261 feet | $173,113.05 |
| Takings of 1901, 98,730 feet | 4,936.50 |
| Takings of 1902, 1,351,420 feet | 63,167.00 |
| Takings of 1903, 50,180 feet | 1,700.00 |
| Takings of 1905, 13,405 feet | 1,500.00 |
| Takings of 1906, 9,368 feet.. | 372.40 |
| Total | $373,463.95 |

For Blue Hill Reservation, Quincy Shore and Furnace Brook Parkway. Taxes on same including 1909 $74,155.07

The Board of Assessors state that where the boulevard has been finished there has been an advance in value to adjacent land, but land adjacent to unfinished boulevards has not increased in value.

Park Assessment including interest:

| | |
|---|---|
| 1909 | $14,542.94 |
| 1908 | 14,181.85 |
| 1907 | 12,910.28 |
| 1906 | 12,187.74 |
| 1905 | 9,215.86 |
| 1904 | 9,088.94 |
| 1903 | 8,247.69 |
| 1902 | 23,036.93 |
| Total | $103,412.23 |

CHRISTMAS AT ST. CHRYSOSTOMS.

Services will be held at St. Chrysostoms church on Saturday, Christmas day. Holy Eucharist, with carols at 7 A. M. Morning prayer, communion, and sermon at 10 A. M.

The musical program for Christmas day and also for Sunday Dec. 26, will be:

Saltalamachia & Cusolito—Fruits.

| | |
|---|---|
| Voluntary in D flat | Gustave Merkel |
| Processional hymn 49, "O come all ye faithful" | J. Randall |
| Venite 12 | Martin |
| Te Deum in key of C | Henry Baker |
| Jubilate in key of F | |
| Introit 75, "Calm on the listening ear of night" | Arr. J. Barnby |
| Shorter Kyrie | B. Tours |
| Gloria Tibi | |
| Hymn 60, "Angels from the realms of glory" | |
| Offertory, "Sing, O Heavens" | Berthold Tours |
| Presentation 408 | L. Bourgeois |
| Sursum Corda | Ely Service Book |
| Sanctus | |
| Hymn 225, "Bread of the world" | |
| Gloria in Excelsis | Old Chant |
| Nunc Dimittis 222 | C. A. Barry |
| Recessional Hymn 53 "Shout the glad tidings" | |
| Postlude in G | Henry Smart |

Soloist, Miss Susan Louise Nicholls.
Organist, Miss Louisa Allison Ross.

—Contracts have been awarded by the Navy department for a new naval hospital at Chelsea.

—Whatever the matter with Kansas there surely is nothing the matter with its railroad commission, which has just secured a reduction in sleeping-car rates, the general reduction throughout the state amounting to fifty cents a berth. Let other railroad commissions and public service commissions secure the formula by which the Kansas commission dissolved the prices.—Barre Times.

LADIES' NIGHT BROTHERHOOD

Fowler Chapter Listens to Address on Woman

"Ladies' Night" was observed by the Fowler chapter of the Methodist Brotherhood at the Hall Place M. E. Church, Monday evening.

The business session was called to order by the president, Richard H. Moyle at 8 o'clock. After the usual devotional service in charge of the chaplain, the members responded heartily in the impressive ritualistic work of the brotherhood and the business of the hour. The president then welcomed the ladies

The chaplain Rev. Carl H. Raupach, was the first speaker. Mr. Raupach presented the work of the brotherhood in a manner which showed that the brotherhood is accomplishing a great deal and is filling a great need in this community. He said that the Brotherhood is not something separate from the church, but is a part of the church clinging very close to the idea of church work and its mission.

The work is divided into four divisions. First—the religious and social service, under the direction of the first vice president, whose duty it is to arrange religious services, and to assist in any of the work that can be carried on in the community at large.

Second—the department of Bible and mission study.

Third—Fellowship department, under whose direction the service of the evening was planned, and lastly the department for membership, whose duty it is to look after the new members and bring them into the organization. While the Brotherhood is a religious organization in the church yet in the months to come it hopes to do work along other lines and believed that in this community it shall come into closest touch with the workingmen.

The president then introduced Rev. H. W. Hook, who brought the message of the hour. Mr. Hook took for his subject, "Woman." Not the woman who is a moving fashion model, displaying the latest styles from Paris; but the woman who uses her powers for the uplifting of mankind. Mr. Hook emphasized the moulding power of a woman, the power that will either transform a man into the likeness of the powers of darkness, or transfigure a man into the likeness of the son of God. He pointed out the important part that women have played in national affairs, the brave deeds which many have done that have helped to save a nation and turn defeat into victory.

Mr. Hook laid special stress on the power of a woman to save a man, the power to turn him from sin and despair, to a life of goodness hid in Christ, and related several instances where the recollection of a woman, a mother, has saved a man from ruin, or the gentle influence of a voice has brought many a man to a realization of his wrongdoing and transfigured him into the true likeness of Christ.

Those preesnt could not help but agree with the speaker that a woman plays one of the most important parts in the life of a man. Mr. Hook is the pastor of the Methodist church at Mattapan and is well known to the people of the Hall Place M. E. church, especially the members of the Epworth League, as he has been the president of the Pilgrim Union of Epworth Leagues for the past two years and all those who were present and heard his message agree with the pastor of this church that it is a most excellent address, and the ladies present will help by taking home the lessons of the evening. How great will be the reward of the women who use their power and influence to mould the characters of the world into Christlikeness.

Following the address ice cream and cake were served under the direction of the fellowship committee, and a social time was enjoyed. The meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock.

—The Jacob Sleeper hall on Somerset street, Boston, being prepared as a home for Elks was damaged $1500 by fire early Tuesday morning.

WOLLASTON MAKES MOVE FOR NEW SCHOOLHOUSE

Congregational Club Appoint a Committee to Report at Next Meeting

State Secretary of Gypsy Moth Commission Tells of the Problem of His Department and Asks Cooperation

"Whereas well founded complaints have been made, for several years, against the Wollaston Grammar school because of its unsanitary conditions and limited accommodations.

Resolved, that the president of the Men's Congregational club appoint a committee of three members who shall investigate the complaints and the school, and if the situation demands it, shall take immediate steps to connect with kindred organizations for the purpose of cooperation."

These in part were the resolutions offered by Rufus B. Tobey and unanimously adopted at the meeting of the Wollaston Congregational club on Tuesday evening.

Walter F. Nichols, when called upon, spoke most strongly in favor of a new building. Ward Five, he said has been patient and long suffering along the line of improvements. The present building was erected years ago when the town made modest appropriations. Mr. Nichols referred to the more elaborate buildings the city has recently built, mentioning in particular the Cranch costing $45,000 the Massachusetts Fields costing $37,000 and the Atlantic costing $63,000. It is, said Mr. Nichols, now time not only to ask but demand that something be done, and there is no reason why the city should not be asked to replace the present building.

Mr. Goodspeed, principal of the school said that although the State inspector had been satisfied and conditions were not alarming, they were far from satisfactory. He spoke of the danger in case of fire and of the sanitary conditions. "The Wollaston said Mr. Goodspeed, "has been going from bad to worse, and the question is whether we repair to carry us along for a few years or condemn it now.

As a result the following committee consisting of Rufus B. Tobey, Amos T. Leavitt and C. M. Godfrey were appointed by President Hogue, with instructions to report at the next meeting of the club.

Charles O. Bailey of Newbury, state secretary of the commission for suppressing gypsy and brown tail moths addressed the club regarding the problem of his department.

Among the invited guests present were: Dock-commissioner Frank Fessenden Crane of Quincy; George Ward Cook, of Haverill, a member of the State forestry association; ex-Councilman Walter F. Nichols and Councilmen-elect Fred O. Snow and A. W. Loud.

Mr. Bailey told of the history of the gypsy moth in this country from the time of its accidental introduction at Medford is 1868 up to the present. He described how the past had spread when in 1899 the state ceased its appropriations for five years.

From the present time until about the first of May the pest is in the egg form in groups of 500 or 800, forming a spongelike cluster to be found on tree trunks, in the cavities of stonewalls, on old tin cans or other unlooked for places. For this reason in a most thorough search a person is not able to destroy the entire pest in this form.

Hatching about May first, the caterpiller feeds on the leaves for five or six weeks, and at maturity, casting its skin goes into the chrysalis to emerge in about two weeks and begin the laying of eggs. For the destruction of the moth Mr. Bailey recommended a five cent paint brush and ten cents worth of creosote with which to paint the egg clusters.

He then mentioned the tanglefoot which should be placed around the trees in the spring to protect them from invasion. The burlap bands were simply traps to catch those of thepest already on the tree. By the latter method about 75 per cent could be eliminated while spraying would take care of the rest.

Mr. Bailey told of the manner in which the cities and individuals are taxed for the suppression of the moth and made an earnest plea for cooperation in its extermination. The work, he said, is in reality but a part of the theory of the conservation of natural resources about which we hear so much, and it is the duty of every patriotic citizen to do all in his power to help on the work.

At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Bailey was asked many questions about this and other pests.

ACCIDENT AT QUINCY POINT.

Joseph Prisinano, aged about 25 years, residing on Water street, received a bad shaking up and injuries to his back by falling into the hole of a vessel unloading coal at the street railway power house at Quincy Point this morning. The man was at work unloading the vessel about 7 o'clock, when he lost his balance and fell a distance of fifteen feet, landing on his back. Dr. Middleton was called and after administering first aid, ordered his removal to the City Hospital. Probably he was not seriously injured. Prisinano is said to have a wife in Italy.

IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS?

Editor Daily Ledger:

No Santa Claus! Yes, my little man, there is a Santa Claus, thank God! The world would indeed be poor without one. It is true that he does not always wear a white beard and drive a reindeer team. Not always, you know, but what does it matter? He is Santa Claus, with the kind thoughts for everyone who make children and grown up people beam with happiness all day long.

And I shall tell you a secret which I did not learn at the Post Office, but it is true all the same of how you can always be sure your letters go to him straight by the chimney route. It is this. Send along with them a friendly thought for the boy you don't like; for Jack who pinched you; or Jim, who was mean to you. The meaner he was the harder do you resolve to make it up; not to bear him a grudge. That is the stamp for the letter to Santa. Nobody can stop it, not even a cross-draught in the chimney, when it has that on.

Because, don't you know, Santa Claus is the spirit of Christmas; and ever and ever so many years ago, when the dear little baby was born after whom we call Christmas; and was cradled in the manger out in the stable because there was not room in the inn, that spirit came into the world to soften the hearts of men and make them love one another.

Therefore, that is the mark of the spirit to this day. Don't let anybody or anything rub it out. Then the rest doesn't matter. Let them tear Santa's white beard off at the Sunday School festival and growl in his bearskin coat. These are only his disguises. The steps of the real Santa you can trace all through the world, as ye have done hear with me and when you stand in the last of his traks you will find the Blessed Babe of Bethlehen smiling a welcome to you, for then you will be home.

Albert Akerstron
162 Granite street, Quincy, Mass.
I am a lad of 15 years of age.

TODAY'S COURT.

Yille Roos of Milton was fined $10 for violation of the automobile law on the Park reservation.

FREE

One pound of the best Christmas candy with every 75 cent purchase or more during this week also a pretty new year Calendar. Choicest of the best fruits, as sweet oranges, 15 cents a dozen up, Malaga grapes 15 cents and 20 cents pound, Christmas candy 15 cents pound, 2 pounds for 25 cents, nuts, candy, tobacco and cigars.

SALTALAMACHIA & CUSOLITO,
1003 Hancock street,
Opposite the Auditorium.

Dec. 22 3t

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

COLONIAL CHRISTMAS DINNER

The Christmas season brings to mind the many Christmas Days gone by, with their four great features—turkey, cranberry sauce, plum pudding and mince pie.

It was a good old English custom not to be rejected by the American Colonists, although modifications were necessary to suit the religion and conditions of living in the Colonies, the Christ-spirit being substituted for the pagan yuletide, the famous "boar's-head" was omitted, and the Christmas pie became known as mince pie.

However, many old observances were kept, including the mistletoe and holly and Christmas was a day for family gatherings, with a feast prepared by the women of the house.

It is quite possible that we would not like their flavorings today. They used a variety of spices, wines and seasonings in even their plainest dishes; but as everything was prepared in the home, either under the supervision of the mistress or by her own hands, the mixtures were wholesome.

Everything was turned to account in the season with a view to future use, so in this way preparations for the holiday were going on long before the day.

In cherry time a supply was carefully packed in hay and kept for Christmas.

The Christmas cookies, with coriander seed in them were baked six months before and kept in an earthenware jar in the cellar.

The rich plum puddings and cakes were made early in the Fall and put away to mellow and ripen.

The mince meat was then made, the receipe for which I found in an old cook-book. I copy all but the spelling: "Four pounds veal, four pounds suet, two pounds raisins, one pound currants, six apples, some rose water and sack half a pound no more of sugar ,three-fourths pound cloves, mace, nutmeg and cinnamon, some candied orange peel, lemon peel, citron, and blanched almonds."

They made a puff paste for their pies, different from ours. One recipe called for flour, one pound of butter, ten eggs and some milk or water.

Some housewives made their Winter supply of mince pies before Thanksgiving, and reheated them before using.

For the lemon tarts, the lemons had to be first soaked in salt water for two days. Then every day for fourteen days they were put into fresh cold water. When they were made, apples, oranges, and sugar were added.

A few days before Christmas the mistress went to market, the maid carrying the basket. She would get her turkey, cranberries, celery, oysters, and a little pig for roasting whole.

The day before Christmas the real excitement began. The stuffing was made, and such stuffing. Bread crumbs, beef suet, liver, lemon peel, nutmeg, savory, pepper, salt cream and eggs. The little pig, only four or five weeks old, was filled to his utmost capacity with mashed potatoes or apples.

Not the least to be considered were the green decorations. Ground pine for festoons and wreaths, mistletoe to hang, and holly everywhere were the necessities.

When Christmas morning came the excitement was at the highest pitch. The housewife, her daughters and her maids were up early. The brick oven was heated and the mince pies put in. The turkey was dredged with flour and put on the spit, with a small unwilling child to watch and turn it as it browned.

Another child was set to cracking nuts and polishing the apples.

The little pig was put before the fire to roast in the dripping pan, in which were three bottles of red wine for basting.

While the things were cooking a long table, the length of the room, was spread with the white linen cloth, napkins, china and silver or pewter.

In the middle of the table was the famed Christmas bowl. I copy the quaint directions for making it:

"Break nine sponge cakes and half a pound of macaroons in a deep dish; pour over one pint raisin wine, half pint sherry. Leave them to soak. Sweeten with two ounces of powdered sugar candy and pour over one pint and a half of custard. Stick with two ounces of sliced almonds. Place on a stand and ornament with Christmas evergreens."

The tankard with the Christmas brew was put on the table, and all the syllabubs, jellies, pickles, lemon tarts, red apples, nuts, the cookies and the cherries fresh from the hay.

The fireplaces were now blazing, and the red berries and green leaves of the holly were shining in the light.

The mistletoe was waiting for the unwary, and the good smell of the brown turkey, savory stuffing, and apple sauce was everywhere.

After the housewife and her daughters had seen to everything they hurried to put on their best flowered silks, with white whims around their necks and the most secret beautifiers on their faces.

Then the dinner being nearly cooked they took the little browned pig, raised him gently and put two small loaves of bread under him, and added more wine; an anchovy, a bundle of sweet herbs, and half a lemon were put into the sauce, which was poured over him hot. They had him sitting on his haunches looking lifelike. Then they put a red apple in his mouth, which, alas! he could never eat, and garnished him with holly.

At last the company came, the mistress preserving a calm exterior, but with an inward anxiety lest something be burned or spilled at the last moment.

When all is ready the beaming host says, "Friends will thee join us in the Christmas feast?" And with great dignity he leads them, with the guest of honor on his arm, followed by the older people and the children.

The table is a picture to cheer the hungry. The large turkey is at one end and the pig at the other end of the long table with everything they are to eat between, excepting the plum pudding.

After the silent grace, which stills the noise for a moment, the carver takes his knife, and with a deliberation born of steady nerves carves under the fire of twenty pairs of eyes.

The directions in Gentlewomen's Housewifery says: "Raise the leg fairly of the turkey and open the joint with the point of the knife, but do not take off the leg." Then lace down both sides of the breast bone and open the breast pinion but do not take it off. Then raise the Merry Thought between the breast bone and the top of it," and so on till the turkey is boned. While this is being done the "Christmas bowl" is passed.

After they are helped to turkey and pig they pass the vegetables and delicacies, and even the mince pie is eaten when they have the desire for it.

The proper conventions are strictly adhered to. The book of etiquette says: "A gentlewoman must not lean her elbows on the table, nor by a ravenous gesture discover a voracious appetite, nor talk with her mouth full, nor smack her lips like a pig."

The children were kept in order. In all the feast was decorous, but merry for all that.

At last when they have eaten to the extent of their capacity, the plum pudding, blazing and with a piece of holly stuck in the top, is brought in and eaten with brandy sauce. Then the toasts are drunk with the good home-brewed wine and the feast is done. Anne Rittenhouse in New York Times.

SEA FOAM CANDY.

To three cupfuls light brown sugar add one cupful boiling water and place over the fire. Stir only until the sugar is dissolved. Then, cook without stirring until it spins a thread. Take from the fire, and when the mixture stops bubbling add to it gradually the stiffly whipped whites of two eggs.

Continue to beat, using a wire wip until the mass is soft and creamy, yet of a consistency to stand alone, without spreading. Flavor with vanilla when half beaten, and when done add one cupful English walnuts coarsely chopped.

Drop in dots on waxed paper. It should present a rough, uneven appearance.

---

"What do you think of woman for a voter?"

"I think every voter ought to have one."—Houston Post.

---

—A Kansas man feels that the fathers of the country have not been given adequate recognition in song and story, as compared with the mothers and other members of the family. Consequently, for the best sentiment, either in verse, limited to 40 lines, or prose ,limited to 400 words, he offers $100 in each case, with smaller prizes running down from $50, $25, $15 and so on, until the total offered in prizes aggregates $400. Here is an excellent opportunity for ambitious young poets and authors to gain fame and a little pin money in a hitherto neglected field of literary effort. The papers are to be published in book form, and the originator of the scheme confidently anticipates that the volume will readily become one of the "best sellers," as every head of a household will want a copy.—Milford Gazette.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

Open thy hand at Christmas-time,
Open thy heart to Christmas-chime,
Open thy soul to thoughts sublime.

• • •

The work of the visiting nurse in Brockton has proven itself to be of inestimable value to those in need of nursing care for an hour or more each day, and the association reports an average of ten calls per day. In fact there is such a growing demand for services that the association is seriously considering adding a second nurse to its corps, the lack of funds being the only obstacle to doing this at once. As a nucleus for funds to meet this need of an assistant nurse a silver Christmas collection is being taken by the directors.

• • •

The Dorchester Woman's club is to have a Christmas meeting Dec. 28, when Mrs. Edward Avis will be present "An Afternoon in Birdland" and a Christmas tea will be served. At a recent meeting an interesting letter was read from a girl using the club scholarship in Maryville college, Tenn. The club is to hold two all-day sewing meetings, the one on Dec. 29 will be to sew for the home for Crippled Children in Hyde Park.

• • •

Milton's W. R. C., has elected the following officers: President, Dr. Anna C. Palmer; senior vice president, Mrs. Nettie Palmer; junior vice president, Mrs. Beckwith Richards; chaplain, Mrs. Emily R. Harlow; treasurer, Mrs. Nellie B. Mitchell; conductress, Mrs. Sadie Holmes; guard, Mrs. Lizzie Tucker; delegate to convention, Mrs. W. I. Tuckerman; alternate, Mrs. Emma Littlefield. There will be a joint election of the corps, camp and G. A. R. in January.

• • •

Somerville Woman's club bids fair to have unpleasant notoriety because of returning the annual dues to a member and asking the return of her membership card. The member refuses to return the card and will contest the action of the club taken by its executive board through her attorney.

• • •

Hyde Park Current Events club had a home talent afternoon of wide scope last week. Mrs. Llewellyn S. Evans presented the current events, speaking in detail upon the following: Boston politics, housing of Boston school children, Ludlow strike, suffragist meetings, opinion and active work, conference of Congregational and Unitarian churches at Hingham, porcelain of Hamlet at Art Museum, starting of Good Cheer Society in Boston with explanation of source and object. Taft's visit to New York, foot ball restrictions, Hetty Green's birthday, suppression of white slave traffic, the character of the leader in Nicaragua, aspertion on King Leopold, great progress in aeronautics by combining capital with energy of Wright brothers, Canada's ambition for many of her own, promise by Prime Minister of Home Rule for Ireland, commercial value of eucalyptus trees grown in California, and the danger of too little sentiment used at Christmas, the great heart feast of mankind.

• • •

The date of the musicale of Quincy Alliance is Jan. 14 and will be the last in the series of entertainments being given under their auspices. It is anticipated that the chapel will be packed as the entertainers are great favorites being the Westland quartet and Miss Whiton, pianist.

• • •

The Art and Literature committee of the Quincy Women's club is to have a gentlemen's night at the clubhouse January twelfth, when club members and escorts will be welcome. Thomas A. Watson, Esq., of East Braintree will read "The Winter's Tale" and a treat is promised those attending.

• • •

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith is to address the Junior Alliance of First church at their meeting Monday evening in the chapel.

• • •

Monday club of Weymouth had a "current events" meeting this week also an entertainment of songs by Miss Louise Ford of Hyde Park and readings by Nixon Waterman the poet. The Club has had most gratifying success at its holiday exchange table sales.

• • •

Art classes at the Boston Art Museum have been arranged by the Hepatorean club of Somerville as follows: January 25, 1910 Egyptian, Greek, Roman, and classic art; February 1 and 8, pictures, including all in the museum; March 1 and 8, western art; March 22, Japanese and Chinese art. The classes are limited in number, and February 1 and March 1 are extra dates arranged to accommodate those in excess of the number that can be taken care of at one time.

• • •

Reynolds W. R. C. of Weymouth, has elected the following officers for 1910: President, Mrs. Carrie F. Loring; S. V. President, Mrs. Mary E. Mahoney; J. V. P., Mrs. Agnes F. Baldwin; Treasurer, Mrs. Mary E. Smith; Chaplain, Mrs. Eliza Ferris; Cond. Miss Alice H. Derby; Guard, Mrs. Mary E. Trainer; Delegates to the Department Convention: 1st delegate, Mrs. Mary E. Holbrook; 2d. delegate, Mrs. Annie E. Jordan; 3rd delegate Mrs. Eliza Ferris; 4th delegate, Mrs. Harriet B. Whitcomb. Alternates: 1st, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Pratt; 2d, Miss Alice H. Derby; 3d, Mrs. S. Addie Pease; 4th, Mrs. Mary McLaughlin. The next regular meeting will be in G. A. R. East Weymouth on Thursday evening at half past seven.

• • •

Club women of Somerville have taken an interest this year in the municipal election putting up two candidates for the school committee and winning out in both cases. It was exciting but the mothers of the city felt that they should be recognized in the management of the schools, being better qualified as to the needs of the schools than were the men candidates.

• • •

Friday club has a holiday meeting Dec. 31st at the home of Mrs. James M. Nowland, Edgemere road. Mrs. Emery L. Crane is chairman for the afternoon, the subject being Rhode Island—Roger Williams; persecution of the Quakers.

• • •

John H. Gutterson of Weymouth is to give a musical lecture on "Il Trovatore" on Jan. 3 under the auspices of the Reading Woman's club, for the benefit of the building fund of the new Congregational church. The club observes children's day Friday, Dec. 31 when an entertainment will be given by the Dorothea Dix children.

• • •

The Christmas meeting of the Charitable Ten's Circle of King's Daughters was held Monday afternoon with Miss Carrie Follett Spear of Hancock street. The following special program was presented and much enjoyed by all present.

Hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

The Lord's Prayer, by the Circle.

Prayers for work and charity by Mrs. Davis.

The Lord is My Shepherd, by Mrs. Butler.

He Shall Feed His Flock, by Miss Spear.

Reading from St. Luke, 2, 1-14,, Mrs. Bickford.

The Birthday of a King, by Miss Spear.

Essay by Mrs. Ellsworth.

After this the Circle voted to make the usual Christmas donations to worthy charities among these being Pond Home, Ingleside, Quincy Day Nursery Quincy Home and also baskets to some needy families. Flowers were also sent to members who are ill. It was reported that the annual sale would net about sixty dollars.

• • •

The Philanthropic committee of the Quincy Women's club finds time even at this busy season to be thoughtful of others and keeps right on doing good all the time. Tonight they visit the Quincy Home and give an entertainment a spread and a general good time for the inmates.

• • •

Quincy Alliance has not held a Christmas party for two years but this year decided to resume the custom and is holding the party this afternoon in the chapel of First church. Many little ones and their mothers will have a happy time.

• • •

The dramatic and musical committee of the New England Women's club gave a most successful dramatic afternoon on Monday in the club rooms on Boylston street, Boston, commemorating the centenary of Edward Fitzgerald. A reading of his translation of Agamemnon was given the stage being artistically arranged and the costumes reproductions of the ancient Greeks. In the cast were:

| | |
|---|---|
| Agamemnon | Mr. S. G. Davis |
| Clytemnestra | Mrs. Myles Standish |
| Cassandra | Miss R. R. Joslin |
| Aegisthus | Miss M. A. Molineux |

Attendants—Mrs. H. B. Burley, Mrs. C. A. Hight.

Chorus—Mrs. W. E. Alden, Mrs. G. W. Homer.

Semi-chorus—Mrs. R. M. Read, Mrs. C. M. Cooper.

• • •

Miss Charlotte Burgess will be hostess for the Hospital Aid association at the home of Mrs. Wilson Tisdale on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 30, at three o'clock. It will be the annual meeting and a large attendance is hoped for.

• • •

WOLLASTON W. C. T. U.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U., met Tuesday with Mrs. Simpson Kay of Beale street. Mrs. Amos D. Albee president was leader for the afternoon. After devotional service lead by Mrs. Crothers, the secretary Mrs. Thomas Armstrong read the reports. Mrs. Mary E. Mills read a letter which thanked the Union for the box sent to the Francis E. Willard Fair of which she gave an account. She also told of the invitation extended to the Union to visit the Willard Y. settlement on New Years day when they keep open house. The Loyal Temperance Legion was discussed and money voted to the Flower Mission for their Christmas work. A little leaflet entitled "A constitutional prohibitory amendment Quiz" was read by Mrs. Frank Burgess which contained brief information but right to the point.

Selections from "Union Signal" and "Our Message" were read which proved interesting and showed that temperance and prohibition have become questions of intense popular interest and that the temperance sentiment created is being crystallized in votes, the last selection read was entitled "Evidence" and was as follows: It is reported that the great Pabst brewery of Milwaukee, which used to run seven days and seven nights a weeks, is now running only three days a week. The Anheuser-Busch brewery at St. Louis has acres of storage space filled with returned fixtures from closed saloons. The brewers' storehouses in Milwaukee are overflowing with these returned saloon fixtures, hundreds of carloads of them, and as no insurance can be obtained on them, and the rental of more storage space is expensive the brewers have begun to burn them. When asked why his company would not insure stored saloon fixtures, an insurance man replied: "We are not writing insurance on worthless goods!"

Prohibition seems to prohibit to some extent; and the "temperance wave" evidently is not receding appreciably.

---

—It is reported that the federal government has forbidden the war department purchasing oil from the Standard Co., the United States courts having ruled that the corporation is an illegal combination.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Already people are talking about changing styles. It is a season of unrest. Gladly will be welcomed the day when designer and individual will lay down arms and say, "Let there be peace."

The strife in clothes, the struggle for new and brilliant things, has been miniature war. Possibly the merchants are the only ones who do not get brain fag by it. The individual loses money and surely the designer must bee exhausted. And, after all, the merchant has a chance of being exhausted in the race with his rivals for the option on new and wonderful fabrics and ornaments.

At present, however, there is no chance of cessation in the race for starting things. It is quite true that the extremist is the only one who is really kept busy by the inrush and outrush of fashions, for it is she who thinks it necessary to keep up with these changes.

The individualist does not, and that great class of well-dressed women who follow conservative ideas do their best to keep in a safe middle path that does not lead to any kind of destruction.

Yet no one who lives in a lively and alert environment escapes the actual unrest in fashions or escapes an excited interest in a desire to know of, and a tendency to follow at a safe distance, the new and incoming mode. It is human. It is feminine.

There seems little desire on the part of any one to relinquish the short skirt or even to talk it down. It is as safely intrenched as it was a few years ago. As yet the American woman of fashion has not taken it up for the house or formal occasions. She rightly clings to the sweeping skirt for ceromonial affairs although the French designers have tried to force the short wedding gown and the abbreviated dance frock.

Every one has noticed a decided leaning toward the short skirt under a long fur or cloth coat, combined with a handsome hat, for many kinds of afternoon occasions, but the style does not receive the best sanction.

The woman who is making a new frock may go safely ahead on a short skirt, provided she has one or several long ones that serve for the occasions that demand them. It should be well recognized by this time that it is not a season when a gown can have written over it "Multum in parvo." Each costume stands by itself. America has learned the European lesson. Even the cut of the neck is regulated by the formality of the hour when it is worn.

One could write a chapter on this alone if one reflected the many opinions and practice of those who set an example in dressing. There has arisen almost a Beau Brummellism as to the importance of being in earnest about these trifles.

The fondness for top coats has not diminished. They hold their own with the short skirt. Splendor is the quality that can be attached to many of them.

Fur, which was once a luxury, is now a necessity, or so one would imagine from its frequency. As a top coat it is first cousin to the leaves in Vallambrosa. Semi-precious pelts have lowered prices to rock bottom, and one now adds such a garment to the wardrobe, whereas in other days it was the main feature of the wardrobe.

Often its purchase necessitated careful economy along the whole range of clothes.

This season the long fur coat is worn by the lady of the limousine and the girl going to work at 8 o'clock A. M. Its frequency has made many women hesitate before getting one, but in the end the fur coat is added to one's possessions for fair days and rough ones.

Beyond this everyday garment there is a multitude of top coats for formal occasions which are quite an important feature of the season. Those of panne velvet are very handsome, edged with skunk, moleskin, or bear. These are lined with brilliantly colored brocades and satins. Even the large inside pockets are edged with fur, to add to the costly and sumptuous look.

Others are of watered silk, of that lovely weave that has a faint ripple of water over its surface, nothing wavy and definite as is the marking of moire. These are full length and always heightened in effect, and softened by fur collar and cuffs.

In truth, it is difficult to do away with the addition of fur, no matter of what fabric the garment may be made. The approved coat suits for morning wear with short skirts, made of basket cloth and cheviot, have Russian cuffs that fit the arm, made of shaggy, braid and buttons.

There is also a tendency to edge the front that fastens over with an inch of fur.

There is much character in this. It gives the look of warmth our Winter days demand. It has the cheerful effect of a wood fire on the beholder.

In the world of millinery the turban has survived. Just why, no one explains. It may be the law concerning the fittest, for, barring the monstrosities, it is a most desirable headgear for our climate and our mode of life. It fits the head with comfort, it resists the wind, and interferes not with the passerby, or the one who sits next.

It has usurped the place of the picture hat for many formal affairs, and it is generally seen in the evening where women foregather in costumes that allow hats. One of the peculiarities of our sex is that we are fond of wearing hats, and take every chance that is presented to us. As much as we copy the King's set in London in our speech, in our theatres, and in our establishments, we do not accept its altogether delightful custom of going bareheaded to the play.

We wear hats. We struggle to get them off after we sit down; we endanger every one's comfort with a half dozen spiked hatpins; we are painfully conscious that our coiffure is crushed.

When departing we put on our hats at the worst angle, after hunting hatpins on the floor and fruitlessly stabbing our scalps to get a hold.

The custom is senseless . It cannot be defended from any point of view. It is inconvenient, and it leaves a woman helpless to look her best at a place where her head and face are the visible parts of her.

Yet we slavishly follow the custom, although we are alone in it. The English go bareheaded; the French leave their hats in the dressing room.

But that is a digression from turbans. These, at least, are less troublesome when held in the lap than a Marquise or tricorne.

The popularity of this form of headgear is not easy to analyze. The turban is rarely pictorial. It hides the hair. Yet it has survived the contest.

The eminently large hat has a wide brim that turns straight up at the back and is flatly held to the crown.

It is not becoming, even the fairest face is not enhanced by it, but it is approved and it is smart.—New York Times.

BRIEFS

Miss Ethel Hersey of Wellesley college is spending the holidays at her home on Washington street.

Miss Carlena Walker of Thayer street is home from Wellesley college for the holidays.

Miss Helen King reached Wollaston today for ten days' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. King of Clay street. Miss King is a teacher of corrective gymnastics at Washington, D. C.

Cochato club of Braintree is to have a New Year's eve dance at the clubhouse Dec. 31st under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin King Patch Miss Lora A. Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Curtis and Emera W. Kingsbery.

Elliot club meets the 29th with Mrs. Charles B. Young of Prospect avenue and she has the musicale in charge. This year is the 35th anniversary and on the 29th the club will vote or determine how they shall observe it.

MINCE MEAT, LARGE RULE.

Allow to three pounds tender chopped lean boiled or roasted beef six pounds coarsely chopped apples (Spitzenbergs or greenings preferred,) two-thirds of a pound of butter, one and one-third pounds of suet chopped fine and freed from strings, four pounds sugar, four pounds seeded raisins, three pounds currants, washed and dried, three pints sweet cider and three pints boiled cider, one quart of the stock in which beef has boiled, six heaping teaspoonfuls cinnamon four teaspoonfuls cloves, two tablespoonfuls salt, one pint molasses, a teaspoonful pepper, half a pound shredded citron, the same quantity candied orange and lemon peel mixed, and three pints jelly or juice of preserves.

Boil half an hour or long enough to scald through, thoroughly pack in stone jars or glass cans and set aside in a cool place.

When ready to use scatter a few whole raisins on top of each pie and if not quite moist enough add a little more cider, fruit juice or even cold tea or coffee. Even fermented juices have their use in mincemeat, as the alcohol evaporates in the cooking.

Prunes chopped, may be used in place of so many raisins. The beef should be cooked all day, or until perfectly tender, and the stock in which it is cooked reduced to a jelly-like consistency. Let the beef cool over night in the stock in which it has been cooked. This mincemeat should stand several days to ripen before making into pies.

Other additions for mince pies that are specialities with certain families are quinces, three to every four pounds of beef; blanched and chopped almonds and almonds and almond or lemon extract.

Any left overs from the fall's preserving in the shape of sweet pickle sirup, fruit juices, jellies that wouldn't jell or those that have begun to work can go into the mincemeat jar, enhancing the value of its contents.

If you have a good cellar with ample storage room it is best to put up enough mincemeat to last the winter; but in the contracted quarters of the modern apartment house a small quantity at a time must suffice. Here are rules for both the large and smaller quantities.

Mincemeat, Small Quantity.

A simple rule for making mincemeat by measure calls for a pint bowl of well cooked beef chopped to the finest mince and measured after chopping, two bowls of tart apples chopped into coarse bits and a half bowl chopped suet. Add to this a pound seeded raisins also chopped, a pound currants, a quarter of a pound of citron cut in thin slices, a tablespoonful each powdered cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg. Use enough sweet cider to make moist, then add a bowl of sugar and an even teaspoonful salt. Scald well and put away in a stone jar. When you make the pies add a few whole raisins, chopped nut meat or any jelly you have on hand.—Washington Star.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

WATCHES FOR CHRISTMAS

It is impossible to find a more acceptable gift than a Waltham or Elgin Watch. They last a lifetime, are useful as well as ornamental and the giver is held in high esteem by the receiver. We also sell the Ingersoll—Trenton, a watch that is fast finding its way into the pockets of particular men. Before you buy anything in the Jewely line, call at our store. It will pay you to see us and please us to see you.

WILLIAMS The Jeweler

1473 Hancock Street, QUINCY

Why Go To Boston?

We offer a few ideas below with a view of keeping you away from the crowded Boston stores and to let you know you can do much better with us than you can by rushing to Boston.

We are quoting special prices on all goods for the holiday trade and offer a few suggestions.

Suits, Coats, Skirts, Bonnets, Waists, Furs, Pocket Books, Bags, Mufflers, Children's Coats, Latest Style Dresses.

OUR SPECIALTIES ARE

High Class Custom Tailoring and Dressmaking.

Again we say save money by trading with us.

H. SARKIN

1369 Hancock Street, City Square, Quincy

Buy Useful Christmas Gifts

— OF —

F. D. Fellows Co.

| | |
|---|---|
| Initial Handkerchiefs | 10c to 50c |
| Christmas Neckwear in Boxes | 25c, 50c $1.00 |
| Fancy Arm Bands in Boxes | 25c, 50c $1.00 |
| Fancy Suspenders in boxes | 25c to $1.50 |
| Kid Gloves | $1.15, $1.50 |
| Mocha Gloves Silk Lined | $1.50 |
| Mocha Gloves Fleece Lined | $1.00 |
| Fur Lined Gloves | $2.50 to $5.00 |
| Umbrellas both Ladies' and Men's | 98c to $5.00 |
| Children's School Umbrellas | 50c |
| Fur Band Caps | $2.00 to $2.50 |
| Fur Caps | $2.00, $2.50, $3.50, $4.00 |
| Cuff Links | 25c to $2.50 |
| Scarf Pins | 25c to $2.00 |
| Mufflers | 50c to $2.00 |
| Coat Sweaters | 98c to $6.00 |
| Fancy Vests | $1.25 to $2.50 |

Remember The Place

F. D. Fellows Co.

"The Reliable Store"

1387 Hancock St., Quincy

Buy Useful Gifts for the Boys

— OF —

F. D. Fellows Co.

| | |
|---|---|
| Skating Caps | 50c |
| Cloth Caps | 25c, 50c, 98c |
| Blouses | 50c and 75c |
| Knee Pants | 50c to $1.50 |
| Neckwear | 10c and 25c |
| Underwear | 25c, 39c, 48c |
| Shirts | 48c |
| Suits | $2.50 to $6.00 |
| Overcoats | $2.00 to $6.00 |
| Umbrellas | 50c |
| Hose | 15c and 25c |
| Gloves | 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00 |
| Mittens | 15c, 25c, 50c |
| Sweaters | 98c, $1.19, $1.50 |
| Silk Initial Handkerchiefs | 25c |
| Cuff Links | 25c and 50c |
| Suit Cases | $1.50 |

Remember The Place

F. D. Fellows Co.

"The Reliable Store"

1387 Hancock St., Quincy

Dec. 22-3t

We Show Superior Values in Wearing Apparel and Xmas Gifts

Our prices mean to you a substantial money saving. Nothing is more appropriate as Xmas gifts for father, mother, brother, sister, son or daughter, lady or gentleman friend, than sensible useful articles of wear, that carry with them through the coming year the memory of the giver.

A Charge Account based upon sound business principles, combining justice and convenience to our patrons whereby they may pay for their clothing necessities in easy partial payments, without one cent of extra expense, is one feature of our business ethics which is peculiar only to our house and not found elsewhere.

Ladies' and Girls' Dept.

| | |
|---|---|
| $15.00 Fancy Mixture Suits | $9.90 |
| 18.00 Broadcloth Suits | 14.98 |
| 7.50 Cheviot Coats | 4.90 |
| 15.00 Moyenage Coats | 8.98 |
| 18.00 Broadcloth Coats | 12.90 |
| 25.00 Caracul Coats | 18.50 |
| 40.00 Fur Lined Coats | 28.98 |
| 50.00 Coney Coats | 34.50 |
| 18.00 Gray Squirrel Sets | 12.50 |
| 6.00 Coney Sets | 4.50 |
| 30.00 Fox Sets | 22.98 |
| 18.00 Opossum Sets | 12.98 |
| Children's Fur Sets | 98c to 10.00 |
| 4.00 Girls' Coats | 2.98 |
| 7.50 Girls' Coats | 4.98 |
| Ladies' and Girls' Sweaters | 98c to 6.00 |
| Ladies' and Girls' Shoes | 1.50 to 3.75 |
| Ladies' Umbrellas | 98c to 6.00 |

Men's and Boys' Dept.

| | |
|---|---|
| $12.00 Cassimere Suits | $8.98 |
| 15.00 Mixture Suits | 12.50 |
| 18.00 Black Cheviot Suits | 14.98 |
| 12.00 Youths' Suits | 7.98 |
| 12.00 Mixture Overcoats | 9.98 |
| 18.00 Kersey Overcoats | 14.98 |
| 20.00 Auto Overcoats | 16.98 |
| 25.00 Presto Overcoats | 19.50 |
| 27.00 Kersey Overcoats | 22.50 |
| 4.00 Boys' Overcoats | 2.98 |
| 7.50 Boys' Overcoats | 4.98 |
| 12.00 Boys' Overcoats | 8.98 |
| 4.00 Boys' Suits | 2.98 |
| 6.50 Boys' Suits | 4.50 |
| Men's and Boys' Sweaters | 98c to 6.00 |
| Men's Umbrellas | 98c to 6.00 |
| Men's and Boys' Shoes | 1.50 to 5.00 |

Millinery Trimmed and Ready to Wear Hats. Reduced from 25 to 50 p. c. from former selling prices. 98c, $1.98, $2.98, $4.98, up to $8.98

OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Joyce Bros. & Co

HAVE YOUR PURCHASES CHARGED

13-15 GRANITE ST., - QUINCY Dec 22—3t

Xmas Umbrellas Ours is a superb showing, natural wood, silver and gold handles. Just the thing for Xmas gifts, 98c to $6.00

BERRY BROS.

DEPARTMENT FOOD STORES

1141 Columbus Avenue ROXBURY — 1381 Hancock Street QUINCY

A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL.

If you are in the habit of trading in Boston you are not doing your share towards booming Quincy. Give us a trial on your Christmas order. We have the goods, the store, unequalled service and will treat your order as though it was the only one we had. By doing this you will help Quincy grow. Don't fail to read below.

FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER

| | |
|---|---|
| Mized Nuts, | per lb., 15 cents |
| New Dates, | 3 lbs. for 25 cents |
| New Figs, | per lb. 15 cents |
| Christmas Candy, | 2 lbs. for 25 cents |
| Layer Raisins, | per lb. 25 cents |
| Florida Oranges, | 16 for 25 cents |

Send your order to day and note how anxious we are to please.
We have plenty of Holly Wreaths of all kinds and Christmas Trees.

Headquarters for Turkeys and all kinds of Poultry.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Turkey, | 28 and 30 cents lb. | Fowl, | 22 cents lb. |
| Geese, | 23 cents lb. | Chicken, | 25 cents lb. |
| Duck, | 25 cents lb. | Fresh Pork, | 17 cents lb. |

Goods you must buy are at our store at lowest prices in the city. Do you need Raisins, Currants, Citron, Spices, Poultry Seasoning, Squash, Onions, Turnips, Apples, Sweet Potatoes, Celery. If so drop into our store. We lead, others follow.

COMPLETE BAKERY DEPARTMENT

UP-TO-DATE FISH DEPARTMENT

Ask for Legal Stamps. By saving these stamps you get a cash discount that rightfully belongs to you for paying cash.

Make QUINCY A BIGGER, BETTER and more BEAUTIFUL CITY in 1900&NOW.

BERRY BROS., CITY SQ.

Cut Glass

Sun-bonnet Baby China

Pickard Famous Hand-Painted China

Any of the above make very appropriate gifts, Pickard China is perhaps the ideal present for it has been on the market for over sixteen years and the makers, anually, receive hundreds of unsought expressions of appreciation.

We also suggest you call and view our regular goods including:

JEWELRY, WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, POCKET BOOKS, PURSES, ETC.

In Fact Everything in the Jewelry line.

OUR OPTICAL GOODS ARE THE LEADERS OF QUINCY

Examination and Prescriptions

CALL AND INSPECT

C. F. PETTENGILL

1391 HANCOCK STREET, QUINCY

CHAPIN'S CHRISTMAS STATIONERY

We make a specialty of stationery and have all kinds in fancy boxes. A few ideal gifts will be found below.

| | |
|---|---|
| Address Books | Diaries of all kinds |
| "A Line-a-Day" Books | Personal Books |
| House Expense Books | Photo Albums |
| Plain and Fancy Calendars | Post Card Albums |
| Pictures and Picture Frames | Cameras |
| Blank Books | Camera Supplies |
| Office Supplies | Post Cards |

A large line of INK STANDS in cut glass and brass. These make fine gifts. Another acceptable gift is a subscription to any daily newspaper or magazine. Call and inquire for our price on these.

LYMAN A. CHAPIN

1395 Hancock Street, QUINCY

YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER

Will not be complete without having some of OUR FAMOUS

MINCE or SQUASH PIES

on the table. We guarantee absolute purity and cleanliness We use no substitutes or adulterations.

Just Like Mother Used to Make.

BARNARD'S PURE FOOD BAKERY

1587 Hancock Street, Quincy. Dec. 18-6t

Christmas Flowers

CUT FLOWERS OF ALL KINDS

Wreaths, Potted Plants and all Floral Designs for the Holidays can be found at our store.

Flowers make appropriate gifts for mother sister, sweetheart or your sick friends.

We have Poinsettias, Azaleas, Cyclamen, Ferns, Palms, Primroses, Jerusalem Cherries, etc.

CALL TODAY.

CITY FLOWER STORE

CARL JOHNSON, Prop.

3 61 Hancock St., City Sq., Tel, 275-2

Dec. 20 4t

Are You Puzzled About What to Give?

If you are, let us help you decide. Our cases gleam with beautiful presents We shall gladly make suggestions to you and allow you a careful inspection of any articles we have. A giver is judged by his gifts so it is necessary that you buy the best. To be sure of getting the best, select a store that has a reputation of handling only the best. That is where we help you.

DIAMONDS

We buy and sell below regular marked value. To be convinced come and look them over.

WATCHES. We carry all grades. Our guarantee is a bond that cannot be broken as we are here to make good.

JEWELRY. The high grade we carry in stock is warranted to give satisfaction in every way and returnable if not so.

SILVERWARE. In Sterling Silver we carry a full line of Table Flat ware. In plated goods—Rogers 1847, and Rogers & Bros. Star Brand and also other makes.

In Tea Sets and other hollow ware our leading makers are Pairpoint, F. B. Rogers and Pool Silver Co. A big stock of Berry Dishes, Nut Bowls, Chocolate Pots, etc.

In Brassware we have Candle Sticks, Jardineres, Smoking Sets and Tea Sets at the lowest prices.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

For Ladies. Toilet Sets, Manicure, Puff Boxes, Jewel Cases, Photo Frames, Nail Files, Bracelets, Lockets, Chains, Brooches, Hat Pins, Buckles.

For Men. Smoking Sets, Shaving Mugs, Ink Stands, Military Brushes, Clothes Brushes, Fountain Pens, Gold Pencils, Cuff Links, Scarf Pins, Emblem Pins, Watch Chains, Fobs.

ALL HAND ENGRAVING FREE. OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Sandberg Bros.

JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE

DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS

BUY YOUR CHRISTMAS SLIPPERS AT THE GRANITE SHOE STORE

"LESS THAN BOSTON PRICES" ON

SLIPPERS, OVERSHOES, LEGGINS, GAITERS AND ALL FOOTWEAR

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS EVERY MORNING TILL CHRISTMAS

OPEN LATE EVERY EVENING TILL CHRISTMAS

GRANITE SHOE STORE

DOUBLE STAMPS MORNINGS

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

Americans will not have to go to the land of cherry blossoms to see them in their beauty if the 2,000 Japanese cherry trees, presented our government by the Japanese, survive the transplanting. They have arrived in this country and in the spring will be set out along the new Potomac driveway at Washington.

The Christmas trade is in full swing and every one is hurrying in and out of the shops with arms full of bundles and faces wreathed in smiles. Markets are particularly attractive with the holly, laurel and Christmas trees that are on sale. All that is needed is snow on the ground to make it an ideal Christmas.

The tendency to expend money for only useful Christmas presents is gaining ground rapidly with each year, says the Barre Times, as the uselessness of the little gee-gaws is becoming impressed on the minds of the trading public. Something to be used, whether it be a toy or a sealskin coat, is now the motto of the Christmas buyer. As rapidly and the sooner the idea gains complete ascendency, the better it will be for the people.

With its numerous other organizations perhaps what Quincy now needs is a Civic club similar to those of the larger cities. What is good for a big city would certainly be of benefit to a city that was every day growing bigger and bigger. In Chicago the membership of the Civic club is over 100,000 and is formed to work for the best interests of the city, in business and politics and to combine every civic and commercial organization into a federation of clubs in order to get concerted action on matters pertaining to the prosperity of Chicago.

In Quincy if the new Merchants club, Citizens association, Board of Trade, West Quincy Improvement association, the various men's clubs in the churches, charitable organizations and the Quincy Women's club would each send strong delegates to a federated meeting to discuss Quincy's need now and in the future, much might be accomplished. A coming together in the interest of the city as a whole, outlining a future policy for continued and steady growth along right lines would be of great benefit and each section could help the other to attain best results.

For good fire protection it is important that fire alarm boxes and hydrants should be handy. Before Chief Engineer Williams locates the large number called for in the order reported to the City Council this week, we would suggest that he consider the feasibility of renumbering all the boxes of the city, the list being very confused at present. We would suggest that three figures be used, and that the city be divided into three districts. For example all the boxes in Wards One and Two to be numbered in the 200s; all in Wards Five and Six in the 300s, and all in Wards Three and Four in the 400s.

This would require less blows in giving alarms, and effect a saving in time and expense. No sevens, eights or nines would be necessary for some time.

The boxes of Wards One and Two would have each numbers as 212, 213, 214, 215, 222, 223, 221, 225, 232 etc.

The boxes of Wards Five and Six would have such numbers as 312, 313, 314, 315, 322, 323, 324, 325, 332. etc.

The boxes in Wards Three and Four would have such numbers as 412, 413, 414, 415, 422, 423, 424. 425-432, etc. All the present numbers like 441, 442, 443, 445, 446, etc., could be retained.

All special signals could be in the 5s or 500s, thus:

5 blows, Chief's call.
55 and box number, general alarm.
515 and box number second alarm.
521 special call for Hose 1.
522 special call for Relief.
524 special call for Houghs Neck.
531 Boston.
532 Braintree.
534 Milton.
535 Weymouth.
544 Military call, etc.

The National Red Cross Association has undertaken to fight the most formidable enemy of mankind; one which unfortunately cannot be met in open battle. There are probably at this moment 500 000 people in the United States suffering from tuberculosis in one form or another and 1,000,000 school children are destined to die of tuberculosis before they reach the age of eighteen and yet modern medical science has demonstrated beyond a shadow of doubt that tuberculosis is a preventable and curable disease. The cure of tuberculosis depends upon the early recognition of the disease and the timely treatment in well arranged sanitary homes or in special institutions. Unfortunately it is most prevalent among the poor. The Red Cross stamp money is devoted entirely to the use of the society for the fight against the disease. The 1909 Red Cross Christmas stamp is not good for postage. It will not carry any kind of mail but any kind of mail will carry it. The use of the beautiful Red Cross stamp carrying Christmas and New Year's greetings, gives an excellent opportunity to everyone to help the anti-tuberculosis cause according to his means. The layman will thus be the co-worker of the physician, a true brother and helper. He who makes his Christmas offering by the purchase of as many of these stamps as he can afford to buy will surely feel the season's joy all the more, knowing that through his participation in this work somewhere some consumptive sufferer has been helped, some dark home made brighter, some little child saved. In Quincy buying Red Cross stamps means a local interest for the fund raised from the sale of the stamps goes to help build a camp for patients in our city.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The Anglo-Saxons love sport. No matter in what part of the world they are found, the spirit is strong among them. Wherever the restless Anglo-Saxon dominates, the love of sport is dominant. The American's are— at least the most of them—descendants of this virile race, and nowhere is the love of sport so much exhibited as in this country. Our people are patrons of horseracing, of baseball, of golf, of football of all out-of-door sports as no other people. The English are great sportsmen, but not to the extent that Americans are, for the reason that the opportunities are greater here. Nor does the nation suffer from this propensity. We are told of course, by some of our college thinkers that our young men indulge too much in athletics, that this indulgence is a detriment rather than a benefit to the boys; that because of the "fad" as these wiseacres term it, we are injuring the physical powers of the boys. We do not take much stock in this sort of pessimism. Here and there a few may overdo themselves and fall by the wayside; but athletic competition has never in our judgment seriously injured American youth. On the contrary, it has developed in the muscle, courage and self-reliance, requisites of good health and ultimate success when they are called upon to lay aside athletics for the more serious cares of life.—South Framingham News.

A brand new diplomacy, inaugurated in Washington on the part of the Japanese people to dispel all thought of war between that nation and the United States, ought to have some effect even on the mulish mind of Hobson. Masuji Miyakawa is visiting many cities and revealed it. It centers in a resolution adopted by the school children of Tokio in which they declare they will never raise a word against the United States and that they will emulate the example of the boys and girls in the public schools of America. Prior to the wars with Russia and China the school children had been taught that they would have to fight for the Mikado against those enemies. This new attitude, in striking contrast, seems frankly to recognize the need of a reversal.—Boston Record.

Approximately 1,500,000,000 eggs, worth $28,000,000, were in cold storage on Sept. 7, according to a statement made by Albert M. Reed, president of the American Warehousemen's Association. These eggs are being held out of the market until they can be sold at the price desired by the warehousemen.

Of butter, which is now selling at a record price, there is said to be in cold storage a quantity worth approximately the same as the eggs. Butter, it is said, can be kept in cold storage longer than eggs and can be released whenever the price is right. Much of it will probably be put on the market soon.

According to this statement the law of supply and demand has been repealed by the warehousemen, and practically $55,000,000 worth of food products are being withheld from the people until they can be forced to pay the price demanded for them. The housewife, who is complaining about the high prices she has to pay, will understand from this why she is asked to pay them.—C. S. Monitor.

SALEM MERCHANTS REBEL.

The Salem Merchants' Association, tired of being mulcted in various amounts for advertising space in programs, dance orders and the like has adopted the following: Resolved, That the members of the Merchants' Association, either as firms or as individuals, do hereby agree to decline from advertising in any program, church, social or fraternal paper or organ whatever, except those published by the Grand Army of the Republic, Salem Firemen's Relief Association, Salem Police Relief Association and the Empire and Salem theatres. It is further agreed that no member or firm shall in substitution for an advertisement, purchase tickets or contribute any sum of money.

Woman's Superiority Will Soon Be Indisputable.

By the Rev. Dr. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS of Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE women are GETTING THE MOST OF THE EDUCATION of today, and before long, if the men continue to go into business and get their recreation in the evening by PLAYING BILLIARDS, while the women follow INTELLECTUAL PURSUITS, the women will be the only educated persons of the country.

IN A THOUSAND YEARS THE WOMEN WILL OWN ALL THE PROPERTY, AND WHEN A MAN WISHES 50 CENTS WITH WHICH TO BUY A PRESENT HE IS LIKELY TO BE ASKED BY HIS WIFE WHAT HE DID WITH THE LAST 50 CENTS SHE GAVE HIM.

I don't know why women should not vote. I am tired listening to these false statements about the women to the effect that they were MADE INFERIOR TO MAN and should be kept subject to his authority. We are having too much trouble over that statement of Paul's that women should not talk in the church.

Weak Lungs

Ask your doctor to name the best family medicine for coughs, colds, bronchitis, weak lungs. Follow his advice. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Seventy years of experience with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral have given us great confidence in it. We strongly recommend it for coughs, colds, bronchitis, weak throats, and weak lungs. It prevents. It protects. It soothes. It heals. Just the help nature needs.

CHRISTMAS IN THE STORES

Interesting Holiday Announcements by Local Merchants

That the Quincy merchants are interested in the campaign to boom Quincy and trying to interest the public in this idea is apparent by the hearty way in which they have endorsed our idea of getting out a special Christmas edition.

They have inserted well written advertisements in this issue and we point with pride to the suggestions offered by the local merchants in almost every line of business in the city. We sincerely hope our readers will carefully go over these advertisements for we know they will find articles in some of them that will make ideal gifts, thus solving a problem that has long been before them.

Wadsworth of the shirt-waist store calls your attention to a long list of useful gifts and a square deal is guaranteed, for he has a reputation of honest dealings.

George W. Jones is making a specialty of neckties, and offers the latest styles from New York and Boston experts. A man can never have too many neckties. They are always acceptable.

Ames in his show windows on Granite street offers some fine presents for the growing boy. Be sure and see them.

W. G. Shaw of furniture fame, one of the hardest workers in the movement to impress Quincy people they can do as well home as elsewhere, offers useful and ornamental furniture. A glance at the interior of Mr. Shaw's store will instantly impress a prospective buyer that he is in the right store if style and price are any inducement.

Williams the jeweler, believes there is no more acceptable present than a watch. Many agree on this, for a watch with good care lasts a lifetime.

Sarkin's up to the minute store in City Square is alive, by offering all kinds of wearing apparel at prices that cannot be duplicated elsewhere, Boston included.

Joyce Bros., the growing firm on Granite street who have recently added a large floor space to their store, quote prices on clothes that are bound to interest you. You need not have the ready cash upon buying. You can take the goods, have them charged, and spend your cash to make others happy.

Pettengill has everything in the jewelry line and also a fine line of Pickard's famous hand-painted china. If you are looking for gifts of this kind don't fail to call at Pettengill's store.

Berry Bros.' department food store, who now occupy a prominent place with the buyers of food stuffs in Quincy come out with suggestions for the Christmas dinner. The dinner question interests us all so read this ad. and buy your goods there. The service, quality of goods and prices quoted are all right.

Many a man would give a good sum of money had he kept a diary when a boy. Your boy should start one in 1910. He will thank you for the suggestion in years to come. Stationery and in fact everything in Chapin's store are fine for Xmas gifts.

Fellows, at "the reliable store," points to some fine gifts in clothing. He has an ideal location, an extra good stock, prices to fit any purse and guarantees every thing to be just as represented.

Slippers for all the family and shoes that wear like iron for man, woman or child are found at the Granite Shoe store. Double stamps every morning until Xmas are offered.

Sandberg Bros., jewelers "On the square," have enlarged their store and it still is small to suit their many patrons. Honest dealing is assured all who buy there. Diamonds make good gifts. If you desire to know what one would cost, call at this store.

Barnard's pure food bakery offers squash and mince pies for your Xmas dinner. This bakery has proven its worth and daily adds many to its list of regular patrons who prefer fresh baked goods rather than the goods that are brought over the road from outside cities.

The City Flower Store has all kinds of plants and cut flowers to make the home more cheery.

All late shoppers who want ideasas to what to give, will do well to read Remick Bros. ad. This progressive store is sure to show it's worth at this time and we know you will do well by trading there.

Christmas groceries at the right prices will be found at the Water street store of R. E. Foy & Co.; also ribbon candy two pounds for 25 cents. Everything needed for a Christmas dinner can be found at this wide awake up-to-date store. Their stock is always fresh and clean.

William Patterson, the florist, can make your house more attractive at Christmas with plants and flowers. Plants make a very acceptable gift to many people.

The Christmas dinner will not be complete without German Seltzer, Temperance beer, a mixed tonic made by the German Seltzer Co.

Which do you prefer, good coal or poor coal? There can be but on answer to this question. It is your business to see that you get what you order. Place your searchlight on Cyrus Patch & Son, and you will find their coal all right in every particular. Poor coal they do not carry.

Handkerchiefs, stamped linens, aprons, gloves and collar boxes always make very acceptable Christmas gifts, and a large line of these and other acceptable gifts can be found on the counters at Wheeler's City Square dry goods store. One of their specialities is "The Belle" tailored shirt waist. It is sure to please the ladies.

That picture you intend to make some one happy with at Christmas will look much more attractive if it is surrounded by a handsome frame. W. T. Arnold's art store, opposite Music hall, makes a specialty of picture framing. He has wall paper and room mouldings.

One of the highest grade steam coal mined is known as Sprague's New River. A continuous test of over 100,000 averaged 14,821 heat units. Many a needy person would greatly appreciate the gift of a tone of this coal on Christmas. J. F. Sheppard & Sons will be pleased to take your order.

On Christmas night when the little ones gather about the Christmas tree laden with presents the room will look much more cheerful if it is illuminated with gas. Have your house piped and enjoy the cheerfulness of a well lighted room the long winter evenings.

FADS FOR WOMEN.

A new touch or rather a revival of an old idea, is the fur collar, cuffs and flounce seen on many of the new coats. Some years ago an edging of fur on the bottoms of coats was worn until women began to object to the weight and so discarded it.

At that time the black velvet brocaded jacket, fur trimmed, was considered the acme of style, and history is beginning to repeat itself, for coats of moire silk display this expensive trimming on the bottom.

Handsome velvet suits have coats trimmed with black lynx, skunk and similar furs.

Now that girdles are again fashionable for evening pretty frocks for girls and young women will not tax too closely the skill of the home dressmaker, for girdles suggest gathers at the waist line, and with these in vogue last year's smooth-fitting skirt may be covered with another of some transparent inexpensive material fulled to fit the belt.

The bottom can be weighted by sewing a trimming on the hem or a pretty effect may be secured by slurring the lower edge and catching it to the foundation, allowing just the slightest puff effect. When a dancing frock is needed this is en excellent idea.

There is a new wide braid trimming that is much used, especially upon velveteen. It is about six inches wide and sometimes is paneled about the bottom of the skirt.

Auto hoods now on exhibition fit quite closely around the face, with a peak at the back, like the jester's cap of the opera and of the old-fashioned pictures.

Among the newest materials for the street costume is an exceedingly loosely woven serge. It is said that this is quite the smartest thing in Paris just now.

Black and white costumes continue to be a good deal thought of, but with the growth of the season solid black and colors have gained great popularity.

There are two prominent styles in coat collars—one the straight back of the Russian coat and the other the hip turn-over pattern made of peltry.

Evening dresses are rich with drapery, but it is drapery that fits tightly over the lining and the lining follows closely the lines of the figure.

Many unique designs in buttons are seen in cut jet and dull gold and silver in square and oblong shapes, as well as the usual round button.

The newest coiffure is flat in front and piled heavily over the ears. It is called the Brittany.

Handsome plumes are now put on the fuzzy felt turbans, and sometimes they are seen with aigrettes.

The new felt hats are lovely, the felt in many cases being difficult to distinguish from cloth.

On some of the pretty petticoats jersey silk is employed to give a snugly fitting top.

On the enormous draped toques there are now appearing borders of feathers—a new idea.

Wide-wale serges and other coarse weaves are worn by girls more than the smooth cloths.

Some of the new bracelets encircle the wrist and end in a tiny jeweled bowknot.

Except when the brim is turned over in front, very little of the hair is shown.

Tasseled ornaments and fringe vie with each other for chief favor in trimming.

The vogue for gilt is now at its height and silver trimming is also in demand.

Flat jet ornaments as well as those of metal are frequently used as trimming.

Silk blouses are very severe. The sleeves are flat, with little or no fulness.

ANXIOUS TO END CONTROVERSY

President May Retire Either Ballinger or Pinchot

SENATE IS TO INVESTIGATE

Adoption of Resolutions Calling For Papers In the Case—Both Principals Ask That Proceedings Be Made Public—Neither at Present Inclined to Yield—Probe Will Take a Very Wide Range

Washington, Dec. 22.—The senate has practically decided upon the inauguration of an inquiry into the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy by adopting a resolution introduced by Senator Flint of California calling for all the papers bearing upon the case. At the same time Senator Jones of Washington stated that if no one else should propose a resolution of inquiry he would do so after the holidays.

In making this statement Jones presented a letter from Ballinger expressing his desire that an investigation should be undertaken, and saying that if entered upon it should be sufficiently broad and far reaching to cover the entire subject, including the forest service, which he charges with pernicious activity.

Mr. Flint's resolution requested the president to transmit to congress any reports, statements, papers or documents upon which he acted in reaching his conclusions with reference to the charges against L. R. Glavis, chief of the field division of the general land office.

President Taft seems to be disposed to take hold of the long-drawn-out Ballinger-Pinchot controversy and settle it for good. His request that congress conduct an investigation pleases most of the legislators who have felt all along that the quarrel could not be settled without a thorough public inquiry. In conversation with members of congress the president indicated that after the investigators have completed their work he will act in a way that will make it impossible for the controversy to continue. The assumption is that somebody will have to go. Most observers have believed since last July that the time would come when either Ballinger or Pinchot would be forced out of the public service. Evidently the president has come to the view that one or the other of these men must get out.

The Ballinger partisans assert that they intend to show at the coming investigation that the forestry service is wholly responsible for this fight on the secretary of the interior; that it was at the suggestion of Pinchot that Glavis went to the president last July with charges against Ballinger, and that A. C. Shaw, the law officer of the forestry service, assisted Glavis in the preparation of the charges against Ballinger.

On the other hand the forestry service, it is asserted, stands ready to prove that every charge made against the secretary of the interior is well founded and that the exoneration of Ballinger, given out last fall, was not prepared by the president himself, but by a law officer in the department of the interior.

Both Ballinger and Pinchot are saying that the investigation which congress proposes to make shall be public, and with the two principals taking the stand congress can hardly afford to undertake a secret inquiry.

It seems to be settled that the investigation will take a wide range. In so far as it relates to the interior department it will have to go over the official acts of former Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock and former Secretary Garfield as well as the acts of Ballinger.

The whole matter is undoubtedly distasteful to President Taff. It threatens to leave a blot on his administration, no matter what the outcome of the investigation, yet all thoughtful persons are saying that Taft is right in telling congress he wants it to go to the bottom of the quarrel.

Set Danger Signal and Killed Self

New York, Dec. 22.—After setting the danger signal against incoming trains, Robert T. Judge, switchman in a tower in the Lackawanna railroad yards in Hoboken, committed suicide and delayed traffic for more than twenty minutes.

BRIEFS

St. Mary C. T. A. Society will present in January the three-act comedy "Mrs. Wiggs of the Poultry Yard."

Charles Winslow has resigned his position as assistant treasurer of the Blue Hill street railway at Canton.

John Kilmartin of Crescent street arrived home from the hospital on Monday, and is now able to be about and recovering rapidly.

The residents near the corner of Union and Washington streets are very much pleased at the proposed location of a fire box in that vicinity.

Senator Eugene C. Hultman and wife will remain in Quincy this winter instead of spending the cold months in Boston.

An interesting illustrated lecture on Egypt was given at the First Presbyterian church Monday evening under the auspices of the Brotherhood.

John LaPiere of Willard street who was operated upon in the Carney Hospital for gall stones, is fast recovering much to the delight of his many friends.

Mrs. F. W. Green of this city city mourns the death of her father, George W. Sanborn, aged 77, a retired policeman of Boston and a veteran of the Civil war.

The many friends of T. Stanton of Bates avenue will be glad to know that he is home from the Newton Hospital where he was removed on account of the fall he had with Gypsy moth gang recently.

Master James Griffin of Bryant avenue, who was injured by the train recently, is now able to be about with the aid of crutches, and he has found that his weight has increased over twenty pounds during his confinement.

William E. Sadlier of Quincy secured a verdict of $75 in the Norfolk Superior court on Tuesday against the Patterson-Sargent Co., of Boston, for injury suffered by reason of paint which was alleged to be unfit and unsuitable for use.

The letter in Tuesday's Ledger written to Santa Claus by a little girl at the Day Nursery seemed to touch a responsive chord in many a heart. It was a pathetic little reminder that at this joyous Christmas season it is not so bright for some as it might be.

Under the new United States law, which goes into effect Jan. 1, it will be far more difficult to nullify local or state interdicts on the sale of liquor. The express business will be attended with far greater hazard than is now the case and the penalties for violation of the law will be serious enough to act as a great deterrent.

Miss Florence Shepard of Hall place broke her arm while skating on the Ward Four playgrounds on Tuesday. She slipped on a twig which was under her skate, and put out her arms to save herself from the fall, and when she was carried home it was found by Dr. T. Dion that her arm was broken.

JUST A MINUTE

How about a case of our FANCY DRINKS
for your
Christmas Dinner

German Seltzer
For Digestion

Temperance BEER
For your table drinks

Mixed Tonic
For your Company

CALL, WRITE OR PHONE
GERMAN SELTZER MFG. CO.
QUINCY, MASS.
Dec. 20—4t
Phone 146-1

WHEN IN WANT
OF GOOD
Plants and Flowers
for XMAS GIFTS call up
WM. PATTERSON
HE HAS THEM
Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths
Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias
at Reasonable Prices.
92 South Central Ave., Wollaston
Tel. 392-1 Quincy. Dec. 20-4t

Until New Years
USE THE
RedCross Stamps

IN QUINCY SHOPS

OPEN EVERY EVENING UNTIL CHRISTMAS | CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS | OPEN EVERY EVENING UNTIL CHRISTMAS

FROM

Quincy's Leading Clothing, Men's Furnishing & Shoe Store

UNUSUALLY ATTRACTIVE IS OUR STOCK OF HOLIDAY GOODS, THE LARGEST AND MOST COMPLETE LINE TO BE FOUND IN QUINCY.

Neckwear

50c Neckwear all very latest effects ..... 35c
75c Neckwear made specially for us for Christmas. ..... 50c
All styles and colorings in neckwear ..... 25c
Large Assortment
$1.00 Neckwear ..... 75c
$1.50 Neckwear ..... $1.00

Gloves

Men's Dress Gloves Lined and Unlined ..... 50c to $2.00
Boys' Dress Gloves ..... 50c to $1.50
Children's Dress Gloves .. 50c to $1.00
Ladies' Dress Gloves .... 75c to $2.00
Large Variety Men's, Boys', Women's and Children's Wool Gloves 25c to $1.00

Sweaters.

All the new Colors and Combinations
Men's ..... 50c to $6.00
Boys' ..... 50c to $3.00
Girls' ..... 50c to $5.00
Children's ..... 50c to $2.00
Ladies' ..... $1.00 to $6.00

Umbrellas.

All the newest handles
Covering Guaranteed.
Men's and Ladies'
A very Handsome Gift .. $1.00 to $6.00
Children's Umbrellas.. 50c, 75c, $1.00

Bags and Suit Cases.

Special all Leather ..... $4.98
Large Assortment..... 98c to $10.00
50c to $1.00 Less than Boston Prices

Trunks.

$1.48 .... ..... to .... .... $18.00

Bath Robes and House Coats.

Large variety and prices the lowest.

Night Robes and Pajamas

50c .... ..... to .... ..... $2.00
Plain and Fancy Effects

Fancy Arm Bands.

50c grades ..... 39c
75c grades ..... 59c
Large variety ..... 25c

Handkerchiefs.

Everything you can think of Plain, Fancy and Initial Men's Ladies' and Children's ..... 5c to $1.50

Mufflers.

Beautiful Assorted, Plain and Fancy Silk ....50c-75c-$1.00-$1.25-$1.50
$1.75 $2.00 $2.50 $3.00
Ladies' Pheonix Mufflers 29c and 50c

Jewelry.

All the new effects in Cuff Buttons and Scarf Pins ..... 25c to $1.50

Suspenders.

Handsome Assortment
25c-50c-75c-$1.00-$1.50
In Individual boxes an ideal present

Men's and Young Men's Overcoats.

$18.00 All Wool, Black Kersey and the new Fancy Effects ..... $14.87
Other grades ..... $6.87 to $25.00

Men's and Young Men's Suits.

$18.00 grades in all the new Fancy Worsted Effects ..... $14.87
Other grades ..... $6.87 to $25.00

Men's Reefers.

Body and Sleeves Interlined with wind and rain proof material
$4.98 $6.87 $7.87

Men's Blanket Lined Working Coats.

$1.48 $1.98 $2.48 $2.98
Not a very ornamental but decidedly useful Gift.

Men's Lamb Lined Working Coats.

$2.98 $3.98 $4.87 $5.87 $6.87
A very warm and useful Gift

Rain Coats.

$15.00 Genuine Rain Proof Coats $11.87
Other grades ..... $9.87 to $25.00

Boys' Overcoats and Reefers.
Ages 8 to 16.

$6.00 grade plain and fancy effects very latest models ..... $4.98
Other grades ..... $2.98 to $8.00

Boys Suits.
Ages 7 to 17.

$6.00 grades, Worsted and Fancy Scotch Effects ..... $4.98
All styles and Colorings. $1.48 to $8.00

Children's Overcoats.
2 1-2 to 10.

Plain and fancy effects, latest styles ..... $1.48 to $7.00

Children's Suits.

$5.00 Russian and Blouse Suits Knickerbocker Pants ..... $3.98
Other grades
$1.98 $2.48 $2.98 $4.98 $5.87

Boys' Knee Pants.

Knickerbocker Style ..... 50c to $2.00
Straight Pants ..... 25c to $1.50

Men's Caps.

Fur Band ..... 98c to $3.00
Fast Color Winter Caps, large variety ..... 50c to $1.50
English Golf and Varsity Caps. ..... 50c to $1.00

Boys' Caps.

About anything and everything a boy would want will be found in this department ..... 25c to $2.00

Men's Shoes.

High Cut Black and Tan Calf Storm Shoes
$3.00 $4.00 $5.00 $6.00
Largest line Men's shoes in the city ..... $1.50 to $4.00
Fellow Craft Shoe ..... $3.50
Regent Shoe ..... $4.00
Best on earth. Every pair guaranteed.

Ladies' Shoes.

Sole agents in the city for the celebrated Queen Quality Shoes all Leathers ..... $3.00, $3.50, $4.00
Other lines all Leather. $1.50 to $4.00

Little Gents' Storm Shoe Straps and Buckles.

$1.50 $2.00 $2.50

Boys' Storm Shoes, Straps and Buckles.

$2.00 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50

Children's Rubber Boots.

$1.25 $1.75

Children's Head Gear.

Mothers know what we can do in this department. We have larger variety than ever this season. If you need a Hat, Cap, Toque, Tam O'Shanta or anything for the child in this line we must have it.

Men's Slippers.

Black and Tan, Everett, Opera and Romeo ..... 50c to $2.00
Special Men's Tan Slippers regular 75c ..... 59c

Ladies' Slippers.

Variety too large to mention. If you are going to buy a pair of ladies' slippers come and see us.

Boys' and Children's Slippers.

We have them all kinds. 50c to $1.00

Knockabout Shoes for children and Misses nothing to add to what we have before said about this line. All leathers. The most satisfactory line made.

Misses and Children's High Cut Storm Shoes, Straps and Buckles

Music Hall Block | REMICK BROTHERS | QUINCY

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS EVERY MORNING UNTIL CHRISTMAS.

HOLIDAY GIFTS

Presents for all at

W.G. Shaw — Furniture Carpets Ranges — City Square Quincy Mass.

OUR STORE is filled to overflowing with pretty presents of sensible and practical use. Price marks are interesting in that our goods are priced noticeably lower than Boston Stores. Every article you look over represents a handsome saving of your dollars. From this little list below you can get some idea of the advantages in buying your useful presents here.

EASY SELECTIONS FOR LATE XMAS. SHOPPERS.

Complete assortments in the regular lines right up to closing time Friday night is the good news that we send forth to those who wish to complete their Holiday shopping.

Gifts for Every Member of the Family

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Children's Rockers | 69c | Chiffoniers | 2.98 | Dressers | 7.75 |
| Children's Go Carts | $1.49 | China Cabinets | 10.75 | Stewart Ranges | $19.50 |
| High Chairs | 79c | Dining Room Tables | 3.98 | Parlor Heaters | 3.79 |
| Iron Cribs | $3.49 | Dining Chairs | 1.29 | Edison Phonograph | 10.00 |
| Reed Rockers | 1.79 | Easy Chairs | $3.49 | Victor Talking Machines | 17.50 |
| Oak Rockers | 1.75 | Morris Chafrs | 3.79 | Screens | 98c |
| Rockers of All Kinds | | Music Cabinets | 4.75 | Dinner Sets | 5.75 |
| Parlor Suites | $15.75 | Parlor Lamps | 2.29 | Oil Heaters | 2.29 |
| Couches | 6.50 | 9 x 12 Rugs | 7.98 | Work Baskets | 1.29 |

LOOK EARLY; BUY EARLY; WE'LL DELIVER WHEN YOU LIKE. A SMALL PAYMENT RESERVES ANY ARTICLE OF ANY PRICE.

W.G. Shaw — Furniture Carpets Ranges — City Square Opposite the Fountain.

Wadsworth Quincy Mass. Trade Mark Registered

Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth Quincy Mass. Trade Mark Registered

CHRISTMAS NECKWEAR | GEORGE W. JONES | CHRISTMAS NECKWEAR

No. 1 Granite St., Quincy.

If you are going to buy one or more Neckties for Holiday Gifts you can save time and money by coming direct to us.

OUR CHRISTMAS NECKWEAR

Was made especially for us by Leading Boston and New York Makers.

We have a very large assortment of the Latest Shapes, made from the newest Designs and Colors in Neckwear Silks.

Our Prices 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00

Each 75c and $1.00 Tie in a fine Christmas Box.

WE GIVE 50c IN CASH FOR EVERY $10 OF OUR SALE CHECKS RETURNED TO US

CHRISTMAS NECKWEAR | GEORGE W. JONES | CHRISTMAS NECKWEAR

No. 1 Granite St., Quincy

Gifts for Young America

DON'T discourage your boy from taking an interest in sports that require strength courage and skill. All healthy boys like these sports and if your boys do not they must be sickly. Encourage the boy by giving him a

Sled
Pair of Skates
Pocket Knife
Set of Boxing Gloves
Punching Bag
Carpenter's Outfit
or an Ingersoll Watch

WE have all of the above at prices that take but little from your Christmas purse.

NATHAN AMES

Hardware. Sporting Goods, Paints, Etc.

5 GRANITE ST. QUINCY

Only One Cent

Means Help for the

Tuberculosis Camp

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St.
QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building.
294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets.
QUINCY.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point
Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
38 Huntington Avenue, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 201.
Oct. 1. tf

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS
TWO TRIPS DAILY
Furniture and Piano Moving
Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

Have Your Clothes Washed by the
NEW SYSTEM
WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.
Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.
Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

(ADVERTISE.)

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 20, | 5.00 | 5.30 |
| Tuesday, | 6.00 | 6.30 |
| Wednesday, | 7.00 | 7.30 |
| Thursday, | 8.00 | 8.30 |
| Friday, | 9.00 | 9.30 |
| Saturday, | 9.45 | 10.30 |
| Sunday, | 10.45 | 11.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

BRIEFS

Miss Maria Josselyn of Standish avenue is spending the winter with her niece Mrs. Charles S. Pinkham of Kingsdale street, Dorchester Centre.

Sunday, Dec. 26th ,the Y. P. R. U. of the Wollaston Unitarian church will hold a Christmas service at seven o'clock with Lucien Thayer as leader and Miss Gertrude Greene as the speaker.

The funeral of James C. McGovern, who died at his home on Whitwell street, Saturday, of pneumonia, was held Tuesday A. M. at 9 o'clock from St. John's church. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Scannell. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

The Brockton Enterprise reports the sale of a farm of 70 acres at Cochesett to H. A. Anderson of Quincy. The farm includes a large square house and barn and other buildings, and it is stated Mr. Anderson will conduct a market gardening business.

James L. Rand of Wollaston has been appointed correspondent of the Associated Press at Boston. He is a graduate of Tech, and has been in newspaper work since the late 80s. From the Philadelphia Record he came to Boston ,and was city editor of the News, and later editor of the Brockton Despatch. Since 1893 he has been a member of the Associated Press staff and has had personal change of the difficult task of handling election returns for many years.

SUICIDE IN TUNNEL

Son of Wealthy Parents Believed to Have Become Penniless

Boston, Dec. 22.—W. B. Rogers of New York, a young man without funds yet wearing clothes of such texture as to place him by the police as the scion of some wealthy family, jumped in front of a train and was ground to pieces at the Winter street station of the Washington street tube at 9:40 o'clock last night.

The police state that the whole case is one of a young man of wealthy parents going to the end of his rope in a strange city, and then committing suicide, rather than allow his relatives to become acquainted with the plight that had befallen him.

HARMONY AT LUDLOW

Strikers at Work and Returning to Old Places of Residence

Ludlow, Mass., Dec. 22.—The state board of arbitration and conciliation announced last night that the last of the strikers have returned to work at the mills of the Ludlow Associates.

The families who have been deprived of heir homes have begun to come back, and by today, says the statement, "all will have returned either to their old places of residence or others just as good. The greatest harmony and peace prevails."

Loewe Hard Hit by Boycott

Hartford, Dec. 22.—The case for the plaintiff in the boycott suit of D. E. Loewe of Danbury against 240 of the members of the Hatters' union of the state, in which damages of $240,000 are claimed, was rested yesterday. Loewe testified that his losses and subsequent damages were approximately $89,000.

Elected For Fiftieth Time

Boston, Dec. 22.—Theodore H. Emmons, secretary of St. Paul's Royal Arch chapter of Masons, was re-elected last night as keeper of the records for the fiftieth consecutive time. Several hundred members of the lodge congratulated Emmons on the years of service he had given in the position.

Colds Cause Headache

LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine, the world wide Cold and Grip remedy removes cause. Call for full name. Look for signature E.W. GROVE,25c

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

PSEUDO FAME IS SHATTERED

Cook Fails to Establish His Claim of Polar Discovery

REJECTED AT COPENHAGEN

Finding of Special Committee Affirmed by University Consistory—So-Called Records Prove of No Value, Being No Advance on Story Published In Newspapers—Doctor Reaped Harvest of Dollars by His "Journey to Pole"

Copenhagen, Dec. 22.—The university of Copenhagen, the first institution of learning to recognize Dr. Frederick A. Cook as the discoverer of the North Pole, has declared that the explorer has failed to establish the claim upon which his high honors had been based.

DR. FREDERICK A. COOK.

The committee appointed by the university to examine Cook's records recently presented its reports to the consistory of the university which reviewed the deductions of the experts with the greatest care and discussed the findings from every standpoint. That both the committee and the consistory were disappointed was soon known. The consistory met Tuesday and adopted a written report to the effect that the alleged records submitted for examination by Cook failed to prove his claim that he had reached the North Pole.

A sensational feature of the findings is that Cook had no original observations or documents, not even his famous diary on which he based many of his claims. The commission's work was completed quickly, because Cook's documents consisted of nothing more than his story, published when he first returned, paraphrased.

The report is signed by all six members of the committee, who were assisted in their inquiry by Knud Rasmussen, the explorer. The university council issued this statement:

"The documents handed the university for examination do not contain observations and information which can be regarded as proof that Dr. Cook reached the North Pole on his recent expedition."

STORY OF "DISCOVERY"

It Failed to Give Details of Cook's Trip to the "Big Nail"

The first news to reach this country that Dr. Cook had discovered the North Pole came from Copenhagen—the same city, by a strange freak of fate, to first officially announce that he did not accomplish the great feat. The news was flashed under the seas on Sept. 1 last.

A dispatch was received at the colonial office in Copenhagen from Lervik, Shetland islands, signed by Cook. He stated that he had reached the Pole on April 21, 1908. There was no detail as to Cook's trip. Surprise was expressed that he had discovered the Pole a year and four months before and the facts had not reached civilization.

To his wife in Brooklyn Cook sent this cable by way of Copenhagen on Sept. 1 last:

"Successful and well. Telegraph address Copenhagen. Fred."

The news that Cook had reached the Pole swept around the globe. It caused the greatest excitement. The next day Cook's short story of the trip appeared, cabled by him from the frozen north. It was dated from the "Hans Egede," Lerwick.

In this story Cook gave an epitome of the trip with its perils, how he had to feed dogs to other dogs, but at last reached the Pole.

One of the first disappointments of the friends of Cook was that no white man accompanied him and would be able to corroborate his discovery of the Pole. His enemies brought up the disputed ascent of Mt. McKinley.

When Cook reached Copenhagen, the people took him to their hearts and decorated him with a wreath of flowers. He was wined and dined. The crown prince met him and he was at once put down as being approved royally.

Cook's announcement in a few words recalled that there was another seeker for the Pole in the north—Commander Peary. Then Peary declared that he had discovered the Pole himself. A little later Peary declared Cook a fakir. He stuck to it.

Cook was asked for his proofs. He said he had some of them and the rest he had left with Harry Whitney, who was on a hunting trip north.

Then Cook began to reap the benefit of his trip. First he sold his story to the newspapers for a big sum. Then he was in demand for lectures, for which he picked up many thousands more.

The public began to dig into the McKinley ascension and there were assertions that he had never climbed the montain. The demands for the North Pole proofs were increased and Cook began their preparation. It had been decided that the university of Copenhagen should pass on his papers.

The question for a week or ten days has been: "Where is Cook?"

Nobody seems to know. John R. Bradley, Cook's backer, had this to say within the last few days:

"It looks bad for Cook. I wash my hands of him."

Peary Warned the World

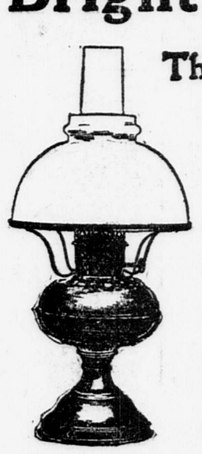
Washington, Dec. 22.—When Commander Peary was seen here and asked what he had to say about the findings of the consistory of the university of Copenhagen regarding the data submitted by Dr. Cook concerning his alleged discovery of the North Pole, he said:

"I have nothing whatever to add to the statement I made three months ago about my discovery of the North Pole. I do not care to say anything whatever about any alleged discoveries made by others.

"From the Labrador coast I sounded a deliberate and explicitly worded warning to the world, based on complete and accurate information in regard to the Cook claims. In doing so I accepted the responsibility devolving upon me and fulfilled my duty and to the public."

The warning to which Peary refers sent from Battle Harbor was as follows:



"Cook was not at the North Pole April 21, 1908, or at any other date. He has simply handed the public a gold brick."

Satolli's Condition Unchanged

Rome, Dec. 22.—Cardinal Satolli's condition is practically unchanged. The cardinal was greatly pleased on receiving a cablegram from Archbishop O'Connell of Boston, expressing sympathy and affection.

Bright and Steady

The Rayo Lamp

A bright and steady light depends upon the construction of the lamp.

The best skill has put forth its best effort in perfecting the Rayo Lamp.

As the air is fed to the flame—so does the light burn. The easy-flowing current of air through the air-tube of the Rayo Lamp secures a uniform light, with never a flicker or flare.

The ideal family lamp. Made of brass throughout and beautifully nickeled.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but you cannot get a better lamp at any price.

Once a Rayo user, always one

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not at Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, RECILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES CLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get Good Coal
You Can Get Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.
It's your business and right to investigate.

SEARCHLIGHT US!
'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.
Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

When You Feel Played Out

There comes a time when your grip on things weakens. Your nerves are unstrung, the vital forces low, the stomach is weak and the blood impoverished. You feel old age creeping over you. Be careful of yourself. Take

BEECHAM'S PILLS

at once; there is need to renew the life forces. Weak nerves, wearied brains, sick stomach, feeble blood, torpid liver, sluggish bowels—all feel the quickening effects of Beecham's Pills. Their use makes all the difference. The tonic action of these pills upon the vital organs is immediate, thorough and lasting. They are Nature's own remedy

For Run-down Conditions

Sold Everywhere in Boxes, 10c. and 25c.

HUB RANGES
WILL IMPROVE YOUR COOKING

That this is a fact is proven by the number of HUB Ranges sold Quincy housekeepers.
ONE-HALF TON OF COAL—FREE
To every purchaser of a HUB Range before Jan. 1, 1910
BERMAN TEA CO., 1625 Hancock St., QUINCY.

WHEELER'S
Christmas Christmas
See what we offer for Christmas.
All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Belts | Handkerchiefs | Pocket Books |
| Aprons | Stamped Linens | Purses |
| Gloves | Stationery | Bags |
| Xmas Cards | Handkerchief Boxes | Calendars |
| Booklets | Glove Boxes | Needle Books |
| Post Cards | Collar Boxes | Shaving Cases |

We also have a good line of
"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists
Christmas Christmas
CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY
(DRY GOODS STORE.)

Sprague's New River
STEAM COAL
Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined
Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.
J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS
TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 1o-tf

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER II.

WHEELER BRAND gazed at the girl, and above his own misery rose his sympathy and thought for her whom he longed to comfort, for the girl of his choice, whom duty said he must cause to suffer. He yearned to take her in his arms and wipe away the tears, but he knew that she would repulse him. He throbbed with the desire to prove to her his love by assuring her that the attack on her father was ended—but his duty whispered, "No."

And to himself he repeated the "No." For he must go on, and she must endure, and the judge must pay the price.

The voice of an outraged people had spoken through the pen of Wheeler Brand, and he was one of those men strong enough to refuse to take the price of silence.

He led the girl he loved to a chair, even as she sobbed and whispered, "Wheeler, Wheeler, Wheeler," endearingly from her heart's depths. Brand looked down on her with a world of sadness in his eyes. He well knew, and the world would soon know, that those who sit in the high places must pay the penalty for sin, even as the lowliest among us who more blindly goes astray.

Judith Bartelmy had been long enough in society to learn the art of the control and the concealment of emotions under many trying circumstances. Probably in any other situation than in one where her father and the man she loved were so deeply concerned, as in the present, she would have been able to retain a larger degree of self composure. Several minutes passed before she was able to speak in evenly balanced tones.

"Wheeler," she finally said, "if any one had told me that you would or could do what you have done against my father, against my family"—her voice began to break again—"against me, I would not have believed it. And you have not told me that you will cease your attack."

Brand thought to palliate her. He seated himself on a corner of the managing editor's desk and bent toward her as she sat in a chair near him.

"Now, Judith, let me try to explain," he said entreatingly. "I think I can make you understand. You see, the Lansing Iron company owned a lot of valuable properties—ore ranges, machinery, railroad trackage, etc. If it had been managed halfway it would now be a wealth producing business, but some of our speculators downtown were trying to get hold of it to gamble with. They wanted to milk it, as the saying is, by watering it. They did have a stock market battle or two, which profited nobody but the lawyers on both sides. But they finally got it by juggling it into a receivership, which they never could have done if a United States judge had not been willing to exceed his functions. That judge was your father.

"Since the works shut down," he went on strongly, "the men are out of employment, and the gamblers have got rich because the company's gone broke. That's just what happened, and that's all I said."

"But it wasn't your facts, I tell you. It was your insinuation that was false."

"Not insinuation—interpretation."

"But it wasn't true—it wasn't true."

"Oh, yes, it was true, and more."

Judith verged on the hysterical again.

"If you loved me as you pretend to, no matter if you thought it true or not, you could not have written that article."

"Can't you see that I wasn't writing about your father, but about a United States judge who"—

She moved farther away from him.

"That's splitting hairs, Wheeler."

He walked to her side.

"Judith, please—please don't let's quarrel about this."

The girl turned to him impulsively.

"Oh, Wheeler, we were on the verge of it, weren't we?" He cast his arms around her. "You're sorry, aren't you?" She looked fondly into his face. "And you will take back that article, won't you?"

"You mustn't ask me to do that; I can't," looking at her earnestly.

"You can't?"

"No."

Judith drew away from him a step or two. She surveyed him coldly.

"Wheeler, I came here thinking only of my father, but I suddenly find myself facing a much more serious question—not what kind of a man he is, but what kind of a man are you."

Brand was deeply cut by her manner and her intonation.

"Judith, if you only knew the truth, all of it, things I can't tell you, you'd be with me heart and soul in what I'm trying to do."

He caught her in his arms again.

"Whatever I've done or whatever I may do I love you," he insisted passionately.

Judith showed equal fervor as she said:

"And you're more to me than my father, but for my sake you mustn't work against him. How could we ever be happy together if you did? You'll do this for me, Wheeler, just this? I want you to carry out your ideals and live up to your high purposes in every other way, but you must not attack him. Promise me that you'll never do it again. Won't you promise me that? And you'll retract that article you had this morning. You'll do this for me, just this?"

"Judith—it's the truth—and, knowing that, would you have me retract it?"

"Yes."

"I can't."

Judith began to take off the engagement ring Brand had given her.

"You don't mean to do that!" he cried in amazement.

"I most certainly do!"

He was almost frantic. He grasped her hand.

"I won't let you mean it. I can't let you go without your ring. You may be Judge Bartelmy's daughter, but you are going to be my wife. You've worn my ring for a month, and you must wear it forever!"

The girl passed his passionate appeal by without heeding it. She tossed back her pretty head defiantly, snatched the ring from her finger and threw it on the managing editor's desk.

"I'll not wear it again," she exclaimed resolutely, "unless—until you come to your senses." So expressing herself, she stalked majestically across the room.

"Judith!" called Brand in desperation, fearing that she was about to leave him.

"Will you do what I ask?" she queried imperiously.

"I cannot," he answered simply.

The judge's daughter tossed her head independently, caught her skirt in her hand, turned her back swiftly on Brand and walked indignantly from the room.

(To be Continued.)

FEDERAL LAW BROKEN

Some Railroads Not Living Up to the Hours of Service Rule

Washington, Dec. 22.—The New Haven, Boston and Maine and Boston and Albany roads are all violating the hours of service rule, according to the annual report of the interstate commerce commission.

The rule says that each road shall file monthly reports under oath showing the excess service of employes and why they are called upon to work overtime. There were 1237 roads served with the order, and the three named and twenty others are the only ones not complying.

The total number of employes on railroads in this country up to June 30 last year was 1,458,244. The roads carried 890,009,574 passengers. The number of tons of freight carried for the year ending June 30 was 1,532,981,709.

The total number of casualties to persons on the railways was 114,418, of which 10,188 represented the number of persons killed and 104,230 the number injured. The number of passengers killed in 1908 was 381, and the number injured 11,556.

"SLEEPER TRUNK" FRAUDS

Thirteen Arrests as the Beginning of a General Roundup

New York, Dec. 22.—Twenty-seven modistes, alleged to be involved in the vast "sleeper trunk" smuggling system, one of the many ramifications of the customs frauds which have been brought to light at this port, have been indicted by the federal grand jury, and all probably will be under arrest within twenty-four hours.

Having obtained all the evidence necessary to proceed, the government began a general round-up with the arrest of nine women and four men. All were arraigned and held for trial. Caroline Windmuller, held as being one of the principal offenders, gave bail for $5000. The others gave surety in smaller amounts.

It is alleged that the government was defrauded out of thousands of dollars by means of trunks containing imported finery which were left on steamship piers and secretly moved later.

CHERRY'S STRIKEN PEOPLE

Burdens Will Be Somewhat Lightened by Twelve Chicago Aldermen

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Twelve Chicago aldermen went today to Cherry, Ills., the stricken mining town where 300 miners were entombed last month, to play Santa Claus to the hundreds of widows and orphans bereft by the St. Paul mine fire disaster.

With the aldermen went a carload of toys, candies and fruits for the children, and more substantial gifts for the mothers. More than 200 miners are still buried in the mine.

Rumanian Premier Shot

Bucharest, Dec. 22.—A workman fired three shots at J. J. C. Bratiano, the Rumanian premier and minister of the interior. One of the bullets struck the minister, slightly injuring him. His assailant was arrested.

Exposure to Wet, dampness and cold, invariably results in a sudden chill, which if not attended to immediately, will cause a cold. By mixing a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in half a glass of warm water or milk, the whole system will be heated and the danger of cold avoided. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c., 35c. and 50c.

SAYS HIS NEPHEW HYPNOTIZED WIFE

Forsaken Man Advertises For the Missing Woman

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 22.—"I want my wife to come back to me and the children for Christmas," said Alan Pratt, in explaining the reason why he inserted little want advertisements in a New York paper, pleading with her to return.

"My wife was hypnotized," he continued, "by a nephew of mine, and while under the spell he threw around her, she left my home. That was two years ago. I know that she has broken away from his spells and I think she is now in New York."

Pratt says that he thinks his nephew has shaken the woman and is now in Italy. He believes his wife is in New York, and thought an advertisement in the papers was the best way to find her.

COBBLER GETS A WINDFALL

Says It Will Not Induce Him to Depart From the Simple Life

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 22.—Cyrus E. Coburn, aged 69, came into possession yesterday of a fortune of $35,000. Coburn, who is a cobbler, and still works in a little shop of his own, says the money will make no difference in his way of living, as he is not a spendthrift and intends to keep on living a simple life.

Last February the money was willed to Mrs. George B. Coburn by her mother, Mrs. Coburn died soon after, leaving the fortune to her husband, who in turn died suddenly Dec. 6. The fortune is principally in personal property.

FOUND IN MANURE HEAP

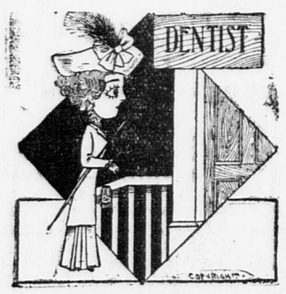
Woman Long Missing Is Thought to Have Been Murdered

New London, Conn., Dec. 22.—The body of Mrs. Annette Curtis, for whom 1000 people have searched since her disappearance last May, was found yesterday afternoon near her home at Ivoryton in a manure heap from which the feet protruded.

It is believed she was murdered. A reward for her recovery was offered. Mrs. Curtis was 80 years old.

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m



White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

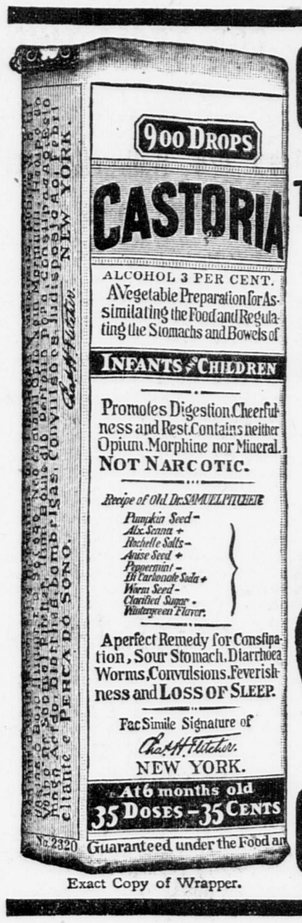
J. NATHAN
14 GRANITE STREET.
Dec. 14—1m.

YOUR APPOINTMENT

is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.



THIS DENTAL OFFICE IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.

Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.

YOU RISK NOTHING HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.

Our charges are never high.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.
DENTIST
37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.
Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Dec. 15 1o-2w

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

GAS PIPING AT COST.

- We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.
- Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.
- We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.
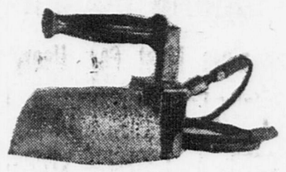
- Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.
- We do not pipe new buildings.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181
Dec. 13 tf



LLOYD'S OPERA GLASSES

Imported From Germany
ZEISS OPERA GLASSES
Black Morocco
$40.00.
LAZARD
$45.00.
Please send for Opera Glass Catalogue.
ANDREW J. LLOYD CO.
75 Summer St.
315 Washington St. 310 Boylston St.
Boston and
1252 Massachusetts Ave. Cambridge

REAL ESTATE For Sale?
Advertise in The Ledger.

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.
Dec 7 1m

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references.

Wideawake inventors should have our handbook on How To obtain and Sell patents. What inventions will pay. How to get a partner and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

Red Cross Stamps

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
| r *5 14 | abcdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | fhgfedcba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 | abc | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adei | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 00 |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edcba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | deba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | fhgfedcba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 | abcdefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedcba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedcba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abcdef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 | abcdef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fe lcba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 24 | fhgfedcba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | fhgfedcba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | fhgfedcba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | fhgfedcba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abcdefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | fhgfedcba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abcdefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | fhgfedcba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | fhgfedcba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abcdefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abcdefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | fhgfedcba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.
*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46. A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.21 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.25 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."
Quincy Daily Ledger

WELL
If you have anything to sell sell it to
J. A. KEATING
1357 Hancock Street
Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE
Elm and Dysart Streets.
Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

STORAGE
—FOR—
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.
Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.46, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Poait, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.
THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

Wanted.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 34 degrees |
| Dec. 22, 1908 | 31 degrees |
| Dec. 22 1907, | 38 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

Harold Gore of Wollaston is home from college for the holidays.

Lawyer J. D. Mackay has been confined to his home with an attack of the grip.

Arthur B. Hultman has been mentioned for the position of assistant probation officer.

Dr. George R. England who recently sold his house on Chestnut street left this week for Westboro.

Most of the churches that had special Christmas music last Sunday will repeat it on Sunday.

George W. Glover of Lincoln avenue returned Tuesday from a business trip through New Hampshire.

Friends of Mrs. E. E. Davis of Chestnut street will be pleased to learn that she is convalescent.

The Belcher school at East Milton was closed Tuesday because of poor attendance, owing to the scarlet fever scare.

Thomas Waugh a popular teacher in the High school at Rockland, Maine, is a guest of his sister, Mrs. John McDonald of Bigelow street.

Chester Mellen who has been following the sea for the past few years, has given it up and is at present employed in a large wholesale house in Boston.

Glover Howe, former well known High school student, who has attended M. A. C. the past term, has returned to his home in Marlboro for the holidays.

Kenneth Albee of Prospect avenue, Max Pinkham of Warren avenue, and George Weston of Newport avenue came home today from Brown University for the holiday season.

The fence erected on the Nutting property on Granite street some time ago, and which caused considerable comment at the time has been removed and the city has replaced it with an edgestone.

Thomas Hawley, formerly State inspector of boilers, will address the local union of Steam Engineers at Clan McGregor hall this evening. A series of educational lectures will be given and all engineers have been invited.

It is reported that the Walworth Manufacturing company have leased for a term of years the two stores in the Adams building now occupied by Page's pool room and Winer's variety store.

Red Cross Stamps
On Christmas Letters
Carry Good Cheer

BIRTHS.

MELHUISH—In Quincy, Dec. 20, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Melhuish of 144 Quincy avenue

DEATHS.

NICHOLS—In Cohasset, Dec. 20, Mr. Frank's Marion Nichols, in his 55th year.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

F.GURED IN A DARING HOLDUP

Four Boys Must Pay Heavy Penalty For Their Misdeed

ROBBED A JEWELRY STORE

Aged Proprietor Forced to Look on While $300 In Booty Was Gathered and Carried Away—Fifteen-Year-Old In Knickerbockers a Participant In Crime Which Lands Quartet In Prison For Varying Terms

Boston, Dec. 22.—A boy but 15 years old, wearing knickerbockers and showing a smiling countenance despite his position, stood up in the superior court before Judge Wait to receive sentence in company with three others for participating in the robbery of a 78-year-old man.

Roy Ash was the name of the little fellow, and he belongs in North Weymouth. He was given a term of 5½ years in the Massachusetts reformatory, it being shown that a revolver had figured in the affair, and that no western bandits had ever carried out a hold-up with greater display of bravado.

One of his companions, Edward J. Stafford, 20 years old, was sent to the state prison for not over ten nor less than seven years. Herbert Cassamant, 16 years years old, got a sentence of four to six years in the same institution, and the last of the quartet, John Barrett, 16 years old, goes to the reformatory for an indefinite term.

It was shown by the testimony that preceded conviction that the four youths had entered the store of Edward R. Randall at 776 Tremont street on the evening of Nov. 22, just as the proprietor of the place, who is 78 and feeble, was about to close up his jewelry establishment.

At once the gun was produced and the old man stood up that he might watch some $300 worth of his stock being gathered up; two of the boys were sent out to guard the door while the others looked after the happenings on the interior.

It was shown that the plans for the robbery had been made on the South Boston flats. In passing sentence Judge Wait said: "It is only by the mercy of heaven that these boys are not here charged with murder."

IS A TUFTS GRADUATE

Identification of "Mystery Girl" Who Made Desperate Attempt at Suicide

Norfolk, Dec. 22.—The young woman now hovering between life and death here as the result of an attempt to end her life by drinking laudanum and shooting herself through the head three times at Virginia Beach last Wednesday has been identified as Miss Marguerite M. Marshall, up to two weeks ago a member of the staff of a New York newspaper.

Miss Marshall, who is a graduate of Tufts college, Medford, Mass., class of 1097, came here last week to join a theatrical company as press representative. She carefully destroyed all evidence of her identity before she attempted to end her life.

The motive for her desire to end her life is yet unknown.

Portland, Me., Dec. 22.—Miss Marshall taught English at Westbrook, Me., seminary one term in the fall of 1907. For a time after that she was employed as a society reporter by the Portland (Me.) Daily Press. Kingston, N. H., is her native town.

FATHER KILLS HIS SON

Rifle Goes Off Prematurely While Preparing to Slaughter Beef

Great Barrington, Mass., Dec. 22.—Kenneth Boice, the 15-year-old son of Frank Boice of North Egremont, was accidentally shot by his father and died soon after.

The boy was assisting his father in killing a beef. A rifle, which was to be used in killing the animal, went off prematurely in the hands of his father.

The boy's lung was penetrated and death soon resulted. Frank Boice is a meat dealer and the son was a pupil at a high school.

Paid Bosses to Retain Jobs

Southbridge, Mass., Dec. 22.—Greeks employed in the American Optical company's works here have paid bosses to retain their positions a regular percentage of their wages, some of them having given up as high as $400, according to the Greek clergyman brought here to make an investigation in behalf of the workmen.

Killed by Runaway Horse

Boston, Dec. 22.—Peter McDonald, aged 65, was struck and knocked down by a runaway horse while standing at the corner of Front street and Warren avenue, Charlestown, receiving injuries that resulted in his death. McDonald was employed in the street department as a street sweeper.

The Weather

Almanac, Thursday, Dec. 23.
Sun rises—7:11; sets—4:15.
Moon sets—3:20 a. m.
High water—8 a. m.; 8:30 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Generally fair; light to moderate west winds.

BASKETBALL PARLOR-LIKE.

Rules Changed to Do Away With Personal Contests During Game.

Practically all of the eastern colleges were represented at the annual conference called by the intercollegiate basketball rules committee to discuss and interpret the rules at Columbia university, New York, recently. Over thirty captains, managers, coaches and officials were present to offer suggestions which their experience had made them think would benefit the game.

The committee pointed out that the changes which have been made in the rules have as their purpose an elimination of personal contact, the players being instructed that instead of following the man they should follow the ball. Mr. Fisher of Columbia illustrated this point and showed that this season the team which devotes all its attention to the course of the ball will have a distinct advantage over the team that plays the old style of close hugging guarding game.

Coach Keinath of Pennsylvania criticised the alterations on the ground that they would keep down the scoring and so render the game uninteresting. Keinath contended that the spectators enjoyed the game where there was plenty of scoring and that a contest in which there is continual close guarding and a correspondingly low score becomes dull and uninteresting and that the game will be killed as a result.

Special attention is to be given this year to the referee. Chairman Hyatt of Yale cautioned the officials present against allowing holding and warned them to enforce the rules very strictly. A list of approved officials, such as has been the custom with the football rules committee, has been prepared and sent to all the institutions where the game is played. A method of checking the work of these officials has also been devised by the committee. After each game the captains of the two teams are required to send in a criticism of the work of the official.

In order to prevent unnecessary delay a team may ask for time out only three times in each half. Another change is that when a player touches the boundary line he will be called out of bounds instead of when he puts one foot entirely out of the court. When the ball is returned from out of bounds without being touched by a player it is considered dead.

A lot of time was taken up in discussing a proposed rule forbidding the player to make a leap or take a long step before dribbling, passing or throwing for the basket, and the rule was modified so that the ball has to leave the player's hand before the foot brought up from behind touches the floor.

MANY MOTORDROMES.

Plans Being Completed For Several Big Auto Racing Plants.

From present indications it will not be long before the automobile world will see a chain of motordromes extending from coast to coast. At present there are circular auto speedways at Atlanta and Indianapolis. Plans have been completed for similar structures in New York and in Detroit. It is understood that a strong movement is under way to provide Chicago with a motordrome, and now work has been started on a big Los Angeles track. In the event of all the proposed motordromes being completed it will give this country a well linked chain for circular track speed contests.

The California motordrome will be a most pretentious plant. A special effort will be made to have the structure completed in about three months. Plans have been made to stage the opening speed pageant next April. The hurried construction of the track is made necessary by the fact that weeks of testing will be required before the formal opening.

The present plans call for a circular track. It will be of the "saucer" type, special attention being paid to the banking at the turns. The track will be one mile in circumference. With the adopting of plans calling for a wood roadbed the promoters made a decided departure from the usual line followed in motordrome construction. The track will be built of heavy timbers, planked with finished lumber. The banking all the way round will be so steep as to permit of 120 miles an hour speed with comparative safety.

Howard Coaching Yale Seven.

Thomas Howard of Winnipeg, Man., who coached the Yale hockey team last season, is again acting in the same position.

SPORTING BRIEFS

The Eel, 2:02¼, gray wonder, has been barred from the Ottawa free-for-all contest and will not race on the ice circuit as a result.

Syracuse rowing candidates will have pictures of the winning varsity eight thrown upon a screen as a means of instilling spirit into them.

The Ottawa Canoe club will enter Gordon Johnson, their 100 yard national swimming champion, in some of the important races in the United States next season.

Fred Taylor of Ottawa turned down an offer of $2,000 cash for a ten weeks' season of hockey offered him by the Renfrew club of Ontario. Rivalry is keen among the clubs there.

John Lemm, the Swiss heavyweight wrestler who is now in this country, is a man slightly under the average height, but he is very stocky. He strips at 196 pounds and is tremendously muscled. He has a splendid reputation abroad as a catch-as-catch-can wrestler.

FOUR POINTS FOR TEAM TWO

Team One Whitewashed at Norfolk Downs

The new Norfolk Downs bowling league opened its tournament on Tuesday evening with a victory for Team One which took everything in sight. The second string was the closest, Team Two leading, however, by 14 pins. On totals the scores were 1250 to 1171. Herrick was high man of the evening both on singles and totals. Team Two thus was 4 points to 0.

The summary:

| TEAM TWO. | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H. Hunt | 78 | 78 | 64 | 220 |
| G. Ganzel | 72 | 74 | 90 | 236 |
| R. Forsythe | 95 | 76 | 88 | 259 |
| E. Herrick | 87 | 96 | 100 | 283 |
| C. Bugbee | 82 | 84 | 86 | 252 |
| | 414 | 408 | 428 | 1250 |
| TEAM ONE | | | | |
| J. Macleod | 81 | 77 | 85 | 243 |
| H. Tabb | 76 | 85 | 68 | 229 |
| S. Burns | 64 | 72 | 76 | 212 |
| G. Ross | 81 | 75 | 81 | 237 |
| J. Burns | 86 | 85 | 79 | 250 |
| | 388 | 394 | 389 | 1171 |

BASKET BALL.

Milton High showed marked improvement in every department of their game on Tuesday when they defeated the Rockland High team at Milton by the score of 21 to 12. Sangster and Stuart excelled for the home five, and Desautels for the Rockland quintet.

CHECKER TURNEY.

The annual team tournament of the New England Checker Association will be held Feb. 22 as usual, the tourney being played in Boston. The Boston team will be captained by T. McDonald while Dr. H. O. Brown of Providence will lead the New England team. The association also has plans under way for an individual New England championship tournament to be held probably next month at the rooms of the Boston Checker Club.

—Wise paragrapher says: "If you haven't done your Christmas shopping yet, you can't blame it on the weather." It is not often that December is so gentle with those who wish to go abroad bent on business or pleasure. The closing month of the year generally has its full share of stormy weather. Even the Old Farmer's Almanac is off in its calculations this year.—Lynn Item.

BRIEFS

Frank E. Parlin of Cambridge formerly superintendent of Quincy schools, was in town today and may call away some of our teachers.

All of the local stores report an unusually good Christmas trade. The weather has been exceptionally fine for Christmas shopping, and the local stores are well stocked with seasonable goods.

If the order appropriating $100 for skating ponds passes the City Council on Thursday night, the Park Commissioners will arrange for skating ponds in practically every section of the city.

Hancock street is unusually dry and dusty and if the weather was not so cool, the sprinkler would be a welcome sight. Every team that passes raises a great cloud of dust.

The Salvation Army have Christmas collection boxes in several parts of the city. The money collected will be used in making poor families happy on Christmas day.

—There will be 13 newspaper men in the Massachusetts Legislature of 1910.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured
with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O
Sold by Druggists price 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

BACON IS CONFIRMED

Former Secretary of State Will Be Ambassador to France

Washington, Dec. 22.—The senate confirmed the nomination of former Secretary of State Robert Bacon of New York, to be ambassador to France.

ROBERT BACON.

Senator Root, by his activities on the floor before the executive session, dissipated all of the objections that had been raised against Bacon and no opposition whatever appeared.

All of the other diplomatic nominations which were sent to the senate were confirmed.

ROOSEVELT R CEIVES KING

Colonel and His Son Are Having a Good Time In Uganda

Kampala, Uganda, Dec. 22.—The American expedition arrived here yesterday and was received by Sub-Commissioner Knowles. Colonel Roosevelt came by motor car from Entebbe and the others arrived by steamer.

Before leaving Entebbe the colonel and Kermit had luncheon at the Government House and held a public reception. Yesterday afternoon they visited the Mill Hill mission here and later received King Daudi Chwa of Uganda.

MANIACS DESERT BURNING ASYLUM

Many Who Escaped From Keepers Are Still Missing

Jacksonville, Ills., Dec. 22.—A portion of the insane asylum here was destroyed by fire last night. It is rumored that a number of patients were left in the burning building, having hid under their beds and in closets, and since several of those who escaped have not been captured, it is not possible to determine whether lives have been lost.

Women roamed the streets wrapped in blankets, and others naked, having torn off their night clothing.

A considerable number of insane persons cluded the keepers during the excitement and fled through the countryside, with policemen and farmers in pursuit.

Many of the patients who were taken from the burning building and kept confined created a weird scene in their panic of fear.

ZELAYA'S ARMY ROUTED

May Be Forced to Surrender to Revolutionists Under Estrada

Bluefields, Dec. 22.—The revolutionists under command of General Estrada have completely routed the Zelayan forces near Rama, and the latter are in full retreat, being pursued by the victors, who are confident of forcing a surrender today.

Estrada has captured Recreo, Vasquez's strongest position, and he has been victorious all along the line, which stretches for a distance of eight miles.

Estrada's followers were armed with the latest equipment, and machine guns were brought into play to clear the trenches.

The casualties of the government side were high, the greatest execution being done at Recreo.

MURDERER PARDONED

Served Twenty Years of Life Sentence In Maine State Prison

Augusta, Me., Dec. 22.—After serving twenty years of a life sentence for murder, Edward A. Chase was granted a pardon by the governor and council last night. It was Chase's sixth plea for executive clemency.

Jealousy is believed to have prompted Chase to murder Mrs. Ida Stevens of Gardiner in the Union station at Portland in 1888 by shooting. He has been in the state prison at Thomaston since.

Family of Five Suffocated

New York, Dec. 22.—Five persons, an entire family, were hemmed in by smoke and flames in a burning house in Yonkers and were suffocated. Theodore R. Fredericks, his wife and three children were the ones suffocated.

Gold Medal to Aviators

Paris, Dec. 22.—The Academy of Science has decided to award gold medals for aerial flights to the following aviators. Bleriot, Farman, de Lambert, Latham, Santos-Dumont, de la Vaulx, Voisin, Orville and Wilbur Wright and Zeppelin.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—In Quincy, Monday afternoon, a small brown leather shopping bag, with money, keys and owner's name inside. Reward if F. J. Ledger office is notified.
Dec. 21 3t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE or TO LET—Before you buy or rent, consult me. Houses for sale or to rent in the finest residential section in Quincy All improvements. Close to school, churches stores and depot. C. A. ERICSON, Builder 117 Glendale Road. Tel. Quincy 28-2.
May 22-tf W and Sat.

FOR SALE—Light express wagon suitable for grocery or general delivery, will carry a ton; first class condition. Apply at 10 Sumner street, Quincy. Dec. 21-3t

NOTICE

The Thomas Crane Public Library will be closed after 6 P. M. Friday Christmas Eve, and on Christmas Day.

Per Order of the Trustees.
Dec. 21 4t

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, May 2 Haymarket 724—Quincy 448
1p-1y

R.D.CHASE QUINCY MASS. MONEY TO LOAN ON REAL ESTATE MORTGAGES INSURANCE REAL ESTATE MORTGAGES CONVEYANCES TRUSTS CARE OF PROPERTY
Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones 409-3 Quincy, 228-3 Quincy, 368-7 Milton
1p-tf

ASSETS, $450,000.
ESTABLISHED 1889
QUINCY CO-OP. BANK $$$$$ For The People
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS B'K BUILDING
R.D. CHASE Treas.

Boys Wanted

TO SELL

Quincy Daily Ledgers

at the Quincy, Quincy Adams, and West Quincy Stations. Also at Fore River Shipyard.

Apply at LEDGER OFFICE.

WANTED.

WANTED — Experienced seamstress would like work with dressmaker or would take sewing at home. Address S., Ledger Office. Quincy, Dec. 22-3t

TO LET.

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN.
Dec. 21 6t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neigborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-tf

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and appartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-12t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec. 10-12t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 64 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-tf

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-tf

TO LET
Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merril Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.
Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.
24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.
Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.
City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x43 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent
Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

TELEPHONE CONN. HOURS 9-12 2-5
DR. A. B. PACKARD HARVARD '05 DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

Read Ledger Advs

SPORTS

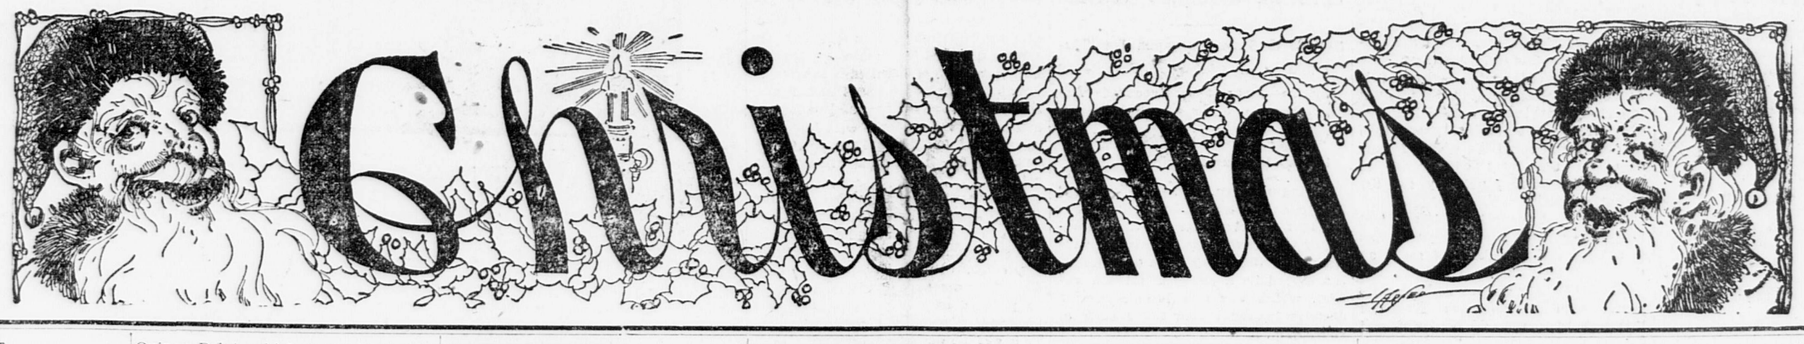
ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.



Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 288 QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 23, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

TO READERS AND ADVERTISERS A MERRY

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO

The Industrial Statistics as Reported in 1837

(Historical Paper No 2.)

Seventy-five years ago the population of Quincy was less than 3 400 where today it is over 34,000, ten times as large. Most of the industries which existed 75 years ago have passed away, but granite quarrying and cutting are carried on more extensively now and also shipbuilding. We have no boot manufacturing today, no tanneries, no hat manufacturing no salt works no vessels engaged in fisheries, no slate quarry, no coach lace manufactory, no beaswax bleachery. Today the granite business is more diversified including quarrying, cutting, polishing, paving stone, etc. Steel ships have taken the place of wooden ships and the volume of business is much larger. Our industries today also include the Tubular Rivet and Stud Company, the Boston Gear Works, the Translucent Fabric Company, the Pneumatic Scale Company, Wollaston Foundry Co., brass works, dye stuffs and chemicals, gas works, electric light works, street railway power station, yacht building, coal and lumber yards, carriage works, manufacture of granite tools wrapper factory, box factory, trap rock works, newspapers, machine shop, etc., etc.

Relative to industries of Quincy of years ago Pattee's History says:

"We cannot go back further than 1837 for the industrial statistics of Quincy, as this was the first year that they were ordered to be taken by the authority of the State. These statistics are as correct as the truthfulness of those who reported them to the census taker will allow; still with all care in collecting them they seem far from being exact in their correctness, but are as reliable as statistics of this nature generally are. We have given them as we have found them in the official documents, and the reader must be the judge of their reliability. These business statements are worthy of consideration in showing the numerous changes that have for the last 72 years, taken place in the various industries of Quincy.

"Boots manufactured, 27,437 pairs; shoes, 18,602 pairs; value of boots and shoes manufactured $111,881; males employed, 163; females, 58.

"Tanneries, 4; hides tanned 8,390; value of leather tanned and curried $17,074; hands employed 16; capital invested, $19,800.

"Hat manufacturers, 1; hats manufactured, 1,000; value of hats, $2,250; hands employed—males 2; females, 1.

The hat manufactory of John Hall was located on Adams street, where the old "Cherry Tavern" formerly stood.

"Salt manufacturers, 2; salt manufactured, 3,135 bushels; value of the same, $1,500; hands employed, 2; capital invested, $1,600. In the early part of the present century Josiah Quincy carried on salt works in North Quincy, near the slate quarries. In 1824, Lucius Manlius Sargent established salt works on his estate at Quincy Point, which estate is now in possession of the heirs of the late H. Farnum Smith, Esq.

"Vessels built in the five preceding years, 13; tonnage of the same, 2,594 value, $122,650; hands employed, 50.

"Vessels employed in the cod and mackerel fishing, 10; tonnage of the same, 734; codfish caught, 6 200 quintels; value of the same, $18,800; mackerel caught, 1,7500 barrels; value of the same, $12,242; capital invested, $29,000; salt used in cod and mackerel fishing, 11,250 bushels; hands employed, 100.

"Syenite quarried 64 590 tons; value of the same, $248 737; hands employed 533.

"Slate quarried, 1,200 tons; value of the same, $2,500; hands employed, 5.

"Value of coach lace manufactured, $12,000; hands employed—males, 7; females, 16.

"Beeswax bleached, 47,000 pounds; value of the same, $17 000; hands employed, 4 This business was established by William G. Appleton, about 1836 on the estate lately owned by J. R. Graham on Washington street. From here Mr. Appleton moved his bleachery to his estate on Adams street, owned by Edward H. Dewson, where he continued the business until his removal from town in 1856.

"Value of coach, chaise, harness and wheelwright business, $32,650; hands employed, 36."

---

At the suggestion of members of the Quincy Historical Society, the Daily Ledger has started the publication of local historical papers which will relate to industrial, social, civic, ecclesiastical, military, biographical and other phases of Quincy of years ago. The Historical Editor invites the corporation of members of the Historical Society and citizens generally. He would like to publish at least one historical paper a week, and would prefer original articles of 600 to 800 words. At the same time the editor will endeavor to answer all queries concerning Quincy of the past which may be asked.

---

DOUBLE WEDDING.

There was a pretty double home wedding at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Dall'ora, 17 Doble street, West Quincy, this morning, when their daughters Misses Mary and Emma Dall'ora, were united in wedlock by William M. Marden, Esq., to Messrs. Antonio Ruscitto and Antonio Bongarzone, respectively, two well known young men of the West Quincy district. Each bridal couple acted as bridemaid and best man for the other. The ceremony was witnessed by a large gathering of the friends of the young people. After the ceremony there was a reception and wedding breakfast. Both couples will make their homes in this city.

---

SURPRISE PARTY.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Marion Stoddard a popular young lady who resides on Quincy avenue, Wednesday evening, by her numerous friends of the city. The party was held in Electa hall, games and dancing being enjoyed from 8 till 10. Ice cream and cake were served during the evening. The young lady was made the recipient of a fine signet ring, the presentation being made by Charles Moyle. About fifty of her friends attended and had a grand time.

Two Shows at Music Hall, Christmas

Matinee at 2.30. Evening at 8.

3 ACTS, 5,000 FEET MOVING PICTURES.

Advance Sale of Coupon Reserved Seat Tickets.

GET YOURS TODAY

Admission 10 Cents. Reserved 20 Cents. Dec. 18-6t

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

Given by the Alliance to Needy Children

One of the most enjoyable Christmas gatherings, and one most pleasant to look upon, was that at the chapel of the First church Wednesday afternoon, when the ladies of the Alliance entertained a number of needy children at a Christmas festival. About 45 children were guests, and as some of the mothers of the little ones came with them the number reached nearly 60. The children gathered in the chapel at 3 o'clock, and from then until 5 o'clock they listened to the music of a graphaphone, played games, and marched about the chapel, and their little faces were lit up with joy as they looked upon a pretty Christmas tree on the platform laden with gifts for all.

At 5 o'clock they marched to the dining room in the basement, where lunch was served. There were turkey sandwiches, and milk, and ice cream, and cake for all. In addition to this there was at each plate a stick of candy, an orange and home made cake with a bag in which they could take all home. Then there was a pair of warm mittens for each child and a pair of gloves for each mother. It was a glorious time for all, and it is a question as to who looked the happier, the children or the ladies of the Alliance who had the party in charge.

Supper over, they all marched back to the chapel where the Christmas tree was stripped of its presents, and each child and mother received a remembrance. As a whole it was one of the most successful Christmas parties ever held.

ELECT NEW PRESIDENT

Annual Meeting Of Houghs Neck Associates

The annual meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates was held Wednesday evening. The Australian ballot was used for the election, and the polls remained open until 6 o'clock. As a result of the election the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Daniel J. Maloney.

First Vice President—Tie between M. G. Caughlan and William P. Taylor.

Second Vice President—William J. Hudson.

Secretary—Hiram Darrow.

Financial Secretary—Charles Fosdick.

Treasurer—John R. S. Ross.

Board of Directors—J. L. Harvey, E. E. Piper, Frank Catarius and A. F. Baird at large; Ross Y. Woodbury of Ward 1, C. J. Reagan of Ward 2, A. A. Brown of Ward 3, David Fenner of Ward 4 and P. F. O'Brien of Ward 5.

Auditing Committee—A. R. Hammond, William P. Taylor, P. F. O'Brien.

CHRISTMAS AT SEASIDE

About 300 Enjoy Festivities at Houghs Neck

One of the greatest events of the year at Houghs Neck, the Christmas tree took place on Wednesday evening at Browns dance hall, and all "the natives" who were able to attend were present, including about 230 children.

The tree was at one end of the hall and the floor was left free to use for dancing which was enjoyed at intervales during the evening. Santa Claus was there in the person of Addison K. Hammond, and he made the hearts of the children glad with all manner of gifts.

A varied program had been arranged and was thoroughly appreciated both by the older folks and the children. Refreshments were served during the evening.

There were about three hundred present and it was pronounced the greatest success of any Christmas tree festival held at the seaside.

This is an annual affair and the committee who carried it to such a successful issue this year were Mrs. Jason L. Harvey, Mrs. Hiram Darrow, Mrs. Harvey P. Stackpole and Mrs. N. J. Reagan.

BARGAINS IN BATTLESHIPS

Comments of Chief Constructor Capps of Navy

Uncle Sam has obtained decided bargains in his contracts for battleships during the past five or six years according to a statement of Chief Constructor Capps of the navy to Congress. "We have had to inspect very rigidly," he said; "we have had to work exceedingly hard to prevent contractors from being entirely human and reducing the cost of their work at the expense of completeness and efficiency when they have bid so low. It is a serious question whether you want to take advantage of the rather critical situation of the ship-building industry in this country and force it into even a more difficult position. Whether it is to the Government's interest to compel private firms to build ships at less than their bid when the bid is less than the cost is a matter for others to decide."

---

—One of the biggest blasting jobs on record has just been successfully carried out to get rock for the Morena Dam in southern California. A tunnel 125 feet long was driven into the face of the granite and 38,950 pounds of dynamite and gunpowder packed into it. The subsequent explosion dislodged 120,000 cubic yards of rock.

Red Cross Stamps

On Christmas Letters

Carry Good Cheer

CHRISTMAS AT QUINCY HOME

Women's Club and Others Cheer the Inmates

Thanks to the generosity of the Philanthropic committee of the Quincy Women's Club and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Vaughn, the keepers at the Quincy Home, the inmates were the glad recipients on Wednesday evening of many presents and good things to delight their hearts. The piano was moved from the front room to a larger one at the side of the side of the building, and all the occupants gathered there to listen to the music and a short entertainment prepared for them by the members of the Women's Club committee.

A short farce entitled "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone," was presented by Misses Dulah Miller, Helen Kingman, Ruth and Ella Packard. A Jack Horner Pie was then opened by Mrs. N. G. Nickerson which contained five black aprons for the five women in the home. They also received a lace handkerchief apiece through the kindness of Mrs. Herbert Bailey, and both the men and women were recipients of handkerchiefs from Mrs. Theophilus King.

Three members of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra furnished music during the evening, Lester Clee, Harry Smith and Everett Rhodes. The dining room was kindly thrown open by Mr. Vaughn, and cocoa, cake and fruit were served to all. Until late in the evening the young people gladdened the hearts of the inmates and brought back the almost forgotten spirit of Christmas with songs and music.

The committee of the Women's Club were: Miss Harriett Turner, chairman; Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. G. W. Hite, Mrs. C. S. Commins, Mrs. W. E. Piper and Mrs. N. G. Nickerson.

---

BARRE MAY SETTLE.

A dispatch from Montpelier states that at a meeting Wednesday between committees of the Barre Manufacturers' Association and Northfield Granite Cutters' Union, an agreement was reached which will end the strike and lockout that has been in progress for five weeks. The agreement, however was not made public and must be ratified by the two associations which will meet this afternoon.

The Montpelier cutters read a communication from National Secretary James Duncan of Quincy, which is reported to have said that he understood the manufacturers had accepted the proposal for settlement made Nov. 28 in regard to the use of the pneumatic bush hammer. That is, that they should be used in a careful and intelligent manner; the use of the machine not to be insisted upon if workmen object to using it; nor shall it be made compulsory in sheds. It is reported that the men will return to work next week.

---

—Now the alarmists are starting a scare over the "coming of the multi-billionaire." In view of the fact that there's only about three billion dollars of real money in the country, there won't be very many multi-billionaires in your day, gentle reader, so calm yourself with the reflection that there's just as good smoked herring in the sea as ever were caught.—Hartford Post.

FREE TRIAL ELECTRIC LIGHTING

As a special inducement to the citizens of Quincy, whose homes or stores have never been wired for electric light, the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company makes the following proposition:

To all who will expend at least twenty dollars ($20) for wiring and fixtures, before January 31st, 1910, the Company will make the service connections, install meter and standard carbon filament lamps without charge, and will also FURNISH FREE twenty dollars ($20) worth of electric current at regular meter rates to be used before June 30th, 1910, provided the premises can be reached from the present lines of the Company without the setting of additional poles. This concession will go far towards paying the entire cost of wiring the average house.

For further particulars telephone Quincy, 185, between the hours of 8 A. M. and 5 P. M., or fill out and mail to the Company, No. 9 Granite Street, Quincy, the attached coupon.

Quincy Electric Light & Power Company

By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.

Quincy, Mass, December 22nd, 1909.

COUPON.

QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER CO.:

Gentlemen:

I am interested in your offer of Free Trial Electric Lighting. Please have your representative call and give me full information.

Name .....

Address, No. ..... Street,

Date of Appointment ..... Time .....

Dec. 22—12 t

FOY

Makes a Specialty of Supplying Good Things for Christmas

The largest and freshest stock of Christmas Groceries and Sweets in Quincy. We carry everything you need for Christmas Dinner. Our prices are right.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cranberries | 3 qts. 25c. | Rice Pop Corn | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Fancy Drained Citron | lb. 18c. | Common Crackers | lb. 8c. |
| Seeded Raisins | 3 pkg. 25c. | Large Native Onions | pk. 25c. |
| Cleaned Currants | pkg. 10c. | Florida Oranges | doz. 15c. |
| Ideal Not-a-Seed Raisins | pkg. 10c. | 2 lb. box Ribbon Candy | 25c. |
| Slade's Sage | box 5c. | Dates | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Bell's Poultry Seasoning | box 9c. | Cluster Raisins | box 10c. |
| | | Matinee Biscuits | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| | | Takoma Biscuits | 6 pkg. 25c. |

R·E·FOY & CO

COR. WATER AND QUINCY STS.

QUINCY ADAMS

A GOOD CAR

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Head of Great College.

Charles R. Van Hise, President of Wisconsin University.

Charles R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, is one of America's most noted geologists. He is also famous as a forester and has been president of the Wisconsin board of forestry since 1905. Dr. Van Hise has been connected for thirty years with the university of which he is the head.

BRIEFS

The Wollaston Boy's club will meet this evening.

Some of the local merchants are putting out pretty calendars for 1910. Another year is almost here.

George Merrifield of Helena Ark., has been a recent guest of the Amos T. Leavitt's of Lincoln avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen E. Ricker are moving into their new home on Whitney road.

Rev. A. R. Atwood, preaches his farewell sermon Sunday morning at the Washington Street Congregational church. There will be special Christmas music by the choir.

Superintendent Charles Sherburne of the Washington Street Congregational Sunday school announces a Christmas concert for Sunday night at seven o'clock.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

One of the first things the City Council will have to do when it meets after inauguration is to take the necessary steps to call a special election in Ward Two to fill the vacancy in the City Council from that ward. Although there is but one candidate to be elected all the routine of an election is necessary. There must be a time set for filing nomination papers. Then a caucus with the polls open from 12 o'clock noon until 9 P. M. Then comes the election with the polls open from 6 A. M. until 4 P. M., so that it will entail a cost upon the city of something like $700. Then of course there is always the possibility of another tie and another election. At best it will be late in February before the new member will be able to take his seat.

☞ A Five Dollar Prize is to be given to the newsboy selling the most Ledgers up to New Years. Some of the boys are nearing the 1,000 mark.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

AFTER MEN "HIGHER UP"

Sugar Trust Officials Said to Have Compelled Scale Frauds

New York, Dec. 23.—Collector Loeb announces that an official higher in the American Sugar Refining company than any of the persons yet apprehended is to be indicted.

The government officials are striving to reach certain high officials in the American Sugar Refining company. They are said to have information that at least two of them countenanced the underweighing frauds, and, as a fatter of fact, really authorized and compelled the employes to practise the frauds.

It is believed that whatever evidence Loeb has secured to warrant the statement that an official of the sugar trust will be indicted was given by one of the convicted employes upon whom the trust endeavored to throw all the responsibility for the gigantic frauds.

Government inspectors have just filed a report of their investigations of alleged underweighing of sugar on the docks of Arbuckle Brothers, the rival of the sugar trust. Following its presentation reports were circulated that indictments would be found and arrests made.

TOWN HALL DESTROYED

Fire at Leominster Gets Good Start Before It Is Discovered

Leominster, Mass., Dec. 23.—Fire last night destroyed the town hall and opera house, contained in the one structure, causing a loss of $150,000.

The town hall was a structure of pressed brick, three stories in height, the two upper floors being given over to the uses of an opera house containing 1200 seats.

Spontaneous combustion, or rats and matches were given as the cause, but whatever might have brought it about, the feeling prevails that the fire had been going a long time before it was discovered.

ASSASSINS BUSY IN THE OLD WORLD

Three Tragedies as Protests Against Governments

London, Dec. 23.—A remarkable series of political assassinations of personages high in office is reported from widely separated points throughout the world.

At Seoul, Korea, the prime minister of the Korean cabinet was stabbed to death with a dagger as an apparent result of the intense feeling against Japanese influence.

At St. Petersburg the chief of secret police, Colonel Karpoff, was blown to pieces by the explosion of a bomb supposedly thrown by an anarchist.

At Bombay the chief magistrate of Nasik, Arthur M. T. Jackson, was assassinated by a native for revenge and presumably as a part of the seditious movement against British official authority.

In each of the countries the governing authority is menaced by a dangerous element directed against the existing regime.

DOLLAR-A-DAY PENSION

Could Be Granted Veterans Now Because of Their Depleted Ranks

Washington, Dec. 23.—The New England members of the house are being importuned to join members from the middle west in working for a dollar-a-day-pension bill at this session of congress. It is said that strong pressure will be brought to bear on the situation and a determined effort made to put through such a bill.

One member who is working on the scheme calls attention to the fact that, according to the records, 48,000 of the veterans will pass away this year. This enormous death rate will decrease the pensions about $10,000,000 a year, and it is declared that the rate can be raised to $1 a day for the remaining veterans without imposing any heavier burdens on the appropriations of the country.

"MARTYRS" GET MEDALS

Shirtwaist Strikers Are Honored Upon Release From Prison

New York, Dec. 23.—Cheered and praised like the suffragette jail martyrs in England, seven girl shirtwaist strikers, who have served terms of five days each on Blackwell's island for disorderly conduct during the strike, were decorated with bronze medals last night in the presence of 3000 enthusiastic followers in an East Side hall. The medals were given by the Women's Trade Union league.

Three Vassar girls took part in the ceremony. The martyr recipients of the medals told of their experiences on the island and urged the strikers to stand firm.

Settlement of Big Strike Near

Barre, Vt., Dec. 23.—A settlement of the granite cutters' strike and lockout, which has kept 5000 men idle for five weeks, is said to be in sight.

The Weather

Almanac, Friday, Dec. 24.
Sun rises—7:12; sets—4:16.
Moon sets—4:37 a. m.
High water—9 a. m.; 9:30 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Generally fair; moderate to brisk west winds.

MEDDLING BY UNITED STATES

Protested In a Manifesto by Former President Zelaya

SAYS HE INCURRED HATRED

Retired to Save Nicaragua the "Humiliation of Outrages" Threatened by Us—Americans Executed According to Law—Estrada Wins Great Victory, Nineteen Hundred of Zelaya's Men Surrendering

Managua, Dec. 23.—Ex-President Zelaya has issued a manifesto declaring that his surrender of the presidency was caused by a desire to save Nicaragua the humiliation of outrages threatened by a powerful foreign nation, which was now inaugurating a decisive influence over the destiny of Nicaragua.

Because, he says, of his resistance of the imposition of tutelage, which was the forerunner of the conversion of the Latin nations on this continent into dependencies of the United States, he incurred the hatred of that government, and when the defeat of the revolutionists appeared certain the United States government inexplicably severed relations with Nicaragua through Secretary Knox's letter to the charge d'affaires.

He protested before the world against the meddling by the United States and the threat to land marines.

In his manifesto Zelaya takes up various clauses of the Knox letter in an attempt to refute certain charges with copies of letters he received from John G. Coolidge, the former American minister at Managua, thanking him for his courteous treatment in the matter of the claims of Guatemala and Salvador.

The former president declares that the Americans, Cannon and Groce, were executed according to law. This pretext for intervention, he asserts, is similar to that employed when the United States first intervened in Cuba, for there was no proof that the Maine was blown up by Spaniards, yet this was taken as a cause for action. Nor is there any proof that Cannon and Groce were put to death unlawfully.

Estrada Wins a Victory

Bluefields, Dec. 23.—General Estrada has won a complete victory over the government troops at Rama.

A total of 600 men of both armies were killed or wounded. Nineteen hundred of Zelaya's men have surrendered, including General Gonzales, who was in command. Two Americans are reported killed.

The fighting occurred outside the city limits. The wounded are being brought here. Commander Shipley has landed surgeons from the Des Moines to care for them.

PALACE FOR PORKERS

One of the Items of Extravagance In a Hub Penal Institution

Boston, Dec. 23.—That the penal institutions boat Monitor was frequently used for gambling and carousing, that city property it contained was destroyed by the pleasure seekers aboard it and that on one occasion James C. White, Mayor Hibbard's secretary, used it to convey a party of his women friends to a dance at Fort Warren, were some of the admissions made by Commissioner Skinner and his assistant, Herbert S. Carruth, to the finance commission, at the Deer island probe.

In every instance that the boat was let both men testified that White was the medium through whom the privilege was obtained.

It also developed from the testimony of Carruth that $22,500 was spent for the piggery. He admitted that the erection of a porcine palace was unnecessary. He asserted that he thought the erection of the building was high handed extravagance, in view of the piggery being steam heated, and that the pigs in the house of correction are enjoying better quarters than many of the inmates.

ACCUMULATED $7000

Discovery After Death of Woman Supposed to Be Poverty-Stricken

Providence, Dec. 23.—When Medical Examiner McGill was turning over the many old-fashioned and dust-covered articles in an old trunk belonging to Mrs. Mary J. Salisbury, an aged widow who died here alone and in apparent poverty, he discovered bankbooks with deposits of nearly $7000 and a will bequeathing it to relatives in England.

The money is being held by the authorities here awaiting a claimant.

$50,000 For Latin Chair at Exeter

Exeter, N. H., Dec. 23.—A $50,000 gift for the teaching of Latin in Exeter academy has been completed by a gift of $6000 from Robert S. and Miss Mary Morrison of New York, brother and sister of George S. Morrison of Chicago, the original donor.

Recount Favorable to Democrat

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 23.—A Democratic alderman replaced a Republican by two votes as a result of the recount last night of the votes cast in the recent city election. Owen Brennan is elected over Harvey B. Greene.

MAY PUT UP A FIGHT

Smith Displeased at the Senate's Hasty Confirmation of Bacon

Washington, Dec. 23.—Senator Smith of Michigan is expected, on his return from the west, to make the air about the Capitol blue over the hasty confirmation by the senate, among others, of the nomination of Robert Bacon to be ambassador to France. This action was especially desired by Senator Lodge.

Under the rules a senator is allowed two executive sessions following action in which to move reconsideration of a confirmation, but in this case the senate clinched its action by sending notice to the president that the Bacon nomination had been confirmed. Smith is a determined fighter, and as he has had on passage-at-arms with Lodge, a renewal of hostilities is expected by some of his colleagues when Smith returns.

Parliamentary authorities at the Capitol appear to agree that the action of the senate in sending notice to the president has deprived Smith of his right. In such cases the only possible procedure is for the senate to pass a resolution requesting the president to recall the nomination until it can be discussed further.

"LITTLE TIM" IS DEAD

New York's East Side Mourns the Loss of a Popular Politician

New York, Dec. 23.—Alderman Timothy P. Sullivan, the "Little Tim" of the Bowery, and a power in metropolitan politics, died at his East Side house last night. He had been in bad health for more than six months, and within a week his condition had become critical.

When the news spread throughout the East Side that "Little Tim," by whose generosity and bigness of heart many a poor family has been sustained in days of adversity, was dead, a pall of gloom pervaded the entire section.

WARRINER GETS SIX-YEAR SENTENCE

Penalty For Alleged Embezzlement of $643,000

Cincinnati, Dec. 23.—Charles L. Warriner, deposed local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, pleaded guilty to embezzlement and was sentenced to serve six years in the Ohio penitentiary.

Of the $643,000 Warriner is alleged to have taken from the Big Four railroad, less than half has been accounted for by him. Many stories have circulated that he had secreted part of the money, but these have not been verified.

After Warriner had been sentenced Prosecutor Hunt stated he would not present further charges against him to the grand jury, unless it is shown that Warriner has money hidden away. If this should be discovered Warriner can be prosecuted further.

NOVEL SWINDLING GAME

Charged Against Elderly Man Under Arrest In New York

New York, Dec. 23.—In the person of Charles Adams, an elderly man of respectable apearance, the police say they have one of a successful group of mining swindlers who in recent years have fleeced wealthy English families out of $250,000.

Adams will be charged with using the mails to defraud. It is alleged that when a death notice appeared in the English papers Adams or an associate would write a letter addressed to the dead man, knowing that it would probably fall into the hands of the heirs.

This letter would recite how the writer was helped by the addressee to make his fortune in mining stocks and that in gratitude he now offered his benefactor a chance to subscribe to choice mining shares.

WU'S WITTICISMS

He Springs a Few In Saying Farewell to Washington People

Washington, Dec. 23.—Being visited by representatives of commercial bodies of Washington for the purpose of saying farewell to him, Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, promised that he would return to the United States for a visit fifty years hence if he did not sooner make the trip.

Incidentally the minister said he saw no reason why a man should not live to be 200 years old if he met no accident and did not get sick, at the same time inferentially suggesting that he expected to make his span of life cover the 200-year period.

New Arrests In Smuggling Case

New York, Dec. 23.—The United States authorities have added two more alleged smuggling conspirators in the plot which is said to embrace Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston in its scope, making the total arrests sixteen. The new prisoners are women.

Taft Attends Mass For Leopold

Washington, Dec. 23.—President Taft, accompanied by practically all the members of his cabinet, attended the solemn high mass of requiem held at St. Matthew's Roman Catholic church this morning for the repose of the soul of King Leopold of Belgium.

CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES AND NOTIONS

BY CHARLOTTE BREWSTER JORDAN

CHEESE DATES

Remove the seeds from nice, large dates,
And in the cavities
Place daintily a little bit
Of Neufchâtel, light cheese.
Then press the dates together well;
With salad they will please,
Or heaped in some fine cut-glass dish,
At Christmas jubilees.

GINGER TANGS

Take stem ginger,—or crystallized,—
Whole pieces work the best.—
When cut in halves, scoop out inside
And fill—to give them zest—
With good, soft cheese,—its rim outside
The halves together pressed.
Their snap, so modified, is sure
To please each grateful guest.

RED-APPLE SALAD

Select large apples rosy-red,
All uniform in size,
Scoop out in cups, in water stand
In which, some cooks advise

A little lemon-juice be put
Until it 's time to fill.
Mix celery snips with apple chips
And grape-fruit bits at will.

Fill up the hollow apples now
With the mixed fruit galore,
And a stiff, golden mayonnaise
Over the medley pour.

Place apples each on separate plate
On leaves of lettuce green,
With maraschino cherries red
Well stuffed with nuts between.

Serve with this cheery salad course
Thin wafers spread with cheese
With catsup mixed until its hue
Is ruddy as you please.

CHRISTMAS WASSAIL

Three large, fine-flavored apples core,
And slowly bake until well done.
Then put the pulp in punch-bowl gay
With a teaspoonful of cinnamon,

With lemon bits, half teaspoon each
Of grated nutmeg, cloves, allspice;
Mix well together, pour o'er all
Three pints of boiling cider nice.

Serve hot with sugared doughnuts round
As wind-up for the merry feast,
Good health then wish the company,
"With every joy increased."

From the Christmas St. Nicholas. Copyright, 1909, by The Century Co.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS
TWO TRIPS DAILY
Furniture and Piano Moving
Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

YOUR APPOINTMENT
Is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.
THIS DENTAL OFFICE
IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.
Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.
YOU RISK NOTHING
HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.
Our charges are never high.
M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.
DENTIST
37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.
Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Dec. 15 1o-2w

GAS PIPING AT COST.

- We have made a specialty of piping old houses and stores, and have a highly efficient force of mechanics for such work.
- Our purchases of piping supplies and fixtures are on such a large scale, we are able to offer exceptional inducements to customers.
- We have piped and fixtured hundreds of eight and nine room houses for $32.50 each.
- Send for our representative and let us give you an estimate now.
- We do not pipe new buildings.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. 181
Dec. 13 tf

REAL ESTATE For Sale?

Advertise in The Ledger.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

Miss Minnie Packard, who has been teaching in the eighth and ninth grades of the Southboro grammar school for some time, has taken a position in the Brookline High school, substituting for a short period for the professor in English and history.

Glover Howe has returned from M. A. C., and is at present in Marlboro but intends to spend a few days the latter part of vacation among Quincy friends.

Harold Gore is home from college for the holidays and as breezy as ever.

This week will find some of the college freshies telling their awful stories of woe, but one and all will amble back and finish out the year of trouble as first year men, knowing the great times approaching when as upper classmen they can make life miserable for the future freshmen.

Vacation started at the High school Wednesday night to last until Monday January 3.

Chet. Mellen, a former High school athlete, who has been following the sea since he left school, has given it up and is now connected with a large wholesale house in Boston.

There will probably be no basket ball practice during vacation unless the last few days before the school reopens.

A large number of the High school scholars are earning some Christmas money working in the stores of Quincy and Boston.

"Ted" Carey is at the collar counter in R. H. White, Boston, and says he sells fine goods cheap.

Charles Sayward is employed during the vacation as time keeper in connection with construction work on one of the large stores in Boston.

Demi Gourlie has announced his intention of entering Chauncy Hall school after the first of the year and preparing for M. I. T.

Jack Nolan has returned from Andover to spend holidays with his parents on Linden place.

Edward A. Poland has left school and is at present engaged in attending to his father's pool room and bowling interests at Norfolk Downs. He was recently elected manager of the Downs bowling association.

The authorities at the High school are looking up old High school records in field events in view of having them put on a shield or something of a similar nature and placed on exhibition in the school.

If you have any old copies of the Golden Rod or any other relic of the school Miss Chadbourne would be very glad to have them to place in the "Golden Rod sanctum."

At a meeting Tuesday afternoon the Athletic committee took decisive action on the rules laid down by Capt. Bates at the beginning of the basketball season, and voted to sustain him in full. In doing so they drew up a code of rules and signed them, thus practically taking no chance for any criticism when the captain enforces them; also laying down rules in turns so that when a fellow breaks away he can blame no one but himself for the consequences.

Following are the rules:

1—Members of the team must keep training; must not smoke; must not keep late hours, especially before a game; must not, in general, do things that will prevent keeping in fine physical condition.

2—Members of the team must not play on any other team during the school season.

3—Members of the team must attend to practice regularly and promptly.

4—Members of the team must show in practice a willingness to work with their captain in his efforts to develop a fast five.

5—Members of the team, in all games and on trips, must do nothing to bring discredit upon their school.

6—Violations of these rules may be punished by a temporary or a permanent removal from the team, or by a forfeiture of the "Q" at the end of the season.

Signed by the committee: William Northrop '10; Millard Chapman '11; Everett Prout '12; Earle Church '13; John F. Roache, Melvin T. Holbrook and Leslie L. Cleveland.

The Schoolmasters' club met Wednesday evening in Boston and listened to a very interesting address by Frank A. Fitzpatrick of Boston, of the American Book Company.

Michael E. Martin of West Quincy, a student at Boston College, is home for the holidays.

The Iota Tau Kappa club held a parents night Monday and the fathers and mothers of the boys took the chance offered to view the inside of the "Hut on the hill."

Miss Ruth Kemp, Bridgewater 1910, a Quincy High graduate, has been selected by the judges to take the part of "Portia," in Merchant of Venice, to be given at Bridgewater in January, and is receiving numerous congratulations from her friends.

Miss Muriel Rogers, a gradute of Quincy High and Bridgewater Normal, is spending her vacation from the school duties at Amherst, N. H., with her parents on Hancock street.

Florence Barker '08 of Norfolk Downs is home for her vacation.

Forrest Royal is attempting to form a hockey team at the school. This has been tried every year, but has always failed, principally for lack of ice.

The German club held a Christmas tree party Wednesday afternoon in the gymnasium at the school and all received presents from "Santa." A varied and interesting program was carried out and a fine time participated in by the members of the two upper classes. Miss Ruth Hardy, formerly a High school pupil and now a student at Oberlin College rendered several pleasing solos, and Miss Anna Johnson read a paper comparing the Christmas customes in America and Germany. Harry Levowtch read a poem by Goethe and Nathaniel Warshaw a letter from "Storm to his parents." Accompanied by the glee club the members sang numerous Christmas carols in German. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth Torrey, a student at the High school, is spending the holidays with friends in New York city.

At a recent meeting of the college athletic council at Middlebury College, Vt., Harold S. Tuck, '11, of Quincy, Mass. was elected manager of football for the season of 1910. Mr. Tuck's home is at 72 Billings road Norfolk Downs.

With this week the first part of the season's basket ball practice will be over for the High school and with the commencement of next term the games will begin and the season will be on in earnest. During the past two weeks enough promising material has been produced to justify the opinion that there will be one of the fastest teams in the history of the sport at the school. A few of the candidates will be out of the first game because of studies.

The two forward positions barring accident are taken care of by Capt. Bates and Billy Manning.

"Brutus" Chapman, Henry Trask and Everett Prout are the most promising amongst the candidates for subs, although there are a number who will give them a close rub. Harold Prout, who played back last year, and is still in school should find little difficulty in holding down the position in good style this year, as he is much heavier and faster, besides having the benefit of a year's experience. The most promising candidate for the other back is Mel. Chapman, but there are about twenty out for the position, and the man who lands it will have a hard fight. The pivot position is going to be the hardest to fill of any, and in some ways this is the most important. "Babe" Marceau, the crack runner, "Busty" Arthur, who played end on the football team, and Sid Claflin, another football player, are all showing up well for the place, and if they will continue to improve as rapidly as they have in the past few weeks, there is little danger but the positions will be well filled.

There is no doubt that if a good team is possible, Russ Bates will produce it, and that he will give the basket ball lovers a team which will keep up the high reputation the school has made for itself in this sport. Season tickets are on sale for the home games. These tickets will entitle the holder to admission to all the games played on the home court for the price of a dollar, nd there will be about a dozen home games in all. If possible, G. W. Gifford physical director at the Y. M. C. A., will officiate at the games.

A CHRISTMAS BOX OF

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL HER U.S. PAT. OFF.

Men's Hose

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.

The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four mos popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.

PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00

Can you beat it for the Price?

GEORGE W. JONES

No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

Only a Few Days Left

TO BUY YOUR

Christmas Presents

We Have Something for Father, Mother, Sister and Brother.

We have a Complete assortment of Carving Knives and Forks, Skates, Sleds, Jack Knives, Safety Razors, Razor Strops, Punching Bags, Foot Balls, Family Scales, Daisy Air Rifles, Flash Lights and Batteries, Electrical Toys for Children.

NATHAN AMES,

5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.

Dec. 21 tf

The Descending Scale.

"The first letter John ever wrote to me," said a married woman to her friend, "was shortly after we had become acquainted and before there was really anything like an understanding between us. This is the way he signed it:

"Yours, my dear Miss Weston, most sincerely,

JOHN HAMILTON EASTON.

"There, you see, were ten words—enough for a telegram—just to bring a commonplace friendly letter to an end. But after we became engaged his first letter to me was signed in this way:

"Yours, my darling, affectionately,

JOHN.

"That, you will observe, was a reduction of 50 per cent from his conclusion as a mere friend. The first letter he ever wrote to me after we were married was signed:

"Yours, JOHN."

She stopped for a moment and sighed and then continued:

"We have been married seventeen years now. Yesterday I received a letter from him. Here is the way it was signed:

"J."

Settled the Duel.

Lord March, afterward the Marquis of Queensberry, was not accustomed to view a duel with unbecoming apprehension and usually attended an affair with an air of enjoyment that often was decidedly displeasing and embarrassing to his adversary. But he was served at last with that sauce which the proverb explains is for the gander as well as for the goose. It was when he was challenged to fight an Irish sportsman. Lord March appeared on the ground accompanied by a second, surgeon and other witnesses. His opponent arrived soon afterward with a similar retinue, but added to by a person who staggered under the weight of a polished oak coffin, which he deposited on the ground, end up, with its lid facing Lord March and his party. Lord March became decidedly uncomfortable when he read the inscription plate, engraved with his own name and title and the date and year of death, and peace was patched up.

Scaring the Conscience.

Of all her curious customs London cannot boast of a more singular one than that formerly so strictly adhered to at Holland House, one of the most historic old mansions in the British capital. The last of the Lords Holland shot himself during a fit of despondency. Everything pointed to a clear case of self murder, yet the Holland family could never be dissuaded from the notion that the old man had been murdered by some unknown assassin. Accordingly every night for years it was the custom for one of the family to go to the rear of the house punctually at 11 o'clock and fire a gun for the purpose, it is said, of "scaring the conscience" of the murderer. This curious practice is a relic of mediaeval days in continental Europe, and the case in point is probably the only instance where it has been noticed since the days of the crusades.

Pigeons' Air Sacks.

The air sacks of the pigeon, says Bruno Muller, constitute a system of interspaces the value of which lies in their emptiness—that is, absence of weight and resistance. Flying is possible only to a body of high mechanical efficiency, and we attain this with machines divested of all superfluous material. Just so the original reptiles, which by evolution became birds, were divested of superfluous material, and the body spaces thus obtained were filled with air sacks. The body wall, adapting itself to the mechanical requirements, became a hollow cylinder serving as a support for the organs of movement, the mobility of whose parts was assured by the surrounding air sacks. The air cavities in the bones of birds are similarly explained.

WHEN IN WANT OF GOOD

Plants and Flowers

for XMAS GIFTS call up

WM. PATTERSON

HE HAS THEM

Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias at Reasonable Prices.

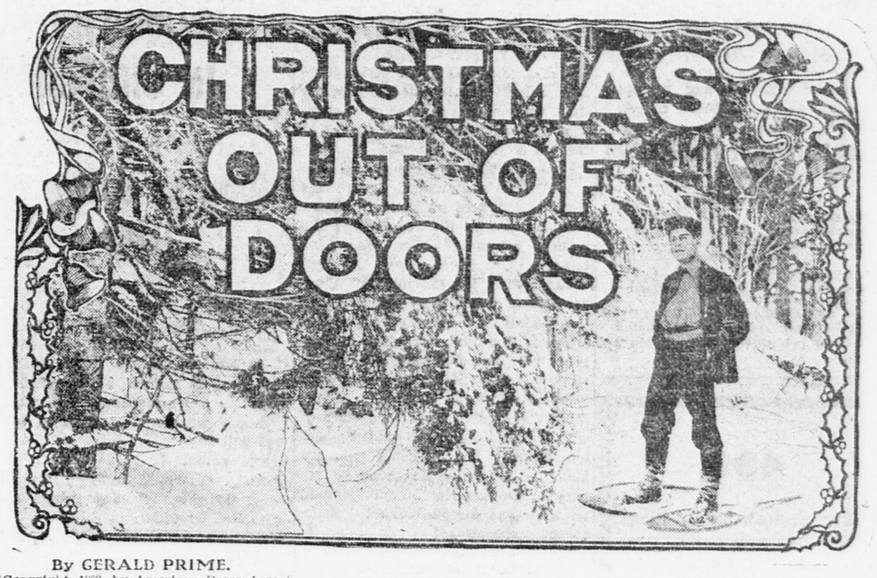
92 South Central Ave., Wollaston

Tel. 392-1 Quincy. Dec. 20-tf

Until New Years USE THE RedCross Stamps

YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER

Will not be complete without having some of OUR FAMOUS



MINCE or SQUASH PIES

on the table. We guarantee absolute purity and cleanliness We use no substitutes or adulterations.

Just Like Mother Used to Make.

BARNARD'S PURE FOOD BAKERY

1587 Hancock Street, Quincy. Dec. 18-6t

By GERALD PRIME.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

IN these days of vigorous bodily exercise, when athletics have assumed the dignity of a science and the out of door life is lived by so many persons of all ages, a shut-in Christmas would be regarded by most of us as an actual hardship. The charm of the Yule log and the sentiment of the firelit chimney corner are as potent as ever, but the crisp winter atmosphere is a powerful rival. There are so many attractions outside if only the day is as the typical Christmas day should be—cold, it matters little how cold, with an abundance of snow and sunshine.

The lure of the open is especially fascinating on Christmas day. There are so many reasons why the mere going and coming from the church service should not be all of it. That pair of skates fresh from the storehouse of Kriss Kringle must be tried out before the day is over, and that bright colored sled must have its initial spin. It would never do to postpone the christening of that stunning muff until tomorrow, and that sable toque must have its first airing ere the Christmas sun goes down.

THE YORKSHIRE PEASANT LAD.

It is the day of gladsome outdoor winter life. That is true not only in this land of ours, but in all the countries in which the festival is observed. The Yorkshire peasant lad rises before which helps to make his perfect Christmas.

But the palate is not the only thing, nor, indeed, chief. Winter sports are at their apogee on Christmas day. Play in the open is at its maddest and merriest. The country hillsides are alive with gleeful coasters of both sexes and of all ages, and the small rivers and wooded streams are fields of joyous activity. Fortified with the Christmas good cheer, which has been dispensed so liberally, the bracing air has no sting for this jubilant humanity, and everybody and his friend appear at the open.

Not alone in the heaven made country, but even in the man made town, is the spell of the open in full development on Christmas day. The artificial ponds and lakes are aglow with brightly arrayed moving figures, and every mound and elevation on which the snow is lodged is peopled with those who, bravely indeed, are making the most of it. It is but a sorry substitute for the wealth of opportunity which nature has poured out upon the country, but it is accepted cheerfully, especially on Christmas day.

AT ITS MADDEST AND MERRIEST.

Each winter finds more American men and women willing to follow the example of Mr. Pickwick and his fellow members of the Pickwick club in occasionally devoting a day to the thrilling sports of that season of the year, and Christmas day is likely to be chosen. Nearly every country which has a season of snow and ice and is sufficiently "civilized" has its national winter sport. In one country it is skeeing, in another tobogganing, in a third curling and in another coasting. Apparently every modern country has discovered some way of getting pleasure out of the slipperiness of snow and ice.

The Christmas snow sports are even greater in variety, for the opportunity is broadened by the unevenness of the earth's surface. In Canada snowshoeing, tobogganing and sleighing are sports whose memories color the feelings of every son and daughter of the north country who wanders from home toward the south. Norway is the home of the skee. Coasting with runners on one's feet is a sport which taxes nerve and muscle, for it calls for quick decisions and action at times, especially when an abyss unexpectedly looms up in front. To the uninitiated—and, for that matter, a great many of the initiated—the ability of the masters to turn somersaults on skees is one of the accomplishments of the sport to be viewed with admiration and wonder, but it is a feat attempted by the few only. The fascination of the skee has captured the sport loving persons of other countries.

THE STURDY SCANDINAVIAN.

CHRISTMAS IN LAPLAND.

times and visits his traps to discover what good fortune has contributed to his Christmas spread. Hares enough to tax his strength in getting them home await him. He knows nothing of the toothsome bird which is the

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

Some of us, it seems, are not going to be invited "reg'ler "to the White House receptions ,this season.

Within another week or two we shall know whether Uncle Joe Cannon is speaker of the United States or merely of the House of Representatives.

Secretary MacVeagh's first annual report for the Treasury Department is such a statement as an intelligent body of shareholders would welcome from the president of their company.

It is unfortunate that the claims of Wollaston for a brick schoolhouse to replace the wooden one, come at this time when there are needs for additional schoolbuildings before more schools are rebuilt, that all children may be properly housed. The South street neighborhood in Ward Two, and the Montclair district shall have school buildings that they may relieve other districts. A South street school will relieve the Coddington, Washington and Adams; and a Montclair school would relieve the Wollaston, Massachusetts Fields and Quincy. It is imperative that Quincy shall build one or more schoolhouses each year for some years to come. This year an appropriation has been made for an addition to the Lincoln school and a new building at Houghs Neck. Will one or two be ordered in 1910?

Those were interesting figures contained in the report to the City Council this week on Metropolitan parks and parkways. In eight years these parks have cost the city $103,412.25 in assessments, and $74,155.07 in loss of taxes. What the amount of the mortgage held by the State now aggregates is not told, but large annual assessments will be necessary for a long term of years even if no more construction is done or no more land taken. Thus far the State has expended considerable more in Quincy than it has received from the city, but how the account will balance up in ten or twenty years is a question. The annual assessments are increasing each year. Thus far Quincy has received very little benefit from the takings at the Blue Hills, but it has lost over 2500 acres of taxable property. The State has expended for the Blue Hills reservation $650,184.49; for the Quincy Shore reservation $271,787.60 and for the Furnace Brook parkway $303,954.66.

General Crozier, one of the few rapidly promoted young officers of the United States and who was much appreciated and trusted by President Roosevelt, says that there is no first-class respectable power with whom we may possibly have unpleasantness but that can put into the field almost immediately three millions of men. He says that this great army could be marshalled against us more rapidly than we could manufacture arms, organize volunteer troops and bring them in a position to oppose a powerful enemy. This was the gist of General Crozier's statement before the House Committee on military affairs. It came out in his report that the reserve ammunition has been fixed tentatively at about three hundred rounds, each for six hundred thousand rifles and it was further elicited that owing to the limited appropriations it would take six and one-half years to accumulate the necessary reserve ammunition for war. Well, what are we to do about it? Manufacture and store large magazines of war material that will become obsolete through improvements that are going on with great rapidity or repose in the security of our splendid isolation and discontinue all belligerent preparations?

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The wreck of the original five masted schooner Governor Ames gives an opportunity for tales of the passing of Maine-built wooden ships, but the tellers will forget that the Wyoming, launched at Bath on Wednesday, will carry nearly double as big a cargo as the Ames could.—Lewiston Journal.

Everybody must now concede that Kansas has the champion railroad commission. It has secured from the Pullman Company a general reduction of sleeping car rates throughout the State, this reduction amounts as a rule to fifty cents in berth rates. This seems to be about the first time in all its history that any concession whatever has been wrung from that company.—Springfield Republican.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

At Funeral of Mr. Quincy Tirrell of Franklin Street

A large number of friends and relatives gathered at the late home of Quincy Tirrell at 109 Franklin street, Wednesday afternoon to pay their last tribute. A large representation of the city government was present besides a number of the Maple lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, of which he was the oldest member but one. Numerous and beautiful were the floral offerings, from sorrowing and loving friends, which were heaped about the casket.

Rev. Dr. E. N. Hardy officiated, and he was assisted by A. C. Sprague a Christian Science reader. Mrs. Emma S. Moore sang "Nearer my God to Thee" "Shepherd show me how to go" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Interment was at Mt. Wollaston.

Among the large number of floral tributes were:

A wreath of white roses, carnations and asparagus vine from members of the City Council; pillow of roses, heliotrope and ferns from Mayor William T. Shea; pillow of roses, carnations, calla lilies and ferns, in the center of which was worked the inscription "Husband from Widow," in blue mortels; cross and crown of roses, carnations and ferns from George G., Henry W., and Harry W. Tirrell; spray of white roses and carnations from Mr. and Mrs. William R. Richards; wreath of galax leaves and violets from the employees of the Smith made Suspender Co.; spray of tube roses from Warren Rideout; wreath of galax leaves, violets and ferns from Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Tirrell; pillow of roses carnations, calla lilies asparagas and ferns from employees of the Emerson manufacturing company; wreath of laurel, ferns and asparagas, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Curtis; spray of roses carnations and ferns from Mrs. Wright and Miss Eva Thayer; wreath of roses, carnations, hyacinth and ferns from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Geer and Mrs. Jane Gurney.

☞Daily Ledger newsboys are making a final spurt for the $5 prize to be given by the publishers Jan. 3 to the boy selling the most Ledgers up to New Years. Some of the boys have made a fine record and it will be pretty closely contested. Who will win out?

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR
Stops Falling Hair Makes Hair Grow — Does not Color the Hair
Stops Falling Hair Makes Hair Grow — Does not Color the Hair
J. C. AYER COMPANY, Lowell, Mass. — Does not Color the Hair

CHRISTMAS IN CHURCHES

Programs for Saturday and Sunday

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

The First Universalist church (Rev. C. L. Paddock, pastor,) will observe Christmas at 10.30 A. M., on Sunday, when the Sunday school will unite with the church. The order of service will be:

Organ Voluntary.
Chorus, —"Hark, Hark, From Heavenly Heights," Sunday School assisted by Choir.
Responsive Scripture reading and prayer.
Chorus,—"In Eastern Lands," Sunday School and choir.
Recitation— "Greeting," Katherine Reed.
Recitation,—Frederick Burleigh.
Chorus,—"Welcome, O World, Thy Redeemer" Sunday School and choir.
Recitation,—"Happy Xmas Tide," Elmer Sprague.
Recitation,—Annie Wright.
Duet,—"Shepherds seek the silent town," Misses Edith Hyland and Bessie Grant.
Recitation,—Ellen Wright.
Recitation,—"Christmas Bells," Ruth Burleigh.
Chorus,—"The Song of the Star" Sunday School and choir.
Recitation,—"Look Above," Bessie Grant.
Recitation —"Tap! Tap! Tap!" Elizabeth Wheeler.
Singing—"Merry, Merry Christmas," Primary department.
Recitation —"Shepherd's Drill," Lester Sprague.
Announcement and offering.
Chorus,—"Carol, Carol, Sing His Love" Sunday School and Choir.
Address —"Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ," Pastor.
Hymn,—No. 357.
Benediction.
Organ postlude.

HALL PLACE CHURCH.

The Sunday School of the Hall Place M. E. church will hold their annual Christmas tree gathering on Friday Dec. 24, at 7 o'clock. The church will hold Christmas services on Sunday, Dec. 26, that being the Sunday nearest Christmas. In the morning there will be special music by the choir and a Christmas sermon by the pastor. There will also be a baptism service. The Sunday School will give a Christmas concert at 7 P. M.

MUSIC HALL.

The management at Music hall announces in another column, two big two-hour shows for Christmas. Lovers of up-to-date moving pictures and first class vaudeville have long since learned where they get the best and as a result this popular amusement house is filled to overflowing every evening it is open. They have arranged to sell their coupon reserved seat tickets for the Christmas matinee and evening entertainment in advance in order to avoid the rush. A fine bill has been arranged and the three acts will undoubtedly please those who are fortunate enough to see them, as they are far better than any that has yet appeared.

To give young people of the crowded city districts opportunities for rational employment of their leisure time keeping them off the streets, and out of bad company, and under uplifting influences, is a thing worth while. It is true that where no safe outlet for the surplus energy of young people is available some of them are sure to dift into downward careers through force of circumstances. Viewed merely from the standpoint of dollars and cents, it is better for the community to spend money—not extravagantly—in ways that will give young people a chance to keep out of mischief than to ignore the necessities of their natures at the expense of having to deal with many of them eventually as recruits of the army of Ishmael.—Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

—Workmen recently unearthed water mains in Plymouth which were laid in 1798. The men found what looked like a log of old wood crossing their trench and sawed it off, when they discovered there was a hole about three inches in diameter through it, and there was a connection also for a service pipe. The wood was in quite good condition after lying in the ground for 111 years. The aqueduct took water from Town brook about 1 1-2 miles from the town, where the gravity flow was enough to carry it to the upper floors of most of the old-time houses in the center of the town.

GRAND DUKE MICHAEL'S LIFE.

Nicholaievitch Was Oldest Representative of Russian Imperial House.

Grand Duke Michael Nicholaievitch, who died recently at Cannes, France, was the granduncle of Emperor Nicholas and the oldest representative of the Russian imperial house, having been born in 1832, the fourth son of Emperor Nicholas I. He repeatedly distinguished himself during his long military career, which, like those of other grand dukes under the old system, commenced at an early age. He entered active service at the age of fourteen as a lieutenant and at twenty had attained the rank of general, in nominal command of the ordnance department of the empire.

Grand Duke Michael fought throughout the Crimean war of 1854 and 1855, was present at the battle of Inkerman and the siege of Sebastopol and in 1863 was appointed by his brother viceroy of the Caucasus and commander in chief of the Caucasian army, with instructions to bring the warlike, unsubdued tribes of that region under the Russian aegis. This task he accomplished successfully, receiving a sword of honor and the cross of St. George for personal bravery under fire.

In the Turkish war of 1877 and 1878 the grand duke commanded the Russian army operating against the Turks in the Caucasian theater of the war and in spite of early reverses was finally able to force the surrender of a large part of the Turkish forces at Ardahan and Kars. In civil lines he was a member of the commission which arranged the emancipation of the serfs.

In 1881 Grand Duke Michael became president of the council of state, and in spite of his advanced age he made a point of being present at all the meetings of the council. At one of these meetings when Alexander Narishkin, one of the principal dignitaries of the court, put forward the plea that the aristocracy was "entitled to special prerogatives and privileges" the Grand Duke Michael angrily interrupted him and said:

"If I had been in the place of Alexander Alexandrovitch I would not have ventured to speak of the services of the nobility to the empire. Where are the services? The nobles have bled the peasantry to the very marrow without giving them anything whatsoever in return, not even the slightest attempt to improve their condition or their education. It is perfect nonsense to talk of the services of the nobles to the empire."

Grand Duke Michael played an active role in the council's deliberations until its reorganization in connection with the establishment of the douma, when he was named its honorary president. In recent years he had lived almost constantly at his villa at Cannes, in France.

ROME'S JUBILEE FEATURES.

Old Tragedies to Be Enacted by Italy's Greatest Italian Artists.

The program for Rome's jubilee in 1911 gradually assumes form. The following performances, dramatic and otherwise, have been decided upon:

In the classic open air theater to be erected on Palatine hill Greek and Roman dramas and tragedies will be enacted by the greatest Italian artists with full chorus and orchestra. All the theaters of Italy will combine to make these performances memorable and to show the grandeur of Italian art.

A second series of performances will revive the Italian stage drama of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. There will be both comedy and drama. Tasso's "Aminta" will be performed with the original music as played in Florence centuries ago. Signor Salvini is superintending the literary work connected with these revivals. Duse, Emma Gramatica, Tina di Lorenzo and other great Italian actresses will lend their services.

The musical program will be most interesting, as many long forgotten Italian operas and musical pieces will be revived. The modern part of the musical program will be furnished by Puccini's "Girl From the Golden West;" Mascagni's new opera, "Isabeau;" by a new Franchetti opera and by Leoncavallo's new opera, "Camicia Rossa." Mascagni and Toscanini will conduct.

It is further planned that the greatest orchestras of the world shall compete at Rome's jubilee for the prize of honor offered to the most perfect organization.

Vast Forest of White Pine.

Alonzo Jergens and a party of timber cruisers recently returned to Seattle, Wash., with the news of the discovery of a vast body of white pine timber in the high altitudes of the western slope of the Olympic mountain range. The timber is reputed to be the heaviest in the world, standing, according to careful estimates, as much as 10,000,000 feet to the square mile. Of this the white pine will average 6,000,000 feet. The stand of white pine is found above the 4,000 foot mark. Trees of white pine measuring five feet thick and 150 feet high were common, and thousands of trees containing 10,000 feet of lumber were cruised. The newly found great stand of timber is 200 miles from a railroad and in the mountain fastnesses.

Mrs. Hearst to Donate a Museum.

After spending nearly half a million dollars in ten years in the establishment and maintenance of a department of anthropology in the University of California, at Berkeley, Cal., and in expeditions into many foreign countries to secure specimens for a great collection, Mrs. Phoebe Hearst has announced that she will build an anthropological museum for the exhibits to cost about $500,000.

BETHANY BIBLE SCHOOL

Had an Average Attendance for Year of Over 300.

The report of the secretary at the annual meeting on Wednesday evening showed an attendance of 15,718 at Bethany Bible school during the year 1909, an increase from 14 971 in 1908, and an average of over 300 each Sunday. The largest attendance was on rally day in September, 401, and the smallest on a Sunday in August, 86.

By departments the attendance for the two years was as follows:

| | 1908 | 1909 |
|---|---|---|
| Senior | 3972 | 4016 |
| Intermediate, | 2381 | 2372 |
| Junior, | 1816 | 2895 |
| Primary, | 3291 | 2592 |
| Beginners | 1437 | 1480 |

Miss Mary Sampson reported 109 in the Home department, and Mrs. T. King reported 58 in the Cradle Roll.

These officers were elected:
Secretary—Walter Mitchell.
Librarian—Harry S. Bates.
Messenger—Charles H. Hayden.
Superintendent of Senior department—W. E. Blanchard.
Superintendent of Intermediate department—Melville P. Hayward.
Superintendent of Primary department—Mrs. W. G. Shaw.
Assistant Superintendent — Miss Edna Wood.
Secretary—Miss Elizabeth Ruxton.
Librarian—Mrs. E. W. Branch.
Teachers on Executive Committee—Dr. C. T. Sherman and Miss Mabel Baxter.

The superintendent of the school is elected at the annual meeting of the church.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

Day industrial schools have been established at Montague and Northampton, both of which are largely agricultural. Evening industrial schools are maintained in Cambridge, Chicopee, Lawrence, Natick, New Bedford, Pittsfield, Taunton and Waltham. As these schools are designed to meet the special needs of those in attendance a great variation appears, both in courses and in the character of the instruction in the same general subject. One common purpose appears in them all, and that is to give the man working in the shop an opportunity to perfect himself in the industry in which he is now engaged.

The 1909 report of the State commission gives a list of other towns and cities investigating this question preparatory to the establishment of similar schools. A commission in Lynn during the year 1908 made a careful study of local needs and sentiment, and published a lengthy report recommending the establishment of a shoe school.

A similar investigation has been conducted in Worcester, where public sentiment was found to be favorable to industrial education. Foxboro, Newton and Walpole have already begun plans for the inauguration of schools designed to teach certain trades in a broad way. Their purpose is to give the young man a preliminary training for the industry which shall fit him for a more rapid advancement when he begins his shop experience.

Boston has a trade school for girls established in 1904, to teach dressmaking, millinery and machine operating. This institution has little of the school training. Reasons for processes, as well as processes themselves are taught. The emphasis is placed upon the correct way of doing thing, rather than speed.

Lowell Institute for Industrial Foremen offers two courses one mechanical, the other electrical, each extending over two years. The courses are open to young men 18 years of age or more who are ambitious and willing to study. The first class graduated in 1905, and in 1907 statistics showed an average increase in salary of 70 per cent, over that earned by the same men when entering school.

The 1908 report of the State Industrial Commission shows that this general interest in vocational training is not confined to this State but is a subject of general interest throughout the whole country. The report gives a complete description of 15 schools located in the different States which are organized with the definite purpose of affording an opportunity to acquire a practical training in the varied industries.

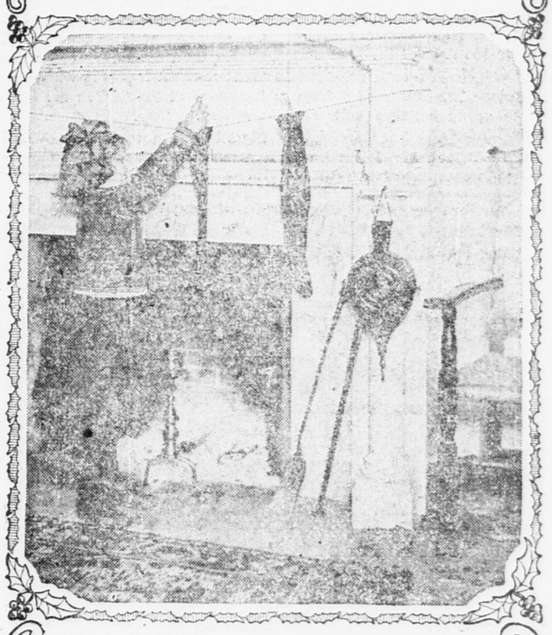
Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

Fireless Cooker Free
To Users of MOTHER'S CEREALS

You may rest all afternoon if you have a Mother's Oats Free Fireless Cooker in the house, suppose you fall asleep, when your husband comes home and wakes you, all you will have to do is to go to the Fireless Cooker and take out the perfectly cooked and steaming hot dinner that will be all ready.

Nothing can burn or boil over that's put in the Mother's Oats Fireless Cooker. It cooks everything and several things at once. You should have one. Given free with coupons found in:

Mother's Oats
Mother's Corn Meal (white or yellow)
Mother's Wheat Hearts (the cream of the wheat)
Mother's Hominy Grits
Mother's Corn Flakes (toasted)
Mother's Coarse Pearl Hominy
Mother's Old Fashioned Steel Cut Oatmeal
Mother's Old Fashioned Graham Flour



Ask your grocer. If he doesn't keep Mother's Cereals write us today giving us his name and yours and we will send you free a useful souvenir.

THE GREAT WESTERN CEREAL COMPANY
OPERATING MORE OATMEAL MILLS THAN ANY OTHER ONE CONCERN
AKRON BOSTON NEW HAVEN NEW YORK PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO PITTSBURG ALBANY ST. LOUIS

WHEN SANTY COMES
BY BESSIE WHITE
COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY T. E. McGRATH

WHEN Santy comes an' scoots down through
The hole that's in the chimney flue
An' hops out here, I bet he'll bring
Whole lots of toys an' everything
That little girls like best. Don't you?

AN' there'll be dolls with dresses new
An' eyes that open big an' blue
When they sit up—an' cry an' sing,
When Santy comes.

AN' he'll fetch nuts an' candy, too,
An' cats that, when you squeeze 'em, mew.
My brother Bob he says, I jing,
He'd like to sit round listening.
He says: "I'll tell you what I'd do.
I'd jist jump out an' holler 'Boo!'
When Santy comes."

PRINTING

That is printing—that delights the eye and brings in Business—is not the result of chance. To produce a good job requires experience and modern material. We have both, at your service at the

LEDGER OFFICE

IN QUINCY SHOPS

OPEN EVERY EVENING UNTIL CHRISTMAS | CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS | OPEN EVERY EVENING UNTIL CHRISTMAS

FROM

Quincy's Leading Clothing, Men's Furnishing & Shoe Store

UNUSUALLY ATTRACTIVE IS OUR STOCK OF HOLIDAY GOODS, THE LARGEST AND MOST COMPLETE LINE TO BE FOUND IN QUINCY.

Neckwear

50c Neckwear all very latest effects ..... 25c
75c Neckwear made specially for us for Christmas ..... 50c
All styles and colorings in neckwear ..... 25c
Large Assortment
$1.00 Neckwear ..... 75c
$1.50 Neckwear ..... $1.00

Gloves

Men's Dress Gloves Lined and Unlined ..... 50c to $2.00
Boys' Dress Gloves ..... 50c to $1.50
Children's Dress Gloves .. 50c to $1.00
Ladies' Dress Gloves .... 75c to $2.00
Large Variety Men's, Boys', Women's and Children's Wool Gloves 25c to $1.00

Sweaters.

All the new Colors and Combinations
Men's ..... 50c to $6.00
Boys' ..... 50c to $3.00
Girls' ..... 50c to $5.00
Children's ..... 50c to $2.00
Ladies' ..... $1.00 to $6.00

Umbrellas.

All the newest handles
Covering Guaranteed.
Men's and Ladies'
A very Handsome Gift .. $1.00 to $6.00
Children's Umbrellas.. 50c, 75c, $1.00

Bags and Suit Cases.

Special all Leather ..... $4.98
Large Assortment..... 98c to $10.00
50c to $1.00 Less than Boston Prices

Trunks.

$1.48 .... ..... to .... .... $18.00

Bath Robes and House Coats.

Large variety and prices the lowest.

Night Robes and Pajamas

50c .... ..... to .... ..... $2.00
Plain and Fancy Effects

Fancy Arm Bands.

50c grades ..... 39c
75c grades ..... 59c
Large variety ..... 25c

Handkerchiefs.

Everything you can think of Plain, Fancy and Initial Men's Ladies' and Children's ..... 5c to $1.50

Mufflers.

Beautiful Assorted, Plain and Fancy Silk ....50c-75c-$1.00-$1.25-$1.50
$1.75 $2.00 $2.50 $3.00
Ladies' Pheonix Mufflers. 29c and 50c

Jewelry.

All the new effects in Cuff Buttons and Scarf Pins ..... 25c to $1.50

Suspenders.

Handsome Assortment
25c-50c-75c-$1.00-$1.50
In Individual boxes an ideal present

Men's and Young Men's Overcoats.

$18.00 All Wool, Black Kersey and the new Fancy Effects ..... $14.87
Other grades ..... $6.87 to $25.00

Men's and Young Men's Suits.

$18.00 grades in all the new Fancy Worsted Effects ..... $14.87
Other grades ..... $6.87 to $25.00

Men's Reefers.

Body and Sleeves Interlined with wind and rain proof material
$4.98 $6.87 $7.87

Men's Blanket Lined Working Coats.

$1.48 $1.38 $2.48 $2.98
Not a very ornamental but decidedly useful Gift.

Men's Lamb Lined Working Coats.

$2.98 $3.98 $4.87 $5.87 $6.87
A very warm and useful Gift

Rain Coats.

$15.00 Genuine Rain Proof Coats $11.87
Other grades ..... $9.87 to $25.00

Boys' Overcoats and Reefers.
Ages 8 to 16.

$6.00 grade plain and fancy effects very latest models ..... $4.98
Other grades ..... $2.98 to $8.00

Boys Suits.
Ages 7 to 17.

$6.00 grades, Worsted and Fancy Scotch Effects ..... $4.98
All styles and Colorings. $1.48 to $8.00

Children's Overcoats.
2 1-2 to 10.

Plain and fancy effects, latest styles ..... $1.48 to $7.00

Children's Suits.

$5.00 Russian and Blouse Suits Knickerbocker Pants ..... $3.98
Other grades
$1.98 $2.48 $2.98 $4.98 $5.87

Boys' Knee Pants.

Knickerbocker Style ..... 50c to $2.00
Straight Pants ..... 25c to $1.50

Men's Caps.

Fur Band ..... 98c to $3.00
Fast Color Winter Caps, large variety ..... 50c to $1.50
English Golf and Varsity Caps. ..... 50c to $1.00

Boys' Caps.

About anything and everything a boy would want will be found in this department ..... 25c to $2.00

Men's Shoes.

High Cut Black and Tan Calf Storm Shoes
$3.00 $4.00 $5.00 $6.00
Largest line Men's shoes in the city ..... $1.50 to $4.00
Fellow Craft Shoe ..... $3.50
Regent Shoe ..... $4.00
Best on earth. Every pair guaranteed.

Ladies' Shoes.

Sole agents in the city for the celebrated Queen Quality Shoes all Leathers ..... $3.00, $3.50, $4.00
Other lines all Leather. $1.50 to $4.00

Little Gents' Storm Shoe Straps and Buckles.

$1.50 $2.00 $2.50

Boys' Storm Shoes, Straps and Buckles.

$2.00 $2.50 $3.00 $3.50

Children's Rubber Boots.

$1.25 $1.75

Children's Head Gear.

Mothers know what we can do in this department. We have larger variety than ever this season. If you need a Hat, Cap, Toque, Tam O'Shanta or anything for the child in this line we must have it.

Men's Slippers.

Black and Tan, Everett, Opera and Romeo ..... 50c to $2.00
Special Men's Tan Slippers regular 75c ..... 59c

Ladies' Slippers.

Variety too large to mention. If you are going to buy a pair of ladies' slippers come and see us.

Boys' and Children's Slippers.

We have them all kinds. 50c to $1.00

Knockabout Shoes for children and Misses nothing to add to what we have before said about this line. All leathers. The most satisfactory line made.

Misses and Children's High Cut Storm Shoes, Straps and Buckles

Music Hall Block | REMICK BROTHERS | QUINCY

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS EVERY MORNING UNTIL CHRISTMAS.

WATCHES FOR CHRISTMAS

It is impossible to find a more acceptable gift than a Waltham or Elgin Watch. They last a lifetime, are useful as well as ornamental and the giver is held in high esteem by the receiver. We also sell the Ingersoll—Trenton, a watch that is fast finding its way into the pockets of particular men. Before you buy anything in the Jewely line, call at our store. It will pay you to see us and please us to see you.

WILLIAMS The Jeweler

1473 Hancock Street, QUINCY

We Show Superior Values in Wearing Apparel and Xmas Gifts

Our prices mean to you a substantial money saving. Nothing is more appropriate as Xmas gifts for father, mother, brother, sister, son or daughter, lady or gentleman friend, than sensible useful articles of wear, that carry with them through the coming year the memory of the giver.

A Charge Account based upon sound business principles, combining justice and convenience to our patrons whereby they may pay for their clothing necessities in easy partial payments, without one cent of extra expense, is one feature of our business methods which is peculiar only to our house and not found elsewhere.

Ladies' and Girls' Dept.

| | |
|---|---|
| $15.00 Fancy Mixture Suits.... | $9.90 |
| 18.00 Broadcloth Suits..... | 14.98 |
| 7.50 Cheviot Coats ..... | 4.90 |
| 15.00 Moyenage Coats ..... | 9.98 |
| 18.00 Broadcloth Coats ..... | 12.90 |
| 25.00 Caracul Coats..... | 18.50 |
| 40.00 Fur Lined Coats ..... | 28.98 |
| 50.00 Coney Coats..... | 34.50 |
| 18.00 Gray Squirrel Sets .... | 12.50 |
| 6.00 Coney Sets..... | 4.50 |
| 30.00 Fox Sets..... | 22.98 |
| 18.00 Opossum Sets ..... | 12.98 |
| Children's Fur Sets .... | 98c to 10.00 |
| 4.00 Girls' Coats..... | 2.98 |
| 7.50 Girls' Coats..... | 4.98 |
| Ladies' and Girls' Sweaters | 98c to 6.00 |
| Ladies' and Girls' Shoes | 1.50 to 3.75 |
| Ladies' Umbrellas..... | 98c to 6.00 |

Men's and Boys' Dept.

| | |
|---|---|
| $12.00 Cassimere Suits..... | $8.98 |
| 15.00 Mixture Suits ..... | 12.50 |
| 18.00 Black Cheviot Suits .... | 14.98 |
| 12.00 Youths' Suits ..... | 7.98 |
| 12.00 Mixture Overcoats..... | 9.98 |
| 18.00 Kersey Overcoats..... | 14.98 |
| 20.00 Auto Overcoats ..... | 16.98 |
| 25.00 Presto Overcoats ..... | 19.50 |
| 27.00 Kersey Overcoats ..... | 22.50 |
| 4.00 Boys' Overcoats ..... | 2.98 |
| 7.50 Boys' Overcoats ..... | 4.98 |
| 12.00 Boys' Overcoats..... | 8.98 |
| 4.00 Boys' Suits ..... | 2.98 |
| 6.50 Boys' Suits..... | 4.50 |
| Men's and Boys' Sweaters | 98c to 6.00 |
| Men's Umbrellas..... | 98c to 6.00 |
| Men's and Boys' Shoes | 1.50 to 5.00 |

OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Millinery
Trimmed and Ready to Wear Hats
Reduced from 25 to 50 p. c. from former selling prices
98c, $1.98, $2.98, $4.98, up to $8.98

Joyce Bros. & Co.

HAVE YOUR PURCHASES CHARGED

12--15 GRANITE ST., - QUINCY Dec 22--3t

Xmas Umbrellas
Ours is a superb showing, natural wood, silver and gold handles. Just the thing for Xmas gifts,
98c to $6.00

CHAPIN'S CHRISTMAS STATIONERY

We make a specialty of stationery and have all kinds in fancy boxes. A few ideal gifts will be found below.

| | |
|---|---|
| Address Books | Diaries of all kinds |
| "A Line-a-Day" Books | Personal Books |
| House Expense Books | Photo Albums |
| Plain and Fancy Calendars | Post Card Albums |
| Pictures and Picture Frames | Cameras |
| Blank Books | Camera Supplies |
| Office Supplies | Post Cards |

A large line of INK STANDS in cut glass and brass. These make fine gifts. Another acceptable gift is a subscription to any daily newspaper or magazine. Call and inquire for our price on these.

LYMAN A. CHAPIN

1395 Hancock Street, QUINCY

Buy Useful Christmas Gifts

OF

F. D. Fellows Co.

| | |
|---|---|
| Initial Handkerchiefs | 10c to 50c |
| Christmas Neckwear in Boxes | 25c, 50c $1.00 |
| Fancy Arm Bands in Boxes | 25c, 50c $1.00 |
| Fancy Suspenders in boxes | 25c to $1.50 |
| kid Gloves | $1.15, $1.50 |
| Mocha Gloves Silk Lined | $1.50 |
| Mocha Gloves Fleece Lined | $1.00 |
| Fur Lined Gloves | $2.50 to $5.00 |
| Umbrellas both Ladies' and Men's | 98c to $5.00 |
| Children's School Umbrellas | 50c |
| Fur Band Caps | $2.00 to $2.50 |
| Fur Caps | $2.00, $2.50, $3.50, $4.00 |
| Cuff Links | 25c to $2.50 |
| Scarf Pins | 25c to $2.00 |
| Mufflers | 50c to $2.00 |
| Coat Sweaters | 98c to $6.00 |
| Fancy Vests | $1.25 to $2.50 |

Remember The Place

F. D. Fellows Co.

"The Reliable Store"

1387 Hancock St., Quincy

Buy Useful Gifts for the Boys

OF

F. D. Fellows Co.

| | |
|---|---|
| Skating Caps | 50c |
| Cloth Caps | 25c, 50c, 98c |
| Blouses | 50c and 75c |
| Knee Pants | 50c to $1.50 |
| Neckwear | 10c and 25c |
| Underwear | 25c, 29c, 48c |
| Shirts | 48c |
| Suits | $2.50 to $6.00 |
| Overcoats | $2.00 to $6.00 |
| Umbrellas | 50c |
| Hose | 15c and 25c |
| Gloves | 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00 |
| Mittens | 15c, 25c, 50c |
| Sweaters | 98c, $1.19, $1.50 |
| Silk Initial Handkerchiefs | 25c |
| Cuff Links | 25c and 50c |
| Suit Cases | $1.50 |

Remember The Place

F. D. Fellows Co.

"The Reliable Store"

1387 Hancock St., Quincy

Dec. 22-3t

Cut Glass

Sun-bonnet Baby China

Pickard Famous Hand-Painted China

Any of the above make very appropriate gifts. Pickard China is perhaps the ideal present for it has been on the market for over sixteen years and the makers, annually, receive hundreds of unsought expressions of appreciation.

We also suggest you call and view our regular goods including:

JEWELRY, WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, POCKET BOOKS, PURSES, ETC.

In Fact Everything in the Jewelry line.

OUR OPTICAL GOODS ARE THE LEADERS OF QUINCY

Examination and Prescriptions

CALL AND INSPECT

C. F. PETTENGILL

1391 HANCOCK STREET, QUINCY

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Are You Puzzled About What to Give?

If you are, let us help you decide. Our cases gleam with beautiful presents. We shall gladly make suggestions to you and allow you a careful inspection of any articles we have. A giver is judged by his gifts so it is necessary that you buy the best. To be sure of getting the best, select a store that has a reputation of handling only the best. That is where we help you.

DIAMONDS

We buy and sell below regular marked value. To be convinced come and look them over.

WATCHES. We carry all grades. Our guarantee is a bond that cannot be broken as we are here to make good.

JEWELRY. The high grade we carry in stock is warranted to give satisfaction in every way and returnable if not so.

SILVERWARE. In Sterling Silver we carry a full line of Table Flat ware. In plated goods—Rogers 1847, and Rogers & Bros. Star Brand and also other makes.

In Tea Sets and other hollow ware our leading makers are Fairpoint, F. B. Rogers and Pool Silver Co. A big stock of Berry Dishes, Nut Bowls, Chocolate Pots, etc.

In Brassware we have Candle Sticks, Jardineres, Smoking Sets and Tea Sets at the lowest prices.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

For Ladies. Toilet Sets, Manicure, Puff Boxes, Jewel Cases, Photo Frames, Nail Files, Bracelets, Lockets, Chains, Brooches, Hat Pins, Buckles.

For Men. Smoking Sets, Shaving Mugs, Ink Stands, Military Brushes, Clothes Brushes, Fountain Pens, Gold Pencils, Cuff Links, Scarf Pins, Emblem Pins, Watch Chains, Fobs.

ALL HAND ENGRAVING FREE. OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Sandberg Bros.

JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
338 Boylston Street, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 201
Oct. 1. tf

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department,
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St.,
QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building.
294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets,
QUINCY.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Burgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 448
May 2 (p-'y

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

Callagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 409-3 Quincy / 259-3 Quincy / 308-7 Milton
1p-tf

(ADVERTISE.)

Quincy. Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 20, | 5.00 | 5.30 |
| Tuesday, | 6.00 | 6.30 |
| Wednesday, | 7.00 | 7.30 |
| Thursday, | 8.00 | 8.30 |
| Friday, | 9.00 | 9.30 |
| Saturday, | 9.45 | 10.30 |
| Sunday, | 10.45 | 11.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

BRIEFS

The space between the Savings Bank building and the Johnson block is filled with Christmas trees.

There was just a little snow last night as a Christmas reminder. It would please most people if there should be a light fall of snow Friday night so that Christmas would not be a green one.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight, and at its conclusion the City Council of 1909 will doubtless make its final bow and adjourn sine die. Practically everything before the Council, except those new matters introduced on Monday night have been cleaned up. Some transfer orders, and orders for new fire alarm boxes, were referred to the Finance Committee who will probably meet tonight, a few minutes before the meeting of the Council to consider them.

SALVATION ARMY WORK.

There would be a great many more Christmas baskets filled by the local Salvation Army corps if the many friends of the army in Quincy were giving their contribution in their own city instead of Boston. In almost every house is placed a penny box from Boston, and it is therefore difficult to raise the necessary funds for local work. Capt. John A. Haglind hopes Quincy friends will remember the Salvation Army in our own city, and cooperate to bring cheer and blessings to as large a number as possible.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock baskets will be distributed as the fund will admit. If all in our city understood the work a good many more would respond. The corps acknowledges $25 from Edward H. Angier, $5 from C. Patch & Son $5 from Berry Bros., $2 from R. E. Foy & Co., $2 from Oscar Frisk, and other smaller amounts. Any sum from one cent up will be appreciated if sent to John A. Haglind, captain of Quincy Salvation Army, 150 Granite street, Quincy.

PLYMOUTH DESCENDANTS.

Lysander S. Richards has called a meeting of the Plymouth Pilgrim Colony Descendants in the Plymouth County Commissioners' rooms at Plymouth for eleven o'clock on New Year's day for the purpose of organizing a society of descendants. All eligible are invited to be present and participate in the proceedings and become charter members. Mr. Richards has already a long list of those desiring to join including some from other states.

Ten Fined For Weight Frauds

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 23.—Ten merchants were fined a total of $380 for violating the laws relating to weights and measures in the district court. The defendatts were grocers, coal dealers, junk dealers and milkmen.

Two Tureens Valued at $40,000

New York, Dec. 23.—Including commissions and other incidental expenses, J. P. Morgan recently paid $40,000 for two soup tureens which he obtained in Paris. The tureens are now on their way to this country.

Fire Destroys Stock Barns

North Adams, Mass., Dec. 23.—Five barns on the stock farm of E. P. Prentice, son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, burned last night, causing a loss of $22,000. The fire started from an exploding lantern.

A Five-and-a-Half-Mile Trestle

Norfolk, Dec. 23.—The Norfolk and Southern railway's $1,000,000 five-and-a-half-mile trestle bridge across Albemarle Sound, the longest of its kind in the world, has been completed.

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 223-3.

HIBBARD SEEKS AID OF LODGE

Plea For Indorsement In Hub Mayoralty Fight Is Futile

DENIED A PRIVATE HEARING

Senator and Representative Weeks Issue Statement, So That Mayor's Visit to Washington May Not Be Misconstrued by the Public—He Is Asked to Withdraw From Campaign, but Flatly Refuses

Washington, Dec. 23.—Senator Lodge and Representative Weeks, speaking together, have advised Mayor Hibbard to withdraw from the mayoralty campaign in Boston. The mayor says he will not do so. Both Lodge and Weeks told Hibbard that he should never have entered the mayoralty race for re-election.

MAYOR HIBBARD

Mayor Hibbard came here, insisting that he was here only on the business of the city and would call upon Lodge only to pay his respects. He went after breakfast to the room of Lodge at the Capitol, and the senator was apprised by telephone of his presence there. Lodge did not appear at noon, however, and the mayor wandered over to the room of Weeks on the house side.

Senator Lodge was there, the two men evidently having determined that the mayor should see neither of them alone, thus giving the slightest chance for a misunderstanding if the interview should take place. Following the brief talk Lodge and Weeks each dictated a careful statement describing what was said. The statements were explicit, and intended to describe the conference with such accuracy that no one could mistake the language or position of any party to it.

Neither Lodge nor Weeks concealed his annoyance over the call of the mayor. They had known that many Republicans in Boston, including the mayor, had believed that the indorsement of the regular organization, at the instance of Senator Lodge, would guarantee the re-election of the mayor, whom they have steadfastly declined to acknowledge as a Republican candidate.

The visit of Mayor Hibbard apparently forced upon them the only course they considered wise, that of politically and publicly disowning him. Such a course could give no room for the inference that Lodge, as the Republican leader, tacitly approved the mayor's remaining in the field.

The episode was an exceedingly unpleasant one for the Bay State representatives, for neither of them apparently took at its face value Hibbard's statement that he had not come to Washington to talk politics. He had come at a most critical stage of the campaign, when the pressure of Lodge to interfere in the Boston situation had reached an almost unbearable point.

That Hibbard courted an expression from the senior senator, and was determined to remain a candidate in spite of what he said, was evidenced by his talk and his action. He declared flatly and reiterated that his business here related solely to an effort to make an arrangement with the government through Surgeon General Wyman for the detail of a marine hospital service surgeon to take charge of the health department of the city of Boston, although with the knowledge that no contract extending beyond February can be made.

The mayor's visit, notwithstanding his denials, is a matter of the keenest interest to the Massachusetts delegation in Washington, by whom it soon became known. The position of the Massachusetts senators with reference to the triangular fight in Boston has been a leading topic of conversation under the surface here, where it is known that the Massachusetts senators have been put under heavy pressure to interfere in the interests of James J. Storrow. They have resolutely kept their hands off.

Boys Go Through Thin Ice

Cranston, R. I., Dec. 23.—Attempting to cross Spectacle pond on thin ice, Leroy J. Linkletter, aged 11, and Charles Glasner, aged 10, broke through and were drowned.

SOUTH LOSESFIRM FRIEND

Senator McLaurin Dies Suddenly While Seated In His Library

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 23.—United States Senator Anselm J. McLaurin died suddenly last night of heart disease at his home in Brandon while seated in front of the fireplace in his library. A few moments before his death McLaurin said he was feeling better than he had felt at any time since his recent severe illness, resulting from ptomaine poisoning.

Senator McLaurin, who was 61 years old, began his first term in the United States senate in 1894, but was elected governor of Mississippi in 1895 and served in that office four years. He was elected again to the senate in 1900 and served one term. He then returned for the term which began March 4, 1907.

Senator McLaurin was a lawyer. He served through the Civil war in the Confederate army. He was born March 26, 1848, at Brandon, Miss., and was reared on a farm. Seven children survive him.

The senator believed in the south, her resources and her future and he never failed to rise to her defense in the senate chamber when she was assailed.

THREE INDICTED

Wardlaw Sisters Are Charged With Murder In Bathtub Case

New York, Dec. 23.—The three mysterious Wardlaw sisters must face trial in Essex county, N. J., all charged with the murder of Ocey W. M. Snead, the East Orange bathtub victim. The Essex county grand jury reported that two indictments had been found against all three.

The proceedings before the grand jury were brief. Chief of Police Bell of East Orange told of finding the body; William J. Kinsley, a handwriting expert, told of the "suicide notes" he examined, but just what he swore to was not made public.

PRESS SENTIMENT WILL BE SOUNDED

Hesitation Over Plan of Federal News Censorship

Washington, Dec. 23.—It is not at all improbable that the suggestion of General Bell that the government establish a press censorship, particularly in times of war, will result in legislative action giving the military branches of the government the right to suppress any dispatches which might be deemed prejudicial to the best interests of the service.

Members of the committee on military affairs of the house, to whom Bell has outlined his plan, are not prepared at this time to introduce a bill. They prefer to sound the sentiment of the newspapers of the country.

It is generally conceded that any attempt to force through legislation against the will of the newspapers would be useless. The better plan, it is suggested, would be to obtain the co-operation of the newspapers' publishers.

If present plans are followed, the publishers will be made familiar with the censorship established by Japan during the war with Russia, the strict enforcement of which, in the opinion of army and naval officers, played a very important part in the victories of the Nipponese.

FOURTH TIME SUCCESSFUL

Damages Awarded For Loss of an Arm In a Sausage Machine

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 23.—Charles W. Boyd was awarded a verdict of $2700 in the Middlesex superior court by a jury. It was the fourth trial of a suit which the plaintiff brought against the Park Sausage and Provision company of Boston, to recover $10,000 for the loss of his left arm, which he claimed was cut off by a sausage machine of the defendant in October, 1901.

On Feb. 1, 1904, a jury returned a verdict for the defendant. In October of that year the plaintiff was awarded $52.50, but the verdict was set aside. The third trial of the suit was in November, 1908, and at that time the jury disagreed.

The owl may not be as wise as he looks, but he is wise enough not to try to work both the night and day shifts.—Atchison Globe.

THIS WILL INTEREST MOTHERS.
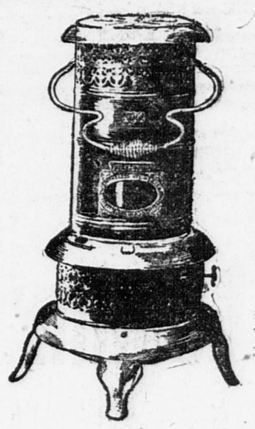
Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children, a Certain relief for Feverishness, Headache, Bad Stomach, Teething Disorders, move and regulate the Bowels and destroy Worms. They break up Colds in 24 hours. They are so pleasant to the taste and harmless as milk. Children like them. Over 10,000 testimonials of cures. They never fail. Sold by all druggists. 25c. Ask today. Don't accept any substitute.

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m

Have Your Clothes Washed by the
NEW SYSTEM
WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley Rt.
Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.
Ordinary wash, 50 cents.



Only One Cent
Means Help for the
Tuberculosis Camp

? ? ? ?

You Can Get Good Coal
You Can Get Poor Coal
It's your business and right to protect yourself.
¶ It's your business and right to investigate.
SEARCHLIGHT US!
'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.
Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

Oil Heat
Without Smoke
No matter how sensitive your olfactory nerves may be, or under what working conditions you encounter the
PERFECTION Oil Heater
(Equipped with Smokeless Device)
you'll not detect the slightest odor of smoke.

The Perfection Oil Heater neither smokes nor diffuses odor. The new Automatic Smokeless Device
positively prevents both. Repeated tests during its incipiency and development, innumerable trials after it had been pronounced perfect by the inventor, demonstrated its utility and sure effectiveness.

The wick cannot be turned up beyond the point of its greatest effectiveness. It locks automatically and thus secures the greatest heat-yielding flame without a sign of smoke or smell. Removed in an instant for cleaning.

Solid brass font holds 4 quarts of oil—sufficient to give out a glowing heat for 9 hours—solid brass wick carriers—damper top—cool handle—oil indicator.

Heater beautifully finished in nickel or Japan in a variety of styles.

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not At Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the
STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

WHEELER'S
Christmas Christmas
See what we offer for Christmas.
All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Belts | Handkerchiefs | Pocket Books |
| Aprons | Stamped Linens | Purses |
| Gloves | Stationery | Bags |
| Xmas Cards | Handkerchief Boxes | Calendars |
| Booklets | Glove Boxes | Needle Books |
| Post Cards | Collar Boxes | Shaving Cases |

We also have a good line of
"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists
Christmas Christmas
CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY
(DRY GOODS STORE.)

Sprague's New River
STEAM COAL
Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined
Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.
J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS
TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 1o-tf

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

Wheeler Brand, dazed, heartsick and discouraged and torn by the emotions that welled within him, leaned helplessly against the desk. After all, he reasoned, what did it all matter? There were lots of evil men in the world, always had been, always would be. What harm would it do if one dishonest judge were allowed to go unmolested, even if he happened to be a United States judge? Surely there were other dishonest judges, and he could not drive all of them off the bench—no, indeed. And, moreover, this thankless task he had shouldered would if he succeeded rob him of the girl he loved. It would rob him of the love of the girl who loved him.

Then the thought of the enthusiasm that had buoyed him as he wrote the story that had exposed Judge Bartelmy came to him and clung to him. The inspiration in doing a strong man's work for the public good enthused the spirit of Wheeler Brand, captured his soul. The steady light burned once more in his eyes. He shook himself together—fastened his old time grip on himself. As for Judith, he would do his duty, and he would win her yet.

When the managing editor of the Advance re-entered his office and walked briskly toward his desk he found Wheeler Brand looking eagerly over a notebook which, quite unknown to McHenry, contained the data for an article on the Lansing Iron case even more damaging to Judge Bartelmy than the one already printed.

"Well, did you settle it?" asked McHenry.

Brand looked up and started toward the door.

"Yes, sir," he answered, and he was gone.

At this juncture Downs, the city editor, came into the managing editor's room. He addressed McHenry rapidly.

"Water main burst on Morton street; drowned seven dago kids in the basement of a tenement; mothers, scrubwomen, gone out to work and locked them in; water rising." He drew close to the desk. "Children, climbing stairs to escape, found huddled in each other's arms on top step, drowned! All but the youngest hanging on to a string of beads; must have died praying!"

The managing editor's face immediately lightened, and he pounded his desk enthusiastically.

"Good! Good! By glory, that's a dandy! That saves our lives! Now we'll have a paper tomorrow! We'll go the limit on this. Did you send a photographer?"

"Yes, sir, I did."

McHenry seized the office telephone.

"Night editor! Oh, hello! Cut three columns more out of those shavings. We've got a live one. Seven dago kids drowned. First time they ever saw water in their lives. Run three columns!" He hung up the receiver and turned to the city editor.

"Put in three leads and make it stick out like a sore thumb. And, say, put in a black faced bulletin saying the Advance will receive subscriptions for their families."

Durkin entered with a bundle of proofs.

"And, say, Downs," added McHenry, "print in bold faced type that the Advance will start the subscription with $100."

"Mr. Dupuy is downstairs," announced Durkin.

The managing editor could not suppress a sour expression which crept across his face. "Dupuy, eh?" he grunted half audibly. "Wonder what he wants around here now? He's a regular buttinski."

McHenry knew Dupuy in a business way, knew he was counsel for several of the big mercantile establishments which advertised in the Advance and that the lawyer had represented various corporations at the state capital. "Well, I suppose I'll have to see him," he finally resolved. "Show Mr. Dupuy in," he called to the boy.

"Good evening," was Dupuy's greeting to McHenry as he entered and placed his overcoat on a chair.

"Good evening, Mr. Dupuy. What can I do for you?" The visitor seated himself at the right of McHenry's desk.

"McHenry," began Dupuy decidedly,

Mr. Dupuy was downstairs.

"somebody on your paper has been making bad breaks lately, particularly the one this morning."

"What one this morning?"

"The Judge Bartelmy story, of course."

"Help!" sang out McHenry. "I've been getting that all day."

"It's no joke, McHenry," snapped Dupuy.

"It was a mistake," responded the managing editor.

"Mistake! Who was responsible for it?" leaning forward.

"Oh, it just slipped through in the rush."

"Tell that to the marines," retorted Dupuy sarcastically. He paused. "Who slipped it through?"

There was another pause.

McHenry began to assert himself.

"Excuse me, Dupuy," he asked pointedly. "But how does the Bartelmy story affect you?"

"Some of my clients have a very high regard for the judge. Your story grossly misrepresents him."

"Yes, I suppose so."

"This growing tendency to bring our judiciary into disrespect is a dangerous symptom of the unrest beneath the surface," spoke Dupuy pompously. "The federal bench is the ultimate bulwark."

McHenry laughed.

"Oh, capital in distress! Yes, I know all about that."

Dupuy stirred indignantly.

"There was no occasion for that remark," he shot forth tartly.

McHenry saw that Dupuy was very much in earnest, and the management of the Advance, as he had previously known it—representatives of an insurance company—would have desired to gratify the wishes of the powerful interests behind Dupuy. So far as the new owner was concerned, the managing editor could not tell what his attitude would be in the matter, but he had received no instructions as yet to change the policy of the paper. Plainly the course of wisdom, he reasoned, would be to act toward Dupuy as he had acted in the past, when the insurance company had insisted that the paper be operated on a purely commercial basis. Yes, he would deal carefully with Dupuy—that is, with Dupuy's clients.

"It's no joke, McHenry."

"No offense meant," explained McHenry. "Well, we'll have nothing more about Bartelmy. Will that satisfy your people?"

"Thank you, McHenry. That will be eminently satisfactory both to them and to me as their legal adviser."

"All right; that settles that."

"Oh, not quite!" said Dupuy, raising his hand warningly. "There's one more point. Who was responsible for the story?"

"Oh, let's pass that!"

But Dupuy could not be turned aside. McHenry had begun to give way to him, and the lawyer intended to follow up his advantage.

"Very well; it's up to you," he said. "But I want you to realize, whatever happens, there is no personal animosity in the matter."

"What do you mean by 'whatever happens?'" asked the managing editor quickly.

The visitor was a living picture of complacency.

"How much advertising did you get from our concern last year?"

The managing editor began to discern more clearly the hidden club in Dupuy's words and demands.

"Oh, I can't say as to that."

"About $30,000 worth, wasn't it?"

"Yes, I should think so," admitted McHenry.

"Well, there's the answer," exclaimed Dupuy triumphantly. "As a matter of business, McHenry, if you are not friendly to my clients, why, you can hardly expect them to be friendly to you, and I shall explain to the new proprietor of the Advance, Mr. Nolan, the reasons for the sudden drop in his advertising. He is a rich man, and he probably will not like to know that he is in the way of losing a good deal of money to further a radical propaganda which he probably abhors. Come, McHenry, for your own sake be reasonable. Who wrote the story? Surely you are not going to consider a mere reporter in a matter so vital to our interests. Who was it?"

McHenry surrendered.

"A young fellow named Wheeler Brand."

Dupuy rose and towered above McHenry as he sat at his desk.

"I thought so. I only wanted to make sure," he said. "He's a dangerous type. Comes from good enough people, but ambitious to get into the limelight by stirring up the mob. Thought he might have learned sense by now, but it seems he hasn't. Guess he never will; these fanatics never do."

"We consider him the best investigator in town," warmly, in praise of Brand.

"He's entirely too zealous. Do you catch me?" asked Dupuy, leaning over McHenry and gazing significantly into his eyes.

The managing editor caught Dupuy's meaning and stared at him blankly in his surprise.

"You don't mean"—

Dupuy smiled coldly.

"Yes—I mean—get rid of him!"

(To be Continued.)

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The Quest of the Auto.

Mrs. Newlywed—I am hoping and praying that my hubby will give me an auto for Christmas.

Her Friend—How long are you married?

Mrs. Newlywed—Six months.

Her Friend—Well, hoping and praying may fetch it this year, but next year it will have to be sobbing and jawing.—Judge.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.

Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

THE TERROR'S CHRISTMAS.

Turkeys Were $17 Each During the Siege of Paris.

When the Christmas day of 1870 dawned upon Paris the city had been in the iron grip of the German investment for about three months. The winter was a bitterly cold one, the thermometer registering 10 degrees below freezing point on Christmas morning. The Seine was frozen over.

The poor's daily rations were a few ounces of horseflesh and a piece of repulsive looking black bread.

By Dec. 25 food prices had reached their highest point since the beginning of the siege. On Nov. 13 a pound of butter fetched $14 and a rabbit $3.50. By Dec. 19 rabbits had risen to $5, a box of sardines brought $2.50 and eggs 25 cents apiece. For one's Christmas dinner one could buy a goose for $10 or a turkey for $17. Pigeons were $3 each, and a small fowl could be obtained for $5. Ham was $1.50 a pound. As for vegetables, carrots and turnips were 4 cents each, and a bushel of potatoes cost $6.25. There was hardly any milk in Paris, and the little there was had to be preserved for the sick and wounded. However, there were oceans of wine, and the wineshops did a roaring trade.

For some time before Christmas the starving people had been feeding on cats, rats and dogs until by Dec. 25 a dish of cat's flesh was hardly obtainable. Dog was 60 cents a pound, and fine rats fetched 14 cents each. Many domestic pets were killed for food. "Poor Azor!" said a humorous citizen as he finished a stew made from his favorite dog. "How he would have enjoyed these bones!"

With true Parisian light heartedness the citizens tried to make the best of things, and the cafes and restaurants wore almost their normal aspect. At half past 10, however, an order of Trochu closed every shop and cafe, and by 11 o'clock Paris had gone to bed.

The midnight mass of Christmas eve was celebrated as usual in the churches, which were crowded with praying, weeping women. Newspapers appeared as usual, some of them containing glowing accounts of perfectly imaginary French successes. The satirical sheets were even more bitter and venomous than at other times and published scathing caricatures. Some showed the fallen emperor, Napoleon III., as a shoeblack at King William's boots, or as a beggar with his pockets turned inside out, or as a traitor handing over France to murderers, or as a thief making off with millions of the nation's money. Others depicted Julius Favre in tears and pocketing Bismarck's gold and Trochu handing over the keys of Paris to a Prussian in exchange for a bag of coin. In all the idea of Parisians that France had been betrayed by those who ought to have protected her was prevalent.

So at this season of peace and good will suffering Paris was nearly at her last gasp. Owing to the tenacity of her rulers and citizens, however, her agony was to be prolonged for some weeks longer, as it was not until February that the negotiations for a capitulation began.

Candles For Christmas.

Christmas candlemakers are busy for many months in the year. It would be impossible to estimate how many hundreds of thousands of dozens of pretty little colored wax candles are required for Christmas trees all over Europe and America. There are also candles for church decoration at Christmastide. Whereas the Christmas tree tapers are, some of them, so tiny as to require seventy-two to make a pound, the great altar shafts of pure beeswax will sometimes stand six feet and weigh forty pounds apiece.—Tit-Bits.

SANTA CLAUS A STRANGER.

He Is Officially Unknown to Uncle Sam's Mail Agents.

The postoffice department does not know Santa Claus. The old saint has no official existence so far as Uncle Sam's mail agents are concerned. This is due entirely to the fact that Santa Claus lives everywhere at the same time instead of having a single local habitation like other people. It is very sad, but it cannot be helped. Letters which children address to Santa Claus or Kris Kringle must go straight to the dead letter office.

Some time ago an effort on behalf of the children was made to induce the postoffice department to permit postmasters to open all letters addressed to Santa Claus and turn them over to the parents of the child correspondent or to some local organization having a Christmas fund to spend, but the attorney general for the department rendered an adverse decision, holding as follows:

If postmasters were granted authority to open all such letters and select those which they thought proper to deliver to persons applying for them, there would be temptation and opportunity for postmasters and other employees to open letters indiscriminately, some of which contain inclosures of value, and give us an excuse for such action the authority granted by the department.

The department's legal adviser also was of the opinion that, if permission were granted to deliver such letters to benevolent societies and individuals, it would be difficult for the department to draw the line where benevolence ends and commercialism begins. Many persons desire such letters for use in newspapers and magazine stories, the name of the child of some prominent public man attached to such a letter making it especially valuable for that purpose and often correspondingly embarrassing to the parent of the child. Furthermore, the opinion states, such a practice would violate the principle of the sanctity of the seal, which is one of the best features of our postal system, and the department would continually be open to serious suspicion.

Avoiding Temptation.

Hammert — Stylngham has never bought a Christmas tree for his children.

Callahan—Probably he is afraid of temptation.

Hammert—Temptation?

Callahan—I mean that he is afraid that if he did buy a tree he would be tempted to buy something to hang on it.—Town and Country.

Hurry Up Santa Claus!

Yander Mistah Chris'mus,
Loafin' long de way.
"He slower than a railroad"—
Dat what chillun say.
Dey wants 'im fer ter hurry up
An' pass de time er day,
Dreamin' 'bout de comin' er de Chris'mus!
—Atlanta Constitution.

The Sixteenth Century Carver.

At the formal banquet of the sixteenth century the man who carved the meat was bound with the red tape of precedent. When carving for distinguished guests he had to remember that certain parts of the birds or meat must be set aside. In carving for his lord and lady he was expected to exercise great discretion in the size of the pieces he sent round, "for ladies will be soon angry and their thoughts soon changed, and some lords are soon pleased and some not, as they be of complexion." He was expected to have the rules both of the kitchen and the peerage at his knife's end. A pike, for instance, must be dished up whole for a lord and in slices for commoner folk. The rank of his diners, too, determined whether a pig was to be served up whole, sliced, plain or with gold leaf or whether new bread or bread three days old should be eaten.

HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Quincy, and Good Reason for It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
She finds relief and cure?
No reason why any Quincy reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. George L. Nott, 99 North Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have every reason for holding a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled a great deal by headaches and dizzy spells which were so severe at times that I had to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My sight was also affected, spots often appearing before me and my back ached intensely. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, I was cured. Other members of my family have used this remedy with equally good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

Dec. 14—1m.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John Masson of Quincy to Mabel E. Adams, Trustee under the will of Joseph Adams, late of said Quincy, dated the 11th day of November, 1899, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 858, Page 9, for the purpose of foreclosing said mortgage for breach of condition thereof, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, at Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, on SATURDAY, the first day of January, 1910, at two o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular, the premises described in said mortgage as follows:—

"A certain parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situated in said Quincy, being lot numbered "One" on plan of land in Quincy, made by Alexander Wadsworth, Surveyor, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Vol. 257, Page 187; said lot contains by estimation 20,055 square feet and is bounded and described as follows, to wit:—

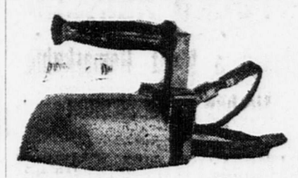
Westerly by Franklin Street, One Hundred and Ten (110) feet;

Northerly by land now or formerly of J. Crane, One Hundred and Eighty-nine (189) feet;

Easterly by land formerly of Charles Francis Adams, One Hundred and Eight and one-half (108-1-2) feet; and

Southerly by land formerly of said Adams, One Hundred and Ninety-three (193) feet;

Be any or all said measurements more or less, or however otherwise bounded, measured or described.



The Southwesterly corner of said lot is distant Northerly One Hundred (100) feet from a street Forty feet wide, laid out over land of said Adams, measuring on the line of said Franklin Street."

Said sale is to be subject to a first mortgage dated November 11th, 1899, given to George L. Baxter, and to all taxes and other liens outstanding.

Terms: $100 to be paid at time and place of sale.

EZEKIEL C. SARGENT,
Assignee of said mortgagee.
Quincy, December 8th, 1909.
6t-Dec. 9-16-23.

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references.

Wideawake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell Patents. What inventions will pay. How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

Red Cross Stamps

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
| r *5 14 abedefghi | | 5 42 | *5 47 ihgfedcba | | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 abc | | 6 33 | 6 27 cba | | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 abc | | 7 03 | 6 52 cba | | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 abc | | 7 33 | 7 27 cba | | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 a | | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 adei | | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 b | | 9 02 |
| 7 29 a | | 7 45 | 9 27 cba | | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 abc | | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 abcde | | 8 15 | 10 27 cba | | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 abc | | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 cba | | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 abcd | | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 cba | | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 abc | | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 cba | | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 abc | | 10 33 | 1 27 cba | | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 abc | | 11 33 | 2 27 cba | | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 abc | | 12 33 | 3 27 cba | | 3 49 r |
| 12 50 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 03 |
| r 1 13 abc | | 1 33 | 4 12 a | | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 abc | | 2 03 | 4 27 cba | | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 abc | | 2 33 | 4 50 edcba | | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 a | | 3 21 | 5 15 a | | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 deba | | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 abc | | 4 33 | 5 27 cba | | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 dba | | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 abc | | 5 33 | 5 46 ihgfedcba | | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 abedefghi | | 5 57 | 5 57 cba | | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 abedefghi | | 6 44 | 6 15 dba | | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 abc | | 7 12 | 6 27 cba | | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 fedcba | | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 ab | | 7 51 | 7 27 cba | | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 fedcba | | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 abedef | | 8 29 | 9 27 cba | | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 abc | | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 abedef | | 10 32 | 10 40 fedcba | | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 abc | | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 cba | | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 abc | | 8 03 | 6 21 ihgfedcba | | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 abc | | 9 03 | 8 57 cba | | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 abc | | 9 33 | 10 16 ihgfedcba | | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 a | | 9 51 | 12 27 cba | | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 ihgfedcba | | 1 45 r |
| 11 09 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 ihgfedcba | | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 abedefghi | | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 abc | | 1 33 | 3 16 ihgfedcba | | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 abc | | 3 30 | 4 27 cba | | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 abedefghi | | 4 44 | 5 27 cba | | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 abc | | 5 33 | 6 16 ihgfedcba | | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 abedefghi | | 6 44 | 6 57 cba | | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 ihgfedcba | | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 abedefghi | | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 abedefghi | | 8 05 | 9 27 ihgfedcba | | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 abc | | 10 50 | 10 37 cba | | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Crosent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46. A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.21 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING

1357 Hancock Street

Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood.

Gas and Water.

Four valuable houses built on property

Apply at 45 Elm Street.

Quincy, Dec. 3

STORAGE

—FOR—

Furniture and Pianos

Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms

Furniture and Piano Movers

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.

1405 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.46, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.30, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

Lost.
Probate Notices
Found--Lady's Pocket Book

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 38 degrees |
| Dec. 23, 1908 | 19 degrees |
| Dec. 23 1907, | 48 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

Police Officer Phillips received a handsome revolver ,all loaded, from the Christmas tree at Houghs Neck.

The Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, will hold their meeting Dec. 27 at 8 P. M. at the home of Mrs. Hull, Park street.

Mr. Joseph Bonner, formerly of Myrtle street, who has been critically ill ,is still in the Quincy hospital but is much improved.

Mrs. Frederick G. Owen, formerly Miss Jennie Davis of this city, is seriously ill at her home in Fairhaven, Vermont.

Dr. Jeffrey R. Brackett of Boston this week sent a Christmas offering of fifty dollars toward the salary of the Visiting Nurse, which has been received by Mrs. W. Ward Whitcher, chairman of the Visiting Nurse committee of the Quincy Women's club.

TROLLEY FREIGHT HEARING.

An adjourned hearing on the question of the Old Colony street railway operating a trolley freight in Quincy, was held Wednesday before the Railroad Commissioners. The street railway was represented by counsel, but the city was not represented. After a conference on the several sections, conditions and restrictions in the permit as granted by the City Council the Railroad Commissioners took the matter under advisement. A finding on the question is expected in a few days.

BROWN—BLAKE.

A Christmas wedding of interest was the marriage on Wednesday evening by Rev. Dr. Hardy of Mr. Charles Edwin Brown to Miss Isabel E. Blake. They were attended by Mr. E. J. Wright and Miss Edna D. Blake, both of Somerville and the ring service was used. The bride was becomingly gowned and carried bridal roses. The maid of honor carried pinks. Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Corthell of 9 Grant street gave the couple a reception after the ceremony and they were the recipients of many gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for New York on their wedding trip and upon their return will be at home at No. 9 Grant street, Quincy.

MRS. E. H. DOBLE.

Mrs. Rachel Doble, wife of Enoch H. Doble, one of West Quincy's prominent business men, passed away Wednesday night at her home 52 Cross street in her 78th year. Mrs. Doble came from Maine but has been a resident of West Quincy for many years. She was prominently identified with the Hall Place M. E. church, and took an active interest in its welfare. She was also prominent in charity work in a quiet way. She leaves three sons, H. F. Doble, W. H. Doble and Arthur Doble.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

MARRIAGES.

BONGARZONE—DALL'ORA—In Quincy, Dec. 23, by William M. Marden, Esq., Mr. Antonio Bongarzone and MissEmma Dall'Ora both of Quincy.

RUSCITTO—DALL'ORA—In Quincy, Dec 23, by William M. Marden, Esq., Mr. Antonio Ruscitto and Miss Mary Dall'Ora both of Quincy.

BROW. —BLAKE—In Quincy, Dec. 22, by Rev. E. N. Hardy, Mr. Charles Edwin Brown to Miss Isabel E. Blake, both of Quincy.

DEATHS.

SAVILLE—In Rockland, Dec. 22, Dr. Alonzo F Saville, a native of Quincy, aged 63 years.

O'CALLAGHAN— In Milton, Dec. 22, Mrs Bridget A. wife of Mr. John O'Callaghan aged 60 years.

COLERAN—In Weymouth, Dec. 21, Catherine Coleran of 352 Washington street.

DOBLE—In Quincy, Dec. 22, Mrs. Rachel wife of Mr. Enoch H. Doble, aged 77 years 7 months.
Funeral services at late home, 52 Cross street, Sunday, Dec. 26, at 2.30 P. M. Relatives and friends invited. Burial private. Dec. 23-2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

WORCESTER FOLKS AMAZED

Witness a Most Remarkable Airship Demonstration

TILLINGHAST'S PERFORMANCE

Speeds Through Air at Height Estimated at From 1500 to 2000 Feet and Completely Circles City—Almost Impossible to Discern Lines of Mysterious Craft, Which Is Known to Have Carried Two Men

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 23.—Wallace E. Tillinghast silenced to an extent the sceptics who have scoffed at his claims for a marvelous aeroplane he invented when he circled Worcester in his mysterious airship for two hours last night.

Nearly 1000 persons in various parts of the city saw the big aeroplane as it sped rapidly through the air at a height judged to be from 1500 to 2000 feet.

Since Tillinghast claimed recently that he had made a flying trip from Worcester to New York, then to Boston and back to Worcester, the night of Sept. 8, his pretensions have come in for much ridicule, and it is believed the flight last night was planned to put to blush his critics.

The mysterious airship was first sighted in the southwest, bound for Worcester, and it was at first thought that the headlight on the front of the machine was a star. As the machine approached the centre of the city, those standing on the streets could plainly see a long object trailing behind it, with two dark forms, believed to be men, in the centre near the searchlight.

Tillinghast put in his first appearance about 6:40, coming over the city from the direction of Millbury. He then sailed over city hall, State Mutual building, and then out toward Greendale, where he was seen by the farmers and the men working on the Boston and Maine railroad at that place.

Then he circled about the city several times and speeded toward Spencer at a good rate of speed. It was thought that Tilinghast had probably gone off for another record trip.

In less than an hour the inventor with his machine was back over the city again, circling about. The airship finally stopped over the State Mutual building, and here the mysterious craft could be seen quite plainly. Then Tillinghast sailed off again towards Greendale, made another circle in the air and sailed back over the building and on towards Spencer.

A peculiarity of Tillinghast's flight over the city was the height to which the aviator rose and remained, and it is thought that his object in doing this was to keep out of sight as much as possible. In this he was quite successful, for it was almost impossible to distinguish any lines of his mysterious craft, it appearing only as a long, dark object with a bright light at its head, but at times it could be seen that there was more than one human form in the centre of the craft, and the noise of the eight-cylinder engine which he claims to have in the aeroplane or monoplane of his own invention, could be heard on the streets.

It was reported at Spencer and at Marlboro that Tillinghast and his aircraft were seen sailing over that town and city respectively shortly before 9 o'clock.

Tillinghast did not take his automobile last night, as has been the custom on the night trips, but evidently slipped quietly out of town by way of the Union station.

WANTS CLAIMS PROVED

Schley Calls Upon Peary to Submit His Data to Copenhagen

Washington, Dec. 23.—Reaffirming his entire confidence in Dr. Cook, Rear Admiral Schley, retired, called publicly upon Commander Peary to submit his proofs that he reached the North Pole to some scientific body other than the National Geographic society.

This, the admiral declares, should be done at once in the interest of justice and to establish beyond question the claims of Peary.

The admiral believes that the same body which condemned Cook's data should be permitted to pass upon the data submitted by Peary to the Geographic society.

Robbers Stole Pay Envelopes

Newark, N. J., Dec. 23.—Two armed men held up Samuel B. Newman, in the office of the Hooten Cocoa and Chocolate company here, and stole 100 pay envelopes containing in all about $600.

Missing Steamer Safe

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 23.—Steamer Berwind has arrived safely in port. She had been missing since Dec. 15, coming in easy stages to Duluth. Much concern had been felt as to her safety.

Menelik Not Yet Dead

Allis Abeba, Abyssinia, Dec. 23.—The Ethiopian government has given official assurance that King Menelik still lives, though his condition is grave.

POLAND VS. BUGBEE

Former Rallies and Wins Great Bowling Match

Greater interest in the match game of nine strings was taken at Norfolk Downs on Wednesday evening than in the Old Colony contest. It was between William Bugbee and E. A. Poland and was closely contested. Bugbee did his best work in the first three strings and maintained the lead up to the seventh string when the score was a tie at 692. First he was 10 ahead, then 23, then 9, then 21 then 17, but on the sixth string it was only 2, and these were wiped out on the seventh. Then Poland made it 101 to 91, and 110 to 94 and finished with a lead of 26. Poland had an excellent average of over 100, and Bugbee an average of over 96 as follows:

| | Poland | Bugbee. |
|---|---|---|
| String 1 | 100 | 110 |
| String 2 | 90 | 103 |
| String 3 | 118 | 104 |
| String 4 | 83 | 95 |
| String 5 | 94 | 90 |
| String 6 | 109 | 94 |
| String 7 | 98 | 96 |
| String 8 | 101 | 91 |
| String 9 | 110 | 94 |
| Total | 903 | .877 |
| Average | 100 | 96 |

GRANITE CITY WHIST.

Owing to the fact that stores were open for the holiday trade, the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club Wednesday evening was not participated in by as many as usual. Five and a half tables contested, however, and some good scores were made. G. Emery Green secured the top score, with 42 won and 17 lost, or 71.1 per cent., while A. L. Litchfield was second with a score of 34 won and 15 lost or 69.3 per cent. After the play Henry Furnald served hot coffee and escalloped oysters.

THE NOON ALARM.

The alarm from Box 445 at 12.20 this noon was for a fire in a small blacksmith shop and hen house on Jenness street. The fire started from a grass fire and did but little damage. It was extinguished before the fire department arrived.

TAME BY COMPARISON.

The Picturesque Cascade Merely a Commonplace Sight.

"Can you direct me to Wilson's cascade?" asked a traveler of an old man who sat in the doorway of a barn close to the road.

The old man squinted his eyes and took an exhaustive survey of the questioner.

"Take your first right and follow it until you come to a fork where there's a clump of bushes," he said slowly, "and then strike off to the left. Follow that road till you come to the next crossroad and then bear off to your left again. When you've gone a piece on that road—'tisn't much more'n a patch—you'll come on Simmons' house. You'll know him because he wears plaid trousers, and I never saw anything like 'em anywhere else. Green and blue and red plaid they are, and his wife makes 'em for him. Some say they like the looks of 'em, and some don't. I've heard different feelings expressed; but, anyway, you can't keep from laughing when you set your eyes on 'em, I'll wager. There was a man"—

"Excuse me, but I have only just so much time," said the traveler. "Will Mr. Simmons direct me to the cascade?"

The old man blinked at him a moment.

"I think he can," he answered, "but after you've seen them plaid trousers a little water running over rocks will seem pretty tame to you."

A Mistake In the Paper.

What a woman doesn't know about newspapers isn't worth knowing. The other morning Mrs. Blank was talking to her husband.

"I notice in the paper that Mr. Jones died on Sunday."

"It is a mistake, my dear," replied the husband; "he died on Monday."

"But the paper said Sunday."

"I know it, but it was an error in the print."

"I thought so, too, at first, but I got a half dozen copies of the paper, and it was the same in all of them. They certainly couldn't have made the mistake over and over again."

The husband tried to convince her, but it was no use, and he gave it up.

FREE
One pound of the best Christmas candy with every 75 cent purchase or more during this week also a pretty new year Calendar. Choicest of the best fruits, as sweet oranges, 15 cents a dozen up, Malaga grapes 15 cents and 20 cents pound, Christmas candy 15 cents pound, 2 pounds for 25 cents, nuts, candy, tobacco and cigars
SALVALAMACHIA & CUSOLITO,
1101 Hancock street,
Opposite the Auditorium.
Dec. 22 1 3t

OLD COLONY LEAGUE

Weymouth and Quincy the Winners

Weymouth maintained its lead in the Old Colony bowling league this week by defeating Norfolk Downs 4 to 0, and Quincy jumped into second place by defeating Braintree 4 to 0. The standing to date is as follows:

| | Won | last |
|---|---|---|
| Weymouths, | 9 | 3 |
| Quincy, | 8 | 4 |
| Norfolk Downs | 4 | 8 |
| Braintrees | 3 | 9 |

THE QUINCY GAME.

The Quincy team took four points from Braintree at the Granite street alleys on Wednesday winning all three strings and the totals. There was a margin of 22 pins or the first string, 27 on the second and 9 on the third, making 58 on totals. Boutin was high on singles and totals with 106 and 281.

Knips rolled the best string for the Braintrees and lead the team on totals.

The full score:

QUINCY.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Morten | 86 | 97 | 83 | 266 |
| Baker | 83 | 79 | 88 | 250 |
| Wentworth | 79 | 91 | 100 | 270 |
| Burke | 95 | 88 | 82 | 265 |
| Boutin | 93 | 106 | 77 | 281 |
| | 441 | 461 | 430 | 1332 |

BRAINTREE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Knips | 93 | 97 | 79 | 269 |
| Howland | 70 | 79 | 83 | 232 |
| Johnson | 76 | 81 | 96 | 253 |
| Stone | 95 | 82 | 83 | 260 |
| Beane | 85 | 95 | 80 | 260 |
| | 419 | 434 | 421 | 1274 |

THE DOWNS GAME.

The Weymouth veterans put up a three string total of 1331 at Norfolk Downs on Wednesday and defeated the home team at all points. They won the first string by 33 pins, the second by 4, and the third by 32, giving them 69 for the evening. Smith of the visitors was high man on totals, but Dunn of Norfolk Downs rolled the best string.

The summary:

WEYMOUTH.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| C. Connell | 92 | 76 | 103 | 271 |
| Guertin | 96 | 72 | 77 | 243 |
| J. Connell | 75 | 97 | 93 | 265 |
| Kiley | 99 | 80 | 87 | 266 |
| Smith | 93 | 106 | 87 | 286 |
| | 453 | 431 | 447 | 1331 |

NORFOLK DOWNS.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Wm. Bugbee | 95 | 83 | 81 | 259 |
| C. Bugbee | 73 | 72 | 76 | 221 |
| F. Osgood | 86 | 83 | 82 | 251 |
| J. Dunn | 79 | 107 | 96 | 282 |
| P. Guinon | 87 | 82 | 80 | 249 |
| | 420 | 427 | 415 | 1262 |

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

NOTICE

The Thomas Crane Public Library will be closed after 6 P. M. Friday Christmas Eve, and on Christmas Day.

Per Order of the Trustees.
Dec. 21 4t

Christmas Flowers
CUT FLOWERS OF ALL KINDS
Wreaths, Potted Plants and all Floral Designs for the Holidays can be found at our store.
Flowers make appropriate gifts for mother sister, sweetheart or your sick friends.
We have Poinsettias, Azaleas, Cyclamen, Ferns, Palms, Primroses, Jerusalem Cherries, etc.
CALL TODAY.
CITY FLOWER STORE
CARL JOHNSON, Prop.
361 Hancock St., City Sq., Tel, 275-2
Dec. 20 4t

LYNCH, NEW BASEBALL HEAD.

President of National League Clubs Was Once a Famous Umpire.

Thomas J. Lynch of New Britain, Conn., once known as the "king of umpires," who was elected president of the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York the other afternoon, was born in New Britain, where he owns a theater and is fifty-one years old. He umpired his first game in the New England league and did so well that he was appointed to the National league's staff by former President N. E. Young in 1885. He made his bow in Boston and was promptly nicknamed "the postman" by the fans because of the gray uniform and cap he wore.

Lynch soon demonstrated the fact that he was an autocrat on the diamond. He was a stickler for the rules and ruled the rowdies with an iron hand. But his path was not strewn with roses, and he had a stormy time of it all over the circuit. The supreme test came when Lynch was sent to the old Polo grounds at One Hundred and Tenth street and Fifth avenue, New York, to umpire six games played by the Giants with the Chicagos and Detroits. These teams were close together in the pennant race and excitement ran high. Lynch made his appearance on a Monday in the presence of 10,000 spectators, and from the moment he called the first ball the crowd wanted his scalp. It was a riotous week, and when Lynch left for Pittsburg he was a trifle discouraged. When he arrived at the Smoky City, however, he received a telegram from President Young which read:

"I congratulate you on your excellent umpiring at New York."

"That dispatch," said President Lynch the other day, "made me a successful umpire. And I intend to follow the same policy with the National league umpires next year."

Manager George Stallings of the New York Americans ran up against Lynch nearly twenty years ago when the big chief was catching for the Philadelphias.

"Lynch was umpiring one day," said Stallings recently, "and my pitcher put a ball square over the middle of the plate. Lynch called it a ball, and I turned quickly and said:

"Oh, Tom, that was a strike."

"'Young man,' said Lynch, tapping me on the shoulder, 'it isn't Tom here. It's Mr. Umpire. Be careful in future.' And I never forgot the incident."

Lynch is thoroughly independent. As a veteran baseball man said of him:

"If he makes as good a president as he was an umpire the National league will have found a jewel."

Lynch is generally regarded by veteran critics of the game as one of the best umpires that ever called balls and strikes.

BUNGALOW IN THE AIR.

Hot Season Houses on Stilts For a New York Man.

A bungalow on stilts is to be erected in Great River, N. Y., adjoining the estates of W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Bayard Cutting, Frederick G. Bourne and other wealthy men. Undoubtedly it will be the oddest hot weather residence ever constructed. It is to be built by Harry de Bow Barnes, who lives in New York city. He engaged W. H. Buckhout, a Hackensack architect, to prepare the plans. Mr. Buckhout described them recently in this way:

"Four hollow steel poles, or masts, each forty-five feet in length and eight inches in diameter, will support a platform twenty-five feet square. The poles pass through the corners of the platform for five feet and act as a brace for the bungalow that is built upon the platform. A spiral staircase gives access to a bungalow through the medium of a door in the underside of the platform. This stairway is fitted with a gateway that can be closed at will by the occupants of the bungalow, so as to shut out undesirable callers.

"Both the platform and the bungalow are to be made of seasoned oak. The structure itself will be fitted with all sorts of hot weather conveniences. Every precaution will be taken to insure the safety of its occupants from winds and thunderstorms. It will also be fitted with an anti-swaying device that has been invented by Mr. Barnes himself."

If the experiment turns out to be a success, as Mr. Barnes believes it will, it is possible that bungalows on stilts will become popular.

Train More Than a Mile Long.

What is said to be the longest railroad train ever pulled by a single engine recently left Roanoke, Va., for Norfolk over the Virginian railroad, also known as the "Rogers railroad." The train consisted of 120 steel coal hoppers, each forty-four feet long and loaded with fifty tons of coal; a compound engine, a tender and caboose. The train from cowcatcher to the rear of the caboose was six feet over a mile.

The North Pole Speaks.

Gee whiz,
What a relief it is
To be discovered at last!
But, say,
If I had known the way
It was going to turn out,
With all this row about
Who found me, by cripes,
There wouldn't be no stars and stripes
Floating from me today!
Nay, nay!
You bet if I had thought
Of the wordy war to be fought
Over me,
By gee,
The whole darn scrap
Would have been chucked,
For I would have ducked!
See?
That's me,
The only N. P.!
—W. J. Lampton in New York Tribune.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST — In Quincy, Monday afternoon, a small brown leather shopping bag, with money, keys and owner's name inside. Reward if F. J. Ledger office is notified. Dec. 21 3t

LOST—Dec. 20th, about 5 P. M., Boston Terrier pup leather strap around neck; four months old. Return to 7 Alleyne Terrace. Reward. Dec. 23-6t

FOUND

FOUND—A Lady's Pocket Book, on Tuesday, containing small sum of money. Apply to Salvation Army headquarters, Granite street. Quincy, Dec. 23-1t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Light express wagon suitable for grocery or general delivery, will carry a ton; first class condition. Apply at 10 Sumner street, Quincy. Dec. 21-3t

JUST A MINUTE
How about a case of our FANCY DRINKS
for your
Christmas Dinner
German Seltzer
For Digestion
Temperance BEER
For your table drinks
Mixed Tonic
For your Company
CALL, WRITE OR PHONE
GERMAN SELTZER MFG. CO.
QUINCY, MASS.
Dec. 20—4t
Phone 146-1

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of

JAMES A. WHITE,
late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to James B. White of Quincy without giving a surety on his bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the fifth day of January, A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day of December A. D. 1909.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.
Dec. 23 3t-23-27-3

ASSETS, $450,000.
QUINCY CO-OP BANK $$$$$ For The People
ESTABLISHED 1889
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 PER MONTH
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS B'K BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas.

WANTED.

WANTED — Experienced seamstress would like work with dressmaker or would take sewing at home. Address S., Ledger Office. Quincy, Dec. 22-3t

TO LET.

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN. Dec. 21 6t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neigborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-1f

TO LET — Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 19 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-18t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec. 10-12t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 64 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-1f

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-1f

TO LET
Tenement — Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.
Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.
24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.
Greenleaf Hall — Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.
City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x43 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent
Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

TELEPHONE CONN. HOURS 9-12 2-5
DR. A. B. PACKARD
HARVARD '05
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

Boys Wanted
TO SELL
Quincy Daily Ledgers
at the Quincy, Quincy Adams, and West Quincy Stations. Also at Fore River Shipyard.
Apply at LEDGER OFFICE.

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 289 QUINCY, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 24, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

QUINCY CITY COUNCIL COMPLETES YEAR'S BUSINESS

Extends Votes of Thanks to President and Other Officers and the Press

Debate on Grossman's Junk License----Inspector of Buildings Gets an Increase of Salary

The City Council of 1909 went out of existence last evening. In case of emergency however, it could be called together again by the Mayor. The chances are that its deliberations are over. Thursday night's meeting was marked by a hot debate over a petition that the junk shop of L. Grossman & Son be removed or the nuisance mitigated. The most important action of the Council was to pass an order providing that the Inspector of Buildings shall give his whole time to the office and fixing his salary at $1,000.

The absent members were Councilmen Beal, Carey, Hadlock, Moir, Nelson and Nowland.

JUNK SHOP.

Councilman Richards presented a petition for the removal or the mitigation of L. Grossman & Son's junk shop. This was laid on the table until later when it was again taken up and debated.

Councilman Bryant asked Chief Burrell what he had done toward stopping Grossman, who had been refused a license.

Chief Burrell replied that he had given orders to the inspectors and officers to watch Grossman. He had got one case against him, but was waiting until he got more evidence. In conversation, he said, Grossman had a good chance to beat us out on this case. In reply to further questions the Chief admitted that the City Solicitor had said the best way was to bring Grossman into court and try it out.

Councilman Bryant—He has evaded the law and unless you have been instructed not to proceed against him by someone higher in authority you should go ahead and prosecute.

Mayor Shea, in reply to a question, said he had no information on the matter. This petition never came to me.

Councilman Bryant—It is the fault of some one that he has not been prosecuted. It was for this reason that the special committee had not reported. It wanted to find out where the ordinance was faulty.

Mayor Shea—The City Solicitor said the only way was to take it into court and have the court decide it. I told the Chief if he could get evidence to go ahead and get him. Apparently he has not been able to get it.

Councilman Richards asked if he had tried very hard to get evidence. A resident had come to him and asked if it was not possible to stop the nuisance. I was opposed to cutting off this man's license when the order was before the Council. He had his opinion as to why this man got the lash. He could not see why Grossman was allowed to go outside of the law.

Councilman Russell said he knew it to be a fact that some of these umbrella mending teams were collecting junk without a license, and Grossman comes and gets the junk from them. He would ask the City Solicitor if that was legal.

City Solicitor McAnarney replied if the umbrella business was merely a subterfuge it would not be legal. If he is breaking the law any citizen can make a complaint against him.

Councilman Bryant asked of the City Solicitor—If a complaint was made to the Executive and he referred it to the Chief of Police who referred it to you, what would you do?

City Solicitor—If the evidence was sufficient to warrant a conviction I would lay it before the court. I stated to the councilman that if a man was getting around the law as this man was Grossman had a fighting chance of winning. If he is violating the ordinance we have ordinance enough to cover it. It is not a question of law but a question of fact.

In reply to Councilman McDevitt, the City Solicitor said a man would not have a right to keep open while his application for a license was pending.

Councilman Smith moved reference to the Executive.

Councilman Bryant thought that would be useless. Politics are now over. Let us refer this to the next City Council.

The allusion that someone was playing politics brought the Mayor to his feet. He denied that there were any politics. He denied the insinuation. He had no interest in the man. There has got to be some evidence that he is violating the law.

PRESIDENT HOBES

Councilman Whiton moved to amend by referring to the next City Council. Voted.

Councilman Bryant, moved, and it was voted, that the special committee on junk licenses report to the next Council.

REPORTS.

Councilman Gilson for the special committee to perambulate the Quincy and Braintree line reported that committee had done its duty.

The Finance committee reported no legislation necessary on the communication from the Mayor on the question of street lighting as the contract had been signed. Report accepted.

The Finance Committee reported ought not to pass on the order for $100 for skating ponds, as there was no money available.

Councilman McDevitt thought it a bad state of affairs when the city could not find $100.

In reply to a question, the Commissioner said that the Ward Four playground was flooded as deep as it could be and not get the city into trouble. In Ward Three he had not had much success. If we have some old weather we will have more success. Report accepted.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on order transferring $400 from removal of snow to water extensions. Order adopted.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order transferring $700 from removal of snow to Miscellaneous highways. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported reference to the next Council on the orders for fire alarm boxes. Report accepted.

NEW BUSINESS.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order requesting the Mayor to confer with the Cunningham pond authorities to see if they will allow citizens of Quincy to skate there. Adopted.

BUILDING INSPECTOR.

The order increasing the salary of the Inspector of Buildings was taken from the table.

Councilman Bryant moved to amend by striking out that part that provided no payment should be made under contracts for city buildings until approved by the Inspector of Buildings. Voted.

The order was then passed by roll call without opposition.

The ordinance as it now reads fixes

(Continued on Page 8.)

FESTIVALS AND TREES

Quincy Churches Plan for Christmas

Many Christmas festivals are announced by the Quincy churches for this evening, and others will be held tomorrow. Sunday will be observed in several Quincy churches as Christmas Sunday.

The First church Sunday School children will assemble in the church at 6.30 P. M. Christmas carols and address by Rev. Charles B. Ames. At 7 P. M. the annual Christmas party will be held in the chapel. Santa Claus will be present and bring some of his friends with him to entertain the children. It is hoped that a large number of parents and friends will join with the children in both of these services. Christmas tide is the children's holiday, give some of your time to them.

At Christ church the festival of the Nativity of our Lord will begin tonight at 7 o'clock in the church. The Children's Carol service with an address will be followed by the illuminating of the tree and the distribution of presents to the members of the Junior Department of the Sunday School. Parents and friends are cordially invited to this service. On Christmas day, Saturday, at eight o'clock there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion followed by a second celebration with special music and sermon at 10.30.

Owing to the large number of children enrolled in the Sunday school of St. John's church there will be no Christmas festival this year, but gifts of candy and toys will be distributed among the 600 children of the Sunday school. There will be special masses at the church Christmas day.

At Bethany church tonight at 6 o'clock there will be a Christmas festival, when a cantata will be presented, entitled "The capture of Santa Claus." There will be the usual festivities and a tree.

Christmas tree festivals will be held this evening as follows:

Hall Place church at 7.
St. Chrysostom's at 6.
Wollaston Baptist at 7.
Wollaston M. E. at 7.30.
Atlantic Memorial.

The Wollaston Congregational Sunday School will have its Christmas festival on Saturday evening.

Christmas services will be held tomorrow in the Catholic, Swedish, Finnish and Episcopal churches. Those at Christ church will be at 8 and 10.30. Those at St. Chrysostom's at 7 and 10.

The Sunday School of the First Universalist church will give their Christmas concert on Sunday at 10.30 A. M. and will hold their Christmas tree and social on Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

Special Christmas masses will be sung at St. Marys church Christmas day. At 5.30 A. M. there will be a high mass, and there will be low masses at 6.45, 8 and 9.15 A. M. and another high mass at 10.30. In the afternoon there will be musical vespers. A grand entertainment for the children of the Sunday school will be held in St. Marys hall next Tuesday.

"JULOTTA."

The old Swedish custom of holding an early Christmas service has been transferred to this country among the other good things. Long before daybreak on Christmas morning crowds of people are seen on their way to the beautifully illuminated temples. One or more Christmas trees, which are bountifully and tastily decorated, great the reverent worshipper as he enters the house of the Lord to worship the new-born King. The service is very impressive. Beautiful Swedish psalms and hymns are sung, and sermons appropriate for the season are delivered by the pastor, who usually selects his text from Luke 2, John1, 14, or some simple passage of scripture. The worship closes at about 7 o'clock, just as the first rays of the morning ushers in the day of days, and the procession makes its way for home where family celebrations are continued throughout the day.

The Swedish speaking people of the city are cordially invited by the Swedish Congregational church to attend this early service "Julotta," which will be held in the Garfield street church at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. Rev. G. W. Palmgren, the pastor will preach a Christmas sermon on "If Christ had not Come." Besides the famous Congregational Christmas songs, special singing will be rendered by the church choirs. Come and celebrate Christmas with us.

Red Cross Stamps
On Christmas Lette's
Carry Good Cheer

CHRISTMAS AT WOLLASTON

Play Presented at the Unitarian Church

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Sunday school of the Wollaston Unitarian church was held in the vestry on Thursday evening. Preceding the entertainment carols were sung in the church, and Rev. Carl G. Horst spoke. Mrs. Chandler W. Smith presided at the organ.

In the vestry a charming little two-act play entitled: "Christmas at Santa Claus House" was presented by over twenty of the younger members of the Sunday school. Judith Page, who took the part of May at a few hours notice, performed it very creditably. The play was under the direction of Mrs. Frank A. Page and Mrs. Charles T. Baker.

The cast of characters follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Elsie | Gladys Glover |
| Katie | Rebecca Bird |
| May | Judith Page. |
| Tommy | Robert Park |
| Santa Claus | Jack Simmons |
| Mrs. Santa Claus | Edna Sanborn |
| Kris Kringle | Edward Park |
| Knight Rupert | Stanley Cummings |
| Old Boreas | Winslow Weston |
| Jack Frost | Horton Page |
| Snow Queen | Mildred Polk |
| Christmas Spirit | Bertha Polk |
| Old Bumble, a gnome | Gordon Rowe |
| Moon Man's Wife | Catherine Adams |
| Snowflakes | Sylvia Litchfield and Sidney Simmons. |
| Brownies | Bradford Thompson and Richard Moulton. |
| Faries | Gretchen Horst, Priscilla White, Hope Robinson and Elva Hirtle. |

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The musical program at the Wollaston Congregational church on Christmas Sunday will include:

Voluntary for organ and cello, Berceuse, Godard
Anthem, My soul doth magnify the Lord, Tours
Hymn, Come all ye faithful
Carol Anthem, The First Christmas Barnby
a. The Annunciation
b. The Message to the Shepherds
c. The Cradle Song of Mary
Response: Holy Night (trio for girls' voices) Barnby
Offertory, Romanza for Cello Fischer
Hymn, O Little Town of Bethlehem
The Angels Song (tenor solo with cello) Faure
Recessional, "Hark! the herald angels sing"
Organ Postlude

The program for musical vespers at 4 P. M. will be:

Preliminary Music for organ and violin
a. Cradle Song Melville
b. Meditation Massenet
The Call to Worship
Anthem There were shepherds abiding in the fields. Buck
The Benedictus, tenor voice and girls' choir Gounod
Carol Sing we Noël French of the 16th Century
Response The Sleep of the Infant Jesus.
Alto Voice and Violin Busser
Christmas Song O Holy Night. Adam
Soprano Voice and Violin
Hymn No. 290
Recessional Angels from the realms of glory
Organ Postlude

THE COCHATO CLUB.

The second of the series of matinee bridge parties was held at the club Monday, Dec. the 20th. There were seven tables. Souvenirs were awarded the following ladies making the highest scores: Mrs. G. A. Arnold, Mrs. J. E. Arnold, and Mrs. G. Gavin. Next party will be held Jan. 3d. The sixth entertainment in the winter course will be a New Year's dance in Cochato hall, Friday evening, Dec. 31.

BUSY DAY FOR FIREMEN

But the Loss by Fire Was Trifling

Thursday was a busy day for the firemen, for in addition to answering three bell alarms, the Central station apparatus responded to two still alarms.

The first alarm was at 12.20, and was for a fire in a blacksmith shop and hen house on Jenness street, caused by a grass fire. The loss was $10.

At 2.15 an alarm from Box 47 called the department to a small fire at Michael Flaherty's house on Grove street, which was also caused by a grass fire; loss $10.

At 3 o'clock the central apparatus responded to a still alarm for a grass fire near the residence of Dr. F. E. Jones on Hancock street, that was getting dangerously near the buildings.

At 4.55 an alarm from Box 173 called the department to a lively fire in the woods near the ice houses of the Meadow Brook Ice Co., at Quincy Neck. The fire made a bright blaze, and it looked as though the ice houses were on fire. Fortunately the fire did not reach the buildings.

Shortly after 5 o'clock a still alarm call was sent in for a grass fire near Richard's grain store near the Quincy depot.

The central station combination was called out on a still alarm at 11.35 this noon for a grass fire in the rear of the Bates block on Upland road.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Alson Studley Richardson of Nantasket will observe their golden wedding at the Methodist Episcopal church, Hull street, Nantasket, Saturday January 1, and receive their friends from 2 until 5 and 7 until 10. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson who are life-long residents of that part of Nantasket commonly called "Tug," are both well known from their long connection with their son-in-law and daughter Col. and Mrs. David O. Wade in the management of the Ocean View House Hotel Nantasket, and Nantasket Point hotel, former well known and popular Nantasket beach resorts. "Aunty" Richardson as he was affectionately called by the hundreds of poor children whom Col. Wade was accustomed to furnish with free dinners at his summer hotels, probably has a wider acquaintance among people throughout the state than any other person on the South Shore. The wedding anniversary will be the most notable event of the season on the South Shore.

PLYMOUTH DESCENDANTS.

Lysander S. Richards has called a meeting of the Plymouth Pilgrim Colony Descendants in the Plymouth County Commissioners' rooms at Plymouth for eleven o'clock on New Year's day for the purpose of organizing a society of descendants. All eligible are invited to be present and participate in the proceedings and become charter members. Mr. Richards has already a long list of those desiring to join including some from other states.

DIMOCK & PATTEN
Carpenters and Builders
Plans furnished and estimates given.
All wo k personally and promptly attended to.
133 PROSPECT AVENUE
WOLLASTON
Telephone 532-1 Quincy.
Dec 18—1yS

MONK'S ORCHESTRA
First Class Music Furnished for any Occasion.
Address 241 Washington Street, Quincy
Tel. Connection. Nov. 27-o-1w-1-1f

FREE TRIAL ELECTRIC LIGHTING

As a special inducement to the citizens of Quincy, whose homes or stores have never been wired for electric light, the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company makes the following proposition:

To all who will expend at least twenty dollars ($20) for wiring and fixtures, before January 31st, 1910, the Company will make the service connections, install meter and standard carbon filament lamps without charge, and will also FURNISH FREE twenty dollars ($20) worth of electric current at regular meter rates to be used before June 30th, 1910, provided the premises can be reached from the present lines of the Company without the setting of additional poles. This concession will go far towards paying the entire cost of wiring the average house.

For further particulars telephone Quincy, 185, between the hours of 8 A. M. and 5 P. M., or fill out and mail to the Company, No. 9 Granite Street, Quincy, the attached coupon.

Quincy Electric Light & Power Company
By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.
Quincy, Mass, December 22nd, 1909.

COUPON.

QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER CO.:
Gentlemen:
I am interested in your offer of Free Trial Electric Lighting. Please have your representative call and give me full information.
Name .....
Address, No ..... Street,
Date of Appointment ..... Time

Dec. 22—4t

FOY
Makes a Specialty of Supplying Good Things for Christmas
The largest and freshest stock of Christmas Groceries and Sweets in Quincy. We carry everything you need for Christmas Dinner. Our prices are right.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cranberries | 3 qts. 25c. | Rice Pop Corn | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Fancy Drained Citron | lb. 18c. | Common Crackers | lb. 8c. |
| Seeded Raisins | 3 pkg. 25c. | Large Native Onions | pk. 25c. |
| Cleaned Currants | pkg. 10c. | Florida Oranges | doz. 15c. |
| Ideal Not-a-Seed Raisins | pkg. 10c. | 2 lb. box Ribbon Candy | 25c. |
| Slade's Sage | box 5c. | Dates | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| Bell's Poultry Seasoning | box 9c. | Cluster Raisins | box 10c. |
| | | Matinee Biscuits | 3 pkg. 25c. |
| | | Takoma Biscuits | 6 pkg. 25c. |

R·E·FOY & Co
COR. WATER AND QUINCY STS.
QUINCY ADAMS

Two Shows at Music Hall, Christmas
Matinee at 2.30. Evening at 8.
3 ACTS, 5,000 FEET MOVING PICTURES.
Advance Sale of Coupon Reserved Seat Tickets.
GET YOURS TODAY
Admission 10 Cents. Reserved 20 Cents. Dec. 18-6t

WHY GAS IS THE BEST LIGHT FOR YOU

QUALITY—The soft, mellow steady light of the modern mantle burner is absolutely the best artificial light to work or read by.

DOES NOT TIRE THE EYES.

CONVENIENCE—By using the Chain Pull attachment on the burners, the use of matches is abolished.

QUANTITY—The Reflex Inverted Light with Holophane Reflector gives a light equal to 200 candles directly under the light.

We will put in a light on trial; if you don't like it we will take it out without expense to you.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. Quincy 181
Dec. 24 tf

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 2.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Judge Elmer B. Adams.

Concurring Jurist In Decision Adverse to Standard Oil.

COPYRIGHT - BY J.C. STRAUSS - ST. LOUIS

Elmer Bragg Adams, member of the circuit court which rendered the decision against the Standard Oil company, has been practicing law more than forty years in the territory over which the court has jurisdiction. He was born in Vermont in 1842 and engaged in educational work in the south before studying law. Before his appointment to the circuit court bench Judge Adams was judge of the United States district court for the eastern district of Missouri.

BRIEFS

Radcliffe college closed Thursday for a ten days' Christmas vacation.

Harvard college closed Wednesday for the mid-winter recess and will reopen Monday, Jan. 3.

Relatives from New Hampshire are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Burrell of Beach street over the holidays.

The first of a series of monthly vesper services will be held in the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday afternoon, January, 2.

Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald of Bigelow street, with their infant twin daughters, will enjoy the Christmas season with Mrs. MacDonald's parents at Worcester.

An innovation in the shape of stationary boxes for voluntary contributions to go toward the running expenses has been placed in the pews of the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The one hundred and twenty-seventh annual concert of the Old Stoughton Musical Society, incorporated, will be held in Stetson hall, Saturday evening, Jan. 1. Preceding the concert there will be a reunion and banquet, followed by the annual election of officers.

BATTLESHIP FUND.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript says:

Exactly $42,430 476 will be spent on vessels of the navy now under construction during the fiscal years 1910 to 1913, inclusive, under the estimates submitted to Congress by the Navy Department. Of this amount, $30,732,563 will be for hulls and $11,697,913 for machinery. The total amount during the current fiscal year is estimated at $24,520,755; for 1911 it totals $13,375,220, for 1912 and 1913 it aggregates $4,534,501.

☞ A Five Dollar Prize is to be given to the newsboy selling the most Ledgers up to New Years. Some of the boys are nearing the 1,000 mark.

ENTHUSIASTIC REPORT OF COMMISSIONER CRANE

Good Prospects for Quincy and Brockton Canal Now Being Surveyed

President and Vice President Interested in Recent Rivers and Harbors Congress at Washington

The report of Frank Fessenden Crane to Mayor Shea on the recent Rivers and Harbors Congress at Washington is optimistic and encouraging. Quincy people need a little more of the enthusiasm of Mr. Crane. The Daily Ledger gives the report in full:

To His Honor the Mayor:

Dear Sir—The Rivers and Harbors Congress of 1909 was a most notable gathering of business men, over 6,000 attending. Forty-one states and two territories being represented.

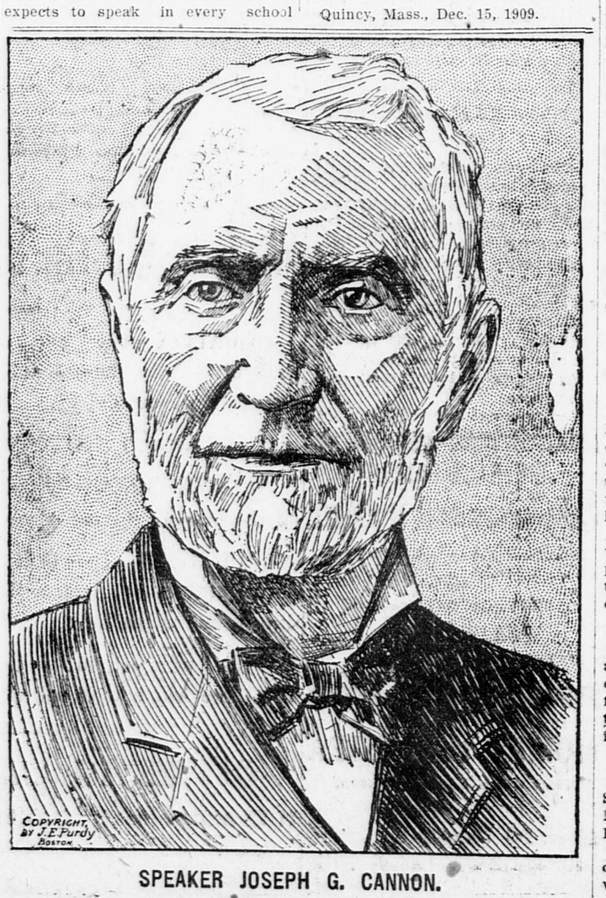
The movement for rivers and harbors improvement has grown from a small gathering in 1905 to a convention of such importance, that the President of the United States makes the opening address and the U. S. Congress adjourns for three days, that the members may attend and listen to the voices of the business men of the country.

I bring to the city of Quincy greetings from Congressman Joseph A. Ransdell, president of the Rivers and Harbors Congress, and compliments and congratulations to Mayor Shea on being one of the most progressive of Massachusetts Mayors, in recognizing the importance of concerted action in regard to obtaining appropriations for rivers and harbors. The other cities represented being Boston, Brockton, Haverhill and Springfield.

The State of Massachusetts was represented by George E. Smith, chairman of the Harbor and Public Land Commission and Perley Hall, chairman of the Railroad Commission, both of these gentlemen being appointed by the Governor to represent the State at the convention.

The Massachusetts delegation was organized with George E. Smith of Boston as chairman and the following officers to the Rivers and Harbors Congress were elected: Judge Loyed E. Chamberlain of Brockton for vice president; William H. Lincoln of Boston for director; Frank Fessenden Crane of Quincy for committee on resolutions; C. Henry Hathaway of Springfield committee on nominations. Perley Hall of Boston was elected to speak for the State. Mr. Hall made one of the brightest and most pertinent speeches of the convention and was most enthusiastically received.

Thomas Swithin's real estate office, and my own office, contributed five thousand circulars, a copy of which I enclose. Four thousand of these were distributed at the convention, and three hundred were given to a representative of the state of North Dakota, Mr. John Brugger of Williston, who is one of the committee that will give the silver service to the battleship built in our city. He tells me that he expects to speak in every school-house in North Dakota, and he wanted the circulars to give away in the schools.



I was one of the committee who presented a copy of the resolutions of the convention to the Speaker of the House, the Vice-President and the President. We were well received by each of these gentlemen and advised to get our government surveys first, and then if we had a good thing, we could fairly depend that Congress would give it proper consideration.

The general sentiment of the congress seemed to be that the President should appoint a commission to take charge of the rivers, harbors and canals, and then take up all of the projects that receive the recommendation and approbation of the U. S. engineers, and handle them in the same way that a man would his business, finishing the most needed first, but strictly maintaining a business policy of construction and completion, and the congress recommended an annual appropriation of not less than fifty million a year, instead of the average twenty million as heretofore.

Over sixty addresses were made, the most prominent speakers being President William H. Taft, Count J. H. VonBernstoff, the German ambassador; Albert Bettinger of Ohio, Frank B. Weeks Governor of Connecticut, Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, chairman of the National Waterways Commission; Frank Gates Allen of Illinois, J. Hampton Moore, M. C. of Pennsylvania, Governor John Burke of North Dakota, and John Small, M. C. of North Carolina.

With all due respect to the motto of the Rivers and Harbors Congress "a policy, and not a project," and also remembering President Taft's speech at Norfolk, in which he said "that all that the government requires is that there should be shown in an ordinary and reasonable way, and by evidence that will appeal to sensible men, that the money we are about to invest will certainly redound to thte general welfare, and not simply benefit the few people in whose neighborhood it is spent." I wish, through you Mr. Mayor, to remind the citizens of Quincy, that the U. S. government is at present surveying a route for a canal from Naragansett bay to Boston harbor, and that we as citizens of a live municipality on the line of this project, should use every means in our power to show to our congressmen and others that this project will benefit the whole Atlantic seaboard, by finishing the line of canals that now exist from Beaufort to Boston.

Very respectfully yours,
Frank Fessenden Crane.
Quincy, Mass., Dec. 15, 1909.

COPYRIGHT, BY J.E. PURDY BOSTON

SPEAKER JOSEPH G. CANNON.

SEPARATION IS EXPECTED

American Girl's Life With Japanese Husband Becomes Unbearable

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—That all is not happy in the wedded life of the daughter of Archdeacon Emery, who was Miss Helen G. Emery until she became Mrs. Gunjiro Aoki by an alliance with a Japanese houseboy, is the story that has come to the ears of her former friends in this city.

It is said that no separation has as yet taken place between the young mother and her Japanese husband, but the conditions of the life she chose when she went to live among the Japanese of the colony near Seattle have proved beyond her powers of endurance.

Archdeacon Emery has received a letter from Seattle that caused him to leave at once to go to his daughter, and it is believed that steps will shortly be taken to effect a separation, and that Mrs. Aoki will return to her father's home with her young baby.

She has confided to her father that the customs of her Japanese husband have made it impossible for her to longer endure the life with him.

XMAS DRAWING A FAILURE

Cuban Government Shy on Lottery Profits For This Month

Havana, Dec. 24.—The extraordinary Christmas drawing of the National lottery, from which the government expected to derive a profit of $900,000, proved a failure. The drawing took place yesterday. Only 18,000 of the 30,000 tickets were sold.

The capital prize was won by a club of eighteen bricklayers and masons, who are employed on a building now under construction in Havana. The drawing probably will show a considerable deficit on the government side.

LEAVE SHADOW OF DEATH CHAIR

Three Defendants on Murder Charges Are Free

Boston, Dec. 24.—Three happy Chinamen walked forth from the courthouse yesterday free men after over two years of incarceration in the Charles street jail.

Dong Bok Ling, Wong Duck and Wong How were three of the nine Chinamen who were once found guilty of murder in the first degree in connection with the death of several of their countrymen after a shooting affray on Aug. 2, 1907.

District Attorney Pelletier decided yesterday that it would be virtually impossible to obtain a conviction and ordered the cases placed on file.

Only one other of the nine Chinamen convicted was given his liberty and that was Yee Jung, an old man well over 60 years of age, whose case was nol prossed by the late John B. Moran.

Three others, Leong Gong, Min Sing and Hom Woon, have already paid the death penalty for the part they played in the sensational raid on Chinatown.

Warry Charles, who was claimed to be the brains of the conspiracy which instigated the shooting, and Joe Guey recently received executive clemency and were sent to the state prison for life.

DOCTOR MUST PAY $2500

Infant Died From the Use of a Drug Which He Prescribed

Boston, Dec. 24.—Dr. Charles H. Shackford of Chelsea is ordered by a superior court verdict to pay $2500 to George R. Sackett of the same city because the plaintiff's infant daughter died from the use of a drug which the doctor prescribed.

In February, 1905, Shackford was called to attend the child. He dictated a prescription to a drug clerk and the child died the day after taking this medicine. The contention was that there was too much opium in it.

Dr. Shackford offered in his defense that the drug clerk did not follow the prescription, which was said to be oral.

DATES ARE CANCELLED

Bryan Threatened With Pneumonia at Cousin's Home In Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 24.—William J. Bryan, who has been in this city several days as the guest of his cousin, ex-Governor Jennings, was too ill last night to deliver his scheduled address for the benefit of a local hospital.

Mr. Bryan is suffering from a severe cold and is threatened with pneumonia. He has cancelled all future dates and will remain here several days.

Mystery In Fatal Fire

Randolph, Mass., Dec. 24.—Michael Gray, aged 55, was burned to death as the result of an incendiary fire, which destroyed his home at this place. The police are investigating the circumstances of the blaze.

The Weather

Almanac, Saturday, Dec. 25.
Sun rises—7:12; sets—4:17.
Moon sets—5:52 a. m.
High water—9:45 a. m.; 10:30 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Partly cloudy; moderate to brisk northwest winds, becoming variable.

MUST PROTECT AMERICANS

State Department Serves Notice on Nicaraguan President

CONSUL GETS INSTRUCTIONS

To Report What Basis There Is For Apprehension Among Americans In Disaffected Region—Admiral Kimball Fails to Salute Commandant at Corinto—Estrada Has Practical Control of All the East Coast

Washington, Dec. 24.—Secretary Knox has given formal notice to President Madriz of Nicaragua that the United States government will hold him strictly accountable for the safety of American citizens in the western section of that country.

COPYRIGHT - 1909 BY HARRIS & EWING

PRESIDENT MADRIZ

Instructions to this effect were sent to the United States consul at Managua, with directions to immediately inform the Managuan authorities of the attitude of this government, and the consul was also directed to report what basis there was for apprehension among American residents in that part of the country, especially at Granada.

A telegram was received at the state department from Admiral Kimball, in command of the United States war vessels now in Corinto harbor, that the commandant of the port of Corinto called on the admiral on board his flagship, but that the commandant was not saluted. Admiral Kimball also noted the arrival in that harbor of the Mexican gunboat General Guerrero.

The state department is in something of a quandary as to what has become of the small army, approximating a thousand men, belonging to the government forces, which at last accounts held possession of Greytown. This section of the army was until recently commanded by General Toledo, who lately was reported as having arrived at Managua.

The report received from Captain Shipley of the Des Moines at Bluefields said that the defeat and surrender of the Zelayan forces at Rama disposes of practically all armed resistance to Estrada on the east coast.

Whether the Greytown contingent had previously joined the Zelayan forces at Rama is in doubt. If not, it is assumed that another engagement, at or near Greytown, may be expected before Estrada's army takes up its march for Managua.

STRIKERS' OFFER REJECTED

Five Thousand Granite Cutters Will Remain Idle In Consequence

Barre, Vt., Dec. 24.—Invitations to return to work will not be among the contents of the Christmas stockings of the 5000 granite cutters who have been idle for the past five weeks as a result of a strike and lockout at the quarries in Barre and Northfield.

The Barre Granite Manufacturers' association met yesterday and unanimously voted to reject the proposition agreed upon by committees representing the manufacturers and the strikers.

Thrifty Servant Accumulated $5000

Kansas City, Dec. 24.—In the trunk of Miss Margaret Sullivan, aged 65, who died after having worked as a servant in a hotel for twenty-seven years, more than $5000 was found. The woman was thought to be penniless.

Cattle Stolen From Stockyards

Boston, Dec. 24.—Livestock is being stolen from the Brighton stockyards. The loss in the past two months is said to amount to about $7500. A reward has been offered for the apprehension of the thieves.

Billings Is Reappointed

Washington, Dec. 24.—The reappointment of George B. Billings as commissioner of immigration at Boston was announced at the department of commerce and labor.

Willing to Hunt For South Pole

Washington, Dec. 24.—Commander Robert E. Peary made the definite statement that he would search for the South Pole if a proper expedition could be arranged.

HUB RANGES
HIGHEST GRADE. BEST MADE.

Durability; economy of fuel consumption and the best possible cooking service.
ONE-HALF TON OF COAL—FREE
To every purchaser of a HUB Range before Jan. 1, 1910
BERMAN TEA CO., 1625 Hancock St., QUINCY.

LLOYD'S OPERA GLASSES

Imported From Germany
ZEISS OPERA GLASSES
Black Morocco
$40.00.
LAZARD
$45.00.
Please send for Opera Glass Catalogue.
ANDREW J. LLOYD CO.
75 Summer St.
315 Washington St. 310 Boylston St.
Boston and
1252 Massachusetts Ave. Cambridge

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get
Good Coal
You Can Get
Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.
¶ It's your business and right to investigate.
SEARCHLIGHT US!
'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.
Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday, Dec. 20, | 5.00 | 5.30 |
| Tuesday, | 6.00 | 6.30 |
| Wednesday, | 7.00 | 7.30 |
| Thursday, | 8.00 | 8.30 |
| Friday, | 9.00 | 9.30 |
| Saturday, | 9.45 | 10.30 |
| Sunday, | 10.45 | 11.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Jealousy.

"Which do you love best, pussy or your doll?"

"Pussy, but don't let dollie hear."

BRIEFS

Mrs. William E. Rowe of Winthrop avenue has presented her resignation as president of the Wollaston Young People's Social society.

Combination No. 1 was called out at about 5.30 Thursday afternoon for a grass fire in the rear of the Nancy Brackett estate on Hancock street and at the same time to quench a blaze in the chimney of the house occupied by W. A. Bradford on Upland road.

Reports are coming to Wollaston of the excellent work being accomplished in Canada by Rev. Frank Wright Pratt, former pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church. As field secretary of the American Unitarian Association, and also of the British and Foreign Unitarian association for Canada, in less than a year he has established a church in Winnipeg and is now gathering a church in Calgary, the capital of Alberta.

HENRY A. JOHNSON.

Henry A. Johnson, well known in Braintree, Quincy and Boston, died in Boston on Thursday after an illness of one day, aged 84 years.

He was born in Fairhaven in 1825, his father having been a native of Norway. Mr. Johnson prepared for Harvard college at New Bedford, and after graduation went through Harvard law school. His classmates included Francis Parkman, the historian; William M. Hunt, the artist; Robert Codman, Benjamin Apthrop Gould, George S. Hale and Leverett Saltonstall. He belonged to several college societies.

Mr. Johnson was for many years a partner in the practice of law with Robert Codman. He was married in 1859 to Elizabeth Swift Hitch, whose father was a resident of Brazil. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson lived for several years in Jamaica Plain, later they lived in Braintree on their farm. His children are Laurence H. H. Johnson, Lesly A. Johnson and Reginald H. Johnson, all of Boston; Dr. Erik St. John Johnson of New Bedford; also two daughters, the Misses Elizabeth and Harriet E. Johnson.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA.

A very interesting meeting took place at the regular convocation of the A. I. O. Knights of Malta in Greenleaf hall last evening. The commandery was honored by the presence of many visiting Knights of the various commanderies of greater Boston. Last Monday night the Quincy Lodge visited Brockton to witness and participate in the workings of the third degree. During the evening the Brockton commandery was presented, for the benefit of the order, with a candelabra that was over 100 years old. The gift was very acceptable. A social evening followed and many new aquaintances were made never to be forgotten.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"

That is LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. Used the World over to Cure a Cold in One Day. 25c

BELGUIM WILL BENEFIT CONGO

All Promises to Be Fulfilled, Declares the New King

TAKES THE OATH OF OFFICE

Popular Plaudits of Many Thousand People as Albert the First Enters Brussels on Horseback After Journeying to Its Outskirts In a Coach—Fully Half a Million People Pay Tribute to the New Sovereign

Brussels, Dec. 24.—Albert I, King of the Belgians, in his speech from the throne just after he had taken the oath that made him king, promised reform in the Congo. The reform will bring an end to the barbarities that caused his predecessor, Leopold, to be hated throughout the world.

"Belgium's colonial policy is one of humanity and progress," said the king. "To a people inspired with the love of justice a mission of colonization can only be a mission of great civilization. Belgium has always fulfilled her promises, and when she undertook to apply to the Congo a policy worthy of the Belgians, no one had the right to doubt her word."

Brussels yesterday tore down the mourning draperies and flaunted the gayest of colors. For Leopold was buried, and the reign of Albert began. A good looking young man, handsome in the uniform of a lieutenant general, wearing the grand cordon of the Order of Leopold, stood before the representatives of his people and the rulers of the world.

He swore to uphold the law, the rights of his subjects and the national unity. By that rite, simple in itself, a king was made. The Count of Flanders had become Albert I, King of the Belgians.

Albert went from Laeken, where Leopold died, to Brussels, as had his uncle before him, forty-five years before. The queen preceded him with the crown prince in a coach and six. Albert followed part way in a coach, but made the entrance to the city mounted, as became a ruler.

The three miles from the palace without the city to the Porte Laeken, site of an ancient gate in the walls, carried the king and his entourage through the shaded Alle Verte, a double boulevard along the Scheldt canal. Before reaching the city limits Albert left the coach and mounted his horse.

At the porte he was greeted by the burgomaster. There was a moment of speechmaking; the king replied; the queen bowed. Then a detail of troops dashed down the street, clearing the way with much flashing of sabres and scabbards and helmets and the city was entered, to the rising cheer of thousands upon thousands of throats and the booming of salutes.

Long before dawn the city was astir and hours before the time set for the beginning of the ceremonies the streets were crowded, every window along the king's route was filled and fringes of humanity blackened the roofs. The crowds were reinforced by thousands who did not come to see the funeral of Leopold and it was estimated that fully 500,000 was the population of Brussels, normally 200,000. Solid rows of troops lined the streets through which the king passed.

The dignitaries and officials began early to crowd into the grand palace, the parliamentary chambers. The senate room was the scene of the investiture. There a regiment of royalty assembled. The picture was colorful, the bright robes of cardinals adding to the brilliancy of princes' uniforms.

GIVES BIRTH TO TRIPLETS

High-Bred Holstein Cow Believed to Have Established a Record

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 24.—Three fine healthy calves were born of April Denver, one of the prize cows owned by Fred S. Field of the Dutchland farm. So far as known the triplets set an unequalled record among high-bred cows.

The mother of the calves is a member of one of the finest Holstein herds in the country, and the sire is worth $12,000, also a member of the highest priced herd in the country, which is in Brockton.

Cruiser For Canada

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 24.—The third-class cruiser Apollo, of 3400 tons, has been purchased by Canada from Great Britain and is being made ready to proceed to Esquimault for use as a training ship and fishery protection cruiser in British Columbia waters.

Mills Going on Full Time

Augusta, Me., Dec. 24.—Beginning next Monday, the Augusta mills of the Edwards Manufacturing company, which have for the past two months been operated on a schedule of four days per week, will be started once more on full time.

Drunkards Not Liable For Rowdyism

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 24.—By decision of the court of common pleas here a drunken man who offers offensive and indecent language commits no offense, whereas a sober man uttering the same language is guilty of a misdemeanor.

OUR GREATEST FIGHTER

Battleship Utah Will Be More Powerful Than Delaware or North Dakota

Camden, N. J., Dec. 24.—Uncle Sam's biggest battleship, the Utah, was launched at the New York Shipbuilding company's yards here. Before a crowd of several thousand, Miss Mary A. Spry of Salt Lake, daughter of the governor of Utah, christened the vessel.

The Utah, more powerful when completed than the Delaware or the North Dakota, is the fifth fighting craft of the United States of all big gun type. She has a length of 510 feet on the load water line, the overall length being 521½ feet. Her beam is 88 1-6 feet and her draught 28½. Her displacement, 21,825 tons, is 2000 tons more than that of the Delaware or the North Dakota. She is expected to make 20¾ knots.

The armament will include ten 12-inch guns mounted on five turrets, each turret having 8 and 12-inch armor. She will also have sixteen 5-inch guns.

REMEMBERED HOME TOWN

Will of Rich New Yorker Provides For $155,000 For Hardwick

Hardwick, Mass., Dec. 24.—By the will of Calvin Paige, filed in New York, the sum of of $155,000 is left to the town of Hardwick for the purpose of improving the school property and the cemetery and promoting agriculture.

Paige left here in 1849 for California, where he was successful, and afterward engaged in business in New York. He visited here every summer until his death, which occurred at the age of 81. He has two nephews here.

The personal estate left by Paige is set by the will at $6,449,466.

PRISONERS HAD ROOM, NOT A CELL

Comforts of Home In Hub House of Correction

Boston, Dec. 24.—That former City Purchasing Agent Michael J. Mitchell and Contractor Maher had actually the comfort of private rooms while they were prisoners on Deer island was admitted by Penal Institutions Commissioner Skinner at the continuation of the inquiry which the finance commission is conducting.

Commissioner Skinner tried to explain away the comforts given the two men who had been convicted of grafting in connection with the flagstone contract by saying that Mitchell was sick and was kept in the hospital as a patient and that Maher had been employed there as an attendant.

Then from Skinner were wrung admissions concerning the records of a number of employes on Deer island. He admitted that one of the men employed there had been discharged from another department and that recently an attendant had been discharged because he had stolen a watch from a convict named Robinson.

Skinner and Herbert S. Carruth will be discharged from their office by an order of Mayor Hibbard as the result of the admissions that they made in regard to the conditions at Deer island.

EXPLOSION KILLS NINE MEN

Many Others May Have Been Trapped In Illinois Mine Disaster

Marion, Ills., Dec. 24.—Nine men are known to have been killed and a score or more are thought to be entombed as the result of an explosion in Squirrel Ridge mine No. 4, near Herrin.

Fears are expressed for the fate of other workers in the mine. So far as can be learned the explosion was confined to one entry. A hasty poll of the mine employes has accounted for nearly all of the members of the working force.

Over twenty-five men are said to have been at work in the entry where the accident occurred. It is not known whether the force of the explosion reached these workmen.

MARK TWAIN NOT "ALL IN"

Says He Would Not Think of Dying at His Time of Life

Redding, Conn., Dec. 24.—Mark Twain gave out the following statement as a result of various reports concerning his condition of health, following his recent return from Bermuda:

"I hear the newspapers say I am dying. The charge is not true. I would not do such a thing at my time of life. I am behaving as good as I can. Merry Christmas to everybody."

To Fight "Imported" Milk

Boston, Dec. 24.—It is reported that the milk producers of Massachusetts are organizing a movement to secure equalization of shipping rates on milk, and relief from unfair competition with uninspected milk shipped from other states. They are to seek relief through the legislature.

No Embassy to Vatican

Washington, Dec. 24.—Mgr. Falconio, papal delegate to the United States, is much annoyed at the current discussion of the probable establishment of an embassy from the United States to the Vatican. He declares that no such proposition has even been thought of.

GREAT LIGHT SWEEPS SKIES

Witnessed by Many People In Eastern Massachusetts

THOUGHT TO BE AN AIRSHIP

Sails So High In Air That View of Framework Cannot Be Discerned—Traced From Vicinity of Worcester to Boston—Tillinghast May Have Been Navigator, but He Is Non-Committal on That Point

Boston, Dec. 24.—Following the report from Worcester Wednesday night of the discovery above that city of a strange moving light, apparently the searchlight of a dirigible air craft, stories came from many points of the observance of similar lights last evening from villages east of Worcester, and even from Boston common.

People in Worcester, Lynn, Natick, Marlboro, South Framingham, Ashland, Grafton, North Grafton, Upton, Hopedale, Northboro and Willimantic, Conn., turned out in throngs to view a mysterious light in the heavens.

Many declared that the light had all the appearance of a strong searchlight, and while they could discover no framework behind it such as an aeroplane would have, they were positive that the light could not be that of a balloon, as it moved as if under control.

Meanwhile Wallace E. Tillinghast, the Worcester man who recently claimed to have invented a machine in which he had covered the distance between Worcester and New York and return, and who, it was thought, might have been the navigator of the supposed aircraft Wednesday night, remained noncommittal yesterday. In an interview he said:

"I was out of Worcester last night. Where I was is my own business. I was up in the air last night. It may be that I flew over the city, but that is my own business, too.

"When I said recently that I had flown from Boston to New York and returned I said nothing but what was true. I have an airship which will carry three or four passengers and will make the speed I claimed for it, that is, about 120 miles an hour.

"When I get ready I shall speak fully, and not until then."

While thousands of eyes in Worcester scanned the skies last night a mysterious light, which many believe to have come from a fire balloon, passed over the city to the southward. Thousands stood in the streets to watch the light.

As on Wednesday night, the light was first reported passing over Marlboro, about 6:45 o'clock. The light, which was at a height so great as to make impossible a view of its support, disappeared to the southwest in the direction of Westboro and Worcester.

It was traced from North Grafton, not far from Worcester, through Grafton, North Grafton, Hopedale and Milford, and then after being lost sight of reappeared in Natick about 7:30 o'clock, going in the direction of Boston. Observers are positive that it was a searchlight. At 7:45 it was seen from Boston common, according to a number of observers. It was also seen at Lynn.

At Northboro and Ashland, early in the evening, the population turned out to watch the light pass overhead.

Observers at several points report that while the light was generally steady, occasionally it flashed and once or twice disappeared suddenly.

EXPLORERS ARE SAFE

Fears Were Entertained That They Had Been Killed by Indians

Nogales, Ariz., Dec. 24.—Several of a party of Americans who passed through here two months ago to explore Tiburon island, in the Gulf of California, for hidden treasure and mineral deposits, have arrived here on their way home.

For weeks it had been feared that they had been lost or killed by the cannibal Seri Indians. They reported that they met with no accidents, but were mute as to the result of their search. Their comrades will return in a day or so.

TELL-TALE FINGER PRINTS

They Lead to Identification of Prisoner Under Arrest For Burglary

Portland, Me., Dec. 24.—Finger prints identified a prisoner known as Frank Murray and charged with burglary and assault in Old Town, as Frank Rowan, who in December, 1901, was sentenced in New York to ten years on two burglary convictions.

Rowan is charged with robbing the Hartland postoffice and with assault on City Marshal Fernandez of Old Town.

"Friar Lands" May Be Sold

Washington, Dec. 24.—Attorney General Wickersham has rendered an opinion for the war department to the effect that the Philippine government has the power to sell the "Friar lands" in the Philippines in any number of acres desirable.

England to Hold January Election

London, Dec. 24.—It is officially announced that the writs for the general election will be issued Jan. 10.

PEARY'S POLAR PROOFS

American Scientists Resent Suggestion to Send Them to Copenhagen

Washington, Dec. 24.—Rear Admiral Schley's demand that Commander Peary submit his polar data to the consistory of the university of Copenhagen for verification, following that body's repudiation of Dr. Cook, has raised a storm among the membership of the National Geographical society, which gave Peary a clean bill of health.

The leading members claim that the scientists of the United States would be demeaning themselves if they acknowledged that their findings needed verification. There seems to be no disposition to withhold from the Copenhagen board the data filed by Peary, but there is a well defined opposition against turning it over to the Danish scientists for official action.

WORLD'S RICHEST WOMAN

Fortune of Harriman's Widow Is Now Placed at $220,000,000

New York, Dec. 24.—Edward H. Harriman was really worth at the time of his death over $200,000,000, although a recent appraisal of his estate placed its value at $149,000,000.

The discrepancy between the actual and the appraised value of the Harriman estate, it is learned on trustworthy authority, is due to the fact that shortly before his death Harriman transferred to his wife and his oldest son securities valued at over $50,000,000.

Since Harriman's death his estate has profited by a rise in the market values, and it is stated that the wealth of Mrs. Harriman may be conservatively estimated at $220,000,000, which would make her probably the richest woman in the world.

NATIONAL PURSE FLATTENED OUT

Panama Bond Issue Planned to Replenish Treasury

Washington, Dec. 24.—No decision has been reached by the treasury department in the delicate questions involved over the proposed issue of Panama bonds to replenish the cash in the treasury. It can be asserted positively that the government will be forced to raise money before long, not because of unhealthy conditions, but because it has advanced too much money from its coffers to aid in building the Panama canal, instead of issuing bonds to cover all the costs of construction, as was, originally contemplated.

The decision hangs on the determination of Secretary MacVeagh to issue 3 percents, if he can induce congress to increase the circulation tax sufficiently to protect the $4,000,000 of Panama 2 percents already outstanding. This, of course, means the introduced into congress at this session of the whole currency question, as some financiers here believe, and the leaders are hesitant to adopt such an alternative if it can be avoided.

MISTAKE DELAYS RESCUE

Aged Woman Suffocates In Fire With Aid Close at Hand

Somerville Mass., Dec. 24.—Mrs. Elizabeth Kenny, aged 68, a widow, was suffocated during the progress of a fire that caused a damage of about $1200 in her residence at 31 Burnside avenue, last evening.

The body of the aged woman was found lying in the hallway of the second floor, in apartments occupied by her son-in-law.

The firemen on arrival were told that no one was in the burning house, and felt very much grieved over the death of Mrs. Kenney, as they felt she would have been saved had they been aware of her presence and instituted search when they arrived.

The second story of the house, a two and one-half story structure, was badly gutted.

ON SECRET MISSION?

Maid to Queen of Italy Said to Have Arrived at New York

New York, Dec. 24.—A young Italian woman who registered as Constance Gounet and who, it was whispered among passengers aboard the ship, is maid to Queen Helena of Italy, arrived last night on the steamer Prinzess Irene from Genoa.

It is understood that a representative of the Italian embassy at Washington was here to meet her, but it is not known for what purpose she is here.

Bulls Boost Price of Cotton

New York, Dec. 24.—The bullish enthusiasm which has attended the cotton market in its recent advances realized for the first time in five years 16 cents a pound on the New York exchange. This figure is just double the price of cotton early in the year.

Liquor Stolen From Jail

Galena, Kan., Dec. 24.—A wagon load of liquors seized in a raid on the club rooms of the Fraternal Order of Eagles was stolen from the city jail by unknown persons. The liquor had been locked up and was to have been used as evidence.

Kansas Bank Robbed

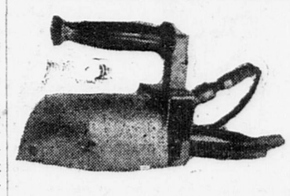
Kansas City, Kas., Dec. 24.—The State bank of Centreville was entered by robbers. They secured $1500.



AQUAS READY ROOFING GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST

SANBORN & DAMON QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

WHEN IN WANT OF GOOD

Plants and Flowers

for XMAS GIFTS call up

WM. PATTERSON

HE HAS THEM

Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias at Reasonable Prices.

92 South Central Ave., Wollaston

Tel. 392-1 Quincy. Dec. 20-tf

Until New Years USE THE RedCross Stamps

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references. Wideawake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell Patents, What inventions will pay, How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.

50! Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

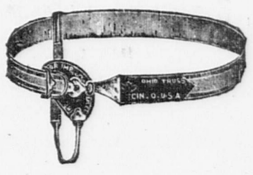
Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood. Gas and Water.

Four valuable houses built on property

Apply at 45 Elm Street.

Quincy, Dec. 3



Only One Cent Means Help for the Tuberculosis Camp

Have Your Clothes Washed by the NEW SYSTEM

WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.

Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.

Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

TRUSSES Fitted.

CRUTCHES In All Sizes.

Athletic Supporters For Gymnasium Work

Abdominal Supporters

Elastic Stockings

The Rexall Store

Edward J. Murphy THE ORIGINAL LOW PRICED DRUGGIST

1415 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

Dec. 14—1m.

YOUR CHRISTMAS DINNER

Will not be complete without having some of OUR FAMOUS

MINCE or SQUASH PIES

on the table. We guarantee absolute purity and cleanliness We use no substitutes or adulterations.

Just Like Mother Used to Make.

BARNARD'S PURE FOOD BAKERY

1587 Hancock Street, Quincy. Dec. 18-6t

Only a Few Days Left TO BUY YOUR

Christmas Presents

We Have Something for Father, Mother, Sister and Brother.

We have a Complete assortment of Carving Knives and Forks, Skates, Sleds, Jack Knives, Safety Razors, Razor Strops, Punching Bags, Foot Balls, Family Scales, Daisy Air Rifles, Flash Lights and Batteries, Electrical Toys for Children.

NATHAN AMES,

5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass

Dec. 21 tf

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

German women are known the world over as good housekeepers but the government is evidently not going to take any chances in the future against their reputation falling off any. The German Evangelical Woman's League has started a campaign to compel all German girls to undergo a period of training in domestic culture same as the men do in the army.

Civics seem to be one of the prominent factors in the growth of every community. Springfield, one of New England's finest cities is planning for a beautiful civic centre that will involve thousands of dollars. Quincy has the making of an unusually good civic centre if well carried out but it is time to start now to plan for future needs.

New York has solved its playground problem, as it has been decided to build a concrete building with different floors arranged for the children of various ages. There will be five floors open at the sides to reproduce outdoor conditions. It would seem to be a very good solution of the difficulty for New York where land is scarce and high priced.

A sad note in the Christmas joy is the death by starvation of a man and his wife in a near by city. Surrounded by the homes of the rich, and not a stone's throw from food and luxury, they were unable to keep the wolf from the door and died leaving a little half-witted girl to cope with the world. Perhaps they were to blame perhaps not. Such an occurrence sends a shudder through us all and is a reminder that greed and selfishness are by no means dead or sleeping.

Advocates of prohibition for the Hawaiian Islands have informed members of Congress that for forty cents a gallon of "Dago Red" may be bought in Honolulu. This will keep two families of Hawaiians drunk for two days. The Washington dispatches do not report whether the advocates of the proposed legislation left any samples of this insiduous concoction with the congressional committee. If they did it would be worth forty cents to test a gallon of the "stuff" on some Congressman who seem to regard the Senate and House as a place where today speeches can be made.

The advent of weather which is more like the old fashioned New England brand has filled with joy the hearts of the small boys to say nothing of the householder and the ice dealer. The accumulated tons of ice in the store houses have long since become exhausted and should there not be an abundant harvest this year the problem of keeping food and drink next summer will become a serious one. In the south, ice-making plants are an established and indispensable thing. A genius has recently come forward with a scheme whereby he claims to be able to manufacture ice for a few cents a ton and still make a good living for himself. Perhaps in the future the consumers of frozen water may be able to have their own individual machines for making liquid air or other undreamed of means for preserving the perishable necessities of life but in the meantime the scheme of the aforesaid genius looks good to us.

As the clocks throughout the land peal forth the hour of midnight our old friend, Santa Claus, will swing his bag over his back, hop into his sleigh and start forth on his annual trip to make the multitude happy.

But stop, there are some he must skip. It may not be intentional or an oversight, perhaps his gifts will run short, for we all know presents come few where the support of the family is out of work.

We take this occasion to ask if you are going to make any one happy tomorrow? If not, just think of the agony the poor parents must endure to see their loved ones, on Christmas morning rush to an empty stocking. And yet, a chance is offered whereby you can observe the golden rule and cheer up these less fortunate ones.

Right here in our midst there are poor families that need help. You may not have time to find out where they are but there are those who do have the time, who know where they are, these are the Salvation Army workers. These hard workers are at this instant out in the cold soliciting our mites for the poor. Tonight go to one of these and drop a coin into their box; it will make you feel at peace with the world. That is the true Christmas spirit. In conclusion we will add, "A friend in need is a friend indeed.

President Taft's words of warning to supervisors of the census that they must not be governed by political considerations in selecting their enumerators is most timely. "You have got to select the men that you think will do the work, and if you catch them doing political work I wish you to remove them just as I will remove you if I catch you doing political work," said Mr. Taft. In other words, the President has determined that this purely business proposition shall be handled in a business way.

There is no work over which the government has supervision that ought to be done with more thoroughness than the taking of the census. It is the means by which we measure our progress and if it is inaccurate it is worse than useless. The statistics which are to be collected next April will form the groundwork of most of the legislative reforms of the next ten years. They will determine the apportionment of the Congressional districts of the states and will be basis on which new states will be admitted into the Federal Union.

The importance of an accurate inventory at stated periods is appreciated by every merchant and manufacturer. This inventory cannot be made by men who are incompetent and no successful business man would think of letting his best political friend dictate to him the men he should employ for his "stock taking." The framers of the Constitution wisely provided that at every decennial period in our history we should make an investigation of our people, their affairs and their resources.

The thirteenth decennial inventory of this character will cost the government about $15,000,000. Every prudent business man will commend Mr. Taft's effort to have this great sum expended in the most painstaking manner with a view to getting at the real facts. These facts cannot be ascertained by men who have nothing except political influence to recommend them. The census supervisors may owe their appointments to their members of Congress, but their first duty is to the government and it will be well for them to keep in mind Mr. Taft's admonition. "I take great pride in this census," he said. "I believe we can make it the best census that has been taken, if we take it as a census and do not use it and regard it as incidental to something else."

—When an express company declares a profit of 58 per cent, and is shown to have accumulated a surplus of twenty-eight millions of dollars on a capital of eight millions, the conclusion is inevitable that the public has been overcharged, and it is high time Congress took a hand in the game.—Athol Chronicle.

Why Cough

Ask your doctor if all coughs are necessary. If not, then why cough? Ask him about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Stop coughing! Coughing rasps and tears. Stop it! Coughing prepares the throat and lungs for more trouble. Stop it! There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. Stop it! Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a regular doctor's medicine for coughs and colds.

TWENTY-YEAR LIMIT

Street Railway Objects to the Weymouth Grant

In its efforts to extend its freight and express business the Old Colony Street Railway Company has reached Weymouth. There says the Boston Transcript, it encounters a spirit of independence, among the selectmen which checks progress in its acquisition of privileges and raises the question of home rule. The matter is now before the Board of Railroad Commissioners and had its second hearing Tuesday, taking the form of an informal conference.

Already the street railway company has secured freight franchises in twenty-six towns and cities, and is operating in twenty-two of them, and it has secured a franchise in Weymouth also, but with a limitation. The Weymouth selectmen, who have a conservative majority, standing between the radical element and the corporations had granted a franchise (for twenty years, giving everything that the company wanted except in the matter of time. The company wanted a charter without a time limit, such as it has secured from the other towns and cities, and declines to accept the kind of a charter which the Weymouth authorities offer. It is now up to the Railroad Commission to say whether the selectmen are within their rights in placing a time limit on the charter. There was a lively discussion on that point before the Commission.

Town Solicitor Worthen appeared for the town, and with him were several members of the board of selectmen. The position taken by the town is that twenty years is a long enough term, since it is fair to assume that if during that period the company performs the service faithfully it will experience no difficulty in securing a renewal of the charter and the question of a renewal will come before the authorities automatically in 1929. Without the limit there is nothing to bring the question up again, except the initiative of the individual.

It is argued that many changes will take place in twenty years. Next year the town will come into the Boston Postal District, and before 1929 it will be a part of Boston or will be an independent city, with new conditions that are sure to call for new regulations fo the street railway company.

Chairman Hall of the Commission told the selectmen that they have the right under the statutes to change the regulations at any time, and he doubted that the Commission has the right under the laws to approve a franchise with a time limit. If the Weymouth charter must stand it would mean that a town could grant or withhold franchise privileges to street railways independent of the State authorities, which is what the Weymouth people want. Commissioner Hall argued, without deciding the case, that the Legislature gives the Railroad Commission the right to pass upon such questions. The contention in Weymouth is that the local men are better qualified to judge the situation than the State officials who sit in Boston and take a general view over the whole field.

THE ELKS CHRISTMAS.

Many needy families of Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Hingham will have reason to offer up thanks because of the existence of Quincy lodge of Elks, for today they are carrying out their usual custom of distributing Christmas baskets among the worthy families. Quincy lodge has members in all of these towns, and as the members personally contribute to the fund for Christmas baskets, in addition to the fund appropriated by the lodge, the good cheer is carried to the poor families of the different towns.

The distribution of these baskets is in the hands of an efficient committee composed of George W. Nightingale, Robert J. Williams, Morris H. Gatcomb, George A. Jordan, William Callahan, Thomas P. Moran, H. H. Mosely, John Ross, Leo J. McMaster, and it is estimated that several hundred baskets will be distributed today.

—If it is going to be possible within a few weeks to carry on a telephonic conversation between New York and Paris—and the thing seems quite likely—then the problem that must be solved is whether it would be cheaper for a New York man to pay the toll or to take an ocean liner and run over to Paris to do his talking.—C. S. Monitor.

SUNDAY SERVICES

FIRST SUNDAY AFTER CHRISTMAS

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH (Unitarian)—Rev. E. C. Butler, Russell Park, pastor; Rev. C. B. Ames, 86 Greenleaf street assistant pastor Morning service at 10.30 sermon by Rev. C. B. Ames. Sunday school at 11.50 A. M. Charles H. Johnson supt Hancock street.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH Junction Hancock and Chestnut streets—Rev E. N. Hardy, Ph. D. pastor. Morning service at 10.30. Special Christmas music and sermon. Bible school at 12 M. Norwegian service at 4 P. M. Bible School Christmas concert at 6 P. M. Union Endeavor meeting at 7.30 P. M.

CHRIST CHURCH, EPISCOPAL—Quincy, Corner Elm street and Quincy avenue. Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector. Christmas Day Service. Holy Communion 8 A. M. Holy Communion and Sermon 10.30 A. M. Sunday Holy Communion at 8 A. M. Morning prayer and sermon 10.30. Evening prayer and sermon by Prof. Rhinelander 7 P. M.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST CHURCH, Washington Street. Rev. Clark L. Paddock, pastor. Sunday School Concert at 10.30. Y. P. C. U. at 6 P. M. Subject, Praise and Thanksgiving service of the Blessings of the Year.

WASHINGTON STREET CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood, pastor. Residence 10 Farnum street. Morning worship at 10.40. Preaching by pastor. Topic: "Pastoral Reminisences." Christmas music by the choir. Sunday School at 12. Deacon Charles Sherburne Supt. Christmas Concert by the Sunday School at 7. Friday evening 7.30. Fellowship service. All seats free. We have a place for all and a welcome for all.

ST. PAUL'S SWEDISH M. E. CHURCH Fort Street Carl E. Rydstrom, pastor. Residence 272 Whitwell street. Christmas day. Morning service at 5.30 A. M. preaching by the pastor. Subject "His name is wonderful." Singing by mixed chorus and solo by Miss Olga Ohlson. A Christmas festival under auspices of the Sunday school will be held at 7 P. M. The children will deliver the program under the leadership of the Sunday school superintendent Wm. Gelotte. Sunday 26. Morning and evening service at regular time preaching by the pastor. All are welcome to all these meetings.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH, — Franklin street—Rev. R. J. Davis, pastor, residence 206 Franklin street. Preaching service at 10.30 A M. Theme: "God's Gift to Men, Its Effect." Sunday School at 11.45. A. M. B. Y. P. U. at 6 P. M. Praise and preaching service at 7 P. M. Theme, "A Present Deliverer." Bible study class, Tuesday evening at 7.30 at the home of the pastor 206 Franklin street. Prayer and Conference service Thursday at 7.30 P. M. These services are free to all. "Come thou with us and we will do thee good."

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH—West Quincy. Rev. Carl H. Raupach pastor, Morning Worship at 10.30. Special Christmas music by the choir. Sermon appropriate for Christmas by the pastor. Baptismal service. Sunday School at 11.45. Junior League at 3 P. M. Epworth League will be omitted. Christmas concert at 7 P. M. by the Sunday school. Prayer meeting will be omitted.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST CHURCH—Rev. Joseph Walther, pastor. Residence 81 Prospect avenue. Tel 311-4 Morning worship at 10.45. Sermon by the pastor. Subject "Jesus Christ the Wonderful." Sunday School and women's class in chapel, men's class in the church at 12.15. Christmas concert at 4 P. M. in the auditorium. The children of the Primary Department will take part and the pastor will give an illustrated talk on "Candles". Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 5.30 in the chapel. No Evening service. Seats free at all services, everyone cordially invited to attend.

WOLLASTON M. E. CHURCH—Corner Beale and Safford streets. Rev. Wesley Wiggin, pastor. Residence 52 Brook street, Telephone Quincy 378-2. Sermon at 10.45 A M. by A Deaconess from Boston will present a deaconess Cause. Sunday School 12 M. Junior League at 4 P. M. led by Miss Rena Chamberlin. Epworth League service 6 P. M. Subject "The coming of the Redeemer." Matt. 2 1-2, Num. 24 17, Jer. 23 5, Isa. 59 19-20. Sermon by the pastor, 7 P. M. subject Lessons of the past year. Tuesday 7.45 P. M. Class meeting in the vestry. Wednesday 7 P. M. Bible study class will meet with Mrs. Ethel Smith 9 Prospect avenue. Friday 8.30 P. M. Watch-night service. Everybody welcome to any or all of these services.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH Hancock street, Wollaston—Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg, rector. Holy Communion at 8 A. M. Morning prayer, Holy Communion and sermon at 10.30. Subject, "The birth of a soul." Children's Festival at 4 P. M. Evening prayer and address. Subject, "The temptation of Christ."

PARK AND DOWNS CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Rev. Edward Norton, acting pastor. Morning service at 10.45. Theme "The Ineffaceable Record." Sunday school at 12.15 P. M. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6 P. M. Evening service at 7. Theme "The spending of our years." Lecture preparatory to communion Friday evening 7.45. A welcome to all.

MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Atlantic. Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor. Morning service at 10.45 Sermon by pastor. Subject, "The Significance of Christmas." Christmas music by chorus. Sunday School at 12. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6. Evening service at 7 o'clock. Subject of Sermon, "The Wise Men." Music by Chorus. Everybody welcome.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST Braintree, Post Office Block. Morning service and Sunday School at 10.45. Subject: Christian Science Golden Text: "Behold upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings that publisheth peace." Nahum 1-15. Wednesday 7.45 P. M. a testimony and experience meeting. Reading room open every week day from 4 to 5 P. M. and Tuesday evening. All are welcome.

Makaria
Fraternity
SUNDAY 12 TO 1—SHARP
Bethany Church, City Square

If YOU are a young man, and not associated with any other Quincy church, YOU are most cordially invited to come to our meeting.

A warm welcome—Hearty singing—A helpful hour together.

When Nothing Tastes Good

When your tongue becomes deeply furred, your taste blunted and your appetite so impaired that nothing tastes good, look out for trouble.

Loss of appetite when persistent is always a serious matter. It goes hand-in-hand with decreased digestive powers, and when food is not properly digested and absorbed the body suffers a gradual loss in health and strength.

Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation and other disorders of the bowels and stomach are mostly responsible for deficient appetite and it is only by putting the digestive organs in good condition that appetite can be restored.

Beecham's Pills

are wonderfully helpful in all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. They act gently upon the intestinal canal, stimulate the liver, remove digestive poisons, overcome depression and irritability of temper, and make you strong and well.

By their stimulating action on the entire digestive tract, Beecham's Pills increase the digestive juices, remove the bitter taste from the mouth, cleanse the tongue, arouse the nerves of taste and

Bring Back the Appetite

In boxes with full directions, 10c. and 25c.

EAST BRAINTREE.

The Christmas concert of the Sunday school of the Union Congregational church will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. In the morning there is to be a Christmas sermon and special music.

At the Universalist church, Weymouth Sunday morning there is to be a special musical program which will include two violin solos by William H. Baldwin. Rev. Mr. Payson of Gilford, Maine, will preach.

While skating on factory pond one day this week Miss Catherine Taylor of Thayer street was run into by another skater receiving a bad cut on the ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Emerson of Bellevue road announce the engagement of their daughter Jennie Foster to Mr. Albert Elliott Burnham of Central Falls, Rhode Island.

Mrs. Terrence Starr of Elliot street is on a visit to friends in Fall River.

Matt Hennessey who enlisted in the navy a short time ago and was assigned to the United States Revenue cutter Androscroggin has been in town this week on a visit to his parents.

The F. R. Smiths of Hayward street are at Greyton Chambers, Back Bay, Boston, until spring.

Miss Florence Ogden formerly of this place and daughter of Mrs. Edward Avery died at Westboro this week.

Miss Susie Avery a student at the State Normal Art school is home for the Christmas vacation.

Rev. R. L. Roberts of the Methodist church preached at the Baptist church, Weymouth Sunday in exchange with the pastor.

Mrs. John H. Guy entertained the Elmwood whist club at her home on Lisle street last Friday afternoon. A lunch and a Christmas tree followed the whist.

James Johnson the veteran gateman at the Quincy avenue crossing of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. is confined to his home on Allen street by illness.

Yesterday afternoon at the Union Congregational church Christmas festivities were held for the kindergarten department of the Sunday school and the younger children from 2 to 4 o'clock. Last evening the celebration for the other members and their friends was held.

A large possum has been on exhibition at the store of Louis F. Bates. The animal was sent to Joseph Severance by some friends in Alabama. Mr. Severance is travelling salesman for Winch Bros., Boston, and while on a trip south mentioned to some of his friends that he would like a possum for his Christmas dinner and a few days ago the animal arrived by express.

A telegram has been received by Wesley Stackhouse from his brother Herbert Stackhouse announcing the death of the latter's daughter Helen. Mrs. Stackhouse and daughter sailed from New York for Jacksonville, Florida Sunday where they were to join Mr. Stackhouse. The little girl was taken ill with sea sickness which resulted in her death. She was a remarkably bright little miss of seven years and had attended the Jonas Perkins school.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Hilliard of Middle street will entertain on Christmas Albert E. Kingsbury and family of Wollaston.

Mrs. A. B. Fairn of Albany, N. S., who has been visiting her sister Mrs. R. E. Spinney for the last four or five weeks returned home Friday.

Emmanuel Episcopal church will observe Christmas at its regular hour Sunday, with a full choral service. Special music has been prepared. The regular choir will be assisted by the choir of Christ church, Quincy.

Prof. Luther Hawley of the High school will enjoy the holidays at his home in Brattleboro, Vt.

Mrs. Herman E. Roberts of Monatiquot avenue is confined to the house with a very heavy cold.

Quincy reservoir has been the mecca for skaters this week. Day and evening the ice has been thronged with a merry crowd.

The teachers will spend the vacation as follows: Mr. Shaw in Braintree, Mr. Woodbury in Auburn, Me., Mr. Hawley in Bratteboro, Vt., Miss Sahr in Jamacia Plain, Miss Stacy and Miss McLean in Somerville, Miss Hilteen in Quincy, and Miss Prouty in Brookfield.

Rev. Thomas P. Drumm, who is to preach at All Souls church Sunday morning at 10.30 is in the senior class of the Presbyterian Theological college in Montreal and contemplates entering the ministry of the Unitarian church.

A quiet family wedding took place at the home of George H. Rowell 6 Sherbrook avenue last Wednesday evening when George J. Moores was united in marriage to Miss Minnie J. Warbuck. The Rev. Thomas Simms performed the ceremony. After a short wedding trip the newly married couple will reside in Newfoundland the birthplace of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Roberts entertained the Neighborhood bridge club at their residence on Monatiquot avenue Monday evening. Extremely appetizing refreshments were served. Souvenirs were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain for obtaining the highest scores. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Burnham on Oak street, Jan. 3.

SOUTH BRAINTREE.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner of London, Eng. who have been making their home in Rosedale, moved Saturday to their new home in Charlestown.

The many friends of Mrs. Adoniram Dyer of Hancock street will be interested to learn that she is steadily improving in health and strength.

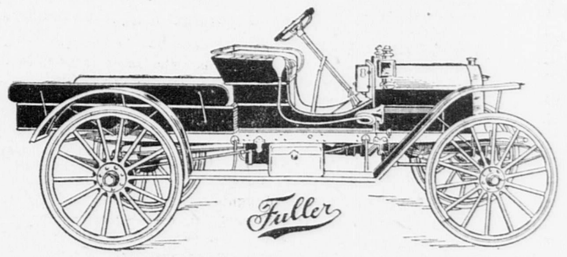
George T. Dee of Hancock street is building a house on Hobart avenue which he will occupy with his family. George H. Holbrook has the contract for building.

Mrs. M. A. Smith returned to her home on Pond street, Monday, after spending several weeks with relatives in Vermont and New Hampshire.

Irwin Smiley, who is associated with Ballou the jeweller of Brighton, is spending the holiday week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Smiley of Fountain street. His many friends are glad to greet him.

Mr. and Mrs. William Parker have returned from a prolonged visit with friends in Wilton, New Hampshire. Mr. Parker is now associated with G. H. Wetherbee, the well known civil engineer.

Harry A. Simonds of Franklin street has placed a life line on his boat house situated on the borders of Sunset lake. Skaters had better spread the news in case of an accident.



Thursday afternoon the public schools closed for an eight days' vacation. This will enable many of the teachers to spend Christmas with their own families.

Louis Howland of Central street who has been spending some weeks in Damariscotta, Maine, has returned home for the Christmas season. His many friends will be glad to learn that his health is much improved.

Capt. John Kelley of Hose Co. No. 2 has been busy fighting fires this week. Monday afternoon he and his men were called on to put out a fire on the meadows off Granite street and Wednesday afternoon another one on the meadows back of Marston's Poultry Farm.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

A GOOD CAR

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

YOUR LAST CHANGE

Buy Useful Christmas Gifts
— OF —
F. D. Fellows Co.

| | |
|---|---|
| Initial Handkerchiefs | 10c to 50c |
| Chritmas Neckwear in Boxes | 25c, 50c $1.00 |
| Fancy Arm Bands in Boxes | 25c, 50c $1.00 |
| Fancy Suspenders in boxes | 25c to $1.50 |
| Kid Gloves | $1.15, $1.50 |
| Mocha Gloves Silk Lined | $1.50 |
| Mocha Gloves Fleece Lined | $1.00 |
| Fur Lined Gloves | $2.50 to $5.00 |
| Umbrellas both Ladies' and Men's | 98c to $5.00 |
| Children's School Umbrellas | 50c |
| Fur Band Caps | $2.00 to $2.50 |
| Fur Caps | $2.00, $2.50, $3.50, $4.00 |
| Cuff Links | 25c to $2.50 |
| Scarf Pins | 25c to $2.00 |
| Mufflers | 50c to $2.00 |
| Coat Sweaters | 98c to $6.00 |
| Fancy Vests | $1.25 to $2.50 |

Remember The Place
F. D. Fellows Co.
"The Reliable Store"
1387 Hancock St., Quincy

Buy Useful Gifts for the Boys
— OF —
F. D. Fellows Co.

| | |
|---|---|
| Skating Caps | 50c |
| Cloth Caps | 25c, 50c, 98c |
| Blouses | 50c and 75c |
| Knee Pants | 50c to $1.50 |
| Neckwear | 10c and 25c |
| Underwear | 25c, 39c, 48c |
| Shirts | 48c |
| Suits | $2.50 to $6.00 |
| Overcoats | $2.00 to $6.00 |
| Umbrellas | 50c |
| Hose | 15c and 25c |
| Gloves | 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00 |
| Mittens | 15c, 25c, 50c |
| Sweaters | 98c, $1.19, $1.50 |
| Silk Initial Handkerchiefs | 25c |
| Cuff Links | 25c and 50c |
| Suit Cases | $1.50 |

Remember The Place
F. D. Fellows Co.
"The Reliable Store"
1387 Hancock St., Quincy
Dec. 22-3t

Are You Puzzled About What to Give?

If you are, let us help you decide. Our cases gleam with beautiful presents We shall gladly make suggestions to you and allow you a careful inspection of any articles we have. A giver is judged by his gifts so it is necessary that you buy the best. To be sure of getting the best, select a store that has a reputation of handling only the best. That is where we help you.

DIAMONDS

We buy and sell below regular marked value. To be convinced come and look them over.

WATCHES. We carry all grades. Our guarantee is a bond that cam ot be broken as we are here to make good.

JEWELRY. The high grade we carry in stock is warranted to give satisfaction in every way and returnable if not so.

SILVERWARE. In Sterling Silver we carry a full line of Table Flat ware. In plated goods—Rogers 1847, and Rogers & Bros. Star Brand and also other makes.

In Tea Sets and other hollow ware our leading makers are Fairpoint, F. B. Rogers and Pool Silver Co. A big stock of Berry Dishes, Nut Bowls, Chocolate Pots, etc.

In Brassware we have Candle Sticks, Jardineres, Smoking Sets and Tea Sets at the lowest prices.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

For Ladies. Toilet Sets, Manicure, Puff Boxes, Jewel Cases, Photo Frames, Nail Files, Bracelets, Lockets, Chains, Brooches, Hat Pins, Buckles.

For Men. Smoking Sets, Shaving Mugs, Ink Stands, Military Brushes, Clothes Brushes, Fountain Pens, Gold Pencils, Cuff Links, Scarf Pins, Emblem Pins, Watch Chains, Fobs.

ALL HAND ENGRAVING FREE. OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK
Sandberg Bros.
JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED D.F.C. CO.

Special Attention Is Called to Our Xmas

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED D.F.C. CO.

Cut Glass
Sun-bonnet Baby China
Pickard Famous Hand-Painted China

Any of the above make very appropriate gifts, Pickard China is perhaps the ideal present for it has been on the market for over sixteen years and the makers, anually, receive hundreds of unsought expressions of appreciation.

We also suggest you call and view our regular goods including:

JEWELRY, WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, POCKET BOOKS, PURSES, ETC.
In Fact Everything in the Jewelry line.
OUR OPTICAL GOODS ARE THE LEADERS OF QUINCY
Examination and Prescriptions
CALL AND INSPECT
C. F. PETTENGILL
1391 HANCOCK STREET, QUINCY

WATCHES FOR CHRISTMAS

It is impossible to find a more acceptable gift than a Waltham or Elgin Watch. They last a lifetime, are useful as well as ornamental and the giver is held in high esteem by the receiver. We also sell the Ingersoll—Trenton, a watch that is fast finding its way into the pockets of particular men. Before you buy anything in the Jewely line, call at our store. It will pay you to see us and please us to see you.

WILLIAMS The Jeweler
1473 Hancock Street, QUINCY

We Show Superior Values in Wearing Apparel and Xmas Gifts

Our prices mean to you a substantial money saving. Nothing is more appropriate as Xmas gifts for father, mother, brother, sister, son or daughter, lady or gentleman friend, than sensible useful articles of wear, that carry with them through the coming year the memory of the giver.

A Charge Account based upon sound business principles, combining justice and convenience to our patrons whereby they may pay for their clothing necessities in easy partial payments, without one cent of extra expense, is one feature of our business ethics which is peculiar only to our house and not found elsewhere.

Ladies' and Girls' Dept.

| | |
|---|---|
| $15.00 Fancy Mixture Suits | $9.90 |
| 18.00 Broadcloth Suits | 14.98 |
| 7.50 Cheviot Coats | 4.90 |
| 15.00 Moyenage Coats | 9.98 |
| 18.00 Broadcloth Coats | 12.90 |
| 25.00 Caracul Coats | 18.50 |
| 40.00 Fur Lined Coats | 28.98 |
| 50.00 Coney Coats | 34.50 |
| 18.00 Gray Squirrel Sets | 12.50 |
| 6.00 Coney Sets | 4.50 |
| 30.00 Fox Sets | 22.98 |
| 18.00 Opossum Sets | 12.98 |
| Children's Fur Sets | 98c to 10.00 |
| 4.00 Girls' Coats | 2.98 |
| 7.50 Girls' Coats | 4.98 |
| Ladies' and Girls' Sweaters | 98c to 6.00 |
| Ladies' and Girls' Shoes | 1.50 to 3.75 |
| Ladies' Umbrellas | 98c to 6.00 |

Men's and Boys' Dept.

| | |
|---|---|
| $12.00 Cassimere Suits | $8.98 |
| 15.00 Mixture Suits | 12.50 |
| 18.00 Black Cheviot Suits | 14.98 |
| 12.00 Youths' Suits | 7.98 |
| 12.00 Mixture Overcoats | 9.98 |
| 18.00 Kersey Overcoats | 14.98 |
| 20.00 Auto Overcoats | 16.98 |
| 25.00 Presto Overcoats | 19.50 |
| 27.00 Kersey Overcoats | 22.50 |
| 4.00 Boys' Overcoats | 2.98 |
| 7.50 Boys' Overcoats | 4.98 |
| 12.00 Boys' Overcoats | 8.98 |
| 4.00 Boys' Suits | 2.98 |
| 6.50 Boys' Suits | 4.50 |
| Men's and Boys' Sweaters | 98c to 6.00 |
| Men's Umbrellas | 98c to 6.00 |
| Men's and Boys' Shoes | 1.50 to 5.00 |

OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Millinery
Trimmed and Ready to Wear Hats
Reduced from 25 to 50 p. c. from former selling prices
98c, $1.98, $2.98, $3.98, up to $8.98

Joyce Bros. & Co
HAVE YOUR PURCHASES CHARGED
13-15 GRANITE ST., - QUINCY Dec 22—3t

Xmas Umbrellas
Ours is a superb showing, natural wood, silver and gold handles. Just the thing for Xmas gifts, 98c to $5.00

CHAPIN'S CHRISTMAS STATIONERY

We make a specialty of stationery and have all kinds in fancy boxes. A few ideal gifts will be found below.

| | |
|---|---|
| Address Books | Diaries of all kinds |
| "A Line-a-Day" Books | Personal Books |
| House Expense Books | Photo Albums |
| Plain and Fancy Calendars | Post Card Albums |
| Pictures and Picture Frames | Cameras |
| Blank Books | Camera Supplies |
| Office Supplies | Post Cards |

A large line of INK STANDS in cut glass and brass. These make fine gifts. Another acceptable gift is a subscription to any daily newspaper or magazine. Call and inquire for our price on these.

LYMAN A. CHAPIN
1395 Hancock Street, QUINCY

The Social Realm

"A Merry Christmas to us all, my dears. God bless us!"
"God bless us every one!" said Tiny Tim, the last of all.
—Charles Dickens.

* * *

The coming week is full of good times for young and old. College men and women are home bringing friends with them and house parties and social affairs are planned to make the season a happy one. On the social calendar is a long list of private parties, dances and receptions.

* * *

Miss Elizabeth H. Lippincott of Philadelphia whose engagement to Avery L. Bennett of Wollaston, was announced this week is spending the Christmas holidays with Mrs. George W. Bennett.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson of Standish avenue left today for Cumberland, Maine to spend Christmas with Mr. Nelson's parents.

* * *

The New Year's party to be given in Brasce hall by St. Chrysostoms branch of the Girls' Friendly Society is eagerly anticipated by the young people of Wollaston and many of their friends from out of town who attended the party held last year.

* * *

At this early date friends of Mrs. Davis are anticipating her concert of January nineteenth, when she will be assisted by C. Pol Plancon, baritone; Heinrick Shuecker, harpist of the Symphony orchestra and E. Cutter, Jr., pianist, an array of talent seldom brought together outside of Botson.

* * *

Mrs. Mary E. Clattenburg and Ernest E. Clattenburg of Hyde Park are Christmas guests of their son and brother Rev. A .Edwin Clattenburg and Mrs. Clattenburg at the rectory, Wollaston.

* * *

Miss Minnie Hardwick is to entertain a party o ffriends at dinner Tuesday evening after which all will attend the Y. P. R. U. dance.

* * *

Mrs. Charles H. Holmes of Plymouth is spending Christmas with her daughter Mrs. James B. B. Smith of Hancock street, Wollaston.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Crain of Bigelow street are guests of Mr. Crain's parents at Newport, R. I., for the holidays.

* * *

Miss Alice G. Thomas, who is making her home with her aunt Mrs. Thomas Armstrong of Warren avenue has gone to Harvard to spend Christmas and the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Enoch S. Thomas.

* * *

The Misses Morrison of Spear street are giving a tea on Tuesday evening to friends, who later in the evening will attend the holiday dance at Alpha hall.

* * *

Mrs. David Stiles of Seattle and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chapen and daughters Hannah and Jennie of Ellensburg, Washington are guests of Mrs. Simpson Kay of Beale street. Mrs. Stiles and Mrs. Chapen are daughters of Mrs. Kay.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Huntington of Willow street are spending Christmas with his parents Dr. and Mrs. William Edwards Huntington of Newton.

* * *

Hon. and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams are still at their country place at Lincoln and will keep the house open until after the New Year.

* * *

The large social affair of the holidays is the Tennis club dance on Wednesday evening at Quincy Music hall. Well known men and women are to act as ushers and matrons and the patrons will include society people of this and neighboring towns.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Perkins Hurd of Swampscott who spent Thanksgiving at the Baxter home in East Milton, have gone to Keene, New Hampshire to spend the holidays with Mr. Hurd's people.

* * *

The Albert E. Kingsburys of Newton street are spending Christmas with Mrs. Kingsbury's sister Mrs. Aubrey Hilliard of Middle street, Braintree.

* * *

Miss Susanna L. Ross of Concord, N. H., is enjoying the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. Emma de F. Ross of Phillips street. Miss Ross holds a responsible position at the Margaret Pillsbury hospital.

* * *

Miss Louise W. Waterman of Arlington street and Dr. Leon E. Parcher are guests during the Christmas holidays of the doctor's parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Parcher of Leominister.

* * *

William J. Nolan, a sophomore at Yale, came up from New Haven, Wednesday night, to spend the holiday at his home on Linden place.

* * *

Fred S. Nowlan a teacher in the University of Georgia Atlanta, is spending the Christmas recess with his aunts, Mrs. Gilbert H. Rhodes, of Old Colony avenue and Mrs. George E. Thomas of Newton street.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Miller and sons Leslie and Everett of Willet street are spending Christmas and the week end with Mr. Miller's brother, Matthew Miller and Mrs. Miller of Marblehead.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Wood of Upland road announce the engagement of their daughter Edna Marion, to Mr. Cecil King Blanchard of this city.

* * *

Huntington Hardwick of Chestnut street is home from Groton for the Christmas vacation.

* * *

Mrs. R. R. Smith, Mrs. Henry Hardwick and Mrs. Isabelle Davis are to matronize the holiday dance to be given on Tuesday evening at Alpha hall under the auspices of the Y. P. R. U. of First church. It promises to be a very pretty party and largely attended as all the young people are home from college.

* * *

The members of the whist committee of the Quincy Catholic club are devoting much time and energy towards the success of the whist and dancing party which is to be given by the club at Alpha hall on New Year's Eve, December 31. Many people interested are pleased at this opportunity to greet their friends on the advent of the new year, and the invitations are much in demand. The proceeds will be devoted to the charitable work of the club.

* * *

Miss Nettie Loud of Hall place is spending a month's vacation with friends in New York city.

—Says C. P. Gilman: Woman suffrage deserves to come about, because it would give each child the benefit of two parents instead of leaving the poor infant to grow up with the present assistance of only one and a half. The audience will now join in singing that beautiful British anthem, "Ring Out, Wild Belles."

A CHRISTMAS DANCE

BY JAMES D. CORROTHERS

EBENIN', dah, Miss Mandy Jane!
See me comin' up de lane!
Speck you waitin' foh me.
Kin' o' late a-gittin' roun'—
Had to walk hyeah clean f'om town—
But we'll be in time, Ah'm boun',
Do' hit's pu'tty sto'my.

TAKE ma ahm 'n' le's push on
'Cross lots, 'ca'se de time's done gone.
'N' we ought to be dah!
Chris'mas ain't de time to crawl
To er ole time country ball.
Preachah may not lak it 't all,
But he'll sho' fine me dah.

LOOKEE you'ah! Dah's de light,
Up de road dah to de right!
Let de roads be smoove er rough,
Soon we'll j'ine de measah!
Snow, blow, drif'in' lak a bluff,
Cain't come col' er snow ernuff
Foh to stop ouh pleasah!

CO'SE Ah b'lebes in doin' right;
Goes to chu'ch o' Sunday night,
Spesh'ly ef it's handy.
But seem lak Ah's gittin' so,
Ef it rain er snow er blow,
Don' keer ef Ah go er no—
Dis hyeah's diff'unt, Mandy.
—New York Mail and Express.

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
338 Boylston Street, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 201
Oct. 1. tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point
Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 448
May 2 (p-1y

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department,
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St.,
QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building.
294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property,
Corner School and Hancock Streets,
QUINCY.

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and Ch na Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

Callagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 409-3 Quincy / 239-3 Quincy / 308-7 Milton
1p-tf

(ADVERTISE.)

LEARN TO ACT QUICKLY

Women Should School Themselves In Making Quick Decisions In Ordinary Matters—Indecision a Feminine Fault.

FROM time immemorial it has been charged against woman that she lacks facility in making up her mind—that she cannot decide readily. When some problem which requires prompt decision confronts her she is unable to come to an agreement with herself as to the solution.

Are you a woman of that sort? Do you vary in your notions of what you should do, wavering from one extreme to the other, not only in weighty matters in which temporary uncertainty might be excused, but in the thousand and one small things of daily life, the trifling matters which should be settled without too great a strain upon your logical faculties?

For example, take the matter of choosing meat for dinner. Perhaps you go to market without any well defined notion of what you really prefer. Beyond the fact that you must have meat of some kind for dinner and that it is on sale at the butcher's you have not progressed mentally. When you arrive at the market your mind is not yet made up. The sight of meat in great variety, all attractively displayed, does not help you in coming to a decision. You flutter along by the counter, keeping the butcher waiting, plenty of excellent cuts before your eyes, but you wrinkle your brow and bite your lips and finally, in sheer desperation, pounce on something that is not at all what you really wanted.

To refresh yourself after the strenuous effort made to choose something, which, after all, was not what you wanted, you stop in at the corner confectionery shop on your homeward way with the innocent and even praiseworthy intention of indulging in an ice cream soda. At the outset you come face to face with another perplexing dilemma. The flavor—what shall it be? Ranged most appetizingly within easy range of your vision are a dozen toothsome fruit sirups, but which is your preference? The impatient clerk is waiting, and so are half a dozen others who have already made up their minds. In the agony of the moment you commit yourself irrevocably to coffee only to recall at the very instant that it is the one flavor of the lot which disagrees with you.

"SHALL I OR NOT?"

If you are a sufferer of this sort begin at once to correct this fault by the severest self discipline. If you neglect to do so you will continue to be a trial to your friends and an absolute torture to yourself. Much of your time will be passed in regretting your acts, for it is always the case that the flighty one does what she likes least of all. There is nothing more certain to weaken the character and even render the victim undesirable as an acquaintance than this utterly abhorrent habit of doing constantly precisely what one does not intend to do.

Now, all this does not mean that there are not matters in life, many of them, which cannot be decided in an instant or even in an hour or a day. Every individual is certain to be confronted with a greater or less number of these problems, real ones requiring deliberate thought, calm and deliberate consideration and clear judgment. Such are matrimony, the disposition of property, a change of business or residence. Even in less important things—the purchasing of a season's outfit, for instance—there is sometimes much to be planned out in advance, and much mental exercise must be permitted. Hasty judgments are quite as unsatisfactory as none at all, and any business requiring a regular plan should be worked out mentally long before the final moment.

There is nothing more satisfactory than to be able to decide quickly in an emergency and to act intelligently and without faltering. The most forlorn and hopeless cry ever uttered by womankind is the wail of not knowing what to do. It is the sure stamp of lack of capability.

Do not look for help outside of yourself. You and you alone must be the physician in this case. As in all other functional mental disorders the victim alone is best able to cure herself. Learn to decide at once. You can do it if you will. SHIRLEY BREESE.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS

KEITH'S THEATRE.

One of the biggest holiday bills in the history of Keith's is in preparation for the week beginning Monday. It will contain a number of splendid features especially suitable for the season. For this reason "Kris Kringle's Dream" with the "Top o' th' World Dancers" and the famous Collio Ballet will be held over. This act made a tremendous hit this week at Keith's and is one of the most beautiful and liveliest that vaudeville has ever had. Little Billy, who has also proved the sensation predicted and has simply captivated Boston with his quaint ways and splendid singing, and dancing, will also be retained. A feature of more than ordinary interest will be Frank Fogarty, the famous Irish story teller. Mr. Fogarty has a brogue and a way of telling stories possessed by no other comedian now on the stage. Since he has been on the Keith circuit he has proved to be one of the biggest hits in recent years. It is not so much what he says, as the way he says it, while his stories are all new and full of point. Another special feature will be Binns, Binns and Binns, a company of musical comedians that know how to make people laugh.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

The bill at the American Music hall next week will be made up of all star acts delightfully varied to suit every possible taste. There will be plenty of singing, good comedy animal stunts for the children and acrobatics. Of course Consul the wonderful man monkey will be the big attraction. Rarely has an act ever appeared in Boston before that excited the comment that Consul did last week. He is truly more man than monkey and does everything but talk. Since being brought to this country he has learned several new tricks and has begun to utter articulate sounds. Another big feature of the bill will be the Karno Comedy company which will present its famous "Night In an English Music Hall." Sixteen of England's greatest comedians and comediennes and acrobats will make up the cast and a half hour of fun is assured. An act which will appeal to Bostonians will be that of the Divers and Diverines with Peter S. McNally the champion long distance swimmer of the world and Charles A. Bigney the champion high diver of the world and Miss Sadie Schuman and Miss Jessie Sutherland will be the performers.

BOSTON THEATRE.

When Jos. M. Gaites first gave to the stage "Three Twins," he entirely changed the prevailing style of musical comedy. Up to that time musical plays had depended almost entirely on their music and their chorus, the story counting for little. In "Three Twins" Mr. Gaites gave the stage a real comedy with a musical setting, a comedy that had stood alone without the musical accompaniment. Since then other managers have attempted the same thing but it has remained for Mr. Gaites to offer a real logical successor to "Three Twins," which is noted as the greatest success of its kind in America. This successor is "Bright Eyes," which is to be seen at the Boston Theatre beginning December 27th. "Bright Eyes" is a musical version of the equally popular farce "Mistakes Will Happen." "The Circus Man" will be seen for the last times at the Boston theatre the matinee and evening performances of Christmas day.

Castle Square Theatre.

To say that "1915" is an immediate overwhelming success at the Castle Square is to underate the truth. Its opening performance Christmas eve was a triumph, equal success comes to it for its Saturday afternoon and evening presentations, and on Monday, it will begin the first full week of a run that will bring merriment and jollity to every Bostonian. In writing "1915" Theodore Friebus has outdone himself. He has invented a plot and dialogue that is overflowing with humor, and in preparing the piece for the stage Mr. Craig has added eveything that is needful in the way of elaborate and brilliant costumes, beautiful and spectacular scenery, and the thousand and one other details that make for the popularity of a musical comedy. In fact, "1915" promises to be the sensation of the Boston theatrical hour. It abounds in local scenes, local humor, local characters, and local hits, and it contains a dozen novelties that have never before been seen on the stage. Whether the audience is looking on at the opening scene in the old Art Museum building, whether it is watching the leading characters as they fly by air-ship to the South Sea Islands, or whether it is laughing at the final act, with the Public Garden and the famous bridge across the pond surrounded by public buildings it is always enjoying itself.

A Circumvented Lawyer

He Was Induced to Pay Full Price For What He Wanted.

By ELLA B. TUCKER.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

"Oh, dear," said Ella Kane impatiently, "I wish the postman would come! I'm worried."

"What about?" asked her mother.

"I'm afraid we're not going to get the loan."

There was a whistle far down the street. Ella pricked up her ears. As it came nearer she grew more and more excited. When Mrs. Kane heard the postman at the next house she went to the door to open it before he should ring. The postman came up the steps and handed in a letter.

"It's from Archie, mother," and Ella snatched the letter before it reached her mother's hand from the postman. "Now we'll see what he has to say about the loan. But, of course, it'll be all right," and she dropped upon a window seat and opened the envelope with happy eyes.

"Of course," agreed Mrs. Kane. "Archie is like your own brother."

"N-no, not quite," demurred Ella. Then her face sank lower over the envelope, coloring furiously. Mrs. Kane looked at her sympathetically.

A few moments, then the color fled suddenly and the happy eyes grew dark.

"Oh, mother!" she gasped. "Archie—Mr. Booth, I mean— But read the letter."

"What is the matter, dear?" anxiously. "Has Archie"—

"Mr. Booth is a mercenary wretch!" vehemently. "But read the letter."

Mrs. Kane unfolded the letter with trembling fingers. "Whatever it is, Ella," she ventured, "you mustn't judge Archie too hastily. He is a good boy, and you have known him a long time." Then she read: "Dear Ella—Can't let you have the money. It would be a mistake. And there's another thing. Be sure to demand papers to show every transaction you have with that tricky lawyer. I know his reputation and the value of proof with such a man. You write that you owe him $3,000 and that unless it is paid within one month he will foreclose the mortgage on your home. I don't quite understand. You say you have only received $1,200 and that he was to let you have the rest when you needed it to meet the note your father indorsed. If he hasn't paid it yet why should he foreclose on the full amount? There must be sharp practice somewhere. Will be down just as soon as I can get away from here and fix the matter up."

"I don't see anything in that to worry about," said Mrs. Kane perplexedly. "Archie is coming down and will make it all right. He's such a resourceful boy!"

Ella threw out her hand wearily.

"Oh, it isn't that, mother," she said. "Mr. Booth will be down and make things all right, of course. He's intensely business, and he understands perfectly well that we were silly enough to take Lawyer Pill's word instead of his paper and so have lost the $1,800. Mr. Booth will come all right, probably on the day of the sale, pay off the mortgage and then hand you the release, with a bow. He knows the place is good for the money."

"Ella!"

"Oh, I don't quite mean that, of course. Mr. Booth doesn't care so much for the money, but he's a man and must do things in a man's way, with himself as the central figure."

"What is it you want, Ella?" asked her mother, beginning to lose patience. "You're to marry Archie, and you've professed to love him more than all the world, and you concede he'll come and pay off this mortgage, and we both know he can't have saved up very much in just the two years he's been from college and his mining studies, even if he is an expert and getting famous. It seems to me he's acting nobly. What is the matter?"

"Why didn't he send me a check when I asked for it and offered security?" flashed Ella suddenly. "I know he has the money, for he'd just written about receiving $3,000 as a fee for expert work in one of the big mines, and he knew that I desired nothing so much in the world just then as to pay that horrid Pill and order him to never set foot on our land or on our side of the road again. Ugh! When I went to him that day and asked for our money and he stared at me with his little cold eyes and said he had no money of ours and for me to produce a paper to prove my words I— Mother, Archie ought not to have hesitated one minute. Strict business should be for business men not for us. It isn't his paying the money. I wanted to do it myself, with my own hands, and then say a few words to Mr. Pill and after that lose sight of him forever. Heigho! After all, Arch—Mr. Booth is—is only a man!"

Two days later as they were standing on the veranda Lawyer Pill himself surprised them by hurrying up the path. He seemed agitated.

"Good morning! Good morning!" he cried affably. "It's—it's a fine day, isn't it? I hope you are both well?"

"Yes," rather coldly, "we are very well, thank you."

"I am glad to hear it—sincerely glad. Good health is the greatest of all blessings. And now to business. I am sorry there has been a—a misunderstanding between us. It was owing to a bit of memorandum unfortunately mislaid and forgotten and now found. It is all right about the money. You can have it at any time, and I have ordered a stay of proceedings in the other matter. There will be no further trouble."

"Explain yourself, please, Mr. Pill. I don't understand at all."

"Why, I am the quickest man in the world to rectify an error, and the mistake was mine. And now I am anxious to prove it in a substantial way. You still own that pasture lot?"

"The five acres of rocky land over on the back road—yes."

"Will you sell it now?"

A prompt yes was on Mrs. Kane's lips. Ella saw it and raised her hand warningly. Her father had once offered the lot for $100, and at their last interview Mr. Pill had laughed derisively and refused to consider it at any price. There was evidently something in the background.

"What will you give for it?" she asked cautiously.

"Well—er—say $1,000. The error was mine, and I wish to do something handsome to compensate you for the annoyance."

Apparently he had expected them to snap up his offer, but after the first incredulous stare Ella's face grew scornful. Even her mother looked suspicious.

"There is something behind this, Mr. Pill," said Ella coldly. "What is it? You are not throwing away money?"

The man seemed disappointed.

"There is nothing at all, I assure you, except that—that—well, an old neighbor of yours was down yesterday afternoon and acted very mysteriously. He had some specimens which he showed to a few people in the postoffice, but slipped into his pocket when he saw me coming. I suspect he was trying to raise capital."

"Well?"

"I made inquiries, of course, secretly. That's business," his eyes shifting a little, "and I've kept him under watch all the time. The specimens came from your old pasture. The chances are there's nothing in it, but I am always ready to invest money in long risks. Will you sell?"

"For a thousand, no."

"Two thousand?" eagerly.

"No."

"Three?"

At an imperative sign from Ella, Mrs. Kane again shook her head.

"I don't believe the lot is worth one-tenth that money," she answered, "but I am not quite ready to sell yet, Mr. Pill."

Lawyer Pill shuffled his feet a few moments, then turned away.

"It's all I'll give," he said sourly, "and you are making the mistake of your lives."

The next morning before they had finished breakfast he was again at the door, visibly excited.

"That Archie Booth has been sending specimens away to an assay office," he began hurriedly. "Has he been here?"

"No."

"Well, he's up to some sharp practice; mark my words on that. If he'd meant fair he would have come straight to you and talked the thing over. I've had him watched all the time, and everything he's done has been sly and full of mystery. If it were any other man I wouldn't turn my head, but Archie Booth is an expert and don't dodge about like this for nothing. I'll take chances and give you $10,000 for the lot."

They both gasped, then Ella shook her head.

"Twenty thousand?"

The gate clicked, and a boy ran up the path with a note. Lawyer Pill watched Ella anxiously while she read it.

"From Booth?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Make an offer?"

"No."

"Well, he will be here soon and try to wheedle you out of the land. I know these mysterious fellows. I prefer to be open and pay full value. I'll give you $30,000 for the five acres."

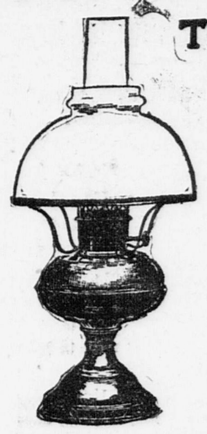
Ella looked at her mother and nodded slightly.

"Yes, we will accept it," said Mrs. Kane, "but I warn you the place isn't worth a thousand."

"I'll risk that," with alacrity. "Now, let us step inside and fix up the papers at once, and I will make you out a check."

As he went buoyantly down the path a half hour later Mrs. Kane turned to Ella.

"What was that note?" she asked.



Ella opened it and read:

"Run Lawyer Pill up to twenty-five thousand or so, then sell. I don't think I'd better call now, for people around here—and especially Pill—don't know that I'm a friend of the family. I'll be down again in a few days and make a long visit. There is a ledge of pretty good building granite on the land, and if Pill will wait a little for a demand and will put some money in to develop it and manage the thing shrewdly, as he knows how, I think perhaps he can get his money back. Anyhow, I understand he got a lot of money out of your father a long time ago by sharp practice, and this will sort of square things up."

"The dear boy!" murmured Ella as she refolded the note and slipped it into her dress.

When Archie came he received quite a different reception from that which he would have received after the receipt of his first letter. He was delighted with the success his friends had had in getting rid of property that turned out in the end to be of very little value. Ella confessed with contrition that she had thought very hardly of him that he had failed to comply with her request and acknowledged that she had done him a great injustice. She repaid him for what he had done for her mother and her by setting a day for the wedding.

For Evening Hours
The Rayo Lamp

Some of the sweetest hours of home-life are passed under the gentle, kindly light of the evening lamp.

If it be the Rayo Lamp, the light contributes an added charm—makes reading and sewing easy.

There are no aching eyes after reading or sewing under the rays of the Rayo Lamp.

The Rayo Lamp diffuses a steady white light. It is the least trying of any artificial light. Made of brass throughout—nickel plated—improved central draught burner.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but you cannot get a better lamp at any price.

Once a Rayo user, always one

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not at Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, RECILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

WHEELER'S
Christmas Christmas
See what we offer for Christmas.
All the Latest Novelties in Neckwear

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Belts | Handkerchiefs | Pocket Books |
| Aprons | Stamped Linens | Purses |
| Gloves | Stationery | Bags |
| Xmas Cards | Handkerchief Boxes | Calendars |
| Booklets | Glove Boxes | Needle Books |
| Post Cards | Collar Boxes | Shaving Cases |

We also have a good line of
"The Belle" tailored Shirt Waists
Christmas Christmas
CITY SQUARE G. W. WHEELER QUINCY
(DRY GOODS STORE.)

Sprague's New River
STEAM COAL
Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined
Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.
J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS
TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 1o-tf

REAL ESTATE For Sale?
Advertise in The Ledger.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER III.

THE managing editor again began to weigh just what significance the demand of Dupuy had. He directed his glance at him fixedly, and a long pause ensued after the lawyer lobbyist's abrupt demand that Wheeler Brand be discharged from the Advance.

Dupuy returned McHenry's stare, and his discerning eye and brain enabled him to read the workings of McHenry's mind. He felt instinctively as he glared at McHenry that he had the managing editor "on the run." During the period of the insurance company's ownership there had been no doubt that the decision of the managing editor of the Advance would have been in favor of Dupuy and his demand for the discharge of Wheeler Brand. And the lawyer, like McHenry, knew nothing of the new owner that would change the attitude of the paper.

Dupuy was right in his estimate of McHenry's weakness. The lawyer lobbyist was playing in rare fortune, indeed, to discover in his opponent a man who dared not stand for the right. He well knew that he would not find the same sort of man in a position of importance in many other newspapers of the land. Well, too, did he know "the power of the press" throughout all America, for he had learned at bitter cost that it was the foe of all the Ed Dupuys and all those that employed them to serve their ends.

Finally McHenry spoke in answer to Dupuy's demand.

"Let us give Brand one more chance!" protested McHenry. "I'll put him on baseball or water front. Come, now."

"I will be candid with you. I was instructed to make an example of somebody for this morning's story. Perhaps, though, a good hauling over might do for this time. Call him in now. It's his last chance."

A boy entered.

"Ask Mr. Brand to step in."

"I'd rather take a licking than do this," protested McHenry.

Dupuy was unsympathetic.

"Well, he's only got himself to thank!" he snorted.

Wheeler Brand came in.

"Mr. Brand," began the managing editor, "there is a kick being made on the Bartelmy story of this morning."

"Yes, sir; I suppose so." Brand looked up and saw Dupuy, and the reporter's face showed that he understood.

"I forward the kick to you, indorsing it O. K.," said McHenry. "In other words, the kick goes."

"Why, what"—

"This is a practical world," interposed Dupuy.

Brand grew bitter, for well he knew the practices of Dupuy.

"Oh, yes; I know the patter—a world of live and let live. We must be very careful before imputing motives, eh, Mr. Dupuy? Does not the good book say, 'Let him that is without sin among you cast the first stone—at United States judges.'"

"Wheeler, Wheeler," cried McHenry, "we only ask you in to talk it over calmly!"

"That man has hit me in the dark before," exclaimed Brand. "This is the first time that he has come into the light."

"I desire to say that my clients," put in Dupuy, "like a great many other of the—ah—subscribers—to this paper, were disappointed at what they conceived to be an unwarrantable attack full of insinuations about one of the most distinguished members of the United States bench, and they wish merely as readers of the paper to express the hope that nothing of the sort will occur again, in which case they are willing to overlook this morning's article entirely—to, in fact, regard it merely as a mistake, a mistake made without malice."

"You mean I am to have another chance to hold my job if I'll be good from now on?" asked Brand.

Dupuy once more became complacent.

"Such, I believe, is Mr. McHenry's decision," he announced calmly.

"You certainly have your gall, Dupuy," cried Brand in menacing tones, "to think you can muzzle me for $40 a week. I've paid more than that for the privilege of fighting you."

The lawyer turned quickly to the managing editor.

"You better let him go, McHenry," he suggested. "He's a crank."

Wheeler Brand was amazed at the way in which McHenry allowed Dupuy to influence him.

"Does he give you orders?" he asked meaningly of the managing editor.

"Yes, my boy; he does, and I accept your resignation."

The reporter was by no means daunted by his discharge.

"I'm sorry for you," he cried, inclining toward McHenry.

Dupuy laughed significantly.

"Reserve your sympathy for yourself, young man," he advised the young newspaper writer.

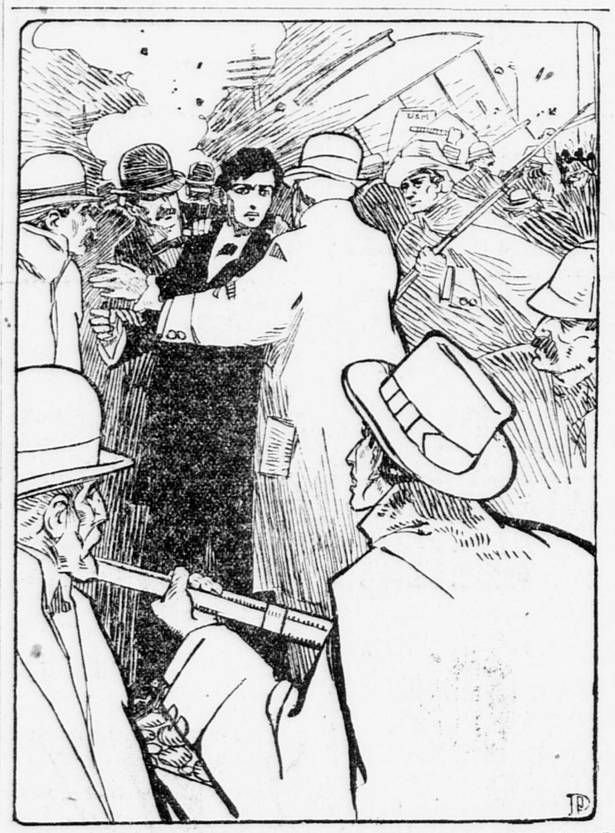
"Reserve your sympathy for Bartelmy; he'll need it before long," was his cutting retort.

"Oh! Is that so?" sneered Dupuy. "Go west and grow up with the country, for if you hang around here to hurt Bartelmy don't forget that criminal libel is punishable with arrest."

"Sorry, old man," spoke McHenry kindly. "If I didn't have a family I'd go west with you."

"If it wasn't for men having families," put in Dupuy philosophically, "there'd be a revolution."

Brand straightened up and, with a contemptuous expression on his face, started toward the door.



"You've got more heart than sense, McHenry," was the parting shot which he hurled at the managing editor.

"Pretty tough on a reporter to fire him for 'scooping' the town on a big story," said the managing editor.

"Oh, pshaw!" grunted Dupuy.

A boy entered with a card. Dupuy crossed to a chair and picked up his overcoat.

"Mr. Nolan, sir," the lad announced, with an amusing grimace. "He's the new boss, and he's got a couple o' mitts on 'im like Jim Jeffries. Gee, but I'll bet Nolan is there with th' wallop, all right!"

"YES; IT WAS THE STREET CAR STRIKE, AND YOU AND JUDGE BARTELMY SENT JERRY DOLAN TO JAIL."

Dupuy put his overcoat back on the chair. His luck was still holding good, he congratulated himself. Here was a chance to make the acquaintance of the new owner of the influential Advance, an opportunity to pave the way possibly to secure future favors from him for his clients when emergencies arose. Needless to say, emergencies frequently arose to disturb the peace of mind of the varieties of people who sought the versatile aid of Mr. Ed Dupuy. He turned to face McHenry and said:

"Oh, the new owner! I'd like to meet him. If you don't object I'll wait." Dupuy seated himself at the extreme left hand corner of the office close to the rack containing files of the daily papers. He took down a file and began to read. McHenry, laughing at the patent anxiousness of the lawyer to meet Nolan, put on his coat.

A heavy step was heard, and the bulky form of the new owner of the Advance stood before the managing editor.

"I am Mr. McHenry," explained the latter.

"I am Mike Nolan," the newcomer remarked bluntly.

At the sound of the big man's big voice Dupuy, whom Nolan had not noticed in the corner, stirred and turned his head to gain a better view of him. There was something familiar in the ring of that voice. There was something familiar in the features and the poise of Mr. Mike Nolan. Surely he had met him somewhere. He pondered and pondered and finally gave up the problem in disgust.

"This is a nice looking place you've got here," he remarked to McHenry.

"That you've got, sir."

A feminine voice from the outer hallway was heard to exclaim breathlessly, "I refuse to climb another step."

McHenry turned inquiringly, whereupon Nolan explained: "My family's just outside. I wanted them to see me take possession." His voice was tinged with pride. He stepped to the door. "Come in, mother," he called gayly. Mrs. Nolan, a tall, well proportioned brunette, attired in the costliest of imported garments, entered the managing editor's office with a pronounced flourish, followed by the two Nolan children, Sylvester and Phyllis—the son about twenty-two years old and the daughter probably a year or two younger. "Oh, mercy, them stairs!" exclaimed the mother, endeavoring to catch her breath. Nolan presented his wife and son to McHenry. Mrs. Nolan called to Phyllis to draw near. "This is my daughter, Phyllis," she said. "She went to Bryn Mawr." Phyllis and the managing editor exchanged greetings. "My son, Sylvester," went on the mother proudly, "went to Harvard."

"Oh, you're a Harvard man!" spoke McHenry to Sylvester. "What class?"

The son, togged in the latest freshman effects in the line of sporty clothes and drawing on an unlighted cigarette, replied, "1909, 1910, 1911."

Mrs. Nolan pointed at a pile of papers lying on a small desk. "I don't see how you ever get time to read 'em all," she addressed McHenry.

"Oh, I read fifty or sixty a day. We've got to know what the other fellows are doing."

"That's just like me," she responded smoothly. "I always like to know what everybody else is doing, too," she went on. "I think what journalism needs is a soft feminine, refining influence. It seems you don't publish anything now but crime, divorces and people's troubles." She laughed.

"Oh, you wouldn't want to read every day that Mr. and Mrs. James Jones were living happily together. You're only interested when they're unhappy."

"Still I'd like to read once in awhile that somebody else was happy, at least for a little while."

It was McHenry's turn to laugh.

"Would you like to look over the plant, Mrs. Nolan?" he asked.

"Oh, yes! What I want to see is the reporters reporting."

When Mrs. Nolan, Phyllis and Sylvester had departed in the wake of the boy who had answered McHenry's ring, Dupuy rose and made a signal to McHenry behind Nolan's back that he wanted to meet the owner. The managing editor beckoned him over.

"I'd like to read that somebody else was happy."

"Mr. Nolan," he said, inclining toward the proprietor of the Advance, "this is Mr. Dupuy."

Dupuy bowed, again trying to fix in his mind the occasion on which, somehow, somewhere in his busy past he had met Michael Nolan. He extended his hand, saying, "I am glad to meet you, Mr. Nolan."

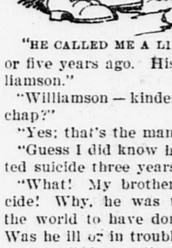
The newspaper publisher pierced Dupuy with a glance which, to say the least, was searching. He crouched toward him and compressed his brows as though to render his sight more certain, more penetrating. He had half extended his own hand to grasp Dupuy's. Suddenly, with a half smothered oath, he drew it violently back.

"My God," he exclaimed, "it is Ed Dupuy!"

He continued to stare at the lawyer After a moment a faint smile appeared

"Ed Dupuy, that's funny," he continued—"that's awful funny. Well don't it beat all? Don't you remember me, Ed?"

Dupuy couldn't place him as yet.



"Why—ah, Mr. Nolan! Yes, it must have been. Let's see. Wasn't it Monte Carlo two winters ago?" he ventured.

"No, Ed, no; it wasn't Monte Carlo two winters ago. It was here in this town twelve summers ago. Remember now?"

"Twelve summers ago—twelve summers ago?" Dupuy reflected.

"The street car strike," reminded Nolan.

"Oh, yes, the street car strike!" added Dupuy. Now he began to remember. He began to remember the part he, as the Consolidated Traction company's counsel, played in that war between capital and labor, and somewhere in it all he realized that a face something like the one before him had come to his knowledge; also the name "Nolan" had a familiar ring. "Nolan Nolan!" he repeated to himself. No it was "Dolan," he reassured himself that had been the name of the man he had crushed and driven from the kin of men. Yes, that was it, "Dolan," and that man was a broken down and outer when Dupuy last heard of him.

Jerry Dolan, the agitator.

Nolan saw that Dupuy was nonplused, and he laughed as he said:

"Yes, it was the street car strike, and you and Judge Bartelmy between you sent Jerry Dolan to jail for contempt, and that broke the strike after it'd been won."

"He was a dangerous agitator, was Dolan," pronounced Dupuy, directing an interested glance at the new owner.

Nolan drew a deep breath and, clinching his fists at his sides, replied to his arch foe of twelve years before:

"He'll be a more dangerous agitator from now on. I'm Jerry Dolan!"

(To be Continued.)

Suicidal.

"I am trying to find my brother," said the gentleman from England timidly to the fierce looking person with a sheath knife in one side of his belt and a six shooter in the other. "He was in this neighborhood about four or five years ago. His name was Williamson."

"HE CALLED ME A LIAR, STRANGER."

"Williamson—kinder goody-goody chap?"

"Yes; that's the man!"

"Guess I did know him. He committed suicide three years ago."

"What! My brother committed suicide! Why, he was the last man in the world to have done such a thing! Was he ill or in trouble, or what?"

"He called me a liar, stranger!"

Not Brought Up.

A prominent Boston pastor who spent a vacation in Maine relates an experience with a youngster of the Pine Tree State:

"While walking one pleasant morning I was startled by a sudden outburst of profanity from a hidden part of the country road. Thinking that mild reproof would not come amiss, I rounded the curve and came upon a very small boy driving a big cow.

"'See here, boy, who brought you up?' I asked.

"'They didn't nobody bring me up. I walked up—all the way from Scarboro—driving this — — cow.'"

Before and After.

She was a frivolous, fashionable young woman with beaux galore, but one man with only a small income seemed to be the favorite.

"You'll have to work hard before you win that girl," said his mother.

"And a good deal harder after you win her," answered his father, who knew what he was talking about.

His Poems.

"May I offer you this little gift, Fraulein Kate?"

"Excuse me—I never take presents from men."

"But it is only a copy of my book of poems."

"In that case I will accept. I thought it was something valuable."—Fliegende Blatter.

The Drawback.

"Elsie says there was only one drawback to her wedding."

"What was that?"

"She says her father looked too cheerful when he gave her away."

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists price 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

HIRING OF DOGS TO MATCH GOWNS

London Fad Very Popular Among Women of Smart Set.

PRACTICE GROWING RAPIDLY.

Canines Are Used For Variety of Purposes, For "Setting Off" Dresses, Driving In Parks, Promenading and Even For Protection.

Who has the temerity to insist that there is nothing new under the sun? The fashionable women of London now have evolved the idea, which is obtaining wide popularity, of no longer keeping dogs in their homes, but hiring them from shops instead. In this way, be it known, madame always is assured of a canine that matches the color of the gown she may wear when taking her daily drive or promenade.

In this way, so the proponents of the new plan contend, everything that a dog offers in the way of companionship may be obtained, while all the petty inconveniences attendant on keeping one in a London house are avoided. Also it is held that the dog is better off, because it lives almost wholly under the care of professional fanciers, even though the growth of the practice finally may banish it from the comforts of the best armchair. Whatever may be the opinion in the canine world as to this rather unusual departure, the hire system is in vogue.

Three Varieties Usually Selected.

"The practice had its start some weeks ago," said the proprietress of a dog shop in the west end of London, "and has grown with such rapidity that at present I average at least four or five hires a week from this little shop alone. Miniature Yorkshires, Pekinese and Pomeranians are the varieties usually selected. You see, having decided on the animal whose color best suits her dress and style, the customer, invariably a woman, leaves a deposit of from one and a half to four guineas (from about $8 to $21) and departs with her charge. Of course regular customers keep an account for the very purpose.

"My dogs are hired for various purposes. Odd as it may seem, many women consider just the right colored canine an indispensable 'setoff' to their gowns. Others just like to be seen about with the animals. Others, again, are women whose fondness for toy dogs does not quite approximate a desire to keep them, and there are women, too, who take dogs out with them for protection, imagining, I suppose," continued the shopwoman, who is a spinster, "that they are less trouble than a man.

Taken to Luncheon Parties.

"Customers do not always give their confidence, of course, but many I know take the dogs out to luncheon parties or to the church parade in the park, for Sunday is a great day for 'hires.'

"But, for whatever purpose the dogs are desired, these feminine customers always are particular about their color. Only a few days ago a woman drove up, entered the shop and handed me a pattern of her dress with the request, 'Can you give me a dog to match, please, at once?' She returned the animal in about four hours. Naturally this innovation requires that I watch the fashionable colors closely and arrange my dogs accordingly. Furs often are difficult, but I have managed splendidly until now, my only fear being that light blue suddenly may become the vogue."

"HE CALLED ME A LIAR, STRANGER."

NEW BIPLANE TYPE AIRSHIP.

Providence Inventor Believes He Has Solved Aerial Problem.

With an airship which he believes will eclipse the best efforts of the Wright brothers, Otto Herman of Providence, R. I., automobile mechanic and inventor of novelties, plans to make his first flight within the next few weeks, probably in Providence.

Mr. Herman's machine is of the biplane type and differs from the Wright models chiefly in having smaller wings and the steering planes and the pilot's seat in front. There are the usual birdlike tail and two propellers, with a diameter of seven and a quarter feet each. A light five cylinder gasoline engine, consuming only a quart an hour, furnishes the motive power for the biplane, which weighs 640 pounds. The steering planes are operated with equal facility at front or sides, and the wings spread only thirty and a quarter feet against forty-two in the Wright machine.

The Curtiss style of starting on wheels will be adopted, and Mr. Herman believes a run of only thirty-five yards will be necessary. A steering device which he has patented will enable him to make headway even against a thirty mile breeze. He says, "I believe I have solved the aerial problem."

Elected In a Belfry.

The ceremony of electing a mayor in a belfry was performed the other day, according to ancient custom, in the parish church of Brightlingsea, England, when Arthur Lucas was chosen in succession to the Rev. Arthur Petwee, vicar of Brightlingsea, and six mariners who had married Brightlingsea women were admitted freemen of the port on payment of 11 pennies into the treasury.

STORAGE
—FOR—
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

YOUR APPOINTMENT
is properly booked and we will be at your service when you arrive.
THIS DENTAL OFFICE
IS AUTHORITY ON TEETH.
Free examination means free diagnosis of each particular case—with modern appliances and up-to-date methods.
YOU RISK NOTHING
HAVING DENTISTRY DONE HERE.
Our charges are never high.
M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.
DENTIST
37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.
Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Dec. 15 to-2w

Red Cross Stamps

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
| r *5 14 | abcdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | lhgfedcba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 | abc | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adef | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 44 | Exp | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 44 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 07 |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edeba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | deba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | lhgfedcba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 | abedefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedcba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedcba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abedef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 | abedef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedcba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 24 | lhgfedcba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | lhgfedcba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | lhgfedcba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | lhgfedcba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abedefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | lhgfedcba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abedefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | lhgfedcba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | lhgfedcba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abedefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abedefghi | 8 75 | 9 27 | lhgfedcba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.
*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 5.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 6.40 6.16, 8.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46. A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.27 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.27, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."
Quincy Daily Ledger

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

WELL
If you have anything to sell sell it to
J. A. KEATING
1357 Hancock Street
Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS
TWO TRIPS DAILY
Furniture and Piano Moving
Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m. and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m. and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.37 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m. and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.20, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.30, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.
THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.
Wanted.
Citizens Gas Light Co.
Probate Notices
Lost--Garnet Ring
Berman Tea Co.--Hub Range

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 32 degrees |
| Dec. 24, 1908 | 31 degrees |
| Dec. 24 1907, | 39 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

James B. Dewson passed away this morning at his home 211 Adams street in his 73d year. He leaves a family.

Miss Mary Romio of Troy, N. Y., is spending three weeks' vacation with Miss Margaret Lahey of Bryant avenue.

At the American whist club tournament Thursday night E. E. Hoxie and partner playing north and south got a top score of three and one half plus.

The many friends of Mrs. Michael McMahan of Crescent street will be glad to know that she has recovered from her recent illness and is able to be about.

Charles M. Bryant of this city will be judge of the Rhode Island reds at the Boston Poultry show to be held in Mechanics Building, Boston from Jan. 11 to 15. He is also an officer in the association.

The many friends of M. Hammel Nelson, formerly of Hall place, now a member of the U. S. navy, will be glad to know that he will be home for Christmas, and can be found at the rooms of the Bryant A. C. of which he is a member.

The ladies of the Quincy Catholic club are busy today carrying good cheer into the homes of many needy families. To those who are ill the ladies are giving delicacies, while the children receive warm mittens, also candy and oranges. In addition to these, many baskets containing Christmas dinners will be distributed among poor families.

SALVATION ARMY WORK.

Little do the public realize the good that the Salvation Army do with its contributions and donations. This morning at 10 o'clock at the Salvation Army headquarters on Granite street, Capt. John A. Haglin and wife presented 60 needy families of Quincy with well-filled baskets of worldly goods for their Xmas dinner. The baskets each contained a chicken, bread, celery, can of peas, pies, apples, candy, potatoes, coffee, sugar, butter, cranberries and army papers.

Much credit is due the Quincy division for they have faced several drawbacks, principally due to the Boston division placing penny boxes in nearly all of the Quincy homes, the proceeds of which go to the Boston poor.

During the past few days two boxes have been placed in Quincy square and these with the donations from Edward H. Angier, Berry Bros., R. E. Foy & Co., O. F. Frisk and many other small contributors, have made the work successful in every way.

Could the contributors have viewed the faces of the poor as they appeared with their tickets they would have felt amply repaid for doing their share. Summing up the matter, Quincy residents may well feel proud for having such a progressive branch of this great helpful body within the borders of our city.

BIRTHS.

SKINNER--In Braintree, Dec. 23, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Skinner of Oakway off Front street.

BENNETT--In Braintree, Dec. 18, a son to Mr. and Mrs. David Bennett of 480 Washington street.

DEATHS.

DEWSON—In Quincy, Dec. 23, Mr. James B. Dewson of 211 Adams street, aged 72 years, 5 months and 19 days.

HARRIS—In Randolph, Dec. 22, Mrs. Jane Harris, wid w of Charles Harris aged 87 years.

DOBLE—In Quincy, Dec. 22, Mrs. Rachel wife of Mr. Enoch H. Doble, aged 77 years 7 months.
Funeral services at late home, 52 Cross street, Sunday, Dec. 26, at 2.30 P. M. Relatives and friends invited. Burial private. Dec 23-2t

JOHNSON—At Boston, Dec. 23, 1909, Henry Augustinus Johnson, in his 85th year, Harvard college, class of 1844.
Funeral services at King's chapel, Boston Monday, Dec. 27, at noon. Friends are kindly requested not to send flowers. St. Louis and New Bedford papers please copy.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

INDIAN BALL LATEST SPORT.

Redskins In Oklahoma Devise New Kind of Outdoor Pastime.

HOW THE GAME IS PLAYED.

New Sport Combines Football, Lacrosse, Baseball and Tennis to Good Advantage—Game Is Very Rough. Women Frequently Take Part.

While the football rules committee is busy in an attempt to devise some method to prevent fatal gridiron injuries and with many college presidents clamoring for some less dangerous pastime, it might be well for all these fellows to look carefully over the new outdoor sport being played in Oklahoma called Indian ball.

On a good, clear, brisk day at this season of the year in the Indian Territory end of Oklahoma one can see ball games that are real games. The Indian is naturally a good ball player, and he enters into the playing with remarkable zest.

Indian ball is an odd combination of lacrosse, football and baseball, with a dash of tennis. The ball is made of a core of rubber, over which is wound cord, and is covered with long, thin strips of deer hide that when tightly drawn make as good a surface as any of the expert league ball makers can turn out.

There isn't any batting rally possible in Indian ball for the reason that there isn't any batting done. Each Indian is equipped with a three foot club with a spoon shaped end. This end is laced with buckskin thongs, so as to give added force to the ball when used as a racket. When the ball is in play it cannot be touched with the hands or batted with the club. It must be caught in the spoon shaped end and thrown.

The football flavor is imparted by the rough play and the lacrosse touch by the fact that a goal is won only when the ball is thrown fairly between two goal posts. Eleven to twenty men are played on a side, and from the moment the ball is tossed up in the center until somebody throws a goal there is as much doing as in any football game. A rude set of rules govern the game, but there is nothing in them apparently which forbids using the racket-like club for other purposes than tossing the ball goalward—for instance, in whacking the esteemed opponent on the hands, shins or even head.

The fact that it is a bloody and dangerous game adds to its fascination in Indian eyes. It also gives him a chance to yell, and yelling is not with him as much an expression of enjoyment as it is an enjoyment in itself. Being unexpectedly whacked on the head or shins with a fiercely wielded club is not conducive to good temper or comradeship, and one thump usually brings another. Often the game breaks up in a general row, in which spectators engage as well as players. Most of these rows come when one town meets another.

Goal posts are usually about 150 yards apart. The playing rules do not require that a player must instantly rid himself of the ball. He may carry it toward his goal in his spoon end, but is subject to being tackled as in football or to having the ball knocked out of the club by an opponent's club. Then is when the fight usually starts.

In the village games the women frequently take part, playing as partners of the men sometimes; but, following Indian custom, they generally troop together. The men usually are gallant enough to permit the women to have twice as many on their side and to let them use their hands too. Twenty-one points usually constitute a game, one point for each time the ball goes between goal posts, but the number of points is not arbitrarily fixed.

Northern Indians have a different game of ball. They use a large light ball and curved sticks, as in hockey. Goal posts are used. Sides are chosen and a tossup for which side takes the field. One team, armed with its clubs, takes its place strung along in front of its goal. The side in the field attempts to bowl the ball between the posts of the team at bat.

To Bowl by Daylight.

For the first time in the history of the American bowling congress daylight bowling will be a feature of the tournament, which will be held at Wayne Gardens, Detroit, from Feb. 26 to March 15, inclusive. Twenty regulation alleys will be installed, six of these to be utilized for practice and match games, and the remaining fourteen will be used exclusively for rolling off the annual tourney. From present indications there will be a record list of entries, something like 400 five-man teams being expected. Assurances have been received by the tournament officials that Chicago alone will be represented by fifty teams.

Chicago Swimmers to Invade East.

The Illinois Athletic club of Chicago expects to send its swimming team on an eastern invasion either in February or March to meet teams from the Pittsburg Athletic club, the Brookline Athletic club of Boston and the New York Athletic club. In the west the team will meet the Missouri Athletic club swimmers in St. Louis some time in January, and the Chicago Athletic club is also looking for a contest with the St. Louis men.

COCHATO BOWLING

Team Two Leading in Men's Tournament

The standing to date is as follows:

| | Strings | Points | Pinfalls |
|---|---|---|---|
| Team 2 | 27 | 64 | 21088 |
| Team 1 | 27 | 62 1-2 | 20693 |
| Team 8 | 27 | 60 1-2 | 20793 |
| Team 4 | 27 | 58 1-2 | 20805 |
| Team 3 | 27 | 57 | 20800 |
| Team 5 | 27 | 50 | 20246 |
| Team 9 | 27 | 49 | 20541 |
| Team 7 | 27 | 25 1-2 | 19544 |
| Team 6 | 27 | 25 | 19822 |

In the gentlemen's bottle pin tournament the rolling was done this week on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Team two has progressed to the lead, points and pin falls. The scores and standing are as follows:

Tuesday Evening

TEAM ONE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| L. O. Crocker | 153 | 161 | 152 | 466 |
| E. A. Haskell | 1 3 | 140 | 126 | 389 |
| G. M. Keating | 152 | 113 | 165 | 430 |
| O. B. Oakman | 114 | 132 | 147 | 393 |
| O. A. Bridgham | 164 | 108 | 147 | 419 |
| | 706 | 654 | 737 | 2097 |

TEAM SEVEN.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| G. E. Will ams | 148 | 150 | 145 | 443 |
| M. T. Swallow | 174 | 152 | 139 | 465 |
| H. W. Gore, Jr. | 132 | 94 | 165 | 391 |
| W. E. Dow | 129 | 103 | 1 9 | 371 |
| G. L. Anderson | 97 | 119 | 82 | 298 |
| | 660 | 618 | 690 | 1968 |

TEAM EIGHT.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dr. H. A. Jones | 131 | 128 | 147 | 406 |
| A. N. Hunt | 145 | 145 | 145 | 435 |
| W. I. Arnold | 152 | 144 | 151 | 447 |
| H. E. Spear | 117 | 117 | 117 | 351 |
| Dr. E. Johnson | 115 | 119 | 112 | 346 |
| | 660 | 653 | 672 | 1985 |

Wednesday Evening.

TEAM THREE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| G. H. Hamblett | 153 | 158 | 159 | 490 |
| S. H. Thayer | 136 | 148 | 137 | 421 |
| Dr. C. H. Gould | 100 | 134 | 137 | 371 |
| G. E. Sampson | 130 | 108 | 159 | 397 |
| W. L. Shaw | 115 | 115 | 115 | 345 |
| | 654 | 663 | 707 | 2024 |

TEAM FIVE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H. W. Macomber | 156 | 156 | 156 | 468 |
| A. M. Dow | 161 | 202 | 189 | 552 |
| W. C Harrison | 155 | 168 | 149 | 472 |
| F. K. Patch | 156 | 119 | 124 | 399 |
| W. T. Case | 115 | 115 | 115 | 345 |
| | 743 | 760 | 733 | 2236 |

TEAM NINE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dr. E. Bent | 170 | 149 | 1 0 | 479 |
| C. W. Dow | 180 | 182 | 125 | 487 |
| E. B. Bird | 115 | 126 | 163 | 404 |
| C. S. Cozzins | 115 | 115 | 115 | 345 |
| J. H. Stedman | 121 | 113 | 126 | 360 |
| | 701 | 685 | 689 | 2075 |

Thursday Evening

TEAM TWO.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| J. E. Arnold | 215 | 197 | 139 | 551 |
| G. A. Arnold | 181 | 121 | 159 | 461 |
| W. S. Perry | 202 | 179 | 165 | 546 |
| W. F. Dunsmore | 117 | 139 | 150 | 406 |
| C. D. Hopkins | 99 | 105 | 87 | 291 |
| | 814 | 741 | 700 | 2255 |

TEAM FOUR.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| W. F. Rogers | 167 | 181 | 157 | 5 7 |
| W. H. Reynolds | 168 | 180 | 156 | 504 |
| F. A Powdrell | 111 | 104 | 109 | 324 |
| G. H. Wetherbee | 124 | 129 | 160 | 41 |
| G. W. Treat | 113 | 158 | 97 | 368 |
| | 685 | 754 | 679 | 2116 |

TEAM SIX.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| G. V. Pennock | 155 | 175 | 175 | 465 |
| W. E. Field | 172 | 183 | 93 | 448 |
| H. W. Hall | 155 | 124 | 135 | 414 |
| J. L. Haddie | 122 | 122 | 122 | 366 |
| J. W. Davy | 113 | 129 | 115 | 357 |
| | 717 | 713 | 640 | 2050 |

FIRE CHIEF INJURED.

While responding to an alarm from box 23 at East Braintree, late Thursday afternoon, chief of fire department, Frank O. Whitmash received what may prove to be fatal injuries. The wagon collided with a coal wagon near the grain mill. Chief Whitmash was thrown out landing on his head and shoulders. He was picked up unconscious and taken into the office of J. F. Sheppard and Sons, and medical aid was summoned after which he was removed to his home on Shaw street.

He regained consciousness later. His injuries include a broken shoulder and several bad cuts on the head.

Mr. Whitmash is one of the oldest and best known fire fighters in the state. He is a charter member of the Massachusetts Fire Chiefs club and has been for sixteen years sargent-at-arms of the Massachusetts State Firemens' Association.

The alarm was for a fire in the grass on the banking bordering on the railroad near Shaw street and was set by a spark from the locomotive of the 5.12 train from Boston. Quite a tract was burned over also the fence in the rear of the residence of Walter E. Thompson. The wind was blowing a gale at the time and for a time the large barn on the Thompson estate was threatened.

Mrs. McLaughlin of Bates avenue has recovered from her recent illness.

TEAM FOUR VICTORY

Had a Total Pinfall of 1313 to 1244

Team 4 by its victory Thursday evening is now tie for first place in the Norfolk Downs bowling league with Team 2, but the latter is ahead on pinfall. The summary:

| | Won. | Lost. | Pinfall. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Team 2 | 4 | 0 | 1350 |
| Team 4 | 4 | 0 | 1313 |
| Team 3 | 0 | 4 | 1244 |
| Team 1 | | 4 | 1228 |

WON BY 69 PINS.

Teams 3 and 4 met Thursday evening, and the latter took the three strings, and total. On the first both teams did their best, but the high score of Macdougal gave Team 4 a lead of 20 pins. Team 4 took the second by 10 pins, and the third by 39. Macdougal was high man on singles and totals.

TEAM FOUR.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Macdougal | 121 | 85 | 85 | 291 |
| Robbins | 88 | 88 | 80 | 256 |
| Gibney | 69 | 77 | 80 | 236 |
| Guinon | 85 | 103 | 82 | 270 |
| Poland | 92 | 78 | 102 | 272 |
| Total | 453 | 431 | 429 | 1313 |

TEAM THREE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Ma back | 80 | 85 | 81 | 246 |
| Richardson | 88 | 94 | 80 | 262 |
| Clifford | 79 | 80 | 79 | 238 |
| Bane | 101 | 80 | 85 | 275 |
| W. Bugbee | 85 | 73 | 85 | 243 |
| Total | 433 | 421 | 390 | 1244 |

WORCESTER DISEASE

Has Reached Quincy. Known as Rubberplane

Rubber plane! Have you got it? Or just "plain rubber" to be exact. The people of New England, Worcester in particular, seem to be very much afflicted with the disease at present. There are several in Quincy also who would make admirable patients, for last night about every fifth person one met held his head so high in the air that it was plainly seen that they were suffering from rubber plane. All this misery is simply to get a glimpse of an aeroplane which some motormen on the street railway line reported to have seen.

The story was told in City Square last night that a certain motorman, whose veracity is not to be doubted, had seen the famous mysterious air ship and more; that he had raced with it from Neponset to Wollaston and that suddenly it shot across his bow and veered away in the direction of Dorchester.

This was received at first with a laugh, but as the motorman's identity became known and his utmost regard for truth at all times, is appreciated by the public, they began to take stock in his tale. More motormen came along and their stories varied but little from the first one, until finally people began to believe and with believing came a sense of loss. So that very soon all those cognizant with the facts were smitten with the terrifying disease, Rubber plane ,or just "plain rubber." Some are still rubbering for a glimpse of that motormans aeroplane which turned out to be the weather man's kite which is sent up every evening from the Blue Hills observatory.

AUXILIARY OFFICERS.

At the meeting of Sons of Veterans Auxiliary these officers were elected:
President—L. Ella Gragg.
Vice President—Emma Stoddard.
Chaplain—Etta French.
Treasurer—Emma Ela.
Patriotic Instructor — Minnie Glover.
Guide—Mildred Dexheimer.
Assistant Guide—Cora Johnson.
Inside Guard—Celia Thayer.
Outside Guard—Etta Lakin.
One new member was mustered in. The installation will take place Wednesday, Jan. 12.

"Say, Jobson, why don't you marry that awful nice Baker girl?"
"Because one of her family opposes the match so stubbornly."
"Marry her in spite of that one."
"Well, you see, the trouble is she's the one."

CITY COUNCIL

(Continued from Page 1.)

the salary of the Inspector of Buildings at $1000, who shall devote his whole time to the office. The building ordinance is amended so as to provide that the Inspector, under the direction of the Commissioner, shall inspect all public buildings and report on the same in writing.

Upon motion of Councilman Gilson all matters before the Public Buildings committee were referred to the next Council.

MORE LIGHT.

Councilman Russell offered an order for two lights on the Ward Three playground, if feasible to flood the park for a skating pond. Referred to the Executive.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for an incandescent light on Forrest avenue. Referred to the Executive.

Orders granting the Telephone company locations for poles and attachments, and the Electric Light Co., locations for poles were passed.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order requesting Commissioner of Public Works to remove the piece of rock on Copeland street opposite the Reinhalter estate. Adopted.

BOUQUETS.

Upon motion of Councilman Whiton thanks were voted to the President, Clerk, City Messenger, Auditor, to the press for the impartial manner in which they had reported the meetings of the City Council, and to the retiring members of the Council for their able services.

Adjourned sine-die at 9.34.

A CHALLENGE.

The West Quincy Checker and Cribbage Club defeated the Tammany A C in close and exciting games of cards. In cribbage the teams broke even but in forty-five with the old Romans, "Capt." Kiley and "Senator" Clarke doing the honors, is where West Quincy won. West Quincy challenges any club in Quincy or nearby, at checkers, cribbage, forty-five, billiards and pool. Their next important match is with the Lynn Checker Club in Lynn.

FREE
One pound of the best Christmas candy with every 75 cent purchase or more during this week also a pretty new year Calendar. Choicest of the best fruits, as sweet oranges, 15 cents a dozen up, Malaga grapes 15 cents and 20 cents pound, Christmas candy 15 cents pound, 2 pounds for 25 cents, nuts, candy, tobacco and cigars
SALTALAMACHIA & CUSOLITO,
1403 Hancock street,
Opposite the Auditorium.
Dec. 22 3t

JUST A MINUTE
How about a case of our FANCY DRINKS
for your
Christmas Dinner
German Seltzer
For Digestion
Temperance
BEER
For your table drinks
Mixed Tonic
For your Company
CALL, WRITE OR PHONE
GERMAN SELTZER MFG. CO.
QUINCY, MASS.
Dec. 20—4t Phone 146-1

Christmas Flowers
CUT FLOWERS OF ALL KINDS
Wreaths, Potted Plants and all Floral Designs for the Holidays can be found at our store.
Flowers make appropriate gifts for mother sister, sweetheart or your sick friends.
We have Poinsettias, Azaleas, Cyclamen, Ferns, Palms, Primroses, Jerusalem Cherries, etc.
CALL TODAY.
CITY FLOWER STORE
CARL JOHNSON, Prop.
361 Hancock St., City Sq., Tel, 275-2
Dec. 20 4t

NOTICE

The Thomas Crane Public Library will be closed after 6 P. M. Friday Christmas Eve, and on Christmas Day.

Per Order of the Trustees.
Dec, 21 4t

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST--A Garnet Ring with initials on inside, an opal stud and an African beetle, between boulevard and West Quincy Depot. Return to WALSH'S Drug Store, West Quincy and recieve reward. Quincy, Dec. 24-3t

LOST—Dec. 20th, about 5 P. M., Boston Terrier pup leather strap around neck; four months old. Return to 7 Alleyne Terrace. Reward. Dec. 23-6t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE or TO LET--Before you buy or rent, consult me. Houses for sale or to rent in the finest residential section in Quincy All improvements. Close to school, churches stores and depot. C. A. ERICSON, Builder 117 Glendale Road. Tel. Quincy 28-2. May 22-tf W and Sat.

FOR SALE—Light express wagon suitable for grocery or general delivery, will carry a ton; first class condition. Apply at 10 Sumner street, Quincy. Dec. 21-3t

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of

ISABELLA KEMP,

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased:

Whereas a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by William L. S. Kemp of Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to h m the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the twelfth day of January, A. D. 1910, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.
Dec. 24 3t--24-31-7

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
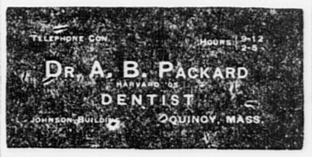
NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT

TO all persons interested in the estate of

JOSEPH F. BERRY

late of Quincy in said County, deceased:



Whereas, George H. Brown the trustee under the will of said deceased has presented for allowance the tenth account of his trust under said will.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County, on the fifth day of January A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be allowed.

And said trustee is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.
Dec. 24 3t-24-27-3

ASSETS, $450,000.
QUINCY CO-OP BANK
$ $ $ $
for the People
ESTABLISHED 1889
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE
Room 1 SAVINGS BK BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas

WANTED.

WANTED — Experienced seamstress would like work with dressmaker or would take sewing at home. Address S., Ledger Office. Quincy, Dec. 22-3t

WANTED—Young men to learn automobile business by mail and prepare for positions as chauffeurs and repair men. We make you expert in ten weeks; assist you to secure position. Pay big; work pleasant; demand for men great; reasonable; write for particulars and sample lesson. Empire Automobile Institute, Rochester, N. Y. Dec. 24 3t

TO LET

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN. Dec. 21 6t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neigborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-tf

TO LET — Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road, Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-18t

MODERN HOUSE WOLLASTON—9 rooms and bath, corner Elm avenue and Phillips street, for sale or rent. Address E. E. JAMESON, 58 Beach street, Wollaston. Tel. 129-4 Quincy. Dec. 10-12t

TO LET—Tenement of six rooms, all improvements. Winthrop Park. MRS. JULIUS JOHNSON, 64 Centre street. Quincy Dec. 2-tf

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-tf

TO LET
Tenement — Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.
Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.
24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.
Greenleaf Hall — Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.
City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x43 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent
Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

Boys Wanted
TO SELL
Quincy Daily Ledgers
at the Quincy, Quincy Adams, and West Quincy Stations. Also at Fore River Shipyard.
Apply at LEDGER OFFICE.

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 290 QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 27, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

NORTHEAST STORM WITH HEAVY SNOWFALL

Steam and Electric Roads Hard Hit; Also Fire Alarm, Electric and Telephone Wires, No Street Lights

Accompanied by Record Breaking High Tide Which Floats Buildings and Causes Damage

All thoughts of a green Christmas were dispelled in the afternoon when the long expected snow began to fall. Up to that time the holiday had been all that could be desired. The early morning was sharp and cold, but the weather moderated as the day drew on and about 6 P. M., the air filled with snow flakes. Once started there was no let up, and wise ones shook their heads and said "We are in for it now."

After dark the wind went into the northeast quarter, and steadily increased in violence. All this time the snow was falling and as the weather had moderated the snow packed down heavily. The street railway company got its big plows out early so that there was practically no interruption in car service up to midnight.

However, the wind seemed to be increasing in violence, and the damp snow accumulating on the wires caused them to sag heavily. Then the fire alarm wires became grounded and for a time there was a constant banging of the bells and automatic whistles. Then the wires began to snap and drop into the street, so that by daylight not only were many telephone lines out of commission but electric light wires were also down.

Then the poles began to snap and before noon seven or eight poles near the corner of Hancock street and Billings road were down and across the street, completely blocking travel. All along the whole length of Hancock street the wires were down in a tangled mass. When the poles fell one of the large plate glass windows in Brown's drug store opposite Billings road was smashed.

On the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. things were nearly as bad, and trains became stalled early in the morning. The paper train came through all right. Then several poles fell across the track, and the line was blocked. Before night the street railway line through Wollaston was opened to Neponset, but on the Boston side there were no cars, as the lines were completely blocked.

Hough's Neck was completely cut off from the city. All the telephone lines are down, as many of the poles were snapped off and they fell into the street, taking all the wires with them. The street car line to Houghs Neck is blocked although the street railway are trying hard to get the line through, and it was expected that cars would be running soon.

On the Norfolk Downs loop line and the Squantum street car line, no cars were running, both being completely blocked by snow and fallen poles and wires. There are also a number of poles down on the Weymouth Landing line, and car service was interrupted.

The street railway put every man to work it could get, Sunday, clearing away the debris, and Supt. Gammon said this morning every line would be open before noon.

Cars were operated on several lines Sunday but no attempt was made to run them on schedule time the main idea being to keep the lines open.

The telephone and electric light companies suffered heavily by the storm. Hundreds of their wires are down and there are also many poles down.

Some of the telephone lines were working Sunday, more particularly those that are in the underground system, but the great majority are out.

Many of the electric light wires are down, and it is fortunate that it was bright moonlight last night, for it would have been impossible to have turned the current on, as it would have been extremely dangerous. In some sections of the city, where electricity is used as an illuminating power, families had to resort to candles or oil lamps.

The fire alarm lines suffered badly. They became crossed with falling telephone lines early Sunday morning and for a time there was a banging of bells until the line was cut out.

Every fire alarm circuit in the city was put out of commission early Sunday morning, so that it is impossible to sound an alarm. The telephones in most of the fire houses are working, however, and in case of fire this will have to be resorted to. All the police were notified that the fire alarm system was out, and arrangements were made to notify the fire department from the police station in case the engine house could not be reached.

Many of the police wires are in the underground system, and their working was not interferred with. As soon as it commenced to snow, Chief Williams put extra horses in all the fire houses. Fortunately however there were no fires.

AT HOUGHS NECK.

Houghs Neck was badly hit by the storm. The beach was exposed to the fury of the northeaster, and considerable damage resulted. A cottage on River road owned and occupied by A. R. Southwick was washed into the sea, and the occupants were only saved by the heroism of Walter H. Sturgis and his son who went out in a row boat and rescued them. The cottage was built on piles, and supposed to be above the danger line, but the tide lifted it, and before the occupants realized what had happened they were floating. The predicament was seen by Mr. Sturgis, and he and his son had a hard battle to reach it. The occupants were taken out of one of the upper windows and brought safely back to shore. The cottage is now at Raccoon Island.

The high tide did considerable damage among the small boats hauled up for the winter and several went adrift. Mr. Sturgis lost a valuable power boat which was smashed to pieces. The end of the steamboat pier was carried away, and the plazza of the Quincy Yacht club house considerably damaged. The plazza railings were carried away, and the building battered by drifting logs.

The embankment all the way from the stemboat pier to Rock Island was badly washed out, and Pierce's hotel and dance hall was so undermined that it collapsed. The granite breakwater at the foot of Bell street was also washed out and the bridge between Houghs Neck and Rock Island was carried away.

The tide came over the street near Adams Shore, and did considerable damage the street at high tide being covered with several feet of water.

The famous gunning stand of Al Williams at Adams Shore was totally destroyed by the high tide and storm.

AT QUINCY POINT.

There were many incidents both exciting and near tragic connected with the storm. At Quincy Point, along the waterfront, the yachts which had been pulled up for the winter were nearly all shifted from their blocks, the only one being found intact was the Beatrice. An incident, which afforded a number of people some anxious moments, was the rescuing of Charlie Dimmock, a clam man who has his home on the banks of the Town river, and who early in the day was flooded out and attempted to get to the mainland which was at that time situated at the foot of Edison park. He was caught in the ice when half way across. To his cries for help several of the neighbors responded and tried different ways to rescue him from his perilous position, but without success. He was too weak to throw a line, and they could not get one to him against the wind, until finally they hitched a heavy object to the end of it and it fell over his head. Grasping it he made it tight about his body and they hauled him to

(Continued on Page 8.)

WHY GAS IS THE BEST LIGHT FOR YOU

QUALITY—The soft, mellow steady light of the modern mantle burner is absolutely the best artificial light to work or read by.

DOES NOT TIRE THE EYES.

CONVENIENCE—By using the Chain Pull attachment on the burners, the use of matches is abolished.

QUANTITY—The Reflex Inverted Light with Holophane Reflector gives a light equal to 200 candles directly under the light.

We will put in a light on trial; if you don't like it we will take it out without expense to you.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.

11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. Quincy 181

Dec. 24 tf

AT GRANITE CITY CLUB

Enjoyable Observance of Christmas Season

Of the many good times and hospitable entertainments held under the auspices of the Granite City club, none has afforded more pleasure to its members than that of the night before Christmas. Good cheer abounded and the club rooms were thronged with members all the evening. The entertainment this year was largely for members and there were but few guests.

The rooms looked unusually attractive with their Christmas decorations, and the right hand of good fellowship was extended to all. There was no formal reception but during the early part of the evening President Tilden and the officers of the club welcomed all members, and wished them many happy returns of the day.

Members amused themselves as their individual taste dictated until 10 o'clock, at which time they were informed their presence was required in Colonial hall. As each entered they were presented with a big cigar. The entertainment was given by artists from well known Boston theatres and proved very pleasing. While the entertainment was in progress a few gifts were presented to some of the prominent members of the club, a verse of poetry being read with each gift by one of the show people. These gifts were in the nature of hits, and the laughter that followed each showed that each was a bull's eye shot.

As the members left the hall at the close of the entertainment each was presented with a box of chocolates for the ladies at home.

A buffet lunch was served the entire evening in the club rooms. At midnight practically all of the members had departed for home, having passed one of the pleasantest evening's entertainments ever held by the club.

480 ORDERS BEFORE COUNCIL

Many More Than in Any Previous Year

The City Council of 1909, which went out of existence Thursday night, made a record for itself that was not surpassed by any previous Council. In all 31 meetings have been held, and the Council has been in session 61 hours and 50 minutes. The shortest session of the year was Sept. 1, and was 13 minutes' duration. The longest session was May 17, when the Council was in session for five hours. The average attendance at the meetings has been 20 members.

Three members have been present at every session. President Hobbs and Councilmen Smith and Walsh. Councilmen Bean, Bryant, McDevitt and Whiton have been absent but one evening. Councilmen Abele, Gilson, Hadlock and Moir two meetings; Councilmen Beal, Carey, Flynn and Richards three meetings; Councilmen Bishop, Freeman and Gardner four meetings; Councilman Flaherty five meetings; Councilmen Cheerington and Russell seven meetings; and Councilmen Nelson and Nowland eight meetings.

During the year 123 communications and 121 petitions have been received and 480 orders acted upon. The number of orders is greatly in excess of any previous year of the city government and is an increase of 144 over the year 1908. In the three years that Councilman Walsh has been a member of the Council he has not missed a meeting.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

Red Cross Stamps

On Christmas Letters

Carry Good Cheer

CHRISTMAS FESTIVALS

Most of Them Held before the Storm

AT FIRST CHURCH.

The annual Christmas festival of the Sunday school of the First church was held Christmas eve. The children of the school gathered in the church at 6.30, and for about an hour united in singing Christmas carols. Then they marched to the chapel and there a surprise awaited them. In the midst of the chapel was a large Christmas tree, beautifully decorated and laden with gifts the chairs being arranged in a square around the tree. On the stage was a huge chimney down which Santa Claus came with a jingling of bells. Santa first made friends with all the children and then distributed the presents. Every child received a gift and a bag of candy. Mr. Johnson and Mr. Ames also had a present from the teachers. This was a new way of having the Christmas tree and proved a huge success in every way.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

The Swedish Baptist church had its annual "Julotta" at 5.30 o'clock Christmas morning. There was a large gathering as this old custom of an early service Christmas morning is very popular among the Swedes. The old Swedish carol was sung as usual. Then followed a short sermon by the pastor over the text, "And the word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

In the evening at 6 o'clock the Sunday school held its Christmas entertainment. A good program was rendered under the excellent leadership of the Superintendent A. Lundin. The program consisted of vocal solos, duets, singing by the choir and a young ladies' quartette, also a piano duet and solos. Between the musical numbers recitations were given by members of the Sunday school.

After the rendering of the program Mrs. A. P. Hanson was presented with a beautiful parlor gas lamp which was a gift of the Sunday school. All the children received a box of Christmas candy, while everyone present was served fruit. All the pupils were given a New Testament with the Psalms, except those who during the year have passed their fifteenth birthday. These were given a fine Bible.

The decorating of the church was in charge of John Almquist and G. R. Bloomquist, and they received many compliments for the artistic way in which they had done their work.

All the Sunday services were held as usual although the attendance was small on account of the weather. In the evening the church was illuminated by candles as there was no electric lighting.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

"Jack Frosts Christmas Show" was the title of the cantata presented at the Christmas festival of the Wollaston Methodist church on Christmas eve.

The principal parts were well acted, while the work of the chorus was especially pleasing.

Following is the cast of characters:

| | |
|---|---|
| Jack Frost | Storer Wiggins |
| Ernest | Allen Stearns |
| Bob | Ray Cassidy |
| Frank | Frank Dunham |
| Clyde | Felex Favrite |
| Amy | Beulah Collett |
| Jeanette | Jeanie Keith |

Chorus—Marion Clifford, Ida Hoyt, Gladys Hirtle, Ruth Crocker, Florence Palmer, Esther Nason, Theodore Taylor, George Crocker, George Winters, Doris Winters, Elvira Cash.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The program of the Christmas entertainment at the Wollaston Baptist church on Friday evening was a most interesting one. An orchestra composed of Miss May Critchley, Rodger Bates, Max Pinkham, Everett Rhodes and Charles Sayward rendered selections of merit. The young members of the Sunday school class of Mrs. C. D. Young contributed a very pretty little song. Selections from the "Birds Christmas Carol" and other Christmas stories were read by Miss McConnell. A jolly Santa Claus, in the person of Charles Bailey, kept all amused in the distribution of the many presents. The vestry was prettily trimmed with laurel and decorations of red and green.

FREE TRIAL ELECTRIC LIGHTING

As a special inducement to the citizens of Quincy, whose homes or stores have never been wired for electric light, the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company makes the following proposition:

To all who will expend at least twenty dollars ($20) for wiring and fixtures, before January 31st, 1910, the Company will make the service connections, install meter and standard carbon filament lamps without charge, and will also FURNISH FREE twenty dollars ($20) worth of electric current at regular meter rates to be used before June 30th, 1910, provided the premises can be reached from the present lines of the Company without the setting of additional poles. This concession will go far towards paying the entire cost of wiring the average house.

For further particulars telephone Quincy, 185, between the hours of 8 A. M. and 5 P. M., or fill out and mail to the Company, No. 9 Granite Street, Quincy, the attached coupon.

Quincy Electric Light & Power Company

By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.

Quincy, Mass, December 22nd, 1909.

COUPON.

QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER CO.:

Gentlemen:

I am interested in your offer of Free Trial Electric Lighting. Please have your representative call and give me full information.

Name.....

Address, No......Street,

Date of Appointment.....Time.

Dec. 22—12 t

WOLLASTON CONREGATIONAL.

At the annual Christmas entertainment of the Wollaston Congregational church on Saturday evening a scene from the "Birds Christmas Carol" was presented. The parts were well taken and reflect much credit on the officers of the Girls Choir club, under whose direction it was given. These consist of Miss Helen Farwell president, and Miss Lucy Chase. The entertainment preceded a general distribution of presents. The cast follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Sarah Maud | Carolyn Lewis |
| Mrs. Ruggles | Helen Seavey |
| Kitty | Mary Murray |
| Peoria | Esther Murray |
| Eily | Olive Chapman |
| Susan | Ethel Chapman |
| Clement | Charles Johnson |
| Cornelius | Elmer Johnson |
| Peter | Dorothy Taylor |
| Baby Larry | Emily Perry |

AT ST. CHRYSOSTOMS.

St. Chrysostoms Sunday school held its Christmas festival on Christmas eve at 6 o'clock. All gathered in the church for the singing of hymns, and after a short service, presents were distributed from the tree lighted with electricity. After which the younger children went home. The older ones remained for a good time in the parish rooms, playing games.

There was a celebration of the holy communion and singing of carols at St. Chrysostoms church Christmas morning at 7 o'clock. An inspiring musical program was rendered at 10.30 Christmas day, and the church was elaborately decorated with wreaths, laurel and evergreen and beautiful flowers were on the altar.

SUICIDE AT WEST QUINCY.

A man supposed to be George H. Tuttle, aged about 35 years, was found dead in the tenement over Doble's store at West Quincy Sunday afternoon. When found the man was seated in a chair. From letters in the man's pocket it is believed to have been a case of suicide. The body was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms and Medical Examiner Jones will perform an autopsy on the body today to find the exact cause of death. But little is known about the man. Undertaker Hall thinks that he buried the man's wife a short time ago.

ALMOST LOST A FOOT.

A most peculiar and miraculous escape from serious injury was witnessed by the passengers on the 10.40 train out of Boston Saturday night when it stopped at the South Quincy station. A passenger stepped to the platform of a car while the car was in motion and while crossing between the cars his foot slipped and went down in the space between the cars just as the train came to a stop. Everybody who saw him thought that his foot would be crushed between the bumpers and they turned their eyes from the sight, while two ladies who were emerging from a car door screamed and turned back into the car which they had just left. The train however came to such an easy stop that the two cars came together just enough so that the man's foot was caught and held as in a vise. He could not remove it after the train stopped, and the conductor was called to the scene. He saw that the only way to get the man out of his predicament was to break the air-brake connection and move the forward cars ahead, and this was done, and the man relieved from his uncomfortable position after much labor. Although he suffered no harm from his experience the man, who refused to give his name, said that he would be careful the next time where he put his foot. Had the train stopped as most of them do when they pull into a station he would certainly have been minus a foot.

HONORS AT HARVARD.

Lucien H. Thayer, Harvard '10, of Willow street, who has made the highest honor at Harvard, and been elected to the Phi Beta Kappa, was presented today with the golden key by President Lowell at Sanders theatre. He was also given a scholarship of $250, which makes the fourth scholarship earned for meritorious work since entering Harvard. Mr. Thayer will be remembered as the valedictorian of the class of 1906, Quincy High school, and many friends will be glad to know of the new honors conferred upon him.

PAIN AND PLEASURE

are like water and oil they won't mix It's sure enough pain, if you have tooth trouble.

IT GIVES US PLEASURE TO STOP YOUR PAIN

if the pain is caused by defective teeth.

Our help is permanent and you face your own pain by delay. We put up satisfactory and

LASTING TOOTH CURE AT THESE DENTAL PARLORS.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.

DENTIST

37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.

Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Dec. 27 lo-1w

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson, oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gregg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Judge Willis Van Devanter.

One of the Four Anti-Standard Oil Judges.

Judge Willis Van Devanter, who joined with Judges Sanborn, Hook and Adams in condemning the Standard Oil company, is an Indiana man by birth and a graduate of Asbury (now De Pauw) university. Soon after his admission to the practice of law at Marion, Ind., he went to Wyoming and became prominent in the affairs of the territory. Judge Van Devanter was appointed to the circuit court bench Feb. 18, 1903.

BRIEFS

Nathaniel Thayer has returned to New York, having spent the holidays at his home on Willow street.

Mrs. Thomas M. Cunningham and daughter Anna of Clinton spent Christmas and the week end with Mrs. Elmer E. Gray of Newton street.

Prof. and Mrs. Paul Nixon of Brunswick, Maine, were guests during the Christmas holidays of Mrs. William Thompson.

Mrs. Frank W. Taber, and son, of Newark, N. J. enjoyed the holidays at their grandmother's at 690 Adams street.

Miss Hattie M. Smith, of Sunapee, N. H., formerly a teacher in the Willard school has been a guest of Mrs. Helen Chamberlin, 690 Adams street.

Mrs. O. Jacobson of Washington street is entertaining the Andrew Smiths of Spencer over the week end.

Mrs. Mary M. Bird and Miss Ada M. Bird of Roxbury were week end guests of their cousin, Mrs. William D. Purdom of Newport avenue.

Miss Mary Joss and Miss Charlotte Kingman are among the teachers who are spending the holidays at their homes in Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Arthur Gray and Miss Maud R. Gray of Botolph street were entertained at a Christmas house party at Concord.

Miss Lucy Mitchell of Newbury avenue who has had a six months leave of absence, has returned to her home, and will resume her duties at the Hyde School, Newton, with the New Year.

That is a tempting offer which the Quincy Electric Light & Pawer Company make, to furnish $20 worth of electric lighting free. See announcement in another column; it is worthy of investigation.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c

BLIZZARD HITS NEW ENGLAND

Great Damage Is Reported All Along the Coast

DYKE BREAKS AT CHELSEA

Three Persons Drowned, Thirty-One Missing and Property Damage to Extent of $200,000 as Large Area Is Swept by Flood—Fears That Stories of Disasters at Sea Will Come When Wires Get to Work

Boston, Dec. 27.—Three persons dead, thirty-one reported missing and 2500 driven from their homes are part of the havic wrought by a broken dyke to Chelsea and East Everett citizens yesterday. Eighty acres were inundated, 100 cows and twenty horses were drowned, and the property loss is estimated at $200,000.

Flood tide, lashed by the gale and swelled by the heavy snowfall, tore through the dyke located at the rear of Second street, Chelsea, in three different places.

Householders in East Locust street and Second and Third streets and intersecting thoroughfares heard a sound like a thunderclap. It was the roar of the water of Island End creek leaping forward to spread death and devastation.

Like a flash the danger was realized. There was a wild outpouring from homes into the raging blizzard. Some were not quick to act. These found escape cut off by water that seemed to fairly leap upward. Many rushed to the roofs. Others could get no farther than the second story, owing to lack of openings on the roofs. Many of the imperilled ones were women and children. Their screams for aid raised a din that drowned even the howling of the storm. Thrilling rescues were made by men in boats, by several who braved the street torrents on horseback and by others who waded off with endangered women and children before the water rose so high as to make such feats impossible.

In East Locust street, which is hardly more than an alleyway, the water rose to its greatest height. This street is in East Everett, just over the Chelsea line, and passes from Second street down an incline to the edge of a small pool of water known as the "gas pond." This water ordinarily is shallow. When the dyke burst it rose twenty-five feet. Several of the houses located off East Locust street on the edge of the pond were entirely submerged.

Others that were built higher reared their tops beyond the high water mark, and this is what saved those who had dashed upstairs when their exit was cut off.

Cornelius Hawkin and his wife lived in the lower part of a house on East Locust street. After the water had subsided somewhat, a boat containing William Warner and several police officers came alongside the house. A window of the Hawkin tenement was kicked in.

Warner jumped into water that was shoulder deep and located the bodies under the bed in the couple's sleeping apartment.

For a short time yesterday Boston was completely cut off from communication with the outside world. The prostration of the wire service, especially in southeastern New England, was more extensive than for many years. The telephone and telegraph companies had a few wires through to New York by way of northern circuits, and communication with the north and east, where the snow was dry, was in fairly good shape last night.

A mighty gale, heavy, driving snow and a huge tidal wave driven by the awful power of the sea combined to produce the worst storm this section of the country has undergone since the blizzard of 1888 and the highest tides since 1851.

Families flooded out of their homes, people drowned, thousands of dollars' worth of property destroyed, suburban towns and cities in total darkness, fire alarms useless, car service crippled, telegraph and telephone wires down, and a fearful expectancy of what today may bring forth from the unknown seas, are some of the results of the storm.

Driven by a gale that sometimes reached a velocity of eighty-four miles an hour, the angry sea piled up a tidal wave that broke in dykes, tore down granite and cement-retaining walls. From Block island to Eastport the New England coast line is a long line of storm-swept shore.

The havoc of the storm stretched from Plymouth to Portsmouth. Lights were out in all the coast cities. Streets along the harbor fronts were inundated to the depth of several feet. Cellars flooded destroyed hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of goods and property.

Water piling in in a higher wave that has been seen about Boston since 1851 quenched the fires in boiler rooms, rendering electric and gas lighting plants useless. Locomotives ploughing through water overflowing the railroad tracks had their fires put out and were dead until the tide receded.

Of the outside world little could be learned except by rumors. One telegraph company did have several wires through to New York, but beyond Providence no communcation by phone was possible. The entire south shore, usually so prolific of tales of shipwreck and distress, lay mute yesterday, its very silence conjuring up warnings of the tales to come.

Lynn, Salem, Newburyport, Beverly and Portsmouth on the north, Plymouth, Fall River, Providence and as far south as New London, all contributed their tales to the wrath of the storm.

Sea Destroys Eight Houses

Revere, Mass., Dec. 27.—Winthrop, Beachmont and parts of Revere were plunged in darkness, while scores of families whose homes and possessions had been swept away by the devastating storm sought shelter in the houses of friends or sympathizing townspeople, under the roofs of club houses and in some cases at places of refuge set by the town authorities.

Much seashore property at Beachmont and Revere was swept away. Eight houses at Short Beach were destroyed. Animals, entangled in wreckage and debris, presented almost as pitiful sights as did the human sufferers.

The Merrymount, Lincoln and Howland summer pavilions, Holt's boat house and a number of ice cream and amusement resorts were smashed to pieces in the fury of the gale at Beachmont.

Wrecks Feared Off Plymouth

Plymouth, Mass., Dec. 27.—It is regarded here as a matter of certainty that several vessels went down off this place. Wreckage, consisting of pilot houses, cabins and various portions of barge fittings, came ashore during the height of the great gale, indicating that some of the craft which were lying at anchor in the harbor Christmas night have been sunk. If this is so, not a single trace of any member of the crews of these craft have been discovered, and mariners declare that they must have perished.

Water Supply Shut Off

Salem, Mass., Dec. 27.—Salem was swept by the heaviest storm in years. The unusually high tide flooded scores of cellars and swept over the Beverly bridge, wrenching the giant water main that goes over the bridge eighteen inches out of place and making necessary the shutting off of the water supply.

Car Leaps Into Pond

New Haven, Dec. 27.—As a result of the storm which held all Connecticut in its grip, a trolley car, between Beacon Falls and Seymour, leaped the track at Rimmons pond, rolled down a 15-foot embankment and crashed through five feet of ice into the pond.

There were five passengers and they struggled to the top of the car and broke a way out of a window, saving themselves from death by drowning almost miraculously.

The conductor, Fred Pond, and the motoman, Mark Donovan, were each pinned down by a piece of the car and were unable to fight their way out of the water. They were drowned before help could reach them. The accident was caused by the failure of the car to plow through a three-foot drift.

CZARINA IS NOT MAD

Is Said to Be In Constant Attendance at Court Functions

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—A number of very alarming statements as to the health of the empress of Russia have been appearing in the foreign press for several months. Such statements are unknown in the Russian press for the simple reason that any editor who prints information as to the doings or movements of members of the imperial family, except such as appear in the Court Circular, is severely fined.

However, in the brilliant salons of St. Petersburg a number of extraordinary and conflicting statements about the empress are constantly to be heard.

The fact that the empress is constantly present at court functions at Livadia effectively disposes of the reports that she is out of her mind.

PITTSFIELD HAS BIG FIRE

Firemen Badly Hampered by Blizzard Which Prevailed

Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 27.—A fire which for a time threatened the business section and gutted the T. P. Riley block in the heart of the city caused damage estimated at $150,000.

Seven persons were rescued from death in the flames, women and children, clad only in their night clothing, being carried out on ladders.

A northeast blizzard hampered the fire fighters, and several of them were so badly frostbitten in the intense cold that they were incapacitated.

Fire apparatus became stalled in huge drifts and some lines of hose were buried out of sight in snow and ice.

Autoist Instantly Killed

Columbus, O., Dec. 27.—Frank McGill of Coshocton, while coming in an automobile here, was instantly killed. His machine skidded in the snow and turned turtle, pinning him beneath it.

The Weather

Almanac, Tuesday, Dec. 28.
Sun rises—7:13; sets—4:19.
Moon rises—6:07 p. m.
High water—12 m.; 12:15 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Generally fair; slightly colder.

WHEN BILLY WENT PLAIN.

The Story of a Man Who Reformed and Was Tempted.

By WAYNE S. BOROUGH.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

O'Neill stepped to the door of the saloon, holding his glass so he could see the colors of the sunlight through the liquor. The street was comparatively deserted, for when cowboys were in town it was customary for the inhabitants to betake to needed duties indoors. The color of the liquor proving satisfactory, O'Neil's hand dropped from its significant position on his hip pocket, and his eyes swept the street.

"Hike here, you fellers!" he yelled suddenly. "Yonder's Billy Patterpat turning the corner. Let's cover the street and corral him and then make him dance."

"Huh!" drawled another cowboy, who was leaning against the counter, emptying glasses and flinging them at whoever he thought might not be able to dodge and holding his revolver in readiness to meet possible objection to his playfulness. "Patterpat won't dance. He's joined the little party of Mennonites up country and gone plain. Ain't you heard? Billy ain't frivolous any more."

IN A FEW MOMENTS HE WAS IN THEIR MIDST.

"We're going to give him a drink first," significantly. "There won't be any trouble then. You used to know Billy."

The figure at the counter straightened. "Why, of course, of course!" he conceded. "A good drink will be oil for Patterpat's feet. I did used to know Billy. The only trouble with him was that all his brains and fun and everything was jest in his feet, and with them gone plain there couldn't be no Patterpat any more. We'll oil 'em with Billy's special limberer."

As they filed out a newcomer from Texas looked discontentedly at O'Neil.

"Any special inducement 'bout that Patterpat's feet?" he inquired. "I've been pretty comfortable sitting on the counter. We have dancing down to Texas."

"Better go back there," curtly, "or stay sit on the counter if you like. As to inducement, there ain't only one dancer, and that's Patterpat. I've been to Frisco and to Kansas City and to Chicago, and I've seen dancing—leastways, what they called dancing. But I've never seen but one Patterpat. Only he has to be limbered up with great jags of whisky first. Then his legs are all wheels and parabolas and ricoshays and scintillates. Now you stay right here and I'll santer out to the middle of the street. That's him coming yonder and beginning to dodge already. That's the way he used to do, and we had to round him like we would a wild mustang and then fill him up."

Billy Patterpat was a block and a half away, coming on slowly and looking from side to side for some avenue of escape. The gradual spreading of the cowboys across the street brought up memories of past experiences, and his eyes had begun to grow troubled and full of apprehension. At length he stopped and looked back, but it was too late now. Several of the cowboys were near their mustangs, and as he turned they swung into their saddles and dashed up the street. In a few moments he was in their midst, struggling and protesting, his eyes big with terror of what he felt was coming.

"Don't you give it to me, gentlemen!" he pleaded. "I'm plain now, and it would not be right. I ain't danced in six months and ain't tasted a drop. Don't you make me now."

"Look at that, Billy," said O'Neil, holding up a bottle between Billy's eyes and the sun. "Don't that look good? Just see how it smiles. It's the very best in town, and we've got more bottles waiting. There's a dozen glasses for you, Billy; all you can drink. Think how it'll feel running down your throat and remember how it smells. Lordy! I feel like drinking the whole thing myself. But here, Billy!"

He reached out the bottle suddenly, and Billy's hands, both of them, went hungrily toward it. His eyes were shining, his lips trembling, his whole form in a quiver, but even then, with an almost superhuman effort, he forced his arms back to his side.

"Don't, O'Neil!" he implored. "Don't, don't, don't!" His voice rose quaveringly. "You know how 'tis with me. Please don't. I don't want it."

"It'll do you good," inflexibly. "You're getting thin from going without it so long, and it's better to enjoy the stuff trickling down your throat slow than to have it poured down in bottles full. You know what we say goes, Billy, and you must drink the whole thing."

Billy dropped upon his knees.

"Don't," he repeated dully; "I don't want it. If I smell I can't stop then. You and me's been good friends, O'Neil, and I've danced and—and drunk a lot for you. Let me off this time. And—and if you don't mind, I'd like to say why."

"Oh, let the poor devil make his confession, O'Neil," interposed one of the cowboys good naturedly. "You know how 'tis with Patterpat. If he smells, as he says, he won't stop easy. It'll be two months before he sobers up. Let him start in right."

Billy shot the speaker a grateful look.

"It's like this," he said, with a pathetic eagerness in his voice. "Six months ago I happened to be up in the country, and I saved a girl's life. She was caught by a bear, and—and I suppose I acted some brave. Anyhow, she and her folks thought so and took me in. Since then I've been up there, and I ain't tasted a drop and I've been feeling that mebbe I could make something of myself sometime, like I used to think a—a long while ago." There was a little catch in his voice, then he went on in lower tones: "Me and the girl was to be married. I came down today for a ring and license. They believe in me up there, and I've joined in with them, and," his eyes suddenly becoming steady and aggressive at a giggle from one of the cowboys, "if 't wa'n't for the whisky I believe I could be a good man again—a better man than you could ever be, Danny. But, of course," his voice again dropping and his hand reaching mechanically toward the bottle, "this will finish it up. Over there they don't have anything strong to drink, and—and they never suspected I was that way. When they find this out it'll be over with us. I'll run through myself soon's as I can, and—and the girl and they'll feel sorry. But you'll have your dance carnival, so we won't all lose. Now you can give me the bottle, O'Neil."

But O'Neil was holding the bottle up between his own eyes and the sun.

"Seems a pity to spill such good stuff," he said regretfully, "but it's got to be." Then in a louder voice: "Here, you fellers, see that stone over t'other side the street? Well, every one who's got a bottle shy at that, and the one who breaks into the most pieces will go with Billy to see about the ring and license. Then we'll all club in for a present, and"—

Billy's head went up suddenly. His eyes were moist.

"No, no!" he protested. "I don't want no present, gentlemen. I've been working hard up there and have got some ahead. I'm all right long's I can keep away from that stuff."

"Shut up, Billy!" O'Neil retorted ungraciously. "'Tain't you. It's a present for the bride. And I reckon we'd better make it two of our best ponies. They'll be handy's anything up among them Mennonite farmers. Now, fellers, one, two, three and crash!" And with the last word a half dozen or more bottles, delivered from as many unerring hands, crashed on the stone.

As soon as the bottles had been smashed the boys began to take measures for the procurement of a wedding present. O'Neil was appointed collector. One chipped in a ten dollar note, another a bag of gold dust, another a gold watch chain (to be melted down), a fourth a United States gold double eagle, and so on to the last, who said:

"Fellers, I hain't got no dust, no bills or no coin. But I tell you what I have got, and I think you'll all allow it's appropriate for a weddin'."

"Well, what is it?" asked O'Neil.

"My boy Jim has larned to walk."

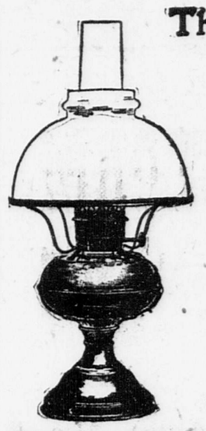
"Your boy Jim wouldn't do for no weddin' present."

"I don't mean Jim. I mean his baby carriage. He don't need it no more."

"Oh, that wouldn't do," said O'Neil. "It wouldn't be polite to give that at a weddin' s'long's there hain't no children. It 'ud be an insult."

The rest of the party having been convinced that a baby carriage was not only out of order at a wedding and could not be utilized, the collection was closed, and O'Neil was commissioned to go to the city and purchase the largest and handsomest article that could be got for the money. He returned with an enormous clock.

When the stage came along the wedding gift was loaded on it, and the wedding party, consisting of the groom expectant, O'Neil and the others, got aboard and started for the bride's home. The clock was too big to go in the boot, so it was laid across the top of the stage. Consequently at the first rut it was precipitated in the road and smashed.



The party, however, agreed that there should be a wedding present, and every man doubled his subscription. As soon as it was collected O'Neil gave it to Billy that there might be no more accidents.

Arrived at their destination, they all entered the house. A parson was called and the couple made one. Then every one of the groom's attendants saluted the bride with a smack.

Never again did Billy touch the liquid which he could not touch without wrecking not only himself, but everybody connected with him. For several years his wife kept a careful watch over him, and after that he was strong enough to go it alone.

The Sewing Light

The Rayo Lamp

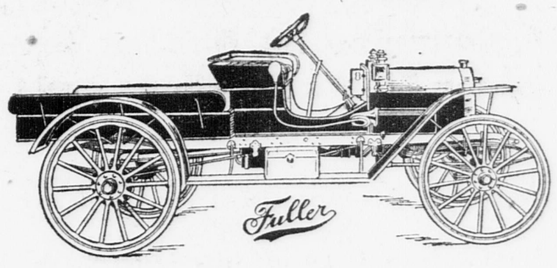
makes the long evening brilliant with its steady white light for sewing or reading. Made of brass, nickel plated and equipped with the latest improved central draft burner.



The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but you cannot get a better lamp at any price.

Once a Rayo user, always one

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not At Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

A GOOD CAR

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 11 tf

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE

Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall

PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.

Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.

Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.

WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.

All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.

Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get
Good Coal
You Can Get
Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.

¶ It's your business and right to investigate.

SEARCHLIGHT US!

'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.

Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

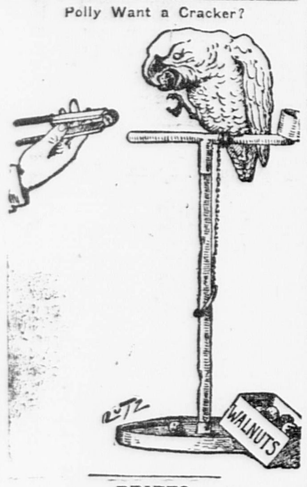
Quincy Daily Ledger.



HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday Dec. 27, | 11.30 | 12.00 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.45 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.30 | 2.45 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Polly Want a Cracker?

BRIEFS

The Billiken Club meets with Miss Florence Hill of Walker street on Tuesday evening.

Charles H. Johnson will give his lecture on "Historic Quincy" at the Universalist church at Hingham on Jan. 10.

Miss Ethel Damon was hostess of the Thimble and Book Club which met last week at her home on Atlantic street.

A Christmas tree for the little folks and an entertainment was held at the Methodist Episcopal church, Atlantic, on Saturday night.

Frank Whall of Webster street was in the serious railroad accident which recently occurred at Greensboro, So. Carolina. Fortunately he sustained no injury other than a few bruises.

At the Memorial Congregational church a little play appropriate to Christmas was presented by Mrs. Bowman's Sunday School class followed by the distribution of presents from the Christmas tree.

QUINCY REAL ESTATE SALES.

Charles F. Adams 2d et al trs to Alice E. Parker, Merrymount road.

Grant R. Beebe to Edward A. Bangs et al trs, Town River Bay, Palmer street.

Central Savings Bank to Peter B. Siegel, Waterston avenue.

Wilton A. Dunham to Mary A. Cairns, Houghs Neck.

Wilton A. Dunham to Napoleon Moran, Houghs Neck.

Wilton A. Dunham to Mary Moran, Houghs Neck.

Wilton A. Dunham to Joseph Durocher, Houghs Neck.

Wilton A. Dunham to Florence G. Hayden, Houghs Neck.

Charles A. Ericson to Anna E. Carlson, Euclid avenue.

Elizbeth Kane to John C. Pierce.

Mary E. McCabe to William A. Smith et al, Houghs Neck.

Mary E. McCabe to Wilton A. Dunham, Sea street.

Mary E. McCabe to Harry A. Rice, Houghs Neck.

Margaret E. Meaney et al to Julia Meany, South Walnut street.

Lora C. Merrill to Ray P. Blanchard, Highland avenue.

Theo B. Munroe to Elias A. Swanson, Aberdeen road.

Nora T. O'Connor to Alice E. Parker, Merrymount road.

Frank M. Packard Phillip C. Catarius et al, Mears avenue.

Albert W. Parker to Nora T. O'Connor, Merrymount road.

Mary C. Reardon to Arthur H. Dunston, Summer street.

Alice M. Rice to Arthur W. Rice, Rock Island.

Ambrose F. Roche to Mary C. Reardon, School street, Summer street, $8075.

August N. Weeden et al trs to John A. Anderson, Lind street.

Fred W. Wood et al trs to Antoinette Ungroska, Hampden Circle.

Wilton A. Dunham to Francis C. Reed.

IN IGNORANCE OF INDICTMENT

Ex-President of Phenix Insurance Company Passes Away

WAS CHARGED WITH LARCENY

Too Ill to Be Arrested When Disclosures Regarding Company of Which He Was Head For Twenty-Seven Years Were Made Public—Had Been Practically In Absolute Control For Sixteen Years

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 27.—Death beat justice in claiming George P. Sheldon, the deposed president of the Phenix Fire Insurance company. Sheldon died here without knowing that he was under indictment in New York.

He had passed all last summer at the Maples, a hotel here, and when the disclosures of his mismanagement of the fire insurance company became known he was too ill to be told of the charges against him.

He was indicted Dec. 8, charged with larceny of $45,000, and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

When it was learned that he was too ill to be arrested requisition papers were applied for and placed in the hands of the Connecticut authorities. Sheldon has since been under surveillance, and if his condition had improved he would have been arrested and brought here to face the indictment.

Sheldon was taken ill in November with ptomaine poisoning, brought on, it is believed, by eating scallops. He is survived by his second wife and five children, three daughters and two sons.

His death will be welcome news to those ex-officials of the insurance department of New York who borrowed money from the Phenix Insurance company while they were supposed to be watching and examining regularly the company which Sheldon controlled.

Sheldon was removed from office as the president of the Phenix Insurance company, of which he had been the head for twenty-seven years, on Dec. 6, at the instance of the insurance department of New York. Investigation of the company's affairs, the first that has been made of his company by the insurance department in many years, revealed that Sheldon had been speculating with the money of the company for a long time and lending its money in violation of the law.

In addition to the accusation brought against Sheldon individually, charges were brought against the company of making false reports to the insurance department.

Superintendent Hotchkiss seemed to think that the company Sheldon controlled had been impaired to the extent of of nearly $1,000,000 under his management. He practically ran the company in 1893. Then directors passed a resolution permitting him, as president, to pledge its securities for loans to the company.

This resolution was never rescinded. Sheldon was born in New York in 1847. He was graduated from Yale in the class of '67. He was a member of many clubs. He lived quietly and playing golf was his principal recreation.

TELLS SEX OF EGGS

Inventor of the Xograph Intends to Have Simple Machine Patented

New Rochelle, N. Y., Dec. 27.—A New Rochelle inventor, Walter Gunnarson, expects within a short time to get a patent on his Xograph, a simple machine for detecting the sex of an egg before hatching.

The inventor, to show the efficiency of his machine, placed a number of eggs in an insulator and held his machine over one of them. The cone began to revolve in a rotary orbit, until it was removed from the egg.

"It is a rooster," said the inventor, "when the cone goes around in a circle, and when it swings like a pendulum, the egg will develop into a pullet."

BULLET FOR AN EDITOR

It Misses Man Who Charged Police Department With Graft

Cairo, Ills., Dec. 27.—What is believed to have been at attempt to assassinate E. W. Thielecke, editor of The Bulletin, was made when a shot was fired through the window of The Bulletin office. The bullet barely missed the editor's head.

The Bulletin has been aggressive in charges of alleged "graft" against the city police department. No arrests have been made.

The newspaper offers a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the person who fired at the editor.

Burglars Secure $1000 In Loot

New York, Dec. 27.—Burglars blew open the safe of Wasseman Bros., clothing dealers, in Brooklyn, obtaining nearly $1000 in cash and valuable jewelry and made a clean get away.

Death of General Carman

Washington, Dec. 27.—General Ezra A. Carman died at his home here. He served throughout the Civil war, being made at its close a brevet brigadier general.

TAFT DEFINES WHISKY

Decision Rendered by President In Behalf of Pure Food

Washington, Dec. 27.—The definition of the word, "whisky" by the highest American legal authority was given when President Taft rendered the final decision on the subject in connection with the construction of the pure food law with reference to labelling. The president held that whisky made of neutral spirits is whisky when reduced to potable strength.

The president covered other details in his decision and gave directions for the proper branding of various varieties of liquor, holding among other things that whisky made from a mixture of "straight" whisky and "neutral spirits" may be called a blend.

The definition of "blends" is not made broad enough to include neutral spirits made from molasses and reduced to to potable strength. This article, the president says, cannot be labelled as whisky; it is rum.

The president takes Dr. Wiley and other chemists to task for a "fundamental error" as to what the name of "whisky" has included during the past 100 years, and he also expresses the opinion that Mr. Bowers makes "too nice a distinction" in his deductions.

KING MANUEL TO WED

Lisbon Paper Says Bride-to-Be Is Niece of King of England

Lisbon, Dec. 27.—The Riari de Noticias, a semi-official organ, again affirms in a most definite manner that the marriage of King Manuel with an English princess, a niece of King Edward, will take place next year, and that the engagement will be officially announced soon.

The paper adds that in January parliament will vote an annual grant of $60,000 for the new queen, and that King Manuel will visit London again early next year to make the final arrangements.

WILL PROVIDE FOR ITS OLD EMPLOYES

Pension System Established by Rock Island Road

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Official announcement is made of the inauguration on Jan. 1 of a pension system which will include all officers and employes of the Rock Island road.

In connection with the system the Rock Island has established an age limit, which will govern original employment on the Rock Island. Under the new rule no inexperienced person more than 35 years of age and no experienced person more than 45 years of age will be taken into the service of the company.

The pension allowance will be 1 percent of an average monthly pay received for the ten years next preceding retirement for each year of service. Thus, if an employe has been in the service for forty years and his average salary for the last ten years of the period was $75 per month, his pension allowance will be 40 percent of $75, or $30 per month.

All officers and employes who have reached the age of 75 must retire and the employes in the operating service may be retired at the age of 65.

ARTIST REMINGTON DEAD

Succumbs to Heart Failure Following a Surgical Operation

Ridgefield, Conn., Dec. 27.—Frederick Remington, the artist, died at his home here from heart failure and shock, superinduced by an operation for appendicitis.

Remington had been in good health until Dec. 19. It was not until Wednesday that he suffered pain and physicians were called. The patient seemed to be progressing favorably Friday and Saturday, but Sunday a change set in and death soon came.

Remington came here last May to make this his permanent place of residence. He was in his 48th year, and was a native of Canton, N. Y., to which place the body will be taken. Remington married Miss Eva Caton, who survives him. He gained fame as a depictor of western scenes.

RELIC OF MAHOMET STOLEN

Lamp Valued at $500,000 Taken From a Convent of Dervishes

Constantinople, Dec. 27.—A great stir has been caused in the religious Mussulman circles here owing to the theft by burglars of one of the most precious relics of the Prophet Mahomet from the dervishes' convent at Eskijebir.

The relic is a lamp of Arab workmanship of the tenth century, set with diamonds and other precious stones, and is valued at $500,000.

Mob Hangs a Murderer

Hurley, Va., Dec. 27.—Following the killing here of Samuel Baker and the serious wounding of his wife and two children by the former's enemy, Henry Pennington, a mob of 100 citizens took Pennington and hanged him to a steam pipe.

St. Yves Wins Close Race

Seattle, Dec. 27.—Henry St. Yves, Marathon champion of the world, defeated John Marsh, Canadian champion, by a yard in a 15-mile match race here. St. Yves' time was 1:38:47 4-5.

ZELAYA TAKES HIMSELF OFF

His Departure From Nicaragua Decidedly Unimpressive

FLEES UNDER MEXICAN FLAG

Asked and Granted Asylum on Gunboat as Private Citizen, According to Mexican Officials—No Effort by United States to Block Flight of Former Dictator—Our Original Position Not Altogether Tenable

Managua, Dec. 27.—Jose Santos Zelaya, ex-president of Nicaragua, took himself out of the country on board the Mexican gunboat General Guerrero, bound for Salina Cruz.

Under the cover of darkness Zelaya, accompanied by a heavily armed guard, proceeded to Corinto, in which port the Mexican warship had been lying for several days close beside the United States cruiser Albany. Other American warships swung at anchor in the harbor, with marines aboard, awaiting instructions.

Zelaya's coming was unheralded, but a guard from the Guerrero received him and soon he was safe under the protection of the Mexican flag. The warship at once weighed anchor and pointed out to sea.

A salute of thirteen guns was fired from the shore and hundreds of soldiers and citizens waved the former dictator a farewell. Zelaya stood alone and waved back an answer.

He uncovered when abreast of the Albany, but the American cruiser made no response. Then he turned again towards the shore, gazing until out of sight.

Zelaya was entertained at luncheon at Corinto by the commandant of the port, whose guests included the Mexican minister and the officers of the General Guerrero. There were no toasts, but an informal discussion of the battle of Rama was indulged in. The ex-president was later taken off on a launch and put aboard the Mexican warship, without the slightest opposition from the American ships and with no protests of any kind.

Until the Guerrero steamed away there was great apprehension on the part of Zelaya that the United States would oppose his departure. There was only a feeble demonstration, and the leave taking of Zelaya was unimpressive.

Managuans in general were vastly relieved when they learned that Zelaya had gone, and President Madriz has already begun his promised work of reform. All reports that Madriz intends to resign the presidency are without a shred of truth.

Washington Feels Relieved

Washington, Dec. 27.—News of the flight of Zelaya from Corinto was received in official circles here with varying emotion.

While the state department undoubtedly would have appreciated the capture of Zelaya and his arraignment on the charge of murdering the two Americans, Groce and Cannon, there is in other quarters some relief in the passing of the Nicaraguan dictator from the scene.

That no effort was made to block the flight is accepted as an indication that the position originally taken by the secretary of state was not altogether tenable. The right of asylum under international law is one of the most rigorously regarded stipulations of such law, and Zelaya, in demanding such a right from the commander of the Guerrero, registered a request that could not well be refused.

In the failure of the American authorities to file any protest against the acceptance of Zelaya's person, the Mexican commander had no alternative.

Mexico's Attitude

Mexico City, Dec. 27.—Jose Zelaya, as a private citizen, asked and was granted an asylum aboard the General Guerrero, according to the officials of the department of foreign relations here. Knowledge of his ultimate destination or of his plans for the immediate future is denied.

It is declared that no conflict with the state department at Washington as a result of having permitted Zelaya to go aboard the Mexican warship is anticipated.

No official opposition to such a proceeding, it is asserted, has been made to this government and in the absence of any objection the act was such as any nation would have performed under like circumstances.

Will Admit Women to Royal College

London, Dec. 27.—The council of the Royal College of Surgeons, in view of the fact that women medical students are to be admitted to the college diplomas in January, adopted a recommendation that the London and Edinburgh schools of medicine for women be added to the list of medical schools recognized by the two royal colleges.

Lurton Quits Circuit Court

Cincinnati, Dec. 27.—Judge Horace H. Lurton has tendered to President Taft his formal resignation as judge of the United States circuit court. This act is preliminary to his assuming his place as associate justice of the supreme court of the United States.

NO INDEPENDENT KINGDOM

Zionists Merely Want to Settle In Land of Their Forefathers

Hamburg, Dec. 27.—The International Zionist congress opened here with a large attendance. David Wolffsohn, president of the executive committee, outlined the present status and outlook of Zionist projects, making particular reference to the fact that Palestine is now under constitutional government.

Professor Max Nordau of Paris, the foremost living Zionist, delivered a speech in which he said that the Jews would never accept privileges in Turkey if they were compelled to assimilate with the Turks and be excluded from Palestine.

But they would become good Osman citizens if allowed to settle in the land of their forefathers and there establish a Jewish nation like an individual state in the empire. They do not intend to establish an independent kingdom.

DEATH OF ACTOR LEWIS

End Comes In Boston Hospital as Curtain Raises on His Show

Boston, Dec. 27.—Just as the curtain of the Grand Opera house was rolling up on the opening act of "The Cowboy and the Thief," which show closed there Saturday evening, James L. Lewis, the leading man of the company, died at the City hospital. Lewis was 35 years old.

Lewis was taken ill two weeks ago at Philadelphia, and he was sent to this city ahead of his company. A few days ago he suffered an attack of apoplexy.

All of the members of the company went to the hospital Saturday and each one carried some little gift and flowers for Lewis. He seemed cheerful and quite improved in health. They left Lewis much cheered, but after they were gone he began to fail rapidly and when the evening performance was just opening Lewis passed away.

CANNOT GET AWAY FROM REPORTERS

"Eternal Question" Regarding His Poem Follows Watson

Havana, Dec. 27.—"For Heaven's sake, can't I get away from that anywhere!" exclaimed Poet William Watson when he arrived here, as a squadron of Cuban reporters and American correspondents bore down upon his hotel to ask for a statement concerning "The Woman With the Serpent's Tongue."

Watson would not speak of his brother's declaration, in which the poet was accused of being insane. Instead he said:

"I am here with my wife to spend Christmas. We are enjoying ourselves very much. I presume if I should go to Kamschatka or Nairobi a corps of correspondents would spring up with that eternal question: 'Well, Mr. Watson, what about "The Woman With the Serpent's Tongue?"' Do you know, I shall soon begin to regret that I ever wrote that poem."

HUB LICENSES REVOKED

Clothing Made In Infected Workshops a Menace to the Public

Boston, Dec. 27.—No protection is afforded the public against the contraction of disease by means of clothing made in infected tenement workrooms, according to the report of the state board of health made public yesterday.

Such diseases as scabies, impetigo contagiosa and tuberculosis are among the diseases common in these congested workshops.

The North and West Ends of Boston are singled out by the report as a menace to the public health. In these sections houses that were at one time dwellings are now used for salesrooms and workrooms and afford no sanitary conveniences.

The inspectors declare that where there is a possibility of disease spreading, the license permitting the work to be carried on is revoked.

Alcohol Chills the Body

London, Dec. 27.—Dr. Yaetes of St. Bartholomew's hospital is authority for the statement that when a person takes alcohol it brings the blood to the surface and produces a feeling of warmth, but in reality the body becames one degree colder.

Oldfield Breaks a Record

Los Angeles, Dec. 27.—Barney Oldfield established a new world's record for fifteen miles on a circular track at Ascot park. Driving his 120-horsepower car Benz, he reduced the record of 13:57, made by Ralph DePalma, to 13:42 1-5.

Wants Japan to Annex Korea

Tokio, Dec. 27.—Count Hayashi, ex-foreign minister of Japan, in an interview published in Jipe Shimbo, advocates the immediate annexation of Korea by Japan, citing in defense of his stand the example of America's annexation of Hawaii.

Many Horses Cremated

New York, Dec. 27.—More than fifty horses were burned to death and two firemen were overcome during a fire in a stable in East Ninety-Eighth street. The loss totals about $60,000. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

DR. CLAY'S NEW JEWISH THEORY

Radical Views on Israelitish Culture and Religion.

"NOT OF BABYLONIAN ORIGIN."

University of Pennsylvania Professor Maintains Israel's History, Religion and Culture Originated In Israel's Own Land—Disputes Opinion of Assyriologists.

By GEORGE E. NITZSCHE.

Every student of the Old Testament who is dependent upon the work of the specialists will be greatly interested in a revolutionary work which was recently written by the Rev. Dr. Albert T. Clay, professor of philology and Semitic archaeology in the University of Pennsylvania, because it presents an entirely new theory upon the question as to the origin of the religion and literature of the Israelites. The prevailing opinion of nearly every Assyriologist is that in Babylon is to be found the origin of the Israelitish culture and religion, that the story of the creation, the deluge, the antediluvian patriarchs, as well as the origin of the Sabbath, is a myth from Babylonia and that the Jews got their ideas from the Babylonians while in exile and used them in writing their own history of Israel and that which is known as Israelitish is only an adaptation by late Hebrew writers of Babylonia mythology. These theories have been carried into the New Testament. Even Christ is declared by some of the critics to be a transformed Babylonian "Bel" or "Merodach." The characteristic features of the life of Jesus—his passion, death, resurrection and ascension—they claim, are ideas which had their origin in Babylonian mythology.

REV. DR. ALBERT T. CLAY.

Reversal of Views of Scholars.

In Professor Clay's new work on "Amurru, the Home of the Northern Semites," he presents authoritatively that the history, culture and religion of the Israelites are not of Babylonian origin. The views of the critics who would dissipate the Bible into Babylonian myths are not only proved to be without foundation, but he shows that Israel's religion and culture are developments which had their origin in Israel's own land and that Semitic Babylonian culture also originated in the Bible lands. This is a complete reversal of the position taken by scholars in regard to the origin of the culture in many respects common to both the Babylonians and Israelites.

Presents Entirely New Theory.

The ordinary interpretation of ideas from one nation to another is acknowledged by Professor Clay, but he vigorously attacks the pan-Babylonian theory by rendering of no effect the few arguments advanced to support them, and then, with an enormous amount of historical, archaeological and philological material, he scientifically builds up his own theory, which is entirely new and revolutionary and opposite to those of every eminent Assyriologist. The creation story of the Babylonians, which is similar to the Biblical account, Dr. Clay states, had its origin in Syria. The theory of its Babylonian origin receives its deathblow in this book. The Babylonian story of the antediluvian patriarchs, he shows, had its origin in Bible lands. The deluge story of the Babylonians is also shown to have been an importation from this land.

Eminent as an Assyriologist.

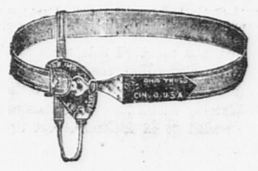
In the first part of the book, which is readable to the intelligent layman, the author presents a careful analysis of the views of other scholars and his own. The second part of his work is reserved for the technical material upon which he bases his position.

Dr. Clay's eminent position among Assyriologists of the world and the many authoritative translations of Babylonian hieroglyphics and scientific works published by him oblige scholars to give Dr. Clay's theories serious consideration. In this book the author has attempted to overthrow the prevailing opinions of most Assyriologists and Old Testament critics, and he must expect that his contentions will be hotly contested at every point of contact as well as the scientific material which he presents in the confirmation of his position.

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON - QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

CAPELL GAS IRON.



Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.
Dec 7 1m

WHEN IN WANT OF GOOD
Plants and Flowers
for XMAS GIFTS call up
WM. PATTERSON
HE HAS THEM
Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths
Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias
at Reasonable Prices.
192 South Central Ave., Wollaston
Tel. 392-1 Quincy. Dec. 20-tf

TRUSSES Fitted.
CRUTCHES In All Sizes.
Athletic Supporters
For Gymnasium Work
Abdominal Supporters
Elastic Stockings
The Rexall Store
Edward J. Murphy
THE ORIGINAL LOW PRICED DRUGGIST
1415 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE
Elm and Dysart Streets.
Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

Only One Cent
Means Help for the
Tuberculosis Camp

Have Your Clothes Washed by the
NEW SYSTEM
WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.
Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.
Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

Poor Chelsea!

Sleighing and coasting will take the place of skating for awhile, and the young people should make the most of both while they last. There should be some sleigh parties tonight. The moon is good.

Word was received this noon of the death at Brookline this morning of Frank A. Wrisley, formerly of Quincy. Mr. Wrisley was a travelling salesman and resided at 42 Edison street up to a few years ago.

—The Business Men's Association of Hyde Park will meet this evening. The committee on highways will report.

—Last week Leslie G. Greenleaf was found guilty by Justice C. C. King in the police court at Brockton on the charge of the larceny of fares from the Old Colony Street Railway Co. by whom he was employed as a conductor. He was sentenced to one month in the house of correction, appealed and was held in bonds of $300.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST

INLAND WATERWAYS.

Editor Quincy Ledger:

The people of our city ought to be interested in the proposed inland waterways project, which our worthy Water Front Commissioner, Commodore Crane, is laboring so hard and faithfully to promote. This is a matter of such importance to the future growth and welfare of the city, especially along the water front, that every citizen should do all possible to assist in getting the desired result. I call attention to an article from the Saturday evening Post of Dec. 18, by Samuel H. Barker, on what our sister of the North-Canada—has done along these lines which shows us the way they do things and must act as an incentive to action on our part. It is something every person interested in inland waterways, should read, and consider for what has been accomplished by this small nation of energetic people should, at least be possible to us, who claim to be the most progressive people.

John R. Richards.

Quincy, Dec. 22, 1909.

TRADE SCHOOLS.

Charles Osborne, the Quincy correspondent discusses trade schools in his letter to the current issue of the Granite Cutters' Journal. He says:

"We hear a great deal in this vicinity about the benefits derived from trade schools, but there is one phase of this problem which is lost sight of by our theoretical friends, namely, that boy if left to his own resources might, and probably would, choose a trade for which he was mentally and physically unfitted. The tools used in school might please his eye and tickle his fancy, and in that way he might waste a great deal of valuable time before he discovered that the trade which he had picked out was not the trade for him.

"The theorist may state that this is also liable to happen out of school. I will concede that to be true; but we all know that business men as a rule do not care to pay apprentices to dawdle away their time, and if a boy does not show some aptitude for the trade which he has decided to learn, he is very soon informed that it would be to his advantage to look for another job, and in that way he tries several jobs before he finally strikes the one for which he is best fitted.

"On the other hand the trade school idea would allow the boy to work at his ill-chosen craft for probably as long as he cared to stay at it, and we may rail at the boss for firing the boy, but on the whole, I think that it is the best thing that could happen to him, and shows the practical side of the affair as compared with the theoretical side exemplified by the trade school and I think it is better to be told that you are simply wasting time trying to learn a trade for which you are unfitted than to be allowed to endeavor to learn something which will be of no benefit to you in later years."

—John F. McDonald, a well known granite cutter of Barre, Vt., died Dec. 23, aged 49 years. He leaves a widow and eight children.

CRUISE TO EUROPE BY NAVY CADETS

Trip Proposed For Two Classes Under an Admiral.

MAY STOP FIRST AT GIBRALTAR

Other Mediterranean Ports and Possibly Portsmouth, England, to Be Visited—Trained Enlisted Sailor to Instruct Each Middy on the Voyage.

The United States government has decided, it is understood, to send the cadets of the United States Naval academy to Europe next year. The understanding is that practically all of the cadets, with the exception of the entering and the furlough classes, will make the cruise to European waters. It is planned to make this the most interesting and instructive cruise ever taken by the Annapolis cadets. The annual cruise in north Atlantic waters will be abandoned this year if the transatlantic voyage is approved, as it is said it has been, by the secretary of the navy.

The recommendation that a cruise in foreign waters be substituted for the annual Atlantic practice cruise was made by Captain John M. Bowyer, superintendent of the Naval academy. It is said that plans have been made to assemble early next spring a squadron of battleships, not attached to the Atlantic fleet, on board of which the middies will sail for the other side.

COPYRIGHT BY HARRIS & EWING.

CAPTAIN JOHN M. BOWYER.

Famous Ships In the Squadron.

These ships are the battleships Indiana, Iowa and Massachusetts, three of the battleships that won fame in the battle of Santiago. The Massachusetts, which is soon to be recommissioned at the New York navy yard, where she has been practically rebuilt within the last two years, is expected to be the flagship of the squadron.

The itinerary of the cruise has not been made public, but it will probably include the Mediterranean ports of France and Naples, Genoa and Gibraltar and possibly Portsmouth, England.

About 400 cadets are expected to make the cruise. It will be the first time in a generation that Europeans have had a chance to see the famous corps from the banks of the Severn.

Instruction the Prime Motive.

The prime motive for the voyage is, of course, instruction, and the substitution of first class battleships for the obsolete cruisers Olympia, Chicago and Hartford, the vessels used in the Atlantic cruise this year, will not only give the cadets more room, but will also make possible instruction that could not be had on the smaller vessels. The Massachusetts and the Indiana both carry main batteries of thirteen inch guns, while the Iowa, which was Admiral Bob Evans' ship at Santiago, is armed with the twelve inch type. None of the cruisers in the old squadron carried guns even half as powerful as these pieces.

The Iowa, Massachusetts and Indiana will be manned by the very flower of the enlisted service when they pass out of Hampton Roads and head for Gibraltar, which, it is said, will be the first stop in the cruise. A trained enlisted man, it is understood, will "play opposite" every midshipman during the voyage in order to impart to the future officer the secrets of the profession so far as they concern the big guns and the other duties aboard ship. A captain will probably be in command of each ship, and a rear admiral is expected to be in command of the squadron.

The battleships of the squadron will assemble at Hampton Roads, near which the point of embarkation will be. As the news of the cruise has not yet been received in Europe, no plans for the entertainment of the cadets by foreigners have been made.

Spread Eagle on Postage Stamp.

For the first time in forty years the postoffice department at Washington is considering postage stamps with another design than the display of the features of some national hero. The dozen or more designs submitted for the new twelve cent stamp for registered letters show the spread eagle of the national coat of arms with the stars and stripes adorning its breast.

LETTER WRITING.

It is only to closet friends that one can afford to be careless about letter writing. For ordinary acquaintances and strangers there are strictly preserved forms.

This etiquette includes size and shape of paper, color of ink, manner of address and superscription and appearance. Even the stamping of a letter is important and the way it is sealed may mark one's social standing.

The kind of paper used varies more or less with different seasons. Sometimes envelopes are square and very large; again, as at present, they are oblong, with the sheets nearly square. These things are more or less decided by individual perference, though most women like to follow the fashion.

Etiquette prescribes that writing paper must be good in quality and refined in coloring. Conservative women generally use one kind of peper for years and never go in for oddities.

Thus plain linen papers in white, cream or delicate tints will be preferred to novelties such as the new Ottoman weaves, which simulate the stripes of silk, or the delicately tinted Japanese papers which are now considered smart.

Thre is a tendency to lighter weight papers. The linens are less thick, and onion paper, such as were formerly used for foreign correspondence only are used for everything save formal invitations.

Notes require a smaller size paper than letters. Invitations are either written on note paper or are sent on special cards with monogram or address upon them.

Monograms are also dictated by fashion. Many women now use this monogrammed paper only for close friends, writing more formal notes on paper stamped with the house address.

Again etiquette prescribes conservatism in size and coloring. Just now the tiny monogram medalions are not fashionable, and all marking is bolder and more dashing. This must never descent to conspicuousness. One toned monograms are always in good style, and few women of quiet tastes will care for the huge hinged lettering close up to the edge of the paper that is having a certain vogue. Some of these letters measure two inches.

Etiquette is particularly rigid in the use of a crest on note paper. It must always be one's own, not one bought or acquired by marriage. Even when used it should not be ostentatious and never on the envelope. Occasionally the crest is blazoned in its own colors, but more often is stamped in self tones, slightly raised.

There are strict rules as to the color of ink. Fancy inks are in the worst of taste. Every now and then some one tries to make it a fad to write in violet green, or red ink, but it is frowned upon by the really fashionable people.

A clear black ink, that neither smuts nor blurs insures a letter that will not look smudged and blotted. Some women prefer a writing fluid that turns black, as it writes more freely and does not thicken with standing.

The address of a letter, like a show window, is an instant sign of one's tastes. Name, street address, town and State are all assigned separate lines, each succeeding line being decidedly to the right of the one above it. Unless the address is very full, the name should begin about the middle of the envelope, well over toward the left edge.

As far as possible avoid abbreviations on an envelope. In formal letters name of street and State should always be written in full. It is not good form to write the word "No" in front of the street address. "Care of" is only put on when one is a stranger visiting in a private house, and is often omitted even then. Many use the percentage mark instead of writing out "Care of." "To" or "For" before the name addressed is not good style.

It is, fortunately, getting to be more and more the thing to put one's own address in the upper left-hand corner of envelope. This is now often done, save upon invitations and notes that are sent by messenger. Some women have their address across the flap of envelope but this is rarely done except for business correspondence.

In sending a letter to one who is traveling or of whose address you are not perfectly sure, it is a good plan to put the home address in lower left-hand corner in small writing. The letter goes there instead of being returned to the writer.

Legibility marks the well-addressed letter. It is in mercy to Post Office officials and in good taste.

Sealing wax may or may not be used on the flap. It is popular just now, but garish wax should not be used. White of self-toned wax is in best style. This may be marked with crest or monogram.

There is but one spot on an envelope for a stamp. It is placed right side up, close to the edge of the upper right-hand corner. When more than one stamp is needed it goes to the left directly in line. Badly stamped letters betray social ignorance.

The address of letter varies with degree of intimacy. "My dear" or "Dear" are those most often used, even for strangers. The former is more formal. It is wrong to begin "Friend" or "Dear friend." A business letter has the address in upper left-hand corner, and underneath "My Dear Sir" or "My Dear Mr. Blank."

It is no longer thought to be smart to manage the pages of a letter as if it were a Chinese puzzle. One goes straight ahead on the pages so it can be read like a book.

Superscriptions also vary with degree of intimacy. "Very sincerely your, or "Cordially yours' are the usual forms among acquaintances. Only the first word is capitalized. It goes about the centre of line, to which it is confined, is followed by a comma, and has name on line below a little to left.

The inside of a letter demands equal care. Where the address is not stamped on paper it goes after the name of writer at close of note, in the lower lefthand corner of page. It gives a letter an old-time look to begin with address and date at upper right-hand corner of first page.

A letter begins at upper left-hand corner of first page at least an inch below upper edge, and allows a quarter or half inch margin at side. The inscription takes a separate line, followed by a colon and the body of the note begins on a line below at right of this colon.

Be careful to leave an even margin at left of page, also a narrower one on right, though this is not so imperative. It is no longer good form to leave huge spaces between the lines. If you have not enough ideas to fill out a page, use smaller note paper rather than spread.

The address and date go still further below to right, if they must be written. If address is stamped on paper the date alone is used. The day of month is written out, as "November eighteenth." The year is omitted and "Thursday, November fourth," may be the form.

Typewritten letters, despite the fact that royalty now uses them for correspondence, are forbidden, save on business matters, no matter how illegible is one's writing. Postals are also forbidden, though exceptions are made for picture postals. They should begin without inscription and should be signed with initials only.

Nothing excuses a blotted letter. Among close friends it may be passed, but the least blot on note, formal letter or invitation necessitates rewriting.

The subject matter of a letter is largely a thing of gift. Every woman should learn to write a graceful note. Stilted, gushing or hackneyed expressions must be avoided. Likewise do not write what you would hate later to reread in public.

Even the handwriting has its fashions. A woman's age can often be guessed by the kind of hand she writes. Legibility should be aimed at, but no matter how badly one writes, it will pass—provided it is not ignorant looking—as long as it is not of a certain copy book, shaded style that is distinctly second-class.—Anne Rittenhouse in New York Times.

FRENCH SOCIETY.

The Franco-American society of West Quincy held their annual election of officers last week resulting as follows:

President—Phil Savard.
Vice President — Miss Laura Rouleau.
Recording Secretary—Mary Badot.
Assistant Recording Secretary—Phideline Gamache.
Financial Secretary—Miss Georgiana Rouleau.
Assistant Financial Secretary—Nelson Lavoie.
Treasurer—Joseph Badot.
Clerk—Emile Bouchard.
Assistant Clerk—Mickel Lavoie.
Committee on Sick—Mrs. Dufour, Mrs. Landry, Mrs. Boutin, Mrs. Brault. Mrs. Vendant and Messrs. Lavoie, J. Badot, F. Gosselin, N. LeClair and A. Vendret.
Entertainment Committee — Mrs. Brault, Mrs. Vendret and Miss M. Badot.

EARLY MORNING INTRUDER.

Although Constable N. B. Furnald is now over 80 years of age he arrested a man at his house early Christmas morning and marched him to the police box at the corner of Revere road, and handed him over to the police. Mr. Furnald was awakened by a noise in his stable which is connected with his home on Washington street. Upon investigating he found a man 40 to 50 years of age who was trying to get into the house. He was not a dangerous character, being under the influence of liquor, but would have given most people a scare. Constable Furnald, however, is as fearless as of old. He told the police that they might arraign the man for a break or a drunk as they thought best. He gave his name as Robert Leonard, and said he hailed from Pittsfield.

Trusts, Wealth and Tariff Tend to Raise Cost of Living.

By WILLIAM B. GUTHRIE, Professor of Economics of the College of the City of New York.

SINCE 1895 there has been a constant increase in the cost of necessaries without any corresponding increase in the average income of the great mass of consumers, such as should accompany a normal rise in the price scale.

Prices have come to be controlled not by the economic laws of supply and demand, but by the GREAT COMBINATIONS, which are apparently able to control both. A comparison between the increases that would be caused by natural changes and prices as they exist leads to the inevitable conclusion that SOME ONE IS GETTING THE "RAKEOFF."

HIGH RENTS are an important subsidiary cause of the increased cost of living, as is unintelligent consumption.

It is high rents which are annually forcing a larger percentage of the poorer classes into what economists have described as the "seriously underfed class." It may be a very laudable thing in some ways to provide the poorer classes with hygienic conditions of living, but of what use are improvements that RAISE THE RENTS SO HIGH AS TO DEPRIVE THE WORKINGMAN AND HIS FAMILY OF PROPER FOOD?

THE THREE MOST IMPORTANT SUBJECTS TO BE CONSIDERED IN SEARCHING FOR A REMEDY TO THE CONDITIONS THAT PRODUCE THE INEQUITABLE INCREASE IN THE COST OF LIVING ARE THE AMOUNT AND DISTRIBUTION OF THE WEALTH OF THE COUNTRY, THE COMBINATIONS KNOWN AS TRUSTS AND THE EFFECT OF THE TARIFF ON THE PRODUCTS OF THE COUNTRY.

Stop Cough
Those hard night coughs of the children! What shall you give them? Just what your mother gave you, and just what her mother gave her! In some families, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been the only cough medicine for seventy years. Once in the family, it stays. Keep it on hand.
Ask your doctor if he endorses Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for the coughs and colds of children. Do as he says.
J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

G. W. WHEELER
WHEELER
DRY GOODS
SMALL WARES
UNDERWEAR
HOSIERY
HANDKERCHIEFS
GLOVES
CORSETS
APRONS
May Manton Patterns
.....We Give CASH DISCOUNT SLIPS.....
CITY SQUARE QUINCY

LLOYD'S OPERA GLASSES
Just Arrived from France
OUR ANNUAL IMPORTATION OF BEAUTIFULLY SELECTED
OPERA GLASSES
In a very large variety of Shapes, Styles, Sizes, Materials and Colors.
FROM $3.50 TO $55.00
Please send for Opera Class Catalogue
ANDREW J. LLOYD CO.
75 Summer St.
315 Washington St. 310 Boylston St.
Boston and
1252 Massachusetts Ave. Cambridge

Only a Few Days Left
TO BUY YOUR
New Year's Presents
We Have Something for Father, Mother, Sister and Brother.
We have a Complete assortment of Carving Knives and Forks, Skates, Sleds, Jack Knives, Safety Razors, Razor Strops, Punching Bags, Foot Balls, Family Scales, Daisy Air Rifles, Flash Lights and Batteries, Electrical Toys for Children.
NATHAN AMES,
5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.
D c. 21 tf

A NEW YEAR'S BOX OF
Interwoven TOE AND HEEL
Men's Hose

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.
The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.
PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00
Can you beat it for the Price?
GEORGE W. JONES
No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

CHRISTMAS SUNDAY IN QUINCY CHURCHES

Storm Causes the Postponement of Several of the Services

MR. ATWOOD'S FAREWELL

Has Large Congregation Although Stormy

The Quincy Point Congregational church was well filled Sunday considering the storm which was raging, to hear the farewell address by its pastor, Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood. He leaves on Saturday morning for Patterson, N. Y., to accept the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of that place.

Mr. Atwood took as his subject, "Pastoral Reminiscences" and his text from 1 Kings, 20 chapter, 11 verse—"Let not him who buckleth on his harness boast as he who pulleth it off."

He reviewed the prosperity of the parish, the growth of the three Christian Endeavor societies, the Sunday school and church. Also the material improvement made to the meeting house during the four and a half years while he had been pastor. "It is a law of life, said the Rev. Mr. Atwood, to sacrifice the good for a better, because a thing animate or inanimate is good we are not entitled to keep it. But we are called upon to give up the good for the better, and the better for the best." He illustrated this as applying to both pastor and parish.

"The future of this church is bright and hopeful," said the pastor as he paid a loving tribute to the choir, deacons, church officers and parishioners. In closing he left with them this scriptural watch word: "Let your manner of life be worthy of the gospel of Christ."

For four and one half years the retiring pastor has worked hard and faithfully for the Quincy Point parish, and has left it in amuch better condition than when he arrived here. In that time he has baptized and accepted into the church one hundred and sixty-one.

Mr. Atwood is going to Patterson to a church which will be double the size of the one he is leaving. The church has had but twelve pastors in the past sixty yars. The last two having remained together 27 years. Rev. A. S. Allen, D. D., being there 11 years and Rev. Oliver Stone Dean for sixteen and a half years.

BETHANY CHUROH.

All the Sunday services were held at Bethany church. At 10.30 A. M., there was an attendance of 50, and at the Sunday school there were 38. The Christmas concert to have been held at 7 P. M. was postponed, but another service took its place, attended by about 50. The Young People's meeting had about 40.

AT QUINCY POINT.

The Washington Street Congregational church held their annual Christmas tree Christmas eve, and the vestry and chapel were crowded with children and older folks. A sleight of hand performance lent enjoyment to evening and presents accompanied by fruit and candy were handed out to all the children. Several pleasing solos were rendered by Mr. and Mrs. James Melville.

AT WOLLASTON.

On Sunday, in Wolaston, the ministers preached to small congregations. At the morning service of the Methodist church eleven were assembled; no evening service was held. At the Congregational church no services were held owing to the small number in attendance. Thirty three attended the morning services at the Unitarian church, where a regular service was held. In the evening the Y. P. R. U., met with an audience of four. Upwards of thirty attended the services of the Baptist church, where both church and Sunday school were held. The evening meetings were dispensed with. The Christmas services scheduled at the Congregational and Baptist churches have been postponed one week.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

Next Sunday Rev. Carl G. Horst will enter upon his second year as pastor of our church.

The American Unitarian Association and the allied societies will keep open house next Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at 25 Beacon street, Boston. Quite a number of Wollaston Unitarians are planning to attend this reception.

Remember the first of a series of vespers will be held next Sunday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

Beginning next Sunday two weeks of special services will be held at the Wollaston Methodist church. The pastor, Rev. Wesley Wiggins, will be assisted by Rev. George Durgin, Rev. W. J. Kelley, Rev. Frank Potter, Rev. W. W. Bowers, Rev. H. S. Dow, Rev. E. C. Bridgeham; Rev. Herbert Cassidy, and the gospel team of the Theological school of Boston University. At 8.30 P. M. on Friday a special watch-night service will be held to which all are invited.

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, May 2 Haymarket 724—Quincy 448 D-tf

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department,
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

MAKE YOUR PURCHASES FROM LEDGER ADVERTISERS. BE SURE TO READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN TODAY'S LEDGER

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to New Years

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

THE QUEEN OF SHEBA

She Finally Became Part of a Betrothal Feast.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Susan Tipping peered from her window as Jonas Wilton turned into the path that led to the shipyard. Behind him walked a large gray goose.

"Fanny Lee hates that goose as bitter as I do and maybe worse, but she'll pertend she likes it just to get around him. Widders is cunning critters! I shan't sacrifice my principles to please no man—not even Jonas Wilton. I'll always stand by what I've said—all a goose is fit for is to roast and serve with apple sauce!" Susan Tipping sat and brooded resentfully over a disturbed past in which Jonas Wilton had repeatedly asked her to become his wife, and she had as repeatedly refused as long as the objectionable goose waddled in the background.

When Jonas Wilton faced his housekeeper across the supper table that night excitement was written on his bronzed face and in his shining eyes. "I've got a surprise for you, Miss Tipping," he said mysteriously as he stirred his tea—"a surprise that'll lift you clean out of your shoes, ma'am!"

"Tell me, too," purred the Widow Lee's deep voice from the doorway.

Miss Tipping brought a napkin from the sideboard and resumed her seat with a flourish of lilac colored skirts.

"Susan Tipping, if you ain't got on your new dimity dress! I didn't suppose you dressed so for supper or I'd have worn my black silk," remarked Fanny Lee, with pleasant sarcasm.

Susan's nose was elevated scornfully. "I wear it very often."

"I dare say," retorted Mrs. Lee.

Jonas broke in impatiently, "You ain't heard my news."

"What news?" twittered Mrs. Lee graciously.

"I've left the yard," announced Mr. Wilton dramatically.

The two women stared at him.

"What's the matter?" gasped Susan at last.

"I'm going away," explained Jonas carelessly. "I've shipped on the Blue Heron with Captain Rink. We're going to China; we won't be back for a year."

A PAIR OF ARMS ENCIRCLED HER AND SHE WAS KISSED.

The silence that followed was broken only by the clink of Susan's teaspoon against her teacup and the squeak of the rocker as the Widow Lee swayed to and fro.

"You'll be dreadful seasick. You've never been to sea in your life," faltered Susan at last.

"Fiddle!" said Fanny Lee sharply. "He won't be sick. He's sailed a skiff on the bay ever since he was a boy. Ain't you, captain?"

Jonas blushed at the newly conferred title and turned a beaming eye on the widow. "There ain't but one thing worries me," he confided hesitatingly.

"What's that?" she asked shyly.

"Queen o' Sheba—she's got to stay behind. Captain Rink, he says he can't accommodate no goose." Jonas shifted uneasily as a gleam in Susan's blue eyes denoted that she understood the captain's objection.

It was a relief to turn to the Widow Lee's sympathetic face and meet her smile of perfect understanding. "That there goose has been like a—like a"—floundered Jonas pathetically.

"Like a dear friend. I know what it is to part with one's dearest and never set eyes on 'em again. When Robert passed away"— Fanny Lee choked down a rising sob and pressed the fringed napkin to her eyes.

Mr. Wilton looked uncomfortable. "I hope Queen o' Sheba will be all right when I get home," he said, with a furtive glance at Susan's clouded face.

"I shan't take care of the critter," said Miss Tipping decidedly as she prepared to clear the table. "It's bound to follow some one around town. I won't be dogged by no goose!"

It was a tragic moment for Susan Tipping, and her tone was bitter. If Fanny Lee assumed the care of Queen of Sheba it meant that the breach between Jonas and his housekeeper would be irreparable.

The Widow Lee arose to the occasion which had been made for her. "I'll take care of the poor critter, Jonas," she said softly. "She can run around my orchard, and sometimes I'll take her for a walk, same as you did."

"'Birds of a feather,'" floated acidly from Susan's compressed lips as she disappeared in the kitchen and closed the door behind her.

Shortly afterward Susan heard the Widow Lee and Jonas Wilton leave the house by the side door and go around to the shed where Queen of Sheba lived in solitary splendor.

"Good night, Susan," called Fanny sweetly. "We're going to take Queen o' Sheba home!"

"Good night," said Susan, quite as amiably. "Wish you joy of her!"

When Queen of Sheba's noisy clamor had died away Susan finished her work and then went to the west wing of the house, where she lived with a bedridden aunt.

"Aunt M'lissy, Jonas has shipped on the Blue Heron with Captain Rink," she said in a matter of fact tone as she tucked the old lady under the covers and turned down the lamp.

"You're a fool, Susan Tipping," shrilled Miss Melissa angrily. "Is he going to take that goose along too?"

"No; Fanny Lee's going to take care of it."

Miss Melissa's dark eyes glared fiercely at her neice. "Go along, do! I ain't got no patience with you at all!" And she cowered beneath her coverlids with little grunts of displeasure.

Four days afterward Jonas sailed away on the Blue Heron, and he carried away two pictures in his memory. One was of Fanny Lee, plump and smiling, with the gray goose at her side, waving farewell from the dock. The other picture was of Susan Tipping, tall and slender and pale, with her face frozen into stony indifference. And when the familiar faces had melted into the haze that covered shore and bay Jonas Wilton still looked wistfully backward.

It was a long year. The Widow Lee flaunted the gray goose as a betrothal gift, and Queen of Sheba was generally regarded as the tangible bond that united two loving, separated hearts. As the months wore on and no news came from Jonas there was a strained look in Fanny's eyes and occasionally in the woodshed the gray goose received the castigations she so richly deserved after her predatory descents upon the grass grown lawn.

It was a long year. Aunt Melissa died in the summer and left Susan richer by several thousand dollars, but poorer by one friend less. Susan planned when Jonas came back she would go away and leave the home to him and his waiting bride—and Queen of Sheba.

One cold winter night Fanny Lee brought the gray goose to Susan's door. Her eyes were red, and she wore a black dress and a black veil on her hat.

"I can't bear to see the critter around," she sobbed bitterly. "It reminds me so of Jonas and him drowned at sea!"

"Drowned?" asked Susan in a strange voice.

"I forgot you didn't know. Of course they told me first. It was off the coast of Brazil. He fell overboard and was drownded, and Captain Rink he sent word to the tellygraph station, and of course they told me. You'll keep Queen o' Sheba, won't you?"

Susan stared fiercely at the long neck and yellow bill wriggling out of the widow's black shawl.

"I'll take care of her," said Susan icily. "Put her in the shed."

"You'll be good to her—for his sake," sniffled Fanny Lee, turning to go.

"I'll be good to her," repeated Susan, with a strange smile as she closed the door.

One day a week later Susan was eating her dinner in lonely contemplation of the great goose that crowned the feast. Her face wore the look of one who has overcome an enemy, but her triumph was marred by lack of appetite and a fluttering pain at her heart.

The kitchen door opened noisily, and familiar feet tramped across the floor.

"Susan Tipping, I've wanted to see you for a hull year!" and to Susan's consternation a pair of arms encircled her and she was kissed by no other than Jonas Wilton himself. "I wasn't drownded. It was John Wilson, the cook!"

In her joy Susan nearly kissed Jonas in return, but a sudden recollection assailed her, and she pushed him away and arose to her feet. "What about Fanny Lee and Queen o' Sheba? She's took good care of the goose for you," she said quietly.

"I got a silk shawl for Fanny Lee," said Jonas, "that'll pay her for her trouble. As for the goose—there ain't nothing happened to her yet?" His voice almost quivered with suspense.

"There she is! Something has happened to her. I was so—so wrought up when I heard you was drownded I just took spite on her and killed her, but now somehow I can't eat her. I was awful mean to kill a pet goose!" Susan stood aloof, pale and defiant.

"Pet nothing!" comforted Jonas, with his arms about her once more. "I got dreadful tired of being tagged around by that goose. It made a sight of talk and it kept us apart, so I jest made up my mind I'd run away for a year and maybe something would happen to Queen o' Sheba. And something did. Don't it smell good? My, but I'm hungry!"

"But why—why didn't you say you was willing to get rid of her instead of"—

Susan caught a gleam of embarrassment in Mr. Wilton's affectionate gaze, and there dawned upon her the realization that man is a superior being and his motives must not be too closely questioned by the woman who is privileged to love him, so her sentence ended in a smile of loving sympathy as their lips met.

NORTHEAST STORM

(Continued from Page 1.)

safety. He was exhausted and was taken to one of the neighbors houses where he soon recovered.

A little way beyond the Quincy Point bridge at North Weymouth was a sea wall of granite on the east of Bridge street. Some of these stones were washed across the street by the tidal wave.

The high tide Sunday morning did several hundred dollars damage to the coal wharf of J. F. Sheppard & Sons at Quincy Point. The wharf is three feet above the level of high tides yet the tide Sunday came over this. The flooring was lifted up and the wharf badly damaged by floating logs being dashed against it. The cellar of their stable was filled half full of sleepers that had floated from the street railway power house and Wharf street was also filled with railway sleepers. At the wharf of Cyrus Patch & Son the flooring of the coal sheds was also ripped up and considerable damage done.

A visit to the shores along the Town river below Deweys landing and to the North Weymouth side of the river brought out the fact that hardly a boat which had been pulled up for the winter but had either been shifted from its moorings. Some had gone adrift. The boathouse at Deweys landing in which Capt. Billy Dewhurst keeps his power boat the "Duck" during the winter, collapsed and sank so that it was held up only by the power boat which was inside. A dozen or so of boats which were hauled up on the shore at this point were all scattered around, some even landing as far up as the foot of Edison park. Many of the larger boats were twisted around on their piles so that they were facing sideways. Ice covered the river for about twenty yards from shore, a sight the shore folks say that has not been seen for some years.

In North Weymouth one cottage was taken from its foundations and broken to bits by the fierceness of the waves. Large beams which were washed ashore by the waves did considerable damage all along the shore, also in smashing verandas and small boats.

Across the river in Germantown the worst damage resulted to the wires which were down all the way from Sea street to the point opposite the Weymouth shore. Every boat in the village practically was torn from its moorings and cast adrift. Early this morning the owners put out in dories and began the work of recovery which will probably take them several days.

The residents along Canal street were much alarmed during the height of the storm as the water at high tide swept into their cellars and over their back piazzas so that for a time there was nearly a panic, many of them leaving their houses and going to neighbors until the worst of the storm was over. In Abbott & Millers' garage at the foot of Newcomb street the water came into the cellar and rose to within an inch of the fires. Many of the railings and fences in the rear of these houses were smashed and carried away. On Brackett street the water was nine inches deep.

AT ATLANTIC.

There was an accident at Atlantic in which a horse was killed. As near as could be learned the animal got tangled up in some wires and was electrocuted. The horse was attached to one of the newspaper delivery teams which was on its way to Boston when the accident happened.

AT WOLLASTON.

The large tide brought in by Sunday's storm inundated a large portion of the low land near Wollaston beach, flooding many cellars, and near the junction of Billings road and West Elm avenue the water reached the electric car tracks.

Many boats were carried on dri near the boulevard but little damage is reported at the yacht clubs.

At the beach a portion of the curbing of the boulevard was undermined and the bath houses beyond the bluffs with the exception of two, were taken by the tide and deposited near the Sailors Home.

No electric lights and few telephones were working, the stores without gas resorting to kerosine lamps and candles.

The fire alarm on the Tubular Rivet and Stud factory owing to crossed wires was sounding the greater portion of Saturday night.

Wires in this section of the city were generally down as elsewhere and on Highland avenue it is reported one of the horses attached to Kennard's milk team was killed by a live wire.

INCIDENTS OF STORM.

On South street near Atherton street a large nut tree about 15 inches in diameter at the butt was blown down across the street. In falling it took down all the wires and compétely blocked the street for awhile. The tree was partially removed before night.

Presidents bridge was the scene of much activity all through the day as nearly all of the wires stretched across were down, and spread all over the structure, so that it was almost impossible for any but persons afoot to get across, and they had to be careful where they stepped. Two or three of the wires were crossed and sparking furiously, so that there was danger of electricution should any one have come in contact with them. All along Newport avenue the wires were heaped upon the board walk. The heavy telephone cables, while not broken, were sagging heavily, and swinging back and forth across the walk with great force.

I will probably be some time before the Houghs Neck line is open to the terminus. Up to the present time the line is open to Post Island. From there on the poles are down across the tracks and the tracks themselves are badly washed out in places.

ELECTRIC WIRES

There was considerable complaint Sunday on the part of the linemen at work trying to clear the mass of wires in different parts of the city, because the street railway company refused to shut off its power on certain lines. The worst mess of wires was on Quincy avenue, and it was on this line that the street railway company was requested to shut off the power.

A large gang of linemen were working there and it was extremely dangerous as the wires were not only across the trolley line, but the heavily charged feed wires as well. Down on Newport avenue and the Presidents bridge the condition was the same and sparks were flying from the wires on the ground. All the lines of the Electric Light and Power Co., had been shut off.

Mayor Shea was appealed to have the power shut off the Street Railway lines, but he was unable to reach the street railway office by telephone. Supt. Conway, when appealed to, is reported to have replied that he had no authority to cut off the power. It was up to the president of the company.

The Eelectric Light Co., realizing the danger that might result from crossed wires shut off its power and kept it off most all day. There was considerable kicking on the part of subscribers because they could not get any light, and the company was censured for shutting off the current. As a matter of fact, however, the Electric Light Company should be commended for its thoughtfulness by cutting of the heavy current. It was the only proper thing to do. At 4 P. M. Sunday the house lighting circuit of City Square was turned on.

The Electric Light Co., are at work straightening out their lines in a systematic manner, and this morning some of the lines that carry the power for electric motors in manufacturing places were in working order. The line that supplies the power to operate the motors at the Daily Ledger office was working in good season this morning, so that no difficulty was experienced in running the presses.

This noon it was said that most of the house lighting circuits would be working by night but that there would be no street lights. Supt. Austin did not consider it as serious a storm as some others, at least as far as wires of his company were concerned. It is because of the general tangle of electric and telephone wires that precaution is taken. He is surprised that more were not injured by the wires.

TELEPHONE SERVICE.

At the office of the Telephone Company on Merrymount road this morning it was reported that in Quincy the company had 183 lines down, and 378 subscribers telephones were out of commission as the result of the storm.

NEW OFFICERS.

The Loyal Pride of Granite lodge, I. O. O. L., held their regular meeting Thursday evening in Doble's hall, and elected officers for the ensuing year:

Past Noble Grand—Miss Elizabeth M. Boutilier.
Noble Grand—Mrs. Lillian Smith.
Vice Grand—Mrs. Grace Ordway.
Elective Secretary—Mrs. Margaret Stronach.
Permanent Secretary—Mrs. Mary L. Thomas.
Treasurer—Mrs. Jennie A. Boutilier.
Chaplain—Mrs. Mary Cuff.
Warden—Mrs. Jennie Morrison.
Conductor—Mrs. Mary Pritchard.
Guardian—Mrs. Margaret Tite.
Trustee for the term of three years—Mrs. Elizabeth Spargo.
Auditor for three years—Mrs. Catharine Cotter.

Mrs. A. Linton was chosen as pianist.

FOURTH

Novelized by FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY JOSEPH MEDILL PATTERSON AND HARRIET FORD.

In "The Fourth Estate" the effectiveness of newspapers in fearlessly exposing political and judicial corruption and the safeguard they are to the public are interestingly and convincingly set forth. A young, earnest newspaper writer and editor is the central figure, and his battles with a dishonest United States judge against big odds and against the cunningly underhanded machinations of the lawyer lobbyist Dupuy form one of the most valuable as well as most entertaining pieces of fiction of the day. That the false judge's daughter, the reigning beauty in the fashionable life of a leading city, should play a sensational part in this gripping story of strong honest men and of strong dishonest men, fighting each other in a war of dollars, evidences the romantic possibilities of the narrative. This is a story of today's America, a fact story torn out of life's book, dealing with the most vital issues that confront every one of us. Romance and humor vie with stirring action for supremacy in this instructive and fascinating novel, which teaches that the path of duty is the path to love and happiness and that in success, nobly won, lie rewards of greater and more lasting value than in a triumph ignobly and more easily gained.

Are You Puzzled About What to Give?

If you are, let us help you decide. Our cases gleam with beautiful presents We shall gladly make suggestions to you and allow you a careful inspection of any articles we have. A giver is judged by his gifts so it is necessary that you buy the best. To be sure of getting the best, select a store that has a reputation of handling only the best. That is where we help you.

DIAMONDS

We buy and sell below regular marked value. To be convinced come and look them over.

WATCHES. We carry all grades. Our guarantee is a bond that cannot be broken as we are here to make good.

JEWELRY. The high grade we carry in stock is warranted to give satisfaction in every way and returnable if not so.

SILVERWARE. In Sterling Silver we carry a full line of Table Flat ware. In plated goods—Rogers 1847, and Rogers & Bros. Star Brand and also other makes.

In Tea Sets and other hollow ware our leading makers are Fairpoint, F. B. Rogers and Pool Silver Co. A big stock of Berry Dishes, Nut Bowls, Chocolate Pots, etc.

In Brassware we have Candle Sticks, Jardineres, Smoking Sets and Tea Sets at the lowest prices.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

For Ladies. Toilet Sets, Manicure, Puff Boxes, Jewel Cases, Photo Frames, Nail Files, Bracelets, Lockets, Chains, Brooches, Hat Pins, Buckles.

For Men. Smoking Sets, Shaving Mugs, Ink Stands, Military Brushes, Clothes Brushes, Fountain Pens, Gold Pencils, Cuff Links, Scarf Pins, Emblem Pins, Watch Chains, Fobs.

ALL HAND ENGRAVING FREE. OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Sandberg Bros.

JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE

THE MOON AND THE STAR.

Written, Composed and Sung by the Great English Artist

MR. DICK TEMPLE.

Words and Music by RICHARD TEMPLE.

Published by MURRAY MUSIC CO., New York. No. 58.
Copyright by Jos. W. STERN & Co. Used by permission.
British Copyright Secured.

The Moon and the Star. 2 pp—2d p. No. 58.

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

Dec. 14—1m.

Until New Years
USE THE
RedCross Stamps

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY

Furniture and Piano Moving

Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

STORAGE
—FOR—
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1405 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING

1357 Hancock Street

Quincy, Oct. 15 tf

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references.
Wideawake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell Patents, What inventions will pay, How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

PHOTOGRAPHY FAD.

Pictures Taken With Concealed Camera While Caruso Sings.

KEEP OLD SHIRT WAISTS.

Save the Embroidered Parts and Make Into Dress Accessories and Fancy Articles—A Smart Apron and Cap. Lessons Given In Deportment.

Dear Elsa—What can't you do if you've got the money! Which platitude, being interpreted, means what bunkers, social and otherwise, you can get over comfortably with the assistance of a good wad of the long green. Now, until recently I always thought that things averaged up about evenly among rich and poor, high and low, suffragettes and antis, when a visit to the dentist became absolutely imperative or a few frocks demanded the aid of a camera to perpetuate its smartness, chicness, daintiness and all round loveliness. But I've changed my mind concerning the picture part of the compensation handout, and a visit to a Fifth avenue studio with a smart friend has put the old idea out of focus.

You know how the average woman (I never could admit us to this category) simply loathes the task of having herself photographed. She is fearful of her appearance, of the weather, of the pose and of her gown. That she is obliged to "smile and look pretty" with the unprejudiced eye of the camera upon her is a horrible thought to even the least vain woman. Well, the clever artist to whom I alluded, realizing the feelings of femininity on the subject, has hit upon a way of overcoming it.

When a client with her nerves on a jangle from a long series of late balls and suppers goes to his establishment with fear and trembling in every gesture, the man behind the camera, which, by the way, is not in evidence at any time during the seance, ushers his victim to an artistic room and waves her impressively to an antique chair of comfortable outline. Miss or Mrs. Four Hundred sinks into it with a sigh of relief at the brief respite. Suddenly, apparently from the next room, the voice of Caruso swells forth in melody. The woman in the chair leans forward gracefully, naturally and generally remains quite still for several seconds enthralled by the phonograph she cannot see. Then there is a little clicking noise off at one side of the room behind a curtain, and the ordeal is over.

Isn't this photographing made easy? And the bill—well, what difference does it make if you're bordering on or have appertained to the millionaire class?

NEW WING BOW.

Sometimes in my fancy's wanderings I have dreams of being in the rich set and in these reckless moments have thrown away hand embroidered shirt waists that seemed to my opulent mind to have grown too old in the service even to put on the retired list. But I don't do it nowadays. What I do is to cut away the needlework parts of the waist and with the aid of a bit of lace perhaps make fancy articles or dress accessories from them.

The sleeves of a particularly stunning waist had given way under the arms, rendering the beautiful hand embroidery useless, so I conceived the brilliant idea of making a fancy little apron from the blouse front. I cut off the collar and ripped the belt at the waist line, then carefully dampened the material and pressed it with a moderately hot iron. The material was then folded so as to bring one side exactly on top of the other, and the upper part, which fitted the neck, I cut in a semicircle so that it fitted neatly around my waist. Starting from the shoulder seam close to the neck, I cut the material so as to bring a straight line from that point to the edge of the underarm seam at the waist line. From there the corners which remained were rounded off, and the goods gradually sloped downward to the center front.

You will find that this design will make a prettily shaped apron, and if it should be found that at the waist line (I am assuming that this shirt waist rescue work has appealed to you) the material is a little too wide it can be gathered into a belt. I finished my apron with a ruffle of about three inches, of course cut on the straight from a new piece of handkerchief linen. By the way, did I say that the waist was of this linen? The ruffle was hemmed on one side and joined to a narrow strip of beading by a French fell, and the opposite edge I joined to the apron in the same manner. I used a wide piece of beading for the belt and wide, soft satin ribbon for the ties.

Now, I do hope this formula for apron making is explicit. It should be easier to follow than the best of cookery recipes, which often leave much to the imagination as to exact quantities and everything to taste in the flavoring line. The basic law, at least, I have laid down for you.

Just for practice I'm going to describe a cap I evolved from another discarded blouse as a gift for the Van S. baby. In this instance I combined real valenciennes lace with the hand embroidery. A frill of chiffon edged the front of the cap, and rosettes of chiffon with centers of tiny pink rosebuds I placed on each side of the front just above the ears. It was too cute for anything but the blessed infant who wears it. The ties were of chiffon, very wide and gathered at the ends into tiny rosettes composed of rosebuds. Yes, the kid probably did put the "pitty" flowers in her mouth, but she's thriving on the diet.

And that reminds me of a funny story I heard about Polly X.'s children. Polly went to Honolulu recently on a business trip with her husband and left the two children—Polly junior, nine, and Rachel, five—with their aunts. One of these relatives is a young and charming widow, and the other is an old—I mean, she's a bachelor maid, who will be able to vote when women get the franchise. She could go to the polls now if Mrs. Pankhurst's dearest hopes are speedily realized. Well, to get back to my story, the aunts had theories of how little girls should eat, how they should walk, talk and almost breathe. Indeed, they did put the poor children through a course of deep inhalations and exhalations. But the weakest point in the armor of their nieces' characters was their lack of affection. "My dear Mary," said Aunt Helen to her sister, "these children have never once offered to kiss me of their own accord, and they don't seem to miss being away from their parents in the least. I'm going to teach them how to be demonstrative and to appear glad to see their father and mother when they come back."

So, sure enough, next day there was a dress rehearsal of welcoming mother home.

Did you ever hear of such a performance? Aunt Helen personated mother and in a most effusive fashion ran to meet the children as they entered the room, embracing her little girls and telling them how good it was to see them again and of how mother had longed to give them a good big hug, suiting the action to the words.

The first trial was a dismal failure. "That won't do, children; go out and try it once more," being the verdict. But after several more rehearsals they warmed up to their parts.

The seed planted by their affectionate aunts must have fallen on fertile soil, for Mrs. X. wrote soon after her arrival at length upon Polly's and Rachel's very evident delight at her homecoming.

The lesson I'm taking now is coaching up for the "wiggle walk." You'll know about it the next time you hear from yours in the faith,

New York. MABEL.

P. S.—I don't know just what this last sentence means, but I found it in an autograph copy of a popular story presented by the author to a quill driving friend of his. The new wing bow is the latest stunt in millinery.

Jelly With Fruit and Nuts.

Soften one-fourth of a box of granulated gelatin in one-fourth of a cup of cold water and dissolve in three-fourths of a cup of boiling water; add half a cup of sugar, the juice of half a lemon and half a cup of sherry wine or grape juice. Turn a little of the mixture into the bottom of four or five glasses. When firm set two halves of walnut meat and two candied maraschino cherries on the jelly and against the glass in each cup. Pour in a little more of the mixture and when this is set finish filling the glasses. Beat half a cup of double cream, half a teaspoonful of vanilla extract and a tablespoonful of sugar until firm, then use to pipe on the jelly in the glasses.

JELLY WITH FRUIT AND NUTS.

The Correct Luncheon.

If it is a formal affair the invitations are sent out ten days or two weeks in advance.

In writing the notes the third person may be used, although the first is preferable.

The invitation should be answered at once, the answer in the same form as the invitation.

Guests may be invited to a smaller, more informal luncheon by word mouth, although notes are better, as they serve to remind busy or forgetful people of the date, time, etc.

A week before the affair is a sufficient time for the invitation.

The correct hours for the affair are 1 and 1:30 o'clock.

The formal luncheon bears a close resemblance to a dinner except for the hour and the fact that the dishes are slightly less substantial in character.

Although there is nothing to prevent it, men are rarely present at home luncheons, such functions being limited mostly to women.

Tonsorial Triumph.

"What was the best job you ever did?" inquired the first barber.

"I once shaved a man," replied the second ditto.

"Well?"

"Well, then I persuaded him to have a hair cut, singe, shampoo, face massage, sea foam, electric buzz, tar spray and finally a tonic rub."

"What then?"

"By that time," concluded barber No. 2, "he needed another shave."—London Answers.

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE

NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE

Bought, Sold and Exchanged

Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new

THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy

Aug. 23 lo-tf

Sprague's New River STEAM COAL

Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined

Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.

J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS

TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET

Quincy, June tf

New Year's In the Quaker City

THE visitor to Philadelphia on New Year's day asks himself two questions—"Why do they call the Quaker City slow?" and "Why doesn't everybody go into the business of selling masquerade costumes?" For it is in Philadelphia on New Year's day that one sees the longest, jolliest, noisiest and most novel street parade imaginable, and a stranger within the gates believes himself transported to New Orleans in Mardi Gras week or to Rome in the carnival period. Nowhere else in the country is Jan. 1 celebrated in the peculiarly joyous fashion that the residents of that city consider the occasion requires, and from morn to midnight the streets are crowded with demons and sprites, gods and goddesses, clowns, minstrels, giants, dwarfs, kings, princes, potentates and pages, while the air vibrates with the music of martial bands and the earth trembles to the tread of marching hosts. No such gay throng is seen in any other city in the world on Jan. 1.

The affair is what is known as the New Year's mummers' or Shooters' parade, and each year the eccentricity of the costumes exceeds that of the previous year. Immense sums are spent on the costumes of the kings, of whom there are several in the procession, and numbers of girls are employed for months previous to the date of the festival cutting out and embroidering the material intended for their majesties' finery. The larger the robe and the finer the embroidery the better the chance of winning a prize. A hundred young Philadelphians will form themselves into a club and do little else in their spare time but plan and prepare for the annual parade, paying subscriptions into a general fund, from which the milliner's bill is to be met, and looking forward to winning a cash prize sufficient to at least reimburse them for the initial outlay. Sometimes as many as ninety pages are required to support some of the gorgeous robes worn by the kings at this curious festival.

The monarch who staggers along at the front part of this great train is dressed from head to foot in the costliest of satin fabric, with a crown to match, and a retinue of pages dressed in the same colored costume, so that the effect in the bright sunshine of one of these kings on his royal progress through the streets of Philadelphia is one that can be surpassed nowhere else but in New Orleans or in Rome

ONE OF THE COMIC CLUBS.

during the gala season. So heavy are some of these robes that the king, although he is selected for his stalwart frame and generally kingly appearance, has been known to faint beneath the load. The pages who support the train do their best to take the weight from the shoulders of their leader, but at times when the street narrows and the tension of the cords holding the train taut has to be relaxed it is usual for the monarch to groan beneath an almost insupportable weight of finery.

Besides the kings and their handsome robes a long procession of "comic floats" keeps the spectators interested, and there are jesters, clowns, minstrels, ladies in waiting (with their enormous feet betraying their sex), knights, squires and the rest of the retinue. The only order given to the thousands who take part in the parade is not to keep still or look solemn for a moment.

At the city hall the procession halts while the mayor and his cabinet review the parade. Then for hours it plods along through avenues of cheering citizens to a point where the committee to whom is left the selecting of the prize winners critically scans the costumes and the appearance of each marching band. The prizes, however, do not interest the average citizen. He is only concerned with the procession.

The scenes by day, splendid as they are, are totally eclipsed by the spectacles at night. In fact, the day's parade is merely a "warming up" for the incidents of the night. The city is aglow with red fire, and the streets are a mass of color. For one evening only the city goes festival mad.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from Friday.)

CHAPTER IV.

THE declaration of the new owner of the Advance that he was no less a personage than the blacklist victim of years back created the sensation that would a cannon shot in the dreamy solitude of the sylvan dells of Arcady.

Dupuy fell back as though struck by a violent blow. And, indeed, he and his interests would have every reason to believe, he now knew full well, that they had in all truth a new enemy to combat, an enemy that would cost them dearly if he were to be vanquished.

"You—you are Jerry Dolan, and you own the Advance!" the lawyer cried chokingly. "What are we coming to next?" he finally managed to say after a desperate effort to calm himself.

Jerry Nolan, for none other than the old time strike leader it was, enriched by his mining operations in the rock ribbed Nevada hills, thrilled with the realization that he was now in a position to strike terror into the hearts and souls of those who had attempted to destroy him and his loved ones. He knew that he had in his power the men who had almost succeeded in their designs against him twelve years before.

McHenry, at first even more puzzled than Dupuy and who was bending forward, with an expression of deepest interest and concern implanted on his features, began to understand the situation more clearly when he heard his new employer say in a voice that pulsated with determination:

"I'M JERRY DOLAN—BACK IN TOWN TO PAY MY RESPECTS TO MY FRIENDS AND—MY ENEMIES."

"Yes, Ed Dupuy, I am Jerry Dolan, and I am back in the old town to pay my respects to my friends and—and"—his voice shook—"to my enemies."

The whole truth now dawned upon the amazed McHenry and also upon Dupuy, who had been dealing with men long enough to know that his only successful pose at the present momentous time would be a conciliatory one. He must at all hazards smooth over this dangerous factor in the city's affairs, the returned Jerry Dolan, and persuade him that he was now his friend.

"Well, well," Dupuy began ingratiatingly, simulating a sickly smile, "this is a most interesting meeting—most interesting, indeed." He laughed as loudly as the nervously contracting muscles of his throat would permit. "But it is time now to let bygones be bygones, eh, Mr.—er—ah"— He again thrust forward the hand that the newspaper proprietor had refused to grasp.

"Nolan," answered the newcomer in his deep, strong voice, "N-o-l-a-n, with an 'N' and not a 'D' on the front end of it. That's my name now. I had to change it." He stopped abruptly and again directed his dark eyes menacingly on the face of the man opposite him. After a few moments he continued: "You see, Ed Dupuy, I was blacklisted as Dolan. Likely you'll remember that too."

Nolan reached out and, seizing Dupuy's hand, held it firmly. McHenry, at one side, witnessed with a distinct shock what he understood as Nolan's sudden resolve to, as Dupuy had suggested, let "bygones be bygones," else why should he shake hands with the man? Dupuy also felt a thrill of pleasure, even of triumph, as the one time chairman of the Street Railway Workers' union warmly shook his hand. Dupuy smiled and, bowing pleasantly, essayed to withdraw his hand from Nolan's grip and step away. But his smile turned to a wrinkled contraction of his facial muscles, indicating acutest pain. The [illegible] hand of the ex-striker, ex-mi[illegible] closing with crushin[illegible] bo[illegible]

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I just want to tell you that that was a true article you had about that old hypocrite, Judge Bartelmy, this morning," he stated to McHenry. "Have another tomorrow and stronger." Another idea came to him, and he added, "Who was it got up that one today?"

Dupuy felt that he must come to McHenry's rescue.

"A young man who has since resigned," he interjected for the managing editor. Both McHenry and Dupuy were growing uneasy at the trend of Nolan's thoughts and words. A glimpse into the craniums of them both at this moment would have revealed the same thought to be predominating: "What is he driving at?"

Nolan appeared distinctly surprised at two things—first, that the writer of the story had resigned; second, that Dupuy should be so familiar with the matter. He took a step toward the latter.

"Resigned?" he asked in reverberating tones. "How do you know?" Before Dupuy could answer Nolan wheeled on McHenry. "Is it so, what Dupuy says?" he asked of the managing editor.

"Yes, sir."

"What's his name?"

"Wheeler Brand."

"What did he resign for?"

"Some of the big advertisers forced him to," admitted McHenry calmly.

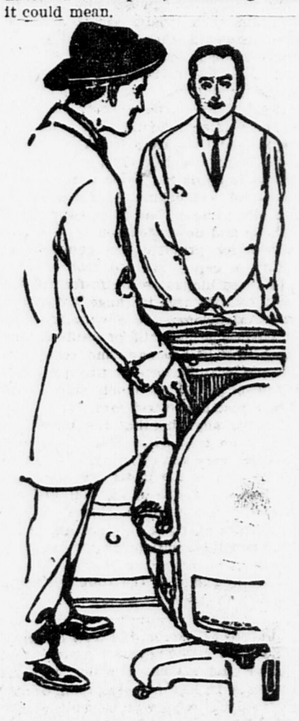
A look of understanding flitted across Nolan's face. He shifted his glance from McHenry to Dupuy. Then, with a significant smile, he said:

"I see you are still on the job, Ed Dupuy."

"Well, it's business"—began the lobbyist defiantly. But Nolan would not listen to him. Thoughts vastly more important than conjecture as to Dupuy's motives now crowded his brain.

"Where is Brand now?" he asked sternly of McHenry.

"I think he is in the local room now, sir," pointing to the door at his left.



The new proprietor strode impulsively to the doorway and called at the top pitch of his powerful voice: "Wheeler Brand! Wheeler Brand!"

* * * * * * *

As he had hurried from the managing editor's room after his dismissal from the Advance Wheeler Brand struggled valiantly against a wave of discouragement that assailed him and for a moment or two threatened to overwhelm. "Discharged for 'beating' the town on the story of the year," he muttered. "Well, I'll try to get on across the street," he concluded, "across the street" meaning the Guardian, the bitter rival of the Advance. He went to one of the long oak tables in the city room, where he seated himself next to Higgins, the leading police reporter of the paper, and began nervously to finish the story of a new bank merger on which he had been working when summoned by McHenry. When he finished he laid the pages of copy on the city editor's desk. He dragged a chair to a window, sat down and gazed moodily down at the crowds of people hurrying along the street below.

It was not his dismissal from the staff which chiefly concerned him. He was certain of obtaining another position. In fact, his reputation along newspaper row was such, and he felt justifiable pride at the thought, that he would be at work within twenty minutes after leaving the Advance office if he so desired. But what did occupy his mind to the exclusion of almost everything else was the consideration of what view Judith Bartelmy would take when she heard the news of his dismissal. She had warned him that he was sacrificing his future in his attacks on the powers that be. Undoubtedly now she would be convinced, as some of his friends had already endeavored to convince her, that, after all, he was a fanatic, an impractical dreamer, who could not accomplish his ambition to right what he believed to be great wrongs, who could not, moreover, escape summary dismissal from his paper. But he must go on. He would go on. He would go that very night to a newspaper that would not suppress nor qualify the truth, one that would not distort facts nor misrepresent a situation in order to deceive the public, to which it was its duty to give the truth. Yes, and he would show the big thieves of the city that even if they managed to remain superior to the law at least they could not remain superior to public opinion. The time had come when—

"Wheeler Brand! Wheeler Brand!" The voice of Nolan came to his ears above the ticking of the telegraph instruments and the clicking of typewriter keys. Brand started from his seat. He did not recognize the voice, nor did any one else in the smoky city room, as curious upraised faces around him testified. It came from the managing editor's room, however, so he hastened to respond, wondering what it could mean.

"From now on you sit here."

Brand entered McHenry's office and faced the three men, his surprise increasing as he saw from the attitudes of McHenry and Dupuy that a huge, rawboned, bronzed faced stranger apparently dominated the situation.

"Yes?" said Brand inquiringly to the stranger, whom he placed as the owner of the voice, because he knew it had not been McHenry's or Dupuy's.

"I am Nolan, the new owner," greeted the stranger.

Brand stepped forward and offered his hand, which Nolan grasped.

"How do you do, Mr. Nolan?" the reporter greeted him, endeavoring to figure just what the mysterious proceeding portended.

Nolan went straight to the point.

"So you've been fired for that Bartelmy article, have you?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

Nolan turned and shot a triumphant glare at McHenry and Dupuy. Then he caused the blood to rush almost blindingly into the head of the young reporter when he swung around, grasped Brand's arm, drew him over to the managing editor's chair, beside which that official was standing, and said, "Well, I've got another job for you." Nolan put both hands on Brand's shoulders and by main strength forced him down heavily into the chair. "From now on you sit here," he announced. "You're managing editor now."

(To be Continued.)

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Gallagher's Express

Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK

Furniture and Piano Mover

IN AND OUT OF TOWN

Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING

Telephones { 409-3 Quincy / 229-3 Quincy / 308-7 Milton

1p-1f

H. R. HOLMES

Rear 1416 Hancock Street

Quincy, Mass.

Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired

Antique work a specialty

Nov. 20

ALBERT J. DURAND

101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.

338 Boylston Street, Boston.

PIANO TUNING.

TELEPHONES:

Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 201

Oct. 1. tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN

Piano Tuner

Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.

Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 249-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. ALMON JONES

DENTIST

Formerly at Braintree

Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.

16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy

July 15 tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,

PAINTER and GLAZIER.

LEADED STAINED GLASS.

DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.

OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.

15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

Quincy Savings Bank

BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.

CLARENCE BURGIN,

Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE

Real Estate and Insurance

AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES

Justice of the Peace Notary Public

Room 4, Savings Bank Building

Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

E. M. FREEMAN

653 Washington St., Cor. South St., QUINCY POINT.

Real Estate Bought and Sold

MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES

INSURANCE

Boston Office, Old South Building, 294 Washington Street

Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,

Real Estate Insurance

Auctioneer Care of Property.

Corner School and Hancock Streets, QUINCY.

R. D. CHASE

QUINCY MASS.

Established 1887. Probate Business Savings Bank Buildings.

White House Mail

ALL CARRIES THE

Red Cross Stamps

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.

Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHICHESTER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT

TO all persons interested in the estate of

JOSEPH F. BERRY

late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, George H. Brown the trustee under the will of said deceased has presented for allowance the tenth account of his trust under said will.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County, on the fifth day of January A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be allowed.

And said trustee is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 24 3t-24-27-3

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of

JAMES A. WHITE,

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to James B. White of Quincy without giving a surety on his bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the fifth day of January, A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day of December A. D. 1909.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 23 3t--23-27-3

Red Cross Stamps

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | FROM BOSTON Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r *5 14 | abedefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | lhgfedeba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 | abc | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adef | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 00 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 02 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 00 |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edeba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | deba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abe | 5 33 | 5 46 | lhgfedeba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 | abedefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedeba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedeba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abedef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 00 | abedef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedeba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 24 | lhgfedeba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | lhgfedeba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | lhgfedeba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | lhgfedeba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abedefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | lhgfedeba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abedefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | lhgfedeba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | lhgfedeba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abedefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abedefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | lhgfedeba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Crescent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46. A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.40, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.21" 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.

L. A. FAGEN, Manager

Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture Also Upholsterers.

1056 Hancock Street, Quincy

Tel. Quincy 159-1

Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, ss, PROBATE COURT

TO the heirs-at law, next-of-kin and all other persons interested in the estate of HELEN V. JOSSELYN

late of Quincy in said County, deceased:

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Maria C. Josselyn of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond;

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the fifth day of January A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 17 3t 17-20-27

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.30, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,

Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMMON,

Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

G. W. Wheeler--Dry Goods
Lloyd's Opera Glasses
Quincy Real Estate Trust
M. B. Buckley-Dentist
Lost

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 30 degrees |
| Dec. 27, 1908, | 44 degrees |
| Dec. 27, 1907, | 49 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

First sleighing of season.

Ira M. Whittemore of the Quincy Yacht club, who recently sold the catboat Almira, has purchased the Dartwell.

There are prospects for races for the Quincy cup next summer, and they will be sailed off the Boston Yacht club station at Hull.

Trains to Boston this morning were delayed nearly an hour by a work train which was derailed at Neponset.

Ralph Austin is home from Schenectady for the Christmas holiday, and will not return until Jan. 4. He is taking a student's course in electrical and mining engineering.

Quincy was without electric lights last night, but the early risers witnessed a beautiful moonlight scene. The sky had cleared and the moon was full.

Miss Margaret McKinnon is spending a few days with Miss Beatrice Boggs of Hancock court and later will spend a few days with Miss Phyllis Smith of Old Colony street.

Miss Mollie G. Brown of Willow street is at Jaffrey, N. H., where she will be one of a house party and expects to enjoy snow-shoeing and sleighing.

A cottage prayer meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at the home of H. J Grass, 52 Ardell street, Montclair. Rev. Joseph Walther will be in charge.

—Christmas giving is too often spending money you need yourself, in buying for other people things they don't want. But there are few who have the courage to break away from the habit.—Old Colony Memorial.

Mrs. Wilson Tisdale has sold her property at 550 Washington street, near Pray street, Quincy Point, to George W. Earle. It includes a two family house and stable, and 45 763 square feet of land assessed for $5,-900.

John H. Ryan, a well known resident of West Quincy, died at his home 72 Common street, this morning, aged 60 years. Mr. Ryan was a stone worker and he took a severe cold the day of the funeral of James A. White which developed into pneumonia. He leaves a large family.

CALENDAR OF COUNTY COURTS.

Supreme Judicial Court—Jury Sitting, third Tuesday of February.

Superior Court Civil Sessions—For work with Juries—First Monday of January, first Monday of May and first Monday of October. For Court work—First Monday of February, first Monday of April, first Monday of September, and first Monday of December.

Superior Court, Criminal Sittings—First Monday of April; first Monday of September; first Monday of December.

Probate Court—At Dedham, on the first and third Wednesdays of every month, except August. At Quincy, on the second Wednesday of every month, except August. At Brookline, on the fourth Wednesday of every month, except August.

County Commissioners' Meeting—Third Tuesday of April; fourth Tuesday of June; fourth Tuesday of September; last Wednesday of December. By adjournment; On Tuesdays, except during August.

(ADVERTISE.)

DEATHS.

COPELAND—In Milton, Dec. 25, Mrs. Jennett Orr, widow of Charles W. Copeland, of Canton avenue.

RYAN—In West Quincy, Dec 27, Mr. John F. Ryan, aged 60 years.
Funeral from late residence 72 Common street, Wednesday Dec. 29, at 8.30 A. M. High mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited.
Dec. 27 2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

An All American Football Eleven of All Americans

TEAM COMPOSED OF GREATEST GRIDIRON STARS of GAME

ALL AMERICAN OF ALL AMERICANS.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Hinkey | Left end | Yale |
| Draper | Left tackle | Penn. |
| Brown | Left guard | Yale |
| Grant | Center | Harvard |
| DeWitt | Right guard | Princeton |
| Bloomer | Right tackle | Yale |
| Campbell | Right end | Harvard |
| Eckersall | Quarterback | Chicago |
| McClung | Left halfback | Yale |
| Heston | Right halfback | Michigan |
| Coy (captain) | Fullback | Yale |

By TOMMY CLARK.

Even though the football season is over and all the big elevens have selected their leaders for 1910 and the experts their all star teams an all American of all American elevens will no doubt prove interesting to the followers of the strenuous game. The team is composed of men who have been awarded a conspicuous place in the mythical football hall of fame. The eleven, if such players could be brought together and the men able to duplicate their best efforts made during their greatest years, would undoubtedly be invincible. While the game has changed materially in the last fifteen years, it might affect the playing of several. Still, many of the old timers showed such adaptability that it would not take them long to learn the new style.

The ideal football team is made up of men who were able to shine individually, but not necessarily at the expense of team play. On it are men who were brilliantly consistent during their careers on the gridiron and who proved their resourcefulness when the strife waxed warmest—men who would show adaptability to the new game and were equally fast and aggressive, whether on the attack or in defense.

For ends I select Hinkey, Yale's great star during the seasons of 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1894, and Campbell, Harvard's stellar player in 1899, 1900 and 1901. These two are undoubtedly the greatest ends the game ever produced. The former especially was an ideal left end. Heavy, fast, intelligent, always following the ball, there was not much on the gridiron that he missed. In breaking interference he would have no equal, while his covering of punts and tackling the runner would be fully as good as if not better than his competitors'.

Next to Hinkey the writer considers Campbell the greatest end. During the seasons of his playing he stood out above all others. Campbell's great effectiveness lay in his alertness and never being drawn in or ever going around the opposite end to follow the play. In selecting these two ends the writer has carefully looked over the records of such stars as Cabot of Harvard, Henry and Davis of Princeton, Gelbert of Penn and several others.

Draper, Pennsylvania's great line man during the seasons of 1907-8, and Bloomer, Yale's star of Gordon Brown's powerful eleven of 1900, are the selections for tackle positions. The pair are undoubtedly the greatest the game ever produced. Draper was always powerful, aggressive and intelligent. During his last two seasons on the gridiron he gave as rare an exhibition of tackle play as was ever seen on a football field. He excelled in all points of merit to a higher degree than any other tackle that ever played on a team. Bloomer's playing during the season of 1900 entitled him to the other position. Not only was Bloomer invulnerable on the defensive, but his ability to provide openings for the runner was the best display of judgment and power that the followers of football have ever seen. Other famous tackles were Hillebrand of Princeton, Hogan, Stillman and Chamberlain of Yale.

The matter of selecting guards is much easier than picking the men for other positions, the honors falling to Gordon Brown, captain of the famous 1900 Yale eleven, and John De Witt (1902-03) of Princeton. The playing of these two men stands out above all others. It can be safely said that no man in the game has approached Brown in general excellence as a guard since football was introduced into this country. In all Yale's important contests during the seasons of 1897, 1898, 1899 and 1900 Brown was the strongest man in the line, invulnerable on the defensive, quick to get in every play, open big holes for the runner and give the latter invaluable assistance. On the other side of the line De Witt would be a tower of strength and a grand running mate for Brown. He would be quick and insistent in breaking up plays, breaking through the line and stopping the play. De Witt could also cover a great amount of territory on the defensive. During his career on the gridiron he was one of the fastest men playing the position.

Other guards who helped make football history are Hare of Pennsylvania, Glass of Yale, Wharton of Pennsylvania, Wheeler of Princeton, Burr of Harvard, Andrus of Yale and Tobin of Dartmouth. Heffelfinger of Yale was also a great guard in 1889, 1890 and 1891.

Picking the center for the eleven is the hardest task, there being so many good ones—Grant of Harvard, Schulz of Michigan, Torrey of Pennsylvania, Holt of Yale and Lewis of Princeton. These men are undoubtedly the best the game has ever developed. After considering all the above men for the position Grant of Harvard is given the preference. He was a tower of strength on the defensive, it being practically impossible to get through him, while his snapping of the ball was excellent both for kicks and runs. Everything considered, Grant is clearly entitled to the selection as center rush. Holt, Schulz, Lewis and Torrey were all good men and could hold down the pivotal position in good shape. Schulz's playing during the 1908 season was not up to his standard of previous years.

In picking the quarterback for the eleven such men as Eckersall of Chicago, King of Princeton, Jones of Yale, Stevenson of Penn, Poe of Princeton and Johnson of Carlisle have been considered. The position is given to Eckersall. He is without doubt the greatest quarter that ever lived—in fact, his equal may never be found. He was a first class punter, always getting from fifty to sixty yards. As a tackler there was no better man on the gridiron. When playing in the back field on the defense, when a fake kick was attempted and the runner was going out around the end, Eckersall started so quickly from his position after he saw that no kick was coming that even though the runner got by the end he met Eckersall almost at once. In fact, it almost seemed a pity that with this speed and quality Eckersall was not used more on the end in defensive work. He was one of the most accurate passers, if not the most accurate, in the country.

Coming to the halfback, there is a wealth of material to choose from. McClung of Yale, Heston of Michigan, Kelly of Princeton and Brooke and McCracken of Penn, Brewer, Kernan and Dibblee of Harvard, Morse of Princeton, Mayhew of Brown and Chadwick of Yale are those who might lay claim to the honors. McClung of the Yale 1890-91 elevens and Heston, Michigan's great back in 1903-04, are picked for left and right guard positions respectively. No one who has seen these men play can doubt their offensive strength. They are powerful men, almost irresistible.

Both were aggressive players and good ground gainers when it was difficult to advance the ball, and both displayed good headwork in their games. The men had grit to spare, made use of their interference and knew how to "follow the ball." De Witt, in addition to being good in any open field, proved one of the best drop kickers the game ever had.

For fullback and captain Ted Coy of Yale is the selection. Coy represents all that is speed, power, brain and skill on the gridiron. It may be that he never had his equal in the game. Certainly the writer never saw his superior. Eliminating his wonderful line plunging abilities, for which he has been selected as fullback, in addition to his strong punting and drop kicking skill, he demonstrated a versatility that would qualify him to play any position on the eleven. There was no line of duty that Coy could not fulfill in a game. His splendid physique, strength and speed would qualify him to play center or quarter, guard, tackle or end. And he could master all positions. His superior offensive powers were not less strong than his defensive. In all Yale's important games Coy proved a demon on the defensive, no player on any rival team excelling him in tackling. Other great fullbacks who helped to create football history are Butterworth of Yale, Hirschberger of Chicago, Graydon of Harvard, Homans and Ames of Princeton and Hollenbach of Penn.

It is the belief of the writer that the selections as made above constitute an invincible eleven. The line is powerful, alert, fast and aggressive from end to end. Working in unison this line would be a potent factor in attack and show an impregnable defense. Back of the line, with Coy acting as captain and Eckersall running the team, it is impossible to conceive of a more ideal union of strategic ability for an all American eleven of all American elevens. Coy would do the punting for distance, ably assisted by Eckersall in quarterback kicks. De Witt would undoubtedly do the drop kicking and kick goals from touchdowns, specialties in which he was never excelled by any man on the gridiron.

Summed up, this eleven would contain every element of strong, varied attack, well equipped with two expert drop kickers and one of the strongest punters ever known and a defense that could successfully meet the most composite or open attack.

SPORTING BRIEFS

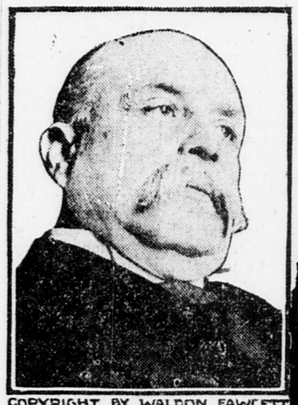
Duluth, Minn., is to have an ice rink.

Yale expects to have a strong eight oared shell crew next year.

Sammy Strang of the Baltimore team will coach the West Point baseball nine.



Dan Patch, the world's greatest pacer, is to be retired. He is now on the Pacific coast.

UNION OF LATIN REPUBLICS.

Nicaraguan Situation Shows Urgency of Its Need, Says John Barrett.

John Barrett, director of the international bureau of American republics, who recently made an address before the Toledo (O.) chamber of commerce on "The Future of Central America," discussed the revolution in Nicaragua in its relation to the proposal to the organization of one government to include the five Central American republics, saying:

There is one important phase of the Central American situation that appeals to all those who are interested in the genesis and evolution of nations. The present difficulties in Nicaragua have started afresh the discussion in favor of the eventual organization of the five Central American republics of Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica into one government. When the Central American peace conference convened in Washington in December, 1907, Mr. Elihu Root, then secretary of state, spoke hopefully of such a realization. He held that the formation of the Central American court of justice, to which go all questions between these countries, was a long step in that direction. His words were applauded all over Latin America.

COPYRIGHT BY WALDON FAWCETT

SENOR ENRIQUE CREEL.

Senor Enrique Creel, at one time ambassador of Mexico to the United States and now in Washington on a special mission for his government in connection with the Nicaraguan crisis, has announced that he looks forward to the ultimate consolidation of the five republics. When two such men as Mr. Root and Senor Creel, representing the best statesmanship of the United States and Mexico and at the same time men who are thoroughly in touch with the Latin American viewpoint of pan-American policies, express these opinions it must be admitted that such a movement is worthy of serious and sympathetic consideration by all nations concerned.

The significance of the proposed union is heightened by some comparisons. One nation formed from these five republics would have an area of 170,000 square miles, or more than the combined areas of the six New England states, with New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey added; an eastern or Atlantic coast line of 900 miles, equal to the reach from Boston to Savannah, and a western or Pacific shore of 1,100 miles, equal to the distance from San Diego to Seattle; an annual foreign trade valued at $50,000,000, of which nearly half would be with the United States, and a population exceeding 3,000,000.

A republic of which these figures of area, commerce and population are descriptive would certainly be an important and potential accession to the pan-American family of nations.

BELGIUM'S NEW RULER.

How as a Youth King Albert Was Interested In His People.

At the age of ten the new king of Belgium, then Prince Albert Leopold, first showed his keen interest in the people he has come to govern. A tutor had taken him to inspect the barracks of the Belgian army, and he was much impressed with the poverty of some of the soldiers. Secretly he penned a request to the late King Leopold II. for a private audience. The next day brought him an important looking document with a big red seal, commanding him to appear at a specified time. Prince Albert was there on the second, though he had to dodge several tutors.

In formal language he petitioned the king to increase the pay of the soldiers, recounting the particular cases of poverty which had come to his notice. "Let this increase be taken from the pay of officers," he advised in all seriousness. "They marry wives with dots and can afford it."

"Your royal highness," replied the king, hiding his amusement, "you will perhaps be king one day. It would be unfair for me to be credited with an innovation of which you are the author. The problem, therefore, will be reserved for you. In the meantime here is a little assistance for the most needy."

The king handed the young prince a handful of coins.

Value of Electron, the New Metal.

Electron is the name of a new metal lighter than the lightest hitherto known. It has been compounded in Germany, and a great future is prophesied for it, especially in the construction of airships, flying machines and automobiles. It is described as a magnesium alloy which can be cast, pressed, rolled and drawn. Its specific gravity is 1.75 to 2. That of aluminium, the next lightest metal, is from 2.7 to 3. As cast metal it has a tensile strength of eighteen kilograms to the square millimeter and a ductility of 5 per cent. After a compressing process, such as rolling or drawing, the tensile strength is raised to thirty-five kilograms to the square millimeter and the ductility to 18 per cent without any notable increase in its specific gravity. The new metal is silver white in color and lends itself to a brilliant polish.

The Eternal Motorist.

Mrs. Gossip—They do say that her husband has acquired locomotor ataxia.

Mrs. Parvenu—I don't think much of those cheap cars. My husband has an imported one.—Smart Set.

NELSON'S BOUT WITH WELSH.

Battle Between Dane and Briton Should Be Great Contest.

SHORT FIGHT FAVORS LATTER

In Forty-five Round Engagement the Durable Dane Would Surely Cop the Money—May Lose Decision on Points—Bout to Be Held In London.

By TOMMY CLARK.

Annoyed by the numerous challenges hurled at him and urged on by many promoters, Battling Nelson, the lightweight champion of the world, will sever his connection with the theatrical company with which he has been appearing for the last two months and return to the ring and take on all the legitimate aspirants to his title.

Nelson has announced that if successful in the coming bouts he will retire. As a starter the champion has agreed to meet Young Erne, Johnny Willetts and [illegible] Gannon shortly phia, two weeks between each bout.

Later he will tackle Freddie Welsh, the English champion, in a twenty round bout for a purse of $20,000 before the National Sporting club of London. Welsh is certainly one of the best lightweights in the world today.

His recent victory over Johnny Summers made him champion of England, so his fight with Nelson will be a genuine international championship affair. Summers was a great public favorite in England, and the Welsh boy's victory made him a tremendous drawing card on the other side of the ocean.

For the past three years Welsh has been copping regularly. There never was much talk of Welsh until he fought McFarland at Milwaukee and lost a questionable decision. McFarland at that time was considered the real bear at the 133 pound limit. After that he fought McFarland in Los Angeles and gave him the toughest argument for twenty-five rounds that he ever had in his life. It was called a draw, but McFarland never evinced a desire to settle the thing.

Welsh visited New York after trimming what was left in the south and won over Jack Goodman and Johnny Frayne with ease. He then blew home and stopped both Henri Piet and Young Josephs.

Some people say that he cannot hit hard enough to stop Nelson. They insist that a clever man has no chance whatever with the durable Dane, but still there are thousands who will wager dough that he wins.

Four years ago Welsh was fighting preliminaries in Philadelphia. He was a dancing kid then. Now he is a ripping, dashing plugger. He has changed entirely. Any boy who can beat Attell in a fifteen round go is a good enough man to fight any one.

Welsh has fought them one by one, honestly and squarely, and he deserves a crack at the championship.

There's a peculiar thing about the Welsh-Nelson fight. The former is probably the only man the Dane could fight in England and use his own style. Welsh has made a close study of Battling Nelson's methods and has copied them. The English referee might allow Nelson to fight in his usual roughing, head boring way just because that would suit Welsh.

Freddy uses the head to the chest style of milling himself. It looks like butting, and the dividing line is very slight. The trick is to put your head so close to the other man's body that he can't strike an effective blow. Nelson originated this trick and has used it in all of his fights.

In many quarters Nelson has been censured for agreeing to meet the Englishman in a twenty round bout. The champion's game is at the Marathon distance, and there is great danger of losing his title on a decision.

Ryan May Help Train Johnson.

Tommy Ryan, who helped train Jeffries for his fights with Fitzsimmons, may assist Jack Johnson in training.

Wants Grand Circuit Dates.

Grand Rapids, Mich., wants to join the grand circuit.

CHRISTMAS HOCKEY.

In an interesting game on Christmas morning, the team of the Squantum Yacht club defeated that of the Wollaston Yacht club at ice hockey by a score of 4 to 2. The game was played at the Sailors Home lake, and although the ice was poor the play was somewhat fast. The Wollaston team lead up to the last few minutes of play when Squantum rallied, and with a cleverly executed series of 3 goals won the game.

The summary:

| SQUANTUM | | WOLLASTON |
|---|---|---|
| R. Hendrie | RF | C. Sass |
| C. Loud | RC | R. Jefferson |
| L. Marceau | LF | H. Ewen |
| C. Hill - L. Robins | LF | C. Mansfield |
| L. Cochrane | CP | F. Sass |
| E. Croucher | P | G. Sass |
| A. Tobin | G | F. Ewen |

Score—Squantum, 4; Wollaston, 2. Goals—R Hendrie, 2; L. Cochrane 2; H. Ewen 1; C. Mansfield 1. Referee—Theo. Marceau. Timer—F. C. Tobin.

WON A TURKEY.

There was a roll off at the Granite alleys Friday night for a Christmas turkey, and out of a field of 16 James Dell one of the youngest of the bowlers, was a winner.

HOLIDAY GAME.

The Y. M. C. A. Employed Boys defeated the Thayer Academy second team in an uninteresting game at the Y. M. C. A. gym Christmas afternoon by the score of 28 to 6.

BOTH ARRESTED.

Michael Murphy was found unconscious on the sidewalk in front of the Quincy Point hotel, Saturday, with a number of bruises on his body. From an investigation made by the police it is believed that he got into a fight with a man named John English. The police found English in his room, and he also had a number of bruises. The men were locked up on the charge of drunkenness.

(ADVERTISE.)

ASSETS, $450,000.
QUINCY CO-OP BANK $$$$$ for The People
ESTABLISHED 1889
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS B'K BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST--A Garnet Ring with initials on inside, an opal stud and an African beetle, between boulevard and West Quincy Depot. Return to WALSH'S Drug Store, West Quincy and receive reward. Quincy, Dec. 24-3t

LOST—Dec. 20th, about 5 P. M., Boston Terrier pup leather strap around neck; four months old. Return to 7 Alleyne Terrace. Reward. Dec. 23-6t

LOST--Between Whitney road and Bigelow street, about 6 P. M., Dec. 25th, gentleman's bag containing baby's clothes and a doll. Return and obtain reward to 6 Bigelow street. Quincy, Dec. 27 3t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—A fine double sleigh, also a set of hub runners. Address R. Ledger Office Dec. 27 3t

WANTED.

WANTED — Experienced seamstress would like work with dressmaker or would take sewing at home. Address S., Ledger Office. Quincy, Dec. 22-3t

WANTED—Young men to learn automobile business by mail and prepare for positions as chauffeurs and repair men. We make you expert in ten weeks; assist you to secure position. Pay big; work pleasant; demand for men great; reasonable; write for particulars and sample lesson. Empire Automobile Institute, Rochester, N. Y. Dec. 24 3t

TO LET

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN. Dec. 21 6t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neighborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-1f

TO LET — Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-18t

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-1f

TO LET

Lodging Room—Furnished. Steam heat. Durgin-Merrill Block.

Tenement — Rear of Durgin - Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City square. One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall — Greenleaf Block. Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x44 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, lew rent.

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

DR. A. B. PACKARD
HARVARD '06
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

Boys Wanted
TO SELL
Quincy Daily Ledgers
at the Quincy, Quincy Adams, and West Quincy Stations. Also at Fore River Shipyard.
Apply at LEDGER OFFICE.

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 291 QUINCY, MASS., TUESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 28, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

STORM WAS FURIOUS ALONG THE BOULEVARD

Loss of $2,000 or More to the Owners of Cottages and Bathhouses

Boulevard Itself Considerably Damaged the Tide Being the Highest on R cord

Sunday's storm was certainly a record breaker, some of old salts placing it ahead of the Portland storm. Although the weather bureau gave no specific warning of its approach any more than to predict in general terms for Sunday "snow or rain, followed by clearing: easterly to southerly winds," a careful reading of the barometer late Saturday evening indicated that a severe storm was close at hand.

As usual, interest at Wollaston and Atlantic centered in the boulevard. With a heavy easterly gale blowing in a 11 foot tide it was apparent that something on the water front would happen.

From Linnell's bath houses to Rye island the surf crossed the parkway and for hundreds of feet washed the beach clear from the curbing on the shore side. All of the stone seats were undermined and tipped over. At Linnell's bath-houses the water rose four feet above the floor.

At Rufe's Hummock beach the sea made a clean break across the beach upon which are located seven large bath-houses and what is commonly known as the Welch cottage. Every bath-house with the exception of the old Whiting camp, which stood like a fort, was totally destroyed, entailing total loss of about $2,000. The principal owners were Chas. W. Jones, Wm. S. Sayward, L. O. Cockayne, Jas. H. Penniman, "Adams Street house" R. R. Freeman and Thomas Fenno. All of the bath-houses contained considerable boat chandlery as well as small boats. Freeman's house contained a valuable Swamscott dory, which was lost with the house. Some of the houses held together and floated ashore on the Sailor's Home marsh.

All of the beach -houses located on the Strand had water up to the first floors. One of the places contained a family which had to be rescued in a boat. Tons and tons of gravel were washed from the Rye island hill by the heavy surf.

The high course tide greatly endangered the Squantum and Wollaston Yacht club house. At 10.30 o'clock on Sunday forenoon, when the tide was high, the surf broke over the wharf and first story windows of the Wollaston Yacht club. For an hour it looked as if the house would have to go, but at noon the wind backed into the north and flattened down the sea.

Notwithstanding the storm crowds of people, including ladies, tramped down to the beach to see the storm's work.

The only electric car line that was kept open on Sunday was the West Quincy and East Milton line, the veterans in the service Motorman Packard and Conductor Craig, made three trips during the morning hours, and again during the afternoon.

The Boston Transcript says: By all odds the most serious feature of the storm in Boston and vicinity was the abnormal tide and the damage it caused. Aside from the plight occasioned in Chelsea by the tremendous rise of the water, breaking all tide-water bounds, hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of lamage was caused in Boston and along the north and south shores. Owing to the full moon, a tide of 11 feet 1 inch would have been the natural rise, or a foot and an inch higher than the mean rise in Boston harbor, but with an easterly gale to sweep the waters in from the sea the actual rise was close to sixteen feet.

At the Moon Island Station of the city of Boston's sewer department the tide measurement was between 15.5 and 15.9 feet a closer commutation being impossible owing to the height of the waves. Such a tide had not been known locally since 1851, when on April 16 Minot's Light was swept away. As between the rise of that date and the tide Sunday morning just before eleven o'clock the difference was hardly a fraction of an inch, and there is little question that yesterday's was fully as high.

The inner harbor was strewn with wreckage set afloat by the rise of the tide and some of the property swept away from the wharves along Atlantic avenue travelled for miles, as instanced in the find of a T wharf fish cart on the Quincy Bay shore. It must have been carried away by the receding tide, floated out beyond Moon Island Head and swept into and across Quincy Bay by the gale.

HIGH TIDES.

After the tragedies of Sunday, says the Globe the phenomenally high tides that accompanied the storm possessed the greatest general interest, this was because to a great majority of people the tides were higher than ever before known, as well as because the tides did the greater part of the damage to property.

John H. Edmonds, formerly of the city engineer's office, who has made a study of tides for many years, made measurements of the flood Sunday, and discovered that it lacked two-tenths of a foot of being up to the highest tide in the three days' storm of April, 1851, when Minots light was twisted from its foundation and toppled with its keepers into the wild riot of the waves.

That Minots light tide measured (Boston base) 15 6-10ths feet. The tide Sunday, the reading being taken at a place where the water was quiet —rose to a hight of 15 4-10ths feet, almost as great as the other, which is the highest on record.

It was four-tenths higher than the Nov. 27 tide, during the storm of 1898 in which the steamer Portland was lost with all on board, and seven-tenths higher than the tide of Jan. 25, 1905, which threw water up into Atlantic avenue, and put some of the wharves a few inches awash.

Mr. Edmonds found the tide at Jeffries point to be 15.76. The measurement was made at Martins boat shop. At Moon island Supt. Callaghan reported it 15.90.

Mr. Edmonds finds that there are about four big tides in a twelve-mouth. The one of Sunday was expected and it was predicted that it would measure about 11.70 but it came in with a sort of bay of Fundy importance and intruded close to the entrance of the tunnel station in State street.

Mean high water in Boston averages about 10.44. Sometimes the reading is as low as 8.2.

AT BRAINTREE.

Braintree's three shoe factories were hard hit by the storm, for the help from Brockton, Stoughton, North Easton and other places were unable to get to work Monday owing to trains and cars being stalled. One factory in particular, who have many orders to fill before the new year, had but few when the starting whistle blew at 7.15.

The observing foreman immediately got in touch with help who could not reach their out of town factories, and as a result the crippled force did well until towards noon when the trains and cars were straightened out and the regular employes arrived.

WOULD REDUCE PERMITS

League Would License Only Twelve Expressmen

A meeting of the Quincy No-License League was held Monday evening at Union hall, Kincaide block. The meeting was largely to hear reports of the recent campaign. The league found itself a little in debt, but the amount was small and steps weer taken to liquidate it.

While the league is very well satisfied with the manner in which the express companies have conducted the liquor transportation business the past year they believe that more permits than necessary were issued by the City Council. The coming year the City Council will be asked to limit the number of permits to expressmen to transport liquor to twelve.

It was planned to have a petition circulated for signatures to be presented to the City Council.

The league is not in favor of the Council refusing to issue all permits, believeing that it would be detrimental to the No-License interests to refuse all.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.

One of the prettiest Christmas tree parties of the season was held Monday evening in the vestry of the Universalist church. The Church was prettily decorated with evergreen and holly and a large Christmas tree which graced one end of the room glowed with candles and other Christmas adornments. It was also loaded with presents, a fact which made the fifty or more children present jump with glee.

An entertainment was given during the evening consisting of singing and recitations by a few of the children, which was very entertaining. George W. Gragg of Quincy Point served in the capacity of Santa Claus, and he handed forth, besides the material presents, gifts of fruit and a box of candy to each.

Are You Puzzled About What to Give?

If you are, let us help you decide. Our cases gleam with beautiful presents We shall gladly make suggestio ns to you and allow you a careful inspection of any articles we have. A giver is judged by his gifts so it is necessary that you buy the best. To be sure of getting the best, select a store that has a reputation of handling only the best. That is where we help you.

DIAMONDS

We buy and sell below regular marked value. To be convinced come and look them over.

WATCHES. We carry all grades. Our guarantee is a bond that cannot be broken as we are here to make good.

JEWELRY. The high grade we carry in stock is warranted to give satisfaction in every way and returnable if not so.

SILVERWARE. In Sterling Silver we carry a full line of Table Flat ware. In plated goods—Rogers 1847, and Rogers & Bros. Star Brand and also other makes.

In Tea Sets and other hollow ware our leading makers are Fairpoint, F. B. Rogers and Pool Silver Co. A big stock of Berry Dishes, Nut Bowls, Chocolate Pots, etc.

In Brassware we have Candle Sticks, Jardineres, Smoking Sets and Tea Sets at the lowest prices.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

For Ladies. Toilet Sets, Manicure, Puff Boxes, Jewel Cases, Photo Frames, Nail Files, Bracelets, Lockets, Chains, Brooches, Hat Pins, Buckles.

For Men. Smoking Sets, Shaving Mugs, Ink Stands, Military Brushes, Clothes Brushes, Fountain Pens, Gold Pencils, Cuff Links, Scarf Pins, Emblem Pins, Watch Chains, Fobs.

ALL HAND ENGRAVING FREE. OPEN EVERY EVENING THIS WEEK

Sandberg Bros.

JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE

STORM MADE WORK IN MANY DEPARTMENTS

Some of the Street Car Lines of the City Not Yet Opened for Travel

Many of the Electric Lighting Circuits Back in Commission, But Several Subscribers are Without Telephones

The Telephone and Electric Light Companies made considerable headway on Monday toward straightening out the tangled mass of wires. The Telephone company devoted the greater part of Monday in cleaning up the wires on the street, and but little attempt was made to connect up any subscribers. Mr. Hyland, the plant chief, said this morning that he had a large gang of men at work and that inside of two weeks every line would be working again.

The Electric Light Company also made good progress Monday and by night practically all of the house lighting circuits were working and some progress had been made toward getting the street lighting circuits into shape. The street lights run on a moonlight schedule and as the evenings are made very bright by the full moon there is but little need of street lights.

Godd progress was also made on the fire alarm wires Monday, and it will not be long before all of the circuits are in working order again. Special arrangements have been made to summons the fire apparatus if it is needed by telephone, and as extra horses are on duty at every fire station there will be but little delay in case of a fire.

On the street car lines schedule time will soon be made. On the Houghs Neck line the company were able to clear the tracks as far down as the Church turnout beyond the Willows before dark Monday, and by night today cars will be running through to the end of the line. The East Weymouth line was opened up to its terminus at East Weymouth, and the Weymouth Landing line is opened a short distance beyond Newcomb square.

The Norfolk Downs loop line and the Squantum line are still tied up, and it will be some days before they are cleared. The only other line that is in any way blocked is the Brockton line, but it is expected that through cars will be running before night.

On the Neponset line Monday the cars were only able to run to the Quincy end of the bridge, and passengers for Boston had to walk the entire length of the bridge.

The street department under Commissioner Bainbridge did good work Sunday, so that practically all sidewalks were cleared for early Monday morning pedestrians. There are no bad drifts in the streets, so that the Commissioner did not have this to contend with. It is necessary, however, to have the gutters opened up so that the surface water may be taken care of in case of a sudden warm spell of weather, or a rain, and this will entail quite an expense.

At the last meeting of the City Council $1,100 was transferred from the appropriation for removal of snow to other appropriations as at that time it did not seem as though there would be any need of snow money before the new year. Fortunately Mayor Shea had not signed the transfer orders when the snow came, and he may find it necessary to veto the two orders, in order that the Street department will not be crippled as to the removal of snow. After the first of the year next year's appropriations can be drawn upon for this work.

MUNICIPAL PRESS AGENT

Will Quincy Get Into the Swim?

The question whether the booming of a town or city should be done under the special supervision of a municipal press agent appointed for this particular purpose has been raised, and various opinions have been elicited. The Chicago Inter Ocean contains the following interesting and illuminating statements on the subject:

No sooner was it announced that Chicago was about to have a municipal press agent, so that the fact that there is such a place would become more generally known, than advice began pouring in from scores of towns that are noted for keeping their names before the public.

Excellent advice comes from the Benevolent Order of Boomers of South Shore (Long Island) places. Writing from Patchogue, the secretary of the order says:

"If we are correctly informed that Chicago is built on the shore of a great lake the city has immense possibility for advancement by means of our well known and always successful sea serpent."

Dispatches from other cities follows:

"Pittsburg, Pa. Dec. 12—There was nobody at the office of the Pittsburg city press agents tonight to comment on the new move in Chicago, as the press agent bureau here is practically disbanded, having overreached itself. Leading citizens advocate hiring an efficient corps that will prevent things about Pittsburg getting into newspapers."

"Montclair, N. J., Dec. 12—Our methods have been very simple and effective. Nobody in this town is ever referred to except as 'multimillionaire.' Chicago is welcome to this suggestion."

"Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 12—This city has great success with a 'carnival of crime' every other month and a 'wave of reform' in the alternating months. For a new town like Chicago it would be better in the beginning to have the carnival last six weeks and cut the wave down to a fortnight, as reform is almost sure to repel new citizens who might otherwise venture to live in Chicago."

"Boston Mass., Dec. 12—This town owes its prominence to beans and culture, the beans being real and the culture a bluff. It would be easy for Chicago to imitate our culture or get one just as good but she could never bake beans with the same flavor and crispiness."

"Newport R. I., Dec. 12.—Nothing in the experience of press agent here would be of help to man in a crude place like Chicago."

"Penn Yan, N. Y., Dec. 12—Chicago must have a historic house in which W. J. Bryan slept on the night he learned he was not elected."

"Winsted Conn., Dec. 12—If Chicago could get a man to write the same sort of dope about all the cows in the stockyards that Winsted's man writes about the few animals in this village, New York would never be heard of again."

"Peacock, N. J., Dec. 12—This town is known all over the country for its Smith family reunions. Let the Smiths of Chicago get together."

A NEWSBOY'S GRATITUDE.

I wish to thank all my customers for their kindness in giving me both money and gifts.

Very gratefully yours,
John G. Byrne.

Quincy, Dec. 28, 1909.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, but nothing that so as hints at gambling of any character will be allowed.

FREE TRIAL ELECTRIC LIGHTING

As a special inducement to the citizens of Quincy, whose homes or stores have never been wired for electric light, the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company makes the following proposition:

To all who will expend at least twenty dollars ($20) for wiring and fixtures, before January 31st, 1910, the Company will make the service connections, install meter and standard carbon filament lamps without charge, and will also FURNISH FREE twenty dollars ($20) worth of electric current at regular meter rates to be used before June 30th, 1910, provided the premises can be reached from the present lines of the Company without the setting of additional poles. This concession will go far towards paying the entire cost of wiring the average house.

For further particulars telephone Quincy, 185, between the hours of 8 A. M. and 5 P. M., or fill out and mail to the Company, No. 9 Granite Street, Quincy, the attached coupon.

Quincy Electric Light & Power Company

By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.

Quincy, Mass, December 22nd, 1909.

COUPON.

QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER CO.:
Gentlemen:

I am interested in your offer of Free Trial Electric Lighting. Please have your representative call and give me full information.

Name .....

Address, No. ..... Street,

Date of Appointment ..... Time .....

Dec. 22—12 t

Model Residence For a Modest Sum

Design 865, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

"Here is planned a home that should make the heart of any housewife glad. It has all the conveniences of a residence costing many times the estimate here quoted, yet can be built for a modest sum. The living room covers practically the entire side of the house, but a sort of division made with a column archway allows the back of the living room to be used as a den or library. It is now planned to be used as a library or den, with bookshelves built in on each side. These could be left out and seats put in if so desired. The first story is to be finished in red oak or birch; second story in pine to paint. The size is 33 feet 6 inches wide by 25 feet 6 inches deep over main part. It has a full basement. The first story is nine feet; second story eight feet in the clear; first story sided and second story shingled on outside. Attention is called to the balcony in the second story, ample to seat eight or ten people and also large enough to be screened in and used for an open air sleeping room, being accessible from the alcove, which is practically a hall space or can be used for a sewing room. Cost to build, exclusive of plumbing and heating, $2,950.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 865 for $25.

GLENN L. SAXTON.

THE DAILY LEDGER enough to compel and nominal per markets.

What the housekeeper would like to know also is whether South America can deliver eggs, butter and a few other articles that are unpleasantly expensive in this country just now.—Detroit Free Press.

a.m. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, same as week days. Re- ve West Quincy, 6.00 6.30, 6.50 d every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. 7.30 a m, then same as week

ONWAY, Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMB Division S

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 2.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gregg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Judge William C. Hook.

Member of Court Which Condemned Standard Oil.

The federal circuit court bench which declared the Standard Oil company an illegal corporation is considered one of the strongest in the United States. It consists of Judges Sanborn Hook, Adams and Van Devanter Judge William C. Hook is a native of Pennsylvania and a resident of Leavenworth, Kan. He has been a member of the court since 1903.

BRIEFS

Saturday will be New Years day, but will not be observed as a holiday.

Miss Isabella DeForest of Goddard street has severed her connections with the firm of H. L. Kincaide & Co.

The Girls Friendly Society of St. Chrysostoms church will hold a New Years party Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Holy communion services were held at Christ church yesterday morning and this morning at 10 o'clock.

The annual party of the Quincy Tennis Club will be held tomorrow evening.

The monthly business meeting of the Swedish Baptist church will be held this evening, and the choir rehearsal tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Flowers of Quincy street announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence May to Mr. Charles Watson Coy of this city.

Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern of the Congregational church at South Braintree will be the speaker tomorrow evening, at the union meeting of the Bethany Bible Reading club and the teachers and officers of the Sunday school. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Friday night a Watch Night service will be held at the Hall Place church preceded by a stereopticon lecture, "A visit to ten nations"" by the Rev. George Mecklenburg of Boston University.

Funeral services for Mrs. E. H. Doble were held at her late home on the Parkway, Sunday afternoon at 2.30, Rev. Carl H. Raupach, pastor of the Hall Place M. E. Church officiating. Music was rendered by a quartette from Boston. The floral pieces were many and beautiful. Interment was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Dec.

Established 1870 Telephon

JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

BOSTON'S VALUATION

Assessors Dig Up Information Which Increases It by $8,565,200

Boston, Dec. 28.—Boston's assessing department has gained $8,565,200 in assessable property since the tax rate of $16.50 per thousand was declared on Aug. 21. This amount is $6,000,000 greater than was ever found before by the assessors between the time of ending the year's regular assessments and the issuance of the annual December warrant.

This remarkable showing means an additional revenue to the city approximating $140,000, the benefits of which will go to the next administration.

The total valuation of the city at present is $1,356,606,227, of which $1,092,665,600 is on real estate and $263,941,227 on personal property.

The increase in the personal valuations comes from recent reports regarding certain trusts, and also as a result of information received through the probate court as to the filing of wills and the distribution of estates.

The gain in the real estate figures is the result of the finding of property that was overlooked in the earlier assessments, and also by the changing of hands of property that was previously exempt from taxation.

DEMANDS OF FIREMEN

They Will Affect About Twenty-Two Thousand Railroad Employes

Boston, Dec. 28.—Firemen in the passenger service will get a minimum of $2.40 to $2.60 a day, while the minimum for the freight service will be $2.75 to $3 in the demands to be made on the Boston and Maine, New York, New Haven and Hartford and Boston and Albany railroads Jan. 3 next. The demands are graded according to the size of engines.

Should the negotiations fail of result, a strike may be declared that will tie up all of the railroads in the country. Rejection of the demands does not, however, mean an immediate walk-out, as the men will have to vote for or against a strike when they learn what the attitude of the railroads will be.

The sections affecting firemen and hostlers' demands affect 22,000 employes.

CHARGES BAD FAITH IN LAND POLICY

Prince Cupid Makes an Attack on Governor Frear

Honolulu, Dec. 28.—Delegate Kalanianole, who recently announced himself a candidate for re-election to congress, has caused excitement throughout the territory by a vigorous attack on Governor Frear, charging him with not acting in good faith with regard to the proposed homesteading of public lands.

In his first interviews on the subject, the delegate said that the governor "lied" about land policies and intentions. Later he withdrew his expression, but announced himself at war with Frear on account of failure to open lands.

The delegate's attack was a surprise to Republican leaders. Frear had just left for Washington to urge before congress a new land bill, which was prepared with Kalanianaole's assistance and unanimously endorsed by the legislature of Hawaii in special session.

Kalanianaole is thought by some to have aspirations to become governor himself, in view of rumors of Frear's disposal to resign and return to the bench.

PLANNING FOR WAR

Russia Said to Be Preparing For Another Contest With Japan

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 28.—Advices brought here from the Orient are to the effect that Russia is hurriedly massing troops on the frontier in the belief that the Manchurian situation will soon involve her in a second great war with Japan.

Travelers from North Manchuria and Siberia, according to these reports, declare that Russia has secretly mobilized an army of 500,000 men on the shores of Lake Baikal and that fifteen submarines have been shipped to Vladivostok with orders that they be put in commission immediately and prepared for active service.

Extra forces of men are being rushed to the Amur railroad to prepare it to handle expeditiously troops and munitions.

Fat Man Succumbs to Epilepsy

Lakeport, N. H., Dec. 28.—Harry B. Parker, who tipped the scales at 345 pounds, died suddenly here. Parker gained 200 pounds in one year. A year ago he weighed less than 145 pounds. His death was due to epilepsy.

Two Months For Suffragette

Liverpool, Dec. 28.—Miss Selina Martin, a suffragette, was sentenced to two months at hard ton, Bun a demonstration in behal and Tora- Dartmouth. Ea imp Yale she also a great guard s 889, 1890 ail 1891.

Picking the center for the eleven is the hardest task, there being so many good ones—Grant of Harvard, Schulz of Michigan, Torrey of Pennsylvania.

GOES DOWN IN SIGHT OF PORT

Schooner Davis Palmer Wrecked Just Outside Boston Harbor

STORY TOLD BY WRECKAGE

No Trace of Her Crew of Twelve Men, Who Are Undoubtedly Lost—Many Other Vessels Tossed Ashore by Furious Gale—Chelsea Flood Refugees Sleep In Armory—One Woman Driven Temporarily Insane

Boston, Dec. 28.—News of the loss of the big five-masted schooner Davis Palmer and her crew of twelve men, off Boston harbor, and of the wrecking of eleven other vessels along the New England coast constitutes the opening chapter of the toll taken on the sea by the great storm which swept New England Saturday night and Sunday.

Cape Cod is still cut off, save for its northern tip, which the wireless has tapped.

With the restoration of communication with this storm-swept section, which, in common with southeastern Massachusetts, bore the brunt of the blizzard, it is feared that a story of marine disasters and storm damage unequalled in years will be unfolded.

The news already gleaned makes it probable that the worst is yet to come. Wreckage borne into Boston harbor on an unusually high tide yesterday told the mute story of the loss of the Davis Palmer, somewhere near the entrance to the harbor.

The Davis Palmer went down with its crew at some point yet unlearned just outside Boston harbor. The vessel, which had come up the coast from Newport News with a cargo of coal, foundered at the very approach to the waters of the port that she was seeking.

Wreckage coming ashore at Hull and other points along the south shore indicates that no mistake has been made concerning her identity. Though the long stretches of coast line along Hull and Nantasket have been gone over, no bodies have been found; yet this fact has failed to bring about any feeling of hope for Captain Leroy McKown of Malden, her master, and the eleven other men the Palmer carried.

It is believed that in the aftermath of the great gale Sunday afternoon, while the waves still assumed gigantic proportions, the Palmer, lying at anchor off shore, snapped her cables, struck upon one of the ledges and sank within a very few moments.

Other vessels wrecked in the storm were:

Three-masted schooner Nantasket driven ashore off Scituate. Captain Small and crew of nine men rescued by volunteer life savers.

Three-masted schooner Maud Seward went ashore near Cedar Tree Neck in Vineyard Sound. Captain Norton and crew of three men landed safely.

Three-masted schooner A. K. McLean driven ashore on Canal Flats in Vineyard Haven harbor. Captain Remby and crew of five men landed.

Three-masted schooner Walls, driven ashore in Vineyard Haven harbor. Captain Ward and crew reached safety.

Two-masted schooner Belle Halliday dashed ashore at Brant Point, Nantucket. Fate of captain and crew unknown, but it is believed they reached safety.

At Provincetown the sloop Bonito is at the mercy of the waves, and on the flats of Plymouth harbor are four schooners, all of which will probably be refloated.

Wire service throughout New England is still greatly deranged, less than half the usual number of lines, telegraph and telephone, being available. The electric light service in many cities is still cut off.

Situation In Chelsea

Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 28.—Mrs. Nathan Kellner, one of the refugees at the Chelsea armory, driven temporarily insane last night by exposure and pain, jumped from her cot in the armory and, seizing a large hammer, was just about to murder her seven children when she was seized and the children saved.

Dr. Chase, the city physician, who is attending the stricken families, aided by a volunteer assistant, succeeded in getting the woman back to the cot. Sedatives were administered and soon Mrs. Kellner regained her senses.

More than 200 other refugees from the flood of Sunday slept in the armory last night. Captain Renfew had provided mattresses and blankets, and shake-downs were made up in the locker room. No attempt was made to separate the families, and men, women and children made the room a common dormitory.

Hundred Persons Marooned by Sea

Newburyport, Mass., Dec. 28.—When telephonic communication was resumed between this city and Salisbury Beach one of the most thrilling tales of the great storm came over the wire.

Dan Patch, the wo[n]derful pacer, is to be retired. He is now on the Pacific coast.

from their foundations and did thousands of dollars' of damage.

The women were so badly frightened by the thrilling experiences that some of them were prostrated with fear.

A tide of tremendous proportions, forced along by a seventy-mile gale, dashed far inland, cutting off the winter population at the beach.

Cape Cod Suffers

Hyannisport, Dec. 28.—Cape Cod was battered by the highest tide that has been known for twenty years, the height being three feet eight inches more than normal.

Not only was great damage done by the raging waters, but also at other places on the cape from which no reports could be received owing to lack of telephone and telegraph communication.

Several homes of millionaire summer residents were badly damaged by the storm.

Vessel Cuts Down Lighthouse

Newport News, Va., Dec. 28.—Having been rammed and almost cut in two by the four-masted schooner Malcolm Baxter, Jr., the Thimble Shoal lighthouse in Lower Chesapeake bay caught fire and was totally destroyed. Keeper Hudgins and his two assistants put off in a lifeboat, and were subsequently picked up by a crew from the United States scout cruiser Birmingham.

Eighteen Dead In New York

New York, Dec. 28.—Eighteen persons in and near New York perished in the Christmas blizzard or died from accidents caused by it. Six of this number died from exposure after being caught in snowdrifts which they were unable to penetrate. Others were drowned and a number were killed by trains.

HUNTING TRIP A RUSE

King Alfonso's Condition Said to Be Causing Grave Anxiety

Madrid, Dec. 28.—King Alfonso has left here, ostensibly for Andalusia on a hunting trip. It has been said that the condition of King Alfonso has created grave anxiety and that another operation is imperative.

It is also reported that under the guise of departing on a hunting trip in Andalusia the king will go to San Lucar, where the operation will be performed.

THREE SHOTS FIRED INTO MAN'S BODY

Murdered After Being Called Out of Boston Saloon

Boston, Dec. 28.—John W. Hurley, aged 27, married, was shot to death in an alley running between Tremont and Albion streets at 7:15 o'clock last evening.

Hurley had been called out of a saloon less than two minutes earlier by "Bennie" Burns, one of the safe blowers who figured in the Ponkapoag postoffice robbery. The police are scouring the city for Burns, but will not say that they will charge him with murder if arrested.

Just what happened after Hurley left the saloon in the company of Burns is a mystery, for the police are at loss for a motive for the killing. Two eye witnesses to the killing saw a man fire three shots as he stood at the top of the steps leading into the alley, but they did not see the victim until the murderer jumped down the steps and fled through the alley to Tremont street and escaped.

MRS. EPTINGER LANDS

Artificial Leg Caused Her to Be Detained For Two Weeks

Boston, Dec. 28.—Ex-Governor Bates, personal counsel for Mrs. Mary B. G. Eddy, has secured the admission into this country of Mrs. Mary A. Eptinger, a widow, 36 years old, who has an artificial leg, and who arrived on the Ivernia a fortnight ago and who has since been detained at the immigration station on the ground that she might become a public charge.

By a decision given yesterday by Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor, she will be allowed to land.

At the time of the detention of Mrs. Eptinger it was said that she came to this country to enter the household of Mrs. Eddy as cook, but this was denied. She came from Liverpool.

Old Yale Instructor Stricken

New York, Dec. 28.—Dr. William G. Sumner, who has occupied the chair of social and political science at Yale university for thirty-seven years, fell unconscious at the Murray Hill hotel from a rupture of a blood vessel in the brain. His ultimate recovery is expected.

Not Too Old For Jury Service

Los Angeles, Dec. 28.—F. L. Auden begged to be excused from jury service because he was 89 years old. Judge Wilbur looked him over and refused to excuse him, saying: "Why, you may live to be 100, young man."

The Weather

Almanac, Wednesday, Dec. 29.
Sun rises—7:13; sets—4:19.
Moon rises—7:15 p. m.
High water—12:45 a. m.; 1 p. m.

an imported one.— England: Partly snows in

TRAVELING IN NICARAGUA.

American Woman Relates Experiences of a Recent Trip.

AN EXCITING TIME AT LEON.

How a Party of American Sympathizers Resented Hissing at the Stars and Stripes--Natives Are Kind and Hospitable—Watched by Robbers.

Although South and Central American revolutions have long been the butt of many a conventional North American joke, the situation of United States citizens in Nicaragua during the present civil war there is anything but a jocose matter, according to the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Barris of Lynn, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Barris left Nicaragua in September, just as the present revolution, which has since resulted in the resignation of President Jose Santos Zelaya and the placing of two hostile armies, one Zelayan and the other commanded by his former governor, John J. Estrada, in the field, was beginning to break.

"On our first trip we left Boston in November, 1907, sailed to Costa Rica, which is next to Nicaragua, and traveled part of the time by rail and part of the way on mules over a wild mountain trail," said Mrs. Barris. "The mountains were high and the trails of the roughest sort. To me the perilous part of the ride was when we came to a chasm some 2,000 feet deep with a wire pulley stretched across it and large baskets suspended from the pulley, when it was explained that to get across it was necessary to sit in the basket and be hauled over on the pulley.

A Delightful Country.

"Nicaragua is one of the most delightful of countries. The climate is charming. The moonlight of the evening is something a tourist can never forget. In the cities there are many handsome buildings, and much attention is given to art. The natives are kind and generous, and the well to do families, most of whom have traveled much and are educated abroad, are very hospitable.

"Leon, our final destination, has 40,000 inhabitants and is very picturesque with its old churches and its pretty little houses and courtyards filled with tropical plants. The place was unspoiled by tourists, and an American woman was a great curiosity. Whenever one passed through the streets people rushed out of doors to see her.

"This visit in Leon was exciting, but not pleasant. One night we were attending a theater. One of the performers sang a piece in which she waved the flags of various nations. Always before this the appearance of the stars and stripes had been a sign for cheering, but this night it was hissed. It made my blood boil. The next night I made up a theater party of all the American sympathizers I could bring together. The owner of the theater had planned to cancel the flag waving, as he said it made too much excitement, but we persuaded him to continue it for this one evening. When the American flag was waved we stood up and gave a shout which must have sounded like a football cheer. If there were any hisses they were too feeble to make themselves heard."

Picturesque Ride on Mules.

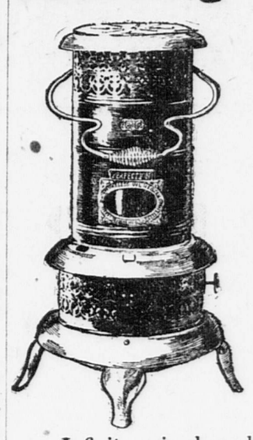
In describing a ride of 120 miles on muleback from the mountain town of Madagalpa during her first visit to Leon she says:

"That ride from Leon to Madagalpa was the most picturesque and in many ways the most exciting of the trip. It was a five days' climb through mountain wilderness to this quaint little town, which is several thousand feet above sea level. We had to have an Indian guide, and it was so hot that we could travel only at night.



"There was not much enchantment about the houses where we stopped along the route, however. These were Indian huts made of straw and grass and mud. We slept in hammocks, and it was necessary to have the hammocks swung high because the pigs of that vicinity are numerous and also friendly, and if a hammock happens to be low enough they insist on scratching their backs against the sleeper. We carried some of our own provisions with us, but much of the time had to eat the native dishes, the principal one being rice fried in grease, with cold water poured over it. I ate this, but never could persuade myself to try tortillas, the native bread.

Menaced by Robbers.

"Many travelers are held up and robbed along this route. On our first night out we thought we were going to be. We were at an inn when several rough looking men rode up armed to the teeth. They had good horses and no baggage. You do not need a detective to tell you that men who ride swift steeds and don't carry luggage on the Madagalpan trail are freebooters. They watched us continually until we left the inn.

"We feared they would follow us and expected to be held up on the trail. Our Indian guide evidently thought so too. He was clearly frightened and hurried us along at such a pace that we became lost and wandered about nearly all night before we got back to the trail. Perhaps that circumstance saved us from the robbers, for we saw no more of them."

Meeting Emergencies

For the chilly mornings and evenings of early Fall and Spring or the more bitter days of Winter in the house, in the bungalow, any place where heat is needed in a hurry, the fully meets the emergency—never smokes—never goes wrong—in a class all by itself. Infinite pains have been taken to make it perfect.

PERFECTION Oil Heater

(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

Automatic Smokeless Device

Turn the wick high or low there's no smell—the automatic smokeless device prevents it—no smoke either—just a steady glowing heat.

Requires little care—burns nine hours—indicator on brass font shows contents at a glance. The ONE PERFECT Oil Heater. Various styles and finishes.

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not at Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get Good Coal
You Can Get Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.
¶ It's your business and right to investigate.
SEARCHLIGHT US!
'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.
Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

REAL ESTATE For Sale?
Advertise in The Ledger.

Quincy Da Ledger.

HIGH TIDE OR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday Dec. 27, | 11.30 | 12.00 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.45 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.30 | 2.45 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

At a Duel.

Fat Man—To even things up he should give me two shots to his one.—Jugend.

BRIEFS

Three Saints days this week,—Monday, Tuesday and Saturday.

The Women's Guild of Christ church will hold its last meeting of the year tomorrow afternoon at 2.30.

The mercury was at 10 above zero this morning, the coldest thus far this winter.

Begin the New Year as a regular reader of every issue of the Daily Ledger.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robbie of Richie road spent the Christmas holiday in Manchester, N. H.

A Christmas party for the senior department of the Sunday school of Christ church will be held on Thursday evening at 7.30 in the parish house.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Bethany church will take an imaginary journey in the airship "Speedway" on Friday afternoon at 4.15. They will visit places of interest in Italy. Refreshments will be served.

In spite of the unfavorable weather a number of people were present at the Sunday morning service at the Hall Place M. E. church. The service was held in the vestry, the pastor preaching an appropriate Christmas sermon. The special music planned by the choir will be sung next Sunday. There were no other services for the day. The Christmas concert to be rendered by the Sunday School will be given next Sunday evening.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days

E. W. Grove on box. 25c

Wadsworth Quincy Mass. Trade Mark Registered

Special Attention Is Called to New Years

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth Quincy Mass. Trade Mark Registered

IS WANDERING ABOUT EUROPE

Wife of Cook Said to Be Vainly Searching For Him

HAS HIS ORIGINAL RECORDS

Explorer Shaved Off Mustache and Gave Best Friends the Slip When He Departed From New York—Last Heard From In Lisbon—Said to Have Thought Conspiracy Against His Life Existed

New York, Dec. 28.—Mrs. Frederick A. Cook, wife of the discredited discoverer of the North Pole, is believed to be wandering about Europe with his original records seeking definitely to locate her husband.

The flight of Cook from this country in all its details, relating how he shaved off his mustache, "slipped" his best friends, including Lonsdale, who bore his typewritten copies to Copenhagen, and finally went into hiding under an assumed name at Lisbon, Portugual, from which place he was last heard from on Dec. 10, were all given out by Charles Wake, who now renounces his title of "Cook's most intimate friend."

MRS. FREDERICK A. COOK.

According to the story, Mrs. Cook on leaving New York had no knowledge whatever of her husband's whereabouts other than that he was somewhere on the other side, and she was greatly distressed over his conduct.

Mr. Wake states that the last he heard from Cook came in a cable message signed "Frederick Hunter" on Dec. 10 from Lisbon, and read: "Where can I reach Marie? Has she my original records?"

Mrs. Cook was then nearing England on a steamer and a cable reply was sent informing Cook of this fact, but Wake entertains the impression that thus far they have failed to meet, and that Cook himself is responsible for this failure.

Mr. Wake makes no effort to defend the explorer. In fact he is most severe in his arraignment of the man. He states that Cook believed, or appeared to believe, that a conspiracy against his life existed, and prior to his disappearance urged Wake to occupy a room at the Gramatin Inn, Bronxville, adjoining the apartments which Cook and his wife had. He did this and while there received several letters threatening his own life as well as Cook's.

It was learned that there was a telephone "leak" by reason of which information concerning just what Cook contemplated seemed to get into the hands of his enemies. Finally, in order that the fears of Mrs. Cook might be allayed, detectives were employed by Wake to shadow the explorer constantly.

It was then arranged that Walter Lonsdale, Cook's secretary, should sail for Copenhagen with a typewritten copy of the records on Nov. 25, and that the doctor and his wife should embark later for Genoa under assumed names. There they were supposed to be joined by Lonsdale, who would secure the originals and take them back to Copenhagen. Cook to remain within easy distance in case his presence was desired during the inquiry.

GORDON MADE SENATOR

Will Relinquish the Honor When Mississippi Legislature Meets In June

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 28.—Governor Noel announced the appointment of James Gordon of Okolona as United States senator from Mississippi, to succeed the late Senator McLaurin.

The appointment is only until the legislature can elect a senator for the unexpired term and is made with the understanding that Gordon will not be a candidate for this term. The legislature meets June 4.

Princess Owes $3,000,000

Vienna, Dec. 28.—Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha had a long interview with Emperor Francis Joseph regarding the course he should pursue in the matter of the debts of his divorced wife, Prince Louise of Belgium, which in Vienna alone amount to $3,000,000. The princess has just inherited $3,000,000 from her father.

LACK SANITARY CARE

Medical Inspector's Report Not Complimentary to Shoe Factories

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 28.—Dr. J. W. Voss of Beverly, one of the state medical inspectors, reports that out of 314 shoe factories he inspected in Lynn, Peabody and other places in his district, only forty-two factories were in satisfactory condition.

Dr. Voss' report was made public here and caused much comment. Lynn in a city of shoe factories. It has been claimed that many of the shoe manufacturers did not take any care of their plants from a sanitary standpoint, except when compelled to by the local or state laws. Complaint was made that the laws were being violated constantly.

Dr. Voss complains, among other faults, that the toilets in the factories are unsanitary, that the general lighting is bad, particularly on the long stairways, that employes expectorate on the floor, that the drinking water is unhealthy, and that tuberculosis patients are to be found at work along the benches, spreading disease among healthy men and women.

RAID PROBERS FOOLED

Soldier's Reply Led Them to Expect Names of Brownsville Shooters

Washington, Dec. 28.—Sergeant Reid of Company B, Twenty-Fifth United States infantry, one of the soldiers discharged from the army in connection with the "shooting up" of Brownsville, was on the witness stand before the military court of inquiry, being cross-examined by Captain Howland. Beid did not appear to remember much about the shooting.

"Now, Reid," said Howland, "suppose you were conducting this case and wanted to find out which of the soldiers did the shooting, which would you examine first?"

"I 'spect I'd hunt up Holloman," replied Reid easily.

The members of the court looked startled and sat up, expecting to hear some of the much wanted names.

"Why do you name Holloman?" asked Captain Howland.

"'Cause he's the man you folks have been asking me most about," replied Reid, with a grin.

LONG FALL BROKEN BY A SNOWDRIFT

Victim of Drunken Husband Escapes With Broken Ankle

Boston, Dec. 28.—Bridget Kilmartin was last night thrown out of a second story window by her husband as the climax of a family altercation in their home, 28 Leon street. She was taken to a hospital with a fractured ankle, where the attending physicians declared that the deep snow in which she fell was all that saved her from perhaps fatal injuries.

John Kilmartin, her husband, was locked up. She says he came home last evening intoxicated and at once commenced an argument with her. In the heat of the affair he seized her by the shoulders, so she declares, and shoved her out of an open window on the second floor.

She fell twenty feet into a snowdrift. For some time she lay in the snow, moaning with pain and pleading with her husband to carry her back into the house. He refused to listen to her, and neighbors took her from the drift and notified the police.

Mrs. Kilmartin is 29 years old and is the mother of three small children.

SETTLEMENT BLOCKED

Striking Switchmen Ask That They Be Unconditionally Reinstated

St. Paul, Dec. 28.—What it was hoped would be the final conference between the railway managers and the striking switchmen began in Governor Eberhard's office. It is admitted that there is still one stumbling block in the way of a settlement, and that is unconditional reinstatement of the strikers.

President Hawley said Governor Eberhard was too optimistic. "The railroads are demanding concessions and conditions to which the switchmen will positively not agree," he said. "They are demanding all and giving nothing."

Margaret Marshall Recovering

Norfolk, Dec. 28.—Margaret Marshall, the young newspaper writer who recently attempted to commit suicide at Virginia Beach, continues to improve, and physicians say that her ultimate recovery is now expected.

Tolstoi Is Laid Up

St. Petersburg, Dec. 28.—The health of Count Leo Tolstoi is again causing anxiety. The count has a high fever. Physicians were summoned from Moscow and Tula to attend the author.

Bryan Leaves For Jamaica

Miami, Fla., Dec. 28.—William J. Bryan left here for Knights Key, going thence to Jamaica, where he will join his family. He is greatly improved in health.

Satolli Much Worse

Rome, Dec. 28.—The condition of Cardinal Satolli, who is suffering from nephritis, is desperate. Extreme unction has been administered.

ZELAYA SAFE FOR PRESENT

But He Is By No Means Yet Out of Danger

UNDER PROTECTION OF DIAZ

Ex-President Said to Eventually Intend to Go to Belgium—Several Precedents, It Is Said, For Extradition of Criminals by Nations Which Gave Them Right of Asylum—How Washington Views the Situation

Salina Cruz, Mex. Dec. 28.—The Mexican gunboat General Guerrero, having on board Jose Santos Zelaya, ex-president of Nicaragua, who fled from Managua by way of Corinto on Christmas eve, docked here Monday. Accompanying the former president were the ex-minister of war and four other Nicaraguans.

That Zelaya intends to eventually go to Belgium was the belief expressed by Minister Castro of Nicaragua at Mexico City. He said the former president would probably come direct to Mexico City, where he would doubtless be the guest of President Diaz for a time, after which he would proceed to Belgium, his wife's native land.

May Yet Be Extradited

Washington, Dec. 28.—The docking of the Guerrero at Salina Cruz, with Zelaya and a party on board is not regarded as a change in the former president's plans. As understood here it was his purpose at the time he left Managua to proceed to the City of Mexico, and there is no doubt that will be his destination. How long he will remain in Mexico, however, is not known here.

The departure of Zelaya from Nicaragua is not regarded in official circles as at all conclusive that he will escape punishment for his crimes in that country. The United States government has, according to the state department, never taken any steps whatever for the apprehension of Zelaya, or to prevent his leaving the country. It preferred to proceed with deliberation, knowing that should his presence in Nicaragua be required at any time to answer for his misdeeds his person could be secured with little or no difficulty.

Secretary Knox, in his letter to the Nicaraguan charge in this city, Mr. Rodriguez, made it clear that in connection with any demand this government might make upon Nicaragua in the way of reparation for the shooting of two Americans, Cannon and Groce, there might be included, in addition to a money indemnity, a demand that the person or persons found guilty of the murder of the two Americans should be tried and punished for their crime.

The question of extradition in a case of this kind was settled many years ago, and there are several cases cited where criminals have been surrendered by the nations where they had been given asylum, even when there were no extradition treaties.

One of the most notable of these was that of the Spanish army officer, Arguelles, who in 1864 captured a shipload of slaves which was being sent to the United States. For this act he was rewarded by the Spanish government, but it developed later that he had sold a number of the slaves, and, fearing arrest and punishment for his act, had fled to New York.

The Spanish government asked the United States to surrender him for trial, which, under President Lincoln's orders, was done, as a matter of comity between nations. President Lincoln, in a communication to congress on the subject, laid down the principle that a nation was never bound to furnish asylum to dangerous criminals, or to those who were offenders against the human race.

Should, therefore, the United States demand of Nicaragua the punishment of Zelaya, there seems little doubt that any nation where he may have taken refuge will, on the showing which the United States will be able to make, willingly surrender him for trial and punishment.

FACING $2,000,000 LOSS

Patten Making a Desperate Fight to Keep Down Price of Corn

Chicago, Dec. 28.—James A. Patten, whose recent corner in wheat has made him a dominant figure, is entering upon a desperate speculative battle. Surrounded by enemies and facing a rising market, he is fighting to keep down the price of corn.

In spite of his most strenuous efforts, the price has risen from 10 to 12 cents above that at which he held it, and he is known to be between 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 bushels of corn short.

Unless there is a radical change soon, his enemies say, he will be out $2,000,000 or more.

Alleged Theft of $1000

Boston, Dec. 28.—George F. Newhall, a clerk in the wholesale coffee store of Harry F. Brown, was arrested on a charge of the larceny of $1000 from his employer. Newhall has been in the employ of Brown for three years, and has been engaged in collecting accounts.

FIELD OF WOMAN

Nez Perce Indian Girl Studying Shorthand and Typewriting. Patti's Call on Mrs. Cleveland. Fair Sex In Politics.

MISS ELIZABETH PENNEY, whose home is on the Nez Perce reservation, is an Indian girl of high grade intelligence. She was graduated from Carlisle in June, 1909. She is a pianiste, and a year ago she appeared before the National Educational association in Cleveland, O., and won distinction in depicting the American Indian. After her return home from college she made an application to enter the Lewiston Business college in Idaho, and the application received the unanimous vote of the students of that institution. She is now studying shorthand and typewriting. She is apt and popular. She dresses with taste and is noted for her gracious manner. The costume shown in the picture is the one she wore when she appeared before the Educational association in Cleveland.

MISS ELIZABETH PENNEY, NEZ PERCE TRIBE.

Mrs. Cleveland and Adelina Patti.

Soon after Mrs. Cleveland became mistress of the White House Adelina Patti called to pay her respects. The time for a call of that kind passed, and still Patti lingered. An hour elapsed, and still she stayed. The second hour was well on its way, and the "divine" singer grew fidgety. If Mrs. Cleveland experienced any such feeling she concealed it, for she is a mistress in graciousness. It is not known who made the first move to break up the call, but it came to an end, of course. Patti had supposed that the royal etiquette which warrants the crowned head to dismiss his guest prevailed in this country, and she was waiting for Mrs. Cleveland to do as is done by the king. The story never leaked out until long after Mrs. Cleveland left the White House.

The Sex In Politics.

Mrs. Frank Herbert Briggs, daughter of Senator Frye of Maine, has lived in Washington for thirty years. Her mother was a remarkable woman in her day and exercised a considerable influence in the politics and social affairs of the national capital. The daughter has inherited many of her mother's traits. In speaking recently about the influence of her sex in politics Mrs. Briggs said: "Men, as a rule, resent having any woman calling herself a politician or claiming any directing power in the great American game. But it is unreasonable to suppose that the American woman, witty, brilliant, resourceful and keenly alive to all that concerns her home and her community, should be without influence on the higher policies of the country.

"I think that there are today in Washington society women who understand politics and how to guide the hand of statecraft as ably as the women whose names are written in history and literature. The women who pose as great social and political leaders rarely fill this role."

MARCIA WILLIS CAMPBELL.

Manless Colony Proposed.

A lot of British women are interested in forming a colony in Australia in which no man will have anything to say. No man will be allowed to own a foot of ground nor so much as a brick in any building. The land has been secured from the government of that commonwealth as a freehold property. Mills and factories will be established in which only women help will be employed. The soil will be cultivated by women exclusively. There will be amusements that are healthy and elevating, but nothing that so much as hints at gambling of any character will be allowed.

COOKING AND HEALTH.

Old Time Housekeepers Knew Not the Meaning of Such Words.

None of us likes the digestibility of our food dinned into our ears. To tell Maria that milk and fish should not be eaten together or that a menu of meat three times a day is injurious serves but to irritate her without affecting her habits.

The intelligent housewife makes it a business to study cooking in relation to health and serves her meals accordingly, while commenting not.

She knows that intelligent cooking depends largely upon proportions, that a well planned menu offers contrasts that are not only attractive, but healthful.

Realizing that the body demands its daily quota of protein, starch, fat, mineral and water, she plans her meals to give them to her family and at the same time afford an agreeable variety.

The old time housekeeper knew not the meaning of such words, much less could apply them to her marketing. She served meat and potatoes together because her grandmother had done so and would have sniffed at the idea that meat furnishes the protein that is absent from potatoes, while the latter supply the carbohydrates, in which meat is wanting.

It makes small difference to her that eggs have no carbohydrates, but supply more protein and fat and less water than most foods. "Eggs is eggs" and are served ad nauseam when they are cheap and stinted when prices soar.

She perhaps does not know what foods come under the class "starchy," much less realizes that they are more digestible by thorough cooking, while albumenoids and fatty foods are less digestible when cooked.

There is much fun poked at the scientific cook, but the up to date housewife, undaunted by ridicule, makes a point to know food combinations from the health standpoint as well as from that of fashion or long custom.

She is sensible, however, not to parade her theories. She skillfully takes in consideration in preparation of a dish or the planning of a meal food principles, but her family only knows that they enjoy those meals hugely and seem to thrive upon them as they never would under the old order of hodgepodge, unintelligent cooking.

COZY HALL BEDROOM.

How a Transformation Was Wrought by a Girl With Little Money.

Such a cozy little room as it was—the bachelor quarters of the woman who could pay only $3 a week room rent! There seemed to be a place for everything, and such a lot of space left over just to rest your eyes on. And yet when you look at the ceiling you saw that it was only a narrow slice of hall bedroom after all. How came the magic hallucination? Why did you not feel as though you had to walk sidewise to get into the room and then keep your biggest thoughts from expanding until you got outside again? "I'll tell you the secret," laughs the resourceful woman who wrought the transformation.

"Of course I had to spend just a little on getting the furnishings I wanted, but then I have to live here year in and year out, and wall paper is cheap when you do your own hanging. You see, the cardinal principles of space, or the appearance of it, are unbroken lines and lightness of color. A large room will look smaller in figured wall paper and a small room larger in plain. The same is true of carpets and draperies. And light colors give the appearance of largeness and horizontal lines of breadth. I therefore papered my walls in plain light green, carpeted my floor evenly from wall to wall in unfigured carpet, as light a shade as was practicable, and covered my couch and pillows with unfigured fabrics of harmonizing tints. My couch pillows I even had oblong instead of square, to give the horizontal lines. Nor did I break the floor space with rugs or the walls with large pictures. Across my one window I hung a single wide curtain, bordering it deeply and letting it come just to the sill for the sake of those same horizontal lines. Then I arranged my couch crosswise instead of lengthwise, so as to leave a square instead of an oblong space, and I tucked away every single article that I neither needed or considered necessary to the beauty of the room.

Possible Help For the Housekeeper.

If beef can be brought from the Argentine Republic and landed in New York at 6½ cents a pound, as is now asserted, the solution of one of the housekeeper's problems is in sight.

The rate quoted includes freight from South America, it appears, but apparently not the duty, which under the new tariff would bring the price of beef in New York up to 8 cents a pound. The price is less than western beef is bringing at that point and would mean competition for the meat packers of this country.

Whether the prevailing high prices of meat are due to the exhaustion of our western ranges, as is frequently argued, or to agreement among packers, which is also alleged sometimes, importation of meat into this country seems to be inevitable very soon. If there is a beef trust the Argentine supply will block extortion. If the rise in prices is natural and the United States can no longer raise cattle enough for its own consumption economic laws will compel the nation to buy in cheaper markets.

What the housekeeper would like to know also is whether South America can deliver eggs, butter and a few other articles that are unpleasantly expensive in this country just now.—Detroit Free Press.

Red Cross Stamps

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, May 2 Haymarket 724—Quincy 448; tp-1y

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department,
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St., QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building, 294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets.
QUINCY.

R. D. CHASE
QUINCY MASS.

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insuranc
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Pub
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

ALBERT J. DURAN
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston
338 Boylston Street, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Ba
Oct. 1.

HERBERT A. HAY
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 340-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 10 12 [illegible] 1 to 5.
16 Fax [illegible] p m.
July 15 week
[illegible]ect, 7.35 a
12.35 p m,
60 mins. to
Sundays, 8.35
days.
Calla[illegible]
Su[illegible]OODS
Fu[illegible] 5.25, 5.55, 6.20,
MALL W[illegible] mins. to 10.20
Sundays, 7.25 a
Furni[illegible] UNDER[illegible] days. Return[illegible]
[illegible]k, 5.45, 6.10,
HOS[illegible] mins. to 10.50
[illegible]undays, 7.50 a
H[illegible] days.
[illegible] a m, and every 30
[illegible] m, then 11.14, 11.44 p
[illegible]9 a m, then same as
Rear 1[illegible]rn, leave Wollaston,
[illegible]y 30 mins. to 11.[illegible]
[illegible].20 p m. Sundays,
[illegible]me as week days.
[illegible] 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and
Fla. to 11.10 p m. Sundays,
[illegible]ame as week days. Re-
[illegible]ve West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50
[illegible]d every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m.
[illegible] 7.30 a m, then same as week
[illegible]ONWAY,
[illegible]ntendent.
THOMA[illegible] GAM[illegible]
Division [illegible]

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

406

NEW HOUSES IN QUINCY

IN ONE YEAR

REPORTED BY ASSESSORS

MAY 1, 1909.

438

PERMITS FOR NEW HOUSES

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY

ISSUED IN 1909

BY INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

The town of Milton manages its finances so that it pays but very little for interest. But $6,700 was appropriated this year, and on Dec. 1, there was an unexpended balance of $2,325. Quincy should investigate.

The importance of placing all wires underground was emphasized during the severe storm of Sunday and it was miraculous that there were not fatalities in the city from contact with live wires. There probably would have been had not the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company shut off all current. We know of people who would not use their telephone that day for fear the line might somewhere come in contact either with a trolley line or an electric power line. A little inconvenience because the electric light current was shut off, or darkness because there were no street lights, is nothing compared with the loss of lives. But the situation would not have been as serious if more wires were underground, as the poles and wires would not have fallen in the the streets.

Is the Quincy City Council seeking o do more business than the Massahusetts Legislature? One would ink so, when it increases the numr of orders from 336 in 1908 to 480 1909. This is an increase of over per cent in one year. Perhaps it only another illustration of Quinhe phenomenal growth in 1909. t of the orders are reported by mittees but many were introduced different Councilmen. Years ago mer improvements were desired in May s the subject was brought to the attention of the City Council by petition, but now many Councilmen seem to think that they are sent to the Council to secure all they can for their ward, and they introduce orders. This accounts in part for the rapidly increasing debt with its big interest account. There were four times as many orders as petitions during the year 1909. Four hundred and eighty orders are nearly 10 per week, or per ded by ster 31 meetings.

"A visit to ten nations ____ George Mecklenburg of versity. go back to ecord of a

Funeral services for Mr Dec. 26, Doble were held at her latection of the Parkway, Sunday afole of to-2.30, Rev. Carl H. Raupach, on that the Hall Place M. E. Churche lighting. Music was rendered ved but quartette from Boston. Thal re-pieces were many and beautif Reterment was at Mt. Wollaston three tery. nd 17 8 1-2 Dec. and

Established 1870 Telepho
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Se
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy

exceeded that of 1830 by thirteen inches. In the storm of 1830 the brig Diamond was driven ashore at Post Island, Houghs Neck. As recently as Jan. 24 and 25, 1905, there was a huge tidal wave, which overflowed the Quincy Point bridge and all along the shore. Considerable damage was done at Houghs Neck, which was shut off for a couple of days. In the storm of Nov. 28, 1898, the steamer Portland was lost, with all on board.

The men who are charge of the appropriation bills in Congress and the Republican leaders in both the Senate and House have a hard task before them. The administration has sounded a note of warning that a policy of retrenchment must be adopted and that appropriations must be held down. The leaders have approved this policy and members of Congress generally say it is a move in the right direction. Difficulty is experienced, however, in putting into effect a practical working scheme to save Uncle Sam's money.

At the Navy Department it is insisted that two battle ships must be authorized at this session. At the War Department there is opposition to any plan for a reduction of the standing army. Senators and Representatives of both political parties are extremely anxious that an omnibus public buildings bill shall pass this winter. Their constituents demand it and will think they are without influence in Washington if they are unable to get through an authorization for a new postoffice building in their district. From the arid states of the West comes a demand for an extension of the reclamation policy, while from various parts of the country there is an insistent demand that rivers and harbors improvements shall not be further delayed. The State Department wants embassies provided in some of the old world capitals to the end that this country may increase its prestige among the nations. And so ad infinitum.

Members of Congress who are for retrenchment in one direction insist that the appropriations shall be increased in other ways. When the iniquity of an increased appropriation aproaches local demands even the most austere advocate of retrenchment will take his shriveled hand without resistance and find him smiling as his "step draws near." The men who want to cut and slash right and left are honest watchdogs of the treasury, but they "bay a deep-mouth'd welcome" as the appropriation draws near home. Chairman Tawney of the appropriations committee will be the ablest and most unpopular man in Congress if he succeeds in cutting down expenses.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

It looks as if Mayor Hibbard of Boston is trying to regain the friendship of Fitzy by helping him back to the place from which he dislodged him. —Lynn News.

President Taft took some big slices out of the appropriations, but it is noted that Boston harbor is well looked after in the recommendations. Passing the summer right here in Massachusetts, he could not afford, for his own peace and restfulness, to have any unnecessary dissatisfaction so near by.—Lawrence Telegram.

Some of the towns in this state are said to have put on their gypsy moth squads men who otherwise would be public charges. This is not much of an improvement over the ancient days when they used to send men to the Legislature for the same reason. —Taunton Gazette.

Generally speaking it is the proper plan to bar the drunks from trolley cars, and to segregate them when noisy in the smoking cars on trains; but no rule can be made to work effectively always. The conductor must use his own judgment at times, and no hard and fast rule should be made in cases which if not handled effectively and wisely may result in great harm or even death to somebody.—Brockton Enterprise.

Mayor Hibbard's persistent candidacy for Mayor of Boston is bound to injure the Republican party of the state, unless the big, strong men of the party take steps to show up the mayor as he deserves. It does not seem reasonable that he can expect to be elected after his disappointing career in office, and the only effect of his candidacy will be to help out Mr. Fitzgerald and injure Mr. Storrow's chances. It is in the hands of the best element of Boston to give that city a better administration than they have had for some years and their's be the shame if the voters do not rise to the opportunity.—Plymouth Memorial.

It is impossible to be well, simply impossible, if the bowels are constipated. Waste products, poisonous substances, must be removed from the body at least once each day, or there will be trouble. The dose of Ayer's Pills is small, only one pill at bedtime. All vegetable.

SMILES OF FORTUNE

A Windfall For Willie and a Prize For Another.

By FRANK H. SWEET.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

"Here's yo' mail, Miss Willie," called Uncle Tobe's voice through the open window, and a black hand was thrust in with a package of letters. She took them and glanced over the postmarks carefully. Most of them were from girl friends, several were circulars, and one was from Leadville, Colo. She selected this and examined it curiously. She had no correspondents in Colorado or, indeed, in any part of the west.

Inside were a check and a short letter with the printed address of a Leadville banking house. The letter ran.

Willie Smith, Talbottom, Ga.:
We are requested to forward you the inclosed check for ten thousand dollars ($10,000). Please acknowledge receipt and oblige. Yours truly,
WALDRON & CO.

She stared at it a moment, then hurriedly examined the check. Yes, it was for $10,000 made in favor of Willie Smith.

The first idea that came into Miss Smith's head was that there had been a mistake. Then it occurred to her that some one had died and left her a legacy. She held the check in her hand, trying to think of what relative could have remembered her in making a will. Her mother had a brother who had left home as a boy and nothing had been heard from him so far as Miss Smith knew. Possibly he might have prospered and, dying, left her this legacy. But would he not have more likely left it to her mother?

Then it occurred to her that some young man who had loved her had died and left her this money—some one whom she had refused—to heap coals of fire on her head. The idea was very romantic, but she could not remember any one she had refused.

She went over in her mind every young man who had been attentive to her. There was Farmer Jones' son

"SUPPOSE YOU GIVE ME $6,000," SAID WILLIE.

Alf, who had courted her for awhile, but as soon as that Merriam girl had come with her pretty baby face he had gone off after her. Then there was Tom Edwards, who had kissed her at the husking party, but finding a red ear entitled him to kiss the girl he was with at the time, and if he hadn't it would have been a slight. Deacon Holmes had seen her home from church several evenings, but he was old enough to be her father. No; there wasn't a person who had ever shown enough interest in her to warrant ever giving or leaving her a cent.

"But why," she said at last, "do I stand here wondering when by going to the bank I can find out all about it. It's like getting a letter that you don't know who wrote and studying the address and postmarks instead of opening the letter and looking at the signature."

Putting on her hat, she called for old Chloe, who came in from the kitchen and, seeing her mistress preparing to go out, said:

"Wha' yo' gwine, honey?"

"I'm going down to the village, Chloe," she said, trying to speak calmly. "There's been some mistake about one of these letters."

"Then let Tobe go unfix it, honey," expostulated Chloe. "That man's forever making botherations. Here, yo', Tobe!"

"No, I will go," said Willie as the black head appeared again at the window. "You needn't saddle my horse, Tobe. It's only a short distance. I will walk."

There was only one bank, and its cashier had been an old friend of her grandfather's. She went directly to him and explained her errand.

"I reckon it's all right, Willie," said the old man after he had carefully examined the envelope and its contents. "You're the only Willie Smith I know, and Waldron & Co. are all right. Our house has dealt with them. Likely it's some forgotten cousin of your father's or mother's who's kept you in view and just died. And I'm bound to say, my dear," putting down the papers and looking at her beamingly, "I'm plumb glad for this windfall. I can almost hear your grandfather chuckle in his grave."

"I wish I felt more sure," hesitated Willie.

"Suppose I telegraph to Waldron & Co. Can you come in this afternoon?"

"Yes."

Miss Smith left the bank all of a tremble. What did it mean? Had she really received $10,000? Was it a cruel hoax? The time she passed before it would be time to return in the afternoon was passed in suspense. The hands of the clock turned slowly. At last the time came round, and she went to the bank. The cashier handed her a telegram. It read:

Merchants' Bank, Talbottom, Ga.:
Gentlemen—Nothing to explain. We forwarded check to Willie Smith, Talbottom, as requested. If party presenting it can be identified you may cash same with perfect safety. Yours,
WALDRON & CO.

"So, you see, it is all right," said the cashier genially. "How will you have it?"

"Suppose you give me $6,000," said Willie, with a sudden feeling of exultation. "That will pay off the mortgage and make some necessary repairs. The rest I will leave on deposit with you."

The next few hours were momentous ones in the young girl's life. The mortgage was paid, and visits were made to grocery and hardware and seed stores and to painters and carpenters and stonemasons.

One day a brisk, prepossessing young man stepped into the Talbottom postoffice.

"Any letters for Willie Smith?" he asked.

"No; she called for them not an hour ago."

"She?" curiously.

"Yes. Generally her man Tobe gets them, but she happened to be in town this morning. You're one of the new men working out there, I suppose."

"No, not exactly."

He left the postoffice and walked across to the bank.

"Has Willie Smith presented a check here for ten thousand recently?" he asked.

"Miss Willie Smith has," replied the cashier.

"I beg your pardon. I meant Miss Willie Smith. You see, out west we get in the habit of dropping ceremony."

The old cashier looked at him thoughtfully.

"So you are a westerner, are you?" he asked.

"I was, but I expect to be a southerner now," the young man said frankly. "My mother left this country nearly thirty years ago, but I have often heard her describe the neighborhood. When I made my pile I concluded to come down here and look around and if I liked the place to stay permanently."

The cashier's face cleared instantly.

"Good!" he exclaimed. "You can't help liking such a grand country. All it lacks is money and energy. But what part of the west are you from?"

"Leadville, Colo."

"Ah! I began to suspect it. You have been connected with the house of Waldron & Co. and called in to see if the check reached its destination all right." He came from behind the counter and took the young man's hand warmly. "I am right glad to meet you, sir. Your house never sent out a better check than that in all its life. Miss Willie has paid off a mortgage on her plantation and is making wonderful improvements, sir—wonderful. But how would you like to go out and see her yourself? We close early, and I generally go that way for a walk. She'll be glad to see any one from Waldron & Co."

"Why, I—nothing will please me better."

"Very well. You'll take dinner with me. But you haven't told me your name yet, sir."

"Smith—er—call me Hamilton Smith."

"A good name, sir—a good name! We have Smiths in every county in the south, but I tell them a good thing cannot be too common. My mother was a Smith. But about you locating with us. There's the Calhoun plantation. Joins Miss Willie's and is one of the best in the county, and just now it can be had for a song. We'll look at it when we walk out."

The young man said little, but on his face was an expression of mingled amusement and indecision. And this amused indecision remained with him and even appeared in his voice until they went out to the Smith plantation. But when they returned late in the evening it had wholly disappeared.

"Miss Willie is an exceptionally fine girl," he said with considerable enthusiasm, "and if I am not mistaken the community will be proud of her plantation. Miss Willie told me she wanted to plant trees along her side of the river which runs between the two plantations and that it would be nice if the owner of the other side could be induced to do the same. Are you sure the place can be bought?" abruptly.

"The Calhoun place? Certainly, and for a song."

"Well, I want it. I suppose it's too late to get it tonight," regretfully.

"But you haven't seen the place yet."

"Yes, I have—across the river, you know. Besides, I'm willing to take your word for it. If you can have everything settled before noon I will go over after lunch and talk with Miss Willie about the shade trees."

In the fall there was an engagement announced which all Talbottom said was the most suitable match of the year. A few days before the wedding young Smith carefully overhauled his papers. There were many letters addressed simply to Willie Smith, some were to Willie H. Smith and a few to William Hamilton Smith. All of them were destroyed.

"It isn't a good plan to keep old papers," he soliloquized as the last one was reduced to ashes. "Sometimes they call for explanations."

The Scrap Book

An Embarrassing Blunder.

Toward the close of a lawsuit in Massachusetts the wife of an eminent professor arose and with a flaming face timidly addressed the court.

"Your honor," said she, "if I told you I had made an error in my testimony would it vitiate all I have said?"

Instantly the lawyers for each side stirred themselves in excitement, while his honor gravely regarded her.

"Well, madam," said the court after a pause, "that depends entirely on the nature of your error. What was it, please?"

"Why, you see," answered the lady, more and more red and embarrassed, "I told the clerk I was thirty-eight. I was so flustered, you know, that when he asked my age I inadvertently gave him my bust measurement."—Everybody's.

Life's Compensations.

Why should we ever weary of this life?
Our souls should widen ever, not contract;
Grow stronger and not harder in the strife,
Filling each moment with a noble act.
If we live thus, of vigor all compact,
Doing our duty to our fellow men
And striving rather to exalt our race
Than our poor selves, with earnest hand or pen,
We shall erect our names a dwelling place
Which not all ages shall cast down again.
Offspring of time shall then be born each hour,
Which, as of old, earth lovingly shall guard
To live forever in youth's perfect flower
And guide her future children heavenward.
—James Russell Lowell.

The First Patient.

An eminent New York surgeon, now very wealthy and the envied possessor of a large practice, often tells with glee of an incident of his younger days.

When he first hung out his shingle and started in to win fame and fortune things looked pretty gloomy. Six whole weeks he sat in his modest little office without a call from a single patient, and his first fee seemed a long way off.

At last, one night, there came a ring at the office bell. The servant flew to the door. The doctor could not make up his mind whether he would rather be called to a good chronic patient or to some sensational accident to a well known citizen. He opened the door of the consulting room as calmly as he could and saw a young man there.

"Excuse me, doctor," the young man said. "I wished to know if I could arrange to collect your bad debts on commission."

Her Aim.

Two men who had apparently been doing the town and not missing any of the places where liquids were dispensed were unsteadily ambling homeward at an early hour after being out nearly all night.

"Don't your wife miss you on these occasions?" asked one.

"Not often," replied the other. "She throws pretty straight."

One Way of Doing Business.

Billy Emerson, the minstrel, took a company of black face artists to Australia in the old days and had hard luck. On the way back he landed at Shanghai and gave a show.

Emerson saw there was a good house. "Doing pretty well," he said to the box office man.

"Fine!" that official replied. "We've got in $400 in money and $1,400 in chits."

"In what!" gasped Emerson.

"In chits."

"What are chits?"

"Why, promises to pay. Everybody uses chits here. Give a chit and settle at the end of the month."

"Do you mean to tell me that you have let $1,400 worth of seats go for them chits, as you call them?"

"Sure! Why not?"

"And those people just signed their names and didn't pay cash?"

"Certainly."

"Heavens! What a business I could do that way in the States!" groaned Emerson.—Saturday Evening Post.

No Prayer Needed.

The story is told of the Rev. James Patterson of Philadelphia that he once declared in a circle of his brethren he thought ministers ought to be humble and poor, like their Master. "I have often prayed," said he, "that I might be kept humble. I never prayed that I might be poor. I could trust my church for that!"

An Anecdote of Macready.

One of the most amusing anecdotes of Macready's petulance of temper relates to a revival of "Henry VIII." under the management of Maddox at the Princess' theater, in London. The part of Cardinal Campeius was assigned to a brother of Mr. George Augustus Sala, whose stage name was Wynn, for whom Macready had an inveterate dislike. The tragedian had implored the manager to see that Campeius was furnished with a costume which should not seem entirely ridiculous beside the splendid robes he himself wore as Wolsey, but Maddox, of course, disregarded the injunction.

At the dress rehearsal Macready, enthroned in a chair of state, had the various characters to pass before him. He bore all calmly until, clad in scarlet robes bordered by silver tissue paper and wearing an enormous red hat, Wynn approached. Then, clutching both arms of his chair and closing his eyes, the great tragedian gasped out, "Mother Shipton, by heaven!"

We Have Several Second Hand
TRAVERS RUNNER PUNGS
You Can Use at Once
New Pungs Built at Short Notice
S. SCAMMELL & SONS
116 Quincy Avenue
Quincy, Dec. 28 tf

Only a Few Days Left
TO BUY YOUR
New Year's Presents
We Have Something for Father, Mother, Sister and Brother.
We have a Complete assortment of Carving Knives and Forks, Skates, Sleds, Jack Knives, Safety Razors, Razor Strops, Punching Bags, Foot Balls, Family Scales, Daisy Air Rifles, Flash Lights and Batteries, Electrical Toys for Children.
NATHAN AMES,
5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.
Dec. 21 tf

A NEW YEAR'S BOX OF
Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
Men's Hose

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.

The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.

PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00
Can you beat it for the Price?
GEORGE W. JONES
No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

WHY GAS IS THE BEST LIGHT FOR YOU

QUALITY—The soft, mellow steady light of the modern mantle burner is absolutely the best artificial light to work or read by.

DOES NOT TIRE THE EYES.

CONVENIENCE—By using the Chain Pull attachment on the burners, the use of matches is abolished.

QUANTITY—The Reflex Inverted Light with Holophane Reflector gives a light equal to 200 candles directly under the light.

We will put in a light on trial; if you don't like it we will take it out without expense to you.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. Quincy 181
Dec. 24 tf

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS

The Quincy Fleet Built at Fore River

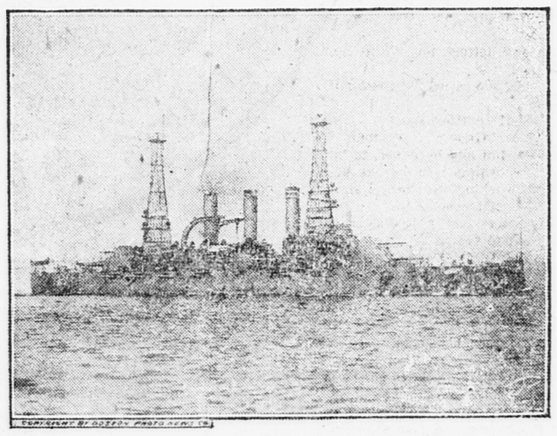
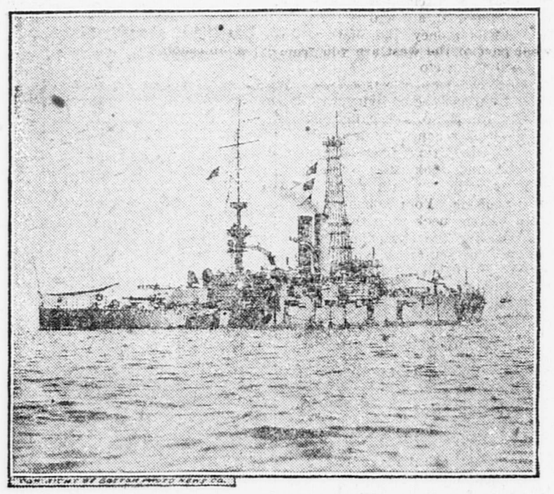
Dates of the Launchings of the Different Ships

Business has been good at the Fore River Ship Yard in this city the past year, although some have thought differently. There is no better index than the list of launchings. In 1905 there were but two, in 1906 the total was 7, in 1907 it increased to 11, in 1908 there were 15, and thus far to date, 1909, there have been 13, including the largest ship of all, the battleship North Dakota



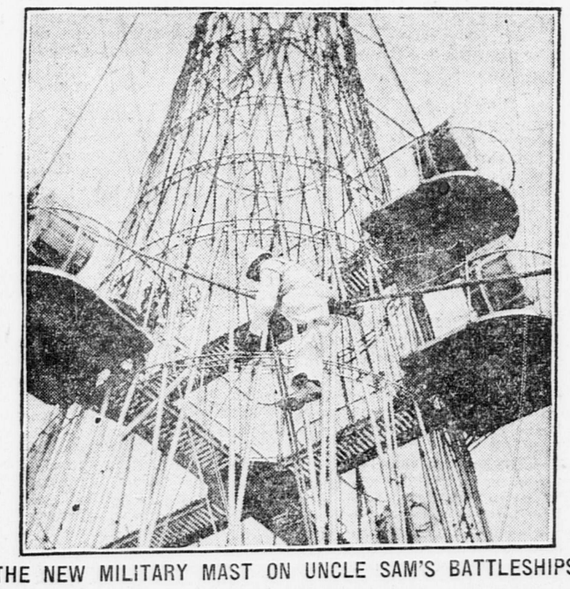
The Quincy fleet now numbers 58, including four battleships, the Rhode Island, the New Jersey, the Vermont and the North Dakota. Also the U. S. cruiser Des Moines, the U. S. cruiser Salem, the U. S. cruiser Birmingham, two torpedo boat destroyers, artillery steamers, lightships, and several submarine boats for the government, and several steamers, car floats, lighters, etc., for the merchant service. All these are steel ships. The list to date follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Sept. | 10, 1900. | Lightship No. 72. |
| Nov. | 7, 1900. | Torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence. |
| Dec. | 24, 1900. | Torpedo boat destroyer Macdonough. |
| July | 10, 1902 | Seven-master Thomas W. Lawson. |
| Sept. | 20, 1902. | United States cruiser Des Moines. |
| Aug. | 29, 1903. | Six-master William L. Douglas. |
| March | 2, 1904. | Freight steamer Boston for Fall River line. |
| May | 17, 1904. | Battleship Rhode Island. |
| July | 16, 1904. | Steamer Providence for Fall River line. |
| Nov. | 10, 1904. | Battleship New Jersey. |
| Aug. | 31, 1905. | Battleship Vermont. |
| Nov. | 9, 1905 | Steam Trawler Spray. |
| March | 10, 1906. | Steamer South Shore. |
| Aug | 21, 1906. | Steamer Satilla for Brunswick line. |
| Sept. | 1, 1906. | Submarine Cuttlefish. |
| Sept. | 19, 1906. | Steamer Creole for Morgan line. |
| Oct. | 4, 1906. | Submarine Octopus. |
| Nov. | 15, 1906. | Steamer Ogeechee for Brunswick line. |
| Dec. | 27, 1906. | Steamer Ossabaw for Brunswick line. |
| Jan. | 29, 1907. | Steamer Ocmulgee for Brunswick line. |
| March | 30, 1907. | Submarine Viper. |
| March | 30, 1907. | Submarine Tarantula. |
| May | 29, 1907. | Scout cruiser Birmingham. |
| July | 11, 1907. | Collier Everett for N. E. Gas & Coke Co. |
| July | 27, 1907. | Scout Cruiser Salem. |
| Sept. | 10, 1907. | Collier Malden for N. E Gas & Coke Co. |
| Sept. | 10, 1907. | Steam Lighter for N. E. Navigation Co. |
| Nov. | 6, 1907. | Collier Melrose. |
| Nov. | 26, 1907. | Steamer Altamaha for Brunswick line. |
| Dec. | 11, 1907. | Steam transfer tug 21 N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. |
| Mar. | 23, 1908. | Lightship No 90. |
| Apr. | 16, 1908. | Lightship No. 9 1. |
| Apr., | 30, 1908 | Lightship No. 92. |
| Mar. | 14, 1908. | Lightship No. 93 |
| Oct. | 28, 1908. | U. S. Artillery steamer Gen. Robert Anderson. |
| Oct. | 28 1908. | U. S. Artillery steamer Gen. Richard Arnold. |
| Nov. | 10, 1908. | Battleship North Dakota. |
| Nov. | 20, 1908. | Car float 54 N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. |
| Nov. | 20, 1908. | U. S. Artillery steamer Gen. R. B. Ayers. |
| Nov. | 20, 1908. | U. S. Artillery steamer Gen. J. M. Branson. |
| Dec. | 4, 1908. | Car float 55 N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. |
| Dec. | 18, 1908. | Car float 56 N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. |
| Dec. | 24, 1908 | U. S. Artillery Steamer Gen G. W. Getty. |
| Dec. | 24, 1908. | U. S. Artillery Steamer Gen. Harvey Brown. |
| Dec. | 30, 1908. | Car float 57, N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. |
| Jan. | 16, 1909 | Car float 58 N. Y. N H. & H. R. R. |
| Jan. | 21, 1909 | U. S. Artillery Steamer Gen. R. H Jackson. |
| Jan. | 29, 1909. | U. S. Artillery Steamer, Gen. A. M. Randal. |
| Feb. | 1 1909. | Car float 59, N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. |
| Feb. | 17, 1909. | Transfer tug 22, N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. |
| Feb. | 17, 1909. | Car float 60, N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. |
| April | 8, 1909. | Submarine Stingay. |
| April | 8, 1909. | Submarine Tarpon. |
| April | 8, 1909. | Submarine Narwhal. |
| June | 16, 1909. | Submarine Bonita. |
| June | 16, 1909. | Submarine Snapper. |
| June | 16, 1909. | Submarine Grayling. |
| Dec. | 11, 1909. | Steamer Herman Frasch. |



NORTH DAKOTA, UNCLE SAM'S SPEEDIEST DREADNOUGHT.

Although the North Dakota was launched only Nov. 10, 1908, she is now ready for business. She is modeled closely upon the British Dreadnought, although she is an improvement over that famous fighter. She has armor around her smokestacks and uptakes, which the Dreadnought has not. She is also provided with the new "spider" masts, from which the gun fire of the ship will be directed. A peculiarity of the North Dakota is that all ten of her big twelve inch guns can be trained on the enemy at the same time. Her speed is 22.25 knots. Her normal displacement is 20,000 tons.



THE BATTLESHIP NEW JERSEY, NOTABLE SPEED MAKER.

The New Jersey was launched by the Fore River company at Quincy, Mass., Oct. 11, 1904. At her trial performances, held off the New England coast in March, 1906, she developed a speed of 19.48 knots an hour, and on one occasion the New Jersey made 19.278 knots an hour. At the time she went into commission the New Jersey was provided with a more complete electric equipment than any other vessel in the American navy. All of her turrets have electrical turning gear, and practically all of the auxiliaries are electrically driven. This was an innovation.

THE WISCONSIN, BUILT ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

The battleship Wisconsin is a product of the Union Iron works, San Francisco, and she was launched as long ago as 1898. At that time the maximum speed required was 16 knots, and the Wisconsin at her trial distinguished herself by making 17.25 knots. A spirited controversy was held over the liquid to be used at the christening of the vessel. It was declared that the use of champagne was unpatriotic, and the matter was settled finally by using two bottles of wine, one of foreign vintage, the other made from California grapes. The Wisconsin has a displacement of 11,565 tons. The total weight of her armor is 3,433 tons. She is fitted with boilers of the Thornycroft pattern.

THE NEW MILITARY MAST ON UNCLE SAM'S BATTLESHIPS.

The skeleton mast of steel rods is the newest feature of American warships, and the vessels of the Atlantic fleet and those nearing completion are now provided with them. Admiral Evans recommended their use some time ago, and, after experimenting with them they were adopted by the navy department. The solid steel military mast formerly in use could be shot away with great ease, but the new masts cannot be overthrown by a single shot.

Let Every Woman Take Care of Her Health

and Her Reward Will Be Great

It is your right—and every woman's—to look well and to feel well.

It is your duty—and every woman's—to get rid of the headaches and backaches, which may afflict you through no fault of your own; to get rid, also, of disfiguring, sallow skin, pimples, muddy complexion, dark circles under the eyes, grumpiness, extreme lassitude and nervousness. For your own sake,—for the sake of those about you—get rid of these things if you have them—seek the help you need.

Beecham's Pills are well suited to the needs of women. They are vegetable, always effective, and beneficial. They remove the cause of bad looks and most bad feelings. They give bright eyes, brilliant complexions, cheerfulness and good humor. They do this because by their tonic and stimulating effects they just naturally make health and strength. They enable women to endure unavoidable physical conditions with little or no suffering.

To care for your health and to gain strength for your work and for your pleasures you should occasionally take

Beecham's Pills

Ask for them, with full directions, at any druggist's. In boxes, 10c., 25c

Every woman who values good health should read special instructions with every box of pills.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.

The annual Christmas tree gathering and distribution of presents of the Hall Place M. E. Sunday school was held in the vestry of the church, Friday evening, the program including recitations by Gertrude Trotman, Addie Newcomb, Bertha Harvey, Emily Polle, Ralph Newcomb and others, also songs. Different telegrams were received during the evening from Santa Claus, and late in the evening the sound of sleigh bells in the distance heralded the approach of Santa Claus who was warmly received as he emerged from the chimney. As Christmas Eve is always a very busy time with Santa, he could not stay to distribute all the presents but after presenting each scholar with a book, he spoke to the children on the meaning of Christmas and then went away merrily singing until he was out of hearing. The teachers all helped distribute the presents and candy and oranges. Each member of the school received a present, a box of candy and an orange. After the exercises were over a happy time was spent by all.

WATCH MEETING.

A watch meeting service will be held in the Swedish Baptist church at Brewers Corner on Friday night. From 7.30 to 8.30 the Young Peoples Society will hold their annual meeting. From 8.30 to 10 there will be an entertainment to include musical numbers and recitations. From 10 to 11 there will be a social hour, during which refreshments will be served by the Young Peoples Society. From 11 until 12.01 there will be a devotional service to watch out the year 1909 and welcome the year 1910.

AUTOPSY HELD.

Medical Examiner Jones held an autopsy Monday afternoon upon the body of George H. Tuttle who was found dead on Sunday at his home in the tenement over Doble's store at West Quincy. There was nothing about the body when found to indicate the cause of death but from letters on a table nearby it was thought to be a case of suicide. Dr. Jones removed the stomach and sent it to Prof. Wood of Harvard for examination. Mr. Tuttle was the inventor of several devices which are said to have brought him quite a revenue. For the past two years he has been at work on a device for elevators so that they could be run through flames and smoke in a burning building.

—The telephone, that great adjunct to the business world of today is receiving some blame for the expensive living inasmuch as its presence in a house tends, it is said, to more extravagant buying, in quantity as well as quality. The days when the mistress of the house went to market and inspected, and drove sharp bargains have generally gone by, but it must be admitted that those were days of more careful purchasing.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Quincy Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Quincy citizen says:

James P. Daugherty, Hammond Place, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let other sufferers know what they have done for me. I was bothered a great deal by back ache and had but little strength or energy to do my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures, but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at the Cox Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified at the prompt way in which they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better generally. I would go to considerable trouble to induce anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills, as I have so much confidence in them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

YOUR MILK SUPPLY

is uncertain during the winter. The milkmen are delayed by storm and you are not sure of receiving fresh milk. We list below several articles that will provide for such emergencies, and do away with the milk problem for all time.

Van Camp's Evaporated Milk 9c. can, 3 for 25c
Borden's Peerless Milk 6 cans for 25c
Tip Top and Rose Brands Condensed Milk can 11c
Blue Cross Condensed Milk can 10c
Eagle Condensed Milk can 15c

Use any of these with our Quality Coffee, 30c. lb.

PROMPT ATTENTION TO Telephone Orders No. 307-3

CEFOY & CO.
COR WATER AND QUINCY STS.
QUINCY ADAMS

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

Red Cross Stamps
On New Years Letters
Carry Good Cheer

LOST
SAVINGS BANK BOOKS

Savings Bank Books as listed below have been lost and application has been made for payment of the accounts in accordance with Section 40, Chapter 590 of the Acts of 1908. Payment has been stopped.

| | |
|---|---|
| Book No. 9285 | Book No 11761 |
| Book No. 22110 | Book No. 22319 |
| Book No. 22767 | Book No. 24181 |
| Book No. 2 917 | Book No. 26542 |
| Book No. 2 889 | Book No. 30278 |
| Book No. 31407 | Book No. 32169 |
| Book No. 23346 | |

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer
4t Dec. 21-28-Jan. 4-11

PAIN AND PLEASURE

are like water and oil they won't. It's sure enough pain, if you have trouble.

IT GIVES US PLEASURE TO YOUR PAIN

if the pain is caused by defective

Our help is permanent and you face your own pain by delay. We put up satisfactory and

LASTING TOOTH CURE AT THESE DENTAL PARLORS.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.
DENTIST
37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.
Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to [illegible] m.
Dec. 27

G. W. WHEEL

WHEELER

CITY SQUARE

DRY GOODS .25, 5.55, 6.20, [illegible] mins. to 10.20
SMALL W[illegible]ndays, 7.25 a [illegible]days. Returns,
UNDER[illegible], 5.45, 6.10, [illegible] mins. to 10.50
HOS[illegible]days, 7.50 a [illegible]ays.
H[illegible]
[illegible] and every 30 [illegible], then 11.14, 11.44 p m, then same as [illegible]urn, leave Wollaston, every 30 mins. to 11.[illegible]0, 12.20 p m. Sundays, [illegible] same as week days.
[illegible]cy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and [illegible]ins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, [illegible]hen same as week days. Re[illegible]ve West Quincy, 6.00 6.30, 6.50 [illegible] every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. 7.30 a m, then same as week

[illegible]NWAY,
[illegible]tendent.
THOMA[illegible] GAM[illegible]
Division [illegible]

The Prudential

Limited-Payment Life Policy

Premiums payable ten, fifteen or twenty years, as you select. Policy payable at death. This policy enables you to get your life insurance all paid for during your best earning years. Cost is low, policy liberal, and fully guaranteed. Send your age and ask for specimen.

A Policy and a Premium for Every Insurable Person

Ordinary and Industrial policies.
Ages 1 to 70.
Both sexes.
Amounts $15 to $100,000.

THE PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE CO. OF AMERICA
Incorporated as a Stock Company by the State of New Jersey

JOHN F. DRYDEN, President — HOME OFFICE, NEWARK, N. J.

Prudential Agents are now canvassing in this vicinity. They have a most vital story to tell of how Life Insurance has saved the home, protected the widow, and educated the children. Let them tell it to you.

BRANCH OFFICES IN QUINCY—D. J. Guilfoyle, Agency Organizer—F. J. Mullen, Ass't. Supt., Durgin-Merrill Block.
Agents: C. J. BARRY, T. NEWTON, W. A. C. YULE, J. L. RICH, J. B. OLDEN, E. J. O'TOOLE. A. B. SAMPSON, Special Agent Ordinary Dep't, 2 Wharf St.

Be Sure and save enough money from your Christmas shopping to have your clothes pressed and repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

Dec. 14—1m.

Until New Years
USE THE
RedCross Stamps

'UCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY

'rniture and Piano Moving

Office 1598 Hancock Street,
G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2

, June 10 tf

Q

IP

STORAGE
—FOR—
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

WELL

ver 15 p

precede we anything to sell
"A visit to it to
George Meck
versity. EATING

Funeral servic Street
Doble were held tf
the Parkway, S
2.30, Rev. Carl H
the Hall Place
ing. Music
quartette from pieces were many terment was at Mt. W
tery.

TS

Dec.

Established 1870 Tele

JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECT
Carriage and Ambulance
1485 Hancock Street, Qu

HOW THE PRINCE CAME

Jim Wade Feared He Would Lose His Daughter, and He Did.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

Jim Wade shaded his eyes with one broad hand and looked over his rich fields ripe for the harvest. As far as the eye could see from his point of vantage on the ranch house steps the land was his own.

Because Molly Wade was his only child, Jim, watching her grow up from a motherless girlhood, was full of fears and apprehensions for her future. The best in the world was none too good for Molly, and so away to school Molly went, and when she came back, unchanged, unspoiled, he was thankful.

She came back as simple hearted and home loving as when she had taken her tearful farewell of him. The so called broader life for women had no attraction for Molly Wade. She was first and last a home lover—a homemaker.

Jim sighed even then as he watched her directing the affairs of the house they occupied. Almost any day now some handsome young man might come along and rob his nest of its one birdling. And each morning he looked searchingly into her clear blue eyes seeking some change that might tell him of the threatened invasion of her heart, for suitors there were in plenty at the Wade ranch.

This morning Molly dashed around from the corral on her little black mare Daisy.

"Where now, honey?" asked Jim.

"A ride in the corn, father. Can't you come, dear?" Molly's hair was like ripened corn silk, and her eyes were as blue as the sky overhead. The black of her hat made a frame for her delicate skin, tinted with bloom and warmed by the sun. Slender and lithe, she swayed in the saddle with a grace that was only equaled by her dancing.

"Sorry, honey, but it's pay day, you know. The old man's got to stay home and work this morning. Don't go too far. And got your gun handy?"

Molly patted the belt at her trim waist, where a small revolver gleamed in the holster. "Right here, dad. I'll be home in time for dinner. So long!"

"Don't let any fairy princes run away with you, daughter," admonished Jim. "You know I worry a lot about that prince that's coming after my little gal some day." There was more gravity than fun in Jim's voice, and Molly felt that this old, old jest between them was becoming a serious matter to her father.

She urged Daisy to the foot of the steps and flicked her father lightly on the shoulder with her whip. "Dad, dear, I really believe you are worried. I've never even seen the man—or prince—I'd leave you for. There, are you satisfied?" He leaned down and kissed her lovely, laughing face, and a warm smile lighted his grim features.

"God bless you, darling. I want you to be happy, but I hope it will be many a day before the prince does come. I'm a selfish old brute, eh?"

"Not a bit, dad. And when he does come we'll set him to work in the fields and live right along with you."

With a laughing, backward glance Molly rode away toward the fields of tall corn that had not yet fallen prey to the snapping reapers.

A thousand acres of corn whispering in the wind! It was like a thick forest, thought Molly, as Daisy threaded her way daintily through the tall stalks.

Overhead the yellowed leaves rustled crisply. On either side they reached long, fluttering fingers to brush Molly's rose leaf face or to touch a lock of her soft hair. Her eyes grew dreamy as she listened to the whispering, and a look came into her face—a look that her father had never seen.

Molly had had her day dreams—indeed, she had dreamed of a lover who came out of a fascinating world of which she had caught a mere glimpse in her school days. The prince who would come and claim her one day would come spinning down the state road in a motorcar. Handsome he would be and merry and rollicking as so many of those gay automobilists appeared to be.

But when it came to the wrench of parting with her dear father Molly's dream always changed to one where the dashing motorist became enamored of farm life and elected to settle down at Wade's ranch for a lifetime, with a huge red car stabled among the horses.

All at once Molly drew rein and listened to a sound other than the sighing of the corn. There was the thud, thud, of hoofs in another aisle near by. Perhaps it was her father, or, at any rate, it would be one of the men from the ranch.

"Hello!" called Molly musically.

"Hello!" came back in a man's deep voice.

As the man lifted his battered felt hat Molly realized that he was a stranger, and her cheeks grew warm under the gaze of his dark eyes. He was very good to look upon, young and straight and strong, with sun browned face and chestnut hair. His blue flannel shirt was open at the throat, and the skin below the collar was smooth and white. From the saddle bow swung a bundle rolled in a blanket.

"I am afraid I've lost my way," said the stranger pleasantly. "I've been wandering in this cornfield for the last three hours. Perhaps you can direct me to Wade's place, or is it possible you are lost too?"

Molly smiled and shook her head. "I can show you the way easily. I am Mr. Wade's daughter," she explained over her shoulder as the little mare walked on.

The stranger turned his horse into the aisle behind Molly and followed close in her wake.

"My name is Norton—Scott Norton," he said after a little pause. "I'm looking for work in the fields. I was told Mr. Wade needed help."

"He does," assented Molly eagerly. "They want to make crop before the 20th, and father was wishing this morning for half a dozen extra men."

"I am very glad," said Norton.

Something in the tone of his voice thrilled Molly's tender heart. She knew as plainly as if he had told her in so many words that he had been in hard luck and that he had traveled a long distance in search of this job. The miserable beast he rode was a scarecrow, probably purchased with his last penny.

They came to the edge of the cornfield and emerged into a well beaten road bordered on either side by corn.

"I missed this road somehow," said Norton, riding abreast of Molly. "It must be well on to noon, isn't it?"

His lack of a watch deterred Molly from looking at her own little timepiece. She glanced up at the sun with a delightful knitting of her pretty brows.

"Dear me, it is late! We must hurry!" she said.

Behind them came the shriek of a siren and the distant hum of a speeding motorcar. Molly had barely time to urge her mare to the edge of the corn when her eyes caught a horrified glimpse of the stranger's bulky horse rigid in the path of the speeding vehicle.

There was a warning shout, a queer crashing thud and a cloud of dust. Then Molly found herself kneeling beside the prostrate stranger, while an excited automobilist borrowed her revolver to still the agony of the injured horse.

The party of men carried the unconscious form of their victim to the uninjured car, and it was Molly Wade, white lipped and trembling, who took a place in the tonneau and supported the quiet head against her shoulder. To her it seemed as if she was his only friend in an inhospitable land. One of the men awkwardly rode the mare in the rear of the car, and slowly they trailed through the dust toward the wide gate of the ranch.

Jim Wade, sitting on the wide porch, reading a newspaper, saw them coming, a strange procession. The sight of a stranger riding Daisy was like a knife thrust in his heart, and when the machine stopped at the steps he could barely make his way to the ground and assure himself that Molly was safe and sound.

His daughter's voice cut into the noisy explanations of the men.

"This man was on his way to the ranch looking for work, father, when he was struck. He must need medical attention. I think he is recovering consciousness. If you will take him into the house I will telephone to Dr. Acklin."

It was the work of an instant for the five men to improvise a litter and carry the stranger into the house and deposit him on Jim Wade's own bed. Jim Wade himself applied restoratives and announced that the man had suffered no injury beyond a broken arm and severe shock. He detained the automobilists, however, until the arrival of the doctor.

Molly did not appear at dinner where the four strangers joined her father. She had sent Hannah, the servant, to the sick chamber to await the arrival of the doctor while she took the domestic's place in the kitchen.

Dr. Acklin confirmed Jim Wade's estimation of the injuries to Scott Norton—a badly fractured arm and a severe shaking up. Six weeks' confinement and rest for the first and quiet and repose for the last. The motor party made up a purse for the victim, which Jim Wade promptly returned to them.

"He's our friend," he said, with dignity. "Any one that comes to my door in trouble and needs me is my friend. I look out for my friends. Take a lesson, gentlemen—go slow; go slow!"

They departed, sobered by the experience, while Hannah was installed as head nurse in the sick chamber and Molly assumed the woman's duties in the kitchen. Late that evening she related the incident to her father, and as he noted the new light in her eyes his heart grew troubled.

"I—the fellow can't be a prince in disguise, Molly. I won't have it so!" he blurted out.

"Why, dad!" blushed Molly. "We don't know Mr. Norton, and, anyway, princes come in coaches and in splendid motorcars, with gorgeous clothes. They don't lose themselves in cornfields and ride—oh, such a horrible horse, father. I'm glad the poor beast is dead."

And with the change of subject Jim had to be satisfied.

* * * * * * *

Nevertheless another summer found Molly preparing for her wedding. Scott Norton had recovered, been tried and found to be the right man wanted by Jim Wade to assist in the management of the ranch. He had no people and no home, and he came to round out the family circle at the ranch.

"So you are Molly's prince," said Jim Wade, with tears in his eyes; "an American prince, I take it, because you just came along when you were needed. I need you, and—Molly needs you to make her happy."

"I need you both," said Norton, with emotion. "I am a sorry prince, sweetheart," he said, kissing Molly's bright face, so near his own.

"A prince in disguise," whispered Molly.

Every Woman Will Be Interested

If you will send your name and address we will mail you FREE a package of Mother Gray's AUSTRALIAN-LEAF, a certain, pleasant herb cure for Women's ills. It is a reliable regulator and never-failing. If you have pains in the back, Urinary, Bladder or Kidney trouble, use this pleasant union of aromatic herbs, roots and leaves. All Druggists sell it, 50 cents, or address, The Mother Gray Co., LeRoy, N. Y.

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 1o-tf

Sprague's New River STEAM COAL

Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined

Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.

J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS

TEL. 232-3 — 27 GRANITE STREET

Quincy, June tf

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER V.

A YEAR passed since the eventful night for Wheeler Brand when Nolan made him managing editor of the Advance. In these months Brand made a showing with the paper that was never dreamed of by the owners preceding as being within the range of possibility. Made absolute master of the paper and consequently dictator of its policy, the young man set a pace that the paper's rivals found difficult to equal, much less to outstrip. His exposure of the scandals in the exclusive world of high life insurance finance has thus far proved the most vital reform of his administration. As a result of this crusade, which drove a half dozen leading officials from almost as many companies, the president of the United States stated publicly that "the vast life insurance business of this country is now on the soundest financial basis it has ever had."

But Wheeler Brand in the press of stirring events had not forgotten Judge Bartelmy. In fact, certain activities of that estimable individual were just now under close scrutiny by the one time reporter, who, if he could be prevailed on to speak concerning it, might possibly observe that the judge was very soon to have an opportunity to make a few explanations which would be received with undoubted interest by the public. The young editor's suit for the hand of Judith Bartelmy might be said, since we are dealing with a judge's family, to be in statu quo. She was still waiting for him "to become sane," as she had expressed herself to him. A girl of lofty principles and of decided strength of character, she could not see his duty from his viewpoint. Perhaps it was all quite natural, quite womanly, quite daughterly, that she should subscribe absolutely to her father's side in the momentous case of "JUDGE BARTELMY VERSUS THE PEOPLE, WHEELER BRAND AND THE ADVANCE."

She was loyal to her father, and she was trying to be loyal to her lover, and the task was becoming more and more difficult. Yet she waited, and Wheeler Brand waited, and each prayed that the other would end the ordeal and heal two breaking hearts.

Today we find Wheeler Brand proceeding toward the luxurious Nolan home on a fashionable residential thoroughfare to visit the proprietor of the paper to hand him a statement of the Advance's progress, to discuss matters of editorial policy and to confer regarding a certain development concerning Judge Bartelmy.

At the Nolan home a reception had been announced, hundreds of invitations sent out, but the responses did not encourage Mrs. Nolan in her social aspirations. Society passed her by. That was the whole story in brief. Society, as usual, was ever so much pleased with itself and was too busy to include Mrs. Nolan, Phyllis and Sylvester in its diversions. The husband and father cared very little for society, had no time for it, but he fondly loved the courageous, warm hearted woman who had uncomplainingly shared with him the onerous hardships of his early days, and it was his desire to gratify her ambitions as well as those of his daughter. The fortune he had plucked from Nevada's flinty bosom enabled him to be generous, and he smiled approvingly on every new extravagance of Mrs. Michael Nolan. Therefore if she was socially ambitious she must have her way and be allowed to carry on her campaign for recognition in whatever fashion she chose. Certainly the home he had established was a fitting vantage ground from which to wage a war of dollars against the precipitous embattlements with which the city's Four Hundred had encircled its camp. Palatial in size, the Nolan residence was equally palatial in its furnishings, and only the magic word from the magic lips of a single member of the magic realm of "the aristocracy" was necessary to send monogrammed coaches in long lines to the Nolan doors, to fill the costly rooms with distinguished faces, to fill to overflowing with happiness the yearning heart of Mrs. Michael Nolan.

But the word had not yet been spoken.

It was now late in the afternoon at the Nolan home. Phyllis walked across the drawing room, irritation plainly marking her pretty pink and white face. The music of a string orchestra stationed in the conservatory ceased. She addressed a servant who stood at attention at a door at the right which led to the dining room.

"Pitcher," she said discouragedly, "I don't think any one else will come, so tell the musicians they can go."

"Yes, Miss Phyllis."

At this point Mrs. Nolan came storming in, carrying a huge bunch of hothouse grapes in her hand.

"Pitcher, I noticed those caterer men are drinking all the champagne, and I want it stopped," she ordered loudly.

Pitcher bowed and went out.

"If our guests won't come here to drink it, at least we will drink it ourselves," Mrs. Nolan announced to Phyllis. "Well, we have done it—sent out 400 cards, and who's been here that anybody wants to see? This is the second time we've gone to all this trouble and expense for nothing and nobody, and if you'll take my advice it will be the last."

"Mamma, Pitcher will hear," the girl protested.

The mother bit a grape from the bunch. She deposited the skin and stones in a Sevres vase on the marble mantel.

"Phyllis, what did you have to pay that musician?" she asked.

"Well, his price is a thousand dollars."

"Good gracious!"

"But I got him for $750. I promised the Advance would help him."

"Seven fifty for playing twice. I'd rather hear the band." Mrs. Nolan bit off another grape.

"You don't understand, mamma. Everybody's wild over that violinist."

"It seems there wasn't nobody wild enough to come here."

"There wasn't 'anybody,'" spoke Phyllis, correcting her mother.

"Well, was there?" retorted the mother as she dropped the grape skin in another vase.

"Oh, dear." Phyllis wailed disconsolately as she seated herself before a small stand. "don't rub it in, mamma! I can't help it."

"Now, who's blaming you, child?" consoled the mother. "There, don't cry. I'm not so disappointed about myself, but I can't bear to see you snubbed right and left. You are good enough to go with any of these people, and you shall too. It's that newspaper that's at the bottom of it. People won't have it, or us because of it, and I mean to tell your father so too. And that's why these 'at homes' is no good."

"Are no good, mamma," tearfully.

"Well, are they? It would have been better to put your $750 into suffragetting. That's what gets you in with the right people—not that I care to vote, but I don't want the men to say I can't."

Sylvester Dolan interrupted the conversation between mother and daughter by appearing before them with his bosom friend, Max Powell, who believed himself to have the makings of a master poet. It was with deepest pride that the Nolan son presented Powell, long haired, sallow faced and seedily dressed, to his mother and sister. Sallow faced? Indeed, his countenance had that sickly greenish yellow hue that comes from long devouring of the muses and long abstinence from the devouring of food.

"Nobody was wild enough to come here."

"Hello, mamma!" he cried enthusiastically. "Here's a friend of mine I want you to know—Mr. Powell, the poet."

"How do you do, Mr. Powell? You look as if it would be easy for you to write poetry. Do you know, poetry just sets me wild!"

Sylvester patted Powell on the back.

"Well, this lad's going to make a big noise in poetry some day. Phyllis, you must have heard of Powell. My sister, old man!"

"Won't you have a cup of tea, Mr. Powell?" invited Mrs. Nolan, visibly impressed by the presence of a poet at her home.

Powell started confusedly to utter his thanks. He did not seem overdelighted at the offer.

Sylvester saw the difficulty. "Tea!" he exclaimed. "Absinth for Powell!"

Mrs. Nolan expressed her regret at not having any absinth and left the room, followed by Phyllis, to arrange for something for Powell to eat. "Poor fellow! He looks hungry," she whispered to Phyllis.

Sylvester caught the poet by the arm.

"One minute, Powow," he cautioned. "Be sure you don't mention anything to the folks about my little actress friend. I don't want them to know that I am going to take a crack at uplifting the stage. The little girl will be all right. She'll just make your libretto hum. She'll fill it with personality. Build up all those weak places. You know, Powow, there are some. Where's that poem for her? Finished yet?"

"Yes, I have here somewhere," fumbling in a pocket.

"Have you made it amorous for the little girl?"

"Judge for yourself. Of course I tried to write in your vein as well as I could, so that there would be no doubt to the authorship."

Sylvester read the lines:

Oh, Gueneviere, how sweet my dear!
My spirit soars in dreams denied,
Worlds beyond worlds with thee, my bride—

"I don't like that much," he announced when he had finished. "Bride! Is it necessary to put that in writing? Besides, it don't sound as if I wrote it. Now, does it, Powow, old chap? Fess up."

"I hope it doesn't sound as if I wrote it."

"I thought you'd see it. Now, change that and it's a knockout drop. Can't you change it now? And I'll send it to the little girl tonight on a bed of orchids. Make it something beginning with 'ruby lips'—you know the sort of guff—and then here and there 'eyes like night, full of delight,' something on that order."

"Ruby, ruby—rougey lips!"

Powell sat and wrote for a few minutes. "Here," he finally said. Sylvester glanced over the shoulder of the rising young genius, who read aloud these inspiring words:

So bright and beaming are thine eyes
The very stars twink in surprise.
Thy hair so like the dusky night,
Thy kiss so vibrant with delight,
I thrill unto my finger tips.
Oh, ruby, ruby—rougey lips!

Powell literally writhed in agony as he listened to the doggerel.

"It's great!" cried Sylvester ecstatically. "And now come get your tea. Gee, I'd like to take a crack at being a poet!"

The two conspirators hurried into the dining room as Wheeler Brand and the owner of the Advance came into the drawing room.

"You're right, Wheeler; you're right," Nolan was saying. "This is a better showing than I hoped for. Look in your stocking next Christmas. There'll be something for you. When I got into the newspaper business, Brand, they told me it was the beginning of my finish, that it sucked ten fortunes down for every one it built and no middle aged man ever went into it and came out again without teeth marks all over him. But look at that." He held up a typewritten statement. "I'm richer for going in—twice as much advertising as last year at this time."

Nolan seated himself on a settee.

"The big advertisers never pull their ads. so long as they are getting returns from them," put in Brand. "Look at Dupuy. Remember how he threatened us and how his clients took their ads. out for two months?"

"Yes, but they put them back again."

"Why? Because they need us more than we need them," Brand laughed.

"Well, he's got something else up his sleeve now," remarked Nolan. "He telephoned that he would come to see me this afternoon."

"Are you going to see him?" Brand asked curiously.

"I thought I might as well. He'll be here. Maybe he wants to fire you again." The newspaper owner looked up at Brand and laughed heartily.

Mrs. Nolan and Phyllis re-entered the drawing room, and Brand became the especial object of their attentions.

The mother desired to have him print the list of her invited guests who had never attended the reception. Phyllis requested him to print a story about the violinist and was vastly annoyed when Brand informed her that the subject was a matter for the musical editor to attend to.

"And there's something else, Mr. Brand." A look of despair came into Brand's face. "Phyllis went to Miss Bartelmy's musicale the other day and you didn't even include her name among those present," the mother said.

"Why, I'm sorry. That was an oversight, I assure you. I suppose they made up the usual list in the office."

"I hope it won't happen again," remarked Phyllis indignantly.

"Yes, and the way it's handling this Loris divorce case is all wrong," snapped Mrs. Nolan. "I know Mrs. Loris. She is no better than she should be and people who live in icehouses shouldn't throw hot water."

"We have no policy in the Loris case," remarked Brand in defense. "We merely print the facts."

"Facts!" Mrs. Nolan cried. "That paper upsets me for the whole day every morning."

"There now, mother; I guess the paper's all right," ventured Nolan soothingly.

"You've got another guess, Michael. Nobody reads it but shopgirls, who spend a penny for the Advance and another for a stick of gum and hang [illegible] strap with one hand and the [illegible] other while they're [illegible] the way down [illegible] it."

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

MASTER N CAMBRIDGE

Headmaster of Both University City

High School a Little Over ling C. F. Harper.

Pennsylvania. That he filled the position in Quincy acceptably to Supt. Parlin, recently at the head of the Quincy schools, is shown by the fact that Mr. Parlin has selected him for the more responsible position in Cambridge. Quincy regrets his going, as frequent changes are not for the best interests of the school. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland reside at Wollaston.

The salary of Mr. Cleveland at Cambridge will be $3,000 per year, and he will enter upon his duties about Jan. 31. Previous to the election of Mr. Cleveland the resignation of William F. Bradbury, headmaster of the Cambridge Latin school, was received. Mr. Bradbury has been a teacher in the Cambridge schools for more than 53 years. The board adopted a memorial to the retiring principal and elected him master emeritus. Miss Deering, who has been acting headmaster of the English High school since the resignation of Ray Greene Huling, about three years ago, was elected master of the school.

"People who live in icehouses shouldn't throw hot water."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

HISTORIC QUINCY.

City of President Has Much Of Interest

Old historic Quincy settled in 162[illegible] has much of interest to visitors When Braintree was incorporated in 1640, the territory now known as Quincy, was a part. In 1792 Quincy became an independent town, and in [illegible]8 was incorporated as a city.

[illegible]uincy was named in honor of Col[illegible]n Quincy, descendant in the third [illegible]eration from Edmund, 2d, who set[illegible] in Quincy, in 1634; grand-father [illegible]bigail (Smith) Adams, the wife [illegible]mother of a President of the Uni[illegible] States.

[illegible]e city includes Wollaston, Atlan[illegible]Quincy Point, South Quincy, Wes[illegible]y, Montclair, Norfolk Downs[illegible]aston Park, Squantum, Houghs[illegible] Adams Shore, Germantown and [illegible] Neck, comprising in all over[illegible] are miles, of which 2,530 acres[illegible] public parks.

Birthplaces of Presidents.

[illegible] place of John Adams, the first[illegible] resident and second President[illegible] erning United States, Franklin street[illegible] Adams house built in 1681 and[illegible] erally k[illegible] in 1897 by Adams Chapter[illegible] Chief [illegible]ers of the Revolution. Open to[illegible] Admission charged.

[illegible] place of John Quincy Adams[illegible]h President of the United[illegible] junction of Franklin street[illegible]nts road and Independence ave[illegible] built 1716, restored 1896 by the[illegible] Historical Society. Open to[illegible] afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

Abigail Adams Cairn.

[illegible]ns Hill, erected June 17, 1896, by[illegible]s Chapter, Daughters of the Rev[illegible]n, to the memory of Abigail Ad[illegible] who with her son, John Quincy[illegible] the spot watched the smoke of[illegible]ing. [illegible]e at Bunker Hill. Cairn com[illegible]cased of many historic stones, the[illegible]er stone being part of the old[illegible]per of first railroad in United[illegible]es which ran from Quincy quar[illegible] to tide water, Neponset river.

Burial Place of Presidents.

First Congregational Church (Unitarian) at Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high pulpit, are mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. The funeral of John Quincy Adams was held in this church. Beneath the entrance is the Adams tomb reached by stairways from the vestibule. Near the tomb is the box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams, also the old town hearse. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple street. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

Hancock Cemetery.

Hancock cemetery across the street from First church contains many old stones. Among the old graves are those of Henry Adams founder of the Adams family who died Oct. 5, 1646; Rev. William Thompson, 1st pastor over the Braintree church who died Dec. 10, 1666; Rev. Henry Flint who died Oct. 11, 1668; Rev. John Hancock father of the Patriot who died May 7 1744, and many other notable people.

John Hancock Birthplace.

Adams street, junction of Dimmick and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence was born.

Presidents Adams Mansion.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

Presidents Lane.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

Dorothy Q. House.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy, Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M., until 4 P. M. Other days admission charged.

Myles Standish Cairn.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept 30, 1621, guided by the Indian Tisquantum.

Myles Standish Spring.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Squaw Rock.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

AQUAS READY ROOFING

GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST

SANBORN & DAMON QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

ASSETS, $450,000.

QUINCY CO-OP. BANK $$$$$ For The People

ESTABLISHED 1889

SAVES $ FOR YOU EARNS $ FOR YOU LOANS $ TO

DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month

MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS

OWN YOUR HOME.

SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS BK BUILDING

R. D. CHASE Treas

WHEN IN WANT

OF GOOD

Plants and Flowers

for XMAS GIFTS call up

WM. PATTERSON

HE HAS THEM

Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias at Reasonable Prices.

92 South Central Ave., Wollaston

Tel. 392-1 Quincy. 1 cc. 20-tf

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | FROM BOSTON Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r *5 14 | abdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | ihgfedeba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 | abc | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adet | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp | 10 09 |
| r 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 07 |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edcba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | dcba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | ihgfedeba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 | abedefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedcba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedcba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abedef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 | abedef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedcba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 24 | ihgfedcba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | ihgfedcba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | ihgfedcba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | ihgfedcba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abcdefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | ihgfedcba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abcdefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | ihgfedcba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | ihgfedcba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abcdefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abcdefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | ihgfedcba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

a Wollaston, b Norfolk Downs, c Atlantic, d Neponset, e Pope's Hill, f Harrison Square, g Savin Hill, h Cresent Avenue, i South Boston, r Quincy Adams.

Exp.—Express train.

*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.18, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.27, 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.26 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

Only One Cent

Means Help for the

Tuberculosis Camp

Have Your Clothes Washed by the

NEW SYSTEM

WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.

Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.

Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.

L. A. FAGEN, Manager

Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture Also Upholsterers.

1056 Hancock Street, Quincy

Tel. quincy 159-1

Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood.

Gas and Water.

Four valuable houses built on property

Apply at 45 Elm Street.

Quincy, Dec. 3

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.30, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,

Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMM

Division S

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER V.

A YEAR passed since the eventful night for Wheeler Brand when Nolan made him managing editor of the Advance. In these months Brand made a showing with the paper that was never dreamed of by the owners preceding as being within the range of possibility. Made absolute master of the paper and consequently dictator of its policy, the young man set a pace that the paper's rivals found difficult to equal, much less to outstrip. His exposure of the scandals in the exclusive world of high life insurance finance has thus far proved the most vital reform of his administration. As a result of this crusade, which drove a half dozen leading officials from almost as many companies, the president of the United States stated publicly that "the vast life insurance business of this country is now on the soundest financial basis it has ever had."

But Wheeler Brand in the press of stirring events had not forgotten Judge Bartelmy. In fact, certain activities of that estimable individual were just now under close scrutiny by the one time reporter, who, if he could be prevailed on to speak concerning it, might possibly observe that the judge was very soon to have an opportunity to make a few explanations which would be received with undoubted interest by the public. The young editor's suit for the hand of Judith Bartelmy might be said, since we are dealing with a judge's family, to be in statu quo. She was still waiting for him "to become sane," as she had expressed herself to him. A girl of lofty principles and of decided strength of character, she could not see his duty from his viewpoint. Perhaps it was all quite natural, quite womanly, quite daughterly, that she should subscribe absolutely to her father's side in the momentous case of "JUDGE BARTELMY VERSUS THE PEOPLE, WHEELER BRAND AND THE ADVANCE."

She was loyal to her father, and she was trying to be loyal to her lover, and the task was becoming more and more difficult. Yet she waited, and Wheeler Brand waited, and each prayed that the other would end the ordeal and heal two breaking hearts.

Today we find Wheeler Brand proceeding toward the luxurious Nolan home on a fashionable residential thoroughfare to visit the proprietor of the paper to hand him a statement of the Advance's progress, to discuss matters of editorial policy and to confer regarding a certain development concerning Judge Bartelmy.

At the Nolan home a reception had been announced, hundreds of invitations sent out, but the responses did not encourage Mrs. Nolan in her social aspirations. Society passed her by. That was the whole story in brief. Society, as usual, was ever so much pleased with itself and was too busy to include Mrs. Nolan, Phyllis and Sylvester in its diversions. The husband and father cared very little for society, had no time for it, but he fondly loved the courageous, warm hearted woman who had uncomplainingly shared with him the onerous hardships of his early days, and it was his desire to gratify her ambitions as well as those of his daughter. The fortune he had plucked from Nevada's flinty bosom enabled him to be generous, and he smiled approvingly on every new extravagance of Mrs. Michael Nolan. Therefore if she was socially ambitious she must have her way and be allowed to carry on her campaign for recognition in whatever fashion she chose. Certainly the home he had established was a fitting vantage ground from which to wage a war of dollars against the precipitous embattlements with which the city's Four Hundred had encircled its camp. Palatial in size, the Nolan residence was equally palatial in its furnishings, and only the magic word from the magic lips of a single member of the magic realm of "the aristocracy" was necessary to send monogrammed coaches in long lines to the Nolan doors, to fill the costly rooms with distinguished faces, to fill to overflowing with happiness the yearning heart of Mrs. Michael Nolan.

But the word had not yet been spoken.

It was now late in the afternoon at the Nolan home. Phyllis walked across the drawing room, irritation plainly marking her pretty pink and white face. The music of a string orchestra stationed in the conservatory ceased. She addressed a servant who stood at attention at a door at the right which led to the dining room.

"Pitcher," she said discouragedly, "I don't think any one else will come, so tell the musicians they can go."

"Yes, Miss Phyllis."

At this point Mrs. Nolan came storming in, carrying a huge bunch of hothouse grapes in her hand.

"Pitcher, I noticed those caterer men are drinking all the champagne, and I want it stopped," she ordered loudly.

Pitcher bowed and went out.

"If our guests won't come here to drink it, at least we will drink it ourselves," Mrs. Nolan announced to Phyllis. "Well, we have done it—sent out 400 cards, and who's been here that anybody wants to see? This is the second time we've gone to all this trouble and expense for nothing and nobody, and if you'll take my advice it will be the last."

"Mamma, Pitcher will hear," the girl protested.

The mother bit a grape from the bunch. She deposited the skin and stones in a Sevres vase on the marble mantel.

"Phyllis, what did you have to pay that musician?" she asked.

"Well, his price is a thousand dollars."

"Good gracious!"

"But I got him for $750. I promised the Advance would help him."

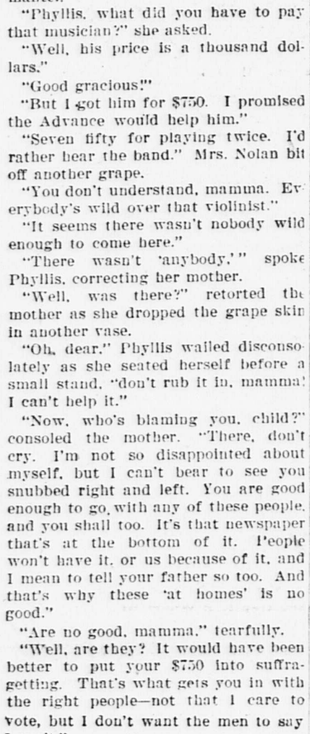
"Seven fifty for playing twice. I'd rather hear the band." Mrs. Nolan bit off another grape.

"You don't understand, mamma. Everybody's wild over that violinist."

"It seems there wasn't nobody wild enough to come here."

"There wasn't 'anybody,'" spoke Phyllis, correcting her mother.

"Well, was there?" retorted the mother as she dropped the grape skin in another vase.



"Oh, dear," Phyllis wailed disconsolately as she seated herself before a small stand, "don't rub it in, mamma! I can't help it."

"Now, who's blaming you, child?" consoled the mother. "There, don't cry. I'm not so disappointed about myself, but I can't bear to see you snubbed right and left. You are good enough to go with any of these people, and you shall too. It's that newspaper that's at the bottom of it. People won't have it, or us because of it, and I mean to tell your father so too. And that's why these 'at homes' is no good."

"Are no good, mamma," tearfully.

"Well, are they? It would have been better to put your $750 into suffragetting. That's what gets you in with the right people—not that I care to vote, but I don't want the men to say I can't."

Sylvester Dolan interrupted the conversation between mother and daughter by appearing before them with his bosom friend, Max Powell, who believed himself to have the makings of a master poet. It was with deepest pride that the Nolan son presented Powell, long haired, sallow faced and seedily dressed, to his mother and sister. Sallow faced? Indeed, his countenance had that sickly greenish yellow hue that comes from long devouring of the muses and long abstinence from the devouring of food.

"Nobody was wild enough to come here."

"Hello, mamma!" he cried enthusiastically. "Here's a friend of mine I want you to know—Mr. Powell, the poet."

"How do you do, Mr. Powell? You look as if it would be easy for you to write poetry. Do you know, poetry just sets me wild!"

Sylvester patted Powell on the back.

"Well, this lad's going to make a big noise in poetry some day. Phyllis, you must have heard of Powell. My sister, old man!"

"Won't you have a cup of tea, Mr. Powell?" invited Mrs. Nolan, visibly impressed by the presence of a poet at her home.

Powell started confusedly to utter his thanks. He did not seem overdelighted at the offer.

Sylvester saw the difficulty. "Tea!" he exclaimed. "Absinth for Powell!"

Mrs. Nolan expressed her regret at not having any absinth and left the room, followed by Phyllis, to arrange for something for Powell to eat. "Poor fellow! He looks hungry," she whispered to Phyllis.

Sylvester caught the poet by the arm.

"One minute, Powow," he cautioned. "Be sure you don't mention anything to the folks about my little actress friend. I don't want them to know that I am going to take a crack at uplifting the stage. The little girl will be all right. She'll just make your libretto hum. She'll fill it with personality. Build up all those weak places. You know, Powow, there are some. Where's that poem for her? Finished yet?"

"Yes, it's here somewhere," fumbling in a pocket.

"Have you made it amorous for the little girl?"

"Judge for yourself. Of course I tried to write in your vein as well as I could, so that there would be no doubt to the authorship."

Sylvester read the lines:

Oh, Guenevlere, how sweet my dear!
My spirit soars in dreams denied.
Worlds beyond worlds with thee, my bride—

"I don't like that much," he announced when he had finished. "Bride! Is it necessary to put that in writing? Besides, it don't sound as if I wrote it. Now, does it, Powow, old chap? Fess up."

"I hope it doesn't sound as if I wrote it."

"I thought you'd see it. Now, change that and it's a knockout drop. Can't you change it now? And I'll send it to the little girl tonight on a bed of orchids. Make it something beginning with 'ruby lips'—you know the sort of guff—and then here and there 'eyes like night, full of delight,' something on that order."

"Ruby, ruby—rougey lips!"

Powell sat and wrote for a few minutes. "Here," he finally said. Sylvester glanced over the shoulder of the rising young genius, who read aloud these inspiring words:

So bright and beaming are thine eyes
The very stars twink in surprise.
Thy hair so like the dusky night,
Thy kiss so vibrant with delight,
I thrill unto my finger tips.
Oh, ruby, ruby—rougey lips!

Powell literally writhed in agony as he listened to the doggerel.

"It's great!" cried Sylvester ecstatically. "And now come get your tea. Gee, I'd like to take a crack at being a poet!"

The two conspirators hurried into the dining room as Wheeler Brand and the owner of the Advance came into the drawing room.

"You're right, Wheeler; you're right," Nolan was saying. "This is a better showing than I hoped for. Look in your stocking next Christmas. There'll be something for you. When I got into the newspaper business, Brand, they told me it was the beginning of my finish, that it sucked ten fortunes down for every one it built and no middle aged man ever went into it and came out again without teeth marks all over him. But look at that." He held up a typewritten statement. "I'm richer for going in—twice as much advertising as last year at this time."

Nolan seated himself on a settee.

"The big advertisers never pull their ads. so long as they are getting returns from them," put in Brand. "Look at Dupuy. Remember how he threatened us and how his clients took their ads. out for two months?"

"Yes, but they put them back again."

"Why? Because they need us more than we need them," Brand laughed.

"Well, he's got something else up his sleeve now," remarked Nolan. "He telephoned that he would come to see me this afternoon."

"Are you going to see him?" Brand asked curiously.

"I thought I might as well. He'll be here. Maybe he wants to fire you again." The newspaper owner looked up at Brand and laughed heartily.

Mrs. Nolan and Phyllis re-entered the drawing room, and Brand became the especial object of their attentions.

The mother desired to have him print the list of her invited guests who had never attended the reception. Phyllis requested him to print a story about the violinist and was vastly annoyed when Brand informed her that the subject was a matter for the musical editor to attend to.

"And there's something else, Mr. Brand." A look of despair came into Brand's face. "Phyllis went to Miss Bartelmy's musicale the other day and you didn't even include her name among those present," the mother said.

"Why, I'm sorry. That was an oversight, I assure you. I suppose they made up the usual list in the office."

"I hope it won't happen again," remarked Phyllis indignantly.

"Yes, and the way it's handling this Loris divorce case is all wrong," snapped Mrs. Nolan. "I know Mrs. Loris. She is no better than she should be and people who live in icehouses shouldn't throw hot water."

"We have no policy in the Loris case," remarked Brand in defense. "We merely print the facts."

"Facts!" Mrs. Nolan cried. "That paper upsets me for the whole day every morning."

"There now, mother; I guess the paper's all right," ventured Nolan soothingly.

"You've got another guess, Michael. Nobody reads it but shopgirls, who spend a penny for the Advance and another for a stick of gum and hang to a strap with one hand and the other while they're [illegible] way down [illegible] it."

"People who live in icehouses shouldn't throw hot water."

Brand drew a deep breath, stood up erect in the middle of the drawing room and daringly explained the situation to the owner of the paper.

"Bartelmy handles people better than any man in town," he declared. "He has studied the Advance, dissected its position and—I will be frank with you—discovered its weaknesses. He knows he can't reach you through your cupidity or political ambition because you lack those qualities. He now realizes that his only hope of influencing us lies in an appeal to"— He hesitated.

"Well?" asked Mrs. Nolan ominously.

Brand found the courage to complete the sentence.

"His only hope lies in an appeal—to your family's social desires"—Phyllis rose from her seat, her cheeks red with anger—"and that's the only reason he has for taking you up."

Mrs. Nolan gave a scream of wrath. Nolan himself, regretting that the unpleasant scene had occurred, rose from the settee and advanced to calm the ruffled waters, but his face was clouded. Its serious expression indicated that he was deeply concerned over the frank statements of his managing editor, and one could instinctively feel that he was convinced that Brand had spoken the truth.

(To be Continued.)

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

City of President Has Much Of Interest

Old historic Quincy settled in 162[illegible] has much of interest to visitors. When Braintree was incorporated in 1640, the territory now known as Quincy, was a part. In 1792 Quincy became an independent town, and in 18[illegible] was incorporated as a city.

Quincy was named in honor of Col[illegible] n Quincy, descendant in the third [illegible]ration from Edmund, 2d, who set[illegible] in Quincy, in 1634; grand-father [illegible]bigail (Smith) Adams, the wife [illegible]mother of a President of the Uni[illegible] States.

[illegible]e city includes Wollaston, Atlan[illegible] Quincy Point, South Quincy, West[illegible]y, Montclair, Norfolk Downs, [illegible]ston Park, Squantum, Houghs [illegible] Adams Shore, Germantown and [illegible]y Neck, comprising in all over [illegible]are miles, of which 2,530 acres [illegible] public parks.

Birthplaces of Presidents.

[illegible]place of John Adams, the first [illegible]resident and second President [illegible] United States, Franklin street. [illegible] Adams house built in 1681 and [illegible] in 1897 by Adams Chapter [illegible]rs of the Revolution. Open to [illegible] Admission charged.

[illegible]lace of John Quincy Adams [illegible]h President of the United [illegible] junction of Franklin street [illegible]its road and Independence ave[illegible]uilt 1716, restored 1896 by the [illegible] Historical Society. Open to [illegible]afternoons from 2 to 5. Admis[illegible]harged.

Abigail Adams Cairn.

[illegible]ns Hill, erecteld June 17, 1896, by [illegible]s Chapter, Daughters of the Rev[illegible]n, to the memory of Abigail Ad[illegible] who with her son, John Quincy [illegible] the spot watched the smoke of [illegible]e at Bunker Hill. Cairn com[illegible]d of many historic stones, the [illegible]er stone being part of the old [illegible]per of first railroad in United [illegible]es which ran from Quincy quar[illegible] to tide water, Neponset river.

Burial Place of Presidents.

First Congregational Church (Uni[illegible]rian) at Quincy centre. In audi[illegible]orium each side of high pulpit, are [illegible]mural monuments, to the memory of John Adams, the second president, and John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, and their wives. The funeral of John Quincy Adams was held in this church. Beneath the entrance is the Adams tomb reached by stairways from the vestibule. Near the tomb is the box in which was brought from Washington the body of John Quincy Adams, also the old town hearse. Admission may be secured on application to W. E. Dewhurst, sexton, 3 Maple street. A fee is asked for attendance, etc.

Hancock Cemetery.

Hancock cemetery across the street from First church contains many old stones. Among the old graves are those of Henry Adams founder of the Adams family who died Oct. 5, 1646; Rev. William Thompson, 1st pastor over the Braintree church who died Dec. 10, 1666; Rev. Henry Flint who died Oct. 11, 1668; Rev. John Hancock father of the Patriot who died May 7 1744, and many other notable people.

John Hancock Birthplace.

Adams street, junction of Dimmick and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence was born.

Presidents Adams Mansion.

Adams street, corner Newport avenue, Quincy. Residence of President John Adams and contains many family relics. Occupied by descendants. Not open to public.

Presidents Lane.

Now Goffe street, leading from Adams street, near Mansion. Opened by John Adams to drive his cows to pasture.

Dorothy Q. House.

Hancock street, corner Butler road, Quincy, Old Quincy homestead in which Dorothy Q was born. Owned by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames. Has quaint old paper on parlor put on for wedding of John Hancock and Dorothy Quincy; also secret chamber and other interesting features. Open free to the public on Saturdays, from 11 A. M., until 4 P. M. Other days admission charged.

Myles Standish Cairn.

Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here Sept 20, 1621, guided by the Indian Tisquantum.

Myles Standish Spring.

On the beach to the left and back of Squantum Inn. Spring of fresh cold water, where Standish and his party breakfasted and thence started to explore the country around Boston Bay.

Squaw Rock.

Pile of rock, on which is a perfect head of a squaw, frequently mentioned in early Squantum history. Near by is also Sachem's Knoll.

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

AQUAS READY ROOFING GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST

SANBORN & DAMON QUINCY

Nov. 6 9m

ASSETS, $450,000.

QUINCY CO-OP BANK $$$$$ For The People

ESTABLISHED 1889

SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU

DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month

MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS

OWN YOUR HOME.

SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS B'K BUILDING

R. D. CHASE, Treas

WHEN IN WANT OF GOOD

Plants and Flowers

for XMAS GIFTS call up

WM. PATTERSON

HE HAS THEM

Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias at Reasonable Prices.

92 South Central Ave., Wollaston

Tel. 392-1 Quincy. 1 cc. 20-tf

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | FROM BOSTON Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r *5 14 | abdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | ihgfedeba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 | abe | 6 33 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abe | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abe | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adef | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 | abe | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp | 10 09 |
| r 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abe | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abed | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abe | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abe | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abe | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abe | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 00 |
| r 1 13 | abe | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abe | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abe | 2 33 | 4 50 | edcba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | deba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abe | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abe | 5 33 | 5 46 | ihgfedeba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 | abedefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abe | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedeba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedeba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abedef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abe | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 | abedef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedeba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 29 | abe | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abe | 8 03 | 6 24 | ihgfedeba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abe | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abe | 9 33 | 10 16 | ihgfedeba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | ihgfedeba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | ihgfedeba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abedefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abe | 1 33 | 3 16 | ihgfedeba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abe | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abedefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abe | 5 33 | 6 16 | ihgfedeba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | ihgfedeba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abedefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abedefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | ihgfedeba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abe | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.
*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.27 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."

Quincy Daily Ledger

Only One Cent

Means Help for the Tuberculosis Camp

Have Your Clothes Washed by the NEW SYSTEM

WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.

Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.

Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.

L. A. FAGEN, Manager

Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture Also Upholsterers.

1056 Hancock Street, Quincy

Tel. Quincy 159-1

Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE

Elm and Dysart Streets.

Good location, good neighborhood.

Gas and Water.

Four valuable houses built on property

Apply at 45 Elm Street.

Quincy, Dec. 3

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days.

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Point, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,

Superintendent.

THOMAS GAM[illegible]

Division S[illegible]

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

R. E. Foy & Co.—Milk
S. Scammell & Sons—Pungs
Prudential Insurance Company
Probate Notice
To Let
For Sale.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 30 degrees |
| Dec. 28, 1908, | 44 degrees |
| Dec. 28, 1907, | 57 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

Harry Seeley of Germantown is visiting friends in Brockton.

Capt. Hoffsess entertained a large number of friends Christmas day at the Sailors' Snug harbor.

John D. Mackay, the well known attorney is able to be out after a week's sickness from the grip.

Jack Wigmore of Hingham has been visiting friends in Quincy for a few days.

Elizabeth Torrey of Houghs Neck is spending the holidays with friends in Elizabeth, N. J., and New York.

Miss Eva L. Marden is the guest of Miss E. D. Conklin of Jersey city during Christmas and New Year's.

Edwin Beal Jr., of Washington street has been taken to a Boston hospital to be treated for dropsy.

Every man who desired a job this week shovelling snow had it. There was plenty of work for all.

Councilman-elect Arthur W. Loud of Wollaston has gone to Cleveland, Ohio, and may not be back in time to attend the inauguration.

William J. Nolan, a student at the Yale law school, is spending his Christmas and New Year's vacation with his parents of Linden place.

Miss Blanche Morrison of Spear street was the guest over Christmas of her aunt, Mrs. H. W. Sprague of Malden.

B. F. Hodgkinson, the well known milk man of Germantown, entertained guests from the South Shore at his home on Christmas day.

Although considerable snow fell, the sleighing is not exceptionally good, as the snow was too dry to pack down closely.

Mayor Shea is busy making out his inaugural address next Monday. The address will be brief and will deal largely with the financial condition of the city.

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

Letters unclaimed for the week ending, Saturday, Dec. 25: Francisco Alvarez, Bay State Drug & Chemical Co., Mrs. Wm. Cairns, (five letters), P. Canney, Anthoney S. Chadic, H. C. Chase, D'Angelo Gaetano, Miss Margaret Gillis, Charles A. Godley, James Goggin, Mrs. C. E. Knight, Mrs. Edward Landga, Fromowna Ponnoo, Mrs. E. P. Putnam, James Sheppard.

BIRTHS.

REARDON—In Quincy, Dec. 23, a son to Dr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Reardon of School street.

MARRIAGES.

WILLIAMS—JONES—In Quincy, Dec. 25, by Rev. R. J. Davis, Mr. William Robert Williams to Miss Eliza Jane Jones, both of Quincy.

BROWN—COHEN—In Burlington, Vt., Dec. 24, Mr. Charles Brown of Burlington, formerly of Quincy, to Miss Frances Cohen of West Quincy.

DEATHS.

CURTIN—In Atlantic, Dec. 25, Lawrence P. son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Curtin, of 23 Holl s avenue, aged 8 years and 7 months

HOBART—In Hingham, Dec. 25, Mr. Edmund L. Hobart, aged 60 years, 11 months and 18 days.

McNEIL—In West Quincy, Dec 25, Mrs. Ellen McNeil, wife of Michael McNeil.
Funeral services Wednesday Dec. 29 from late home at 8.30. Mass at St. Marys church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited.

MURPHY—In Quincy, Dec. 27, John J., son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Murphy of 131 Liberty street.

WHISLEY—In Brookline, Dec. 27, Frank A. Whisley of Quincy.
Funeral services at 116 Thorndike street, Brookline, Dec. 30, at 1 o'clock. Burial private. Dec. 28-2t

RYAN—In West Quincy, Dec. 27, Mr. John H. Ryan, aged 60 years.
Funeral from late residence 72 Common street, Wednesday Dec. 29, at 8.30 A. M. High mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited.
Dec. 27 2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

BASKET BALL.

The first and second St. Mary's basket ball teams will play their opening game of the season Thursday night at St. Mary's hall, when they will have as their opponents the first and second Randolph teams. Bob. Crowell, formerly of West Quincy, is playing this season with the Randolphs.

The line-up of the two first teams for Thursday night's game will be:

St. Mary's—D. Duggan and McLaughlin, forwards; W. Duggan, Mullen and Morrill, backs; and Buckley at centre.

Randolphs—Courtney and Landers, forwards; Crowell and Lind, backs; and Pitcher at centre.

Hotly contested games are anticipated.

AUXILIARY OFFICERS.

Sons of Veteran's Auxiliary 16 to Camp 32 held their annual election of officers in G. A. R. hall, South Braintree, Monday evening. The following officers were elected:

Past President—Alice V. Thayer.
President—Maria B. Hollis.
Vice President—Alice Foster.
Treasurer—Alice B. Hayden.
Trustees—Alice V. Thayer, Idella Thayer, Ethel B. Hayden.
Chaplain—Jennie Jones.
Guide—Ethel B. Hayden.
Assistant Guide—M. Viola Hollis.
Patriotic Instructor—Lizzie Howe.
Color Guards—Idella Thayer and Josephine Foster.
Secretary—Marion D. Holbrook.
Inside Guard—Ellen Jones.
Outside Guard—Esther DeCoste.
Delegate to Division Convention—Stella B. Fox.
Alternate—Grace L. Holbrook.
Delegate to National Convention—Marion D. Holbrook.
Alternate—Minnie D. Cook.

FUNERAL AT KINGS CHAPEL.

Rev. Howard N. Brown the minister of Kings Chapel Boston, was assisted Monday noon by Rev. E. C. Butler of the First church, Quincy at the funeral services of Henry A. Johnson, late of Braintree and Boston. The regular choir of the church sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah."

The pallbearers were Dr. Jeffrey R. Brackett, Capt. Godwin Ordway, Charles S. Gill, Edmund D. Codman, Allerton D. Hitch and Charles E. Loud.

Charles E. Shattuck, Franklin S. Billings, A. Ten Eycke Hale and Arthur W. Moors were the ushers. The body was taken to Fairhaven for burial.

WILLIAMS—JONES.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Christmas night at South Quincy, when Miss Eliza Jane Jones became the bride of William Robert Williams. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride at 120 Liberty street at 7 o'clock, the officiating clergyman being Rev. R. J. Davis. The bride was becomingly gowned in a steel gray silk with white silk trimmings. The ceremony was witnessed by thirty relatives and friends and was followed by a reception and supper. Mr. Williams is a well known South Quincy granite dealer.

CIGARETTE SALES.

The police have been getting after the storekeepers in the vicinity of Wollaston who it is alleged have been selling cigarettes to minors. There have been numerous complaints made to the police by teachers and parents of boys who were smoking cigarettes, and Inspector Goodhue was assigned to the case. As a result three men were hailed into court this morning for selling cigarettes to minors. The men were John W. Ferguson, who was arraigned upon two complaints; Ernest M. Shay and John Massoni. Ferguson was fined $10 on one complaint, the second being placed on file. Shay was fined $10 and Massoni's case placed on file on payment of costs amounting to $2.80.

BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clarke of Hamilton were the guests of Senator and Mrs. Eugene C. Hultman of Washington street over the Christmas holidays.

An important meeting of Quincy lodge of Elks will be held tonight. In addition to the balloting and initiation of several candidates, a secretary will be elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of E. W. Courtney.

L. A. Chapin, the news agent, is having some trouble with one of the Boston newspapers, and is refusing to handle it. To get back at him the newspaper had a man from Boston stationed in front of his door all day Monday selling the papers. The trouble seems to be that Mr. Chapin did not push the sales of this paper in preference to the other Boston daily papers.

HOW KERMIT GOT HIS LEOPARD.

Incident of Theodore Roosevelt's African Hunt.

THRILLING TIME IN THE WILDS

Former President Tells How His Son Finally Killed a Leopard That Had Been Badly Wounded Three Times Pets on Mr. McMillan's Farm.

In the January Scribner's ex-President Theodore Roosevelt in his article "African Game Trails" describes the hunt in which his son Kermit played a prominent part in the killing of a leopard. Telling of the beats in the jungle made by Mr. Roosevelt and his party while they were staying at a farm, the estate of his fellow countryman, Mr. W. N. McMillan, he says:

"In one of these beats they put up a leopard and saw it slinking for cover ahead of them through the bushes. Then they lost sight of it and came to the conclusion that it was in a large thicket. So Kermit went around side of it and McMillan on the other, and the beaters approached to get the leopard out. Of course none of the beaters had guns. Their function was merely to make a disturbance and rouse the game, and they were cautioned on no account to get into danger. But the leopard did not wait to be driven. Without any warning, out he came and charged straight at Kermit, who stopped him when he was but six yards off with a bullet in the fore part of the body. The leopard turned, and as he galloped back Kermit hit him again, crippling him in the hips. The wounds were fatal, and they would have knocked the fight out of any animal less plucky and savage than the leopard, but not even in Africa is there a beast of more unflinching courage than this spotted cat.

COPYRIGHT-1909 BY CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

MRS. M'MILLAN AND HER PET CHEETAH

Badly Mauled a Beater.

"The beaters were much excited by the sight of the charge and the way in which it was stopped, and they pressed jubilantly forward too heedlessly. One of them who was on McMillan's side of the thicket went too near it, and out came the wounded leopard at him. It was badly crippled or it would have got the beater at once. As it was, it was slowly overtaking him as he ran through the tall grass when McMillan, standing on an ant heap, shot it again. Yet, in spite of having this third bullet in it, it ran down the beater and seized him, worrying him with teeth and claws, but it was weak because of its wounds, and the powerful savage wrenched himself free, while McMillan fired into the beast again, and back it went through the long grass into the thicket. There was a pause, and the wounded beater was removed to a place of safety, while a messenger was sent on to us to bring up the Boer dogs. But while they were waiting the leopard on its own initiative brought matters to a crisis, for out it came again straight at Kermit, and this time it dropped dead to Kermit's bullet."

Pets at Juja Farm.

In the same article Mr. Roosevelt tells as follows of some of the interesting pets kept by Mr. and Mrs. McMillan on their farm in East Africa:

"At Juja farm many animals were kept in cages. They included a fairly friendly leopard and five lions, two of which were anything but friendly. There were three cheetahs nearly full grown. These were continually taken out on leashes, Mrs. McMillan strolling about with them and leading them to the summer house. They were good tempered, but they did not lead well. Cheetahs are interesting beasts. They are aberrant cats, standing very high on their legs and with nonretractile claws like a dog. They are nearly the size of a leopard, but are not ordinarily anything like as ferocious, and prey on the smaller antelope, occasionally taking something as big as a half grown kongoni. For a short run, up to say a quarter of a mile, they are the swiftest animals on earth and with a good start easily overtake the fastest antelope, but their bolt is soon shot, and on the open plain they can readily be galloped down with a horse.

"Then there was a tame wart hog, very friendly, indeed, which usually wandered loose and was as comical as pigs generally are, with its sudden starts and grunts. Finally there were a young Tommy buck and a Grant's gazelle doe, both of which were on good terms with every one."

GOTCH TO QUIT MAT.

Champion Wrestler Says Two More Bouts and He Is Through.

Although Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, has announced his retirement several times only to return, it now looks as if he means what he says and will give up the grappling game. While in Cleveland recently Gotch said: "About two more big matches and I'll quit for good. I have threatened to do so for a year or so now, but confidentially this is going to be the last. There is a lot of fun going about the game, but the wrestling all comes from the champion, as the [illegible] champion. Six years ago he weighed a trifle over 200 pounds. Now he weighs close to 230 pounds. According to Dr. Roller, Gotch has taken on weight purposely, for he knows that a man weighing only 200 pounds might not stand much chance against some of these giants from abroad who weigh close to 280 pounds.

FOOTBALL CAPTAINS FOR 1910

All Big Elevens Have Selected Pilots For Next Season's Teams.

With election days over and the new captains named for the season of 1910, the football squads throughout the country have broken ranks for the present year to reassemble with the call of the moleskin spirit some Indian summer day in September next. Bill Crawley, the sensational halfback of the University of Chicago eleven, will lead the Maroon warriors next year. Northwestern players also picked a halfback for chieftain in Manley. Hyland of Iowa, one of the strongest ends in the west, will run the Hawkeyes, while Jimmy Dean, a star of the first water and end, will run Wisconsin's football machine. Butzer, the giant guard picked by many critics for the all western team, will captain Illinois. Johnson, Minnesota's star halfback, will lead the Gophers, and J. Miller will pilot the Michigan men.

In the east Marks, Dartmouth's star fullback of 1909, has been selected to lead the Hanover men next season. Yale's pilot for 1910 is Fred Daly, who was regarded as one of the best halfbacks during the season just closed. Pete Houser, fullback, has been chosen to head the Carlisle Indian warriors on the gridiron in 1910. Hart, who made a great name for himself at halfback, will lead Princeton. Harvard will have for a pilot in 1910 L. Withington, who played a strong game at left guard during the 1909 campaign. Simpson, a halfback, will run Cornell's 1910 gridiron men, and Cozzens, who played center for Penn in 1909, will captain the Red and Blue in 1910.

FUTURE SPORT EVENTS

London plans a world's checker tourney for 1911.

Germany will hold a six day bicycle race in February.

Ottawa will give nine $1,000 stakes for horse racing on ice in February.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., will hold the international ice skating championships early in February.

English Sculling Champion Ernest Barry will go to Australia to row against Richard Arnst for the world's title.

Young Banks of Toledo, O., and Hugh Henderson will play fifty checker games for $1,000 in Toledo, beginning Feb. 21 and continuing two weeks.

English women hockey teams are anxious to come to America to play women teams here. A tour is being planned to include matches with teams in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore and other cities.

PLANS OF THE ICE YACHTSMEN

Devotees of the Thrilling Sport Preparing For Season.

MANY RACES ARE SCHEDULED

The Principal One Being For the Challenge Pennant of America, to Be Held on Shrewsbury River, New Jersey. Season to Start Shortly.

Judging by the plans of those interested in the sport it looks as if ice yachting will have a big inning this winter, provided, of course, that the weather permits. Last year the winter was an open season and few races were held, especially in the east. But this season, if the farmer and other weather wise folks' prognostications are to be believed, is going to be one of the greatest iceboating campaigns ever experienced.

The season is booked to begin right after the holidays, and from then until the early part of March it is hoped to have uninterrupted sport. A great number of races are to be decided this winter, the principal one being for the challenge pennant of America, open to third class yachts only, on the Shrewsbury river, New Jersey. This trophy is now in possession of the North Shrewsbury club, having been captured from the South Shrewsbury club three winters ago.

The pennant race was won by the Drub, owned and built by Edward Willis and Charles Burd, from the pick of the South Shrewsbury fleet. The Drub's sister yacht in the contest was the Northwest, which was destroyed by fire the following winter. Shortly after the race Edward C. Feidler, a member of the South Shrewsbury club, made offers of purchase to Captains Willis and Burd, and they concluded to sell the Drub to him. The following winter the Imp appeared. This was also built and owned by Willis and Burd. It was not generally believed by the ice yachting enthusiasts that the Imp would prove as fast as the Drub, but they were mistaken, as subsequent events proved.

The Drub and the Imp raced at Red Bank, N. J. Although the Drub had previously won the streamer for the Red Bank club, it was now up to her to win it back, if possible, from the same club. The best ice yacht sailors in America manned the two competing yachts. All the conditions were favorable for a sharp contest, and the Imp won the first leg of the match. The conditions require the winning yacht to secure three races out of five. The day succeeding the race a thaw came on, and there was no boating after that during the season. This race is to be finished, and besides there will be matches for many other pennants in the various classes and also for special prizes.

THE IMP, CHAMPION ICE YACHT AND HOLDER OF PENNANT.

It is said that Captains Willis and Burd have another surprise up their sleeves and that they intend bringing out another yacht this winter. If the new one succeeds in defeating the Imp she will have to go some, as the latter is considered the fastest craft of her size in existence. In light airs or heavy breezes the yacht is a wonder.

In the west many races are carded to be held on Lake Champlain, Lake Winnebago, Lake Minnetonka and the great lakes.

Throughout the northern states, where the winters are cold enough to throw a coat of ice over the surface of the rivers and lakes, ice yachting is rapidly growing as a recreation, each year adding devotees by the hundreds and drawing its followers closer into the fold.

The rivers and lakes of Maine, Lake Champlain and Lake Winnebago, the Hudson, the St. Lawrence, the great lakes, the streams throughout Pennsylvania and New Jersey, particularly the back channels of the ocean, furnish the means during the several months of the year of enjoying this most attractive of winter pastimes.

The Greatest Ice Meeting.

The Central Canada Ice Racing association has decided that the annual winter meet should be held on the Ottawa river Jan. 29 to Feb. 5. Additional events will be carded and the purses increased, it being the intention of the association to make the big meet a greater success than ever. Horses from all parts of Canada and the United States are expected to enter.

Wrestling Classes at Purdue.

Purdue university will introduce wrestling classes as a means of developing athletic candidates. All applicants for places on teams will be asked to take part.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST—A Garnet Ring with initials on inside, an opal stud and an African beetle, between boulevard and West Quincy Depot. Return to WALSH'S Drug Store, West Quincy and receive reward. Quincy, Dec. 24-3t

LOST—Dec. 20th, about 5 P. M., Boston Terrier pup leather strap around neck; four months old. Return to 7 Alleyne Terrace. Reward. Dec. 23-6t

LOST—Between Whitney road and Bigelow street, about 6 P. M., Dec. 25th, gentleman's bag containing baby's clothes and a doll. Return and obtain reward to 6 Bigelow street. Quincy, Dec. 27 3t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—A fine double sleigh, also a set of hub runners. Address R. Ledger Office Dec. 27 3t

FOR SALE—Two second hand single sleighs, one second hand speed sleigh, one double runner pung. No reasonable offer refused. HENRY F. EMERSON 1500 Hancock s ee. Quincy, Dec. 3 3t

FOR SALE—New Top sleigh, never been used. Paint and varnish perfect. For sale cheap. DR. E. R. JOHNSON, Wollaston. Dec. 28 1-6t p 1w

FOR SALE—Single seat sleigh. Apply to B. J. TALBOT, Brown & Crowell's store, corner Water and Franklin streets. Quincy, Dec. 28 3t

TODAY'S COURT.

John W. Ferguson and Ernest M. Shay were fined $10 each, and John Massoni the costs amounting to $2.80 for selling cigarettes to minors.

James H. Hiscox was fined $10 for violation of the automobile law at Milton.

—The members of Chief Justice Cushing Chapter, D. A. R., of Scituate, who are working to have the light-house engineers repair the famous old Scituate lighthouse and keeper's house at Scituate Harbor, have received word from Congressman Lovering that the repairs will be made as soon as urgent repairs on lighthouses in active service are made. The D. A. R. chapter wanted the light put in its original condition for historical purposes. It has not been in use since Minot's light was built, but each year brings hundreds of visitors to the place.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
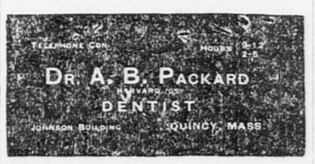
NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of
JEREMIAH SHEEHAN
late of Quincy in said County, deceased, intestate:



Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to John J. Sheehan of Somerville without giving a surety on his bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the nineteenth day of January A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day of December A. D. 1909.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.
Dec. 28 3t 28, 4, 11

(ADVERTISE.)

WANTED.

WANTED — Experienced seamstress would like work with dressmaker or would take sewing at home. Address S., Ledger Office. Quincy, Dec. 24-3t

WANTED—Young men to learn automobile business by mail and prepare for positions as chauffeurs and repair men. We make you expert in ten weeks; assist you to secure position. Pay big; work pleasant; demand for men great; reasonable; write for particulars and sample lesson. Empire Automobile Institute, Rochester, N. Y. Dec. 24 3t

TO LET

TO LET—A Tenement of 5 rooms and bath. Electric cars pass the door. Three minutes from railroad station. Apply at 109 Franklin street. Quincy, Dec. 28-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN. Dec. 21 12t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neighborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-tf

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-18t

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-tf

TO LET

Lodging Room—Furnished. Steam heat. Dargin-Merrill Block.

Tenement—Rear of Dargin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x28 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x43 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

Boys Wanted

TO SELL

Quincy Daily Ledgers

at the Quincy, Quincy Adams, and West Quincy Stations. Also at Fore River Shipyard.

Apply at LEDGER OFFICE.

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 292 QUINCY, MASS., WEDNESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 29, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

BOSTON'S OLDEST AND MOST RELIABLE

Carpet House

ESTABLISHED 1817

Rugs, Carpets, Upholstery
Lace Curtains, Wall Papers
Interior Decorations

Nearly a century of continuous business dealings with the people of New England.

John H. Pray & Sons Co

646-658 Washington St., Opp. Boylston St., Boston.

All Goods will be Delivered Free at Residences in Quincy

REPRESENTED IN QUINCY BY

Messrs. OTHO A. HAYWARD and WALTER J. WELLINGTON.

Only a Few Days Left

TO BUY YOUR

New Year's Presents

We Have Something for Father, Mother, Sister and Brother.

We have a Complete assortment of Carving Knives and Forks, Skates, Sleds, Jack Knives, Safety Razors, Razor Strops, Punching Bags, Foot Balls, Family Scales, Daisy Air Rifles, Flash Lights and Batteries, Electrical Toys for Children.

NATHAN AMES,

5 Granite Street, Quincy, Mass.

Dec. 21 tf

A GOOD CAR

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 29 tf

SANDBERG BROS.

CLEARANCE SALE

To wind up this, our banner year in business, we offer this week everything in stock at

REDUCED PRICES

It will pay you to come in and look over our stock of

WATCHES, DIAMONDS AND JEWELRY

and the prices will convince you that now is the time to invest.

We have on hand a number of FULL JEWEL WALTHAM and ROCKFORD WATCHES, slightly shop-worn, that we wish to dispose of below cost.

Sandberg Bros.

JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE

Dec. 29-1m

QUINCY HIGH MASTER WANTED IN CAMBRIDGE

L. L. Cleveland Elected Headmaster of Both High Schools in University City

Has Been Master of the Quincy High School a Little Over Two Years, Succeeding C. F. Harper.

The School Committee of Cambridge at their regular meeting on Tuesday evening unanimously elected Leslie L. Cleveland of the Quincy High school as headmaster of the High schools of that city. The Latin and English High schools of Cambridge will hereafter be under one master. The two buildings are near together and there are between 1100 and 1200 pupils, with a teaching corps of fifty or more. Frank E. Parlin, formerly of Quincy is now superintendent of schools at Cambridge.

Mr. Cleveland has been master at the Quincy High school a little over two years, having been elected June 25, 1907, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles F. Harper. He assumed the position the following September. Previous to coming to Quincy he was headmaster of the High school at Keene, N. H. He was graduated at Williams college in the class of 1893, and did graduate work at Harvard college. His early teaching was in a large private school in Pennsylvania. That he filled the position in Quincy acceptably to Supt. Parlin, recently at the head of the Quincy schools, is shown by the fact that Mr. Parlin has selected him for the more responsible position in Cambridge. Quincy regrets his going, as frequent changes are not for the best interests of the school. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland reside at Wollaston.

The salary of Mr. Cleveland at Cambridge will be $3,000 per year, and he will enter upon his duties about Jan. 31. Previous to the election of Mr. Cleveland the resignation of William F. Bradbury, headmaster of the Cambridge Latin school, was received. Mr. Bradbury has been a teacher in the Cambridge schools for more than 53 years. The board adopted a memorial to the retiring principal and elected him master emeritus. Miss Deering, who has been acting headmaster of the English High school since the resignation of Ray Greene Huling, about three years ago, was elected master of the school.

ALL BILLS ARE PAID

But School Committee Have No 1909 Balance

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening, but was of short duration.

The Superintendent of Schools, was authorized to make his annual report in print.

The committee on books and supplies reported that it had awarded the contract for coal part to J. F. Sheppard & Sons and part to William Cashman.

The resignations of Miss Florence S. Cummings, of the Quincy school; and Miss Lulu E. Payson, Master's assistant at the Willard, were received and accepted.

The following teachers were elected:

Miss Catherine Coughlin, to the Adams school.

Miss Mercedes M. O'Brien to the Coddington school.

Miss Bertha Kirmayes to the Quincy school.

Miss Elvira E. Horner to the Willard school.

Miss Lucy Atwood was transferred from the John Hancock to master's assistant at the Wilard school.

The expenditures of the department for the year were reported as follows:

APPROPRIATIONS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Appropriated by City Council | $143,960.00 |
| Received from tuition and sundries | $251.48 |
| Total | $144,211.48 |

EXPENDED.

| | |
|---|---|
| Salaries, | $113,483.30 |
| Janitors, | 9,233.33 |
| Books and sundries, | 11,423.36 |
| Fuel | 6,622.49 |
| Transportation, | 1,589.00 |
| Rent, | 360.00 |
| Evening Schools | 1,500.00 |
| Total | $144,211.48 |

All bills were reported paid.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

ELKS ELECT NEW SECRETARY

Leo J. McMasters the Successful Candidate

An important meeting of Quincy lodge of Elks was held Tuesday evening. The business included the election of a recording and financial secretary to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Edmund W. Courtney. Twelve brothers were nominated for the position at the last meeting, but all of these with the exception of three or four declined to become candidates. The election was almost a land-slide for Leo J. McMaster, the well known newspaper correspondent. He entered immediately upon the duties of the office. Several applications for membership were received, and three were elected. One candidate was also initiated into the mysteries of Elkdom. A lunch was served at the club house after the business meeting.

ALUMNI MEETING.

Ernest W. Branch of Quincy presided and was toastmaster Tuesday evening at the annual winter meeting of the Alumni association of the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University. President Branch as toastmaster welcomed the alumni to the reunion and spoke of the advance Boston University had made since its change to its present quarters on Boylston street. He paid a tribute to the ability and energy of President Huntington in promoting the development of the institution. Nearly 500 graduates were present and addresses were made by: Rev. Lucius H. Bugbee, Bishop Hamilton, Prof. W. E. Huntington, Prof. E. Charlton Black, ex-Gov. John L. Bates, Frederick W. Bliss, who spoke for the older alumni; Prof. Borden P. Downe, for the faculty; Dean William M. Warren, for the College of Liberal Arts; George Dunn and Robert A. Coan. Dinner was served at 6.30, and nearly every class of the university for the past twenty-five years was represented.

REMOVAL OF SNOW

New City Ordinance Relative to Roofs

Chief of Police Burrell is getting after the owners and occupants of buildings abutting on sidewalks who neglect to remove the snow and ice from the roofs where it is liable to fall on the sidewalk. A section governing this was added to the street ordinance this year. As it is not generally known how the section reads, Chief Burrell has had the section printed, a copy of which is being left with owners or occupants of buildings. The section reads as follows:

"The owner or person having the care of any building so located, abutting upon or near to any public street or way, that snow or ice may fall from the roof thereof into or upon such a street or way, or upon the sidewalks thereof, shall cause all snow and ice to be removed from said roof within twenty-four hours after the same shall cease falling or forming. The tenant, occupant, and in case there shall be no tenant, the owner of any store bordering on any sidewalk, shall after the ceasing to fall of any snow, if in the day time within five hours, and if in the night time, before 1 o'clock in the afternoon succeeding, cause the same to be removed therefrom."

STREET RAILWAY MEN THANKFUL

During the storm of Saturday night and Sunday some of the street car conductors and motormen became marooned at Houghs Neck. They stood a good chance of suffering from lack of food as there is nothing that resembles a hotel now open. Few residents probably gave much thought to these men who were struggling with the storm, and had it not been for Mrs. Arthur H. Dunham they would have been hard hit. Arthur, before he began to carry Uncle Sam's mail, was for many years employed on the street railway, and his good wife knew from experience just what the street railway men suffered at such times. During the thick of the storm she appeared among the snow bound railway men, like the Good Samaritan, and kept them plentifully supplied with hot coffee and sandwiches, which greatly alleviated their hard lot. It is such acts as these that smooth the rough spots in life, and the street railway boys have asked the Daily Ledger to publicly extend their thanks to Mrs. Dunham.

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT.

Daniel Morrison of Somerville, a dish washer at Hotel Greenleaf, went on the war path this morning, which ended by his grabbing a knife from the kitchen table and threatening to cut one of the ladies. It seems that Morrison was discharged this morning, and there was a dispute as to the amount of wages due. Morrison went to the police station and made complaint, and was there advised that it was a civil case, and told he had better see a lawyer. Instead of visiting a lawyer, Morrison went back to the hotel and got into an argument with the proprietor's wife, which ended by his taking a knife and threatening to do her bodily harm unless he got the money he claimed was due him. He was overpowered and turned over to the police, and arraigned in court for assult. The case however was dismissed for want of prosecution.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.

The Sunday school children of St. Mary's church had a glorious time Tuesday afternoon at their Christmas festival which was held at St. Mary's hall and attended by fully 600 children and teachers. The children sang hymns and were highly entertained by a series of moving pictures which were a delight to all. Following the entertainment boxes of candy were presented to each child. It was a grand good time for all.

Free Trial Electric Lighting

As a special inducement to the citizens of Quincy, whose homes or stores have never been wired for electric light, the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company makes the following proposition:

To all who will expend at least twenty dollars ($20) for wiring and fixtures, before January 31st, 1910, the Company will make the service connections, install meter and standard carbon filament lamps without charge, and will also FURNISH FREE twenty dollars ($20) worth of electric current . . . at regular meter rates to be used before June 30th, 1910, provided the premises can be reached from the present lines of the Company without the setting of additional poles. This concession will go far towards paying the entire cost of wiring the average house.

For further particulars telephone Quincy, 185, between the hours of 8 A. M. and 5 P. M., or fill out and mail to the Company, No. 9 Granite Street, Quincy, the attached coupon.

Quincy Electric Light & Power Company

By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.

Quincy, Mass, December 22nd, 1909.

COUPON.

QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER CO.:

Gentlemen:

I am interested in your offer of Free Trial Electric Lighting. Please have your representative call and give me full information.

Name.....

Address, No.....Street,

Date of Appointment.....Time

Dec. 22—12 t

NEW GRAND MASTER

Hartley L. White Appointed for This District

Hartley L. White a past master of Rural lodge of this city, was appointed on Tuesday as district deputy grand master of the 24th Masonic district, which includes: Rural of Quincy, Wollaston of Wollaston, Fellowship of Bridgewater, Norfolk Union of Randolph, Puritan of Whitman, John Cutler of Abington, Paul Revere of Brockton, St. George of Campello, and Satucket of East Bridgewater.

The appointment gives general satisfaction among Masons of the district, as Bro. White was one of the most efficient and popular masters of Rural lodge, and is well known among the fraternity. He has been regular in attendance at Rural lodge, and in recent years has served on the staff of former deputies of the district. He was raised in Paul Revere lodge of Brockton in 1891 when 21 years of age. About four years later he became a member of Rural lodge and was continuously in office from that time until about a year ago when he retired from the East. He served first as marshal, succeeding the late F. A. Massey, and then became senior steward and worked his way up. He is also a member of St. Stephen's chapter, R. A. Masons, and holds the office of royal arch captain.

It is about 20 years since a member of Rural lodge has served as district deputy grand master, and the lodge shares the honor with Bro. White. About 20 years ago Past Master Henry O. Fairbanks was appointed and served with credit.

In connection with the installation of officers for the grand lodge, A. F. and A. M., Tuesday afternoon in the Temple at Boston the feast of St. John the Evangelist was celebrated, and it was the 176th occasion for the observance of that great event by the craft in Massachusetts. While on the actual date, as all Free-masons know, is Dec. 27, by a law of grand lodge the celebration takes place on the Tuesday following if the day should fall on either Saturday or the two days following.

Most Worshipful Dana J. Flanders of Malden was installed for another year as grand master, and Rev. Dr. William H. Rider of Gloucester becomes deputy grand master. Grand Master Flanders announced that $133 793 had been pledged toward the Masonic Home.

MRS. MICHAEL McNEIL.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen McNeil, wife of Mr. Michael McNeil, was held this morning from her home 245 Copeland street, and was followed by a mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. William Duffy was celebrant and Mrs. J. F. Fennessey sang Pie Jesu. There were many beautiful flowers. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were: Patrick Cavanagh, Joseph Cavanagh, David Conors, Michael Batts, John Furey and Edward Drohan. Mrs. McNeil was 54 years of age and leaves a husband and one son.

—With a marked superdelicacy, the editorial writer on the Newport Express and Standard continues to refer to the "forelady" of its office. We suppose that if the occupant of the position had happened to be of the male sex he would have been a foregentleman, although the dictionary does not admit there is such a word any more than forelady. Why not refer to the distinguished person as forewoman, in contradistinction to foreman? Still ,this "forelady" is The Express and Standard's, to do with as it and she may please.—Barre Times.

Pung For Sale

as good as new with Shafts and Pole. Double Runners.

GEORGE H. WILSON,
1453 Hancock St., Quincy.

Dec. 29 4t

YOUR MILK SUPPLY

is uncertain during the winter. The milkmen are delayed by storm aad you are not sure of receiving fresh milk. We list below several articles that will provide for such emergencies, and do away with the milk problem for all time.

Van Camp's Evaporated Milk 9c. can, 3 for 25c
Borden's Peerless Milk 6 cans for 25c
Tip Top and Rose Brands Condensed Milk can 11c
Blue Cross Condensed Milk can 10c
Eagle Condensed Milk can 15c

Use any of these with our Quality Coffee, 30c. lb.

PROMPT ATTENTION TO Telephone Orders No. 367-3

RE-FOY & CO
COR WATER AND QUINCY STS.
QUINCY ADAMS

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 6.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gregg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

In 1850.

BRIEFS

The sleighing is improving.

Several of the churches will hold watch parties Friday night.

Among the many houses built by W. R. Lofgren, the well known contractor and architect, one of the most attractive has recently been completed by him for G. B. Thomas and daughter of Mechanic street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Osborne of Bigelow street attended today at Chelmsford the wedding of Miss Roberta H. Greenleaf and Mr. Alfred S. Levi. Miss Greenleaf is a niece of Mrs. Osborne, and the daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Charles H. Greenleaf formerly of Edwards street, Quincy. Mr. and Mrs. Levi will reside in Rockaway, N. J., where Mr. Levi is in business.

—A department store of Springfield took eight pages of the Springfield Union last week to print its holiday bulletin, said to have been the largest "ad" ever printed in a newspaper.

—W. E. Tillinghast reports a wonderful feat of flying with his monoplane, but as it was done at night, with no other witnesses, it will have to be confirmed, or repeated in the day time, to receive absolute credence. There are many from Missouri who have to be shown, and all North Pole discoverers and aviators are finding out that personal statements of wonderful things done when no one else was around are viewed with suspicion.

Colds Cause Headache

LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine, the world wide Cold and Grip remedy removes cause. Call for full name. Look for signature E.W. GROVE,25c

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1478 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

Red Cross Stamps
On New Years Letters
Carry Good Cheer

Start the New Year Right
by having your Clothes Pressed and Repaired at the
Little Store
Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.
J. NATHAN
14 GRANITE STREET.
Dec. 14—1m.

READ LEDGER ADS.

SWINDLING OF INDIANS

Carried on In an Extensive Manner, According to Professor Moorehead

Boston, Dec. 29.—Revelations of swindling by wholesale by which the Ojibwa Indians of Minnesota were defrauded of more than $5,000,000 were made in a paper read at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Professor Warren K. Moorehead.

"Indian Joe Broad," said Moorehead, "was told that he should have gold teeth. He paid $200 to a man who claimed to be a dentist, but who was said to be a horse doctor. He hammered twenty-nine brass crowns on Joe's teeth. Most of Joe's teeth came out and he nearly died of blood poisoning two months later."

Professor Moorehead said that land sharks visited the Indian schools, induced children to sign their names to see how well they could write, and then later it would be found that they had signed mortgages or deeds.

RIVAL PANAMA CANAL

Wall Street Money Said to Be Behind a Sea Level Scheme

New Orleans, Dec. 29.—Passengers arriving from Colon declare a corporation backed by Wall street money and known as the Mandingo Darien company has been organized to dig an air line sea level canal across Panama, fifty miles below the big United States ditch.

The Colon representative of the company is Captain Bonneville of Newport News. He asserts his corporation is assured a sea level canal, twenty-nine miles in length, can be constructed for $80,000,000. This amount has been pledged. Work on the new canal will be begun early in the year.

Captain Bonneville is quoted as declaring he agrees with Admiral Evans that the United States canal can never be successfully operated.

CHANGE REGARDED AS UNDESIRABLE

Lodge Will Not Be Made Ambassador to Great Britain

Washington, Dec. 29.—The denial that Senator Lodge is a candidate for or is being considered for appointment as ambassador to Great Britain to succeed Whitelaw Reid is again made by the senior senator.

Should President Taft desire to make the nomination he would be told by many Massachusetts men that Lodge could not be retired from activity in Massachusetts politics without detriment to the Republican party there; secondly, Lodge soon will be called upon to fight more or less vigorously for re-election, and he would not incur the inevitable charge of evading that issue by leaving the country; thirdly, no ambassadorship compares in attractiveness and power with the position of a senior United States senator.

This has been the situation encompassing the Lodge rumor for months and will continue.

MAY ISSUE SECOND REPORT

Danish Commission Says Cook's Data Showed Loose Calculations

Copenhagen, Dec. 29.—The special committee of Copenhagen university which investigated Dr. Frederick A. Cook's polar records is now considering whether or not it will publish a second report, giving further details of its work. If the committee should decide to do so it will issue the report about the middle of January.

A member of the committee says that some of the details of Cook's narrative of his expedition were fabricated and his papers showed that he had used calculations furnished by Captain Loose. The second report, he says, will present evidence to that effect.

NOT LOOKING FOR CUP

One Awarded to Wilbur Wright Was Never Formally Claimed

Dayton, O., Dec. 29.—The Wright brothers announce that they will not again contest for the Michelin cup awarded in France to Wilbur Wright over a year ago for the record long distance flight in an aeroplane.

Orville Wright says that for some time the Wrights will make no flights at all. When they begin again it will be in Florida.

The Michelin cup was never formally claimed by Wilbur Wright and is not in his possession.

Steamer and Crew Given Up For Lost

Hamburg, Dec. 29.—Steamship Capua, with her crew of twenty-three, is given up as lost. She was a freighter and sailed from Hamburg for Genoa on Dec. 1. The last seen of her was on Dec. 3.

Fourteen-Year-Old Suicide

Toledo, O., Dec. 29.—Sent to the cellar because he refused to get his mother a pail of water, Herman Miller, aged 14, hanged himself.

The Weather

Almanac, Thursday, Dec. 30.
Sun rises—7:13; sets—4:20.
Moon rises—8:22 p. m.
High water—1:45 a. m.; 1:45 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Generally fair; light to moderate variable winds, becoming west.

MADRIZ NAMES PEACE TERMS

Call For Rebels' Recognition of His Government

ESTRADA DECLINES TO YIELD

Denies Assembly's Right to Deal With Election of President, Whom He Calls Usurper of People's Rights—Admiral Kimball Makes Call on Madriz—Dispels Idea That It Means Recognition by Uncle Sam

Washington, Dec. 29.—General Estrada, the revolutionary leader in Nicaragua, will not accept the extraordinary terms proposed by the new president, Madriz, as a basis for peace. A telegram from Bluefields states that Madriz had proposed, in a telegram to Estrada, a suspension of hostilities pending the arrival of a committee which he was sending to Estrada, to discuss an equitable settlement of the present strife.

General Estrada in his reply expressed his willingness to meet the Madriz commissioners, but said that the revolutionary party would not recognize the action of the legislative assembly in placing power in the hands of Madriz. He denied emphatically the assembly's right to deal with the election of president, and stated that he saw in Madriz the usurper of the rights of the Nicaraguan people.

The terms upon which Madriz is willing to make peace, it is said, expressed his desire for peace without further bloodshed, that the revolutionists should recognize his government, and that after such recognition both armies should be disbanded, all arms and ammunition being turned over to him. He stated that he would recognize the debts and contracts of the revolutionists and that within six months he would look for the holding of an election and would turn over his power to the person elected.

It is not doubted here that Estrada's known astuteness will prevent him from accepting terms of peace, predicated upon the prior surrender by him of his army, arms and ammunition to his enemy. Therefore, it is not believed that the conference between Estrada and the Madriz commissioners will result in any change in the present status.

Rear Admiral Kimball, in command of the American warships at Corinto, arrived at Managua on a special train. The admiral was accompanied by Secretary Wietzel of the American legation at Panama and two naval aides. The American officers were in uniform, and the object of Kimball for the visit was to pay an unofficial call on President Madriz. A great crowd gathered at the station and gave them a cordial greeting. Several American flags were displayed, and although there was no demonstration, considerable excitement prevailed.

It was rumored that the visit might mean the recognition of President Madriz by the United States. Kimball, however, was emphatic in his assertion that he called on the president in his private capacity. He refused to permit the gorgeously uniformed aide, whom Madriz sent, to ride on the box of the presidential carriage.

President Madriz, as a private citizen, returned Kimball's call. Emissaries from the various parties were closeted with Kimball, who also had a long conference with David Arellano, the representative of the Conservatives of Granada.

Zelaya Says He Is Free

Cordoba, Mex., Dec. 29.—Jose S. Zelaya, formerly president of Nicaragua, denies that he is a prisoner in the hands of the Mexican officers.

He was asked whether, in giving him a refuge, the Mexican government accepted responsibility for his person and in doing so looked upon him as a prisoner.

He said emphatically that such was not the case and that he was free to go where he chose. He may go to Belgium to live.

"MUSICAL BARBARIANS"

Opinion of Americans as Expressed by Head of Northwestern University

Chicago, Dec. 29.—"The American people are musical barbarians, and the function of the American musician is to civilize the people."

This declaration by President Harris of Northwestern university was the keynote of the thirty-first annual convention of the Music Teachers' National association, which met here.

Great Theft Is Charged

London, Dec. 29.—The wholesale theft of wireless plans, models and sketches, which in the hands of an expert would reveal all the workings and innermost secrets of the wireless service of the British navy, is charged against Richard Knowlden, who was placed on trial here.

Ballet Girls to Get More Pay

Paris, Dec. 29.—A brief strike of the dancers in the opera ballet was ended by the promise of the directors to meet the majority of the claims set up by the women, who say that they receive only from $20 to $25 a month—"just enough to buy our shoes," they add.

FOOD FOR GOSSIPS

Revere Man Weds Woman Who Was Looked Upon as His Daughter

Revere, Mass., Dec. 29.—There was great surprise manifested in Beachmont when a prominent resident of that district became the husband of a young woman who for years had been looked upon by friends and acquaintances as his daughter.

The groom is William H. Chadwick, aged 60, a retired carriage manufacturer, and the bride Miss Lina V. Chadwick, aged 35, who for thirty years had resided in the family—looked upon by all as his child by his first wife. The death of the latter occurred but two years ago and Miss Chadwick has served as housekeeper since that time.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Israel Ainsworth of the Trinity Congregational church.

The couple left last night on their honeymoon, which will be spent in Florida.

THE BOSTON CAMPAIGN

Four Candidates For Mayor Resolve to Remain In the Field

Boston, Dec. 29.—The names of twenty-five candidates eligible to go on the municipal ballot for mayor, school board and city council are announced by the election commissioners. There are four candidates for mayor, two for the school board and nineteen for the council. There is to be only one member of the school board elected and nine members of the council.

Candidates had only until 5 o'clock last evening to resign. All eyes were on the quartet of mayoralty candidates to see if any of them might be prevailed upon to get out of the race, but all have determined to remain in the field. The candidates for mayor are George A. Hibbard, John F. Fitzgerald, James J. Storrow and Nathaniel H. Taylor.

ROBBER SLASHES OLD MAN'S THROAT

Scared Off by Screams From Wife of His Victim

East Douglas, Mass., Dec. 29.—Charles Potter, 77 years old, was seriously wounded by a young robber who, apparently exhausted by fighting the drifts of snow, had asked for shelter at the Potter home and was warming himself at the stove when Mrs. Potter left the room.

She returned a few minutes later to see her husband on the floor, the would-be murderer pinioning him down and making wild slashes at the throat of the old man.

Mrs. Potter screamed and the thug, after making another desperate lunge with his knife, jumped up and rushed out of the house. The final thrust cut Potter's windpipe and the loss of blood and shock was so severe that he is hardly expected to live.

A few hours later Peter Manito, aged 18, was captured in Sutton. Potter has the reputation of being wealthy and of having large sums of money in his house.

GENERAL STRIKE FEARED

Switchmen and Western Roads Fail to Reach an Agreement

St. Paul, Dec. 29.—The controversy between the railroads of the northwest and the striking switchmen is not at an end. Not only have the switchmen declared all negotiations with the railroads at an end, but the labor leaders say that there is a strong possibility of a general strike by all of the allied orders belonging to the railway branch of the American Federation of Labor.

H. B. Perham, who has been acting as chairman of the railway council of the Federation, in session at St. Paul, has started for Washington, where he will seek the aid of federal officers.

STARTED TO MAKE WILL

Death Overtook "Little Tim" Sullivan Before Document Was Signed

New York, Dec. 29.—"Little Tim" Sullivan, alderman and political leader, who died recently, left an estate valued at approximately $500,000, according to the estimates of friends, but continued search has failed to reveal any will.

During his ill health several months ago "Litte Tim" started to make a will, but never signed it.

New York to Lose Famous Building

New York, Dec. 29.—Madison Square Garden, erected at a cost of $3,000,000, has been sold to a real estate syndicate and will be torn down and replaced by a modern office building, according to a report in realty circles.

New Wireless Record by Land

New Orleans, Dec. 29.—The long distance wireless record by land was established when the wireless station here picked up a message passing between New York and Chicago. The distance is estimated at 1300 miles.

Five Deaths In Train Collision

Seymour, Ind., Dec. 29.—Five trainmen were killed and two were fatally hurt in a head-on freight train collision near Fort Ritner. The trains met on a sharp curve, apparently because of misunderstanding of orders.

CAUGHT THE MOOD.

The Incident That Helped Verdi With His "Miserere."

Men of genius are confessedly creatures of mood. Grief and adversity have often been a real help to them rather than a hindrance. Poe, it is said, produced "The Raven" while sitting at the bedside of his sleeping but dying wife. Many similar instances might be cited, but an anecdote of Verdi, told by Carlo Ceccarelli, will suffice.

On one occasion when Verdi was engaged on his well known opera, "Il Trovatore," he stopped short at the passage of the "Miserere," being at a loss to combine notes of sufficient sadness and pathos to express the grief of the prisoner, Manrico.

Sitting at his piano in the deep stillness of the winter night, his imagination wandered back to the stormy days of his youth, endeavoring to extract from the past a plaint, a groan, like those which escaped from his breast when he saw himself forsaken by the world. All in vain!

One day at Milan he was unexpectedly called to the bedside of a dying friend, one of the few who had remained faithful to him in adversity and prosperity. Verdi at the sight of his dying friend felt a lump rise in his throat. He wanted to weep, but so intense was his grief that not a tear flowed to the relief of his anguish.

In an adjoining room stood a piano. Verdi, under one of those sudden impulses to which men of genius are sometimes subject, sat down at the instrument and there and then improvised the sublime "Miserere" of the "Trovatore." The musician had given utterance to his grief.

QUEER JEWELRY.

Telegraph Wire Necklaces and Insulators as Earrings.

The aesthetic and decorative uses to which barbarians will turn objects which to civilized races are things of the humblest utility are amusingly illustrated by this "fashion note" from West Africa taken from an Italian newspaper:

For some time the officials of the German colony in Southwest Africa noticed that the telegraph wires and other accessories of the electrical plant disappeared as by magic immediately after they had been put up. The most diligent inquiries remained fruitless.

From other parts of the German possessions came reports of strange predilections for articles of German commerce, as, for example, rubber heels, garters, buckles, and so forth, things which the natives of those countries do not generally use.

The governor of the colony gave an entertainment one year in honor of the emperor's birthday and invited the chiefs of the different tribes to it. What was his surprise when he saw these native gentlemen appear with his stolen telegraph wires twisted round their illustrious necks. The higher the dignity the more rings of the wire were round the neck.

Inquiries were soon started in the outlying villages, and it came to light that the white china insulators of the telegraph poles had become earrings. A young lady of the highest distinction in native society wore a rubber heel hanging from her nose, and a young man who was a well known dandy wore dangling from his ears a pair of beautiful pink silk garters.

A Soldier's Beginnings.

We were visiting at Sandringham. Sir Evelyn Wood, who is very deaf, crept up as near as he could to the musicians, and in one of the pauses he said to me, "Are you fond of music?" I answered, "Yes." "Do you play anything?" I said, "No." "Well," he went on, "I am so fond of it that, would you believe it, I began to practice scales at twenty-four. But one day my sister came up and put her hand on my shoulder and said, 'My dear boy, you had better give that up,' and so I did." He also told me that he began life as a sailor, then went to the bar and finally entered the army. The only profession he had not tried was the church, and his enemies say he would have tried that, only he did not know what church to choose.—"Life of Sir William Broadbent."

The Falling Branch.

In the grounds of Dalhousie castle, Scotland, is said to be a famous example of the sympathy of the vegetable world with human death. It was anciently believed in the neighborhood that a branch always fell from this oak when a member of the family died. Apparently the fall of the original tree early in the eighteenth century did not break the sympathy, for a new one sprang from the old root, and it is upon record that as lately as 1874 an old forester, seeing a branch fall from this on a still day, cried, "The laird's deed noo!" News of the eleventh Earl of Dalhousie's death soon followed.

Straightforward.

He—You mustn't believe every beggar who comes to your door. She—But this was no common beggar. He was a sea captain who had lost everything in a shipwreck. He—How do you know he was? She—He told a straightforward story about how his ship went to pieces on the coast of Switzerland.

The Higher Criticism.

The Clergyman—But, my friend, why make use of such abominable oaths? The Motorcyclist—Abominable! Do you know any better ones?—Harper's Weekly.

The desire of appearing clever often prevents one becoming so.—Rochefoucauld.

W. T. ARNOLD'S NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES CLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

? ? ? ?

You Can Get Good Coal
You Can Get Poor Coal
It's your business and right to protect yourself.
It's your business and right to investigate.
SEARCHLIGHT US!
'Phone
238-3
288-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.
Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

LLOYD'S OPERA GLASSES
Just Arrived from France
OUR ANNUAL IMPORTATION OF BEAUTIFULLY SELECTED
OPERA GLASSES
In a very large variety of Shapes, Styles, Sizes, Materials and Colors.
FROM $3.50 TO $55.00
Please send for Opera Class Catalogue
ANDREW J. LLOYD CO.
75 Summer St.
315 Washington St. 310 Boylston St. Boston and
1252 Massachusetts Ave. Cambridge

REAL ESTATE For Sale?
Advertise in The Ledger.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday Dec. 27, | 11.30 | 12.00 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.45 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.30 | 2.45 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Recognized the Disorder.

"Why does the baby cry so? Is he sick?"

"No; I think not."

"What is the matter with him, then?"

"Just a slight outbreaking of his father's disposition," replied the mother sweetly.

BRIEFS

But two more days of the year 1909.

Old Colony league bowling tonight.

Coldest morning of the season, 6 to 8 above zero.

Pickwick club observes its thirty-seventh anniversary on January 5th.

Cochato club of Braintree has a social dance on Friday evening, the sixth entertainment in its series for the winter.

"The religion of Robert Louis Stevenson" is the subject for the Sunday evening meeting of the Young People's Religious union of First church. Rev. George H. Reed will be the speaker and there will be special music by the Misses Packard.

B. J. Loring of East Braintree completed his twenty-first year of service with the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Dec. 28, 1909. In honor of the occasion he was presented with an elegant seal traveling bag by his associates in the office with their best wishes that he may yet remain with them a long time to come. The presentation was made by C. C. Carstens, general agent and secretary of the society.

Vagaries of a Cold.—You can never be quite sure where a cold is going to hit you. In the fall and winter it may settle in the bowels, producing severe pain. Do not be alarmed nor torment yourself with fears of appendicitis. At the first sign of a cramp take Perry Davis' Painkiller in warm, sweetened water and relief comes at once. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to New Years

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth QUINCY MASS. TRADE MARK REGISTERED

"STATEMENT IS NOT TRUE"

Garfield Denies Going Counter to His Acts as Secretary

AFTER BALLINGER'S FRIENDS

Former Head of Interior Department Says Language Used In Referring to Alaska Coal Bills Has Been Misquoted—How Higher Price Could Have Been Obtained Under Certain Specified Conditions

New York, Dec. 29.—James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, has taken a hand in the Ballinger-Pinchot row and given the lie to his own assailants who are aligned with the Ballinger forces.

"It has been alleged that I have gone counter to what I did as secretary of the interior," he said in a formal statement. "That statement is not true; it is based upon partial and hence wholly misleading quotations from my address and from my official reports.

"There were two distinct propositions before congress in the spring of 1908. One had to do with the coal situation in Alaska alone, the other with the general coal conditions on all public lands. When using the language commented upon I distinctly made reference to the Alaska coal bills and not to the general coal bill."

Of the famous Cunningham cases he says: "In these casese over 5000 acres is claimed. Hence those claimants would have released or conveyed to the United States over 2500 acres of immensely valuable coal and over 4300 acres of surface, and would have paid the government a price many times $10 or more for whatever coal and surface they obtained."

In his statement Garfield outlined the steps by which this higher price could have been obtained, and says: "In short, we were willing to proviso the coal land laws and give the relief needed to clear away existing difficulties of administration and litigation, but only on condition that the government receive the real value of the coal and surface, that monopoly was prevented, waste checked and the needs of the future as well as the present cared for."

The chief purpose of the Alaska bills was to increase the area which could be taken up and consolidated in Alaska in a single claim. He says: "As to those bills—I opposed the provision that would have validated illegal or fraudulent claims and so reported to the committee of congress."

WEDDED IN TAXICAB

Groom Had Collapsed, but Would Not postpone the Ceremony

New York, Dec. 29.—C. H. Smith, a convalescent patient at Bellevue hospital, and Mrs. L. R. Rotzell were married in a taxicab in the courtyard of the hospital, while witnesses and the officiating clergyman were all crowded in and about the vehicle. Bridesmaids alone were missing.

The odd ceremony was made necessary when Smith collapsed in the cab after a trip to the city hall for a marriage license. Despite his weakened condition it was decided to perform the ceremony with the bride and groom seated in the vehicle.

The honeymoon trip consisted of a journey from the hospital to his residence with his wife acting as nurse.

BURIED IN ONE GRAVE

Funeral of Young Man and Woman Who Were Killed by Gas

Boston, Dec. 29.—Annie C. Flyg and Eric Hensen-Hustberg, the young couple who were accidentally killed by gas Christmas morning at 59 Elmo street, were buried in the same grave in Forest Hills cemetery yesterday afternoon.

A few relatives and close friends of the couple, who were soon to have been married, were present in the little chapel of the cemetery when the two caskets, alike in every particular and banked on all sides by flowers, were placed in the main aisle. Rev. C. F. Johannson of the Swedish Lutheran church read the burial service.

Midshipman Must Quit Academy

Washington, Dec. 29.—Midshipman R. W. Bragg of the first district of Maine was ordered to be dismissed from the naval academy for excess of demerits growing out of his unsatisfactory conduct. He was appointed to the academy in 1906.

Fire Destroys Business Block

Portland, Me., Dec. 29.—A loss of $50,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed the principal business block at Freeport. The building contained a hotel, the office of Town Clerk Mitchell and six stores.

Would Give Mayor Two Years

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 29.—The city council adopted an order to petition the legislature of 1910 to amend the city charter so that the mayor's term shall be two years instead of one.

Money For King Albert

Brussels, Dec. 29.—Parliament yesterday voted an annual allocation of $660,000 to King Albert.

LOSES THREE FINGERS

Principal Injury to Lineman Who Received Over Two Thousand Volts

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 29.—Larry Chisholm, a lineman, had the unusual experience of having 2000 volts of electricity pass through his body and living to tell about it.

Chisholm was working on a tangle of wires in the south part of the city when one of them came in contact with the street railway wires. Chisholm was hurled from the pole on which he was working to the ground, twenty feet below.

His companion rushed to him, expecting to find him dead. When it was found that he still breathed he was rushed to a hospital and physicians revived him.

Three fingers on Chisholm's right hand were burned practically off and it was only on that account that he was able to let go the wire in time to save his life.

IN DOUBLE CONSPIRACY

Accusation Against Peers In Churchill's Address to Electors

London, Dec. 29.—After a brief Christmas truce, the election campaign has been resumed with renewed vigor. Winston S. Churchill, president of the board of trade, has issued a long address to the Dundee electors, in which he says:

"The forces of reaction are out for a double event. They are gambling with the rights and freedom of the nation and they are running a tremendous risk to win a tremendous prize. That prize is no less than the complete tieing up of the democracy, both through its politics and its industry."

Churchill does not mention the government's Irish policy or the other planks in its platform, but concentrates his whole attention upon warning the electors against the peers' conspiracy to secure the house of lords' veto and the protectionist system.

STRANGE EXPERIENCE OF SENATOR GORDON

Once Hunted In Connection With Lincoln's Death

Memphis, Dec. 29.—The News-Scimitar says:

"Sought at one time by the federal authorities under a $10,000 reward for his capture, dead or alive, for his alleged part in the conspiracy that resulted in the murder of a president of the United States, and now appointed as a member of the highest legislative body of that country, is the strange experience of Colonel James Gordon, who has been named senator by Governor Noel of Mississippi, as successor to the late Senator McLaurin.

"Gordon was one of several Confederate leaders suspected of being in conspiracy with J. W. Booth to kill President Lincoln. He escaped arrest and probably death only by the intervention, it is stated, of a Yankee colonel, with whom he had crossed swords in a fight in Virginia.

"Both were wounded in the conflict, but they afterward became fast friends. After the assassination of Lincoln, Gordon went to Canada. However, he wrote a letter to the officer friend that he desired to return home.

"The former foe took the matter up with General Dicks, then in command of the army forces in New York, and the latter sent him a passport and an invitation to come to New York and surrender, which he did. He afterwards satisfied Dicks that he knew nothing of the Lincoln conspiracy.

"He took the oath of alliegance and returned to his home in Chickasaw county, where he has since resided."

BERNARD BAIL INSANE

Freight Traffic Expert's Breakdown Probably Due to Overwork

Philadelphia, Dec. 29.—Bernard H. Bail, second vice president of the Philadelphia and Reading, suddenly went insane in his office in the Reading terminal building here. He was overcome after a struggle and taken to an asylum.

Mr. Bail was regarded as one of the greatest experts on freight traffic in the country, and it is believed that overwork as general freight traffic manager caused his mental breakdown.

Taft Working on His Message

Washington, Dec. 29.—President Taft discussed with members of his cabinet yesterday the final details of the special message he will send to congress next week dealing with proposed amendments to the interstate commerce and Sherman anti-trust laws, and then began work on the document.

A Husband's Tardy Discovery

New York, Dec. 29.—A claim that his wife has negro blood is the basis of a suit for annulment of marriage brought by W. S. Horton, a prosperous plumber here. Justice Seabury of the supreme court appointed a commission to take testimony from the woman's relatives in Connecticut.

Paris to Contract $180,000,000 Loan

Paris, Dec. 29.—The chamber of deputies voted authorization to the Paris municipality to contract for a loan of $180,000,000 for an elaborate scheme of improvements.

DAVIS PALMER WRECK LOCATED

Big Schooner Had Almost Reached Her Destination

HULL EIGHT FATHOMS DEEP

Indications That She Was Headed Out to Sea to Escape Dangerous Shoals When Disaster Occurred—No Trace of Captain and Crew, Who May Have Lashed Themselves to Masts and Sunk With Ship

Boston, Dec. 29.—After two days searching the waters of Boston harbor and Massachusetts bay, yesterday the wreck of the sunken five-masted schooner Davis Palmer was located.

The hulk lies in Broad sound at the point of intersection of two imaginary lines drawn from the Graves light to Grover's Cliff, Winthrop, and from Deer island to Nahant.

Almost entirely submerged in eight fathoms of water, the wreck is directly in the path of large vessels and a serious menace to navigation.

No trace of the crew of the vessel, however, was disclosed by the finding of the wreck. The fate of Captain McKown and his crew of eleven men is still as great a mystery as if the vessel had drifted out to sea.

The Davis Palmer is lying on her starboard side, with but about ten feet of the topmasts sticking out of the water. The vessel was headed for the open sea.

Her five masts were lying at an angle of about twenty degrees to the water, and when their ninety-foot height is taken into consideration, she appeared to be in deep water. Soundings showed the water to be eight fathoms, or about forty-eight feet, deep. Lying on the water on the port side of the vessel were five booms, their jaws torn from the masts. Two of the booms had set sails attached, while the other three showed that the sails had been furled. Four gaffs were also lying on the surface of the water, and were prevented from drifting by the ropes attached. The five crosstrees of the masts could barely be seen sticking out of the water. Of the five masts the jiggermast appeared to have been broken off.

Repeatedly a tug circled the vessel, going as close as safety would permit, in search for some sign of the crew of the vessel. A boat hook was sent down to a depth of twenty feet while the tug was standing directly over the vessel's hull, but nothing disturbed the solemn stillness but the slight ripple of the tide ebbing past the masts.

That the Palmer was headed out to sea was judged by the slant of the masts toward land. No other clue was to be found that would indicate the vessel's position. The depth of the water made it impossible to determine whether or not the anchor chains were still out.

With nothing but conjecture to work upon, mariners advance three reasons why the vessel was wrecked. One was that she foundered while at anchor, another was that she struck on the ledge of the Outer Graves, and the other was that with thirty feet draft the rise and fall of the heavy sea caused her to knock a hole in her bottom where she lies sunk by striking on the bottom of the harbor.

Captain Sparrow of the Hull crew of lifesavers advances the theory that the members of the crew were lashed to the masts of the vessel and had sunk with it. Seeing their vessel pounded to pieces in a sea so angry that launching a boat was impossible, the crew, he believes, lashed themselves to the masts and met their deaths.

Within a radius of three or four miles of the sunken vessel the wreckage is scattered about profusely. Spars, stairs and smaller debris litter the sea.

DREYFUS IN STREET ROW

No Damage When He Engages In Fisticuffs With a Royalist

Paris, Dec. 29.—Major Alfred Dreyfus, who is now attached to the staff of General Dalstein, military governor of Paris, and M. Boerner, a royalist, met in the street yesterday and indulged in a violent altercation, culminating in an exchange of blows.

No injury was done on either side, and the police did not deem it necessary to intervene.

Actor's Wife Gets Divorce

New York, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Alice V. McAloon obtained an interlocutory decree of absolute divorce from William A. McAloon, who is known on the stage as Andrew Mack. The decree granted to the wife the custody of their only son.

Price of Hogs at Top Notch

Kansas City, Dec. 29.—Hogs brought the unusual price of $8.60 on the Kansas City market yesterday. This is the highest mark attained here since 1882. Receipts were heavy. Packers do not explain the increase in price.

Turkish Cabinet Gets Out

Constantinople, Dec. 29.—The whole Turkish cabinet resigned last evening, following the resignation of Hilmi Pacha, the grand vizier.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Captain "Bob," Peary's Intrepid Skipper, Interests Hubbites—Suffragists Get Report of Progress from Washington—A Real Live Monkey Makes a Monkey of Himself for Sick Tots' Benefits—A Forty Dollar Frame around a Thousand Dollar Check.

A check for one thousand dollars would look sufficiently alluring in its rude form to most of us, but the clerical-collared man who ordered a forty dollar shadow box to be fitted over a gold frame 8 inches long and 3 high, and then produced a check for $1,000 to be put in the frame, very nearly caused the dealer to lose his equilibrium. "I often have checks to frame," he remarked, "but I never before saw a man who was willing to pay $40 to make a $1,000 gift attractive."

A noticeable increase in the numbers of elderly people and young children in the city was evident in the few days preceding Christmas. Thousands of visitors were here for the holidays, many evidently for the first time, and one meets a number of them being lovingly piloted through the mazes of the Hub, above ground and below ground, by relatives and friends. Perhaps the most interesting incident in a day's shopping was to come upon a couple of children from a quiet country village who had never seen an establishment larger than their post office and general emporium, consisting of one room and shed, and who found themselves suddenly plumped down in the middle of one of our big department stores. Aladdin's lamp never produced any more stupendous spectacle than this in the eyes of the two little ones who clung, awe-struck and speechless, to the hands of their city cousin.

Nearly every man makes a monkey of himself when he plays Santa Claus but it remained for William Morris to make a monkey make a man of himself at the same game. On the morning of Dec. 22 the little tots in the Children's Hospital were visited by Consul, the man-monkey who steered his big automobile laden with toys and Christmas goodies up Huntington avenue and stopped before the entrance to the hospital. Within the institution rows of white cots, each with an eager eyed child watching for Santa, were in immaculate readiness for the welcome guest. Consul distributed his load of toys impartially, and then entertained the children for a few minutes with his inimitable feats and mannish tricks, and after a little left the sick ones happy and laughing as he marched importantly down the wide steps to his auto. Here, his little plug hat set rakishly on his head, he again took command of the big car and surrounded by an admiring crowd made his way back to report to Mr. Morris. On Thursday and Friday he visited other institutions for suffering or orphaned children, always leaving a happy crowd after his departure. On the whole, he was rather more successful at the Santa Claus game than the majority of men would have been.

Score another point for Bay State women in their campaign for justice and equality for their sex. At their instigation the American Embassy at London has been requested by President Taft to inquire into the prison treatment of Miss Alice Paul, the American girl who participated in a suffrage uprising resulting in her imprisonment in London. This action on the part of the executive was due to a telegram sent him by officers of the Msasachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, petitioning him to act in Miss Paul's behalf. The complaint was that Miss Paul, who had taken part in a political demonstration and should have been treated accordingly, was sentenced to one month's hard labor as a common criminal. The Presidential decision was communicated to Mrs. Mary Hutcheson Page, President of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, in a letter from Huntington Wilson, Assistant Secretary of State, and the suffragists at the Boylston Street headquarters are waiting impatiently the results of the investigation. Mr. Wilson's letter was as follows:

"The Department has received, through reference from the White House, your letter to the President, wherein you urge action by this government in the matter of the imprisonment in London of Miss Alice Paul of Philadelphia.

"In reply you are advised that the case of Miss Paul has not been reported to the department either by the American Embassy or the Consulate-General at London.

"From the statements in the public press it appears that Miss Paul, in company with Miss Amelia Brown, was a participant in the act of throwing stones through the windows of Guildhall; and it would seem that they were convicted on a charge of destruction of property. On the facts so far as they appear, no ground for diplomatic protest against the sentence is seen. With respect to the treatment to which Miss Paul is said to have been subjected by the prison authorities, the embassy at London has been asked to report."

Captain "Bob" Bartlett, skipper of the Roosevelt, is probably the most interesting figure in Boston's midst at present. Since his debut at a dinner given in his honor at the Exchange Club by Rep. Norman H. White of Brookline, a few days ago, he has been one of the most sought after men in this vicinity. Captain Bartlett on this occasion gave an interesting address illustrated by stereopticon pictures of the course followed by Commander Peary in his dash to the Pole, and made a marked impression with his simple, manly narrative. The Twentieth Century Club was equally delighted with the "furthest north Britisher" when he gave a lecture at a luncheon tendered him last Saturday. He has become the lion of the hour in the eyes of the few ladies who have had the opportunity of meeting him, and is exceedingly popular with men. Several out of town clubs are negotiating for dates on which the Captain may appear before their townspeople and tell them the story of the world famous trip. An ambition to which he pleads guilty is that of conducting an expedition to the South Pole, which he feels sure he could reach after his experience with Peary. That Commander Peary has a staunch friend and great admirer in the Newfoundland sea captain there is no room for doubt after a little conversation with him, as he denies that Peary is brusque and peremptory, and says he is always considerate, giving his commands as requests and otherwise showing the characteristics of a born leader. As for Captain "Bob" himself, he is good to look at—rugged, strong-featured, clean-cut, and much less weather-beaten than one would expect—and equally good to listen to as he tells his story unostentatiously, modestly discounting the large share he himself had in the great undertaking. He does deny, however, that he "cried like a baby" when Commander Peary sent him back at the 88th parallel. He explains that this was all understood beforehand, as for the safety of all concerned it was necessary that he, as the expert navigator, should go back and "knit up the trail"—that is, indicate the course to be followed where the ice floes had shifted—in order that no time should be lost on the return trip. He did, to be sure, follow Peary for five miles, but only to be sure that he had crossed the 88th parallel. Many Bostonians are wondering if it will not be possible to persuade the Captain to give up his project of returning to Newfoundland about March first where he is under contract to command one of the ships of the sealing fleet, in favor of an extended lecture tour.

Ethel Angier.

A DOE'S STRATAGEM.

Threw the Dogs Off the Scent and Saved Her Fawn.

The following anecdote is related by M. X. Raspail. It is worthy of comparison with the most remarkable of instances of the same kind:

The author one day perceived a doe in full flight before two dogs in the Aigle woods that form a part of the forest of Chantilly. The doe was accompanied by a very young fawn, which appeared quite exhaused and ready to drop. The mother, doubtless well aware of this, slackened her pace and presently stopped close to some thick bramble bushes. She remained some time there with lowered head as if awaiting the onset of her pursuers.

Suddenly an idea seemed to strike her, and with a butt of the head she tossed her fawn right into the middle of the thicket. Then, first advancing gently as if to make sure it was well hidden, she soon set off by rapid bounds in front of the dogs. The latter barking close upon her heels, she made a sudden bend and thus drew them far from the spot where this incident occurred. The howling of the dogs became fainter and fainter, the valiant animal having doubtless led them two kilometers away into the Canardiere peat bogs, where the dogs often lose the scent.

In fact, later they were seen returning to the village in an exhausted condition, while the intelligent mother doubtless returned to the bushes to find the little fawn she had so cleverly hidden and placed in safety.—Vulgarisation Scientifique.

When Matches Were Introduced.

The Atlas, a London newspaper, published on Jan. 10, 1830, the following paragraph under the head of "Instantaneous Light:" "Among the different methods invented for obtaining light instantaneously ought certainly to be recorded that of Mr. Walker, chemist, Stockton-on-Tees. He supplies the purchaser with prepared matches, which are put into boxes, but are not liable to change in the atmosphere, and also with a piece of fine glass paper folded in two. Even a strong blow will not inflame the matches, because of the softness of the wood underneath, or does rubbing upon wood or any common substance produce any effect except that of spoiling the match. But when one is pinched between the folds of the glass paper and suddenly drawn out it is instantly inflamed. Mr. Walker does not make them for extensive sale, but only to supply the small demand in his own neighborhood."

Red Cross Stamps

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, May 2 Haymarket 724—Quincy 448-1p-1y

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department,
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St.,
QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building,
294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property.
Corner School and Hancock Streets,
QUINCY.

R. D. CHASE QUINCY MASS.

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
338 Boylston Street, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 209
Oct. 1. tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 349-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 409-3 Quincy 299-3 Quincy 308-7 Milton
1p-tf

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

Cold weather has prevailed since the severe storm of Sunday an buildings and trees are still plastered with snow. Snow also clings to all wires causing those not blown down to sag. Everything has a decidedly wintry appearance, and there are many scenes that are really beautiful.

Those telephone subscribers whose service was not interrupted by the storm are lucky, while those who were cut off have no cause for complaint against the company. The same is true relative to electric lighting. Seldom has Quincy been visited by such a severe storm. When train service on the steam railroads is interrupted, people must not expect too much from the street railways, the Telephone Company or the Electric Light Company. All are undoubtedly doing the best they can under unfavorable circumstances. It is when one misses these conveniences that they realize what a help they have been.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

What is a patriot? Here is a question that presents itself, continuously, in every age for answer. What is a patriot? Some answer the question according to the sound of bugle and the roar of drums. Some answer it by oratory that flaps its wings and crows the nation's destiny and prestige. Some answer it by the number of American dollars to be counted in their overflowing coffers. Some make no answer at all, being really aliens, or idlers or malcontents. What is a patriot? Are you sure that you are one.—Medford Mercury.

A writer on nervous diseases says that fatigue always tends to induce depression and pessimism, and that in nervous people the idea or auto-suggestion (that is, prompting oneself) always doubles the actual conditions. For instance, every time you conjure up a mental picture of yourself as a helpless good-for-nothing, you arrive that much nearer to the state into which this fixed idea is leading you.—The Designer.

Did you ever hear a person say, "Nothing is ever right in the paper!" because, perchance, there has been a mistake or two? The best way to do with this person is to judge him by his own standard, and the chances are he has made more than one or two mistakes in his life. But does he wish that life considered all wrong because of these few mistakes? One or two mistakes do not unmake a life or unmake a newspaper, and a rude act or an unkind speech do vastly more harm than a typographical error.—Whitman Times.

Solid prosperity, it has been said repeatedly, comes out of the soil. The country needs more farmers, more producers, more and better instruments of distribution, healthier trade conditions, wise regulation of monopoly, prevention of waste, scientific and efficient agricultural and industrial processes. These are the "long run" remedies for scarcity and dearness. Conserve, develop, fight extortion masquerading as legitimate protection, improve river transportation, utilize water power—and one of the results of these beneficient policies will be reasonable prices.—Exchange.

Europe's Appreciation of America.

By F. HOPKINSON SMITH, Author, Artist and Traveler.

OUR BATTLESHIPS, OUR MONEY AND OUR WOMEN ARE THE THREE THINGS THAT HAVE MADE EUROPE CEASE REGARDING AMERICAN TRAVELERS ABROAD AS LAUGHINGSTOCK.

Dewey's victory over the Spaniards at Manila, the Oregon's wonderful trip around the Horn and our subsequent destruction of the Spanish fleet at Santiago, the important part played in European finance by our big business men during the last few years and the influence upon their lives by our American women—these are the three reasons why we are NO LONGER SNEERED AT, regarded as boorish and disparaged by foreigners.

Today Americans, whether at home or abroad, are MORE HIGHLY RESPECTED BY EUROPEANS THAN THE PEOPLE OF ANY OTHER NATION ON EARTH.

The status of Americans abroad has entirely changed, and it is our reputation as fighters, the power of our money—not in VULGAR display, but in its EMPLOYMENT IN GREAT AFFAIRS—and our women to which we can look for the change. Perhaps the manner in which our women have entered into the social life of Europe has had as much to do with the situation as anything else. Europeans have YIELDED ENTIRELY TO THE CHARM OF OUR WOMEN in society and have been willing to admit that they—well, that they compare most favorably with the women of Europe.

EUROPEANS HAVE FOUND FAULT WITH US IN THE PAST BECAUSE THEY THOUGHT WE WERE BARBARIANS—BECAUSE WE TALKED AND LAUGHED TOO LOUD. THEY THOUGHT US TOO BOISTEROUS. WE ARE STILL A TRIFLE BOISTEROUS, WE STILL TALK A TRIFLE TOO LOUD, AND WE LAUGH TOO LOUD. THAT'S BECAUSE WE ARE A HAPPY PEOPLE AND DON'T CARE. WE HAVE A SPIRIT OF DON'T CARE IN OUR MAKEUP.

Still, we have toned down a great deal. Our travelers can no longer be found fault with on that score. And since Americans are respected everywhere and by every one OUR TRAVELERS ARE WELCOMED EVERYWHERE AND BY EVERY ONE THROUGHOUT EUROPE.

And within a few months Americans are going to be even more respected and popular than they are at present. Europe is going to see Theodore Roosevelt, our greatest citizen and the highest product of our civilization. I predict that his reception in Berlin, Paris and London will be the GREATEST TRIUMPHAL WELCOME EVER ACCORDED TO ANY ONE IN THE HISTORY OF THE WORLD.

ROOSEVELT WILL SHOW EUROPEANS JUST HOW GREAT WE ARE AND WHAT OUR CIVILIZATION STANDS FOR.

In Berlin he will address various bodies and deliver lectures in German. In Paris he will speak in French. He will show Europe that culture is not lacking in America. In short, he will DO MORE TO MAKE EUROPE APPRECIATE US than any one man who has ever lived.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR
Hair falling out? Troubled with dandruff? Want more hair? An elegant dressing?
Ingredients: Sulphur. Glycerin. Quinin. Sodium Chlorid. Capsicum. Sage. Alcohol. Water. Perfume.
We believe doctors endorse this formula, or we would not put it up.
Does not Color the Hair
J. C. AYER COMPANY, Lowell, Mass.

SIGHT SAVING CAMPAIGN IN OHIO

Lead Taken In a Move to Prevent Needless Blindness.

GREAT WORK FOR HUMAN GOOD

Methods Adopted by Ohio State Commission For the Blind to Help the Sightless to Help Themselves—Plan to Save Eyes of Babies and the State's Own Pocket.

"There are today about 2,000 blind persons in Ohio who need not have been blind. About $175,000 is being spent in this state annually to take care of these needlessly blind people.

"Avoidable accidents and unguarded machinery contribute largely to the loss of sight. Blindness in many cases could have been prevented by simply dropping a certain fluid into the eyes of the children soon after birth. Two minutes' treatment for each child would have saved for each seventy years of light. Two cents' worth of prevention would have saved sight to a citizen and to the state $10,000 for support, to say nothing of the increased productiveness of a sighted workman.

EDWARD M. VAN CLEAVE (ABOVE) AND CHARLES F. F. CAMPBELL.

"We want remedial legislation to save sight to thousands yet to come. We are thinking not only of present cost to the state and present blindness, but of the preservation of light and life, happiness and usefulness to a multitude yet unborn.

"The Ohio state commission for the blind wants to send teachers into the homes of some of the blind. It wants to find places for the employment of some others in factories for the seeing. It wants workshops established where may be employed blind persons who could not be placed in private workshops. And it wants to prevent blindness in thousands among the rising generations by spending about $3,000 per year in the state in supplying, through the local boards of health, physicians and midwives, the prophylactic or protecting fluid, free to the people upon application, to be used in treating infants in preserving their eyes."

Such is in part the message that has been stirring Ohio in a new way.

Never before has a state or other government undertaken by a lecture campaign to inform its citizens of the possibility of preventing infantile blindness and to arouse them to stamp out all needless loss of sight.

Genius In Work For the Sightless.

To bring facts known to a few of the laity and to physicians very generally before the public in a way to impress them and to arouse them to action, the Ohio commission to improve the condition of the blind imported a man of unique personality, a genius in the work for the sightless, Charles F. F. Campbell of Massachusetts, to conduct the whirlwind campaign. With still and motion pictures to illustrate the theme and to attract the audiences the speaker went from city to city, addressing sometimes two or three audiences daily and traveling to every quarter of the state.

Mr. Campbell is superintendent of the industrial department of the Massachusetts commission for the blind. He is the son of the well known Sir Francis Campbell, the blind American who has been for forty years at the head of England's most noted school for the sightless. Mr. Charles Campbell has devoted his life to the interests of the blind. His knowledge and his enthusiasm made his message both valuable and attractive. No fewer than 15,000 people heard it in the course of the twenty-seven days spent in the campaign.

Lawyers, doctors, business men, superintendents of schools, editors and women engaged in humanitarian work were drafted into service by the president of the commission, in whose hands were placed the details of the plan. Having a wide personal and professional acquaintance, the president, Edward M. Van Cleave, superintendent of the State School For the Blind at Columbus, called on his friends to undertake the advance work and by judicious and skillful advertising and personal correspondence assisted them to bring together men and women of character and force in their several communities, who will stand by the commission in its great work—to help the blind to help themselves and to ward off the needless loss of sight.

Ohio has thus taken the lead in a movement already begun and being fostered by commissions in several states east and west, a movement that bids fair to take on something of the character of the fight against tuberculosis.

"DIXIE" MOST POPULAR AIR.

Congress Library Expert's Official Proclamation Gives It First Place.

"Dixie" has finally been officially proclaimed as first among American songs and music in "patriotic popularity", by O. G. T. Sonneck, chief of the division of music of the library of congress, at Washington, who recently issued from the government press an exhaustive report on four famous compositions.

"Yankee Doodle," he says, though no longer a national song, is still a national air and second only to "Dixie" in the popularity contest. The origin and evolution of "Yankee Doodle," "Star Spangled Banner," "Hail Columbia" and "America" are treated in full detail. He has furnished, as far as possible, a correct version of both text and music of all four pieces. Facsimiles of the original manuscripts are reproduced in the volume.

The history of "Yankee Doodle" is described as "a perfect maze of conflicting stories" and countless additions to and variations from the original. As many as fourteen variations of "The Star Spangled Banner" are noted, accompanied by a gradual process of polishing and modification. The year in which "America" was first sung in public is given as 1832, but the exact place and date were not definitely ascertained.

"Hail Columbia" is strictly a product of the United States in both words and music. "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" both partly originated in England.

HEROISM OF COAST GUARDS.

Annual Report Shows Remarkable Work of United States Service.

Aside from saving hundreds of lives and millions of dollars' worth of property involved in marine disasters the United States Life Saving service managed to render assistance to many unfortunate persons in distress.

The annual report of the superintendent of the service shows that a woman "about to be hurled over a bluff" was rescued by a lifeguard, while an intoxicated man about to fall off a dock, a man who had lost his way in a marsh, another who had broken through the ice, two others who had climbed 100 feet up the face of a cliff and were unable to descend and still another who tried to commit suicide came within the vision of the vigilant guards and were saved.

Five automobiles imperiled in quicksands or marshes were rescued.

In the last fiscal year there were 1,376 marine disasters, involving the lives of 8,900 persons, that called the life saving service into activity. Seventy-two vessels were lost, although only thirty persons gave up their lives in consequence.

The value of the property involved in these disasters was $16,106,080, the value of property lost being $2,295,380. Of the 1,376 vessels meeting disaster the life saving service rendered aid to 1,319, valued with their cargoes at $13,316,815.

Model of Small Flying Machine.

W. R. Clark, an inventor living in Spokane, Wash., has completed a model of a flying machine one-sixth of the normal size, containing 952 cubic feet of plane surface, with which he will attempt flight in a short time. He believes he has solved the problem of successful aerial navigation by creating friction on the element against which he is contending. Four propellers are used on the sides and the rear of the machine with two top wheels, giving the same action as the gyroscope. The speed of the side propellers is 1,000 revolutions a minute, while the gyroscope wheels are geared to 2,000 revolutions a minute. There is also a dome to hold the air under pressure and give the ship the steadiness maintained by a descending parachute. The completed machine will be forty-four feet from tip to tip and sixty-two feet from pilot to rudder, the motive power being two forty-horsepower gasoline engines.

Odd Football Suggestion.

If plans practically adopted at Oxford, Miss., as suggestions by the executive committee of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association are paid attention to by the rules committee, future football games may be divided into three "halves" instead of two. The southerners, headed by Dr. W. L. Dudley of Vanderbilt university, himself a member of the national rules committee, recently discussed in annual meeting reforms and other routine business.

MISSOURI SEEKS PET NAME.

Show Me State and Iron State Unsatisfactory—Gold Prize Offered.

With the question of a state song well along toward solution, Governor Hadley and the Missouri immigration bureau are turning their attention to a pseudonym by which the state may become affectionately known throughout the world. To attain this end, for Missouri really has no pet name, a gold prize soon will be offered, and Missourians will be asked to submit suggestions.

John H. Curran, chairman of the bureau, has discussed the question with the governor and other officials, and they are unanimous that Missouri never will come into its own or be given proper recognition until it has a nickname. It is sometimes called the Iron State now and has been dubbed by less attractive titles by unpatriotic persons in the past, but the executives seek a name acceptable to all the state. They point out that practically every other state in the Union has an appropriate title and that Missouri is known only as the "show me" state or by some other title not at all suggestive of the state's dignity.

Several suggestions have been received by Mr. Curran, and it is planned, through an offer of a prize, to arouse general interest throughout the state. From the suggestions received a committee will select the most appropriate one.

JEWEL IMBEDDED IN A TREE.

Long Missing Scarfpin That Disrupted a Family Found In Jersey.

An opal scarfpin, the loss of which nearly sixty years ago disrupted the family of Silas Brokaw of Taylortown, N. J., was found the other day by Brokaw's grandson, Taylor Brokaw, while splitting up an old apple tree for firewood. The pin was imbedded near the main fork of the tree five inches down in the trunk.

When the pin was lost old Silas Brokaw, who had worn it for years, accused various family members of having taken it.

There were firm denials, then spirited quarrels, and finally several of the family picked up their baggage and left the homestead never to return. Since then there has been ill feeling among various of the family descendants.

Brokaw died several years ago, still believing some one had stolen the pin. The apple tree in which it was found stood in an orchard some distance from the house, and it is supposed that Brokaw placed the pin in the crotch of the tree while working in the orchard and then forgot all about it. As the tree grew the pin was swallowed up.

AUTOS FOR MOOSE JAW.

Saskatchewan Farmer Placed Big Orders For Himself and Neighbors.

Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, is the postoffice address of J. C. Coe, a farmer who spent the day recently in Detroit on his way to New York.

Farmer Coe's main reason for visiting Detroit was to buy an automobile. He advertised this fact among his farmer neighbors before leaving home, and he soon had orders and bank drafts for twenty-nine more whiz wagons in his pocket, all from the "poor farmers." Coe is not an automobile agent.

The deals were mostly cash and aggregated nearly $100,000. Coe's auto cost $4,500, and the rest of the cars were all high graders, several in the $5,000 class. The cause of all this prosperity in the northwest is the wheat crop.

The machines will not be delivered until spring, as there is very little chance for automobiling around Moose Jaw in the winter months.

"Give us some speed regulations and a garage," said Coe, "and we will be up with you easterners."

TIBURON MYTH EXPLODED.

Explorers Find No Humans or Any Sign of Mines on the Island.

Tiburon island is no longer a mystery. Savage Seri Indian cannibals were supposed to guard rich gold and silver mines in the interior of the island.

The other day seven Americans returned to Nogales, Ariz., after spending three months on the island. They outfitted at Nogales and proceeded by boat to Kano bay, off the mainland opposite the island. There they were met by twenty Seri Indians, who agreed to guide them over the island, which they said contained no valuable mines.

The island was found to be twenty miles wide and thirty-five miles long, well watered, with much grass. No humans live on it, but it is alive with deer and wild pigeons. The party made a thorough exploration, but found no trace of minerals or of old mines.

Egg Eating Feat.

Judge Wooden, an auctioneer of Moberly, Mo., went to Centralia, Mo., the other day in response to a call from a friend, who had made a wager of $100 that Wooden could eat forty eggs in ten minutes. The feat was accomplished at noon in a Centralia hotel. Wooden eating the forty eggs in just exactly six minutes. After eating the forty eggs Wooden went to a friend's house for supper and ate as much as two average men would have eaten.

Smokeless Powder Invention.

The ordnance bureau at Washington has discovered a method for the more rapid ignition of smokeless powder, which is another great advance, since a great deal of the expansive force of a smokeless charge is usually lost by slow ignition.

THE EARLY STAGE.

Boys In Female Parts and the First English Actress.

Not long since a critic, noticing the advent of a new Ophelia in London, observed that, while the actress acquitted herself very well, she could hardly be considered "Shakespeare's Ophelia,' which was undoubtedly the case, inasmuch as Shakespeare's Ophelia was a boy, either a chorister or a page in the service of one of the theater's patrons.

No English actress made her appearance before the restoration. On Jan. 3 Pepys records, "To the theater, where was acted the 'Beggar's Bush,' it being very well done, and here the first time that ever I saw women come upon the stage."

But these, it is suspected, were mere "walking ladies." A few days later the diarist went to see a performance of "The Silent Woman." "Among other things here Kynaston, the boy, had the good turn to appear in three shapes—first as a poor woman in ordinary clothes to please Morose, then in fine clothes as a gallant and in them was clearly the prettiest woman in the whole house." He had a year before declared that "Kynaston as Olympia made the loveliest lady that I ever saw in my life."

The distinction of being the first English actress has been variously ascribed to Mrs. Davenport, Mrs. Knipp and Mrs. Davies. They all appeared the same year (1661). Mrs. Davies, together with the principal actresses in Sir William Davenant's company, being boarded in the manager's "own house."—London Strand Magazine.

Live Spiders Food For Young Wasps.

The young of some wasps can live only on live spiders, and the mother wasp therefore renders the spider powerless by her sting, after which it can live a month, and then deposits it in the cocoon where she has laid her egg. On hatching out the wasp grubs feed on the bodies of the living spiders. Another wasp deposits her egg in the body of the spider, which is then buried alive and is fed upon by the wasp grub.—London Standard.

On the Fence.

"That woman won't take either side of the social dispute until she is reasonably sure which one is going to win. She's a cat!"

"Ah, then that accounts for her being on the fence!"—Baltimore American.

Science Siftings.

Halley's comet, according to Flammarion, is traveling at the rate of 120,000 miles an hour.

The edge of the moon is so broken by peaks, ridges and valleys that the length of totality during a solar eclipse is affected by them.

Working on the theory that earthquakes are preceded by an electro-magnetic disturbance, an Italian scientist has devised an instrument which gives warning that an earthquake is about to occur a few minutes before the disturbance is felt.

Household Hints.

If the floors of a closet are wiped off with gasoline or benzine after being scrubbed it helps to keep off insects.

A good cleanser for hard wood is to wash it with a clean flannel wet in turpentine and rub lightly afterward with boiled linseed oil.

To prevent small mats from coiling up or slipping from their proper places line them carefully with carpet, either new or old. They will then remain in position.

The Parthenon.

The destruction of that famous building the Parthenon took place in 1687 during the siege of Athens by the Venetians. The Turks held the city, and the Parthenon was used for a powder magazine. One day during the conflict a Venetian bombshell dropped into the building, and the explosion followed which badly shattered the structure. From that date the renowned building has stood roofless and exposed to all the inclemencies of the weather. For more than 2,000 years the temple stood entire, and in its ruins is the architectural wonder of the world.—New York American.

A Dietetic Ditty.

We who have given up thy skin, O grape,
And then thy seeds and now thy pulp, alas,
Looking askance at thy blest juice, would pass
Back retransmigrant to the joyous ape!
—New York Sun.

A Born Fighter.

Dr. Pillum—Your wife is threatened with bronchitis, but she has a fighting chance of escaping it.

Henpex—She has, eh? Well, then, she won't have bronchitis.—Harper's Weekly.

Bright and Steady
The Rayo Lamp

A bright and steady light depends upon the construction of the lamp.

The best skill has put forth its best effort in perfecting the Rayo Lamp.

As the air is fed to the flame—so does the light burn. The easy-flowing current of air through the air-tube of the Rayo Lamp secures a uniform light, with never a flicker or flare.

The ideal family lamp. Made of brass throughout and beautifully nickeled.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but you cannot get a better lamp at any price.

Once a Rayo user, always one

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not at Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the
STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE
NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged
Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new
THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy
Aug. 23 1o-tf

WHY GAS IS THE BEST LIGHT FOR YOU

QUALITY—The soft, mellow steady light of the modern mantle burner is absolutely the best artificial light to work or read by.

DOES NOT TIRE THE EYES.

CONVENIENCE—By using the Chain Pull attachment on the burners, the use of matches is abolished.

QUANTITY—The Reflex Inverted Light with Holophane Reflector gives a light equal to 200 candles directly under the light.

We will put in a light on trial; if you don't like it we will take it out without expense to you.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. Quincy 181
Dec. 24 tf

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

The annual meeting of the Hospital Aid association will be held Thursday afternoon at three o'clock with Miss Charlotte Burgess at the home of Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, Hancock street, corner of Whitney road.

* * *

A meeting of the Quincy Day Nursery association will be held at the clubhouse of the Quincy Women's club on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 4.

* * *

Junior Friday club resumes meetings next week, meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. Arthur W. Hall of Upland road. Mrs. Walter E. Burke has charge of the program which continues the study of France, the special subject being Peter the Hermit-Crusades: Albigensian Crusade Chivalry.

* * *

Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution will be guests for the January meeting on Monday afternoon of Randolph members at the home of Mrs. Patience Braley. It will be a gift party each member contributing and receiving a small gift.

* * *

Quincy Women's club is having a long midwinter recess, the last meeting being held Dec. 14 and the next one scheduled will not be held until Jan. 11, when Mrs. Florence Howe Hall will give some "Personal reminiscences of Distinguished People." The annual musicale also occurs in January.

* * *

Mrs. John L. Gow of Revere road is hostess this week for the Friday club and Mrs. Emery L. Crane has the program in charge.

* * *

Mothers association meets Wednesday afternoon Jan. 5 at three o'clock in Bethany chapel for the January meeting. Mrs. John Keast will conduct the devotional exercises, Mrs. Forrest B. Royal will be the speaker and Miss Grace M. Isaac will sing a group of songs.

* * *

Wollaston Alliance is to have Rev. Joseph H. Crooker of Roslindale address them at the meeting on Jan. 5. Mr. Crooker is one of the best known ministers and writers in the liberal church and much pleasure is anticipated in hearing him. His subject will be "Feeding the Roots of Life."

* * *

Braintree Philergians are anticipating a rare treat on Tuesday afternon when Dr. Richard Burton is to address the club, his subject being "Novels of Today."

* * *

Mrs. Julia E. Duff a well known club woman of Boston is the only woman whose name will appear on the ballot at the city election in Boston. Mrs. Duff is the Democratic candidate for school committee.

* * *

Abbott Academy club has a New Year's meeting Saturday afternoon at hotel Vendome, Boston.

* * *

Hyde Park Current Events Club gives "The Chimes of Normandy" this evening also tomorrow evening for the benefit of its general fund.

* * *

Dr. David Snedden was the speaker at the meeting of the New England Women's Club Monday afternoon in the club rooms on Boylston street, Boston. He was introduced by the president, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. Miss C. Belle Kenney of the Quincy Mansion school was in charge of the program. A supper followed. In the evening there was a Christmas entertainment, Mrs. Frank G. Wren was chairman of the committee. Miss Marie Everett and Mrs. Margaret L. Ray sang. Recitations were given by Miss Gertrude Knapp.

* * *

John Adams chapter, D. A. R., of Boston of which Miss Floretta Vining is regent, meets Friday afternoon at hotel Lenox.

* * *

Rev. James DeNormandie of Roxbury in a recent address before the Medford Historical society gave an interesting paper on Anne Hutchinson, so well known in historic Quincy. He said Anne Hutchinson should be the patron saint of all women's societies; social, moral, patriotic or religious.

* * *

FEDERATION MEETING.

The mid-winter meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs will be held in the Park Street church, Boston, with morning and afternoon sessions, Tuesday, Feb. 1.

Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., will be the principal speaker of the day and will open the afternoon session at 2 o'clock with an address which will take into consideration the conservation and development of natural resources of New England.

It will be remembered that, while Governor of Massachusetts, Mr. Guild presided over the first conference of Governors of the New England States, which was held in Bsoton, Nov. 23-24, 1908, for the consideration of plans for the development of the natural resources of New England. This conference was of much interest to club women at the time, and it will afford them great pleasure to hear what the chairman of the sessions may have to relate concerning them. As the Governors of the New England States were invited to join in the conferences, so the presidents of New England clubs will be invited to attend the meeting.

On Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 2, there will be a presidents' conference for federation and club presidents of the New England States at Hotel Vendome, Boston. The conference will be followed by a social hour. Refreshments will be served.

The courtesies exchanged between the several State federations in New England have been very pleasant from the first; concerted action along civic lines is a possible outcome of these mid-winter meetings, and one to be greatly desired.

WOMEN'S MUNICIPAL LEAGUE.

The Women's Municipal league of Boston, which numbers among its officers and committees some of the prominent civic workers in club endeavors, has made good progress in the first year of its existence and hopes to be able to enlarge its powers for usefulness along many lines of activity in the near future.

The league has a membership of 724 and is working for a larger representation of the women interested in municipal advancement in education sanitation, art and music, social welfare, streets and alleys, collection and sale of waste paper, etc.

To increase the usefulness of educational opportunities that already exist, the educational committee and the league desire that the schoolhouses should be open evenings as centres of recreation and vocational counsel. The value of practical instruction for mothers is such that the infant hospital hopes to take it up when the year's experimental work of the league is completed.

The committee on milk believe that much more can be accomplished by cooperation than by coercion, hence they are at work trying to arrange some system of farm inspection with the federal government under the pure food and drug act, which shall not only improve our milk supply, but educate and enlist the co-operation of the better producers throughout the whole country.

If this can be done, although it be but fragmentary at present, it will, among other things, remove, at least in a measure, the objection of the Massachusetts farmers to the Women's Municipal league's legislative bill putting all regulation of milk in Massachusetts into the hands of the State board of health. This bill was badly defeated last year, but this year the committee intends to introduce it again.

The have asked for and obtained the help of the Federated Women's clubs all over the State in the campaign of education, and are about to start work with the local health boards throughout Massachusetts and the medical societies.

Concerts and a forthcoming loan exhibition, and evening exhibitions of photographs, accompanied by talks at various school centres through the city are the objects for which the art and music committee is working.

The experiment of an open air school was tried last summer and it is hoped that the funds will be secured to continue it another year, and that this movement, started primarily in the interest of health, may be brought more closely to the observation of the educators.

A bureau of information is being formed with the object of keeping itself thoroughly informed about all civic activities in every possible direction. It will know what is being done by other organizations and will suggest to the league various lines of work which it may take up at a future time.

The plans of this league will be of great benefit to the women of other places who are working or will later organize to work for civic betterment.

SOMERVILLE WOMAN'S INVENTION

Every woman knows the annoyance of sleeve and glove parting company as she hangs suspended in a crowded car and also the soiled glove which is a result of clinging to the car strap. It has remained for a Somerville woman, Mrs. Angie Wilde, of 10 Raymond avenue, West Somerville, to invent a handy extension strap to slip in the regular strap, so that standing in a car will lose one of its inconveniences. The strap is small, strong, and cleanly, takes up but a bit of space in the bag or coat pocket, and is worth its weight in dimes to the dainty woman. This extension strap is a blessing for short women and for those who do not care to have their gloves covered with grime and germs. —Somerville Journal.

COLD MORNING.

This morning was the coldest of the season thus far, the mercury at 7 o'clock being but 7 above zero, and an hour later it had only risen to 12 above. There was no wind, and it was a still cold, so that one did not realize just how cold it was until they had been out in the air a few minutes. The early morning sun was rather hazy and it looked as though another snow storm was due, but it was almost too cold for much snow.

MILTON

The storm did not strike Milton as hard as some of the surrounding towns although it put all of the police and fire wires out of order. The fire department had to answer a call Christmas eve on Randolph avenue and the new fire auto was kept out on the road until Sunday noon, at which time the snow got the upper hand and the chief had to dispense with its services. The lights were all out during and after the storm, leaving the town in darkness amid its myriad of tangled wires and fallen poles. Despite this fact however the crew went to work, and by Tuesday morning all but one police wire was working, and only Box 73 on the fire alarm system was out of commission. This will not be in use again until all of the electric and telephone wires have been fixed. During the storm the water rose so high along the marshes that the bridge was undermined, and the trains were not allowed to pass over. The water it is said rose so that it put the fire out in the engines. The trains during Sunday only went between East Milton station and Braintree. Taken altogether Milton recovered very rapidly from the effects of such a severe storm, due principally to the efficient and ready means taken to repair the damage.

Patrick Maquire, the well known granite manufacturer of East Milton who has been suffering from blood poisoning is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taber have been the guests for a few days of Mrs Frederick West of Adams street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Butler have been the guests of Mrs. Butler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira W. Hill of Brackett street for the past week.

The toboggan slide was opened Tuesday evening for the public use, and it has been the scene of owded gatherings ever since.

Otis, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Skinner of Adams street died Sunday at the Brighton Homeopathic hospital. Death was due to an attack of scarlet fever. The boy was 13 years old and most popular about the town. He was buried from the hospital Monday afternoon.

The fire department was called out Christmas eve on a still alarm for a fire in the chimney of a house on Randolph avenue occupied by Samuel Johnson. The damage was slight.

Walter Lakin of Adams street has severed his connections with the R. H. White Co. of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Flynn of Church street have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. William Flynn of Marlborough over the holidays.

—Diphtheria germs are long-lived. Several members of a family living near Toronto were taken ill with diphtheria. Afterwards the house was thoroughly fumigated and repapered. Five years later another family moved in. One of the first things done was to tear off the old wall paper, and as soon as this was accomplished several of the occupants of the house were stricken with malignant diphtheria, although there was not a single case in the neighborhood.

AIRSHIP FLIGHT WITHOUT A MOTOR

Claim of A. V. Wilson, Who Has Invented a Monoplane.

RESEMBLES BLERIOT MACHINE

Bar Harbor Man Declares He Has Flown as High as Seven Hundred Feet and Stayed Aloft Eighty Minutes—Will Try to Soar From Charles River Ice at Cambridge, Mass.

From the ice surface of Charles river basin at Cambridge, Mass., at some favorable time soon a monoplane with a man in it will rise from the ice, glide over Harvard bridge and settle to the ice again without the use of a motor or artificial power of any kind, according to A. V. Wilson of Bar Harbor, Me., aviator and veteran balloonist, who passed through Boston the other day on his way to New York.

Mr. Wilson after thirty years spent in the handling of balloons says that during the past twenty years he has realized that the conquest of the air could come only from the use of heavier than air machines. He has accordingly spent much of his time in study and experimentation of the various suggested types of kites, monoplanes and biplanes and has perfected and patented what he believes to be a more scientific combination of the recognized principles of aeronautics than any in existence.

Because of lack of funds Mr. Wilson was compelled to confine his early experiments to a motorless apparatus, and he has become so skilled in the art of gliding with this machine along the wind currents that he desires only a strong wind and a frozen river surface to demonstrate the wonderful possibilities of his invention.

Looks Like Bleriot's Machine.

In appearance the monoplane of Mr. Wilson is similar to the machines made famous by the flights of Bleriot and others in recent contests. Two great planes or wings stretch twenty-six feet from tip to tip. Their elevation and depression are controlled by levers in the hands of the operator, who sits on the framework between their inner ends.

Running backward from the operator's position is a tailpiece thirteen and one-half feet long, on the end of which is the lateral and horizontal rudder. This tailpiece is strengthened with wire guys running to the uttermost ends of the framework supporting the wings. Stout skids are placed under the ends of the plane supporting framework and tend to keep the wings above the ground when starting and landing.

In making flights without artificial power a wind of from twenty to forty miles an hour is required. The operator takes his seat with the apparatus facing into the wind, adjusts the planes into the lifting position and with a pushing start given to the machine by assistants rises by the force of the wind against the slightly upturned planes.

Flew 700 Feet High.

A sliding weight is manipulated along a forward extension of the framework and can be run far out in front of the operator or drawn back to his position, thus acting in much the same way as the downward and forward pull of a kite string. By sliding the weight forward a tendency is created toward a forward and downward glide. The downward tendency is offset by the elevation of the planes, and the resulting progress is forward at a plane regulated by the angle of the wings. To descend it is simply necessary to depress the planes so that the wind strikes against their upper surfaces.

Mr. Wilson states that during his experiments at Eagle lake, Bar Harbor, Me., this winter he has made flights ranging as high as 700 feet and has remained in the air as long as an hour and twenty minutes, using the frozen surface of the lake as a starting and landing place and circling the lake in his flights. His machine is constructed of spruce frames, piano wire and "balloon cloth," a rubber or oil treated fiber.

His career has been a thrilling one. Wilson's first balloon trip was in 1869, when he was a boy about fourteen years of age and entered a captive balloon in Boston. The man in charge of the rope lost control of it, and the balloon landed in Walpole, Mass., after a flight of about thirteen hours.

Since that time Wilson has constantly followed ballooning and has made between 1,600 and 1,700 parachute drops. About 1885 he commenced with heavier than air machines.

A Princess an Inventor.

Princess Anna of Lowenstein-Wortheim, in Germany, recently patented under the name of Karma, an invention to prevent seasickness by keeping the berths horizontal, no matter however the ship may roll. The balance is maintained by gimbels similar to those in use on marine compasses, but the princess also employs magnets and electricity. The inventor believes the principle is adaptable to guns on warships and operating tables on hospital ships.

A VINDICTIVE KNIFE.

The Weapon That Tried Several Times to Kill Kipling.

My mind has flown back down the years to London and into the large corner room on the second floor, Villiers street, Embankment Gardens. On the wall fronting the Thames bangs the most vicious looking knife I have ever seen. It is serpentine in shape, and its downward point is as sharp as a needle.

"What a villainous weapon!" I said.

"Yes," replied Kipling, and I forgot the name he gave it or the section of India from which it came. "That knife has tried to kill me several times. It's always on the watch. When I got it there was affixed to it, like a button on a foil, one joint of a man's backbone. The knife had been run into the vertebrae, given a savage twist and brought away with it a piece of human framework."

As he spoke he approached the glittering, snakelike knife.

"Don't touch it!" I cried. "You ought to keep it in a locked box."

He didn't touch it, so far as I saw, but as he raised his hand the knife dropped like a plummet and stood quivering in the floor within an inch of his boot.

"Look at that!" he said and stood there without moving a muscle until I saw how nearly the sinister blade had come to impaling his foot. — Robert Barr in London World.

A CONVERT.

He Is Now a Firm Believer In Psychic Phenomena.

"Do I believe in the occult? Sure, I do," said the suburbanite as he settled down into his seat in the smoking car and filled his pipe. "I was just as great a skeptic as you are until a week ago. I was firmly convinced that table manipulation was a fake, that mind reading was pure guesswork and that all alleged psychic phenomena could be attributed to natural causes. But now I'm willing to accept the entire propaganda. Nothing is too obscure for me to accept on blind faith. I've experienced a complete change of heart, as they used to say in the old camp meetings.

"You see, it was this way. My friend Buggins, who is really a bug on the occult, induced me to go to a seance with him the other afternoon and prevailed upon me to have a sitting. In spite of my nonbelief he said I was a good subject, and I guess I was. The lady who was delivering the soul fluid told me I should have trouble with a stout, dark woman. All the way out on the train that evening the idea haunted me. I couldn't get it out of my head.

"And, say, she was right. What happened? Why, when I got home I found myself up against the proposition of firing the colored cook. Sure, I believe in the occult. Got a light?"—New York Times.

Stevenson's Cup of Misery.

R. L. Stevenson, writing in 1893 to George Meredith, in an epistle quoted in his "Letters," says, with heart touching pathos:

"For fourteen years I have not had a day's real health. I have wakened sick and gone to bed weary, and I have done my work unflinchingly. I have written in bed and written out of it, written in hemorrhages, written in sickness, written torn by coughing, written when my head swam for weakness, and for so long, it seems to me, I have won my wager and recovered my glove. I am better now—have been, rightly speaking, since first I came to the Pacific—and still few are the days when I am not in some physical distress. And the battle goes on—ill or well is a trifle so that it goes. I was made for a contest, and the powers have so willed that my battlefield should be this dingy, inglorious one of the bed and the physic bottle. At least I have not failed, but I would have preferred a place of trumpetings and the open air over my head."

How to Know the Twins.

The Beverly twins, Fred and Frank, were such exact counterparts of each other that none of the neighbors could tell them apart, and even their mother sometimes had her doubts. The resemblance is accentuated by the fact that they are dressed exactly alike.

"How in the world can you yourself tell which is which, Mrs. Beverly?" asked a caller one day.

"To tell the truth," she answered, "I can't always. But if I hear a noise in the pantry and I call out, 'Fred, is that you?' and he says, 'Yes, mamma,' I know it's Frank and that he's in some kind of mischief."—Exchange.

Wonderful Cactuses.

The largest cactuses in the world are those to be found in parts of Mexico. The curious bristling plants common in greenhouses and even in botanical collections give but a poor idea of the size and beauty of this variety. It is common, for example, to find a single plant growing to a height of eight or ten feet which will weigh several hundred pounds. The cactuses grow in a bewildering variety of forms and colors. Their blossoms are correspondingly large and varied.

A Cynical Citizen.

"Is your town improving?"

"Yep," answered Broncho Bob. "The figures show that the tone of Crimson Gulch is improving. The population has decreased 30 per cent in the last year, and I don't know of anybody whose absence wouldn't be a benefit." —Washington Star.

A bond of union is soon formed between brethren in misfortune.—Le Sagi.

TRESPASSERS SAID COURT

Mrs. Bartlett Dismissed on Assault Case

That a man's house is his castle, and that he has a right to defend his home against intruders, was again brought out in court this morning when the case of Lillian M. Blanchard for assault with a revolver on Fred M. Bartlett at 31 Everett street, Dec. 15, was heard. This was the case where Bartlett who is employed by a Boston furniture house, entered Mrs. Blanchard's house and it is alleged that Mrs. Blanchard drew a revolver and threatened to shoot if he did not get out.

Bartlett, the complainant in the case testified that on the morning of Dec. 15, he went to the Blanchard house in an automobile with two other men, one of whom was a collector for the furniture firm by whom he was employed. The collector, Hogan, entered the house and Bartlett stood on the piazza. Hogan came to the door and told witness to come in. As he entered Mrs. Blanchard was coming down stairs. Hogan told her witness was with him. Mrs. Blanchard drew a revolver and pointing it at him told him to get out, or she would shoot. Mrs. Blanchard then said, pointing the revolver at us: "The first man who takes a stick of furniture out of this house I will shoot." We then went out and Mrs. Blanchard coming to the door and aiming a revolver at us said: "If any one comes inside the house I will shoot." She pointed the revolver at me three times.

It was brought out in the evidence that Mrs. Blanchard's bill amounted to $119.19, and that she had paid $16.19. That of the balance she had sent part by money order which the firm had refused to receive as the time had expired. It was also intimated that Bartlett and the other men were prepared to take away the goods.

Mrs. Blanchard's story differed but little from the government witnesses, other than she claimed the revolver was not loaded and that she only tried to keep the men from taking the furniture.

After hearing the evidence the court dismissed the complaint, on the ground that Bartlett and Hogan had not been invited into the house, and that they were trespassers.

Cheerfulness.

Every one must have felt that a cheerful friend is like a sunny day which sheds its brightness on all around, and most of us can as we choose make of this world either a palace or a prison.—Lubbock.

Cause and Effect.

Rev. Dr. Ritchie of Edinburgh, though a very clever man, once met his match. When examining a student as to the classes he attended he said, "I understand you attend the class for mathematics?" "Yes." "How many sides has a circle?" "Two," said the student. "Indeed! What are they?" What a laugh in the court the student's answer produced when he promptly said, "An inside and an outside!"

The doctor next inquired, "And you attend the moral philosophy class also?" "Yes." "Well, you doubtless heard lectures on various subjects. Did you ever hear one on cause and effect?" "Yes." "Does an effect ever go before a cause?" "Yes." "Give me an instance." "A barrow wheeled by a man." The doctor hastily sat down and proposed no more questions.

Fortune That Is Never to Be Spent.

The bulk of the estate of the late William M. Ampt, lawyer, is left to Cincinnati by his will, probated the other day. He specifies that the income of the estate is to go to his widow while she lives. The fortune proper is never to be disturbed, and $10,000 is to be spent annually to give band concerts to the poor.

COURSE IN FORESTRY.

United States Government to Hold Ranger School at Colorado Springs.

Arrangements have been made by the United States government to cooperate with the Colorado College School of Forestry at Colorado Springs in giving a forest rangers' course during the winter. The course will be special, covering a period of ten weeks from Jan. 11 to March 24, 1910, and is planned to meet the needs of forest rangers of district 2, including national forests in Colorado, Wyoming, South Dakota, western Nebraska and western Kansas, timber cruisers, logging superintendents, owners of timberlands and any who wish to acquire a general knowledge of the principles of forestry and lumbering.

Men from the district office of the forest service at Denver will be detailed to assist the college faculty in the instruction. The first fifteen days of the course will be held at the college, and the remainder of the course will be given at Manitou park, within the Pike national forest, where practical demonstration will be given and actual work done along the lines of study. The Colorado School of Forestry owns a 13,000 acre tract of timberland there and is equipped with cabins to accommodate the students. A commissary will be conducted at the park, which will bring the cost of living within the means of all and encourage attendance of men whose financial condition might otherwise prevent their taking up the studies.

No tuition will be charged, and the course will be open to forest officers as well as men not in the service who desire to attend. To reward faithful service and encourage advancement among the forest officers each national forest will be entitled to send one ranger. The selection of the men will be left to the discretion of the supervisors, who are best fitted to judge of a ranger's qualifications for the detail.

This course will be supplemented by a course of study on the national forests during the winter, outlined and carried on by the supervisors, aided by the district office. Each forest office is equipped with a forest library, and text books will be selected from the library and circulated among the rangers, accompanied by digests. The circulation of the books will be systematically arranged and progress of the work checked by periodically reviewing the work.

To Him Who Waits.

A year ago a manufacturer hired a boy. For months there was nothing noticeable about the boy except that he never took his eyes off the machine he was running. A few weeks ago the manufacturer looked up from his work to see the boy standing beside his desk.

"What do you want?" he asked.

"Want me pay raised."

"What are you getting?"

"Three dollars a week."

"Well, how much do you think you are worth?"

"Four dollars."

"You think so, do you?"

"Yes, sir, an' I've been t'inkin' so for three weeks, but I've been so blamed busy I ain't had time to speak to you about it."

The boy got the raise.—Success.

PAIN AND PLEASURE

are like water and oil they won't mi It's sure enough pain, if you have tooth trouble.

IT GIVES US PLEASURE TO STOP YOUR PAIN

if the pain is caused by defective teeth.

Our help is permanent and you face your own pain by delay. We put up satisfactory and

LASTING TOOTH CURE AT THESE DENTAL PARLORS.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.

DENTIST

37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.

Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Dec. 27 1w

G. W. WHEELER

WHEELER

DRY GOODS
SMALL WARES
UNDERWEAR
HOSIERY
HANDKERCHIEFS
GLOVES
CORSETS
APRONS

May Manton Patterns

....We Give CASH DISCOUNT SLIPS.....

CITY SQUARE QUINCY

Good Health

—is within reach of nearly every man and woman who earnestly desires it. Start right with

Beecham's Pills

Sold Everywhere. In Boxes 10c. and 25c.

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

Until New Years
USE THE
RedCross Stamps

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS

TWO TRIPS DAILY
Furniture and Piano Moving
Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

STORAGE
—FOR—
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING
1357 Hancock Street
Quincy, Oct. 16 tf

PATENTS

promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references. Wide-awake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell patents. What inventions will pay. How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.

D. SWIFT & CO.
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

As a FAMILY DAILY PAPER has no equal and is appreciated by ADVERTISERS

FOR CROCHET WORK.

Mercerized Cotton Used In Place of Woolly Yarn.

REINS FOR CHARIOTEERS.

Every Housewife Will Appreciate a Set of Crocheted Plate Protectors, Which Are Decided Novelties In the Fancy Work World.

Even the most enthusiastic crocheters sometimes grow tired of working with woolly yarns and find the mercerized cotton a relief. The illustrations show some articles which are really more satisfactory when made of cotton.

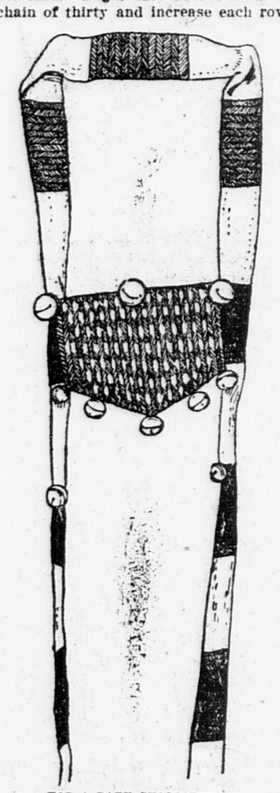

Plate protectors are quite a novelty, yet they are so easy to make and so useful when finished. Crochet a circle five inches in diameter, using a double crochet. Finish and decorate the edge with a single line of shells and in turn edge with a single crochet of red. Make twenty-two of these, so there will be enough for two circles between each of the dozen plates of a set.

TO PROTECT DRESDEN PLATES.

Reins for baby charioteers have since time immemorial been woolly things, but cotton ones are far more desirable and certainly less expensive to make. Baby likes them even better, too, for they have more body and do not so soon become stringy. They may be begun on a chain of twelve stitches and worked with a double crochet until of the required length. The ones in the picture are of red and white, twelve rows of each, while the breastplate decorated with bells is crocheted separately and afterward attached. Begin this in red with a chain of thirty and increase each row by two stitches at one end for ten rows, then decrease each row until the stitches are reduced to thirty. Finish off the end and embroider the plate with white in the cross stitch at regular intervals. These reins may be frequently washed, and they will wear a long time.

FOR A BABY CHARIOTEER.

Warm Shirt Waists.

The dotted challis waist is very new, very light in weight and very warm. Indeed, it is well worth a second thought, and it invites the sensible woman or, better still, the sensible mother. Daughters are not warmly clad these days, and it might be well to take some time for the consideration of the fairly warm winter waist, be it shirt waist or blouse.

There is not the least objection to the nonwashable blouse if it be made of material that is not bulky and worn on the right occasions. It involves more care than the durable white linen waist and should be made with the idea of an occasional bath in warm soapy water. Almost all challis will stand this treatment occasionally. This year there is a beautiful little model shown at an exclusive shop. It is made of this pretty, soft material, embroidered by hand over its entire surface, but there are evidences of carelessness in its makeup.

The little dots have, quite apparently, been embroidered first, since the seams cut them off at certain points. The ideal way to get around this difficulty, which really amounts to a defect, is to first cut out the blouse and fit it, then, with the seam lines marked, to embroider the separate pieces and remake the blouse. The small dots on the pretty sage green challis were done in darker silk to bring it into harmony with its skirt.

On some woolen shirt waists a single line of dots only appears down each side of the center box plait and on the cuffs.

GOWNS OF A BOSTON GIRL.

Miss Eleanora Sears, the Best Dressed Girl In the Land.

Miss Eleanora Sears of Boston is known in her set as the athletic girl of the east and has the distinction in society of being the best dressed girl in this country. This distinction Miss Sears modestly disclaims. She plays polo like a British hussar, rides with perfect grace and ease, handles a team like a professional, plays tennis with spirit and dash, swims like a life saver, drives a golf ball 200 yards and is vivacious in everything that makes a young woman captivating. She is a member of the old Sears family of

MISS ELEANORA SEARS.

Boston, and it is now stated with positiveness that she is the fiancee of Harold Vanderbilt.

Notwithstanding her fetching gowns, conceded by those competent to pass upon such matters, she frankly confesses that she never gives the subject of dress any serious consideration. In speaking about the subject Miss Sears said, "I am more interested in other things than dress, and when women begin to regard dressing as one of the casual matters of life they will be better off in every way."

When she was told that Miss May Sutton, the athletic girl of the west and a friend of Miss Sears, had said that Miss Sears was the best dressed girl in the United States, the Boston girl replied:

"I do not devote any time to the planning of my gowns. I never have. I believe that taste in these things comes naturally to the American woman." MILDRED LEWIS.

MISS MARJORIE GOULD.

Young Society Girl Inherits Her Mother's Dramatic Gift.

There is a good deal of talk in society just now about Miss Marjorie Gould, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould. The young lady has reached the most interesting age of young womanhood, for she is eighteen. She resembles her mother when the latter was the tall, dark and graceful actress who won such praise from her countrywomen.

Miss Marjorie Gould's coming out in New York society a year ago was a really brilliant affair. Since that event the young lady has grown in the estimation of the society in which she is best known and has won a place of distinction in the salons of Paris and the highest circles of London.

MISS MARJORIE GOULD.

She has had the care of the best home training. She has developed an interest and skill in athletics which have brought her right to the front. She also inherits the dramatic gift of her mother and already has taken part in amateur theatricals at home.

While she was in Europe with her parents rumors of her probable engagement to noblemen of several lands came hurrying back to her own country. The suitor most frequently mentioned was Prince Romanowski, a kinsman of the czar. No credence to any of these rumors has been given by Mr. or Mrs. Gould or by the young lady herself.

The Mystery of Black Mountain

How the Perpetrator of a Murder Was Discovered.

By JOHN LOUIS BERRY.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

The lightning flashed, illuminating the dark forest vividly.

"This is the place," said Clare breathlessly after her long run, and she pointed to the ground.

At Jack's feet lay a sinister black heap with its face turned up toward the stormy sky. There was a wide gash in the head. Beside the body lay the brutal implement of the hideous deed—an ax.

"Phil!" cried Jack in horror stricken tones, bending down and feeling the heart. "My God, he is dead!"

"Dead," repeated Clare, "and you killed him."

"I? Why, Miss Fleming, you must be mad. I swear"—

She held up her hand. "Not another word. Please see me to the edge of the wood."

Jack Lawrence was held for the murder.

One afternoon a week before the day of the trial Jack was surprised by a visit from Clare Fleming.

"I'm going away," she explained, "and I didn't want to leave without saying goodby."

"Thank you," he answered quietly. "Do you still believe me guilty?"

"Don't ask me, please."

He sighed heavily.

"Is there anything I can do for you?" she asked eagerly.

"Yes. Try to believe that I'm innocent. Will you try, Clare?"

"Yes, Jack; I'll try—with all my soul."

"Thank you. You didn't see me strike him with the ax, did you?"

"No." She was silent a moment, gazing at him steadily. "Tell me, are you innocent or guilty?"

"Innocent, so help me God."

She held out her hand. "I believe you," she said, then, ashamed of her tears, hurriedly left him.

Out in the street she met her uncle, Judge Hughes.

"I'm on my way to reserve your berth, my dear," he said. "The train has changed time, and"—

"But I'm not going away—just yet," she interrupted.

"You don't say so! Well, if you're not the most notionate young lady"—But she laughed and hastened past him.

Reaching Dizzy Lodge, the Hughes home, she ordered her pony saddled and soon was galloping up Black mountain. She did not draw rein until arriving at Piney Bill's cabin. The old man was hard at work chopping wood.

"Good afternoon," she said graciously. "I've heard that you're the only person in the county who believes Jack innocent of the murder."

Bill did not respond with much alacrity. Because of this handsome, dashing young woman one of his boys was dead and the other was virtually condemned to die.

"Well, Mr. Bill, that's a mistake," she continued good humoredly, "for here's another who believes him innocent."

Bill gave his ax a rest. "You?" he queried incredulously.

"Come, now," she said briskly, dismounting. "Let's go to the place where poor Phil met his death and talk it over. Maybe we can reach some conclusion."

"Do you remember the exact spot?" Bill asked doubtfully.

"Yes. The tree was struck by lightning."

"Praps Phil was struck too!" he hazarded, with sublime hope.

She shook her head. "No; it was that horrible ax. Somebody killed him with that, and you and I must find out who it was."

In a few moments they were standing on the fatal spot. The tree had been struck by lightning, as Clare had said, and was now a partly burned and shriveled semblance of its former kingly self. The two friends of the accused examined the surroundings carefully, but found nothing that led to a clew. There seemed to be only hopelessness ahead.

The day of the trial came. The prosecution then called its first and only witness, Clare Fleming. She told a simple and straightforward story of how on the afternoon of the picnic she and the murdered man had met the accused and of how when she and Phil were hurrying home in the rain and darkness Phil had been struck on the head with an ax, thereby killing him.

The defense began the cross examination.

"You were with Mr. Hastings at the time he met his death?"

"Yes."

"Did he cry out?"

"He simply fell to the ground."

"Did you see the murderer do the deed?"

"No."

"Did you see the accused anywhere near?"

"No."

"Did you suspect him then of the murder?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Because"—she hesitated—"of their quarrel in the afternoon."

"And you left the body and went to hunt for him?"

"Not for him—simply for help. I lost my way and happened to meet him, then returned with him to the corpse."

"You are excused."

The prosecuting attorney then began his argument.

Judge Hughes followed for Jack. But his eloquence was futile. Only two of his points made anything of an impression—the fact that no footprints had been discovered under the tree other than those of Miss Fleming and the dead man and the further fact that the ax was a very old one of German manufacture, the duplicate of which could not be found for miles around. Certainly no one had ever seen the ax in Jack's possession.

The prosecuting attorney quietly called attention to the relative insignificance of the defense's two points. Then the court gave the charge to the jury. The twelve good men and true retired. They had been gone just half an hour when they filed in and the foreman handed in the verdict, "Guilty of murder in the first degree." It was the shortest murder trial ever held in the state.

The defense's motion for a new trial was not granted. Accordingly Jack was taken to the state penitentiary. The governor, a rather rigid man, saw no extenuating circumstances in the case, and the first week in October was set as the time for the execution. So Jack's fate was sealed. Two months, and he would suffer an ignominious death on the gallows.

A cloud of gloom settled over the village, where Jack had always been a general favorite. Judge Hughes and his niece went to a watering place to spend the rest of the autumn. Clare wrote one letter to Jack—a long, long one. What was in it nobody but themselves ever knew.

Time flew. On the twenty-eighth day of September Clare received the following telegram:

Come at once. Big news. BILL.

Bright and early the next morning she galloped up Black mountain. As usual Bill was chopping wood.

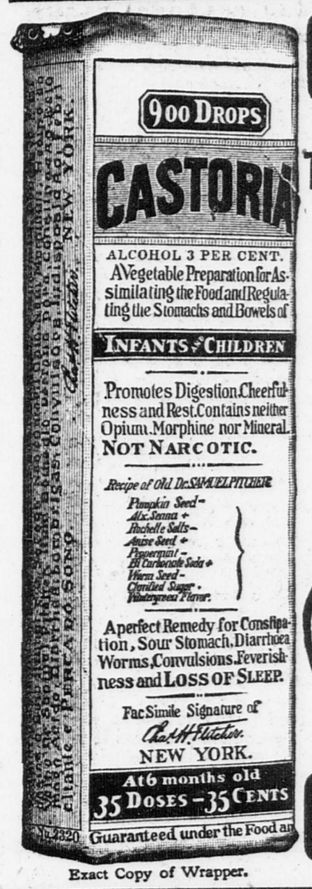
"You mus' scuse me, miss," he apologized, "but as you an' me wuz the only ones wot didn't b'lieve him guilty I thought I'd hev ye come an' share the glor'us news. But we mus' be quick about it, as you'll hev to see the guv'nor."

He went into the cabin and brought out the ax which had been found on the ground beside the body. "It's a quar one, ain't it, miss? An' do ye recollect it didn't hev no handle? I wonder wot become of it?" He laughed slyly. "I guess Jack must ha' buried it. But, do you know, miss, I suspicion that this here ax be half as old as I am? Come, I wanter show you the tree. Ever since poor Phil's death I've cussed an' swore at that tree. Time an' ag'in I've gone out thar to chop the critter down, an' time an' ag'in I couldn't. Suthin' allus seemed to hold me back. I'm mighty glad now that suthin' did."

Bill showed Clare his "find." Fifteen minutes later the overjoyed young woman rode down to the village, secured a camera; then, returning to the forest, took a picture of the tree, or, rather, of one particular part of it.

That afternoon she stood in the presence of his excellency the governor of the state.

"Governor," she began quietly, "next week is the time set for John Lawrence's execution. I'm here to ask you for a pardon."



"You don't ask much," his excellency answered dryly.

"Governor," she continued, smiling, "you are familiar with the details of Mr. Hastings' death. I ask you to keep in mind now four points especially—there was a thunderstorm raging at the time, he was standing under a tree, the tree was struck by lightning, and he was struck with an ax."

His excellency looked bored. "Go on."

She opened her satchel and took out the photograph plate and the ax. "There, sir, is the ax. As you see, it's a very fine steel one of an odd shape and size, and if you look down in this corner you'll find it was made in Germany as long ago as 1869. The ax, then, is thirty-nine years old. The tree is a number of years older. Now, this plate shows the part of the tree that was struck by lightning—the 'forks,' so called, or the point where the upper part of the trunk divides into two limbs. The lightning struck the forks, and they split open. Look closely at the plate and you'll see a depression in the wood where the lightning struck, a depression of the exact shape of this ax. And right here is the explanation of the mystery of Philip Hastings' death. This ax was stuck into the tree between twenty and twenty-five years ago by some woodman. He might have done it for several reasons—to mark the tree, to put the ax in a safe and convenient place, or it might have been merely an act of carelessness. Be that as it may, woodmen often do such things. The ax was thrust into this tree, the handle loosening and coming off. The man who did it must have forgotten it or gone away unexpectedly, as it was left in the tree. How do I know that this happened between twenty and twenty-five years ago? I simply compare the age of the ax with the probable age of the tree. The ax was thrust into the tree, and it remained there. As the tree grew the bark gradually covered the ax, and the ax rose higher and higher with the tree." She looked at the governor with quiet assurance. "Now, sir, these facts speak for themselves. The lightning struck the forks of the tree, the tree split open, and the ax fell out. Unfortunately Philip Hastings happened to be standing directly under it, and it struck him, crushing in his head. Your excellency, I ask at least a reprieve."

The reprieve was granted. The next day the governor went to Black mountain to make a personal investigation. There stood the split tree, and there in the forks was a distinct depression into which the ax fitted perfectly.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

A NEW YEAR'S BOX OF

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL

Men's Hose

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL AND PRACTICAL GIFTS YOU CAN THINK OF FOR A MAN.

The Special Holiday Box is a skillful reproduction in colors from an oil painting by a distinguished artist. The socks may be assorted (the four most popular colors) or all black. They are genuine INTERWOVEN.

PRESENTATION BOX AND FOUR PAIRS $1.00

Can you beat it for the Price?

GEORGE W. JONES

No. 1 GRANITE ST., QUINCY, MASS.

Sprague's New River STEAM COAL

Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined

Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.

J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS

TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET

Quincy, June tf

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS

If YOU Want Business

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER VI.

NOLAN faced Brand.

"Come, come, Wheeler," he said. "Let's drop the subject now."

"Mr. Brand, you are forgetting your place," contributed Phyllis.

"Michael," insisted Mrs. Nolan, "are you going to let this young man ruin the whole of us? I, for one, am glad Judge Bartelmy has taken us up, and if it wasn't for the way Mr. Brand runs wild with that paper"—her voice broke—"others might." She crossed to the door at the left. "Here we've squandered money right and left and nobody would have anything to do with us. I declare I was happier poor. At least when I asked anybody to eat then they came. Look at that table in there"—she pointed—"groaning with good things to eat, and there's $100 for hothouse grapes, and nobody's touched 'em!" She picked up a bunch of grapes from a stand and began to eat them.

"Mother," laughed the husband good naturedly, "I've seen you get away with three bunches all by yourself."

"Well, I felt it was my duty not to let them go to waste." She burst into tears. "Come on, Phyllis," she managed to say, and the heartbroken mother and daughter went from the room.

"You mustn't mind what mother says," Nolan said to Brand. "She's been kind o' lonely since she came back to New York."

The editor's heart swelled with sympathy for the woman whose ambitions for herself and her daughter had caused the bitterest pain that injured pride can give. He saw that it would be difficult for her to learn that social position in a big city can be won only by skillful maneuvering, the ability to do which Mrs. Nolan apparently did not possess.

"Oh, I understand!" he answered feelingly.

Brand and Nolan went into the library to smoke. Hardly had they disappeared when Pitcher entered the drawing room as an escort for Judge Bartelmy and his daughter Judith. Brand had not erred a few minutes previous when in the same room he had pronounced the judge to be the best "handler of people" in the city. The conversation which ensued between the jurist and his daughter as they awaited their hostess well illustrated his reasons for accepting, with his daughter, Mrs. Nolan's invitation. When Pitcher had gone in search of Mrs. Nolan it was the girl who first spoke.

"Father," she said, "I want you to know that I've been to five teas this afternoon. I'm doing you a great favor to come to this one."

"This doesn't come under the head of social duties."

"Yes, my dear; I appreciate it, but social duties"—

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The girl laughed shortly.

"Now, this doesn't come under the head of social duties."

"Oh, yes," the judge answered quickly, "if you view society in its broader sense. Beyond your little world is a larger one where caste is of small consequence and where all men should be of service to each other."

"But the Nolans—they certainly haven't been of service to you?" questioned the girl.

He glanced sharply at Judith.

"But I wish them to be, and we're getting on—we're getting on."

"Their paper keeps going for you just as much as ever, father. I don't suppose one ought to mind it, but I do."

"Judith, Nolans have lived in every age in every country," pronounced the jurist. "He's a composite of anarchist and autocrat. Eventually the autocrat in him will triumph. Just now he's hounding old institutions. I, for instance, represent to him the judiciary, and he attacks me. No consequence whatever, but I'm here in defense of the United States bench. My cause is the cause of my colleagues. I tell you, Judith, I know the breed. I know how to get the venom out of his fangs. Diplomacy, my dear—diplomacy!"

Judith became enthusiastic.

"Father, I believe you would have been a great prime minister in the old days!"

The judge straightened up, smiling pleasedly at his daughter's complimentary estimate of him. "Hardly that, hardly that," he protested. He became reflective. "They were feeble old men, for a thousand years courteously moving kings and their armies like pawns on a chessboard. They were always very tactful, Judith, those princes of the past."

"Oh," she admitted, "you never fail to illustrate your point, whatever it is!"

"Just imagine," said her father, "what one of those old fellows would do in this case."

"Yes, I suppose you're right, and in the end you'll make these people see how wrong they've been about you."

"Oh, yes!" he went on confidently. "As they become accustomed to their prosperity you will find that the demogoism of their paper will be modified and ultimately vanish." He seated himself near his daughter.

"That would be a terrible blow for Wheeler, wouldn't it?" she suddenly asked.

"Wheeler! Oh, Wheeler! He's an entirely different type—the idealist, the fanatical idealist. I'm sorry. I always liked the boy. His heart's all right, but his head's all wrong, and I hope he's merely passing through a phase."

"I don't think you quite understand Wheeler, father," responded Judith, rising.

He took hold of the girl's hands.

"Oh, yes, I do! Just now he has lost himself in a labyrinth, and it will take an Ariadne to lead him out. I believe the right woman might bring him to reason." He paused significantly. Judith lowered her eyes from his. "I forgive him any annoyance he may have caused me, and I hope you will forgive him too. I want you and Wheeler to be friends again and, like the princess in the fairy stories, live happily ever after." He patted her fondly on the shoulder.

Mrs. Nolan entered the room and, aglow with excitement, greeted her guests.

"Judge Bartelmy, I hope you haven't been waiting long?" she inquired anxiously.

"Not at all."

"It is so good of you to come."

"Oh, I wouldn't permit anything to keep me away!" he replied. "I've just had the pleasure of adjourning a rather important conference to be here."

This confession filled the fluttering heart of Mrs. Nolan with pure ecstasy. She could barely contain herself as she in turn greeted Judith Bartelmy.

Pitcher announced another name that appeared in the social register.

"Mr. Dupuy," he announced. He had come to keep his appointment with Nolan.

"How do you do, Mr. Dupuy?" greeted the hostess, shaking hands warmly with him. "Here's Judge Bartelmy. He's just adjourned a most important conference to come to our tea. Pitcher, tell Mr. Nolan the judge and Mr. Dupuy are waiting. Say the judge has just adjourned his court to come. Miss Bartelmy, Phyllis will be so delighted to see you." She grasped Judith's arm and led her to a door, speaking rapidly as she did so. "Phyllis wants to show you her new gown Quinlan brought over from Paris. Very smart effect, but $450, and you could hold it in the palm of your two hands—a rag!"

"An amusing character, our hostess," commented Bartelmy dryly to Dupuy.

"Yes; she seems very appreciative of your daughter's visit."

"Well," decisively, "she certainly ought to be."

"I suppose we shall see it in the Advance tomorrow," suggested Dupuy.

"Oh, of course!" Bartelmy laughed amusedly.

"By the way," remarked Dupuy, "did you see the evening papers?".

A serious look came into Bartelmy's face as he said:

"I glanced over them on my way uptown, and their accounts of my decision this morning are not at all objectionable."

"No blood drawn," said Dupuy reassuringly. "A little surprising, too, for the Lansing Iron people have been in pretty bad odor with the public ever since the receivership matter last year."

"That was the beginning of all these attacks upon me. I hope the morning papers will treat me fairly."

"Oh, there will be no trouble about them. They have not investigated the matter thoroughly enough yet, of course, excepting the Advance. But you did just the right thing today to bring Miss Judith."

Bartelmy was showing not the slightest hesitancy at using his beautiful and accomplished daughter as a decoy in his plottings. In the first place, he desired that she should marry Wheeler Brand, hoping that the young reformer's zeal against him would disappear; secondly, by prevailing on her to pay attention socially to the Nolan family he was confident that the owner of the Advance would capitulate and become his friend. As for Judith, she little comprehended the entire significance of her father's attitude, and if she had, her frank, genuine nature, which revolted at trickery and deceit, would not have permitted her to continue to do his bidding. She admired and loved her father.

She knew that her mother before her had aided her father in his work and ambitions to a considerable extent, and now that her mother was no longer alive she felt it her duty to fill her place in every possible way. After all, she had only a young woman's knowledge of the ways of men in the business and professional world, and she could discern in the attacks on her father nothing beyond what he himself had taught her to believe—that they were the efforts of envious men or ignorant reformers or misguided fanatics, who assailed him entirely without just cause. However, it would seem that the judge would in any event have attempted to conceal from others his motives for procuring the presence of Judith at the Nolan home on this day. It would seem, no matter how low he had sunk, that he would have denied that he had ever employed her unsuspectingly as a decoy on other occasions. That was the least this father could do for his daughter. But he made no attempt to protect her reputation, at any rate to Dupuy, for in answer to the lawyer lobbyist's remark that he had done "just the right thing to bring Miss Judith today" he replied with his characteristic coolness:

"Oh, in matters of this kind my daughter is of the greatest help to me!" After a moment he continued. "I don't at all like your idea, Dupuy, of my proposing this man Nolan at the club."

"That's our trump card," insisted the other. "Every man has his price—even this young Brand if we could only find out what it is."

(To be Continued.)

"HIS ONLY HOPE LIES IN AN APPEAL—TO YOUR FAMILY'S SOCIAL DESIRES."

SIRES AND SONS.

The Earl of Ellesmere is a regular attendant at most race meetings. In spite of the fact, however, that he has owned and run many good horses he has never been known to make a bet.

The Washington Star says that Vice President Sherman, in addition to other responsibilities, finds himself almost single handed in the task of perpetuating side whiskers in American politics.

Lloyd-George, the Welsh chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer and framer of the famous "budget," is a master of debate and one of the greatest platform orators in England.

Herbert Gladstone's celebrated father never would accept a title, but the son's acceptance of the governor generalship of South Africa means that the family must now endure at least one lord.

Thomas Ashford, a rural messenger who covers a daily round of twenty miles in the Whitwick district of Leicestershire, is the only postman in the British isles who has the right to wear the Victoria cross.

Ex-Justice Roger A. Pryor of New York, lawyer and journalist, equally famous as an orator and a writer, is still active mentally and physically at eighty-one. He helped to nominate Franklin Pierce for the presidency.

T. J. Steward, who sits for West Hamilton in the Dominion's house of commons, seems to be an irreverent Canadian person. "The slickest duck I have seen in a long while," was his sizing up of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in a recent speech.

Joseph F. Smith, nephew of the Mormon prophet and present head of the Church of the Latter Day Saints, is seventy-one years old. He drove an ox team in crossing the plains to Salt Lake City in 1848 and has lived to see the city in gentile hands.

Things Theatrical.

Gladys Hanson is leading woman this season with Kyrle Bellew.

It is said that Frederic Thompson spent over $50,000 for the production of "Springtime."

Lew Dockstader will, with his minstrels, make a tour of the south under canvas in the early spring.

An operatic ballet dancing school has been opened in connection with the Metropolitan Opera House, in New York.

Percy Haswell has been engaged by the Shuberts to play the leading role in "The Watchers," a psychic drama by Cora Maynard.

Arthur Eddy, the author of "Ganton & Co.," from which the play "The Great John Ganton" was taken, has written a play called "The Man Higher Up."

College and School.

The number of women taking courses this winter at the universities of Germany is 2,582.

District after district in China is raising money toward the endowment fund of Hongkong university. The Canton district has given $43,750.

Dr. James P. Magenis of the Boston school board announces that hereafter every high school girl in that city, unless incapacitated, will be required to master the art of swimming in order to obtain points for her graduation.

Twenty years ago the number of private schools was small. Ten years ago there was noted a decided increase, and today America is supporting something like 8,000 permanently established educational institutions exclusive of the public schools.

Law Points.

Notes made by a man to his intended wife as security for a loan are held in MacKeown versus Lacey, 200 Mass., 437; 56 N. E., 799; 21 L. R. A. (N. S.), 683, to be enforceable against his estate notwithstanding their continued validity is not recognized by payment of interest after the marriage.

Where before the time for performance of a contract it appears that one party will not be able to perform his agreement upon the precise date stipulated the other party is held in Holt versus United Security Life Insurance and Trust company (N. J.), 72 Atl., 301; 21 L. R. A. (N. S.), 69, not to have the right to repudiate his obligation in advance unless time is of the essence of the agreement.

Peculiar Taxation In Holland.

Some of the most peculiar of taxations recorded are to be found in the archives of Holland. In 1791, for instance, there was in existence a tax imposed on all passengers traveling in Holland. In 1874 a duty of 2 shillings was levied on each person who entered a tavern before noon, on those who entered a place of entertainment, on marriages and deaths and on many other things. If a person was buried out of the district to which he belonged the tax was payable twice over.

The Usual Way.

"Do you keep servants?"

"No. We are like all other housekeepers in that respect. We hire servants, but do not succeed in keeping them."—Houston Post.

HOW LONG IS A DAY?

Some of the World's Inhabitants Eat 315 Meals During One.

If we should meet a man and he should casually remark that he ate 315 meals yesterday we would doubtless be somewhat astonished at his appetite. Likewise we would feel sorry for the man who said that, having foolishly eaten three eggs with bacon for breakfast, he had no appetite for his Christmas dinner. But maybe the first man was from Spitzbergen, where they have a day three and a half months in length, whereas the poor chap who missed the Christmas feast lived in Finland, at Torena, where Christmas day is something less than three hours long.

On the whole, it would be rather wise if one should undertake to do certain work, to receive so much per day in payment, to understand just where the work is to be done, else one might have to labor eighteen and a half hours at Stockholm, if it happened to be the longest day of the year, or all the time from May 21 to July 22 if at Wardbury, in Norway. In St. Petersburg the longest day is nineteen hours and the shortest five hours. At Torena, Finland, there is a twenty-two hour day. At London and Bremen the longest day is sixteen and a half hours, while at Hamburg and Dantzig there are seventeen hours in the longest day. In Washington the longest day is about fifteen hours.—Exchange.

HIS CONUNDRUM.

Propounded In Prose, It Was Answered In Rhyme.

In the olden time before the war, the days so famous for generous hospitality in the south, a brilliant party was assembled at dinner in a beautiful country homestead. Across the table wit flashed back and forth, and the guests began to vie with one another in proposing conundrums.

Mr. Alexander H. Stephens offered one which puzzled the whole company, "What is it that we eat at breakfast and drink at dinner?"

For some time no answer came, and the bright eyes of the southern orator began to sparkle with triumph, when Colonel Johnson, taking up the "Commonplace Book" of the hostess, which lay conveniently by, wrote impromptu upon the flyleaf the following answer:

What is eaten for breakfast and drunken for dinner?
Is it coffee or eggs or butter or meats?
Sure double the stomach of obdurate sinner
Who eats what he drinks and drinks what he eats.

But let us consider. 'Tis surely not butter
Nor coffee nor meats, whether broiled or roast,
Nor boiled eggs nor poached nor fried in a batter.
It must, then, be bread. Ah, yes—when 'tis toast!

—Atlanta Constitution.

Blackburn's Eloquence.

The story is told of Senator Proctor of Vermont in reminiscences by Vice President Stevenson that when invited to go out of the senate chamber just before the day's session began he replied: "Excuse me. I am paired with Blackburn on prayers." When the Rev. Dr. Butler retired from the chaplaincy of the senate Blackburn's speech surpassed all others for ardor and felicity of expression. The counterpart of the scene that followed his closing words had never been witnessed in legislative assembly. All were in tears. It was even said that venerable senators who had never shed a tear since the ratification of the treaty of Ghent actually sobbed aloud and refused to be comforted. At length, amid silence that could be felt, an adjournment was effected, and the senators passed out to their homes. As he passed the chair Senator Vest in an undertone remarked to the vice president, 'Joe never saw him.'"—Washington Herald.

A Pot Walloper.

The parliamentary register for 1806 showed that there was then only one pot walloper in all England. One seeing the term for the first time might easily imagine that a pot walloper was a species of ichthyosaurus or some other reptile of a past age. It will be discovered upon inquiry, however, that the term "pot walloper" is literally one who boils a pot and was applied to voters in certain boroughs of England where before the passage of the reform bill of 1832 the qualifications for suffrage was to have boiled (walloped) his own pot in the parish for six months.—London Notes and Queries.

Wonderful Musical Memory.

Sir John Stainer had a wonderful musical memory. It was put to the test once at the Crystal palace when he had to play the organ in the "Messiah" and a folio copy, on which alone he could see the score, was not forthcoming. The conductor was in despair. Sir John cut the knot by a wonderful tour de force, playing the part faultlessly right through and entirely from memory, probably the only time the "Messiah" has been so rendered.—London Standard.

Numismatics.

Nephew (just returned from abroad)—This franc piece, aunt, I got in Paris. Aunt Hepsy—I wish, nephew, you'd fetched home one of them Latin quarters they talk so much about.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Braggart.

"Pa, what is a braggart?"

"He's a man, my son, who is not afraid to express his real opinion of himself."—Boston Transcript.

The great question is not so much what money you have in your pocket as what you will buy with it.—Ruskin.

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m

ASSETS, $450,000.
QUINCY CO-OP BANK
ESTABLISHED 1889
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE
Room 1 SAVINGS BK BUILDING
R. D. CHASE, Treas.

WHEN IN WANT
OF GOOD
Plants and Flowers
CALL UP
WM. PATTERSON
HE HAS THEM
Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias
at Reasonable Prices.
92 South Central Ave., Wollaston
Tel. 302-1 Quincy. Dec. 20-tf

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | FROM BOSTON Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r *5 14 | abcdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | lhgfedcba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 | abc | 6 38 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abc | 7 08 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abc | 7 38 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adel | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 29 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 08 | 9 43 | Exp | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 | abcde | 8 15 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abc | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 00 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 09 |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edcba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | dcba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 5 46 | lhgfedcba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 | abcdefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedcba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedcba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abcdef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 | abcdef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedcba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 24 | lhgfedcba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | lhgfedcba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | lhgfedcba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | lhgfedcba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abcdefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | lhgfedcba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abcdefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | lhgfedcba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | lhgfedcba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abcdefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abcdefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | lhgfedcba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 36 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

"The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.
*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.14, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46 A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.03, 7.21, 9.27, 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.27, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

LOOK UNDER "Q."
Quincy Daily Ledger

Only One Cent
Means Help for the
Tuberculosis Camp

Have Your Clothes Washed by the
NEW SYSTEM
WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.
Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.
Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

HOUSE LOTS
FOR SALE
Elm and Dysart Streets.
Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.
Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m. Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.30 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.35 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Ponit, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.37 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.59, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.
THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

Sandberg Bros.--Clearance Sale
To Let
For Sale
Wanted
Pung for sale

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 23 degrees |
| Dec. 29, 1908, | 35 degrees |
| Dec. 29, 1907, | 36 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

Frozen water pipes were in style this morning and plumbers were busy.

The Meadow Brook Ice Co., has been busy all the week clearing their ponds of snow.

Gangs of men went through Hancock street on Tuesday cutting off the loose wires that were hanging in the street.

The Sodality of St. Mary's church will hold a whist party and social at St. Mary's hall next Wednesday evening.

Charles H. Johnson is to give his illustrated lecture "Historic Quincy" at the Universalist church in Hingham early in January.

The Young People's society of Christian Endeavor of Bethany church will hold a New Years consecration meeting Sunday evening at 7.30.

Those boys and girls whom Santa Claus remembered with skates at Christmas have not had an opportunity to use them. The new sled however is being worked overtime.

The many friends of Mrs. McLaughlin of Bates avenue will be glad to know that she has recovered from her recent illness and is now able to be about.

The many friends of Peter Kerr who is a favorite member of the Bryant A. C., will be glad to know that he has recovered from his sickness and is now able to be about.

Arthur H. Dunstan of the Quincy post office has purchased through the real estate agency of James F. Burke the estate on Summer street owned by the late Dr. Padula.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Water Street Presbyterian church held a social Tuesday evening, entertaining a few guests. There was an informal entertainment, followed by refreshments.

The funeral of John H. Ryan of 72 Common street, who died Monday, was held this morning from St. Mary's church, and was very largely attended. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Francis Walsh of Chelsea. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

Patrick Caven and Hanial Nelson both members of the Bryant A. C. and also members of the U. S. navy have returned to their ships. Tuesday night they were given a hearty farewell by their brother members. Mr. Caven's ship is the New York, which is now in Philadelphia, and Mr. Nelson's ship is the Constellation at the Newport training station.

The Ledger received today by mail the announcement of the engagement of two well known young people but as the communication was unsigned and telephones are out of commission, the announcement could not be verified hence it is not published today. Name and address should always be sent to the editor as a guarantee of good faith.

I. O. O. F. OFFICERS.

Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., elected the following officers Tuesday evening:

N. G.—Abel S. Gomez.
V. G.—Walter H. Walker.
R. S.—James S. Baker.
P. S.—Arthur W Stetson.
Treasurer—E. Frank Mitchell.
Trustee for three years—William J. Williams.

DEATHS.

SCOLANERO—In Quincy, Dec. 28, Michael, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquali Scolanero, of 12 Trafford street.

FLOOD—In Quincy, Dec. 28, Elizabeth Flood, aged 80 years.
Funeral from the residence of Mrs. George Cahill, 95 Water street, Thursday, Dec. 30, at 8.30 A. M. High mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

SPRAGUE—In Marshfield, Dec. 26, Mrs. M. Louise, wife of Mr. Horatio B. Sprague, aged 60 years.

WRISLEY—In Brookline, Dec. 27, Frank A. Wrisley of Quincy.
Funeral services at 116 Thorndike street, Brookline, Dec. 30, at 1 o'clock. Burial private. Dec. 28-2t

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

TEAM THREE WINS FOUR

In the Norfolk Downs Bowling League

Team 3 won all four points in the Norfolk Downs league on Tuesday evening with Team 1, the scores being:

TEAM THREE

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Richardson | 93 | 91 | 99 | 283 |
| Marbach | 89 | 93 | 90 | 272 |
| Irish | 96 | 89 | 90 | 275 |
| Poland | 94 | 102 | 104 | 300 |
| W. Bugbee | 95 | 101 | 103 | 299 |
| | 467 | 476 | 486 | 1429 |

TEAM ONE

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Tabb | 85 | 88 | 93 | 266 |
| S. Burns | 92 | 92 | 97 | 281 |
| Ross | 80 | 90 | 96 | 266 |
| R. Burns | 81 | 97 | 81 | 265 |
| Macleod | 89 | 94 | 95 | 268 |
| | 433 | 461 | 462 | 1356 |

BASKET BALL AT MILTON.

On Christmas day the Silent Five basket ball team of the Cunningham gymnasium played two games with the fast Portland, Me., team at the gymnasium. The afternoon game was won by the home team by the score of 24 to 23. In the evening the game was just as exciting and close, the Portland five coming out winners by one basket 14 to 12. Rich and Shields excelled for Milton.

The Silent Five will line up against the fast Dorchester A. A. Saturday night at the Cunningham gym. The Dorchester team has several former high school stars in its line-up, and there should be a red hot game for the Silent Five have some speed boys of their own.

MILTON HIGH WINS.

It was a rather one-sided contest at the Cunningham gymnasium on Tuesday afternoon, when the Milton High five took the Bridgewater Normal lads into camp by the score of 38 to 16. The home team scored 18 points before the Bridgewater team got started and clinched the game. The contest was full of sensational shooting, the best of which was contributed by Cross, O'Connell and W. Stuart, while Fox and Pickett excelled for the visitors.

The summary:

| Milton | Normal |
|---|---|
| H. S. Stuart, r.f. | l.b., Dunn |
| W. Stuart, l.f. | r.b., Pickett |
| Sangster, l.f. | |
| Carson, c. | c., Fox |
| Cross, r.b. | l.f., McKinnoul |
| O'Connell, l.b. | r.f., Hayes |

Score—Milton 38; Normal 16. Goals from floor—Carson (8) Cross (5), Sangster (3), O'Connell (2), Fox, Hayes (2), Dunn, W. Stuart, McKinnoul, Pickett. Goals from fouls—Fox (4). Time—20 and 15-minute halves. Referee—Craig. Scorer—J. Reid. Timer—Hern, Everett. Attendance—250.

CLAIM A TIE.

The Tamany club claim that the score was a tie in their contest last week with the West Quincy C. C.—30 to 30.

CHRISTMAS AT POND HOME.

Mrs. C. W. Guy of Butler road and Mrs. Thomas F. Fenno of Hancock street represented Quincy on Tuesday at the Christmas festival at the Pond Home for the Aged at Foxboro. Other friends came from Milton, Waltham, Brookline, Readville, Hyde Park, Dedham, Norwood, Walpole, Foxboro and Pondville. A lunch was served upon the arrival of the geusts. Miss Robinson of Gordon Rest sang an old English Christmas carol.

Then all adjourned to the parlors. Mrs. Mary M. Sawtelle, president of the board of trustees, gave words of greeting and called upon Mrs. Helen M. Dean to offer prayer. Mrs. Sawtelle introduced Mrs. Wheatie Farley of Waltham, state secretary, and Miss Brokenshire of East Milton, state treasurer, of the King's Daughters, who spoke. Miss Elsie Walton of Dedham gave two recitations.

The presents were distributed from a tree and a social time was enjoyed, during which Calvin Hartshorn contributed piano selections.

His Provisions.

Bootmaker (to arctic explorer just returned)—How did you like those boots I made for you, sir? Arctic Explorer—Excellent! Best I ever tasted. —London Tatler.

HARVARD'S CHINESE ATHLETE

Kao Chow Li May Develop Into Record Breaker.

For the first time in its history Harvard university is to be represented in track athletics next season by a Chinese athlete. Kao Chow Li, resident of America by special edict of his emperor, recently broke all precedents at the college by announcing that he is out for athletic honors.

Armed with a record as a track man that might well be the envy of many an American youth, an expert socker player and formerly captain of a team

COPYRIGHT, BOSTON PHOTO NEWS CO.

KAO CHOW LI, WHO HAS STARTLED HARVARD COACHES.

in his own land, he not only has startled students at Cambridge by his defense of his own countrymen as men of athletic ability, but he declares he is ready at any moment to back up his assertions and to this end is prepared to beat Americans at their own game.

For some time past Li has been practicing running, jumping and pole vaulting and has made good at them all. He has been playing socker football with the Crimson men and has given promise of developing into a crack.

NATIONAL GOLF TOURNEY.

Amateur Event May Be Held Over Brookline (Mass.) Links.

Unless the present situation changes before the annual meeting of the United States Golf association in New York Jan. 21 the amateur championship is likely to be awarded to the Country club of Brookline, the suburban Boston organization, which has tendered the use of its lately improved links. The contest is due geographically in the New England section in 1910.

The Chicago Golf club of Wheaton, Ill., where the same event was held this year, has offered its course for the national open championship.

No direct tender has been made for the women's championship, but four clubs have extended the use of their courses for any event—the Fox Hills club of Staten Island, N. Y.; the Essex Country club of Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass.; the Atlantic City (N. J.) Country club and the Philadelphia Cricket club.

COLLEGES LEAD IN AIR RACING

Notre Dame, Indiana, Harvard and Penn Interested.

A half dozen of the larger colleges have already organized aero clubs, and there is a strong probability that a competitive intercollegiate meet will be held in the near future. The University of Notre Dame, Indiana; the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Harvard and the University of Pennsylvania are among the leaders in the movement.

Pennsylvania students will purchase an aeroplane in the spring and issue challenges to other colleges.

Long Sailing Race.

The Brooklyn Yacht club will feature the season of 1910 with a deep sea race for sailboats to Charleston, S. C. There will also be a race to Cape May for power boats for a $1,000 cup.

FUTURE SPORT EVENTS

Providence, R. I., will entertain the Atlantic catboat conference on Jan. 15.

San Francisco will hold the western bowling congress the week of March 26.

Papke, "the Illinois Thunderbolt," has signed articles for a twenty round bout with the winner of the Willie Lewis-Harry Lewis bout to take place in Paris in the latter part of February. Papke will go abroad about the middle of January.

Montreal yachtsmen are making arrangements with a view to a contest for the Seawanhaka cup in 1910. In 1905 the Manchester Yacht club won the cup from the Royal St. Lawrence club after the latter had held it for eight years. No race has occurred since that time.

HOCKEY STARS COME HIGH.

War Among Leading Clubs In Canada Boosts Salaries.

LARGE OFFER FOR WALSH.

Great Forward Promised $2,500 For Ten Weeks' Play by Renfrew Club and $200 Bonus to Play Entire Season—Taylor of Ottawa Another.

There is reason to believe that the fabulous prices paid the star professional ice hockey players in Canada last winter, which made many old timers gasp, will be surpassed before the present season is passed into the well filled annals of the sport across the border. Had it not been for the hockey war between the Canadian Hockey association and the National Hockey association the figures established last year might have stood unassailed, but under present conditions and judging from the reports about the large sums of money already there is every reason to believe that the professional hockey players of the Dominion will reap a harvest.

The hockey player's life—that is, his period of usefulness in the fast and strenuous professional game—is comparatively short, and he must grab all the money he can while he is a star. Like baseball, many of these men enter the sport to gather enough funds to start them in business, and many of them have "made good."

The prices paid these players appear on the surface to be enormous, and as a matter of fact they are, but when the great risk of personal and serious injury taken by the puck chasers is considered they are worth all they can get.

This is in no way advocating the jumping of contracts, so much in vogue at the present time. Although there is no governing body, a player certainly should honor any contract which he is under unless it be unfair.

Until the war has been settled and one or other of the organizations has taken the final count there does not appear to be a chance of any commission with the same powers as the national commission of baseball being formed. But just as soon as this strife is over the agitation among hockey promoters is so strong that a commission will be appointed and rules and regulations drafted which will make the professional hockey players honor their contracts and will restrict club owners from stealing players. There will be a drafting season and one for the purchasing of players. Under these improved conditions hockey is bound to become the leading winter pastime not only of Canada, but of this country as well.

Marty Walsh, who is conceded to be one of the best forwards in the Dominion, has received an offer of $2,500 for ten weeks' play, a bonus of $200 if he plays the complete season and the guarantee of a position at $1,200 per annum, good the year round, from the Renfrew Hockey club. Renfrew is backed by millionaires who are doing their best to get together a team which will wrest the Stanley cup from the Ottawas, and they are going the limit at offering big money to the hockey players to get them to sign up with that team.

Fred Taylor, the great cover point of the Ottawa seven, has received an offer very similar, but has turned it down. He was to get $2,000 for ten weeks' play and a position at a salary of $1,200 a year.

The average salary paid the professional hockey player in the Dominion for about nine weeks' play is probably $1,000, but there are several luminaries at puck chasing who are compensated for their services in much larger checks. Some draw as high as $2,000 for the season.

It is generally conceded that the average baseball player receives a stipend of about $3,000 a season for nearly seven months' daily work. Hockey is too strenuous a game to request a man to play it every night, and when all this time is taken into consideration it will be found that the salaries paid hockey players touch a higher mark than those given the ball tossers.

English Polo Team Coming.

England is going to send over her crack polo team just to win back the polo championship. The international polo contest will take place at Saratoga, N. Y., during the racing season there. The famous Hurlingham polo team of England have accepted an invitation from Harry Payne Whitney to come over and play for the cup which Mr. Whitney and his American polo team won from them in England last summer.

To Make Cycling Less Dangerous.

In Europe new bicycle racing rules have been adopted on account of so many riders being killed behind motors last year. The German kaiser insists that all racing machines be equipped with a roller forty centimeters, or fifteen inches, from the back wheel. This places the rider almost half a wheel's length from his pacemaker, and it makes it harder for the rider to follow pace.

McFarland Going Abroad.

Packey McFarland, the Chicago lightweight, has decided to take a trip to England and will sail for the other side the second week in January.

COLOSSUS OF RHODES.

One of the Ancient Seven Wonders of the World.

The ancients succeeded in making that alloy of copper which is known as bronze. Among the seven wonders of the world was the famous statue, wholly made of bronze, historically known as the Colossus of Rhodes. It represented Phoebus, the national deity of the Rhodians. It was begun by Chares, a pupil of Lysippus, the sculptor, and was completed by Laches 288 B. C. The popular belief is that it stood astride the harbor of Rhodes, that it was 105 feet high and that ships could easily sail between its legs.

Pliny said that few men could clasp its thumb. It was cast on metal plates, afterward joined together, and this process occupied twelve years. In the interior was a spiral staircase reaching into its head, and in a great mirror suspended to its neck were reflected the coast of Syria and the ships sailing to Egypt.

After it had stood for sixty-four years this colossus was overthrown by an earthquake, and its remains lay on the shore for 923 years—that is, until A. D. 672—when they were sold by the Saracens to a dealer. The original cost was 300 talents—about $6,000,000—and it is not too much to say that a similar image might be constructed now in one-fourth of the time and at one-third of the original cost. Rhodes, by the way, must have had colossus on the brain, for Pliny relates that the port was adorned with 1,000 colossal statues of the sun.

LONDON THEATERS.

The Ordeal of Getting Past the Aged Ticket Taker.

The first difference I always find between going to the play in London and in New York is that in New York the man who has paid for a seat is made to feel that he is a patron of the house, while in London he is greeted by the staff of the theater not exactly as an intruder, but as a necessary evil. They appreciate that an audience is a necessary evil, but sooner than have one they would almost prefer to close the house.

In London for that importantly strategic outpost of ticket taker an old man of eighty is always employed. You think this is accident, but it is not. Old age naturally suggests failing eyesight, and when he keeps you waiting in the foyer while he examines your ticket and assures himself that it is not a laundry bill or a motor bus receipt you attribute the delay to his old eyes. But in detaining you he has a motive. Standing at his elbow, scowling darkly, there always is another man, apparently a plain clothes out from Scotland Yard, uncomfortably disguised in evening dress. And while the aged ticket taker pretends to scrunitize your ticket the lookout man scans you. You cannot escape his eye. He never sleeps. No American, no matter how reckless, can hope to pass that man with a concealed bomb or a revolver or wearing a white tie with a dinner coat.—Collier's.

Flies at Sea.

The finding of flies and butterflies a long way out at sea is perhaps to most readers a fact not very well known. A recent traveler in the tropics relates that when thirty miles out from land a plague of flies overtook the vessel on which he was steaming. The cabin was so full of them that the beams were blackened. Common black housefilies they were for the most part, with, however, a good sprinkling of large green flies. Where they could have come from was a mystery, but they were a terrible nuisance, and, although those on board swept off hundreds in a net, their numbers were not sensibly diminished. Another singular circumstance was that, although no land was in sight, large dragon flies repeatedly flew across the ship, and a large dark butterfly was observed to flit across in the direction of the nearest land, quite thirty miles away, without stopping to rest on the vessel at all.—London Globe.

Both Rather Flippant.

There is a curious parallelism between two stories told respectively of the late Mr. Spurgeon and of Dean Swift.

Mr. Spurgeon on hearing of the devastation wrought by an earthquake in Essex merely remarked, "I am glad to hear that my county is moving at last."

The dean of St. Patrick's, Dublin, was watching with a friend the roof of a building on which several men were at work fixing slates. Suddenly one of the men vanished. Thereupon the dean turned to his companion and said, "I like to see a man go quickly through his work."

Egotism of Genius.

When Wordsworth, Southey and Coleridge were walking together, and Coleridge remarked that the day was so fine "it might have been ordered for three poets," the gentle Wordsworth promptly exclaimed: "Three poets! Who are the other two?"

Disraeli, when a mere youth, wrote to his sister that he had heard Macaulay, Sheil and Grant speak, "but between ourselves I could floor them all." And again he said, "When I want to read a good book I write one."

His Birthday.

"When were you born?" asked an inquisitive of Robert Louis one day. "May 10, 1880," was the instant reply, and Robert Louis and Fanny Stevenson exchanged glances. This was their wedding day.

A Foot Rule.

Workman—Is there a foot rule in this house? Housekeeper—Yes. Everybody wipes their feet on this mat before they dare come in!—Comic Cuts.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

LOST

LOST--A Garnet Ring with initials on inside, an opal stud and an African beetle, between boulevard and West Quincy Depot. Return to WALSH'S Drug Store, West Quincy and recieve reward. Quincy, Dec. 24-3t

LOST—Dec. 20th, about 5 P. M., Boston Terrier pup leather strap around neck; four months old. Return to 7 Alleyne Terrace. Reward. Dec. 23-6t

LOST--Between Whitney road and Bigelow street, about 6 P. M., Dec. 25th, gentleman's bag containing baby's clothes and a doll. Return and obtain reward to 6 Bigelow street. Quincy, Dec. 27 3t

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Sleigh. Upholstered back cushion. All in excellent condition. Price $10. R. D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building. Quincy, Dec. 29-4t

FOR SALE—Nine Room House, modern improvements. 12,000 feet of land. Best location. Will sell very reasonable for quick sale. Apply at 155 Atlantic street. Dec 29-3t

FOR SALE or TO LET--Before you buy or rent, consult me. Houses for sale or to rent in the finest residential section in Quincy All improvements. Close to school, churches stores and depot. C. A. ERICSON, Builder 117 Glendale Road. Tel. Quincy 28-2. May 22-tf W and Sat.

FOR SALE—A fine double sleigh, also a set of hub runners. Address R. Ledger Office Dec. 27 3t

FOR SALE—Two second hand single sleighs, one second hand speed sleigh, one double runner pung. No reasonable offer refused. HENRY F. EMERSON 1500 Hancock street. Quincy, Dec. 28 3t

FOR SALE—New Top sleigh, never been used. Paint and varnish perfect. For sale cheap. DR. E. R. JOHNSON, Wollaston. Dec. 28 1-6t p 1w

FOR SALE—Single seat sleigh. Apply to B. J. TALBOT, Brown & Crowell's store, corner Water and Franklin streets. Quincy, Dec. 28 3t

CHINA TO BUY WARSHIPS.

Minister Chang Yin Tang of China will play the part of a delayed Santa Claus to a number of American business enterprises winthin the next few days says the Boston Transcript, when he will take the first step toward consummation of the $20,000,000 purchase of war material in this country. The Chinese Government has already laid aside the sum which may be expended during the year 1910. The plans, subject to modification, call for a first-class battleship for use in the Yellow Sea, not to exceed 15,000 displacement, an armored cruiser of the latest approved type and four torpedo boats. About $2,000,000 will be expended for ammunition.

Still at It.

Here lies a chauffeur who on earth
Scorched round for all that he was worth.
If he got his deserts, I vow,
Somewhere he must be scorching now.
—Detroit Free Press.

Wouldn't Do.

"New mown hay is a delightful perfume. We sell lots of it."

"Have you something with a gasoline odor? I want people to think I own a motorcar, not a horse."—Life.

We All Remember.

Though memory often spurns its debts
Of hate, it never smothers
Some kindly debts, for who forgets
His kindnesses to others?
—Catholic Standard and Times.

Sensible Answer.

"Papa, when are the black notes used on an organ?"

"Only at funerals, my boy."—Harvard Lampoon.

Would She?

They say that riches do but cloy.
The woman with a bale
Of coin would probably not enjoy
A twenty-nine cent sale.
—Kansas City Journal.

WANTED.

WANTED--Young Men of ambition for Second Term Work in the Y. M. C. A. Evening School, Mechanical Drawing, Monumental and Free-hand Drawing, Clay Modeling. Rates reduced. Terms easy. Dec. 29-1f

WANTED—Young men to learn automobile business by mail and prepare for positions as chauffeurs and repair men. We make you expert in ten weeks; assist you to secure position. Pay big; work pleasant; demand for men great; reasonable; write for particulars and sample lesson. Empire Automobile Institute, Rochester, N. Y. Dec. 24 3t

TO LET

TO LET—Nicely furnished eight room Modern House. Nice location. Desirable family. Terms very moderate. Address care of Carrier C., Atlantic P. O. Dec. 29-3t

TO LET—A Tenement of 5 rooms and bath. Electric cars pass the door. Three minutes from railroad station. Apply at 169 Franklin street. Quincy, Dec. 28-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN. Dec. 21 12t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neighborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-1f

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 301-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-18t

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-1f

TO LET

Lodging Room—Furnished. Steam heat. Dargin-Merrill Block.

Tenement—Rear of Dargin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x43 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

TELEPHONE CON. HOURS 9-12 2-5
DR. A. B. PACKARD
(HARVARD '97)
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

(ADVERTISE.)

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 293 | QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 30, 1909 | PRICE TWO CENTS

RUBBERS

The Reliable GOODYEAR GLOVE Brand

We have all kinds of up-to-date
BEST QUALITY RUBBERS
From THE SMALLEST TO THE LARGEST Sizes

Our Prices are low, Our Rubbers
Are the best to be had at any Price

GEORGE W. JONES
No. 1 Granite St., Quincy

SANDBERG BROS.

CLEARANCE SALE

To wind up this, our banner year in business, we offer this week everything in stock at
REDUCED PRICES
It will pay you to come in and look over our stock of
WATCHES, DIAMONDS AND JEWELRY
and the prices will convince you that now is the time to invest.

We have on hand a number of FULL JEWEL WALTHAM and ROCKFORD WATCHES, slightly shop-worn, that we wish to dispose of below cost.

Sandberg Bros.
JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE
Dec. 20-1m

? ? ? ?

WHICH?

It's up to you!

You Can Get
Good Coal
You Can Get
Poor Coal

It's your business and right to protect yourself.
It's your business and right to investigate.

SEARCHLIGHT US!
'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.

Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

AFTERMATH OF STORM

The City Without Telegraphic Service

Although considerable progress has been made toward clearing up the wreckage caused by Sunday's storm, there still remains much to be done. The Street Railway company has succeeded in opening up all of their lines, and today every line is being operated its full length and cars are running on the schedule time.

With the Telephone company some progress has been made, although to subscribers whose instruments are not working it does not seem so. The company had nearly two hundred lines that were blown down. Some of these were long runs and it will be necessary in many cases to reconstruct the line for its entire length. Those whose instruments were on lines of short runs will be the first to get renewed service. At the office of the company on Merrymount road Wednesday night it was said that the company was doing everything possible. Their first attention was given to connecting up the physicians, newspaper men and fire stations and practically all of these instruments were again working.

With the fire alarm the job is a difficult one. Not only were many of the lines down, but quite a few of the tappers and boxes were burned out, and this means quite a job in itself to rewind all the spools. Up to Wednesday night but five boxes were in working order. These boxes are 35, 23, 26, 126 and 28, or the territory between School street and Greenleaf street. A large force of men are at work on the other circuits, but it will be some days before all circuits are again working.

As for telegraph service there is none at present from Quincy station, as the poles and wires are all down between Quincy and Atlantic. At the office at the Quincy depot it was said that the telegraph line over the Granite branch was working, but that was all. They could not tell when the main line would be in order.

The Electric Light company are also up against a hard proposition. Although many of the house lighting circuits and power circuits are in working order, none of the street light circuits are working as yet, and it can not be said just when they will be. Not only were the wires down but in many cases the arms from which the arc lights were suspended are broken and twisted all out of shape. This means that they will have to be replaced before the lights can be turned on.

Reports of the damage continue to come in, and every day something new is reported. At Quincy Point one of the large chimneys on the apartment house on Stewart street was blown down, and as it fell it stove a large hole in the roof, doing considerable damage.

At the foot of River street where many yachts are hauled up for the winter, considerable damage was done. The high tide came way up above what was considered a safe point when the boats were hauled out of the water, with the results that several of the yachts were thrown about and the banging together of these boats damaged them considerably.

TRACKS BLOCKED.

The electric car service was badly mixed up and delayed for over two hours last night on the Neponset lines. A teamster was going along the tracks on Hancock street north of Squantum street, toward Quincy, when he attempted to turn out sharply to escape a car approaching him. The pung caught in the tracks and in an instant the contents and pung were scattered on the tracks. It was over two hours before the tracks were cleared and cars could get back to schedule time. The driver was arrested for drunkenness as he was lying in the snow entirely helpless.

—Eighteen to twenty degree temperature was reported in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont on Wednesday.

TWO MORE LAUNCHINGS

A Big Year for the Fore River Company

Two more vessels were launched at the Fore River Shipyard today. The launchings were not attended with any ceremony and the boats went overboard without sponsors. The launchings took place at high water. The molasses boat Fifi, built for the Porto Rico Molasses Co., went over first, and was followed by a government boat known as Ammunition Lighter N. 13. The work of launching was in charge of Mr. Godfrey.

This makes 15 steel ships that have been launched this year by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, the same number as last year. The Quincy fleet now numbers 60, including four battleships.

FAREWELL TO REV. ATWOOD

Reception at Quincy Point Tomorrow Night

A farewell reception to Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood, who recently resigned his pastorate in Quincy, will be held by the Washington Street Congregational church Friday evening. A parish meeting will be held the first part of the evening. At this meeting action will be taken toward filling the vacancy, and the parish will probably vote to extend a call to one of the clerymen who has occupied the pulpit at the church on several occasions recently. The meeting will be followed at 8 o'clock by a reception to Rev. and Mrs. Atwood. A large gathering of the parishioners of the church is expected.

BETHANY BIBLE READING CLUB.

The last meeting of the Bethany Bible reading club was held Wednesday evening. Supper was served at 6 o'clock. After the supper plans for the work of the Bible school for the coming year were discussed. The following resolutions were also passed by a unanimous rising vote. "The officers and the teachers of Bethany Bible school gathered at the close of the old year and recognizing the growth and prosperity of the school and the untiring effort of Mr. E. W. Branch as superintendent, wish publicly to express their deep appreciation of the work and worth of Mr. Branch, and desire also to pledge themselves to renewed consecration to the work of the Bible school for the coming year."

The last lecture of the Reading club was given by the Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern of South Braintree, on "The Philosophy and Mission of the Apoca Lypse." It was an exceptionally scholarly and eloquent presentation of a profound and difficult subject.

DANCE AT ALPHA HALL.

Alpha hall was the scene of a very pretty party, Tuesday evening, when the Young People's Religious Union of First church gave a dance. There were about forty couple present coming from Wollaston and Braintree as well as from Quincy. The dance was from eight until twelve, Merrill's orchestra of Wollaston furnishing the music. The matrons were Mrs. Henry E. Hardwick, Mrs. R. R. Smith and Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis. The dance was a success in every way, financially as well as socially, and great credit is due Miss Lela B. Smith who was the chairman of the committee in charge being assisted by the officers of the Union, consisting of Mrs. G. G. Saville, Miss Minnie Hardwick, Miss Blanche Morrison, Rev. Charles B. Ames and L. Brewster Walker.

TENNIS CLUB DANCE

Beautiful Gowns Adorned Young Ladies

One of the prettiest dancing parties of the season was that of the Quincy Tennis club Wednesday evening at Music hall. It was a dance that called out all of the younger set, and was therefore a very enjoyable as well as a dressy party. Pooles orchestra furnished the musical accompaniment and dancing was in order from 8 to 11.30.

The reception corner looked particularly attractive. The matrons were Mrs. Russell A. Sears, Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur and Mrs. Luther W. Glover. Mrs. Sears and Mrs. Blackmur were in white, and Mrs. Glover in pink, the three ladies making a very charming picture.

The ushers were well known tennis men their distinguishing mark being a small tennis racquet worn as a boutonniere. The ushers were Walter E. Burke, Delcevare King, J. Brooks Keyes, Henry R. Holden, Nathaniel S. Hunting, Charles A. Price, Warren G. Ogden, Lorenzo H. Gilson, George F. Hall, Carleton C. Lane, Laurance H. Sturtevant, George E. Pfaffmann, James H. Slade, H. E. Frick and Moreton T. Swallow.

Many of the gowns worn by the ladies were handsome creations of the dressmakers' art.

Mrs. Russell A. Sears in Irish lace.

Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, white princess lace.

Mrs. Luther W. Glover in pink satin and white lace.

Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth in blue silk with silver embroidery.

Mrs. William Dewson in a black Spanish lace and spangled trimmings.

Mrs. Clarence Burgin in light blue silk and gold trimmings.

Mrs. Henry I. Hall, yellow silk with a'alencon lace with tunic.

Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann in old rose silk, tunic effect.

Mrs. Walter E. Burke in cloth of silver and diamonds.

Mrs. E. H. Angier, blark lace.

Mrs. Warren Ogden in lemon colored lace trimmed with white lace.

Mrs. Brooks Keyes, yellow satin with beaded lace.

Mrs. N. S. Hunting in white silk with gold lace trimmings and hair ornaments.

Mrs. Charles A. Price, in ivory brocaded satin, with corsage of poinsetta.

Mrs. George Hall, blue silk with point lace trimmed waist.

Mrs. James L. Edwards in reseda silk, gold ornaments.

Mrs. George Follett in white satin with corsage of jacqueminot roses.

Mrs. Barbour, white silk with overskirt of gold spangled lace.

Mrs. Henry R. Holden, white satin.

Mrs. Arthur Harris, light yellow satin skirt with embroidered lace bolero.

Mrs. Edward Pratt, in black lace.

Mrs. George Homer, silver gray brocaded silk.

Miss Marguerite Davis, pink crepe de chine satin, crystal ornaments.

Miss Georgianna Lane, black crepe de chine with jet trimmings.

Miss Lucille Jacobs, light pink satin with silver lace.

Miss Mollie Rogers, light blue silk.

Miss Edna Smith, blue silk lace trimmings.

Miss Louise Steele, flowered muslin.

Miss Catherine Saville, light yellow satin.

Miss Ruth Penniman, light blue satin.

Mrs. Fred Drake, blue silk.

Mrs. Edwin B. Pratt, black satin.

Mrs. Harry Slade, grey chiffon.

Mrs. Edwin Morse, light blue silk.

Mrs. Hobart, baby blue silk.

—It doesn't seem just like cantaloupe weather but the dealers are looking ahead to their being with us another season for a big New York wholesale fruit concern has bought practically the entire cantaloupe crop to be grown in Colorado next season, says the Denver News. It is expected that the crop will be exceptionally fine, and special preparations will be made to excel all those grown in past years.

Free Trial Electric Lighting

As a special inducement to the citizens of Quincy, whose homes or stores have never been wired for electric light, the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company makes the following proposition:

To all who will expend at least twenty dollars ($20) for wiring and fixtures, before January 31st, 1910, the Company will make the service connections, install meter and standard carbon filament lamps without charge, and will also FURNISH FREE twenty dollars ($20) worth of electric current . . . at regular meter rates to be used before June 30th, 1910, provided the premises can be reached from the present lines of the Company without the setting of additional poles. This concession will go far towards paying the entire cost of wiring the average house.

For further particulars telephone Quincy, 185, between the hours of 8 A. M. and 5 P. M., or fill out and mail to the Company, No. 9 Granite Street, Quincy, the attached coupon.

Quincy Electric Light & Power Company
By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.
Quincy, Mass, December 22nd, 1909.

COUPON.

QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER CO.:
Gentlemen:
I am interested in your offer of Free Trial Electric Lighting. Please have your representative call and give me full information.

Name.....
Address, No......Street,
Date of Appointment.....Time

Dec. 22—12 t

THE Y. M. C. A. SCHOOL

Second Term Will Open Next Week

The Y. M. C. A. evening school will open its second term on Tuesday night, Jan. 4, at the Association building. The classes in mechanical drawing are doing excellent work, the advanced men are making detailed drawings of gasolene engines, which has been secured for use in the class room.

The monumental and free hand drawing class and the clay modeling classes are working from some new examples in plaster, a new consignment of which have just been received. During the next term the school should do better work than ever before.

The association can handle more men and are anxious to be of service to ambitious young men along the line of their trades. A substantial reduction in prices will be made for this term's work, and reasonable arrangements can be made with the secretary for payment.

This is a great opportunity for any young men who desire to learn, as the teachers employed are thoroughly practical men, doing daily the thing which they are teaching evenings. Call at the association at once for full particulars.

—For the second time in the history of American institutions of learning the 6,000 mark has been passed in registration, Columbia having about 6,300 students now. Harvard had an attendance of 6,013 students in 1903, but has not again reached that total. Cornell is the fifth institution to pass 5,000, being preceded by Harvard, Columbia, Chicago and Michigan universities. A comprehensive survey of the national field shows marked relative gains by Western universities and colleges. They are rapidly overhauling older Eastern institutions which have, so to speak, got their growth.

ASSETS, $450,000.
ESTABLISHED 1889
QUINCY CO-OP BANK
$ $ $ $ $
for the people
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS B'K BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Man Pinned Beneath Ammunition Car

Henry Mangold of South Bethelehem, Penn., was struck by an ammunition car Wednesday afternoon at the Fore River works and his spine badly injured. He was operated on this morning and the doctors have hopes of his recovery.

The injured man was in Quincy on contract work for a firm in South Elizabeth, which is installing the ammunition hoists in the battleship North Dakota. The work on the hoist was practically completed, everything being in readiness for a final test and Mangold was at the base of the turret examining and looking it over, when by some mistake, the motor was started, and the ammunition car jammed down upon him pinning him between the floor of the turret and the car.

As soon as possible the car was raised and the victim taken to the yard hospital. At first it was thought that his back was broken, but later reports say that he may recover.

He is 40 years of age and has a wife and family in South Bethelehem. While employed here he has been rooming at the Y. M. C. A.

☞"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

YOUR NEW DRESS

Order your new dress of us. Come in, pick out your goods or bring them with you, have our expert tailoress take your measure and we will prove that our specialty is high class tailoring and dressmaking. All we ask is a chance to fit you. We know you will be one of our regular customers for ever after. All of Sarkin's clothes are perfect in fashion, fit and finish. Call today and see why all come here for good clothes.

H. SARKIN
1369 Hancock Street, City Square, Quincy
t f s.-tf

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gragg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.,
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Of No Further Use.

A Passenger—'Ere! Whoa! There's an old bloke fell off the bus!
The Conductor — Orl right, sonny. 'E's paid 'is fare.—Sketch.

BRIEFS

Tomorrow will be the last day of 1909.

Several sleigh parties are being planned.

The Old Colony club of Weymouth observed its annual gentlemen's night on Friday evening at Fogg's Opera house.

The younger boys of the Y. M. C. A. are going on a sleigh ride this afternoon and evening. About 25 will probably participate in the fun.

The regular whist party of the Spanish War Veterans and Ladies Auxiliary, which was to have taken place next Monday night, has been postponed until Wednesday of the same week, Jan. 5.

The huge plate glass window in the drug store on the corner of Billings road and Hancock street was broken during the storm and the force of the wind smashed it all to pieces so that it is now boarded up. Presumably a wire swinging in the wind did the damage.

—"Society spell-binders from the east and Vassar girls are not needed in this state to assist in the battle for the ballot," said Mrs. May Arkwright Hutton of Spokane, president of the Washington Political Equality league, when advised that Mrs. August Belmont and Mrs. Clarence Mackay are to be asked to send eastern women to the Northwest. "I do not approve of that plan," she added. "We shall employ only western men and women to present our side to the electors of the state of Washington. There is some talk that Mrs. Mackay and Mrs. Belmont have selected Miss Inez Mulholland of New York, a graduate of Vassar, to come to this state as one of the chief speakers in the campaign to be made in 1910. We may ask for speakers from Idaho, Utah and Colorado and other states, but we do not believe that eastern women will aid our cause just now."

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-2. Residence 323-2.

Red Cross Stamps
On New Years Letters
Carry Good Cheer

READ LEDGER ADS.

OUR MARINES SLAIN IN BATTLE

Zelaya Says Twenty Were Found Dead In Recent Conflict

EXECUTION OF TWO AMERICANS

Ex-President of Nicaragua Denies That Any Official Action of His Concerning Cannon and Groce Was Contrary to Law—He Is Received With Great Acclaim In City of Mexico—Confers With Diaz

Mexico City, Dec. 30.—American marines engaged in a recent battle in Nicaragua and twenty were killed, is the startling declaration made here by ex-President Zelaya.

He asserts there were 400 Americans fighting with the insurgents at the recent battle of Rama. At the battle of the Colorado Junction on Nov. 1 the bodies of twenty American marines were found dead on the field by our forces.

"They were all from the American gunboats anchored in the river to protect American interests," said Zelaya. "The official explanation given me was that these men were deserters."

Zelaya says he never signed an order for the execution of Cannon and Groce, but that it was true he refused to interfere with the sentence of the court martial. He said:

"These men were contracted for in Guatemala to assist the revolutionists. Cannon had only recently been set at liberty in Honduras upon his promise made before the secretary of the American consul to leave Central America forever. Both officers acted as his sponsors.

"The men were engaged at the time of their capture in charting the country and laying mines in the rivers for the destruction of the troopships of the government. They also acted as spies. They were tried by court martial, according to law, and found guilty. I merely approved the findings absolutely in military interests.

"The stories of torture are absurd. The men were not even held incommunicado, as is customary, but were allowed to use telephone and telegraph lines to communicate with their friends.

"I have in my possession statements from both men in which they not only admitted their guilt completely, but asked for pardons, and offered to take commissions with the government forces."

Zelaya arrived here from Salina Cruz Wednesday. As his special car slowed up it was surrounded by a guard of honor and a crowd, and Zelaya was enthusiastically cheered. The cheering lasted for several minutes without a break, while Zelaya, standing on the platform of the private car, bowed and waved his hand. Finally he was compelled to make a speech.

It was significant that he made no mention of the United States. The strong anti-American feeling of the Mexican people broke out, however, and when an enthusiastic American shouted, "Three cheers for the U. S. A.," an angry murmur and hissing were the only response save for the cheers of the other Americans.

In his trips through the streets Zelaya was loudly hailed by the crowds which gathered at several points to cheer him. He was received by President Diaz at the palace and an extended conference took place.

May Yet Be Extradited

Washington, Dec. 28.—The docking of the Guerrero at Salina Cruz, with Zelaya and a party on board is not regarded as a change in the former president's plans. As understood here it was his purpose at the time he left Managua to proceed to the City of Mexico, and there is no doubt that will be his destination. How long he will remain in Mexico, however, is not known here.

The departure of Zelaya from Nicaragua is not regarded in official circles as at all conclusive that he will escape punishment for his crimes in that country. The United States government has, according to the state department, never taken any steps whatever for the apprehension of Zelaya, or to prevent his leaving the country. It preferred to proceed with deliberation, knowing that should his presence in Nicaragua be required at any time to answer for his misdeeds his person could be secured with little or no difficulty.

Five Killed In Boiler Explosion

Reading, Pa., Dec. 30.—Five men were instantly killed by the explosion of a boiler in the new plant of the new Metropolitan Electric company of New Reading. The cause of the explosion has not been ascertained.

Magazine Writer Jailed

San Francisco, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Elizabeth M. Newman, a magazine writer charged with defrauding an automobile driver, was convicted in the police court and sentenced to sixty days in jail.

Killed by Long Fast

Rome, Ga., Dec. 30.—Weakened by a fast of twenty-four days, which he believed he had been asked to endure by the Almighty, J. W. Lippen, a well-to-do citizen, died last evening.

CRIME OF SEVEN YEARS AGO

New Brunswick Man Is Just Convicted In Court In Maine

Portland, Me., Dec. 30.—A verdict in a case which threatened international complications was rendered here when a jury in the United States district court found William J. Kelley of Richmond, N. B., guilty of a serious assault upon Deputy Collector of Customs Burns, near Houlton, on the border, seven years ago.

Kelley, who is said to have had a long career as a smuggler and who was arrested Nov. 16, based his defense upon the contention that he was arrested in Canadian territory by United States officers. The prosecution, using data from special surveys, alleged that the arrest was made in Maine, sixty feet from the border.

In view of the verdict, which carries the implication that the court considers that the arrest was not made on foreign territory, a dispute with Canada over the matter is not expected by lawyers here.

TO SCALE MT. M'KINLEY

Tennessee Man Will Have Balloon to Aid Him In His Journey

New York, Dec. 30.—With the aid of a large balloon minus a basket, and designed to assist him in climbing, Colonel H. P. Shirley of Nashville, an experienced aeronaut, is planning to scale Mt. McKinley. His plan is the outcome of recent discussion of Dr. Cook's much mooted claim that he attained Mt. McKinley's summit.

The balloon is twenty feet in diameter and hold just enough gas to lift a man off his feet. Shirley says he will attach himself to the balloon by a harness and belt.

CHANGE REGARDED AS UNDESIRABLE

Lodge Will Not Be Made Ambassador to Great Britain

Washington, Dec. 29.—The denial that Senator Lodge is a candidate for or is being considered for appointment as ambassador to Great Britain to succeed Whitelaw Reid is again made by the senior senator.

Should President Taft desire to make the nomination he would be told by many Massachusetts men that Lodge could not be retired from activity in Massachusetts politics without detriment to the Republican party there; secondly, Lodge soon will be called upon to fight more or less vigorously for re-election, and he would not incur the inevitable charge of evading that issue by leaving the country; thirdly, no ambassadorship compares in attractiveness and power with the position of a senior United States senator.

This has been the situation encompassing the Lodge rumor for months and will continue.

TYPHOID IN MONTREAL

Estimates of Number of Persons Sick Run as High as 4500

Montreal, Dec. 30.—Although accurate figures are not obtainable, it is estimated that five persons out of every 1000 in the city of Montreal are ill from typhoid fever. The total number of deaths for the month is forty-three.

Estimates of the number of cases in the city, based upon canvasses of practising physicians, range from 2500 to 4500.

Roosevelt In Jungle March

Kampala, Uganda, Dec. 30.—Colonel Roosevelt and his hunting party have covered thirty-four miles since they left here on Dec. 23. Roosevelt is accompanied by seven white hunters and scientists and as many tent layers, half a dozen skinners, five bearers, two cooks, four grooms and 300 porters.

IN BOSTON MARKETS

Butter—Choice northern creamery, 34c; western creamery, 32@33c; jobbing quotations, 1@2c higher.

Cheese—Choice New York state, 16¾@17¼c; Vermont, 16¼@16¾c.

Eggs—Choice hennery and nearby, 41@43c; eastern extras, 37@39c; western, 34@39c; refrigerators, 23@25c.

Apples—Baldwins, $3@3.75; northern spys, $2@3.50; greenings, $2.25@3.25, russets, $1.50@2.50.

Truck—Celery, Boston market, $1.50@2 doz; onions, native, 70@85c box; turnips, yellow, $11.25 bbl; white, 60@75c box; squash, marrow, $1.25@1.50 bbl; turban, $1.50@1.75 bbl; Hubbard, $20@35 ton; cabbage, drumhead, $1.25 bbl; parsley, $1@1.25 box; beets, 60@75c box; carrots, 65@85c box; parsnips, 75c@$1 box; radishes, $1.50@1.75 box; spinach, native, 50@60c box; eggplants, $3@3.50 crate; okra, $2.50@3 crate; Brussels sprouts, 10@12½c qt; lettuce, 50@75c box; mint, 50@75c doz; cress, 50@60c doz; romaine, $1@1.25 box; escarole, 50c@$1 doz; chicory, 50c@$1 doz; leeks, 50@75c doz.

Fresh meats—Extra heavy sides, 9@10c; heavy fores, 7@8c; light, 5@6c; spring lambs, 11@13c; winter lambs, 10@11c; yearlings, 5@7c; muttons, 8@9c; choice veals, 13@14c.

Poultry—Northern turkeys, 28@30c; native broilers, 23@25c; northern fowl, 16@19c; geese, northern, 16@18c; native pigeons, $1.50@2 doz; squabs, $3.50@3.75 doz.

NEW TRUST LAW IS DISCUSSED

President Goes Over It With Congressional Callers

TALK OF A FEDERAL LICENSE

May Recommend That It Be Taken Out by All Corporations Having Capital of Magnitude Which Do Not Voluntarily Incorporate—Doubt as to Whether Senate Will Permit Passage of Any Such Legislation

Washington, Dec. 29.—President Taft is holding daily conferences with members of the house and senate and with high officials with reference to his recommendations for the enactment of a national incorporation act.

If influenced by the conferences he may conclude to advise a measure much more drastic than he has had in mind thus far. He has been thinking of advocating only voluntary national incorporation. He may go further and advise that after a given period, say a year, all corporations having capital of magnitude be required to take out a federal license.

The president conferred yesterday at length with Representative Martin of South Dakota, who has been prominent in the consideration of legislation of the kind proposed. He also had a talk with with Commissioner of Corporations Smith. He has conferred with Senator Nelson of Minnesota, who has a bill of his own, and he has talked with a number of others.

As the result of Tuesday's conferences, it can be definitely stated that what the president has in mind is not amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law, but a separate measure for a national incorporation act. This is the measure which Attorney General Wickersham has drawn.

The president is showing it to callers and going over it with them. He went over with it at length with Martin, who is not satisfied with it and will not consent to any measure that stops merely at voluntary incorporation. He wants the president to recommend a measure to provide not merely for voluntary incorporation of the large corporations in interstate business but he wants further to have the law require that after a year every corporation above certain capital which does not voluntary incorporate must take out a federal license. Otherwise he would have the company forfeit its right to do an interstate business and make it amenable to prosecution under the Sherman law.

Martin declared that neither he nor the president proposed to take any of the teeth out of the Sherman law as it now stands. He added that there was no question of the power of congress to require federal licensing, but is willing to accept a voluntary incorporation act with compulsory licensing after a given time.

Senator Nelson's voluntary incorporation bill is a measure of a drastic nature, with severe penalties.

Mr. Martin is not sanguine of any legislation. So far there is nothing to indicate that the senate leaders will consent to legislation proposed on federal incorporation or on railroad matters.

GENERAL STRIKE FEARED

Switchmen and Western Roads Fail to Reach an Agreement

St. Paul, Dec. 29.—The controversy between the railroads of the northwest and the striking switchmen is not at an end. Not only have the switchmen declared all negotiations with the railroads at an end, but the labor leaders say that there is a strong possibility of a general strike by all of the allied orders belonging to the railway branch of the American Federation of Labor.

H. B. Perham, who has been acting as chairman of the railway council of the Federation, in session at St. Paul, has started for Washington, where he will seek the aid of federal officers.

"MUSICAL BARBARIANS"

Opinion of Americans as Expressed by Head of Northwestern University

Chicago, Dec. 29.—"The American people are musical barbarians, and the function of the American musician is to civilize the people."

This declaration by President Harris of Northwestern university was the keynote of the thirty-first annual convention of the Music Teachers' National association, which met here.

New Wireless Record by Land

New Orleans, Dec. 29.—The long distance wireless record by land was established when the wireless station here picked up a message passing between New York and Chicago. The distance is estimated at 1300 miles.

France Passes Tariff Bill

Paris, Dec. 30.—The chamber of deputies passed the tariff bill by a vote of 365 to 42. This represents a victory for the high protectionists and the tariff commission.

Turkish Cabinet Gets Out

Constantinople, Dec. 29.—The whole Turkish cabinet resigned last evening, following the resignation of Hilmi Pacha, the grand vizier.

DIARY OF A RESOLUTION.

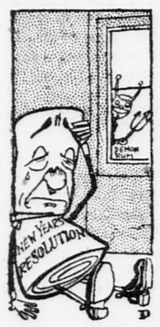
JAN. 1.—I was born today. Of course my impressions as to the world into which I have just made by debut are somewhat fragmentary, but of one thing I am certain—my father is a very pleasant sort of chap. I confess that he is a bit awkward about holding me, and he seems rather ridiculously proud of me, but I dare say both will pass away with increased familiarity.

Jan. 2.—Well, I have met her. At least I suppose the very charming girl we called on last evening is my mother, though I was surprised to hear my father call her "Miss Alice." No doubt there are manners in this world to which I must become accustomed. My proud parent exhibited me to my other parent, who was really charmingly enthusiastic over me. She promised to go to the theater with us and have a little supper afterward. We are to sup at the Water Wagon, which must be a fashionable restaurant, as she seemed so delighted and laughed so at the prospect.

WE ARE TO SUP AT THE WATER WAGON.



Jan. 3.—My father exhibited me at his club today and seemed as proud as Punch over my accomplishments. Perhaps I should say "accomplishment," for the only one I have had time to acquire is saying, "No, thank you." But it seemed to take very well, for all my father's friends laughed a great deal whenever I said it.

Jan. 4.—I don't feel well today.

Jan. 5.—Something is wrong. My father was quite rude to me today.

Jan. 6.—My father left me at home all day, and I feel rather neglected.

Jan. 7.—I think it's all over with me. One of my father's friends came to call on us this evening, and my father petted me and praised me; but, oh, I could feel that he wasn't sincere! His friend examined me closely and finally remarked that there was something wrong with my backbone. He must be a doctor. I am very unhappy.

I AM VERY UNHAPPY.

Jan. 8.—It is all over with me. We went to the theater tonight with my mother, and neither of my parents paid a bit of attention to me or to the play. I was right about the fashionable restaurant, but it has changed its name. We have taken a table, and three of us are very jolly. I don't feel well. There is an elderly woman with us. She must be my grandmother. Oh, dear! My father is ordering supper, and I feel worse and worse. Wait. My mother says something about me. But my mother is laughing, and he answers, "Never mind that. (That!) It has served its purpose, and we simply must celebrate the engagement." Heartless man! And they are all smiling. Oh, dear! I feel so bad—(Pop! Gurgle, gurgle, gurgle.) There, now, see what he's done! I'm dead.—New York Times.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

New Year's is the hardest day in the twelvemonth for the diplomats in Washington. It is not too much to say that they look forward to it with dread. And no wonder, inasmuch as it is the only day in the year on which they are really obliged to work. The trouble begins at the White House, where they are expected to present themselves at 11 a. m. sharp in all their most elaborate and gorgeous togs, for at that hour the president's New Year's reception begins, and after the vice president and the members of the cabinet have shaken hands with Mr. Taft it is the diplomats' next turn.

For the common people, who will follow in thousands, a master of ceremonies—the president's chief military aid, Captain Butt—will act as introducer. But for the purpose of presenting the members of the diplomatic corps this function is performed by the secretary of state, Mr. Knox.

In earlier days there was a great struggle among the diplomats at Washington for precedence, and many bickerings arose. All such annoyances were happily done away with, however, by the laying down of a rule to the effect that representatives of foreign powers should take rank in the order of the dates of their credentials. Thus on New Year's day the first member of the corps to greet the president will be the dean of the diplomatic colony at the capital.

At exactly 11:15 of the clock this official, in gorgeous array, the entire front of his coat covered with gold lace and a cocked hat under his left arm, will be introduced to the president by Mr. Knox. He is dean of the diplomatic corps by reason of the fact that he is the ambassador of longest service in Washington. Following him will come his wife and then the subordinates.

Save Money in Cereals

The best and biggest bargain a housekeeper can buy is a

Mother's Kit

Go to your grocer and ask him to show it to you. A complete assortment of different delicious cereals for every palate for every meal.

Not only is it economy to buy your staple cereals in sufficient quantities at economical prices, just the same as it is cheaper to buy flour by the barrel and butter by the crock, but in every Mother's Kit there is in addition to the saving in cash a special Fireless Cooker Certificate, equal to 18 coupons, which when added to the coupons from the packages in the kit enables you to secure a wonderful fireless cooker by merely adding 89 cents.

A Mother's Kit consists of eighteen assorted packages of Mother's Cereals, packed in sanitary sealed packages, in which they are guaranteed to keep in perfect condition indefinitely.

8 Packages of Mother's Oats, standard size.
2 Packages of Mother's Yellow Corn Meal.
1 Package of Mother's White Corn Meal.
1 Package of Mother's Wheat Hearts.
1 Package of Mother's Corn Flakes( toasted).
1 Package of Mother's Old Fashioned Steel Cut Oatmeal.
2 Packages of Mother's Granulated Hominy.
2 Packages of Mother's Coarse Pearl Hominy.

This kit can be purchased at your grocer's by simply paying $1.95. The grocer himself will either redeem your coupons and deliver the $3.75 Fireless Cooker, or, if you so desire, send the coupons and 89 cents directly to us and we will ship the Cooker to you, express collect.

If your grocer does not keep Mother's Cereals, write to us, giving his name and yours, and we will send you free a useful souvenir.

THE GREAT WESTERN CEREAL COMPANY
OPERATING MORE OATMEAL MILLS THAN ANY OTHER ONE CONCERN
AKRON BOSTON NEW HAVEN PITTSBURGH NEW YORK ALBANY PHILADELPHIA ST. LOUIS CHICAGO

W. T. ARNOLD'S
NEW ART STORE
Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall
PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.
Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.
Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.
All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.
Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

MONSTER NAVAL GUN.

Fourteen Inch Weapon Is Deadly at Nine Miles.

Tests of the new fourteen inch navy gun made on two days recently at Indian Head, on the Potomac river near Washington, show that the United States now leads the world in naval gun construction and destructive power. This wonderful new weapon hurls a 1,400 pound projectile and a penetrating power at a distance of nine miles.

That does not mean that it can penetrate the eleven inch citadel armor or belt of an opposing vessel, but it does mean that battleships like the Massachusetts and Iowa will have to keep outside the "nine mile limit" or be smashed by the fourteen inch monster.

The nine mile efficiency test was proved at a gun elevation of only 7 degrees. The longest range that can be obtained with such a gun would be at an angle of from 40 to 45 degrees, but in order to shoot at the maximum ranges there must necessarily be a long trajectory. The longer the trajectory when fighting at sea the less accurate the aim and less valuable the result.

Neither the secretary of the navy or the chief of the ordinance will report, for obvious reasons, on the achievements of the new weapon. Some things, however, have been deduced by the experts from the amazing performance of the two tests.

Within the nine mile limit Rear Admiral Mason, the designer of the gun, has secured an average velocity of 2,000 feet per second. One witness of the tests says the initial velocity was estimated at 3,300 feet per second and that this did not diminish much at a distance of five miles. The impact is estimated at 62,000 to 65,000 tons per square foot.

The latest ships of the navy will be equipped with the new fourteen inch gun.

Training the Servant.

"Is your new girl getting so that she can understand English?" asked the caller.

"No," replied young Mrs. Keepouse, "but I am learning Hungarian rapidly."—Newark News.

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box. 25c

WHEN IN WANT
OF GOOD
Plants and Flowers
CALL UP
WM. PATTERSON
HE HAS THEM
Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias
at Reasonable Prices.
92 South Central Ave., Wollaston
Tel. 392-1 Quincy. Dec. 20-tf

Until New Years
USE THE
RedCross Stamps

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
As a FAMILY DAILY PAPER has no equal and is appreciated by ADVERTISERS

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday Dec. 27, | 11.30 | 12.00 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.45 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.30 | 2.45 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Strife of Intellects.

"Why don't Dickins and Wickins let their children play together any more?"

"They both think they have the smartest children on earth, and the two families are accusing each other of plagiarism."

BRIEFS

Colder and colder.

Two above zero at sunrise.

The Y. M. C. A. boys will take a sleigh ride to North Abington on Saturday.

The Christian Endeavor of Bethany church will enjoy a sleigh ride Friday night.

Plans are nearly complete for Inauguration day of the new City Government on Monday next.

A competitive examination will be held January 17, 1910, to establish eligible lists from which to certify names to fill vacancies as they occur in postions as stenographers (class 9) in the service of the Commonwealth and of the city of Boston.

HORTICULTURAL LECTURES.

The annual meeting of the Horticultural society will be held Saturday at Horticultural hall, Boston. Besides the annual reports there will be an address by the president. The course of free lectures will be given Saturdays at eleven o'clock as follows:

"Plant Hunting in the Heart of China," illustrated by stereopticon, E. H. Wilson of the Arnold Arboretum, Jamaica Plain Jan. 8. H. M. Howard of West Newton on "The Use of Water in Commercial Gardening," Jan. 15; "A Study of Continental Landscape Gardening," illustrated, Albert D. Taylor, M. S. R., of Ithaca, N. Y.; Jan. 22; "Apple Growing in New England as a Business," illustrated, E. Cyrus Miller of Haydenville, Jan. 29; "How New Races of Plants Arise Through Hybridization," Ezra Brainerd of Middlebury, Vt., Feb. 5; "Practical Forestry," Dr. Hermann von Schrenk of St. Louis, Feb. 12; "The New Agriculture and Its Significance to New England," G. C. Sevey of Springfield, Mass., Feb. 19; "Horticulture as a Profession for Women," Miss Laura Blanchard Dawson of Jamaica Plain, March 5; "Lilies in the Home Garden," illustrated, E. S. Miller of Wading River, N. Y., March 12; "Fruit as Food," Prof. William R. Lazenby of the State University, Columbus, O., March 19.

The exhibition of plants, flowers, fruits and vegetables is scheduled for Feb. 26.

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder. Relieves painful, smarting, nervous feet and ingrowing nails, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discovery of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous, swollen, tired, aching feet. Try it today. Sold by all Druggists and Shoe Stores. By mail for 25c. in stamps Don't accept any substitute. Trial package FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

MRS. BROKAW WINS SUIT

Society Woman's Alimony Will Be Based on Husband's Income

New York, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Mary B. Brokaw has won her suit for separation and large alimony. The case was virtually closed when Judge Putnam adjourned the hearing with the announcement that he would on Saturday take up the question of W. G. Brokaw's finances.

MRS. W. G. BROKAW

This is little less than an open declaration that Mrs. Brokaw has been victorious. It remains only to set the amount of alimony. Mrs. Brokaw asked for $60,000, but lawyers do not expect that she will be granted more than a third of that sum.

DOES HUNDRED-MILE STUNT UNDER COVER

How Resourceful Middy Fulfilled Naval Requirements

Washington, Dec. 30.—Naval officers who have deferred taking their physical test until the last moment are having the hardest kind of a time trying to get through with their 90-mile ride, or 50-mile walk, before midnight, Dec. 31, when tests for all officers must be completed.

Snow, ice and biting cold have added to the hardships of those officers who are now trying to rush their tests.

Charles H. Davis, Jr., son of Admiral Davis, U. S. N., retired, is only a midshipman attached to the Vermont, but he has proven an adept at resourcefulness and established a precedent which may come in handy for the future.

Not wishing to ride a horse and not liking to trudge fifty weary, cold miles along the ice, he borrowed a bicycle, hired Convention hall and rode around the smooth floor until his cyclometer had checked off 100 miles.

MAY ISSUE SECOND REPORT

Danish Commission Says Cook's Data Showed Loose Calculations

Copenhagen, Dec. 29.—The special committee of Copenhagen university which investigated Dr. Frederick A. Cook's polar records is now considering whether or not it will publish a second report, giving further details of its work. If the committee should decide to do so it will issue the report about the middle of January.

A member of the committee says that some of the details of Cook's narrative of his expedition were fabricated and his papers showed that he had used calculations furnished by Captain Loose. The second report, he says, will present evidence to that effect.

SUBMARINE AS LIFESAVER

Lifts Sunken Fishing Vessel and Saves the Lives of Its Crew

Toulon, Dec. 30.—The submarine Cigogne performed a remarkable lifesaving feat during a storm. The boat was practising diving in the open sea, when the commander saw a large fishing boat suddenly overwhelmed and sink.

The submarine immediately dived right under the fishing craft, of which the masthead alone was above the water.

The valves were operated quickly and the Cigogne rose to the surface, lifting the boat and holding it above the water long enough to take off the crew.

Price of Hogs at Top Notch

Kansas City, Dec. 29.—Hogs brought the unusual price of $8.60 on the Kansas City market yesterday. This is the highest mark attained here since 1882. Receipts were heavy. Packers do not explain the increase in price.

Not Too Old For Jury Service

Los Angeles, Dec. 28.—F. L. Auten begged to be excused from jury service because he was 89 years old. Judge Wilbur looked him over and refused to excuse him, saying: "Why, you may live to be 100, young man."

Fire Destroys Business Block

Portland, Me., Dec. 29.—A loss of $50,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed the principal business block at Freeport. The building contained a hotel, the office of Town Clerk Mitchell and six stores.

GOES DOWN IN SIGHT OF PORT

Schooner Davis Palmer Wrecked Just Outside Boston Harbor

STORY TOLD BY WRECKAGE

No Trace of Her Crew of Twelve Men, Who Are Undoubtedly Lost—Many Other Vessels Tossed Ashore by Furious Gale—Chelsea Flood Refugees Sleep In Armory—One Woman Driven Temporarily Insane

Boston, Dec. 28.—News of the loss of the big five-masted schooner Davis Palmer and her crew of twelve men, off Boston harbor, and of the wrecking of eleven other vessels along the New England coast constitutes the opening chapter of the toll taken on the sea by the great storm which swept New England Saturday night and Sunday.

With the restoration of communication with this storm-swept section, which, in common with southeastern Massachusetts, bore the brunt of the blizzard, it is feared that a story of marine disasters and storm damage unequalled in years will be unfolded.

The news already gleaned makes it probable that the worst is yet to come. Wreckage borne into Boston harbor on an unusually high tide yesterday told the mute story of the loss of the Davis Palmer, somewhere near the entrance to the harbor.

The Davis Palmer went down with its crew at some point yet unlearned just outside Boston harbor. The vessel, which had come up the coast from Newport News with a cargo of coal, foundered at the very approach to the waters of the port that she was seeking.

Wreckage coming ashore at Hull and other points along the south shore indicates that no mistake has been made concerning her identity. Though the long stretches of coast line along Hull and Nantasket have been gone over, no bodies have been found; yet this fact has failed to bring about any feeling of hope for Captain Leroy McKown of Malden, her master, and the eleven other men the Palmer carried.

It is believed that in the aftermath of the great gale Sunday afternoon, while the waves still assumed gigantic proportions, the Palmer, lying at anchor off shore, snapped her cables, struck upon one of the ledges and sank within a very few moments.

Wreck Is Located

Boston, Dec. 29.—After two days searching the waters of Boston harbor and Massachusetts bay, yesterday the wreck of the sunken five-masted schooner Davis Palmer was located.

The hulk lies in Broad sound at the point of intersection of two imaginary lines drawn from the Graves light to Grover's Cliff, Winthrop, and from Deer island to Nahant.

Almost entirely submerged in eight fathoms of water, the wreck is directly in the path of large vessels and a serious menace to navigation.

No trace of the crew of the vessel, however, was disclosed by the finding of the wreck. The fate of Captain McKown and his crew of eleven men is still as great a mystery as if the vessel had drifted out to sea.

Situation In Chelsea

Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 28.—Mrs. Nathan Kellner, one of the refugees at the Chelsea armory, driven temporarily insane last night by exposure and pain, jumped from her cot in the armory and, seizing a large hammer, was just about to murder her seven children when she was seized and the children saved.

Dr. Chase, the city physician, who is attending the stricken families, aided by a volunteer assistant, succeeded in getting the woman back to the cot. Sedatives were administered and soon Mrs. Kellner regained her senses.

More than 200 other refugees from the flood of Sunday slept in the armory last night. Captain Renfew had provided mattresses and blankets, and shake-downs were made up in the locker room. No attempt was made to separate the families, and men, women and children made the room a common dormitory.

LYNCHINGS FOR YEAR 1909

They Reached a Total of Seventy and Included Eleven White Persons

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Lynchings in 1909 numbered seventy, the highest number since 1904. The victims included eleven whites.

The lynchings occurred in twelve states and one territory, New Mexico. As in previous years crimes against white women and murders caused most of the summary executions.

McClellan Checks Big Expenditures

New York, Dec. 30.—Mayor McClellan vetoed appropriations made by the board of estimate and the aldermen totalling over $9,000,000. He said that he took the action because the expenditures must be made by the incoming city officials.

Fourteen-Year-Old Suicide

Toledo, O., Dec. 29.—Sent to the cellar because he refused to get his mother a pail of water, Herman Miller, aged 14, hanged himself.

LAST HOPE SHATTERED

Morse Denied a New Trial and Stay of Sentence Is Vacated

New York, Dec. 30.—The last hope of Charles W. Morse, the ice king and steamship magnate, convicted of violating the federal banking laws, was swept away when Judge Hough, in the United States circuit court of appeals, decided that he is not entitled to a new trial. Morse took the blow stolidly.

Morse was convicted of wrecking the National Bank of North America, whose collapse was an immediate cause of the panic of 1907, and his last chance to clear his name is gone.

Judge Hough, in giving his decision, vacated Morse's stay from his prison sentence. Attorney Stimson, who prosecuted Morse, said:

"There is nothing further Morse can do. He will now have to serve his sentence of fifteen years."

THE BOSTON CAMPAIGN

Four Candidates For Mayor Resolve to Remain In the Field

Boston, Dec. 29.—The names of twenty-five candidates eligible to go on the municipal ballot for mayor, school board and city council are announced by the election commissioners. There are four candidates for mayor, two for the school board and nineteen for the council. There is to be only one member of the school board elected and nine members of the council.

Candidates had only until 5 o'clock last evening to resign. All eyes were on the quartet of mayoralty candidates to see if any of them might be prevailed upon to get out of the race, but all have determined to remain in the field. The candidates for mayor are George A. Hibbard, John F. Fitzgerald, James J. Storrow and Nathaniel H. Taylor.

MISS LE BLANC HELD IN GLOVER MURDER

Court Returns Inquest Judgment Against Young Woman

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 30.—"There is no evidence to show that the death of the deceased (Clarence F. Glover) was caused by any person other than said Hattie Le Blanc."

This is the conclusion reached by Judge Luce as a result of the inquest into the murder of Clarence F. Glover, who was shot in his laundry in Waltham on the evening of Nov. 21. Miss Le Blanc was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The purport of the sworn testimony at the inquest was made known authoritatively for the first time when Luce filed his report. It went to establish that Hattie Le Blanc asked Glover to go to the laundry on the fatal night, that she shot him with the light burning and not in the darkness, that he grappled with her and wrenched the weapon away from her and that the two bullets found in Glover's body fit the revolver found where Glover said he threw it.

HUGE PROFITS IN MILK

Revealed by Accounts In Books of Big New York Companies

New York, Dec. 30.—A story of huge profits for the so-called milk trust was unfolded by Marvyn Scudder, the accountant employed by the state to go over the books of the larger milk companies.

With the purpose of refuting the assertion that the companies lost money selling milk at 8 cents a quart, Scudder submitted figures from the books of the Borden company showing that in the nine months of this year, ending Sept. 30 last, the company made a clear profit on fluid milk and cream in New York and Chicago of $1,076,772.

GORDON MADE SENATOR

Will Relinquish the Honor When Mississippi Legislature Meets In June

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 28.—Governor Noel announced the appointment of James Gordon of Okolona as United States senator from Mississippi, to succeed the late Senator McLaurin.

The appointment is only until the legislature can elect a senator for the unexpired term and is made with the understanding that Gordon will not be a candidate for this term. The legislature meets June 4.

A Husband's Tardy Discovery

New York, Dec. 29.—A claim that his wife has negro blood is the basis of a suit for annulment of marriage brought by W. S. Horton, a prosperous plumber here. Justice Seabury of the supreme court appointed a commission to take testimony from the woman's relatives in Connecticut.

Midshipman Must Quit Academy

Washington, Dec. 29.—Midshipman R. W. Bragg of the first district of Maine was ordered to be dismissed from the naval academy for excess of demerits growing out of his unsatisfactory conduct. He was appointed to the academy in 1906.

Standpipe Declared Unsafe

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 30.—City Engineer Felton condemned the Montello standpipe as unsafe, and 1,300,000 gallons of water were withdrawn to prevent a possible catastrophe.

UNCLE SAM'S WAY OF DOING IT.

How He Wishes All the World a Happy New Year.

At midnight Uncle Sam wishes all the world a happy New Year. The tick of the time signal instrument in the United States naval observatory at Washington flashes America's greeting to the nations of the world.

This sending forth of a New Year greeting is sentimental in its nature perhaps, but it is practical in its illustration of the accurate time service that has been adopted by the United States and the organization of a standard time schedule in this country, which it is hoped some day will extend throughout the world. So these New Year greetings of Uncle Sam's, which have become an annual feature of the national observatory, give an object lesson to the nations that may lead to as great a reform in a universal time system as Pope Gregory instituted in the correction of the Julian calendar. The first of these New Year messages was sent out in 1903, the telegraph companies entering into the project with great interest and energy. The signals were transmitted at midnight and 1, 2 and 3 a. m., so that each great section of the country received its own midnight signal direct from the naval observatory. So successfully was the plan carried out and so general was the interest in it that it was decided to make it a feature thereafter.

Some of the messages sent out on these occasions are received in an incredibly short time. For instance, the time signal last year was received at Sydney, Australia, in two and one-fourth seconds; at Madras, India, in a fraction more than fifty-three seconds; at Cape Town, Africa, in two minutes and thirty-five seconds; at Madrid, Spain, in two and one-half minutes; at Lick observatory, Mount Hamilton, California, in twenty-four one-hundredths of a second, and at Harvard observatory, Cambridge, in one-tenth of a second.

The importance of this time service is evidenced by the fact that it furnishes absolute standard time for not only navigators at all the chief seaports of the United States, but for the entire country except the Pacific coast, which receives a similar service from the naval observatory at the Mare Island yard. When it is understood that the service is rendered at no expense whatever to the government, being merely incidental to the work required for the rating of chronometers for naval vessels, the results attained will appear all the more acceptable. The time signal is sent out daily at noon on seventy-fifth meridian time, with an average error for the year of only fifteen hundredths of a second. The signal goes over the wires of the various telegraph and telephone companies, regulating eighteen government time balls and 40,000 public and private clocks throughout the country.

The accuracy required in the operation may be appreciated when it is known that the minutest fractions of seconds are shaved into infinitesimal quantities that almost rival the twinkling of the hair splitting timekeeper of ancient India.—New York Times.

DIPLOMATIC RECEPTION

The reception at the house of the secretary of state on New Year's day is by all odds the most spectacular function of the year in Washington. All the diplomats are in full uniform, with much gold embroidery and glittering decorations, barring a few from the Latin American republics, who appear in plain evening dress, though it is the noon hour. It is a scene of brilliancy and glitter. One recognizes the members of the German embassy by their costumes of white broadcloth and silver. The Chinese, a numerous staff, are gaudy in silk gowns. The British ambassador, Mr. Bryce, is easily identified by his coat of blue cloth and gold, with white knee breeches, white silk stockings, gold shoe buckles, silk shoulder belt, gold mounted sword and cocked hat of black beaver with a white ostrich feather.

Nobody is asked to sit down. When all the guests have arrived, Mr. Knox will offer his arm to Mme. des Planches, Mrs. Knox will take the arm of the ambassador and they will lead the way into the dining room, where an elaborate luncheon—or breakfast, if one prefers— is spread. There will be unlimited champagne, with salads, ices and whatever else may gratify the appetite.

When the function is over, at about 1 p. m., the wives of the diplomats will go to their own homes and spend the rest of the day receiving. The ambassadors, ministers and smaller fry of male sex will call on the vice president, the members of the cabinet, the senators, the speaker of the house of representatives, the justices of the supreme court and the members of the committee of foreign relations of the house. They will also call on the wives of one another. It will be a tremendously busy day for them—a continual dashing about from place to place in a multitude of cabs—and the social task, which is to them as a necessary official duty, will not come to an end until nearly midnight, when they will be glad to crawl into bed, exhausted, but delighted that New Year's will not arrive again for another twelvemonth.

REFORM BEGUN AND ENDED.

"NOW, Nancy, dear, the comin' year,"
Quoth Jarley to his wife,
"Let's try and see if you an' me
Can't live a peaceful life.
We've jawed an' fit like the old split
Sence last year fust begun.
But my mind's sot—next year our lot
Must be a pleasant one."

"NOW, NANCY, DEAR."

"OH, well and good, and so it should,"
His worthy spouse replied.
"I'm sure that peace should never cease
In this house to abide.
'Twixt you and me I can't quite see
Why trouble need creep in,
And for my part I've got the heart
To do the best I kin."

"YES, yes, I know you allus show
A very willin' heart,
An' when there's work you never shirk,
But allus do your part.
But, tell me now, when ther's a row
Who allus does begin?
An' tell me, too—I dar' ye to—
Who allus must gin in?"

"WHO ALLUS DOES BEGIN."

"NOW, Jabez, sho! You'd otter know
That ain't no way to talk.
I never seen a man so mean,
Not by a good, long chalk.
You have your say and have your way,
Let come what will to me,
And when I try to argufy
You never will agree!"

"WELL, well, there now, by gum, I vow
If that don't beat me out!"
And Jarley roared a big cuss word
That put his wife to rout.
But as she fled she turned her head
And hissed most spitefully,
"Jabe Jarley, you your whole life through
A sinful brute will be!"

"A SINFUL BRUTE WILL BE!"

THUS do we see how speedily
Good resolutions fail—
How weak the mind of human kind
When inner foes assail.
On New Year's day—it is our way—
Our failings we arraign,
But ere the year does disappear
We often fail again.
—Frank B. Welch.

New Year's Calls.

"Madam," began the red nosed tramp "this is just a little New Year's call, and"—

"And so is this," interrupted the farmer's wife as she came out into the yard. "Here, Tige! Here, Tige!" she called. "Sick 'em, Tige!"

And the caller and the called disappeared in the distance.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Quincy Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, sideache, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Quincy citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.

Mrs. George McDonald, 133 1-2 Quincy Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have more faith in Doan's Kidney Pills than in any other remedy I have ever known of and it gives me great pleasure to publicly recommend them. For at least six months I was feeling all out of sorts as the result of kidney trouble. I became tired easily and had but little strength or energy to do my housework. Pains through the small of my back annoyed me a great deal. A friend, knowing of my condition, advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug store. A short time after beginning their use, I was helped and I now feel like a different person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Millburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Start the New Year Right

by having your Clothes Pressed and Repaired at the

Little Store

Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.

J. NATHAN

14 GRANITE STREET.

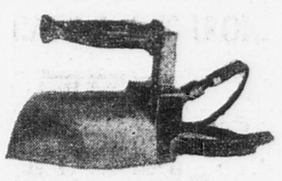
Dec. 14—1m.



Wadsworth's QUINCY MASS. TRADE-MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to New Years

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth's QUINCY MASS. TRADE-MARK REGISTERED

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.

Dec 7 1m

WELL

If you have anything to sell sell it to

J. A. KEATING

1357 Hancock Street

Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

White House Mail

ALL CARRIES THE

Red Cross Stamps

ADVERTISING

Is a Good Investment.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER
Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

Not content with taking our superintendent of schools, the city of Cambridge also wants the head master of our High school. Perhaps some of the other teachers would like to go to get an increase in salary, but Quincy hopes to retain all of them.

The School department is to be complimented on living another year within the appropriation granted by the City Council. Also upon providing a year's education for 6,000 children for $144,211.48, or $24 per pupil. If based on the whole number enrolled, 6,272, the cost was just $23. If based on the daily average attendance of 5858, the cost was $24.63. Over 700 of these pupils are at the High school.

Are people shiftless or out and out selfish that they have so little regard for man and beast that they let their coal bins get low this kind of weather? No sooner was the storm over than the coal man was in demand and in every case it was a hurry order, each thinking they were the only ones that should receive prompt delivery. With the telephone service crippled and the going hard for horses it is a wonder the dealers have done as well as they have.

It would be good news to Quincy should the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., be fortunate enough to be selected as the company to build the war ships for China, which it is reported may be built in this country. The Fore River Co., has been after the contract for several months, but it will be sometime yet before anything definite is known. President Bowles is still in Europe looking after the contract for the war vessels to be built for the Argentine Republic. It is expected that the contract for these vessels will be awarded early in January.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The advocates of the licensed saloon have no cause for rejoicing over Worcester's swinging back into the "wet" column by a majority of more than 3000, nor have the advocates of a "dry" city just cause for sorrow. These statements may seem contradictory in view of the manifest rejoicing of the liquor interests and the keen disappointment of the no-license workers, but it should be understood that temperance as the term is used by the champions of no-license, really gained nothing when Worcester went "dry." When a majority of the people honestly believe that a municipality is better off without the saloon, the people will by their votes prohibit the open sale of intoxicating liquors. But when a majority favors the saloon or regards it as a necessary evil in the present stage of human development, and votes "No" out of revenge, the "dry" period is destined to be short.—Springfield Union.

That Albany youngster who presented a revolver at his father's head and demanded a check for $2200 as the price of uninterrupted existence will be honored, no doubt, in future ages as a bold pioneer and heaven-kissing hero. Judge by our present moral standards, of course, he is simply an extraordinarily bad boy who deserves a walloping, but our present moral standards, as everyone knows have long shown signs of decrepitude, and in a few more years, perhaps, they will be definitely abandoned as ridiculous.

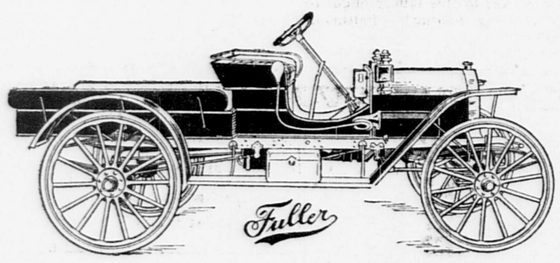
The philosophy of the future, for which the young Albanian stood up so nobly, will be a philosophy divested of all sentimentality. The grotesque notion that a father should be allowed to interfere with impunity in the affairs of his son will be cast upon the scrap-heap of dead superstitions. Is there any sense in it, that it should be preserved and revered?

Not at all. A young man of nineteen, it is apparent, must necessarily have a surer vision and a clearer mind than his father of forty-five or fifty, if only for the fact that he has lived fewer years in a stupid world, and in consequence has acquired fewer barnacles of prejudice, tradition and delusion.

The emancipation of youth is one of the noticeable signs of the times. In the old days filial obedience was regarded as one of the greatest virtues, but those days are done. Today it is coming to be generally admitted that the duty of obedience, if any such duty exists at all, is upon the other side. It is the duty of a father to see that his son has the wherewithal to cut a figure in the world—that he has a plentiful supply of Egyptian cigarettes, chromatic waistcoats, rolled-up pantaloons, and malt liquor— that he has leisure to engage in football, poker, musical comedy, and all the other pursuits and sciences necessary to the education of a gentleman.

And it is the duty of a mother to see that her daughter is protected from coarse and ignoble labors; that she remains a stranger to the broom, the dishpan, and the dusting cloth; that she has all the clothes she needs and all the confectionery and novels; that she is allowed to sleep undisturbed until 11 A. M., and welcomed affectionately on her return home from rout and masquerade at 3 A. M.

Such are the duties prescribed by the morality of the future. For the present there is still some lingering of ancient superstitions. Youths of 16 who essay to smoke cigars in the parlor are still brutaly assaulted with rattans and laths, and girls of fifteen who refuse to peel potatoes on the ground that a new novel by Robert W. Chambers is just out—such girls are too often cruelly punished by being penned in their rooms. But barbarism is dying out, and a brighter day is dawning. Brave pioneers like that Albany boy show the glorious possibilities of the future.—Baltimore Sun.



Quincy people evidently know a good thing and are not slow in taking up with the offer of the Electric Light Company as advertised on the first page of the Ledger. Owners of houses who have their house wired for electric lighting during the mouth of January can on applying to the Electric Light company be connected and have meter installed free of charge. But this is not all for they also give $20 worth of electric current to be used before July 1st. It will pay you to read the ad carefully.

Your Boy

No stimulation. No alcohol habit. Ask your doctor about Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a tonic for the young. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Ask your doctor how often he prescribes an alcoholic stimulant for children. He will probably say, "Very, very rarely." Ask him how often he prescribes a tonic for them. He will probably answer, "Very, very frequently." Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a strong tonic, entirely free from alcohol.

A GOOD CAR

Just what you need for delivery at short notice.

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 29 tf

OF PUBLIC INTEREST

BRIDGE INADEQUATE.

Do the officials of the city realize how near an approach to the catastrophe of March 1886 was manifest by the combination of elements near the Canal on Sunday last. If there had been a heavy rain fall a duplicate of the above date could not have been averted, as it was the water was several inches above the sluice way

If the street commissioner or any one in authority feels interested to call at 101 Revere road they can see the effect of the rush of water in and under a house where Sunday morning everything was compact and in order. Monday noon when the snow was cleared away the sight was disheartening especially so for a woman who bravely tries to cope with the various obstacles which cross her life's path.

When the bridge was rebuilt about fifteen years ago, a note of warning was sounded that more leeway was needed and that there should be two openings instead of one, in case of an emergency to carry off without damage the accumulation from up stream.

Anxious Citizen.

NAVAL REPAIRS.

Repairs and alterations of the vessels of the navy next year will call for an appropriation of more than $6,000,000 says the Washington correspondent of the Transcript. This class of work is quite distinct from that which may be ordered by the Secretary of the Navy and will require special authority from Congress before the money is available for the purpose. Most of this work will come under the two bureaus of Construction and Repair and Steam Engineering. Among the larger vessels will be included important work on the New Jersey and the Rhode Island ,estimated to cost $810,000 each; the Colorado and the Pennsylvania, $680,000 each; the Maryland and the West Virginia, $630,000 each. It is further proposed to expend $540,000 on the Charleston, $350,000 on the Detroit and nearly as much on the Boston.

Under the law it is necessary for the Navy Department to secure authority from Congress for work which costs more than $200,000, or 20 per cent of the cost of new vessels of the same design. This restriction is more or less of an embarrassment to the naval authorities, who must submit a carefully prepared schedule of work contemplated and the estimate has to be based on an anticipation of work eighteen months ahead. It is difficult to do this with any accuracy, and the estimate sent to Congress is probably made larger than is really necessary, in order not to interfere with important work. There has been some talk of asking Congress to remove this restriction as the proceeding is a mere matter of form in most instances, the Navy Department being unable to spend more money in the way of repairs and alterations than is included in the annual sum for such purpose.

Choice of Evils.

"Don't you find it dangerous riding freights?" asked the philanthropist.

"Yes," assented the hobo, "but what can a fellow do? If he takes to the roads he is likely to be bumped by an automobile. I believe in taking the lesser of two evils."—Buffalo Express.

With All Her Faults.

With all her faults I love her still.
She once was young and slim and fair.
At present she can more than fill
An ordinary easy chair.

She talks behind her neighbors' backs;
She scolds as certain women will.
There are a lot of charms she lacks;
With all her faults I love her STILL.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Couldn't Find Him.

She—Do you believe that two can live as cheaply as one?

He—I've known couples where the wife was so extravagant that what little the husband spent was hardly noticeable.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Proposed Epitaph on Barille.

[With many apologies to Gray"s "Elegy."]

Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid
Some heart once pregnant with Alaskan fire,
Feet that McKinley mountain might have scaled
Or waked to ecstasy the polar lyre.
—Boston Transcript.

Proof.

Patience—But life is so hollow.

Patrice—And don't you like hollow things?

"Why, no. Do you?"

"Surely! I'm very fond of macaroni!"—Yonkers Statesman.

A Bridge Signal.

SHE.

"If you should hold a hand like that,
To you what make would best appear?"

HE.

"Why, if I held a hand like yours
I think I'd make it diamonds, dear."
—Yale Record.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO

Sent First Shoe Salesman to the South

(Historical Paper No. 3.)

Years ago Quincy did a big business in the manufacture of boots and shoes. As early as 1837 the business amounted to $111,881 annually; in 1845 it was $133,273; in 1855 it had increased to $467,665, and in 1875 the value was $420,463. Today very little boot and shoe manufacturing is done in Quincy. The following interesting sketch of the industry in Pattee's History of Quincy has probably escaped the attention of many. It is revised to date:

Previous to the 19th century, or shortly after the close of the Revolutionary war, Mr. John Pray began manufacturing shoes, in a building on the easterly side of Hancock street, Quincy, near its juction with Adams street ;this estate is now owned by Mrs. Wilson Tisdale. Subsequently Mr. Frederick Hardwick, Eli Veazey and others, began the business in a small way. These persons desiring to establish a market for their goods, but not having money to employ an agent, decided to club together and raise a fund for the purpose, and send some person on a southern tour. They considered Mr. Pray the best salesman of their number and engaged him.

Mr. Pray immediately proceeded on his journey; his first sale was made in Providence, R. I. He continued on disposing of his goods in the various large places, until he arrived at Richmond, Virginia, where he closed out his merchandise. He found that his sales had been successful and that he had received eleven hundred dollars, all in hard money, which was a large sum for the times, and as much as he desired to carry with him, as there were no banks where he could exchange his specie for paper. This large amount of money caused Mr. Pray great uneasiness as to its safety.

On his journey home, while waiting on the wharf for the ferry boat to take him across a river, a gentleman who was standing by, witnessing his uneasiness, said to him, "Sir, you have money with you." Mr. Pray replied that he had. The gentleman then said, "if you cross that stream without protecting yourself with some weapon of defence, you will be robbed by those negroes who command the boat; as soon as they get in the centre of the river, they will slack up and then take your money." On this suggestion Mr. Pray acted; he selected his weapon and cautiously concealed it under his coat and proceeded on his way. On approaching the centre of the stream, he found that the statement of the gentleman on the wharf was too true, for sure enough, the negroes on nearing the centre of the river began to slack up and make preparations to relieve him of his money. Now was the time for his defence. Mr. Pray quietly took from under his coat a huge club, and with a firm hand and determined air exclaimed to the negroes, "By the great Gods, if you do not proceed, I will smash the first negro's head who refuses to do his duty." This declamation had its desired effect, as he soon safely reached the shore. This journey was probably the first attempt to establish a southern wholesale market for this class of goods.

Mr. Noah Curtis was among the pioneers of the boot and shoe business. He learned his trade of a Mr. Ripley. In 1791, at the age of nineteen he began to make shoes, and in April 1794, began to manufacture them for sale. In 1795 nine hundred and fifty-one pairs were made and sold. The price paid the workmen for hand sewed shoes, was one shilling per pair, or two dollars per dozen, and they were sold from eight shillings six pence to nine shillings six pence per pair.

In 1802, boots began to come into use, for which he paid for making and fitting $1.50,, exclusive of fitting 90 cents per pair for hand sewed, and received for these from $5.00 to $5.50 per pair. In 1822, he began to consign his boots to southern houses in New Orleans, Savannah, Charleston, and Richmond; in these southern towns and cities he established a large trade. His manufactory was on Penn's hill.

His sons Adam and Samuel began business in 1819 at Mr. Dwelle's place on the same hill. In 1820, they moved to the old Adams mansion on Franklin street, where they carried on their business until 1829, when Mr. Adam Curtis erected his house on Franklin street. In connection with his house he built a shop where he remained until 1850 when he built his large factory on the corner of Franklin and Pearl streets. Messrs. Curtis carried on a large business in fine French goods. From 1853 to 1858, their factory for the making of nice French calf boots was the largest and most extensive of any in the States for hand sewed work, employing three hundred of the best artisans in the country; they also gave employment to one hundred fitters. Their boots were known and sold in all the principal cities throughout the United States. In 1842, the firm was changed to Adam Curtis & Co. 1856 was their largest year's work, when they manufactured four thousand cases, or forty-eight thousand pairs. The civil war seriously interfered with their large southern trade; heavy losses and other causes, caused the firm soon after the close of the war to relinquish business.

From 1820 to 1830 Mr. Nathaniel White carried on a very large business in the manufacture of heavy brogans for the southern trade, in which industry he accumulated quite a competency for that time. Subsequently he entered into company with Mr. Elijah Spear, and the firm's name was White & Spear. This firm gave up making brogans and commenced the manufacture of fine calf boots. After the death of Mr. Elijah Spear, in 1839, Mr. White continued the business. Relinquishing the manufacture of boots, Mr. White entered into the lumber and coal trade which did not prove financially successful.

Mr. John D. Whicher began manufacturing cheap pegged boots about 1847, and established by untiring industry a very successful and lucrative business; later he carried on machine sewed work in connection with his pegged. He was engaged in this business until his sudden death which occurred in September, 1877. Mr. Whicher at the time of his decease, was in possession of a greater amount of property than any other person engaged in the boot and shoe business in this town. The appriesement of his estate was about two hundred and sixty thousand dollars. The business was carried on by his successors.

The other firms in this town were: J. R. Graham & Co., E. W. H. Bass for Noah Curtis & Co., Thomas Curtis, Franklin Curtis, Winslow M. Newcomb and others.

Among the original firms and persons engaged in the manufacturing of boots and shoes, not now in business, were Eli Veasey, Frederick Hardwick, William P. & J. M. Hardwick, Henry Hardwick, Levi B. Josephs, John B. Dwelle, J. & H. H. Faxon, Benjamin Curtis, George Briesler & Fowle, Jabez Bigelow, William Ditson, Nathaniel Wild, Nathan H. White, (who was the first person in town to manufacture boots by a sewing machine) Samuel White, M. R. & E. Marsh, Pope & Penniman, J. Warren Carlton, James T. Penniman, Wm. Nash, Charles & Lewis Curtis, Wood & Cleverly, Thompson Baxter, Elijah Baxter and Charles Marsh, who was succeeded by his brother Edwin.

In the early days of the business the manufacturers of boots and shoes were accustomed to market them by putting a yoke across their shoulders and attaching their merchandise in panniers to it, walk to Boston and dispose of them from their stalls located near North Market street or otherwise, and return the same day.

The first shoemaker in the Colony appears to have been a Mr. Thomas Beard who came over in the Mayflower, and was to be maintained at the public charge for 10 pounds a year. The governor of the Colony was to direct his place of employment. Mr. Beard brought with him a supply of leather for his use, upon which he was to pay 4 pounds per ton freight. It was also voted that fifty acres of land should be allotted him as compensation for paying his transportation charges.

It seems almost incredible, that in little more than twenty years after the settlement of the Colony that she should export boots and shoes, but such was the case, as at this early period Boston merchants began exporting calfskin boots and shoes manufactured at Lynn. Shoes, called stuff shoes, for women's wear, were subsequently quite extensively manufactured at Lynn, but only commonly worn by the most wealthy; the less opulent wore them on important occasions such as weddings ,and preserved them as too delicate for ordinary use. Morocco leather was not in use at this time, and it was not until 1770 that this article was brought to public notice by the noted Lord Timothy Dexter. In 1796, it was manufactured at Charlestown, Mass., by Mr. Elisha Mead. At this early period of the settlement of the Colonies the laboring classes wore neat leather shoes principally during the Colonial period.

In 1677 shoemakers were not to charge for shoes above five and a half pence a size, "for all playne and wooden-heeled shoes. Three-soled shoes well made not above seven and a half pence a size, and the same for French falls." To mark false sizes, or to sell above the price established by custom involved the forfeiture of the goods.

In 1629, the price established in Massachusetts for shoes when ordered of large sizes were two to two shillings sixpence a pair. Shoestrings as now worn took the place of the shoerose, under the Stuarts, and buckles resembling the horse bean came into use about 1688; "round toed" and "wooden heels" was the fashion of that day. The introduction of pegged work gave an impetus to the boot and shoe business. The introduction as far as we have been able to learn, was made by Mr. Joseph Walker of Hopkinton, Massachusetts, in 1818, which produced quite a revolution in the boot and shoe trade. "Previous to this time sewed work alone was made." After the introduction of the shoe peg, this "revolutionary instrument," about seven-eighths of the shoes made were pegged. At the present time machine sewed work has superseded hand sewed and pegged goods.

—A competitive examination of applicants for the postion of secretary of the State Board of Charity will be held January 24, 1910. There is one vacancy in this position to be filled; salary $2,500 per year.

TO HAVE CHILDREN'S WING.

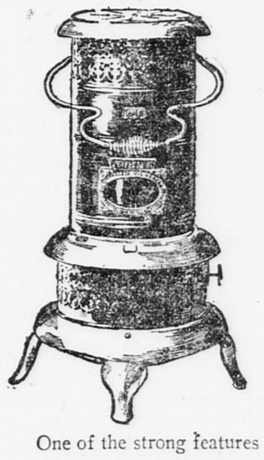
George Washington Memorial Being Helped by Boys and Girls.



A boy and girl auxiliary to the George Washington Memorial association has been started. If every adult admirer of the first president will show half the practical support that the children are beginning to offer, the leaders of the project declare, the $2,500,000 required to rear in Washington this center for the "general diffusion of knowledge" will be speedily assured.

One whole wing in the great building that all Americans are asked to erect and own in memory of Washington as a headquarters and auditorium for the patriotic, scientific, medical and art organizations of the nation will be built solely through the efforts of the American youngsters, who are being organized to spread the idea through their schoolrooms and playgrounds.

The Main Thing.

Chief of Detectives—Now give us a description of your missing cashier. How tall was he? Business Man—I don't know how tall he was. What worries me is that he was $10,000 short.

Joys are our wings, sorrows are our spurs.—Richter.

Live Heat

From the moment you strike a match and touch it to the wick, a powerful live heat radiates from the

PERFECTION Oil Heater

(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

which burns for 9 hours with one filling of its brass font, which holds 4 quarts.

One of the strong features of the Perfection Oil Heater is the new

Automatic Smokeless Device

which makes smoke impossible, even when the heater is handled by a novice. Permits instant removal for cleaning.

There is no danger of turning the wick too high—this automatic smokeless device prevents it.

This means a perfect, odorless, smokeless heat that carries comfort, cheer and satisfaction.

Beautifully finished in Japan or Nickel—no cast iron to break—legs, base and top stamped out of one piece of steel—damper top—aluminum metal window frames that heat will not tarnish—handle never hot. Made in various styles and finishes.

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not At Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE

NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE

Bought, Sold and Exchanged

Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new

THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy

Aug. 23 1o-tf

WHY GAS IS THE BEST LIGHT FOR YOU

QUALITY—The soft, mellow steady light of the modern mantle burner is absolutely the best artificial light to work or read by.

DOES NOT TIRE THE EYES.

CONVENIENCE—By using the Chain Pull attachment on the burners, the use of matches is abolished.

QUANTITY—The Reflex Inverted Light with Holophane Reflector gives a light equal to 200 candles directly under the light.

We will put in a light on trial; if you don't like it we will take it out without expense to you.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.

11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. Quincy 181

Dec. 24 tf

REAL ESTATE For Sale?

Advertise in The Ledger.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

It is with a feeling of regret that we note this week the fact that the school is to lose its principal, Leslie L. Cleveland. While we offer congratulations because of his advancement and the honor bestowed upon him, we still must regret exceedingly his leaving the school. Our best wishes follow him however in his new field and hopes that still higher honors are in store for him.

Ernest Williams, Q. H. S., '05, a graduate last June of Boston University, has accepted the position of instructor of chemistry in Arcadia college, Wolfville, N. S.

The Golden Rod states that any commencement programs for the years 1881, 84 88 and 89, also 1890 and 1908 which an old grad might have, would be gladly received by them to be placed on file in the Golden Rod sanctum.

A complete list of the post graduates in the school this year is as follows: Bessie Brooks, Mabel L. Andereon, Helen Brown, George Coughlin, Catherine Clemens, Clifford Fratus, Chester Gurney, Charles Kendall, Franz Marceau, Dorothy Packard, Nettie Pote, Ernest Roberts, Carl Shroder, Clarence Sevall, Louise Wilkinson, Marjorie Young and Ellis Young.

Herbert Cassidy, Q. H. S. '05, who during the past summer performed missionary work in New Hampshire, has returned to Boston University, where he enters upon his junior year.

Melvin T. Holbrook, submaster at the school, has been seen returning home several times this vacation with a good load of fish. Congratulations on being able to spear the "pesky things."

During the storm and since, there have been a number of High school students who have enjoyed the excellent snow shoeing offered.

Wouldnt it be a good idea now that the German club has proven such a success to start a French club, or better still an English club?

Mention is made in the Golden Rod "Eds,' that there is no school song. Begging the Golden Rod editor's pardon, there is, and a good one too. It is called "Cheer up Quincy," and if the editors think it is not good enough they should have been present at the Dorchester High game three years ago and heard the 200 or more rooters let it loose at the Dunbar avenue grounds. The song was composed by Irving Badger, Q. H. S. '07. The main trouble with a singing demonstration at games is that the students appear to be bashful.

The basket ball schedule is being reprinted in the Ledger this week by request. Cut it out and keep it with you. With that and your season ticket you'll be all right as far as the basket ball season is concerned.

Jan. 7 Abington at Quincy.
Jan. 11 Reading at Quincy.
Jan. 14 Milton at Quincy.
Jan. 18 Open date.
Jan. 21 Newton at Newton.
Jan. 26 Melrose at Quincy.
Feb. 1 Hyde Park at Quincy.
Feb. 4 Open date.
Feb. 8 Reading at Reading.
Feb. 11 Thayer at Quincy.
Feb. 16 Rockridge at Quincy.
Feb. 18 Open date.
Feb. 22 Scituate at Quincy.
Feb. 25 Concord at Quincy.
March 1 Milton at Milton.
March 4 Open date.

Alfred Brown of Quincy Point has entered Tufts Medical this year.

Willis Middleton of Washington street, a sophomore at Tufts Medical is confined to his home by rheumatism.

Stenley Sherman of Greenleaf street a freshman at Amherst college, is home for New Years.

Miss Zeta Pitts, a member of the junior class at High school is quite a whist player, having carried away quite a few prizes this winter.

The base ball schedule for next spring is nearly completed due to the energy of the baseball manager Tommy Veal.

Mercedes O'Brien, Q. H. S. '06, has been appointed as teacher at the Coddington school.

Melvin T. Holbrook was surprised at his home on Merrymount road Tuesday evening by a number of friends from the Galahad Brotherhood. William Walker, president of the brotherhood presented Mr. Holbrook in behalf of the members, a fine large picture of Sir Galahad. Mr. Holbrook in responding congratulated them on the success of the club in 1909, and wished it greater success in 1910.

Allison Marsh is home over the holidays from Amherst college.

A large number of the High school fellows have been bowling the past week at the Y. M. C. A. alleys.

Walter Lakin has severed his connection with the R. H. White Co., of Boston.

Jack Finn of West Quincy is home for the Christmas vacation from St. Anslems college, Manchester, N. H. He is captain of the basket ball team in the college.

Thomas Buckley of Bates avenue who is studying for the priesthood at St. John's Seminary, Brighton, is home for a few days.

Miss Mabel Damon, who is a school teacher in Deering, N. H., was unable to get back to school after the storm.

Glover Howe was visiting in Quincy this week and has returned to Marlboro. He goes back to M. A. C. on Monday.

Monday evening Harold Gore and Philip Barnes held a dancing party at Brazee hall, Wollaston. Despite the storm there was a large attendance, and being vacation time it was a reunion for the High school grads, most of whom have been away to school the past fall. Among those present were: Franz Marceau, Miss Lillian Sutherburg, Harold Marsh, Miss Iva Briggs, Ralph Blake, Eleanor Whittemore, Russell Bates, Helen Brown, Clarence Tobin, Gertrude Sass, Charles Fox, Edith Lovejoy, Glover Howe, Marion Brown, Stanley Bates, Mila Bates, James Hill, Eleanor Pratt, Phill Barnes, Lillian Meade, Lawrence Pope, Ruth Parker, Harold Gore, Gladys Bain, Walter Lakin, Miss Mabel Anderson, Roy Given, Caroline Sumner, Malcolm Hinckley, Miss Bessie Brooks, Max Pinkham, Miss Dorothy Sayward, Charles Hall, Miss Mildred Lawton, Anthony Jobin, Idena Howarth, Gordon Jenkins, Catherine Gay, Allison Marsh, Nettie Pote, Stanley Churchill, Edna Rhodes, Gordon Jameson, Dorothy Packard, Corliss Berry, Edna Thomas.

—According to French law a certain reserve is established which no testator can bequeath away from his offspring. A Frenchman with one child can dispose of half his property according to his pleasure; the other half must inevitably pass to the child. Those with two children can dispose of only one-third of their property, those with three children of one-fourth, and so on, according to the size of the family. Stern parents occasionally seek to evade the law by subterfuge, but the disposal of property in France is hedged round with so many restrictions that family black sheep are rarely mulcted of their legal inheritance.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

After 3.30 at

SHUNK'S AGENCY

WOLLASTON

Leave an order and have delivered at your door

CLASS OF 1906 REUNION

Massachusetts Fields and Wollaston Schools

A reunion of the classes of 1906 of the Massachusetts Fields and Wollaston grammar schools was held in Wollaston hall Wednesday evening. Although none of the teachers were able to be present, owing to vacation, a jolly time was had by all. The evening opened with a grand march, and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. This is the first reunion that has been held, but it is probable that this will be an annual event in the future. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of the following: Leon D. Brown, chairman; William Northrop treasurer; Arthur Axberg, Clarence Armstrong, Miss Gladys Bain, Miss Mildred Dunham, Miss Marguerite Perkins, Miss Edna Crockett and Miss Bertha Given.

LYE STEWED PEACHES.

The pure food agitation which has been principally over the question of benzoate or soda has now taken a new turn and renewed interest will doubtless be aroused over this question.

It is said that in most of the canneries of the country peaches are stewed in red-hot caustic soda to eat away the skins and thereby save the cost of knife-peeling, the difference in cost amounting to a cent and a half or two cents per can.

In the process of this lye stewing, almost all the flavor of the peach disappears and doubtless a little caustic soda is left on each piece of fruit as a memento of its trip through the cannery.

Caustic soda strong enough to eat away the skin of an unripe peach must be anything but soothing to the inner man or child. The full significance of this is best understood in connection with the fact that caustic soda is used in making many kinds of soap; in fact, it is the dirt eating part of soap.

It is said that the great majority of the canneries use the lye process in place of the knife-peeling method. Attempts have been made for sometime to get the Department of Agriculture to make a ruling on this question which would compel the canners who use this method to say so on the labels of their goods. It looks now as if the question will be passed up to Congress for a specific law covering this phase of the pure food agitation.

The use of caustic soda is impossible with ripe fruit because it discolors a ripe peach so that it will not pass muster with the users of high-grade canned fruits. In consequence this process is possible only with unripe fruit, and green fruit is purposely gathered for canning.

Owing to the absence of any marks on the cans to indicate the use of caustic soda, the only way the customer can tell if he has purchased a lye-process can of fruit is by taste. Open a can of peaches, wash away the syrup from a piece of the fruit. Then taste it. If it is void of flavor, woody and pulpy, and has a soapy appearance, it is undoubtedly the lye-peeled variety.

A Costly Funeral.

The most costly state funeral which has ever taken place was perhaps that of Alexander the Great. A round million was spent in laying Alexander to his rest. The body was placed in a coffin of gold filled with costly aromatics, and a diadem was placed on the head. The funeral car was embellished with ornaments of pure gold, and its weight was so great that it took eighty-four mules more than a year to convey it from Babylon to Syria.

Explained.

"Don't you want your nice bread and butter, Anne?" asked her father. Anne shook her head. "It's a shame to waste such nice bread and butter," continued her father. "I'll eat it myself."

Anne watched the process with big eyes and a look of expectancy on her face. Finally, when the last mouthful had disappeared, Anne asked, "Papa, did it tickle?"

"Tickle!" said her father. "Why, no. What do you mean?"

"I thought it would tickle," said Anne. "It had a long hair on it."—Circle.

Worse Than Split.

The Youth—Miss Mabel, I'd like to once in awhile, with your permission, you know, call and see you.

The High School Girl—Mr. Sorreltop, you will pardon me for saying that I do not care for the attentions of a young man who not only splits his infinitives, but tears them wide apart.—Chicago Tribune.

RESOLUTIONS FOR THE MEN.

WHAT would I suggest? Oh, lots of things! To begin with, I'd have husbands make a cast iron resolution to spend more of their time at home. When a man marries a woman he leads her to suppose he does it because he yearns for unlimited quantities of her society, and it must strike any fair minded person a good deal like getting goods under false pretenses if as soon as the honeymoon wanes he chases off to the club or downtown the minute he gets his dinner, leaving her to solitude and the unexciting delights of her own company. It is a situation that perhaps a man never appreciates, because he has never been there himself. It couldn't happen to him, because the moment he detected a symptom of lonesomeness he would put on his hat and go off to the theater or the corner saloon or some place where there were light and brightness and gayety. A woman has no such resources. She can't go around at night by herself hunting up company, but must sit at home, no matter how lonesome and bored she may be. Men are forever wondering why women want to congregate together in boarding houses. One answer to the conundrum is that they want somebody to talk to while their husbands are downtown at night. I have yet to see the woman whose husband was a home keeping and home loving man who wasn't satisfied to stay there too. There's one thing dead certain, and that is if men were so anxious to stay at home evenings as they were to call on a girl before marriage and if they took as much trouble and pains to try to entertain their wives as they do their sweethearts the domestic millennium would be within hailing distance.

"YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU ARE TALKING ABOUT."

Then, it seems to me, a man might resolve not to unload all his troubles on the family hearth. Of course I know every day a man has to go through with enough to try the patience of a saint, but because cotton has gone down instead of up or things haven't run smoothly at the office is no real reason for slapping Sammy and kicking the cat as soon as he gets within his own door. A man might occasionally remember that a woman has troubles of her own and needs to be cheered and brightened. We are continually told that a woman should always meet her husband with a smile, but no woman can smile long enough or brightly enough to raise the temperature in a house where a man is sitting around with a scowl on his face. It takes reciprocity, and it's just as much a man's business to smile and help to make home happy as it is a woman's. There's always room for plenty of good resolutions New Year's day and other days. He might resolve, if he really meant to turn over a new leaf and try to do his part toward making home happy, to make his wife an allowance and pay it promptly as a debt of honor; to remember that servants are mortal and that you can't hire a three dollar a week girl to cook like a $1,000 chef; to bear in mind that a woman never gets too old to like a compliment or to be interested in hearing that her husband loves her and appreciates her, and, above all, to save some of his good manners and good humor for home consumption.—Dorothy Dix.

GOOD HUMOR FOR HOME CONSUMPTION.

Celestial New Year.

According to the Chinese calendar, the new year begins on the 25th of January. The day is celebrated with great rejoicings. Processions and festivals of the carnival sort are held in the principal cities. The Chinese are extremely fond of fireworks and are adepts in the manufacture of them. Many kinds are used in their New Year's celebrations. The noisy kinds are particularly popular, so that the processions move along in a hullabaloo of popping noises. The processions differ in the different localities. At Canton, for instance, one curious feature is the bearing aloft of little girls on long poles. The girls are garbed to represent idols. Borne high above the crowd, each girl is sheltered by a big umbrella carried on a still longer pole. They look like pretty flowers rising above a meadow. One of these quaint processions is always a most interesting sight to the foreigner.

Do You Know This Man?

Jim Tanks would swear off, so I hear,
Every New Year's on whisky and beer,
Which he thought was so great
That he'd then celebrate
The feat all the rest of the year.

NEW YEAR'S HAIR SPLITTING.

Difference Between Resolutions and Good Intentions.

"DID you make any New Year's resolutions, Johnny?" asked the cashier as the bill clerk returned from his locker.

"What do you take me for?" asked the bill clerk. "It may be necessary for you, but I don't quite see what I've got to make resolutions against."

"I beg your pardon," said the cashier. "As usual, I spoke in haste and unthinkingly. New Year's resolutions are for imperfect and weak willed persons like me. Not for you."

"I've made em, all the same."

"Then originally you had faults?"

"One or two little blemishes, perhaps," admitted the bill clerk. "One time I swore off smoking cigarettes."

"Some people might regard that as a blemish," said the cashier.

"I guess I kept to it for about three weeks," said the bill clerk, "and that was doing pretty darned well, too. Most of them don't last that long. It always makes me a little weary to hear a fellow say: 'No, I ain't taking any, thank you. I've sworn off, and I'm not going to begin again.' In a day or two you'll see him lining up in the same old way at the same old place, and that's all there is to it."

"It is only too often the case, I fear," sighed the cashier.

"Billy Manchip has sworn off from cussing," said the bill clerk, with an amused smile. "I came in through the alley, and he had three fellows loading for him, and they were handling the cases as if they were going to sleep when Billy came out. I expected to hear something rich and fancy, but except that he kind of stuttered when he came to the places where the ornamental words would have fitted you'd have thought he was talking to a Sunday school class. I said to him, 'What's the matter, Billy?'

"'It's just a fool habit, swearing,' says Billy. 'I've sworn off.'

"I'll give him just about one week," continued the bill clerk. "Say, the walking in hades ought to be good by this time. I don't think I ought to do anything to make it better, do you?"

"There's a difference between intentions and resolutions," said the cashier. "A good intention is all right, but it needs a resolution on top of it to make it stick. You may intend to quit going into debt for things you could do without, and you may intend to get around to the office on time and put a little more ginger into your work when you do get there. You may intend to be a little more deferential in your manner toward your elders and superiors in the office and to take good advice when your elders and superiors give it to you, but nothing's likely to come of intending. When you resolve—when you say to yourself, 'I am going to do this,' or, 'From this time on I'm not going to do that,' then there's some hope for you."

"You think it's all right, then?" queried the bill clerk.

"It's a good thing to make a resolution to do better any time," said the cashier. "It's bad to break it, but it's better to make it and break it than not to make it at all. If Billy can keep a clean mouth for a week it will be better than nothing, and he may last longer. If you stopped filling your lungs with cigarette smoke for three weeks you're that three weeks to the good."

"Thank you for this little lesson," said the bill clerk gratefully. "How about taking up your employer's time shooting off that everlasting slack jaw of yours?"—Chicago News.

New Year's Morning.

Only a night from old to new!
Only a night and so much wrought!
The old year's heart all weary grew,
But said, "The new year rest has brought."
The old year's heart its hopes laid down
As in a grave, but, trusting, said,
"The blossoms of the New Year's crown
Bloom from the ashes of the dead."
The old year's heart was full of greed.
With selfishness it longed and ached
And cried: "I have not half a need!
My thirst is bitter and unslaked.
But to the New Year's generous hand
All gifts in plenty shall return.
True loving it shall understand.
But all my failures it shall learn.
I have been reckless. It shall be Quiet and calm and pure of life.
I was a slave. It shall go free
And find sweet peace where I leave strife."
Only a night from old to new!
Never a night such changes brought.
The old year had its work to do.
No new year miracles are wrought.

Always a night from old to new—
Night and the healing balm of sleep.
Each morn is New Year's morn come true—
Morn of a festival to keep.
All nights are sacred nights to make
Confession and resolve and prayer.
All days are sacred days to wake
New gladness in the sunny air.
Only a night from old to new;
Only a sleep from night to morn!
The new is but the old come true.
Each sunrise sees a new year born.
—Helen Hunt Jackson.

It All Depended.

Johnny—Mamma, are we going to have turkey for dinner on New Year's?

Mamma—It all depends, Johnny.

Johnny—On what?

Mamma—On whether your father has anything left after the tradesmen's clerks and the janitor get through wishing him a happy New Year's.

Fate of a Resolution.

A month ago I made a pact
With conscience to forswear an act,
To take effect on New Year's day.
The day is here. I now resolve
To let the business all devolve
On conscience. 'Tis the easiest way.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Princess Marie Bonaparte is the richest woman in France. Her father founded the Monte Carlo gambling resort.

Mrs. Daniel C. Morse, employed in a corset establishment in Worcester, thinks she is the oldest "shopgirl" in Massachusetts. She is eighty-four years old.

The president of the Dutch Woman Suffrage association is Dr. Aletta Jacobs of Amsterdam, who was the first woman authorized to practice medicine in Holland. Dr. Jacobs recently celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of her practice.

Miss Marteina Kramers of Rotterdam, Holland, is one of the most accomplished of woman linguists. She can read and speak thirteen languages. She is the editor of Jus Suffragii, the official organ of the International Woman Suffrage alliance.

Caroline Bartlett Crane is an evangelist in social ethics. Mrs. Crane, fifty-one years old, lives in Kalamazoo, where in 1893 she founded the People's church, a creedless, seven day working church. Later she relinquished her pastorate and through the Woman's Civic Improvement league commenced a much wider work.

Train and Track.

Railroad signals of the present day are the outgrowth of the invention of a lazy Scotchman who when obliged to walk some distance to operate a signal rigged wires to it and worked it from his box, where he could sit still.

Out of 206 railway charters granted by the Canadian parliament in the twenty years ended 1909 only twenty-eight have resulted in any construction, eighty-six have lapsed, and the others have received extensions of time.

The railroad station at Langford, England, on a branch line, is in charge of an aged widow who has performed all the duties for many years. Her cottage, a short distance away, is also the ticket office, and a small wooden shed is the waiting room.

Recent Inventions.

A Michigan man has patented a post hole digger with pivoted jaws, much like a miniature clam shell dredge.

An Australian has taken out a patent on a buoy to be fastened to the bridge deck of a vessel by a coil of wire to enable the wreck to be located should the vessel founder.

A European inventor has brought out a parachute hood which he claims may be used on any aeroplane without hindering its flight, yet which will prevent disaster should the machine fall.

A North Dakota man has patented a hammer with a loop of metal under the face of the head in which a nail can be held for starting into place without danger of mashing the user's fingers.

Her Winter Garb.

Woman likes a contrast
When the weather's rough;
Rather believes
In elbow sleeves
Coupled with a muff.

Woman likes a contrast
When a freeze occurs;
Has a quirk
For openwork
Worn with heavy furs.
—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Always Busy.

"What do you mean, sir," demanded the irate housewife, "by circulating the report that I am an idle gossip?"

"Madam," responded the corner grocer suavely, "you do me grave injustice. I said you were the busiest gossip within ten blocks."—Chicago News.

Fragmentary.

"The dress Mrs. Style wore at the opera was a perfect poem," said Mrs. Howard.

"As far as it went, no doubt," replied her husband, "but I thought some cantos were missing."—Brooklyn Life.

Last Rose Revived.

'Tis the last rose of summer left blooming alone.
All her lovely companions are faded and gone.
But never a grief can her smiling unsettle—
She knows she is worth seven dollars a petal.
—Lippincott's.

Should Be.

"I notice all the members of your family wear felt slippers."

"Yes; we like them."

"Then things in this family ought to be on an easy footing."—Baltimore American.

Pung For Sale

as good as new with Shafts and Pole. Double Runners.

GEORGE H. WILSON,
1453 Hancock St., Quincy.
Dec. 29 4t

YOUR MILK SUPPLY

is uncertain during the winter. The milkmen are delayed by storm and you are not sure of receiving fresh milk. We list below several articles that will provide for such emergencies, and do away with the milk problem for all time.

Van Camp's Evaporated Milk 9c. can, 3 for 25c
Borden's Peerless Milk 6 cans for 25c
Tip Top and Rose Brands Condensed Milk can 11c
Blue Cross Condensed Milk can 10c
Eagle Condensed Milk can 15c

Use any of these with our Quality Coffee, 30c. lb.

PROMPT ATTENTION TO Telephone Orders No. 367-3

R. E. FOY & CO
COR WATER AND QUINCY STS.
QUINCY ADAMS

PAIN AND PLEASURE

are like water and oil they won't mi It's sure enough pain, if you have tooth trouble.

IT GIVES US PLEASURE TO STOP YOUR PAIN

If the pain is caused by defective teeth.

Our help is permanent and you face your own pain by delay. We put up satisfactory and

LASTING TOOTH CURE AT THESE DENTAL PARLORS.

M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.
DENTIST
37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.
Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Dec. 27 1o-1w

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 448
May 2 1y

MAKE YOUR PURCHASES FROM LEDGER ADVERTISERS. BE SURE TO READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN TODAY'S LEDGER

G. W. WHEELER

WHEELER

DRY GOODS
SMALL WARES
UNDERWEAR
HOSIERY
HANDKERCHIEFS
GLOVES
CORSETS
APRONS

May Manton Patterns

.....We Give CASH DISCOUNT SLIPS.....

CITY SQUARE QUINCY

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department,
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St., QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building, 294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

Red Cross Stamps

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building, QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 456-1 July 27-tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN, Treasurer.

M. T. SULLIVAN,
Real Estate Insurance
Auctioneer Care of Property,
Corner School and Hancock Streets.
QUINCY.

R. D. CHASE
QUINCY MASS.

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 402-3 Quincy, 280-3 Quincy, 308-7 Milton
1p-tf

H. R. HOLMES
Rear 1416 Hancock Street
Quincy, Mass.
Furniture Repairing, Keys Fitted, Shade work, Glazing, Upholstering, Mattresses made over, Furniture and China Packing, Screens Repaired
Antique work a specialty
Nov. 20

JAMES F. BURKE
Real Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
338 Boylston Street, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 206
Oct. 1. tf

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 340-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chi-che-ster's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHI-CHES-TER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

CAPTURED AS SPIES

A Story of the Civil War.

By THOMAS GRISWOLD.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

"Butler's coming! Railroad track's all torn up and the telegraph wires cut! You boys had better get right back to Petersburg. I'm going there to give the alarm."

A dust covered farmer mounted on a foaming horse, who had come tearing down the Richmond turnpike, shouted this startling news to two barefooted newsboys who were resting in the shade on the side of the turnpike, a few yards from the point where it crossed the Richmond and Petersburg railroad.

The time was in the early days of the siege of Petersburg, when General Benjamin F. Butler was operating on the James river.

The older of these two newsboys was fifteen. I will call him Jack. I was the younger one and was eleven years old.

We discussed the question whether we should go home or go on toward Richmond and endeavor to get a glimpse of General Butler, whom Confederate boys at that time regarded as a sort of monster.

We started at a brisk walk along the railroad, with our unsold stock of Richmond papers under our arms.

As we turned a curve near the Swift creek bridge we saw, about a mile beyond, a sight that greatly excited us. The air was full of black smoke, through which we saw an occasional flash of flames. Presently we came close enough to discover that the source of the flames was a great pile of telegraph poles and railroad ties.

"Butler's men did that," said Jack. "We'll have to be mighty cautious. Let's get into the ditch along the track and keep a sharp lookout."

Just beyond a slight rise of the ground north of the house was a Union encampment. The smoke lazily rose from a hundred campfires, and the white tents gleamed in the bright sunshine in a manner that was almost painful to the eyes.

Gradually it dawned upon us that the camp had been suddenly abandoned—so suddenly, indeed, that the diners were left cooking on the fires, and all sorts of camp utensils and provisions were scattered promiscuously around.

We made straight for the big tent in front of which the flag was flying. Jack lowered the flag. With a beating heart I entered the tent. I found it littered with torn papers and maps. In one corner was a camp chest upon which were painted the words, "General B. F. Butler, U. S. A."

In a tent in the rear of General Butler's, which was probably used as a kitchen, we found a stock of provisions that set us wild with delight. We had little to eat at home and now had been for several hours without food.

A pot of coffee steamed on the fire in front of the tent. On the shelves inside was a boiled ham, and about it lay a variety of canned meats and fruits, while a chest was found to contain a quantity of freshly baked bread.

"Oh," said Jack, "if we only had a wagon we might carry home a lot of these things."

"Well," said I, "the next best thing is to tote home as much as we can on our backs. What are we going to take?"

"I reckon," said Jack, "that the folks at home would like tea and coffee best. They are scarcest."

We decided to load ourselves down with those two articles. We found some empty sacks and divided the contents of the sack of green coffee in General Butler's kitchen tent into two parts of thirty or forty pounds each. Then into two other sacks we poured a chest of Oolong tea. These were tied up and put inside the sacks containing coffee, and Jack also stuffed into his sack the flag in front of the general's tent, which he had taken down when he first entered the camp.

He suggested that I give him a part of my coffee in order to lighten the load, and at first I was inclined to do so, but when I thought how the people at home after many months' use of chicory, parched corn, roasted sweet potato parings and other poor substitutes for coffee would enjoy the genuine article I made up my mind that I would carry home the contents of the sack if I had to drag it over the entire five miles.

We had been so much excited with our discoveries that we had not noticed that the sun was very low. It would be dark before we could reach home. We gazed longingly at what we were leaving behind and started homeward.

We took the turnpike with the hope of getting a lift in some passing vehicle. As we trudged along we saw two Confederate cavalrymen riding toward us. In our fear lest they should rob us of our precious possessions we clouched along as near the woods as we could get, hoping they would pass without noticing us.

Vain hope! "Halt!" we heard one of them shout just as they were abreast of us. One of them, who was a corporal, dismounted.

He was a cruel looking fellow, and we soon discovered that his looks did not belie him. Walking up to Jack, he gruffly asked, "What have you got there?" and at the same time roughly jerked the sack from the terrified boy's shoulder.

Plunging his arm into the sack, he drew out the United States flag. At sight of this the corporal shouted, "Spies—traitors!" and danced about wildly.

It was useless for us to try to explain to the infuriated man, and, to tell the truth, we were too badly frightened to give a good account of ourselves.

"I'm going to carry you to General Beauregard's headquarters," the corporal said, "and you'll be shot as spies."

We believed him. It was not, therefore, with very good spirits that we started on our march to General Beauregard's headquarters.

We wished to throw our sacks away, but our captors would not allow it, so we plodded along, our loads on our backs and the corporal constantly threatening to thrash us for our slowness.

We turned out of the turnpike into a crossroad. I ventured to ask how far General Beauregard's headquarters were and received a cuff on the side of the head from the corporal. I asked the other soldier if he would not carry my sack behind him on his horse's back a little way. I believe he would have done so if the corporal had not forbidden it.

Just as we reached the top of a long hill and I was about to drop from fatigue I saw that we were near our journey's end. In front of us was a large building which before the days of railroads had been a roadside inn. Two guards slowly marched back and forth before the tumbledown steps that led to the porch, which extended across the front of the house and which was now crowded with soldiers, apparently couriers and orderlies.

As we reached the porch the soldiers began to rally the corporal upon his "baby prisoners." He made no reply, but stalked pompously through the open door after instructing his companion to hold us.

This was a useless instruction. We needed no holding except as we were receiving from the floor of the porch, upon which we had fallen completely exhausted and where we remained until the corporal came out to summon us to the presence of General Beauregard.

"Bring the sacks," yelled the corporal as we started in without them.

I am certain that no murderers ever went to receive sentence of death with weaker knees than we had as we were pushed into the presence of General Beauregard.

I had my eyes shut, but opened them when I heard a low, kindly voice saying, "Well, my boys, what is the trouble?"

I saw seated at a little pine table a dapper little man in a gray uniform, with small mustache and imperial and kind looking brown eyes. He was smiling straight into my eyes, and before I knew what I was doing I was smiling, too, and thinking that our lives were safe in the hands of a man who could smile like that.

Behind the general several men were busily engaged in writing, and scattered around the room were officers whom I took to be members of the staff.

Every one was smiling in the pleasantest way. In fact, the only ill natured man in the room was the corporal who had brought us in.

"Well, well," the general repeated, "what is the trouble?"

The corporal began to answer, but the general said: "I have had your story. Now I want the boys' side."

Jack was much encouraged. He stepped forward and told a straightforward story of the way in which we had been arrested and of the corporal's brutal treatment of us.

"Shameful!" said the general as he looked at the corporal with angry eyes. Then, turning to Jack again, he said kindly, "Now tell me where you got the flag and other things."

"We got them from General Butler's abandoned camp on Shippen's farm," said Jack promptly.

"What! Are you telling the truth?" excitedly asked the general as he jumped up and walked around to where we were standing. At the same time the room was filled with the sound of rattling swords as the officers approached.

"Yes, sir, I am telling the truth," Jack answered proudly, looking the general straight in the eyes. Continuing, he told the whole story from beginning to end, not forgetting the dinner we had eaten in General Butler's kitchen tent.

General Beauregard held a whispered consultation with the officers present, and they soon hurried out. Turning to the corporal, the general said: "In view of the important information these boys have given me I forgive your foolish arrest and brutal treatment of them. You may go."

The corporal went out, crestfallen. By this time it had grown quite dark, and the military clerks were writing by the light of tallow candles. General Beauregard turned to one of them and gave instructions in a low tone. We sat down on a bench at the dark side of the room, apparently forgotten.

Presently the general walked over to where we were sitting and, placing his hand on my head, said, "I suppose you boys are anxious to get home?"

"Yes, sir," we answered, both at once.

"Well, I will send you home in my ambulance. Meantime accept my thanks for the important information you have brought me."

We drove home, the happiest boys in the world, in General Beauregard's private ambulance, with our precious sacks behind us. What a welcome we found at home and how our old government Java and Oolong were appreciated!

IN THE LAND OF TAILLESS CATS.

In the Isle of Man are many curious beliefs. The last night of the old year was called Quaaltagh, and it was the custom for parties of young men to visit from house to house and sing a song wishing the inmates long life and happiness and plenty of potatoes and herrings, butter and cheese, that they might sleep well during the year and not be disturbed by even "the tooth of a flea." On finishing the song the party was invited into the house, the darkest member being always the first to enter, and they were regaled with good cheer. For a light haired man or any woman or girl to enter a house on New Year's day is dreaded by all. If such a catastrophe takes place, on him or her will be cast the blame for every accident that befalls the home during the year.

Great care is taken to brush the carpet of a room from the door to the hearth and not from the hearth to the door. This makes all the difference between good and bad luck, health and death, to the family during the year. On New Year's eve it was also the custom to rake the ashes of the fire over the kitchen floor. The next morning the ashes were eagerly examined for the trace of a footprint. If one was discovered with the toes pointing to the door it signified that death would certainly carry off one of the household during the year; if the foot, however, pointed from the door to the hearth then an addition would be made to the family before twelve months had gone.—San Francisco Chronicle.

New Year's Bells.

Paulinus, bishop of Nola, introduced the bell into the Christian worship in the year 400 A. D. The first bells were made in Campania; hence the term campanile, or bell tower. The adoption of the bell into the services of the church soon gave the chimes the comforter's office in the minds of the devout. In their simple faith the worshipers believed that consecrated bells had the power to prevent storms, to drive away evil spirits and to bring repose to the sufferer.

The direct forerunner of the New Year's bell is what was known as the "passing bell." This was rung at the death of a believer. In theory devils troubled the expiring patient. Moreover, they lay in wait to trouble the soul the instant it passed from the body. But the peals of a consecrated bell were believed to possess a potency that the most malignant of devils could not withstand; hence with every death the ringing of the holy bells exorcised the evil spirits and assured the soul a happy passing into a future of untroubled peace.

From this ancient custom developed easily and naturally the habit of ringing out the old year and ringing in the new. The parallel between the death of a human being and the death of the spent old year is clear enough. All that was evil in the old year, all that it had brought of misfortune and worry, was supposed to be resolved into nothing by the music of bells ascending the starlit skies at the mysterious midnight moment of transition.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A National Pay Day.

New Year is the national pay day in China. All accounts must be squared up at that time, and the man who can't raise enough to pay his debts has to go into bankruptcy. The laws are such that the creditor can enter the debtor's house and take what he pleases if there is no settlement. To prevent such action families club together and make all sorts of compromises to keep up the business reputation of the clan. New Year's is a great day for the pawnbrokers; their shops are crowded with people who want to redeem their best clothes before the new year. There are crowds who want to pawn other things in order to get money to pay their debts. Pawnbrokers receive very high rates of interest, in which they are protected by the government.—Philadelphia Press.

Sweeping Out the Old Year.

On New Year's eve in Yorkshire and some other parts of England people with blackened faces, decked with ribbons and paper flowers, etc., each carrying a broom, go the round of the houses and offer to sweep out the old year for the occupants. They are generally rewarded with crescent shaped New Year's cakes or butter and eggs.

When Pop Swore Off.

When pop swore off last New Year's
My maw was awful glad,
Although she sorter cried a bit,
But that's a way she had.
Pop said that he'd 'a' done it
Jest after Christmas night
Except that he was waitin' fer
New Year's to do it right.

When pop swore off last New Year's
It seemed like he was sore.
He scolded maw an' kicked the cat
Clean through the kitchen door.
An' as fer me, good gracious,
He licked me good enough
Jest 'cause I asked him how it felt
To do without the stuff!

When pop swore off last New Year's
He didn't smile fer days,
But seemed to mope around the house
With jest a stony gaze,
An' there was simply nothin'
That seemed a-pleasin' him.
I never see a man so stern
An' grumpy-like an' grim.

When pop swore off last New Year's
It lasted fer a spell,
But when he started up again
Maw said 'twas jest as well.
I guess she knows her business.
It made pop act so queer
I hope he ain't a-goin' to do
No swearin' off this year!

—Sam S. Stinson.

JAPAN'S ART IN FLOWERS.

New Ideals In the Arrangement of Blooms Making Their Way Here.

The principles of the arrangement of flowers in this country as well as in Europe generally are altogether different from the ideals of Japan. The art has never been much studied in this country. The Japanese have gone farther than any other nation in this particular study and have united with merely aesthetic considerations ideas of religion and ethics that seem out of place in western minds.

The professional arrangers of flowers are not likely to be found in this country outside of the flower shops. Their principles of decoration are diametrically opposed to those of the Japanese. The Japanese keep always in mind the necessity of showing the flower as nearly as possible in its natural state. In the occident some artificial effect is likely to be sought.

Even in the occident, however, the ideals have grown much more artistic in recent years. The old fashioned mid-Victorian bouquet, with its wide variety of colors and shapes, has been supplanted by more natural if not more artistic arrangements. That they could be made still more artistic the recent introduction of the Japanese models has shown here. These are now in general use. They were first imported by the dealers in oriental goods, but are now manufactured in this country. The native made articles are more in demand than the imported, not because they are more artistic, but because they are more practical.

TYPICAL JAPANESE ARRANGEMENT.

A dinner table at a smart house only a short time ago showed the center of the table arranged with a beautiful Japanese garden. Irises grew about the edges of the shallow bronze basin, and water lilies were floating in the center of it. About the shallow basin were other aquatic plants, which contrasted in irregular arrangement with the other blooms shown. This elaborate decoration was possible by the use of the glass holders made in this country.

Nothing is more foreign to the Japanese ideals than the massive flower pieces built up for balls, weddings and similar functions. Yet they represent the triumph of the American and European idea of beauty as opposed to the oriental. They have the fault of ignoring the beauty of the flower itself. They do nothing to show off or to serve its beauty. They make it as much a negligible detail of the decoration as a brick in the wall of a house.

Japanese floral art takes exactly the opposite point of view. Its purpose is to show as far as possible all there is of the flower. There are strict laws prescribed as to the manner in which the decorations shall be arranged, what colors shall go together and which are feminine and which are masculine.

SHEARS IN THE KITCHEN.

There is the pineapple snipper, which may be used because of its unusual shape only for cutting out pineapple eyes.

A reasonable pair or two of well polished scissors over and above the special kerosene blades will prove more useful than the unprepared housekeeper has ever contemplated.

Fish shears are not so pleasant sounding, but the person who prepares the uncooked sea food will appreciate the disappearance of the sharp, finger sticking fins between the sharp blades.

Not "a" single scissors in the kitchen, but several, for the kerosene scissors intended for wicks and rough usage generally are sacred to some shed or closet to which is banished the kerosene can.

A vegetable scissors should be found, for who hasn't seen the lima bean pods that will not yield to ordinary pressure when fall toughens them on the outside while the bean is still new inside? The kitchen garden, too, will demand a share in the vegetable scissors.

There is the grape scissors, a valuable pair, indeed, for autumn, which is grape time, and all through the winter because grape season stretches out over a long, long period. The grape scissors, unless they be too dainty and silvered, may be used for the preparing of the grapefruit. The tough fiber can be managed with difficulty if a knife be relied upon, and time as well as rich juice may be saved by the use of scissors blades.

The Reason Why.

Women often wonder why lace curtains or those of net in an open pattern give better service than such materials as fine scrim, cotton voile or dotted muslin, and the reason is that closely woven fabrics, being opaque, catch the sun's rays directly and in full force. This heat in time weakens or burns the threads, while the open weaves, allowing as they do the entrance of the sun's rays filtering through, escape much of the scorching, as they do not receive the full force of the heat.

THE WAITING GAME.

By Andrew Loring.

AUTHOR OF "MR. SMITH OF ENGLAND," "LEPERS IN PURPLE," ETC.

(Copyright, 1909, by the London Daily Mail.)

CHAPTER 1.

THE WAR WHOOP.

A strange shrill cry, reechoing through the wood broke the stillness of the early twilight. A frightened blackbird fluttered from a hawthorn bush, chattering angrily. A cuckoo ceased his monotonous note. Only soft cooing of ring-doves persisted, and the girl stood panting, one bare arm resting on the slender stem of a silver birch, the other curved about her ear. Without motion, save for her heaving bosom, she stood listening, lithe and straight and graceful as the tree. A crimson line showed like a fine bracelet high on her bare left arm where a twig had cut her. A bramble had caught at her white satin skirt and torn it near the hem. Another had snatched at her red-gold hair; the loosened strand waved over the white forehead. The blackbird, hovering near the nest, reassured, furtively came to the birch and peered down at this alien intruder into his woodland.

She moved at last, dropping her arms slowly, listening still, as if loth to give up hope of answer. Her lips, vivid with the red of youth and health, came into a round "O," but relaxed ere she repeated her cry; for she had turned as she had looked this way and that, and she saw smoke and the top of a chimney vaguely through branches covered with the tender green of spring. It seemed to her as though they must hear her over there at Lythe; yet she knew the idea was absurd, for the great house from which she had fled was a quarter-mile away.

Swiftly she crossed the rough timber road, stepping carefully among drouth-baked clods of mud; and she walked quickly up the drive cut out between tangled masses of wood and underbrush. The grass carpet of the drive was hidden here and there by great patches of blue violets, and an army of rabbits silently scuttled about. So light her footfalls, so noiseless her graceful movements, that they played and ate undisturbed; but they shot into hiding when she repeated her shrill, carrying summons.

Her excellent imitation of the feminine, penetrating warhoop of the Huron tribe of Canadian Indians rang once more through the twilight silences.

She stood poised bent forward, her lips parted. She straightened, smiling as a faint answering echo came to her ears, and sped down the drive, never heeding that grass spangled with violets was not the carpet for slippers of delicate white kid. She stopped panting as she heard a crashing in the under-growth.

"Down, Tim! down, Rover!" The spaniel and the terrior rushed at her, barking an eager welcome.

"Hallo . . . hallo . . ." Sprinting up the drive followed the owner of the dogs, a young man, bareheaded, bronzed.

"What's the matter—what's happened—Miss Archer—an accident?"

He was by her side now staring at her face, at her dress, at her slippers.

"Should I be coming here for a doctor?" She forced a laugh. The perplexity in his clear, hazel eyes deepened.

"I cannot say what you might do," he answered slowly. The slight accent on the "you" hinted a touch of resentment.

Instantly she was grave. "I want your help—your advice. Take me somewhere where we can talk."

"My cottage," he said and he turned and led the way.

The young man's brain was whirling as he strode forward in silence. He had been dreaming of this beautiful Canadian girl as he sat smoking in the soft spring twilight, and then suddenly had come that piercing cry with which she had always heralded her approach. Startled, for he had thought of her as seated at dinner at Lythe, he had raced to meet her to find her bareheaded, in evening dress, her arms and shoulders bare. Her strange manner, her stranger costume, told him that something was amiss. She needed help—and she had turned to him.

He had loved her since the first day she had come into his lonely life, demanding his companionship as a right; but his love had been as toward a queen to whom he had rendered loyal homage whom he worshiped from afar. Now tonight, she was a girl, needing him, appealing to him. His breath came quick and sudden hope sprang in his heart—hope which he did not try to stifle.

They came to the clearing where stood an old cottage, oak-beamed, thatched. He flung open the door. She shook her head and moved toward a moss-covered tree-trunk which lay among a riot of bluebells, late primroses and violets.

"Wait a minute." He brought a rug and spread it. She thanked him, seated herself on the gnarled stump, then proceeded quietly to assert her conviction of her own madness and asked him to agree.

"You must prove it first," he answered, looking down at her and trying to speak lightly. Curiosity anxiety—he could hardly master them, for her face showed even to him, unused to studying the varying expressions of women's faces, that she had been through a storm. She was pale, and her great violet eyes were edged with a faint dark rim.

"I've come to you because I have no other friend in England," she said frankly. "I was frightened—not ever before I think, but I was tonight—and I didn't know what to do. I seemed alone, isolated, helpless, and then I thought of you. So I slipped out—and here I am, and you will tell me what to do, won't you?"

Continued in The Boston Daily Globe Tomorrow

Dec. 30-1t

Sprague's New River
STEAM COAL
Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined
Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.
J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS
TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET
Quincy, June tf

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS
If YOU Want Business

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER VII.

BRAND and Nolan came out of the library after their smoke and were surprised to find Judge Bartelmy and Dupuy in the drawing room. Brand did not appear enthusiastic at the circumstance and, nodding stiffly in the general direction of the two men, proceeded to circle around them toward the door leading to the hall.

Judge Bartelmy advanced pleasedly toward the newspaper owner, who greeted him courteously.

"Judge, this is an unexpected honor."

"An honor to come—believe me, Mr. Nolan, an honor to come."

Nolan saw Brand's dexterous maneuver toward the door, and on calling to him not to go he halted, turned toward the center of the room and stood watching the strangely assorted group of men.

Nolan next addressed Dupuy, who expressed his thanks at the granting of his request for an interview.

Judge Bartelmy, always quick to notice every detail or phase of what was transpiring in his immediate presence, saw that Brand was ill at ease. He called to him cheerily:

"My daughter and I were just speaking of you, Wheeler. The reformer sails a treacherous sea."

"The port is in sight, Judge Bartelmy," was the calm answer.

Bartelmy would have made a success on the stage. In fact, he had been acting a part most of his life and proved the truth of Richard Mansfield's aphorism that "the best actors are never seen on the stage." At Wheeler Brand's significant reply, which smote as ominously on the ears of the judge as it did on those of Dupuy, the jurist gave an inward shiver quite imperceptible to the eye and replied in the most jovial of manners:

"So? So? That's good. That's worth while. Stick to the helm, my boy," he laughed.

"Brand ain't at sea, judge," put in Nolan good naturedly. "He's in the clouds. The air up there makes your nose bleed; but, by the Eternal, you see all that's going on down here."

There was much "going on down here" that Bartelmy by all means preferred to have remain unseen, yet he managed to reply, with an attempt at sincerity:

"More power to you, Wheeler! More power to you!"

Nolan stepped toward the jurist.

"You're a generous foe, Judge Bartelmy," he said warmly, deceived by the smooth tactics of the judge.

"Foe? That's hardly the word," responded Bartelmy, and with deference: "Wheeler and I merely energize differently. He is dynamic; I am static, and that is because he is young and I am old."

"He'll outgrow that, judge. You never will," remarked Dupuy, crossing to Nolan's side.

"But under every system of free government," pronounced Bartelmy in his best judicial manner, "there have always been conservative and liberal parties, whose leaders, while they differed perhaps in method, have been stimulated by an equal love of country."

"That is true, Judge Bartelmy," said Brand, "but I can't concede that you belong to the conservative party."

The judge showed surprise.

"But I don't understand you," he stammered, when Brand went on determinedly:

"Are you not seeking to introduce into our country methods of government undreamed of by our forefathers?"

The judge laughed as though in agreeable tolerance. His skill at verbal parrying was standing him in good stead.

"Oh, I had as much enthusiasm myself in my youth," he said, "but my legal training has forced upon me a certain unfortunate exactitude of thought. But come, come. We old lawyers have long since learned that we cannot carry our quarrels out of court. For instance, of a morning my best friend, Judge Culver, may be at drawn swords with me over some point of law, but the same evening will find us hail fellows well met, exchanging stories before a club fire."

Nolan nodded his head understandingly.

"Yes, judge, that's life—that's life," he commented.

"Half the laws of our country are framed up in clubs," interjected Dupuy.

Bartelmy raised his hand and made a gesture of disapproval.

"I wouldn't say that."

Brand saw an opportunity to score.

"Likewise the safest methods of evading the laws are framed up in clubs," he shot at Dupuy.

Bartelmy pretended to side with Brand.

"That's neat, Wheeler," he laughed. "He scored off you that time, Dupuy." Bartelmy paused. He had now reached a point where he was about to make his supreme effort to capture Nolan and the Advance, to make them friendly to him. He was about to play what Dupuy had truthfully termed "the trump card." "By the way, Mr. Nolan, Judge Culver and I usually dine two or three times a week at the Oak Door club. We need you there. We should have a man in all our discussions of public questions—we should have a practical man of affairs who knows what reformers like our young friend here are really trying to get at. Shall I propose you for membership?"

Dupuy watched the effect of Bartelmy's words on Nolan with intense eagerness. It was an anxious moment for both Dupuy and Bartelmy. If Nolan accepted they felt that they were safe. As for Nolan, he was greatly perplexed. He wanted to accept the proffer, both for his own sake and for his family's. Membership in the Oak Door club was equivalent to a ticket of admission into the fashionable circles of the city. He would be able then to put his wife and daughter in the way of gratifying their desires. Sylvester, too, would be benefited in whatever business career he should take up, and the membership would enable him to meet and make his personal friends the most prominent men of the city—the men he naturally craved to associate with—on terms of equality. Then he spoke:

"Really, judge," he said warmly, "that's something that I never expected to hear from your lips."

"Not at all; not at all! I shall be delighted to put you up, and Dupuy will second me."

"With pleasure," bowed the lawyer.

Nolan hesitated over his final reply. He remembered what Brand had stated regarding the attentions of Judge Bartelmy and his daughter. Probably this offer was a trick, a bribe, and it did not improve the situation to have Dupuy brought into it by the jurist as seconder of his nomination. Still, the idea came into his head—if he accepted it he did it with his eyes open; he need not necessarily change the policy of the Advance toward certain public men. Thus he reasoned, and still there lingered within him an insidious desire, even a prompting, in view of the advantages for himself and his family, to accept at all hazards, under any circumstances.

"Thank you, gentlemen, thank you," he said, temporizing, in an endeavor to gain time before actually committing himself. He glanced across the room at Wheeler Brand, wondering how he was accepting the situation. Brand took a quick step forward, straightened himself stiffly and shot a glance of warning over the shoulder of Bartelmy, whose back was turned to him. Nolan nodded his head slightly to show that he understood. Dupuy caught the interchange of signals, and he glared malignantly at the young managing editor. He saw that Brand would do his utmost to swing Nolan away from the subtle snare. Nolan addressed the judge. "I'll think it over—and thank you once more."

Bartelmy and Dupuy started toward a door.

"Now, if you will excuse us, Dupuy and I will join the ladies," said the jurist. "Wheeler, you're not going away yet, eh?" he added.

Brand moved toward the hall door and ignored the query.

"What's your hurry, Wheeler?" asked Nolan as Bartelmy and Dupuy disappeared.

"Oh, it's time to get back to the office."

"H-m! What's the trouble?"

"What's the use of talking about it?"

"Come, get it off your chest."

"I don't have to tell you, Mr. Nolan." He drew closer to his employer.

"You think Mike Nolan is going back on you—isn't that it?"

The young man's voice rang out in his deep disappointment that Nolan was lingering on the verge of an acceptance of Bartelmy's offer, which could mean only two things if his employer yielded, and these were the muzzling of the Advance and the silencing of Brand as long as he remained on the paper. He blamed Nolan bitterly for failing to spurn the offer outright on the moment.

"Do you think you can accept favors from Bartelmy with one hand," he cried, "and knife him with the other?"

Nolan gave a spirited but kindly reply:

"Hold your horses, Wheeler. You know I don't care anything about this social stunt for myself. It don't fit into my life, but remember I've got a family, and nothing comes ahead of them. Mother and I may have a jangle now and then; but, after all, we have been side partners for a good many years. And my girl! There ain't a finer educated or a prettier girl in New York, and she ought to be able to go anywhere, but she can't in this town—this cold man's town. Then, of course, there's Sylvester. I know he ain't as bright as he might be, and I've spent—well, more than twice your salary trying to get him through freshman year at Harvard, and I couldn't, but still he's my son, and if he wants to run around with these other sports, why not? I can afford it, and I guess the kid's got to sow his wild oats anyway. My wife and children ought to be happy with the money I've got, and, as I figure it, if I join this Oak Door club I can help them to get what they want. Do you follow me, Brand?"

"Yes; I understand," sighed Brand. "At first you took up the side of the people, and you are continuing at it. But you and your family have become ambitious, or, at least, so far as you are concerned, you are ambitious for them. When you begin to associate familiarly with rich men as their friend you'll soon find yourself playing golf or billiards with one, drinking whisky with another, and your son will marry the daughter of a third. You will forget all about the people. Your paper will become decadent and feeble. The circulation will dry up." He paused for breath and added warningly in strong tones, "The Advance is now at its zenith, but its decline begins the very day that you are elected to the Oak Door club."

Nolan reached over and seized Brand by the shoulder.

"Wheeler, you're a decent sort of a fellow. I like you and the things you've made the paper stand for, but you don't know what it means to put people that you love on the altar and cause them suffering for the sake of these—these general principles."

"Don't I!" exclaimed the young editor. "Well, that's exactly what I've done. I gave up the girl I loved, who had promised to be my wife, so that I might write the truth." In spite of the emotion which his words had aroused in him Brand's voice never faltered as he spoke.

"You did!" exclaimed Nolan amazedly. "Well, my boy, I don't understand you. I couldn't do that," he confessed.

"Don't think that it was easy for me to do. I've thought of her every hour of every day since, but she"—now his voice wavered—"well, she's forgotten, so it doesn't matter. Mr. Nolan, do you remember what it was that first brought us together?"

"Yes; that story about Judge Bartelmy, and it was a good one, and you've followed it up with a lot of good ones since. Why, Wheeler, there ain't a man in the country that can work up a series like you can. But, do you know, I'm beginning to think that the judge is not all bad. Mind you, I'm not forgetting old scores, but"—he seated himself—"did you ever think of it, perhaps we haven't all the facts of that affair? Some things have happened. Are you sure that he's so all fired wrong?"

"Mr. Nolan, the half hasn't been told about Judge Bartelmy!" cried Brand.

"Well, this is getting to be a pretty serious affair. We can't be too sure about our facts."

"Mr. Nolan, Judge Bartelmy is not only a dishonest judge, but he seems to have a destructive influence on every one near him. He's corrupt and corrupting, not only in his public but in his private life."

"Wasn't—wasn't it his daughter that you were engaged to?"

"Yes, it was, and he's using her just as he did her mother before her."

"You amaze me. What do you mean?"

Brand took a deep breath.

"Why, he surrounded her mother with machine politicians and shady financiers and crooked lawyers. He sent her to the state capital when he wanted to be senator, but it was impossible; to Washington when he wanted to be minister to France, and she failed, and again when he wanted to be judge, and she succeeded, and when she found out that he was using his judicial office to steal and that she had only been a lobbyist for his rotten schemes"—

"Well?"

"Well, it killed her, Mr. Nolan, and now he's using his daughter in the same way. He's filling his house with corporation jackals like Dupuy. He sends her here to muzzle you by working on your wife and daughter. He hates me, but he would let her marry me to have his enemy in the family and make him silent."

"Why don't you go to the girl and tell her?" suggested the newspaper owner.

"About her mother and why she died?"

"Well, perhaps not. But I hope you won't follow the Bartelmy story any further. I'll be just as well pleased."

"I've got to follow it, Mr. Nolan. I can't stop," ejaculated Brand. "I've got the goods on him now. I've got a story that will drive him off the bench when we print it."

"What?" half rising.

"True; every word of it." Brand paced nervously across the room.

"For God's sake, Wheeler, don't go off at half-cock!" cried Nolan.

"Half cock! Why, I tell you I've got the facts. I've been working on it for months."

"Don't go off at half cock."

"Now, listen to me. You're a young man. In spite of what you say about him I know that in his public life he's mighty well thought of by some of the most prominent men in this city, and"—weakly—"well, if they believe in him I don't—see why"—

"Will nothing convince you?" excitedly. "If he should offer me a bribe to kill this story would you acknowledge then that he's a crook?"

"Why, yes, of course I would."

"Will you let me print that story in my own way and promise not to interfere?"

"Yes. But the girl," Nolan reminded him—"how do you think she'll feel if you print that story?"

But Brand was not to be swerved from his purpose.

"It can't be helped. I've got to go on. Somehow you know the thought comes to me that perhaps it all may turn out for the best."

"Well, I hope so," commented the newspaper owner, "but, man alive, this story you"—

He was forced to cease abruptly, for Judge Bartelmy and Ed Dupuy entered the drawing room and drew near.

(To be Continued.)

BASHFUL STANLEY.

His Response to a Speech of Eulogy at a Banquet.

William H. Rideing tells in McClure's Magazine of a dinner of the Papyrus club in Boston at which Henry M. Stanley, the explorer, was the guest of honor:

"Whether he (Stanley) sat or stood, he fidgeted and answered in monosyllables—not because he was unamiable or unappreciative, but because he—this man of iron, God's instrument, whose word in the field brooked no contradiction or evasion, he who defied obstacles and danger and pierced the heart of darkness—was bashful even in the company of fellow craftsmen.

"His embarrassment grew when after dinner the chairman eulogized him to the audience. He squirmed and averted his face as cheer after cheer confirmed the speaker's rhetorical ebullience of praise. 'Gentlemen, I introduce to you Mr. Stanley, who,' etc. The hero stood up slowly, painfully, reluctantly, and, with a gesture of deprecation, fumbled in first one and then another of his pockets without finding what he sought.

"It was supposed that he was looking for his notes, and more applause took the edge off the delay. His mouth twitched without speech for another awkward minute before, with a more erect bearing, he produced the object of his search and put it on his head. It was not paper, but a rag of a cap, and with that on he faced the company as one who by the act had done all that could be expected of him and made further acknowledgment of the honors he had received superfluous. It was a cap that Livingstone had worn and that Livingstone had given him."

ISLAND COMES AND GOES.

Rises In August and Disappears Regularly In February.

One of Michigan's unsolved mysteries is the island that every summer comes to the surface of Lake Orion and every winter goes back again to the depths from whence it arose.

Its periods of appearance and disappearance are nearly regular. It comes to the surface about the middle of August and goes down again about Feb. 15. What causes it to act thus strangely is a conundrum that none has been able to solve, but to keep it above water or compel it to remain in the depths have been alike without results.

On one occasion a number of farmers and teamsters resolved to put the island out of moving business. In their efforts to do so they hauled many loads of stone and deposited them on it during the early part of winter, believing that when it went down in February it would go down for good, weighted as it was with the stones. But the following August saw it bob up serenely from below—minus its load of stones.

At another time an effort was made to keep it on the surface, and it was chained to the surrounding country with heavy log chains. When its time for departure came it departed, and the log chains departed with it. The log chains were never recovered.

The island is composed of soft mud and rushes, and there are some skeptical souls who attribute its formation and appearance and disappearance to the gathering of vegetation in one spot by the currents of the lake and its subsequent decay.—Boston Herald.

"Window Leaves."

In South Africa Dr. R. Marloth discovered six species of plants possessing what are styled "window leaves." They are all stemless succulents, and the egg shaped leaves are imbedded in the ground, only the apexes remaining visible. This visible part of the leaves is flat or convex on the surface and colorless, so that the light can penetrate it and reach the interior of the leaf below, which is green on the inside. With the exception of the blunt apex, no part of the leaf is permeable to the light, being surrounded by the soil in which it is buried. The first of these plants discovered is a species of bulbine.—London Graphic.

The Manly Man.

"After you've been two weeks in the house with one of these terrible handy men that ask their wives to be sure to wipe between the tines of the forks and that know just how much raising bread ought to have and how to hang out a wash so each piece will get the best sun it's a real joy to get back to the ordinary kind of man. Yes, 'tis so!" Mrs. Gregg finished with much emphasis. "I want a man who should have sense about the things he's meant to have sense about, but when it comes to keeping house I like him real helpless, the way the Lord planned to have him!"—Youth's Companion.

True Enough.

"This is a harsh, rough world," complained the tramp with the weak chin.

"Yes, it is rather crusty," admitted the geologist.—Boston Herald.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

NEW SYSTEM OF BLOCK SIGNALING

Denver Man's Device For Preventing Railroad Collisions.

AUTOMATIC IN ITS WORKINGS.

Signals Set In Action by Motion of a Passing Train, Thus Notifying All Other Trains of Its Locality—How Railway Crossings Are Guarded.

To achieve the maximum of safety in operating railroads is the purpose of a new scheme of block signals invented by W. J. Cook of Denver. He exhibited the scheme the other day to a little group at the Tuileries on the miniature railway in Denver. The system worked perfectly.

The invention is designed to prevent collision of railroad trains, accidents from washouts, mountain slides, burned bridges or culverts and road and street crossings. It is said to record in the dispatcher's office the exact location of all trains along the road and consists of a system of signals operated by electricity and set in action by the motion of passing trains. Being automatic in its workings, it is entirely free from human agency.

All Trains Notified of Mistakes.

The arrangement of its mechanism is such that it is declared impossible for a train to pass a signal without putting it in action, thus notifying all other trains, either ahead or following, of its locality. The signals may be placed at points all along the road, especially at those places where the engineer's view of the track is obscured or shut entirely off by curves, woods, hills, tunnels, cuts or where from any cause danger is imminent. And if the dispatcher, by mistake, or the train's crew, from its own error, runs a train on another train's time, each of those trains notifies the other by this signal system of the mistake, so that a collision, either headon or from the rear, may be prevented. In case a bridge, trestle or culvert has been destroyed by fire or washed away, the signal immediately notifies all coming trains as well as the station agents in both directions of the mishap.

At crossings in the city or in the country the oncoming train operates through this invention an arm which drops across the approach to the tracks while the train is still at a sufficient distance, shutting out either stock or vehicles until it is a safe distance beyond the crossing arm, when it will cause the arm to raise and open the approach.

It is claimed for the invention that it is simple, inexpensive and accurate; that it will revolutionize railroad signals and make collisions or accidents at crossings or from any other cause next to impossible.

Distinguished as a Student.

Mr. Cook, the inventor, is a young Denver man, working in one of the big department stores. He has always had a turn for mechanics and for mechanical invention and has distinguished himself as a student. He was graduated from Denver university last June after having done the work of his course in such time as he could spare from his bread winning work.

Mr. Cook is also the inventor of a landslide signaling system, a washout signaling device, an open switch indicator and an ingenious automatic railway crossing gate.

PERSIMMON EXPERIMENT.

Puckerless Variety Hoped For by Mating American and Japanese Fruits.

A puckerless persimmon is the hope of the future. Department of agriculture officials at Washington are figuring on a fruit that will not draw a jawbone out of place, which they hope to attain by blending of varieties or treatment by chemical processes.

Japanese persimmons hold the record for size and have all medals for drawing the mouth through to the back of the neck. It is proposed to mix the Japanese kind with some softer tongued brand from the south and thus gradually weaken the astringent properties. The Josephine style of American persimmon has been crossed with the Yemon type of Japan. The American flavor won out, while the Japanese hardiness and firmness remained.

Parlor Horse Racing Fad In Paris.

Paris has a new gambling fad, or rather a child's game adapted to the use of adults. It is parlor horse racing. Two clubs are active in this sport now, and the craze seems to be spreading. Devotees keep their stables modeled after real ones and have any number of little lead horses which are kept by an imaginary force of grooms and stable boys. The favorite horses are tended with the greatest care to protect them from being disabled. The clubs meet every week, when races are run for stakes varying from 40 to 300 francs. Regular entrance fees are charged, and the races are governed by a series of rules. A miniature course is laid out on a table and the horses are advanced by throws of dice. The races are begun with three or four dice, and as the goal is neared the number is reduced to one to prolong the suspense.

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS
TWO TRIPS DAILY
Furniture and Piano Moving
Office 1598 Hancock Street,
Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 386-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

STORAGE
—FOR—
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

PATENTS
promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references.
Widawake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell patents, What inventions will pay, How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.
D. SWIFT & CO.
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON Leave Quincy | Stops at | Arrive Boston | FROM BOSTON Leave Boston | Stops at | Arrive Quincy |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r *5 14 | abcdefghi | 5 42 | *5 47 | ihgfedcba | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 | abc | 6 38 | 6 27 | cba | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 | abc | 7 03 | 6 52 | cba | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 | abc | 7 33 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 | a | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 | adei | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 | b | 9 02 |
| 7 39 | a | 7 45 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 9 43 | Exp | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 | abcde | 8 13 | 10 27 | cba | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 | abe | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 | Exp. | 8 47 | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 | abcd | 9 05 | 11 43 | Exp. | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 | Exp. | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 | abc | 9 33 | 12 45 | *Exp | 1 02 |
| 10 01 | Exp. | 10 17 | 12 47 | cba | 1 09 r |
| | | | 1 10 | (Sat) | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 | abc | 10 33 | 1 27 | cba | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 | Exp. | 11 18 | 1 43 | Exp. | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 | abc | 11 33 | 2 27 | cba | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 | Exp. | 12 17 | 2 40 | Exp. | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 | abc | 12 33 | 3 27 | cba | 3 49 r |
| 12 50 | Exp. | 1 15 | 3 4 | Exp. | 4 03 |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 4 12 | a | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 | abc | 2 03 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 | abc | 2 33 | 4 50 | edcba | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 | a | 3 21 | 5 15 | a | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 | deba | 5 41 |
| 4 03 | Exp. | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 | abc | 4 33 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 | Exp. | 5 15 | 5 45 | dba | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 | abe | 5 33 | 5 46 | ihgfedcba | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 | abcdefghi | 5 57 | 5 57 | cba | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 | Exp. | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 15 | dba | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 | abc | 7 12 | 6 27 | cba | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 | fedcba | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 | ab | 7 51 | 7 27 | cba | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 | fedcba | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 | abcdef | 8 29 | 9 27 | cba | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 | abc | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 | abcdef | 10 32 | 10 40 | fedcba | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 | abc | 11 40 | 11 20 | Exp. | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 | cba | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 | abc | 8 03 | 6 24 | ihgfedcba | 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 | abc | 9 03 | 8 57 | cba | 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 | abc | 9 33 | 10 16 | ihgfedcba | 10 45 r |
| 9 33 | a | 9 51 | 12 27 | cba | 12 49 r |
| | | | 1 16 | ihgfedcba | 1 45 r |
| 11 00 | Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 | ihgfedcba | 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 | abcdefghi | 11 44 | | | |
| r 1 13 | abc | 1 33 | 3 16 | ihgfedcba | 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 | abc | 3 30 | 4 27 | cba | 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 | abcdefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 | cba | 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 | abc | 5 33 | 6 16 | ihgfedcba | 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 | abcdefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 | cba | 7 19 r |
| | | | 8 24 | ihgfedcba | 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 | abcdefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 | Exp. | 9 02 |
| r 8 08 | abcdefghi | 8 35 | 9 27 | ihgfedcba | 9 56 r |
| 9 04 | Exp. | 9 20 | | | |
| r 10 30 | abc | 10 50 | 10 37 | cba | 10 59 r |
| | | | 10 53 | Exp. | 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.
*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 5.15, 6.39, 10.20 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.40 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46, A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.21 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.24, 5.27, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.

Read Ledger Advs

Only One Cent
Means Help for the
Tuberculosis Camp

Have Your Clothes Washed by the
NEW SYSTEM
WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.
Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.
Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 150-1
Quincy, Sept. 20 tf

HOUSE LOTS
FOR SALE
Elm and Dysart Streets.
Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.59 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.46, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.59 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Ponit, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.30, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.

THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TODAY.

George W. Jones--Rubbers
H. Sarkin--New Dress Goods
For Rent.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 12 degrees |
| Dec. 30, 1908, | 34 degrees |
| Dec. 30, 1907, | 57 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

The annual meeting of the Quincy Board of Trade will be held next Wednesday evening.

Miss Marjorie Fay of Marlboro street is spending the holidays in New Boston, N. H., enjoying the winter sports.

William A. Bradford is convalescent, and able to be taken from the Quincy Hospital to his home on Upland road today.

The facories of the Tubular Rivet & Stud Company closed today until Monday in order to take account of stock.

Senator Nash will nominate Thomas F. Pedrick of Lynn for sergeant-at-arms of the Legislature, and Senator Hultman of Quincy will second the nomination.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl A. Raupach have had as their guest this week, Mrs. Raupach's brother, Mr. William Raye. Mr. Raye is a representative of the Keith Paper Co. and is in Boston on business for the firm.

An important meeting of the West Quincy Improvement Association will be held tonight. Senator Hultman and Representatives Thomas and Langelier have been invited to be present.

Alexander Blackwood announces the engagement of his daughter, Florence L., formerly of Roslindale, who resides with her sister, Mrs. Cruickshank at Norfolk Downs, to James Robbie of Quincy.

Delegates from the Granite Cutters' Union in Vermont were in Quincy this week for a conference with National Secretary Duncan, and have framed a proposition to submit to their branches and the Granite Manufacturers' Association.

H. N. Levowich of Boston and Miss Mary Karelitz of Haverhill are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Levowich of 118 Sumner street. The young lady wears a beautiful diamond and their bethrothal is expected at an early date. It was a merry Chritsmas reunion of parents, children and friends.

Today is the coldest December day that Quincy has experienced for a number of years. At 7 o'clock this morning the mercury registered 2 above zero, and a high northwest wind made the air very sharp. The temperature had warmed up some by noon, but then it was only 12 above zero.

Invitations have been sent out to a number of gentlemen stating that they have been elected to membership in a club which will be known as the Republican club of the City of Quincy and inviting them to be present at a meeting of the club to be held Friday evening, Jan. 7.

Ex-Councilman Eugene R. Stone is entertaining his father, James R. Stone of Brownfield, Me. Mr. Stone senior was for many years a prominent Boston contractor, during which time he had business dealings with several Quincy granite firms, and during the past week he has been renewing some of the business acquaintances made with them while he was engaged in business.

SARKIN'S STORE.

That the women of Quincy are slowly awakening to the fact that they no longer have to go out of the city for custom tailoring and dressmaking is proven by the steady increase in this department at Sarkin's store in City Square. Mr. and Mrs. Sarkin came to Quincy from Boston and opened up at their present location three years ago and have secured the confidence of all who have dealt with them. Wishing to reach those who have not yet become patrons Mr. Sarkin has an ad in another column of this paper inviting the women who are particular about their clothes to let him make them a dress or suit. In the custom department is a tailor and tailoress who understand the latest styles, patterns, etc., and who make all clothes so well that Mr. Sarkin guarantees everything that leaves their hands to be perfect in fit, fashion and finish. Don't fail to read their ad. You will learn something.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

GOOD LEAD FOR WEYMOUTH

Norfolk Downs Pulls Up on the Quincys

The clubs in the Old Colony bowling league occupy the same positions as a week ago but are not as closely bunched:

| | Won | Lost. |
|---|---|---|
| Weymouth | 13 | 3 |
| Quincy | 9 | 7 |
| Norfolk Downs | 7 | 9 |
| Braintree | 3 | 13 |

WEYMOUTHS WIN.

In the Old Colony bowling league at South Braintree Wednesday evening the league leaders, Weymouth, made a clean sweep; taking all four games, thereby clinching their hold in the fight, and forcing Braintree deeper into the mire. "Conny" Connors and Smith of Weymouth and Knips of Braintree were tie on single string with 101, and C. Connell was alone on the three string total with 291.

The summary:

WEYMOUTH.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| C. Connell | 94 | 96 | 101 | 291 |
| Guertin | 86 | 88 | 85 | 259 |
| J. Connell | 71 | 72 | 80 | 223 |
| Kiley | 90 | 90 | 95 | 275 |
| Smith | 89 | 101 | 95 | 285 |
| | 430 | 447 | 456 | 1333 |

SOUTH BRAINTREE.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Knips | 94 | 101 | 75 | 270 |
| Welch | 87 | 81 | 76 | 244 |
| Howland | 77 | 77 | 72 | 226 |
| Melanson | 95 | 94 | 84 | 273 |
| Beane | 75 | 76 | 94 | 245 |
| | 428 | 429 | 401 | 1258 |

VICTORY FOR DOWNS.

There was some very good bowling at the Norfolk Downs bowling alleys Wednesday night in the Old Colony league series, when Quincy was beaten by the Norfolk Downs team by a total of 1354 to 1305. The home team won two out of three strings. E. J. Poland was high man with a total of 290. Dunn was next with 282. Grant was high man for Quincy bowling a 278 total. The Norfolk Downs team changed its line up some and it worked in great style.

The summary:

NORFOLK DOWNS.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| W. Bugbee | 84 | 79 | 80 | 243 |
| Poland | 126 | 81 | 89 | 290 |
| Lyons | 86 | 75 | 102 | 260 |
| Guynen | 83 | 78 | 115 | 276 |
| Dunn | 109 | 82 | 91 | 282 |
| | 482 | 395 | 477 | 1354 |

QUINCY.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Jenkins | 92 | 84 | 88 | 264 |
| Wentworth | 109 | 86 | 78 | 273 |
| Burke | 63 | 74 | 98 | 235 |
| Grant | 99 | 81 | 98 | 278 |
| Boutin | 90 | 83 | 82 | 255 |
| | 453 | 908 | 444 | 1305 |

HIGH SCORES.

Good scores were the rule Wednesday night at the weekly whist tournament at the rooms of the Granite City club, the two high men having over 70 percent. W. E. Hingston, the well known writing expert in the celebrated Russell case now on trial, led with 37 won and 14 lost, or 72.5 percent, and Horace E. Spear was a good second with 39 won and 16 lost, or 70.8 percent. There were several who secured over 60 percent. Refreshments were served after the play.

SPORTING EVENTS.

Matty Nichol's South Quincy team bowls Ted Penley's Wollaston boys on Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. in the Makaria bowling league.

The St. Mary's basket ball team will face Randolph tonight at St. Mary's hall. Great rivalry exists between them, and a red hot game is expected.

There will be two good games at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night, when the Reading first and second teams line up against the Quincy first and second. The Quincy teams which are fast rounding into shape under Dave Morris' eye, are ready to give the fast Reading fives the game of their lives. The line up for the first Quincy team will be, Tupper, McKenzie, Morris, Mundie and Bates. The games begin at 8 o'clock sharp.

THE UMP WILL BE BOSS.

Lynch, New Baseball Head, Will Support Umpires.

The umpire is going to be the big thing in baseball next season. Tom Lynch, the newly elected president of the National league, was an umpire himself, and naturally his sympathies are with the man who holds the indicator, the man on whom for years both players and the fans have heaped their wrath and ridicule.

Although Mr. Lynch isn't ready to discuss the subject of umpires in detail, he doesn't hesitate to say that conditions today on the ball field are much different from those of the old days. The umpire's job is easier now, and the players aren't so hard to handle. "No umpire," says Mr. Lynch, "makes a wrong decision purposely. He decides plays honestly, as he sees them, and that is as much as anybody can expect."

Lynch is a believer in the old single umpire system, for the reason that it doesn't divide authority on the ball field, but he says there's no chance of going back to it.

THOMAS J. LYNCH, NEW PRESIDENT OF NATIONAL LEAGUE.

"The double system must stay now," he says. "The public wouldn't stand for a change back to the old days."

Lynch is built close to the ground—short, stocky and strong. Sharp eyed, hair of iron gray, a face that shows a ruddy tan of a man that has been years out in the open under rays of many a summer's sun and a voice that suggests strength and finality of purpose, he impresses one as a man who is boss of the works, no matter what the nature of the works.

A great deal has been written of the dignity of Lynch when he was an umpire and of the respect he demanded from the players. This was no false show on Lynch's part. As old timers will tell you, he was a man and demanded to be treated as a man. An example of Lynch's manhood is shown by the speech he made to the grand stand the day he dropped Jack Doyle cold with a punch on the jaw when the old New York first baseman rushed at him fiercely in protesting a decision. Just before the next day's game started Lynch, turning to the grand stand, took off his hat and addressed the fans in this strain:

Ladies and Gentlemen—I sincerely ask your pardon for my breach of propriety yesterday. While I am only human, I realize that as an umpire it is my duty to uphold my dignity and that of the game. I trust you will let my future conduct atone for my regrettable action.

Another incident of his career as an umpire in Chicago back in 1886 is recalled.

A. G. Spalding, the famous maker of sporting goods, sat in a box at the game and naturally was rooting for Chicago. Mrs. Lynch sat in the same box as Mr. Spalding's guest. The game was close and exciting, and at one stage Lynch made a decision which beat Chicago. Mr. Spalding was very much disappointed at the defeat of the team, and when Lynch met him in that box later Mr. Spalding remarked that the decision was very unfortunate and let it go at that.

Griff to Can His Scouts.

Clarke Griffith, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is going to can his staff of scouts. In view of the fact that Sleuth Heilbroner picked up Dick Egan, Harry Gaspar, Jack Rowan, Bob Bescher and Dick Hoblitzell for Cincinnati, it looks like a bad move on the part of the old fox. Without that bunch Garry Herrmann's Red Legs wouldn't qualify for the cellar championship. And Griff got $1,000 bonus for finishing in the first division.

SPORTING BRIEFS

Syracuse and Belmont clubs, near Philadelphia, will build half mile horse racing tracks.

In Indianapolis companies are being formed to manufacture aeroplanes and also engines for flying machines.

Minneapolis high schools are considering the advisability of abandoning baseball and substituting lacrosse as the spring scholastic sport.

A Winnipeg man thinks enough of Shrubb to bet $500 that Alfred can beat anybody in the world in a ten mile race at the Winnipeg arena, Shrubb to run the last lap backward.

A combined team of Oxford and Cambridge universities of England will be invited to visit the United States next year to play a series of Rugby football games. The English Rugby game is somewhat like the Canadian game.

INDOOR BASEBALL IS POPULAR.

Game, Same as Played Outdoors, Has Aroused Fans.

LEAGUE MAY BE FORMED.

Promoters Plan to Put Clubs In Several Big Cities—Major League Ball Tossers Playing With New York Club—Game Has Been Changed.

The dream of the baseball fan—so long cherished, but never before realized—has come to pass. While winter holds full sway in many cities and the air is tinged with a Jack Frostican twang, making the outdoor game impossible, the game of indoor baseball has been so perfected that, minus the grass, the fence ads. and the bleachers, it is one and the same thing.

Interest in this perfectly fine game is picking up in nearly every big city, and every one who has seen it played is as enthusiastic about it as they are about the real thing. In fact, the game has become so popular that the promoters in several large cities are about to form a big circuit, with many of the major league stars as players. In New York Andy Coakley, formerly star pitcher of the Chicago Nationals, is one of the most active promoters of the game, and he predicts a great future for the game. Coakley says that he intends to do all in his power to organize the circuit.

Among the major league stars who have been playing on the New York team are Heinie Zimmermann and Johnny Evers of the Chicago Nationals, George Browne of the Washington Americans, Tim Jordan of the Brooklyn Nationals and Willie Keeler of the New York Americans. The team is one of the strongest ever organized and has a long schedule to play.

Indoor baseball of today is not the game witnessed several years ago, where a big soft ball was used and a sawed off broom handle was brought into play for a bat and where the runner was hit with the ball to be retired instead of throwing the sphere to the baseman—not like that at all.

All the rules and all the plays which have made baseball the national pastime of this country and are forcing it into all lands where a real sport is sought are in vogue, with but one modification—when a batter is hit by a pitched ball he cannot take his base. A ball an inch larger in circumference, which makes very little difference, than the outdoor ball is used, and it is but little softer. Regulation outdoor bats are used, and the diamond is just as large as that demanded on the big circuits. Ninety feet base lines are marked off.

ROBERT L. WELSH, PRESIDENT OF THE INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE.

The ball can be curved not only a little bit, but wide shoots and bends are put on the ball, and the catcher necessarily must use the chest protector, the mask and the big mitt. The fielders wear gloves.

MICHIGAN'S TRACK TEAM.

Will Meet Syracuse Next Year—Doubt About the Indians.

The relations between Syracuse and Michigan university in football have been strengthened by a three year agreement for a track meet. It is presumed that Syracuse, having failed to meet any response from Cornell, got Michigan as a rival worth while. Whether Syracuse will meet the Indians and Colgate, too, is not yet certain, but a track team can stand three meets in a season.

This also will give Michigan a fair tryout before the intercollegiate championships. Hitherto the interclass games and the O. S. U. meet have been about all the Wolverenes had, and those two meets weren't test enough. With Syracuse to tackle there will be something for the Michigan men to work for.

Would Have Three "Halves."

If plans practically adopted as suggestions by the executive committee of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association are paid attention to by the rules committee, future football games may be divided in three halves instead of two.

A SHOCKING NEW YEAR'S DIVORCE.

OLD pipe of mine, we've got to part.
I leave you soon forever.
Though you are twined about my heart,
We'll meet in future—never.
I'll swear you've faithful been and true,
You've put dull care to chase,
But there has come 'twixt you and me
That woman in the case.

WE'VE GOT TO PART.

OLD pipe of mine, the day draws near
When from me you must roam.
No longer may I know the cheer
You brought into my home;
No longer when the shadows fall
And night comes on apace
I'll take you up. Oh, cup of gall
That woman in the case!

I LOVED you first, I hear you say,
I pledged my troth to you,
And I have loved you from that day
I promised to be true.
'Tis so, but I was young and green,
A youth with beardless face.
I little thought there'd come between
That woman in the case.

A YOUTH WITH BEARDLESS FACE.

YOU were my love in days of old.
Old pipe, I love you still,
But there's a woman in the fold
That has a stronger will.
Forever from my life you're banned,
Denied your fav'rite place.
Ejected by supreme command,
The woman in the case.

NO longer when my heart grows sad
Will you bring peace to me.
The comforts you and I have had
In future cannot be.
You will not soothe my aching brow,
My drooping spirits brace.
There stand to separate us now
The woman in the case.

ANOTHER RULES MY HEART.

OLD pipe, farewell, a long farewell,
For you and I must part.
With me no longer may you dwell.
Another rules my heart.
You think I'm cowardly to so
Desert you in disgrace,
But then, old pipe, you do not know
The woman in the case.
—Detroit Free Press.

DEWEY RECEPTION.

The Dewey Baseball Association of Weymouth is to tender a reception and banjuet to the teams in the Old Colony league of which the Deweys were the champions during the past summer, at an early date in January.

APPLE CAKE.

One of the Ledger readers has sent in the following recipe which she has used with great success and thinks others would like to try:

Apple Cake—Mix together and sift a pint of flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder, rub in two tablespoons butter. Mix to a soft dough or thick batter with one egg beaten, one-half cup milk and one-half cup sugar. Turn in shallow well greased pan and press into mixture apples cut into quarters. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and bake in hot oven. Cream or foam sauce would make it a desirable pudding for dessert.

—An exchange has a good suggestion to follow if you have not already disposed of your Christmas tree in the furnace or fireplace and that is to put it out in the yard securely fastened in an upright postion so that the birds may use it for a winter home. Christmas trees also make good shields to protect shrubs from the elements often saving them from being winter killed.

Consolation.

Now, here's a conundrum to think of when You're out in a winter storm:
The Eskimo dresses in heavy furs,
But how does his nose keep warm?
—Buffalo Express.

A Rural Note.

Kitty—I call them an agricultural couple.

Katherine—How so?

Kitty—She's a peach, and he's a regular beat.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Solution of the Game.

Life is a game of give and take
And passing hard to live,
'Cause ten you'll find inclined to take
For one inclined to give.
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Stayers.

"Public servants can be relied on more than private ones."

"How?"

"They never quit."—New York Journal.

Avast the Grouch!

We are on earth so brief a time,
When all is said and done,
I wonder that we ever let
Our grouches spoil our fun.
—Detroit Free Press.

(ADVERTISE.)

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Sleigh. Upholstered back cushion. All in excellent condition. Price $10. R. D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building. Quincy, Dec. 29-4t

FOR SALE—Nine Room House, modern improvements. 12,000 feet of land. Best location. Will sell very reasonable for quick sale. Apply at 155 Atlantic street. Dec 29-3t

FOR SALE—Two second hand single sleighs, one second hand speed sleigh, one double runner pung. No reasonable offer refused. HENRY F. EMERSON 1500 Hancock street, Quincy, Dec. 28 3t

FOR SALE—New Top sleigh, never been used. Paint and varnish perfect. For sale cheap. DR. E. R. JOHNSON, Wollaston. Dec. 28 1-6t p 1w

FOR SALE—Single seat sleigh. Apply to B. J. TALBOT, Brown & Crowell's store, corner Water and Franklin streets. Quincy, Dec. 28 3t

LOST

LOST—Dec. 20th, about 5 P. M., Boston Terrier pup leather strap around neck; four months old. Return to 7 Alleyne Terrace. Reward. Dec. 23-6t

LOST—Between Whitney road and Bigelow street, about 6 P. M., Dec. 25th, gentleman's bag containing baby's clothes and a doll. Return and obtain reward to 6 Bigelow street. Quincy, Dec. 27 3t

WANTED.

WANTED—Young Men of ambition for Second Term Work in the Y. M. C. A. Evening School, Mechanical Drawing, Monumental and Free-hand Drawing, Clay Modeling. Rates reduced. Terms easy. Dec. 29-1f

TO LET

FOR RENT—One half double house, 10 Canal street. Apply to WM. A. BRADFORD, No. 8 Chestnut Street, Quincy, Mass. Dec. 30-1f

TO LET—Nicely furnished eight room Modern House. Nice location. Desirable family. Terms very moderate. Address care of Carrier C., Atlantic P. O. Dec. 29-3t

TO LET—A Tenement of 5 rooms and bath. Electric cars pass the door. Three minutes from railroad station. Apply at 109 Franklin street. Quincy, Dec. 28-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN. Dec. 21 12t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neighborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 20-1f

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-18t

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-1f

TO LET

Lodging Room—Furnished. Steam heat. Durgin-Merrill Block.

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various antecooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x45 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

TELEPHONE CONNECTION HOURS 9-12 2-5
DR. A. B. PACKARD,
HARVARD '05
DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 23 No. 294 QUINCY, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 31, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

PLANS FOR CITY INAUGURATION DAY

Mayor Shea for a Third Term but Several New Councilmen

His Honor a Hail Fellow Well Met As Well As a Good Business Man

MAYOR WILLIAM T. SHEA

The inauguration of the twenty-second year of the City Government Monday noon will differ but little from other years. Yet there is always a local interest and pride which the citizens take in these exercises and the attendance will doubtless be as large as usual.

Promptly on the hour of noon the inauguration party will enter the hall from the office floor by the rear stairway. City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell will lead the way followed by City Clerk H. A. Keith, Mayor Shea, and Rev. Henry T. Grady pastor of St. Mary's church, who will open the exercises with prayer.

City Clerk Keith will preside until the City Council of 1910 is organized. His first duty will be to administer the oath of office to Mayor Shea. He will then call the roll of the City council whom he will also swear to the faithful performance of their duty as Councilmen. Mayor Shea will then be introduced and will deliver his inaugural address.

This over the Council will organize by the election of a President, Clerk of Council, Clerk of Committees, City Messenger and City Auditor. The Council will then be ready to proceed with regular business.

It is usually the custom to adopt the rules of the previous Council as the rules of the new Council and to refer any matters sent over by last year's Council to the new council committees when appointed. If President Hobbs is reelected, which seems likely he will probably announce the standing committees at this meeting.

There are several other things the Council usually does on the first meeting, which include the introduction of orders authorizing the Treasurer to borrow money in anticipation of taxes, authorizing the printing of the rules of the Council and calendar, printing the annual City Reports of 1909, and Mayor's inaugural address, and authorizing the Mayor to execute deeds and releases of the Adams Temple and School Fund.

This year it will be necessary to take steps toward a special election to fill the vacancy in the City Council in Ward Two, caused by the tie vote at the municipal election.

Under the new Woodward ordinance it is provided that at the first regular meeting of the Council nominations shall be made for a member of the Managers of the Woodward Fund, which shall lay on the table at least two weeks before election.

There are also two members of the City Hospital trustees to be elected. This may be done at the first or at some future meeting.

After the business is over the rules are usually suspended and the Council adjourns to the third Monday in January, or Jan. 17.

Never in the history of Quincy has a third term candidate for Mayor received the plurality that was given Mayor Shea when he appeared before the citizens at the municipal election of 1909. To the voters, he as much as said, if I have made good I ask for your endorsement. His record for the past two years was open to all citizens, and that he was reelected is simply to say that the citizens had full confidence in his ability to administer the affairs of the city for another twelve months.

Our Mayor aside from his business ability has always been looked upon as a hail fellow well met. Always ready to listen to complaints or suggestions and his office in the historic stone building is always easy of access. There is no running the gauntlet of a corps of clerks or watchmen. It has simply been necessary to walk up to the door, which is often open. If closed to knock and have it opened from within with a cheery voice saying, "How are you! Come in!" During the past two years thousands of citizens have learned that he is an easy man to approach, and that he gives an attentive ear to what you have to say. Besides possessing these pleasing qualities, he also has the necessary business training, and the two combined have given the citizens a chief executive in whom they have explicit confidence.

He is so well known to the citizens that no extended sketch of him is necessary. Suffice to say that he is a Quincy boy having been born and always made his home here. He was born in 1857 and is a son of the late William Shea, who was a gallant soldier in the Crimea war, having been awarded the Victoria cross, the highest honor that can be bestowed on a soldier by the British government.

Mayor Shea attended the public schools of Quincy graduating from the old Willard school. He then went to work at the stone business, the all important business in Quincy at that time. By industry and constant attention to business he developed into a business man on a small scale. These qualities fitted him for his extensive business experience of today, one of the largest contractors dealing in paving blocks in the city, and handling large contracts all over the state.

In early life he became affiliated with the St. Mary's C. T. A. society, an organization banded together to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquor. Membership in this organization he still retains.

When Quincy became a city in 1888 he was elected a member of the City Council and reelected the following year. In 1895 when the sewer was started in Quincy he was appointed a member of the Sewer Commission continuing in office until 1900. He became a candidate for the office of Mayor in 1906 but was defeated by Mayor Thompson. In 1907 he was again the party candidate and was elected by a large plurality.

He has always been identified with the Democratic party and for several years has been a member of the Democratic State Central committee.

In addition to his membership in the St. Mary's society, he is a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Granite Manufacturers' Association, Citizens' Association, Board of Trade, City Hospital Association, Quincy lodge of Elks, Granite City club and an honored member of that exclusive dining organization known as the Knockers' Club.

Sketches of the members of the City Council of 1910 will be found on pages 5 and 8.

CAPT. J. B. DEWSON.

The funeral of Capt. James B. Dewson, a former commander of Co. G, 7th regt., N. Y. N. E., who died Dec. 23, was held Thursday afternoon from his late residence on Adams street. Rev. Ellery Channing Butler of the First church officiated, assisted by Rev. Edward Anderson who commanded the 12th Indiana cavalry during the Civil war. The funeral services were delayed to await the arrival of Capt. Dewson's son, who was in the west. The body will be taken to New York today for burial.

REBEKAH ELECTION.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge has elected the following officers who will be installed at Odd Fellows hall Thursday evening, Jan. 6.

P. N. G.—Lottie C. Barron.
N. G.—Lillian Baker.
V. G.—Bernice Clark.
R. Sec.—Georgie M Thayer.
F. Sec.—S. Abbie Feltis.
Treasurer—M. Lizzie Furnald.

TRUSSES Fitted.

CRUTCHES In All Sizes.

Athletic Supporters For Gymnasium Work

Abdominal Supporters

Elastic Stockings

The Rexall Store

Edward J. Murphy
THE ORIGINAL LOW PRICED DRUGGIST

1415 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass.

DIED OF POISON

Suicide of Young Widow at Braintree

Mrs. Nellie Wilder, a widow, 33 years of age, and a native of Keene, N. H., took her own life Thursday morning in her room in a house on French avenue, South Braintree, by drinking carbolic acid with a glass of a nerve tonic.

Mrs. Wilder has been very despondent since last September, for while planning to go to her home she had the misfortune to lose a pocket book that contained all of her worldly belongings. A week later she lost her position in the shoe factory. Since then she has worked in Everett, North Abington, and East Weymouth shoe factories until about three weeks ago she secured her old position in the Closson factory. Friends thought fortune was again smiling on her, but those she came in touch with saw she was brooding over something.

Thursday morning she was heard moving around her room at her usual hour of rising, and no attention was paid to her. When she did not leave for her day's work an investigation was made by other inmates of the house. Upon trying the door it was found locked, but groans were heard from the inside. Word was rushed to Police Officer Hunt, who secured a ladder and entered the room through a window. He immediately notified Dr. C. A. Sullivan, who worked over her for two hours without restoring her to consciousness. She died at 12.20.

Medical Examiner Fraser of East Weymouth was notified and he viewed the body, and pronounced it a case of suicide. Mrs. Wilder left a message to Mrs. Duckworth, at whose home she roomed, and it contained the addresses of relatives. These were notified late in the afternoon, and the body was turned over to Undertaker Shay until they can be heard from. Mrs. Wilder has been a widow for four years and a resident of Braintree more than half of this time. She had no children.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICES.

This evening there will be a watch night service at the Hall Place M. E. church. At 8 o'clock Rev. George Mecklenburg of Boston University will give his interesting stereopticon lecture, "A visit to ten Cities; sight seeing in London, Paris, Berlin and mountain climbing in Switzerland." The Watch meeting will begin at 9.45 lasting until 12, and will consist of thank offering service and opening of mite boxes, social half hour, season of praise and prayer, sermon and closing benediction.

WATCH MEETING.

The Y. M. C. A. will watch the Old Year out and the New Year in tonight, as was done last year. An especially attractive program has been arranged from 9 to 12, consisting of humorous readings, music both vocal and instrumental, and refreshments. New Year's resolutions will be in order. The occasion will be held about the fireplace, and will be informal and attractive. All members invited.

RUNAWAY.

While driving up Bates avenue on Thursday the horse owned by Dr. T. J. Reynolds became spirited and dashed away. Dr. Reynolds, who was driving, tried hard to hold him, but could not, and the sleigh tipped over. The doctor was thrown into a drift of snow and escaped injuries excepting a few bruises about the leg. The horse was stopped on Grove street, and it was found that the sleigh was badly scratched and one of the runners ripped off.

—Has it occurred to you that nothing numerically similar to the date of this expiring year can ever happen again? From the year one thousand on it was possible once a century, as: 1505, 1606, 1707, 1808, 1909. And then we stop.—Philadelphia Press.

PROPOSITION REJECTED

Barre Manufacturers Turn Down Cutters

The granite manufacturers of Barre and Northfield and granite cutters have again failed to agree, and the prospects do not look as bright for a settlement. A dispatch from Barre says that the dispute committee of the manufacturers and Northfield branch of the cutters were in session several hours Thursday, at which time the proposition, formulated earlier in the week at the headquarters of the Cutters' Union in Quincy, was considered.

After a long discussion the committee from the manufacturers not only rejected the proposition, but refused to take it before the Manufacturers' Association as a body, and the hopes entertained in Barre and Montpelier that work would be resumed the beginning of the new year were again dashed.

While neither side would give out the terms of the proposition for settlement considered it can be stated that one clause of the proposition provided that the pneumatic bush hammer should not again be used in union sheds until some device is provided for caring for the dust they raise.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

The program prepared for last Sunday at Bethany Congregational church will be given on Sunday morning at 10.30. The music will include:

Organ prelude—Pastorale from the Messiah, Handel
Invocation.
Violin solo—Allegro Maestoso from Concert No. 7, DeBeriot
Solo and chorus—"The Chimes of Christmas Morn," Dressler
Contralto solo and trio for female voices—"Softly the Night is Sleeping." Morey
Offertory
Violin solo—Andante DeBeriot
Quartette with violin obligato—"Cradle Song," Barnby-Gow
Christmas anthem—"Behold, I Bring you Good Tidings," Wiegand
Postlude—"Hallelujah Chorus," Handel

Madame Beale Morey, organist and musical director.

Choir—Mrs. Emma S. Moore, soprano; Miss Eva V. Seeves, contralto; Mr. Edwin I. Beal, tenor; Dr. Cyrus T. Sherman, bass. Mr. Bernard Fiedler, of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, violinist. Chorus of twenty-five voices.

Christmas concert of the Bible school at six o'clock.

EARLY IN THE FIELD.

Ex-Councilman James H. Broughton said this morning that he intended to be a candidate for the nomination and election as Representative to the General Court next year, and that he would be in the fight until the votes were counted.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

YOUR NEW DRESS

Order your new dress of us. Come in, pick out your goods or bring them with you, have our expert tailoress take your measure and we will prove that our specialty is high class tailoring and dressmaking. All we ask is a chance to fit you. We know you will be one of our regular customers for ever after. All of Sarkin's clothes are perfect in fashion, fit and finish. Call today and see why all come here for good clothes.

H. SARKIN
1369 Hancock Street,
City Square, Quincy
t. f. s.-tf

Free Trial Electric Lighting

As a special inducement to the citizens of Quincy, whose homes or stores have never been wired for electric light, the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company makes the following proposition:

To all who will expend at least twenty dollars ($20) for wiring and fixtures, before January 31st, 1910, the Company will make the service connections, install meter and standard carbon filament lamps without charge, and will also FURNISH FREE twenty dollars ($20) worth of electric current . . . at regular meter rates to be used before June 30th, 1910, provided the premises can be reached from the present lines of the Company without the setting of additional poles. This concession will go far towards paying the entire cost of wiring the average house.

For further particulars telephone Quincy, 185, between the hours of 8 A. M. and 5 P. M., or fill out and mail to the Company, No. 9 Granite Street, Quincy, the attached coupon.

Quincy Electric Light & Power Company
By H. M. FAXON, Treasurer.
Quincy, Mass, December 22nd, 1909.

COUPON.

QUINCY ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER CO.:
Gentlemen:
I am interested in your offer of Free Trial Electric Lighting. Please have your representative call and give me full information.

Name .....
Address, No. ..... Street,
Date of Appointment ..... Time .....

Dec. 22—12 t

RUBBERS

The Reliable GOODYEAR GLOVE Brand

We have all kinds of up-to-date
BEST QUALITY RUBBERS
From THE SMALLEST TO THE LARGEST Sizes

Our Prices are low, Our Rubbers
Are the best to be had at any Price

GEORGE W. JONES
No. 1 Granite St., Quincy

SANDBERG BROS.

CLEARANCE SALE

To wind up this, our banner year in business, we offer this week everything in stock at
REDUCED PRICES
It will pay you to come in and look over our stock of
WATCHES, DIAMONDS AND JEWELRY
and the prices will convince you that now is the time to invest.

We have on hand a number of FULL JEWEL WALTHAM and ROCKFORD WATCHES, slightly shop-worn, that we wish to dispose of below cost.

Sandberg Bros.
JEWELERS ON THE SQUARE
Dec. 20-1m

REAL ESTATE For Sale?

Advertise in The Ledger.

Quincy Daily Ledger

FOR SALE AT

BOSTON—At South Station after 3.30 P. M.
QUINCY—Ledger Office 1424 Hancock street.
L. A. Chapin 1395 Hancock St.
C. F. Carlson ,oppo. Depot.
Thompson's Waiting Room, City Sq.
H. P. Kittredge, City Square.
George Irwin, oppo. Car Barn.
J. P. O'Brien, 1595 Hancock St.
Mrs. Madden, 16 Quincy Ave.
WOLLASTON—Shunk's News Stand.
PARK & DOWNS—Branschied & Marten
ATLANTIC—Branschied & Marten.
HOUGHS NECK—Dunham at P. O.
QUINCY NECK—Stetson Pierce, Newcomb Sq.
QUINCY POINT—H. H. I. Smith, Washington St.
Gregg's Pharmacy.
Sprague & Hobart, Cor. River St.
SOUTH QUINCY—Litchfield, Water St.
Daniel Flanagan, 134 Water St.
A. Pierson, 92 Granite St.
Miss C. Booth, Brooks avenue.
BREWERS CORNER—Emma Lark.
F. J. Pierson, 149 Granite St.
Mrs. F. H. Stanley.
WEST QUINCY—F. A. Skinner.
John G. Bellanger.
EAST MILTON—William Clark.

Delights of a Week End.

The Sunday morning gardener who insists on showing you over the place. —Harper's Weekly.

BRIEFS

The last day of the year.

The week of prayer will be observed next week at the Swedish Baptist church with services every evening at 7.30.

The whistle of the fire alarm is now connected so as to sound alarms. The boxes now in working order are: 26, 126, 28, 23, 13, 35, 172, 31, 36, 38, 321, 136 and 138.

Watch services will be held at many of the Quincy churches this evening, including the Hall Place M. E. and Swedish Baptist. There will also be watch parties by the Catholic Club, the Y. M. C. A. and by the Girls Friendly Society of St. Chrysostoms church.

Special revival services will be held at the Hall Place church from January 2 to 16. During the first week there will be neighborhood meetings in different parts of the ward. The second week meetings will be held at the church, the pastor being assisted by visiting ministers.

Past Commander James H. Webb has been detailed to install the newly elected officers of Paul J. Revere Post 88, G. A. R., at a joint installation of the Grand Army and Women's Relief Corps at Alpha hall on Thursday evening, Jan. 6 He will be assisted by Past Commander John D. Williams as officer of the day.

The "hello girls" at the Quincy office of the N. E. T. and T. Co., held a Christmas tree party after work Thursday evening, and for an hour they had a jolly time. Such interesting presents as baby rattles and rag dolls were exchanged amid much fooling and laughter. There was a Christmas gift of a bag of nuts and candy on the tree for each one.

Although the weather this week has been snapping cold men are still at work building the new draw on the Neponset bridge. It is weather like this that causes street car passengers who have to change cars and walk to think some strong words, even if they do not say them. If more men had been put at work on the draw at first it would be finished by this time.

The ladies and gentlemen who are to take part in the presentation of the opera Chimes of Normandy, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, went on a sleigh ride party to Hyde Park Thursday evening, and witnessed a production of the same opera. It was a cold night but the party were dressed warm for the occasion and did not suffer any from the cold.

—Rapid motoring is said to accelerate the flow of blood to a degree hardening the heart valves by pressure, producing capillary bronchitis and death. On the other hand, fast riding has been recommended for persons afflicted with tuberculosis. Of scorchers in general it may be said that they are lucky if they live long enough to die of any organic disease. —Boston Record.

READ LEDGER ADS.

NO MARINES IN BATTLE

Zelaya's Statement Not Credited In Washington Unofficial Circles

Washington, Dec. 31.—Statements made by former President Zelaya that United States marines participated in the battles between the government troops of Nicaragua and the revolutionists have been received here in unofficial circles with amusement.

While neither the officials of the marine corps nor those of the navy department would discuss the statement, it is known that there are not 400 marines on the east coast of the country, and that on Nov. 1, when the battle of Colorado Junction took place, there were none at all.

So far as the statement goes that the men were deserters from the American war vessels lying off the coast, no desertions have been reported and it is declared that it is unlikely that any of the men have deserted.

ICE SINKS THREE LAUNCHES

Twelve Jackies and Three Ensigns Are Safely Pulled Ashore

New York, Dec. 31.—Three naval launches, those of the battleships Minnesota, Kansas and Wisconsin, now at anchor in the Hudson river, were rammed by floating ice and sunk as they were trying to make a landing. There were four sailors and an ensign in each launch, but all the fifteen men were rescued.

The three launches approached the landing at about the same time and had difficulty avoiding one another. As they swung out of one another's way each was forced between two huge cakes of ice. Holes were stove in each of the launches, and they began to settle. Life preservers were flung out, and the men were pulled ashore.

INDEPENDENTS MAY SUE STANDARD OIL

Three-Fold Damages If the Dissolution Is Sustained

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 31.—Several thousand damage suits against the Standard Oil company of New Jersey are to be instituted by the independent oil refiners if the United States supreme court upholds the decision of the circuit court for the Minnesota district, ordering the corporation dissolved.

Thomas L. Hisgen, president of the Independent Petroleum Marketers' association, announced the program undertaken by his organization. For several months the association has been gathering evidence upon which they intend to institute legal proceedings against the Standard Oil company under section 7 of the Sherman anti-trust law, which provides that any person or company injured by any corporation may bring action against the injuring corporation for threefold damages.

WROTE TO DEAD PERSONS

Arrest of Man Alleged to Have Used Novel Means to Defraud

Boston, Dec. 31.—Alfred P. Lindroth, who says his home is in Riverside, R. I., and who is wanted by the postal authorities of Nashville, was arrested in the central postoffice here on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud the estates of dead persons.

Since Dec. 8, it is said, he has been operating in Boston as Crossman Bros. & Ackers. Acoording to Postoffice Inspector Jennings, Lindroth sent out letters addressed to dead persons, purporting to come from a jeweler and stating that if the balance due on a diamond which was ordered mounted was remitted, the gem would be sent. The balance was usually set at $25.

INNOCENT WOMEN SUFFER

One Dead and Another's Nerves Wrecked Because of Theft

Washington, Dec. 31.—One woman has died of worry and another is a nervous wreck in a sanitarium as a result of the disclosure of a defancation in the treasury of the Daughters of the American Revolution several weeks ago, it is learned here. Both women, who were clerks, were innocent, but feared they might be suspected.

On this account the name of the clerk, who confessed to being guilty of the defalcation, has been made known to all the regents of the order all over the country, but has been withheld from publication.

Flea Said to Carry Plague

Washington, Dec. 31.—Now the flea is accused officially of carrying the bubonic plague. It is stated that the United States is seriously threatened by the spread of that dread disease.

Russian Army Bill Passed

St. Petersburg, Dec. 31.—The bill granting $5,000,000 for reorganization of the Russian army has been passed unanimously on both readings by the duma.

The Weather

Almanac, Saturday, Jan. 1.
Sun rises—7:14; sets—4:22.
Moon rises—10:29 p. m.
High water—3:15 a. m.; 3:30 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Fair, warmer; moderate west to south winds.

WICKERSHAM FILES A BRIEF

Attorney General Hot on Trail of Tobacco Combine

HAS ASSETS OF $400,000,000

Asserted That Defendants Have Been Actuated by Fixed Purpose to Destroy Competition and Obtain Monopolies—Supreme Court Is Told That New England Jobbers Threw Out All Independent Products

Washington, Dec. 31.—In a printed brief of 268 pages, Attorney General Wickersham and his special assistant, J. C. Reynolds, presented to the supreme court of the United States the case of the government in the famous tobacco trust cases, which will be argued next week in that court.

The cases were tried in the United States circuit court for the southern district of New York, which, after dismissing the petition as to foreign tobacco companies and some of the subordinate American companies, adjudged the others to be parties to an unlawful conspiracy and enjoined them from continuing their operations and from engaging in interstate commerce.

The attorney general takes the position that those findings, sweeping as they seem to have been, were not broad enough, and he asked the supreme court to so widen their scope as to take in the foreign companies and some individuals who were relieved from the operation of the verdict. Many other extensions of the judgment are also requested.

After showing that in 1890 competition was free, the various coalitions are traced in the document, and facts are given to show that the combination has grown until its combined assets amount to $400,000,000.

It is asserted that the combination manufactures all of the cigarets for export and almost three-fourths of the smoking tobacco and of the cigarets for domestic sale, more than three-fourths of the plug, twist and fine cut tobacco, and almost all of the snuff and little cigars that are made.

It is declared that "the defendants have persistently exercised duress, have practised wicked and unfair methods and used their great power in oppresive ways."

Further, it is asserted that they have been actuated by a fixed purpose to destroy competition and obtain monopolies.

Coming down to specific instances relative to the operations of the trust, it is declared that substantially all established jobbers in New England were induced to throw out independent products, as were those of Philadelphia, New York and many other specified places.

The advertising methods of the trust are referred to as a means of influencing both business and public sentiment, and it is said that not less than $10,000,000 were expended in this way in the single year of 1906.

The attorney general seems inclined to the view that a receiver should be appointed for the business of the parties to the combination, and he adds:

"The very existence of certain defendants is criminal and certainly they cannot rightfully complain because restrained from carrying out the unlawful purposes of their creation; they are wilfully in positions where every act is a transgression."

NO BREACH WITH US

Creel Says His Mission to United States Was Successful

Washington, Dec. 31.—Governor Creel of Chihuahua, special envoy from Mexico to the United States in the Nicaraguan affair, gave an authorized statement regarding his present mission to this country.

Governor Creel declared that he had accomplished his task with gratifying results. The resignation of Zelaya and succession of President Madriz had ended many difficulties and prevented anarchy, he declared, and peace and patriotism were now finding their way on both sides in Nicaragua.

The granting of asylum of Zelaya by Mexico, said Creel, was in no sense an act of unfriendliness to the United States.

Gas Buoy Marks Wreck

Boston, Dec. 31.—Marking the wreck of the five-masted schooner Davis Palmer a gas buoy, painted red and showing a red light during periods of five seconds, separated by eclipses of five seconds' duration, was established in forty-two feet of water in Broad sound.

Ransom of $5000 Is Asked

Louisville, Dec. 31.—A letter has been received from Ohio promising the return of kidnapped Alma Kellner to her parents on payment of $5000 ransom. This is all the information the family will give out. The girl disappeared Dec. 8.

Union's Offer Rejected

Barre, Vt., Dec. 31.—The committee representing the Barre Granite Manufacturers' association rejected the proposition formulated by committees representing the 4500 granite workers now on strike or locked out here.

BRITISH NOBLE'S DEATH

Opinion That Earl Percy Received Fatal Wound In a Duel

Paris, Dec. 31.—The death of Earl Percy (Henry A. George) of England, which occurred here yesterday, is believed to have resulted from a wound received in a duel. Officially, he died from pneumonia, but few here in higher circles are willing to accept this version.

The police hold that, while Earl Percy's symptoms may have been those of pneumonia, he was shot through the lungs in an affair of honor. The alleged assailant of the earl is unknown, but is thought to have been an Englishman.

Earl Percy was 48 years old. He was under secretary of state for India in 1902-03. He published two books of travel in Asiatic Turkey. He was not married, but had a house in London.

CAN'T DODGE TROLLEY CARS

Newly Arrived Immigrant May Be Sent Back to Ireland

Boston, Dec. 31.—Whether an immigrant who can't keep out of the path of American electric cars shall be deported or permitted to become a citizen is the question Immigration Inspector Dolan is trying to solve. John Mordue, from Cork, seems to have a peculiar fascination for running in the path of Boston cars. He can't make his feet behave when he sees a motorman throw on the power.

That's why he's been treated twice within a month for a fracture of the skull, which he sustained each time he was knocked down by a car. The City hospital authorities decided to call the attention of the immigrant authorities to the fact that because Boston's electrics were too fast for Mordue, he had become a public charge.

MAY THROW LIGHT ON GLOVER MURDER

New Facts Expected When Will Contest Is Begun

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 31.—The date for the hearing of the contest of the will of Clarence F. Glover, the Waltham laundryman, who was murdered, and for whose killing Hattie Le Blanc is under arrest, has been set as Jan. 31. It will come before Judge McIntyre in the Middlesex probate court. Hattie Le Blanc, now in the East Cambridge jail, will be one of the witnesses.

The astonishing report is made that more than one member of the Glover family was in the habit of carrying a revolver, and that threats had been interchanged frequently between Glover and a person whom the police are now watching during the few weeks that preceded the Saturday night tragedy.

Glover, it is now said, had been persistent in his attentions to Hattie Le Blanc, and the 16-year-old girl had begun to fight him off. The girl had promised to meet him on a number of occasions, it is said, and she failed to keep the engagements. This angered Glover and he threatened to "fix her."

In his dying statement Glover declared that Hattie Le Blanc asked him to meet her on the fatal evening. It will be contended by the defense that the girl was influenced by others to lure the man to the laundry.

MOTHER IN A HOME

Seventy-Year-Old Twins Ask Court to Order Her Release

New York, Dec. 31.—Charles L. Davis and his brother William, 70-year-old twins, appeared in the Myrtle avenue court, Brooklyn, against Mrs. Susan Lane, manager of the In-As-Much home.

Mrs. Lane is accused of detaining Mrs. Mary Davis, the 90-year-old mother of the complainants. The brothers said they wanted their mother to share their home, but the manager would not let her leave the institution.

$15,000,000 BRIDGE OPEN

Fourth Link Between Manhattan Island and Brooklyn

New York, Dec. 31.—The fourth link between Manhattan island and Brooklyn was opened to public traffic by foot and vehicle today.

Exclusive of condemnation expenses for land approaches, the new Manhattan bridge, as it has been named, cost in all $15,000,000.

The dedication ceremonies formed one of the last official acts of Mayor McClellan, whose term expires with the year.

Millions In Public Bequests

Chicago, Dec. 31.—The will of Thomas Murdoch, who died here Christmas day, disposes of an estate estimated at approximately $4,000,000, of which between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000 is bequeathed to religious, educational and charitable institutions.

Tribesmen Reopen War on Spain

Madrid, Dec. 31.—War has again broken out in Morocco, after several weeks of comparative quiet, in which it is thought Spain's difficulties with the tribesmen were over. Reinforcements are held in readiness for departure if General Marina asks for help.

SELMA LAGERLOF.

Swedish Authoress First Woman to Secure Nobel Prize For Literature.

The works of a clever Swedish authoress whose books have been vastly popular in Sweden and Germany for many years promise now to be sought for eagerly everywhere. She is Selma Lagerlof, and the awarding to her recently of the Nobel prize for literature has called attention to her career and stories all over the world. This is the first time a woman has been awarded the Nobel prize for literature.

Like many other famous writers, she was tempted to try her hand at literature by the offer of a prize for something in that line. In 1890 Idun, a Swedish woman's magazine published in Stockholm, offered a series of prizes for the best literary work by a Swedish woman writer. The first prize was given to Selma Lagerlof for a fragment of "Gosta Berling's Saga." Soon after the whole work was published, and the unknown schoolteacher's name became famous in the Scandinavian countries.

The fame of the work slowly spread through the continent of Europe. German, French and Italian translators introducing the work in their respective countries, where the author was hailed as a leader in a new style of fiction distinguished for its wealth of fancy and richness in picturesque expression. Later it was translated into English and attracted much favorable attention.

"Gosta Berling's Saga" was followed by "Unseen Links" and "The Miracles of Antichrist," which still further increased the author's reputation as an original thinker. Then came "The Queens In Kungahilla" and "The Legend of the Manor." Her stories for children, among them being "The Wonderful Adventures of Nils," have sold by the hundreds of thousands in Sweden.

SELMA LAGERLOF.

The Nobel prizes, worth about $40,000 each, are awarded annually to those persons who are considered to have conferred the greatest benefit on mankind during the preceding year through the instrumentality of the subjects mentioned, with the addition of one for the best effort toward the fraternity of nations and the promotion of peace.

CHICAGO'S ROOF SCHOOL.

Children Predisposed to Tuberculosis Learn Lessons In Open Air.

In spite of falling thermometers and flying snow, twenty-five children predisposed to tuberculosis are attending an open air school on the roof of the Mary Crane nursery, at 818 Ewing street, Chicago. The school was made possible by the gift of $2,500 from the McCormick family to the United Charities of Chicago and is under the management of that organization. The children, all of whom have shown a reaction to a test for tuberculosis or have a family history that inclines them to the disease, go to the nursery at 9 o'clock and take a cold shower bath and thorough rub before their lunch of hot cocoa and bread and butter. A teacher appointed by the board of education conducts classes out of doors in pleasant weather, and on severely cold or stormy days the recitations are held in a permanent tent with canvas flaps for windows that may be opened wide to all the winds there are.

A substantial dinner at noon is followed by a rest period, with the children stretched out in their blanket lined sleeping bags in the open air. Then come more lessons, a second hot lunch and home. Eskimo suits of heavy blankets, thick gloves and boots, the property of the school, protect the youngsters from the severe cold and add greatly to the picturesque appearance of the school. The physician's daily records show marked increase in weight and improvement of general condition.

A CORNER OF CHICAGO'S ROOF SCHOOL.

Sprague's New River STEAM COAL

Highest Grade Steam Coal Mined

Continuous test of over 100,000 tons in 41 consecutive cargoes to Boston averaged 14,821 Heat Units.

J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS

TEL. 232-3 27 GRANITE STREET

Quincy, June tf

QUINCY FURNITURE EXCHANGE

NEW AND SECOND HAND FURNITURE
Bought, Sold and Exchanged

Second Hand Home Furnishings at half the price of new

THE BLUE STORE, 1475 Hancock St., Quincy

Aug. 23 1o-tf

W. T. ARNOLD'S NEW ART STORE

Hancock Street, Opposite Music Hall

PICTURE FRAMING of all kinds.
CRAYON PORTRAITS, REGILDING.

Full Line of STATUARY, CHINA, SHEET PICTURES GLASS and BRIC-A-BRAC.

Furniture and Drapery Trimmings.
WALL PAPERS, ROOM MOULDINGS, CORNICES.

All work guaranteed and as cheap as Boston Prices.

Quincy, Nov. 26 6mos

Flower and Tree.

New Zealand has in its edelweiss a plant differing but slightly from the famous Swiss variety.

A single leaf of the orange tree carefully planted will often take root and grow.

An oak tree at 100 years averages forty-one inches in diameter, a larch forty inches, an elm fifty inches and a yew nine inches.

A white pine tree twenty years old ought to be about twenty-five feet high and at thirty or forty years of age it ought to measure about sixty feet.

Cold Weather Joys.

The dreary days are here again,
And Jack Frost on the window pane
Is sketching crystal stripes,
And once again at chilly dawn
We yawn and blink and blink and yawn
As up and down the chilly hall
There sounds that aggravating call:
"Get up and thaw the pipes!"
—Chicago News.

That Mighty Pen.

The superiority of man to nature is continually illustrated. Nature needs an immense quantity of quills to make a goose with, but a man can make a goose of himself with one.—Christian Register.

The Modern Version.

Maid of Athens, ere we part,
Never mind about my heart.
Give, oh, give me back the ring
And each fair, expensive thing
That I sent you and each note
Which in those dead days I wrote!
They are what the jury says
Indicate the damages!
—Judge.

The Natural Question.

Follower of Events—A Harvard professor favors a revision of the Ten Commandments.

Ultimate Consumer—Gee whiz! Upward or downward?—St. Louis Star.

Wanted Too Much.

She—Why, when I married you you said that I could have everything that my heart could desire.

He—I never dreamed you had such a big heart.—Cleveland Leader.

Divided Spoils.

Man has but little here below,
And he will have less yet
If he has to share his franchise
With a bloomin' suffragette.
—Judge.

Just as Good.

She—Oh, George, you've broken your promise.

The Cheerful One—Never mind, dearie. I'll make you another!—Comic Cuts.

WHEN IN WANT
OF GOOD
Plants and Flowers
CALL UP
WM. PATTERSON
HE HAS THEM
Azaleas, Cyclamen, Primrose, Hyacinths Narcissus, Begonias, Poinsettias at Reasonable Prices.
92 South Central Ave., Wollaston
Tel. 392-4 Quincy. Dec. 20-tf

Until New Years
USE THE
RedCross Stamps

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

As a FAMILY DAILY PAPER has no equal and is appreciated by ADVERTISERS

Quincy Daily Ledger.

HIGH TIDES FOR WEEK.

| | A. M. | P. M. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday Dec. 27, | 11.30 | 12.00 |
| Tuesday, | 12.00 | 12.15 |
| Wednesday, | 12.45 | 1.00 |
| Thursday, | 1.45 | 1.45 |
| Friday, | 2.30 | 2.45 |
| Saturday, | 3.15 | 3.30 |
| Sunday, | 4.00 | 4.15 |

1909 DECEMBER 1909

| SUN | MON | TUE | WED | THU | FRI | SAT |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
| 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 | 11 |
| 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | 16 | 17 | 18 |
| 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | 23 | 24 | 25 |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | 29 | 30 | 31 | |

Nature Studies.

The Phunnibeak Bird—Hello! Who are you?

The Other Bird—Don't you know me? Why, I'm "the harp that once through Tara's halls."

The Phunnibeak Bird (shortly)—Oh, tut, tut! You're a lyre! That's what you are.

BRIEFS

Good bye 1909.

Excellent sleighing, and improving each day.

The last day of the month and the last day of the year, and a beautiful clear cold day at that.

Hildring Anderson of Bryant place has purchased a house on Granite street and moved there.

A New Year's eve service is to be held tonight at King's chapel, Boston beginning at eight o'clock.

The Quincy Catholic club holds a watch whist party tonight and will see the old year out.

A sleigh ride was enjoyed Thursday night by about twenty members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Bethany church. The party went to Mattapan.

Many of the wires that weathered the storm of Sunday are still heavily coated with ice, as the weather has not been warm enough to cause a thaw.

The American Unitarian association keeps open house New Year's day from four until six o'clock at the Unitarian building on Beacon street, Boston. Members of the Quincy and Wollaston parishes are planning to attend.

A large gathering is expected tonight at the whist party and social at Alpha hall under the auspices of the Quincy Catholic club. After two hours of whist there will be dancing. The affair promises to be quite a social event.

Only One "BROMO QUININE"

That is LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. Used the World over to Cure a Cold in One Day. 25c

YOUR MILK SUPPLY

is uncertain during the winter. The milkmen are delayed by storm and you are not sure of receiving fresh milk. We list below several articles that will provide for such emergencies, and do away with the milk problem for all time.

Van Camp's Evaporated Milk 9c. can, 3 for 25c
Borden's Peerless Milk 6 cans for 25c
Tip Top and Rose Brands Condensed Milk can 11c
Blue Cross Condensed Milk can 10c
Eagle Condensed Milk can 15c

Use any of these with our Quality Coffee, 30c. lb.

PROMPT ATTENTION TO Telephone Orders No. 307-3

R. E. FOY & CO.
COR. WATER AND QUINCY STS.
QUINCY ADAMS

DEER ISLAND MISCONDUCT

Probers Find Many of the Charges Have Been Proven

BLAME PLACED UPON MAYOR

Spoils System Prevails and Politicians Prey Upon Boston Penal Institutions Department—Prisoners Use Drugs and Officers Are Addicted to Drunkenness, According to Report Submitted by Finance Commission

Boston, Dec. 31.—In a report of its findings on its Deer island investigation, made by the mayor and board of aldermen last night, the finance commission characterized the Deer island institution as "resembling a school for crime."

Asserting that the many charges of the use of drugs by the prisoners, illicit trafficking between prisoners and officers and drunkenness among the officers were proven by its investigation, the commission places the blame on the mayor.

It stated that the spoils system was employed in the conduct of the penal institutions department and that the politicians preyed on the department to the extent of getting favorite jobs contrary to law.

The commission declared that because of lack of experience and training, former Commissioner Skinner was unfit for his position and placed the greater part of the responsibility for the management of the institution on Mayor Hibbard for appointing Skinner.

The commission declared that the mayor, two of his secretaries and ten of the present members of the board of aldermen had attempted to place favorites in jobs in the department.

It declared that the cost of the food for the master's table at Deer island had been excessive, and criticized the latter for having a boat built for himself by prison labor.

It absolved the master from blame for the alleged misconduct of the institution, stating that this was chiefly due to political interference.

The commission recommended the appointment of an experienced man as head of the penal institutions department and the placing of the department under civil service.

The commission also stated that altogether too many prisoners are sent to the island for petty offenses, and recommended that the judges and head of department come to some understanding, and that more probation officers be appointed if necessary.

Neither Hibbard nor Skinner would make any comment upon the commission's report last night.

A DESPERATE CHARACTER

Police Will Have Guns Handy When They Get Near Burns

Boston, Dec. 31.—"Bennie" Burns, the yeggman who is wanted in connection with the killing of John W. Hurley in a Tremont street alley Monday evening, wandered about the South End for twenty-four hours after the murder and declared to several acquaintances who talked with him that he was not going to leave the city "until he killed two men that he was out to get."

Those who are hunting Burns realize that the safe blower is a desperate man, and if they get on his trail their hands will be pretty close to their guns, for they all fear that Burns will shoot at any policeman who attempts to arrest him.

Burns is a consumptive, and those who know him intimately say that he realizes that he has but a few months to live.

MILK INQUIRY BEGUN

Government Taking Up Recent Increase In Prices In Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Government officials are investigating the recent action of Chicago milk dealers in raising the retail price of milk from 7 to 8 cents a quart and 4 to 5 cents a pint, and big local companies may be forced to explain to the United States government.

"I could not tell if we were making an investigation," said District Attorney Sims, "for that would spoil it. You can quote me as saying that if the milk situation in Chicago, from the New York disclosures, has anything to do with interstate commerce the government certainly will investigate here."

New Trial For Booth

New York, Dec. 31.—General William Booth, the founder of the Salvation Army, was granted a new trial in the effort to oust the American Salvation Army. The original suit, brought in 1907, went against Booth, who asked for a permanent injunction forbidding the American Army to use the manual and ritual of the Salvation Army.

Awards $75,000 In Gold

Boston, Dec. 31.—Today the Boston Elevated Railway company is distributing the largest sum of money that has ever been paid by the company to its car service men in rewards for satisfactory service during the year. About $75,000 is being divided among 3500 men.

JAPAN SEEKS NEW TREATY

Would Head Off Possibility of Drastic Exclusion and Segregation

Washington, Dec. 31.—Baron Uchida, the new Japanese ambassador, has come to the United States with one special purpose in view—that of negotiating a new treaty in conformance with the desires of the mikado.

Within a short time California and her fight to segregate Japanese public school pupils will again be in the limelight. Japan wishes the present treaty, which expires on July 17, 1912, abrogated before that time, and a new agreement made.

This haste has for its purpose the balking of the California opponents of the Japanese. Before 1912 drastic exclusion and segregation action might be taken on the coast.

On the other hand the United States government is inclined to delay.

TAFT'S NIECE WEDS

President Attends Ceremony In New York With His Children

New York, Dec. 31.—Miss Louise W. Taft, daughter of Henry W. and Mrs. Taft and niece of the president, was married to George W. Snowdon of Seattle.

President Taft came from Washington to attend the wedding, but Mrs. Taft's health did not permit her to make the journey. The president was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Helen Taft, and his sons, Robert and Charles.

The ceremony was performed in a room decorated with palms and hung with mistletoe and holly. Rev. Dr. Berry, rector of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, performed the ceremony.

LOWELL'S BATTLE WITH WHITE PLAGUE

Houses In Which Deaths Occur Must Be Renovated

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 31.—As part of a determined war on the white plague, after Jan. 1, 1910, every house in Lowell in which death occurs from tuberculosis must be as thoroughly disinfected as in cases of scarlet fever or smallpox.

This action comes at the suggestion of Dr. Martin of the Lowell board of health, who claims that statistics prove that unless premises occupied by tubercular patients are thoroughly disinfected, later tenants are liable to become infected with the disease.

Floors, walls, woodwork, must all be thoroughly scrubbed with disinfectants, paper renewed, and painting and whitewashing done over.

CHINESE ACTOR KILLED

Tong War Victim Was High In Chinese Secret Organization

New York, Dec. 31.—The renewal of the Tong warfare in New York's Chinatown has claimed another victim. Ah Hung, a Chinese actor, who was a prominent member of one of the Chinese secret organizations, was in his room in a tenement house when he heard steps in the hallway outside, and then a voice demanding admission. Ah cautiously opened the door a bare inch or two. There was a shot and then a scamper of feet down the stairs. Ah's neighbors found the body. The bullet had struck him in the forehead and penetrated the brain.

The police, who have been expecting a continuation of the trouble in Chinatown which resulted in two deaths on Monday night, arrested several of Ah's neighbors as witnesses, but were unable to find any tangible clews to the identity of the murderers.

PEARY IS FROSTBITTEN

Blizzard Caught Him Wearing Evening Clothes and Low Shoes

Washington, Dec. 31.—Long experience in the Arctic stood Commander Peary in very good stead when his automobile stranded in a snow bank in the remote regions of Maryland, while he was en route to a friend's house for dinner, and he was compelled to face a blizzardy wind in light evening clothes and wade deep snow drifts in low shoes for a mile or more to obtain assistance .

Finally arriving at his destination, after having his machine dug out of the snow drifts, it was discovered that Peary had suffered from slight frost bites of his ears, and it was necessary to give the members vigorous snow treatment before they became normal.

Compromise In Telegraphers' Strike

Cincinnati, Dec. 31.—A compromise has been reached between the telegraphers of the big Four railroad and the management of the system and all immediate danger of a strike has been removed.

Mrs. Kip Gets Divorce

Reno, Nev., Dec. 31.—Mrs. Frances K. Kip, prominent in New York social circles, and the wife of Henry S. Kip, was granted a decree of divorce by Judge Pike, on the ground of desertion.

Satolli Close to Death

Rome, Dec. 31.—Cardinal Satolli, who is ill with nephritis, is failing rapidly. Life is being prolonged only by the artificial administration of oxygen.

ENUMERATORS' TEST NOT HARD

Census Director Says They Need Not Fear Examination

A PUBLIC SCHOOL EDUCATION

Seems to Be About All That Is Required to Pass With Flying Colors—Special Agents Ready to Give Applicants All the Information That Is Required—Addresses of the New England Supervisors

Washington, Dec. 31.—By Jan. 25 all applications for the positions of enumerators in the thirteenth decennial United States census must be filed with the supervisors of census for the supervisors' districts in which applicants reside. Between that date and Feb. 5 the supervisors will send out cards to applicants informing them where they are to report for the "test" to be held in every one of the 330 supervisors' districts on Feb. 5.

Census Director Durand emphatically states that persons desiring to hold such positions should not stand in fear of the "test" to be made. Any person of average public school education who can write plainly and reasonably fast will go through the "test" with "colors flying." In fact, the "test" is intended simply to help the supervisors select suitable persons and to enable the director of the census to exercise intelligently his power of approval of those whom the supervisors designate for appointment.

It will involve the filling in of either a sample population schedule, by those who make the count in the cities, or of both a sample population and agricultural schedule, by candidates who will enumerate the country.

To prepare the way and to insure every applicant being given a fair chance, the supervisors will send in advance to each and every applicant a set of printed instructions for filling in these sample schedules.

"We consider that a very important point," said Acting Census Director Willoughby, "not only in treating these candidates fairly and giving them a chance to answer the questions properly, but also as a means of education of the candidates to be appointed.

"They will study more thoroughly the instructions for filling in these schedules if they realize their chances of appointment depend upon that study than if they were appointed first and had to do the studying afterwards. Any person of good judgment and ordinary common-school education—for the work requires some little thinking power—can easily pass the test."

Director Durand expects to have the army of 67,000 or more enumerators picked, tested, designated and commissioned by the middle or latter part of March. From then on until April 15 the supervisors will send the enumerators circulars and books of instructions concerning the meaning of the schedule questions, and the way the enumerators should write the answers obtained from the people of the country.

Application forms, with complete directions concerning the method of preparing them, can be secured by writing at once to the supervisor named in the list appended whose district embraces the place of residence of the applicant. The supervisors for New England are as follows: Connecticut—One district, William B. Bailey, New Haven. Maine—First district, Morrill N. Drew, Portland; second district, Elmer P. Spofford, Deer Isle. Massachusetts—One district, Charles F. Gettemy, Boston. New Hampshire—One district, Frank A. Musgrove, Hanover. Rhode Island—One district, George H. Webb, Providence. Vermont—One district, Lynn M. Hays, Burlington.

TAFT BUYS THE PHILLIES

Brother of the President Becomes a Baseball Magnate

Philadelphia, Dec. 31.—Horace Fogel, president of the Philadlephia National Baseball club, announced that Charles P. Taft, brother of President Taft, has exercised his option on the Philadelphia National League ball park, and has bought it for $250,000.

This is confirmation of the rumor that was set afloat when the National League president fight first came up, that Charles W. Murphy of Chicago had practically secured control of the Philadelphia club. Taft is Murphy's financial backer.

Federation's Appeal Docketed

Washington, Dec. 31.—The cross-appeal of the American Federation of Labor in the Bucks Stove and Range company, in which that company sought to enjoin the Federation from boycotting the goods of the company, was docketed Thursday in the supreme court of the United States.

Ice Sinks Freight Steamer

New York, Dec. 31.—Freight steamer Armitage Brearley sank in the Hudson river off Hastings-on-the-Hudson and her crew had a narrow escape from drowning. The Brearley had a hole stove in her side from contact with an ice floe.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS

Hollis Street Theatre.

There are only a few real light comedians on the American stage and of these John Drew is easily the most deservedly popular. His annual engagements at the Hollis Street theatre are always events which attract the most fashionable and the smartest of the season. It is expected that such an audience will be present on Monday night, Jan. 3d, when he begins an engagement of two weeks in his latest comedy success, "Inconstant George." John Drew plays the part of George Bulin, a Parisan gentleman of the world without a serious motive or a sincere propelling principle. This gentleman is somewhat unusual in that he suffers from a mild form of neurasthenia which he himself calls "anemia of the will power." This renders it impossible for him to make decisions and keeps him constantly entangled in four or five love affairs simultanenously, it being absolutely impossible for him to decide which of his adored ones he likes best. Others in the cast include Adelaide Prince, Desmond Kelley, Jane Laurel, Martin Sabine, Rex McDougall and Frederick Tiden, Charles Frohman has provided the play with a series of settings which reveal that rare good taste so characteristic of this foremost producer.

Keith's Theatre.

The most important vaudeville engagement announced in years is that of the veteran actor Denman Thompson, who will appear at Keith's January 3rd. For more than 20 years Mr. Thompson has not appeared in anything except his famous play "The Old Homestead," which is still on the road with another actor in his part. He has been anxious, however, for a long time to return to the stage in the short comedy in which he first attained fame, and from which "The Old Homestead" originated. It was called "Joshua Whitcomb" and the leading character of which still appears in "The Old Homestead." Mr. Thompson, now nearly 80, is as vigorous and active as ever, but hardly equal to the requirements of a long play. With such a headline feature the bill must necessarily be a strong one and it will be bright with comedy. On the same bill will be the Great Lester, America's premier ventriloquist, who after his performance walks through the audience with a dummy singing a popular song. Other features will be Smith and Campbell in the new sketch called "Camping Out;" Cowboy Williams in a novel exhibition; Trovato, the famous violinist; the Clever Trio; and a number of others.

Boston Theatre.

"Bright Eyes" is an instantaneous, spectacular success at the Boston theatre. The largest auditorium in New England has been crowded at every performance of the week and the advance sale, for the few remaining performances, is the largest for many years in the history of the Boston theatre. "Bright Eyes" is by the same authors as "Three Twins," a recent phenomenal success at the Boston theatre. The three scenes ,the first representing the stage of a theatre during a rehearsal, the second a carriage house (both the lower floor and the loft being shown), and the third, an elaborate lawn and garden, are all novel in design and each is a masterpiece of the stage carpenter's and the scene painter's arts. A number of novel mechanical and electrical effects, the secrets of which are being closely guarded until patents can be secured ,are introduced and the company, which includes a very large chorus of pretty girls who can both sing and dance, is composed of well-known players headed by the popular funmakers Cecil Lean and Florence Holbrook. The song hits, both individual and chorus, are numerous. The costuming is of bewildering beauty. The matinee performances are on Wednesday and Saturday.

American Music Hall.

Comedy will be the key note of the bill at the American Music hall next week. A laughing bill is always welcome and for that reason a real treat is in store for the patrons of this house. The big humorous hit will probably be scored by Byron & Langdon in their comedy sketch "The Dude Detective." It would be hard to imagine anything more excruciatingly funny than Frank Byron's impersonation of the "Dude." He is one of the few men on the stage who can make such a character ludicrous without becoming disgusting. For sensational bicycle riders there is no troupe on the stage today that surpass the wonderful Jackson family. This family has won world renown as the star feature of big circuses such as Barnums and Ringling Brothers. Their work is nothing short of marvellous. The balance of the bill will be made up of acts fully up to the William Morris, Inc., standard and the entertainment offered will not permit of a dull moment.

Castle Square Theatre.

"1915" has started off in the liveliest fashion at the Castle Square. The past week has seen nothing but large audiences whose enthusiasm over Mr. Friebus's new musical comedy is unmeasured, and the beginning of another week on Monday indicates a continuance of its success. In fact, such piece as "1915" written especially about Bostonians and for Bostonians could not do otherwise than meet with an overwhelming popularity. It is made solely for entertainment and laughter, and its medley of songs and dances, of vivacious dialogue and sentimental ballads, and of brilliant costumes and spectacular scenery, offer three hours of uninterrupted pleasure. From the opening scene in the Old Art Museum, with its rollicking glimpse of student life, through the flight by air-ship, the scene on the South Sea Island, and the last act on the Public Garden, it is a musical comedy of perpetual enjoyment. The John Craig Stock Company has no small share in the success of "1915."

German Gleanings.

There are no deserted farms in Germany.

In Germany 20,000 foxes a year are slaughtered.

It costs Berlin less than $1,500,000 a year to keep the streets clean.

Earthenware factories in Germany have had to reduce prices for many articles on account of competition.

Dental students in the German universities will henceforth be matriculated in the medical departments and not in the philosophical, as heretofore.

They All Balked.

A farmer had purchased a fine automobile, of which he was very proud, and he never tired telling every one what a powerful machine he had. One day, however, the inevitable happened and he found himself stranded several miles from home. Try as he would, he could not make the thing go.

A neighbor happening along and seeing his glum face thought to cheer him up, so he asked, "How many horsepower is your machine?"

The farmer spat disgustedly. "Forty," he said, "and every one of 'em's balked."—Suburban Life.

Already Explained.

"Senator, I understand that your son is on the government payroll."

"He is; also his wife and my daughter. What of it?"

"Don't you think some explanation is due?"

"Not at all. My grandchildren are too young, and I have already explained to my wife that I have not landed a suitable job for her yet."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Get the Fat.

Lean hoss fer de race dat's long,
But you won't know whar you at
Ef de hongry time is wid you
An' de possum he ain't fat.

Words what ain't in de blessin'
You'll say, an' likes o' dat,
Ef you mighty short on dressin'
An' de turkey he ain't fat.
—Atlanta Constitution.

Telephone Lingo.

"So Miss Hayo, the telephone operator, has broken her engagement with you?"

"Yep. After she got my number she handed the presents back, put out her little white, shapely hand"—

"Well?"

"And said 'Ring off.'"—St. Paul Dispatch.

Reminders.

Mrs. Meek—Sausages are so delicious. Have you ever tried that flat kind?

Mrs. Cleek—Only once. My husband is such a golf fiend he won't eat any kind but the links.—Boston Transcript.

Jam.

"Oh, isn't this an awful jam?"
Said Annabel to me
When we were crowding on the tram
In close proximity.

I looked at her and said, "No, mam;
It's not the awful kind,
But just the sweetest kind of jam
That ever I could find!"
—Puck.

A Purist.

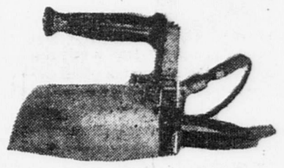
Visitor—Isn't either of your parents home, Martha?

Martha—No, ma'am. Ma has gone for an hour's sitting at the photographer's, and pa has gone for an afternoon's straddle on his horse.—Judge.

Only One Cent
Means Help for the
Tuberculosis Camp

ASSETS, $450,000.
ESTABLISHED 1889
QUINCY CO-OP BANK
SAVES $ FOR YOU
EARNS $ FOR YOU
LOANS $ TO YOU
DEPOSIT $1 TO $25 Per Month
MORTGAGE HERE, REPAY BY INSTALMENTS
OWN YOUR HOME.
SHARES and INFORMATION at OFFICE Room 1 SAVINGS BK BUILDING
R. D. CHASE Treas

Start the New Year Right
by having your Clothes Pressed and Repaired at the
Little Store
Just around the corner next to Hotel Greenleaf. We do all kinds of repairing, pressing, dyeing, etc.
J. NATHAN
14 GRANITE STREET.
Dec. 14—1m.



Wadsworth's QUINCY MASS. TRADE-MARK REGISTERED

Special Attention Is Called to New Years

| | |
|---|---|
| Gloves | Coats |
| Handkerchiefs | Suits |
| Umbrellas | Furs |
| Pocket Books | Skirts |
| Bags | Sweaters |
| Pin Cushions | Silk Petticoats |
| Crochet Slippers | Moire Petticoats |
| Silk Scarfs | Silk Waists |
| Neck Wear | Lingerie Waists |
| Fancy Hosiery | Nuns Veiling Waists |
| Mexican Drawn Work | |
| Linens | Brilliantine Waists |
| Waist Pattern | Scotch Flannel |
| Aprons | Linen Waists |
| Belts | |

Wadsworth's QUINCY MASS. TRADE-MARK REGISTERED

CAPELL GAS IRON.

Saves money, time and worry. Costs 2 cts. a day.

A positive Guarantee; Unqualified endorsement from all who have given it a trial. Don't walk miles during the year from the range to the ironing board. Buy a Capell, and have a clean polished surface adapted to the daintiest fabrics right at hand.

Now being demonstrated at No. 6 Washington street, Quincy. Call and see the Iron that will do your customary days ironing in one-half the time. Our finely illustrated booklet "To the Woman of the House" will be mailed free upon request, and a postal will bring our demonstrator to your home if not convenient to call.

JOHN W. CARLE, Sales Agent.
Dec 7 1m

White House Mail
ALL CARRIES THE
Red Cross Stamps

WELL
If you have anything to sell sell it to
J. A. KEATING
1357 Hancock Street
Quincy, Oct. 13 tf

BRUCE & MYATT EXPRESS
TWO TRIPS DAILY
Furniture and Piano Moving
Office 1598 Hancock Street, Under G. A. R. Hall. Telephone 380-2
Quincy, June 10 tf

STORAGE
— FOR —
Furniture and Pianos
Storage Warehouse with Separate Rooms
Furniture and Piano Movers
HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy. Tel. Con

HOUSE LOTS FOR SALE
Elm and Dysart Streets.
Good location, good neighborhood.
Gas and Water.
Four valuable houses built on property
Apply at 45 Elm Street.
Quincy, Dec. 3

ADVERTISING
Is a Good Investment.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER
Established 1889
THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Published every evening (except Sunday) at 1424 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass., by the . . . .
GEORGE W. PRESCOTT PUBLISHING CO.
Incorporated.

Subscription
By the year $6.00
By the month .50

Telephones
During day Quincy 425
Evenings 166-3 or 75-2

Copy for changes of advertisements should be in the office on the afternoon previous to publication to guarantee insertion.

Quincy has long been proud of the fact that the first Vice President of the United States was born in this municipality; that the first signer of the Declaration of Independence was born here; that the first incorporated railroad was built here; that the town was one of the first to employ a superintendent of schools; that it is first in the granite industry, and first in shipbuilding, but a fact generally overlooked is that Quincy probably sent the first boot and shoe salesman to the South. There are many other things in which Quincy was first, and more in which she should be near the top.

Rear Admiral Evans discusses the probable effect of the Panama Canal upon American shipping and commerce with entire disinterestedness. He holds that the canal will be so undesirable a route for sailing vessels that few if any of them will traverse it and that, in consequence, they will be driven from the seas and disappear before the rivalry of tramp steamers which can use the canal unless the canal is made free to sailing vessels. Moreover, he says, our navigation laws are such a handicap to ocean shipping that the commerce though the canal between American and foreign ports will be chiefly in foreign vessels while even our coasting trade between our own ports, because of the cost of operation, may not be able to meet the opposition of the trans-continental railroads unless the canal is made free to American commerce. But as we seem bound by treaty stipulations to treat the commerce of all nations impartially such a step would compel us to make it free to all commerce. The veteran naval officer submits for consideration the proposition whether that course should not be pursued if the canal is to be made of real benefit to the world. The questions between sails and steam does not appear to be of great importance. The canal is not being built for any particular class of ships. It is true that sailing vessels will have to be towed through the canal but steamers may also have to be towed, at least through the locks. There are many competent authorities who believe that sailing vessels of great size equipped with auxiliary steam power to assist them in zones of calms will be conspicious in the carrying trade of the future. As to the desirability of making the canal free to all commerce it would undoubtedly be magnificent to do so but it would hardly be profitable from a business standpoint.

Many attempts have been made recently to determine the reason why the cost of living is so high and why there has been a marked advance in all food products during the past five or six years. According to James J. Hill foods are ranging high because Americans have been drawing too rapidly on the virgin richness of the soil. In other words he believes that we have reached the period when the population is beginning to press hard upon the means of subsistence. There are others who hold to the view that the continuous increase in the gold yield is resulting in raising the money ratio in proportion to the total of commodities and for that reason we have higher priced commodities. Professor Milton Whitney, Chief of the Bureau of Soils of the Department of Agriculture, offers the suggestion that "the increased cost of living is due to the fact that Americans are eating far more than they did fifty years ago." He arrives at this conclusion by a deductive method of reasoning. The variety of foods, he points out, is much greater than it was fifty years ago and because of modern quick transportation facilities Northern cities have tropical fruits and fresh vegetables every month in the year. Wages average higher and according to Professor Whitney, the average family can afford to live better and does live better than the average family of half a century ago. There appears to be several weak spots in this theory. A greater variety and a greater abundance does not explain why there should be a rise in the standard foods like fresh meats. Logically an increase in the variety of foods ought to lower the price of particular foods. Another weak spot is shown by the government statistics which demonstrate that there are more underfed people in the country now than fifty years ago, that is more people out of employment. It would seem that some people of this generation were eating more than enough and that some digestive apparati are being overtaxed.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

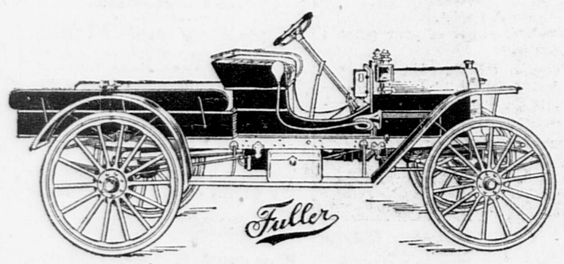
At the present time there is beginning to be evidenced a movement in favor of the fuller recognition of the value of waterways including not only the docks and quays adjacent to the open sea, but also the region on a river which lies at some distance away from the coast. There is no doubt that the system of canals and rivers affords a means of cheap transit for goods which is not nowadays properly utilized. The advent of the railway caused a great decline in the uses to which canals were put, and their maintenance has, therefore, to a large extent degenerated. In some countries, however, transport by water has been maintained to a considerable extent, and there is no reason why, with an adaptation of the numerous electric tractor systems suitable for barge-towing, the waterways of England and America should not, as auxiliaries to the railways for heavy goods transport, become as important as they have been in the past. This is especially important in view of the modern tendency of manufacturing firms to move out into the country where expenses are low.—Cassier's Magazine.

—Arthur Gilman of Cambridge, founder of Harvard annex, better known as Radcliffe college, died on Tuesday at Atlantic City.



—Of the 3,994 students at Harvard university this year, only about 1,500 were eligible under the rules to play football. Yale had 3,244 students of whom 2,54 were eligible; Cornell, 3,900 students and 1,900 eligibles; University of Michigan, 4,684 students and 2,770 eligibles; University of Wisconsin, 3,500 students and 1,800 eligibles; and Carlisle, 980 students and 300 eligibles.

One Cough

A cough, just a little cough. It may not amount to much. Or, it may amount to everything! Some keep coughing until the lung tissues are seriously injured. Others stop their cough with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Sold for seventy years. How long have you known it?

Ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. If he says, "Take it," then take it. If he says, "No," then don't. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

A GOOD CAR

Just what you need for delivery at short notice..

For Sale by

S. SCAMMELL & SONS Agents.

Quincy, Dec. 29 tf

WOMAN BUILDS AIRSHIP.

Miss Lilian Todd Intends to Fly In Her Own Aeroplane.

What next, O modern American woman? Will you attempt to go to Mars by special limited torpedo? Miss Julia Hoerner of St. Louis is making balloon flights in a determined effort to win the Lahm cup for the long distance record. Now comes Miss Lilian Todd of New York, who has just completed at Mineola, N. Y., an aeroplane, every distinctive feature of which she designed herself. And, more to the point, Miss Todd intends to fly aboard her own aeroplane as aviator.

Until her wrist muscles recover from the strain of overwork in helping to build her machine Miss Todd will let a youthful member of the Junior Aero Club of American act as her plane chauffeur, but just as soon as her hands are strong enough to operate the mechanism she will essay flights.

She may take up some mere man as a passenger, for this is an aeroplane built for two, or she may invite Miss Hoerner to the honor of a plane voyage. Meanwhile all the other women and all the men except half a dozen or so will cling to solid earth and gaze in awe, many doubtless in admiration, some perhaps in scorn, at the one woman who dares.

It is no sudden fancy or midwinter madness that has prompted Miss Todd in building the first aeroplane ever designed by a woman. She has grown up to the part. From childhood she has been an inventor, an investigator. Like the average boy, this girl wanted to see the wheels go round, and she wanted to take the wheels off and see if she could put them on again, thus learning how machinery was constructed.

As a child she began with weather vanes and mechanical dolls. Later she turned her talents to typewriters, clocks and sundials. Neighbors saved up their wornout clocks so that little Miss Todd might take them apart and put them together.

While experimenting in this way she also read many scientific works. She has studied in books and by practical object lessons the laws of equilibrium. Her aeroplane, she declares, is built upon scientific principles, according to the laws of aerial flight, and is no mere bunglesome toy or plaything like many so called aeroplanes that won't aeronate.

Miss Todd's ship of the air is thirty-six feet long. Small flexible planes extend two feet farther at each end. Her machine may be called a triplane, because between the two superior planes is a central one needed for additional sustaining surface, the only motor she has been able to obtain in America being heavier than is desirable.

In all the framework the highest grade of selected spruce is used. Unbleached muslin of the finest quality is used to cover the upper sides of the planes. The under sides, which are the sustaining surfaces, are covered with seven ounce army duck, the strongest material possible for the purpose.

MISS LILIAN TODD.

An original feature in Miss Todd's aeroplane is the employment of curved planes. The Wrights, Curtiss and other aeroplanists employ straight out planes. Miss Todd has departed from the flat plane. She studied that noble bird the albatross in the Metropolitan museum in New York and discovered that the outer edges of its wings are curved. She made the planes of her air vessel according to the albatross curve.

This, she says, makes for the stability of the machine. Instead of sweeping across the full surface of the planes a wind which might strike the end of a plane from below strikes downward. Miss Todd claims that her curved planes are scientifically essential to equilibrium. Whether her claim is warranted by the laws of physics remains, of course, to be proved or disproved by actual test.

The thing that stands out as distinctive in the news of this age of endeavor and achievement is that for the first time in the history of the world a woman has entered the lists with men in the construction of a specimen of the highest and most scientific type of air craft, and, according to the opinions of persons who have paid special attention to the progress of aerial flight, she has achieved a mechanism which gives promise of fairly successful competition with those of the men—the hardier, sterner and more daring sex—who are seeking to solve the problem of navigating the air upon a practical basis. AMANDA RIDDLE.

Current Topics Of Washington

Roosevelt Not Hunting Natives—Newspaper Men In Congress — Revolt of the Insurgents — Still After Hitchcock. Other Notes of Interesting Happenings In the National Capital.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.
[Our Washington Correspondent.]

THE Roosevelt collection at the Smithsonian institution is really a fine thing, despite the nature fakes that have been sent out by enterprising correspondents concerning it. There are 243 large and 1,500 small mammals, 1,356 birds and even human skulls in the list, all in the best condition. The presence of the skulls must not lead to the supposition that Colonel Roosevelt has been bagging natives along with other game. They are only skulls that were picked up along the trail.

I wonder if all Washington policemen are fat. I saw two on the street just now that would tip the scales at—well, the president says "no gentleman weighs over 300," and perhaps no policeman ought to. Many cities require a certain height in their guardians of the law. Is it possible that the Capital City has gone them one better and established a standard of girth and avoirdupois? If so, it is flattery of a subtle sort to the occupant of the White House, who is the head of everything in Washington. Has Mr. Taft started a new fashion in physique, a sort of aristocracy of embonpoint, as it were? At least they are modeling the District policemen after him.

JOSEPH L. BRISTOW.

All the statesmen in Washington are not lawyers. There are also a few farmers, merchants, bankers and editors. The newspaper men may not be legion, but what there are make up in distinction for their lack in numbers. Among the senators Benjamin F. Shively of Indiana was at one time a country editor, Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan is owner and editor of the Grand Rapids Herald, Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of New Hampshire was a printer in early life, Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana tells me he is interested in a newspaper, although he is too modest to say anything about it in his official biography; Senator Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas has been a newspaper man pretty much all his life, and Senator R. M. La Follette of Wisconsin is now the editor of a weekly paper in which he sends the insurgent principles to the world.

The house list of newspaper men is much longer. Albert F. Dawson of Iowa was once city editor of the Clinton Daily Herald, and William D. Jamieson of the same state is still an editor; Kansas has three editors in the house, Dan R. Anthony of Leavenworth, Charles F. Scott of Iola and Victor Murdock of Wichita; Edwin C. Burleigh, one of Maine's four representatives, is owner of a daily and weekly; Samuel W. McCall, the distinguished congressman from Massachusetts, was once editor in chief of the Boston Advertiser; Charles A. Lindbergh of Minnesota, while never an editor, has been a writer for newspapers and magazines; Champ Clark, the minority leader, was once editor of a country paper; Richard Bartholdt, the famous peace advocate, was when elected to congress the editor in chief of the St. Louis Tribune; Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the Nebraska congressman, is editor and owner of the Omaha World-Herald; Representative George N. Southwick of Albany, N. Y., has been editor, correspondent and reporter for the Associated Press; James M. Cox, the Ohio congressman, is editor of the Dayton Daily News; General Isaac R. Sherwood, the veteran from the Toledo district, has been editor and poet as well as judge and soldier; William A. Ashbrook, another Ohio representative, is also an editor and was once secretary of the National Editorial association; Joel Cook, the Philadelphia representative, was once editorial writer on the Public Ledger; William W. Griest, from the Lancaster district of the same state, is a publisher; Benjamin K. Focht of Lewisburg, Pa., has not allowed being a congressman and financier to wean him from his interest in the Lewisburg Saturday News; Walter P. Brownlow, the fighting Tennessee representative, is an editor, and Congressman William Cannon Houston, from Woodbury, the same state, had a year or two's experience with a country paper, while Carter Glass, the representative from Lynchburg, Va., is not satisfied with one paper, but owns two, the morning News and afternoon Advance. There are numerous other statesmen in Washington who have had their day with the pencil and scissors, but this is enough to show that the fourth estate is not entirely out of it.

Superficially little is happening in the insurgent line in either end of the capitol and may not be during the session. Wise observers are not deceived, however, by this apparent inaction. It is not a permanent peace, but a temporary truce. It is not even that. It is simply the waiting for a more favorable time to attack. Every day the situation is clarifying, and the issues between the old and new elements are being more sharply defined. The difference is not alone one of tariff, but takes in the general scheme. It is fundamental, constituting almost a complete change of viewpoint and attitude. I can give only my own impression of the situation, my reading of the political signs. As I size it up, the revolt against Cannon is not aimed at the man or even at the house rules. It is directed at the old order. Cannon belongs distinctly to the old order—is almost a personification of it. He is a survival of the days of thick and thin partisanship. I should hardly say that the insurgents belong to a new order, but that they are facing toward a new order. All protests in the beginning are more or less chaotic and formless, but in time become defined and recognized. This I should say is the case with the insurgent movement in Washington. No one should be lulled into the belief that it is not still in existence with all its old force. Just when it will again break forth or in what form no one can foretell.

The coal land ruction, involving as it does the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, will not down. On the same day that a New York weekly came out with another broadside on the subject Representative Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska made a speech in the house that raised the lid. There was nothing especially new in Hitchcock's charges, the significant feature of his address resting in the fact that the affair was being aired in congress. Since the committee on rules passes on all congressional investigations, as well as on pretty much everything else of importance in the house, an investigation in the coal land matter is no more probable than that in the sugar frauds, but even though there is not a formal inquiry the mere discussion of the matter in congress will have an effect Publicity cures many things, and publicity on sugar and on the coal lands cannot be throttled.

Representative Hitchcock, the man who stirred up the interior department, is himself a man not without interest. The son of a former Republican senator from Nebraska, Hitchcock is now owner and editor of the leading Democratic paper of the state, the Morning and Evening World-Herald of Omaha. At the time Bryan was nominated for president in 1896 he was editor of Hitchcock's paper. Now Bryan's chief writer, Dick Metcalfe, is from the World-Herald's old staff.

The other day I took lunch with a representative who is a veteran in more senses than one. He is Colonel Charles Henty Morgan of the Joplin (Mo.) district. Morgan entered the civil war as a "non-com" and came out with the rank of captain. He was taken prisoner and escaped five times, finally making his way to the Union lines. He also served in the Spanish-American war as a lieutenant colonel. He has the unique distinction of having represented the same district in congress both as a Democrat and Republican. In his Democratic days he had something like 10,000 majority. Then he turned over on the tariff issue, was nominated by the Republicans and elected.

VICTOR MURDOCK.

The proposal to hold the sessions of congress at night instead of by day, as they do it in England, should not be taken seriously. The evening is the only time that Washington is really busy, nor is it busy making laws. Taking the national capital by and large, its chief occupation is eating. There is no town on earth that comes quite so near having one evening suit, or at least one dinner coat, per male person. Moreover, most of the eating is done in the evening. Will congress interrupt its chief occupation with mere vulgar sessions to enact laws? Never. The suggestion belongs to the silly season or was made by some reporter who was short of copy.

The Elephant.

The only pace of the elephant is a walk, which is capable of being increased to a fast shuffle of about fifteen miles an hour for a very short distance. The elephant can neither trot, canter nor gallop, nor can it make the smallest spring either in a vertical or a horizontal direction.

Russian Cross of St. Andrew.

The Russian Cross of St. Andrew has a remarkable peculiarity attaching to it. All who are decorated with it have the right once to demand a pardon for a Russian subject condemned to death.

The Tammany Tiger.

The origin of the tiger as an emblem of Tammany is said to date from the time when William M. Tweed, then foreman of "Big Six" fire company, took a fancy to a picture of a royal Bengal tiger in the fifties. Tweed adopted the emblem for the Americus club, and it soon was accepted by all Tammany.

Fungi.

Fungi give off carbonic acid like human beings; and not oxygen, as does other vegetables. This peculiarity is accounted for by the absence of green coloring matter.

Candles of the Sky.

Dr. Charles Fabry of the French Academy of Sciences announces that careful measurements of the light of the star Vega, one of the brightest in the heavens, when it is seen near the zenith in calm weather, show that it is equal to that of a standard candle burning at a distance of 2,500 feet from the eye.

Big Cities.

There are twenty-nine cities in the world having more than 500,000 population, of which fifteen have more than 1,000,000.

Harmless Hop.

He is not old, he is not young,
The Chinese laundryman, Hop Lung,
The yellowed cheek, the slanting eye,
The humble nose, the cheek bone high,
The cheerful face, the willing hand
That serves the proudest in the land.
His back yard you may scan with care—
No dirty linen airing there.
—Chicago Tribune.

Teaching a Dog.

To teach a dog to "speak" hold some dainty before him when he is hungry. At first he will not know what is wanted, but say "Speak!" to him, and when he barks, which he is pretty sure to do when he finds the morsel still beyond his reach, feed it to him at once. He will soon associate the word "speak" with the bark and the dainty.

Little Men and Big Men.

A London paper, discussing the question of great men and their physical stature, inclines to the opinion that if the census were made "the little men would beat the big men."

A Long Mile.

The Swedish mile is the longest mile in the world. A traveler in Sweden when told that he is only about a mile from a desired point would better hire a horse, for the distance he will have to walk if he chooses in his ignorance to adopt that mode of travel is exactly 11,700 yards.

Women's Ages In Japan.

When ladies go to buy a dress in Japan they tell the shopkeeper their age and if they are married or not, because there are special designs for single and double relations of life, as well as for ages.

Iceland.

Iceland was discovered by the Scandinavians about 860 and settled in 874. In 920 the soil was tilled by Irish, Swedes and Danes.

The Mississippi.

Before the coming of the whites to America the Mississippi river was known by a different name every few miles of its course. Each tribe that dwelt along its banks gave it a name, and more than thirty of these local designations are preserved in the narratives of the early travelers.

Barnum's Will Was a Long One.

P. T. Barnum's will was 700 pages long. The shortest will on record is that filed in London in March, 1906. It reads "All to mother—C. T.," and disposes of $10,000.

For Evening Hours
The Rayo Lamp

Some of the sweetest hours of home-life are passed under the gentle, kindly light of the evening lamp.

If it be the Rayo Lamp, the light contributes an added charm—makes reading and sewing easy.

There are no aching eyes after reading or sewing under the rays of the Rayo Lamp.

The Rayo Lamp diffuses a steady white light. It is the least trying of any artificial light. Made of brass throughout—nickel plated—improved central draught burner.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but you cannot get a better lamp at any price.

Once a Rayo user, always one

Every Dealer Everywhere. If Not at Yours, Write for Descriptive Circular to the Nearest Agency of the

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

At ATLANTIC
Quincy Daily Ledger
On Sale after 3.30 P. M.
--- AT ---
BRANSCHIED & MARTENS
Why not put in an order and have it left every day at your home?

WHY GAS IS THE BEST LIGHT FOR YOU

QUALITY—The soft, mellow steady light of the modern mantle burner is absolutely the best artificial light to work or read by.

DOES NOT TIRE THE EYES.

CONVENIENCE—By using the Chain Pull attachment on the burners, the use of matches is abolished.

QUANTITY—The Reflex Inverted Light with Holophane Reflector gives a light equal to 200 candles directly under the light.

We will put in a light on trial; if you don't like it we will take it out without expense to you.

CITIZENS GAS LIGHT CO.
11 Granite street, Quincy Tel. Quincy 181
Dec. 24 tf

THE NEW CITY GOVERNMENT OF QUINCY

CITY COUNCIL OF 1910.

Includes an Ex-Mayor In Its Membership.

CHARLES M. BRYANT

CHARLES M. BRYANT.

Councilman at large Charles M. Bryant returns to the City Council of 1910 for his eleventh year, having served in the Councils of 1891, '92, '95, '96, '97, '99, 1900, '01, '08, and '09. He was president of the Council for several years and served the city as Mayor during the years 1902, '03, and '04. While in the Council he has served on all the important committees. He was born in Lowell, Nov. 29, 1857, and has lived in Quincy since the early 80s. He is the treasurer of the A. Storrs & Bement Co. He is also the Commodore of the Squantum yacht club, a Mason and an Elk.

WASHINGTON G. WOODWARD.

W. George Woodward the new member from Ward Six, was born in Danville, Caledonia County, Vermont, in the year of 1877, attending the public schools till the year of 1888, when he came to Boston. He went to the Quincy Grammar school of Boston, from which he was graduated, then to the English High school of Boston.

Mr. Woodward moved to Quincy thirteen years ago. He is a member of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, Boston; a past noble grand of Tremont lodge of Odd Fellows, Boston; junior warden of Manet Encampment, also belongs to the George L. Gill Rebekah lodge. He is in the employ of the firm of Lynch & Woodward Boston, contractors for heat, power and ventilation.

ALEXANDER CLARK.

After an absence of several years Alexander Clark has been returned to the City Council of 1910 as Councilman at large. Mr. Clark was born in Aberdeen, Scotland in April, 1859, and educated in the public schools of his native place. He came to America in April, 1882, and obtained employment in the granite tool business, which trade he learned in the old country. Several years ago he entered business for himself at South Quincy which he carried on for several years under the firm name of Alexander Clark & Co. Sometime ago the firm was merged into what is now known as the Vulcan Tool Co. His first term of service was in the Council of 1894 as Councilman from the ward. In 1898 and 1899 he served as Councilman at large. During these years he served on all of the important committees of the Council.

ALEXANDER CLARK

JOHN R. RICHARDS

JOHN R. RICHARDS

Returns to the City Council for his second term as representative of Ward Three. He was born in Plymouth, England, Sept. 28, 1865, and has resided in Quincy since 1879. He early learned the granite trade at which he has since been employed. Soon after learning his trade he went into business for himself under the firm name of Craig & Richards, but has carried on business under his own name for several years. In 1909 he served on the Committees on Streets and Ordinances.

JOSEPH L. WHITON, JR.

Returns to the City Council of 1910 for his sixth year, having served in the Councils of 1902, '03, '04, '08 and '09. The first three years from Ward Two, and in 1908 and 1909 from Ward One. He was born in Quincy, Feb. 28, 1873, and has always made Quincy his home. He was educated in the public schools and at the Adams Academy, and is engaged in the rubber business at the present time. During the year 1909 he served on the Finance Committee. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity.

SKETCHES OF THE COUNCILMEN

ERNEST W. BRANCH.

Ernest W. Branch, Councilman at large, was born at Smithfield, Maine, May 26, 1963. He attended school at Lewiston and Smithfield, Maine, and Granby, Massachusetts and was graduated from Williston Seminary, Easthampton, Massachusetts, in 1883. Taught school one year in Granby and Belchertown, Massachusetts. Attended College of Liberal Arts, Boston University, and was graduated in 1888 with degree A. B. Entered the employ of H. T. Whitman, civil engineer in 1888. He was married in 1890 and moved to Quincy to take charge of Mr. Whitman's Quincy surveying office. In 1896 he became chief engineer of the Board of Sewerage Commissioners and was engineer in charge of the design and construction of the Quincy sewerage system until its transfer to the Commissioner of Public Works in 1905. Since that time he has been engaged in private practice as civil engineer and surveyor with offices at 21 Adams building, Quincy, and in the Tremont building, 73 Tremont street, Boston.

Mr. Branch has been identified with Bethany Congregational church since coming to Quincy, and has been superintendent of its Sunday school for many years. He is at present president of the Boston University College Alumni Association; is a member of the Boston and the American societies of Civil Engineers, and is president of the Vermont Soapstone Corporation.

ARTHUR W. LOUD

Who will be one of the representatives of the new City Council from Ward Five has had several years' experience in the City Council, having served during the years 1903, 1904 and 1905, all as a Councilman at large. During these years he served on all the important committees of the Council. He was born in West Quincy, May 11, 1876, and has always made this city his home. A few years ago he moved from West Quincy to Wollaston, where he resides at the present time. He was educated in the public schools of the city, and at Burdett Business college. He has been connected with his father in the teaming business for several years. He is a member of several Masonic bodies.

ARTHUR W. LOUD

JOHN R. RICHARDS

Returns to the City Council for his second term as representative of Ward Three. He was born in Plymouth, England, Sept. 28, 1865, and has resided in Quincy since 1879. He early learned the granite trade at which he has since been employed. Soon after learning his trade he went into business for himself under the firm name of Craig & Richards, but has carried on business under his own name for several years. In 1909 he served on the Committees on Streets and Ordinances.

JOSEPH L. WHITON, JR.

Returns to the City Council of 1910 for his sixth year, having served in the Councils of 1902, '03, '04, '08 and '09. The first three years from Ward Two, and in 1908 and 1909 from Ward One. He was born in Quincy, Feb. 28, 1873, and has always made Quincy his home. He was educated in the public schools and at the Adams Academy, and is engaged in the rubber business at the present time. During the year 1909 he served on the Finance Committee. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity.

RALPH W. HOBBS

President Ralph W. Hobbs, who will probably succeed himself as president of the new City Council, is a resident of Ward Six and is largely interested in real estate. He was born in Boston, Nov. 1, 1870 but has been a resident of Atlantic for a number of years. He was first elected to the City Council of 1906, and has served every year since, being president of the Council in the years 1908 and 1909. He is a member of Wollaston Masonic lodge, and of the Squantum Yacht club.

RALPH W. HOBBS

JOHN D. SMITH.

John D. Smith, Councilman-elect from Ward Four, was born in West

JOHN D. SMITH

Quincy on February 12, 1883. He has lived there all his life. He was educated in the Willard and Quincy High schools, graduating from the latter institution in 1902. This will be his second year in the City Council. Last year he was a member of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds and on Legislative Matters, Elections and Returns. He is a member of the Quincy lodge of Elks, the Quincy council, Knights of Columbus and the Copeland and Brooklyn clubs.

HARRY T. BOYD.

Harry T. Boyd, the new Councilman from Ward Four, was born in this city on March 21, 1884, and has resided in West Quincy all his life. He was educated in the Willard school and the Adams Academy. He is employed with the Fore River Shipbuilding Company. This will be his initial bow in public office. He is a member of the Copeland club, of which he is president and of the St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. B. society.

HARRY T. BOYD

CHARLES E. CHERRINGTON

Who returns to the City Council of 1910 as Councilman at large does so for his third term. He was born in Boston, Aug. 3, 1869, and has resided in Quincy for a number of years. He is connected with a large Japanese importing house. In the Council of 1909 he served on the Committees on Fire Department and Sewers. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity.

JAMES M. CANTFILL.

Councilman-elect Cantfill was born in Abington Oct. 1, 1874. He attended the public schools of his native town and came to Quincy in 1886, where he has since resided. He is a granite worker by trade. He served in the City Council of 1908, being the first Democratic member elected from Ward Three for several years. In the Council of 1908 he served on the standing committees of Fire Department and Police and on Sewers and Drains. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Division 5, A. O. H., and the Irish National Foresters.

GEORGE A. BOLSTER.

One of the new members of the City Council from Ward Three is the well known druggist. He was born in Blackstone in 1861, and received his education in the public schools and at the High school of his native town. Leaving school he was employed for two years in the woolen mills at Blackstone and Putnam, Conn., after which he entered the drug business which he mastered. He was engaged in this business in Boston, and Jamaica Plain until six years ago when he came to Quincy and associated himself in business with C. D. Harlow under the firm name of C. D. Harlow & Co., druggists. This firm continued until a few months ago when it was sold out. Councilman Bolster however still remains with the firm. During his residence in Quincy he has made a host of warm friends and built up a large business at South Quincy. The office of Councilman however is the first public position he has ever held. He is fond of sports ,especially base ball, and is the treasurer of the Old Colony league. He is also a member of Quincy lodge of Elks and the Foresters of America.

GEORGE A. BOLSTER

JOHN MOIR

Returns to the City Council of 1910 from Ward Six for his fourth term, having first been elected in 1906. He then served in the Councils of 1908 and 1909, the latter year being chairman of the Committee on Streets and as a member of the Public Buildings Committee. He was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, Nov. 2, 1878, but has resided in Quincy since the age of four years. He is the confidential clerk of a well known Boston law firm.

ARTHUR C. GARDNER

Returns to the City Council for his second term as a representative from Ward Five. He is 48 years of age and was born in Milford, but came to Quincy at the age of fifteen years and has resided here since that time. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity and the Wollaston Yacht club, of which he is an ex-Commodore. He is connected with a well known refrigerating house. In the Council of 1909 he served on the Committees on Ordinances and Public Buildings, two of the hardest worked committees of last year's Council.

AN EX-REPRESENTATIVE.

Elected for First Time as Member of City Council.

EDWARD J. SANDBERG

EDWARD J. SANDBERG.

Elected Councilman at large is almost too well known to need any extended sketch for he has been before the public for many years not only has he been a member of the Republican City Committee for many years but he represented the city in the General Court in the years 1906 and 1907 and the wide experience he gained there will stand by him well in the City Council.

Councilman Sandberg was born in Helsingborg, Sweden, Oct. 21, 1866. He obtained a practical education in his native town and for two years was connected with the engineering corps of the Skone & Halland railway company. He came to America in 1886 and settled in Quincy, where he has since resided. He obtained employment with Henry Barker with whom he remained two years, when he started in business for himself as a teamster and contractor which business he now conducts on a large scale.

He has always been active in local affairs as well as in the affairs of the Swedish Lutheran church. His first public office was a representative serving two years as noted above. He is a member of the Odd Fellows, and its several branches, Quincy lodge of Elks, and the Board of Trade. He is also president of the Scandia Granite Co., and a past president of the Scandinavian Republican club and a member of the Quincy Yacht club.

JAMES M. NOWLAND

Returns to the City Council from Ward One for his second term. He was born in St. Johns, N. B., in 1856, removing to Ashland, Me., in 1869,

JAMES M. NOWLAND

where he resided until 1899, when he came to Quincy as master of the Adams school. He was educated at the public schools of Ashland, at the University of Maine and at the Bridgewater Normal school. He taught school in Ashland and was at one time superintendent of schools at that town. He taught at the Adams school for 19 years. He studied law at the Boston Y. M. C. A. and was admitted to the bar in 1903. He also took a course in the Boston Sloyd school. Besides practicing law he is largely interested in real estate. In the Council of 1909 he served on the Committee on Ordinances and Sewers.

CHARLES A. ERICSON.

Charles A. Ericson, the new member of the City Council from Ward One, is the well known builder. Born in Tisslinge, Sweden, October 19, 1873, Mr. Ericson attended the public schools of his native town ,afterwards learning and mastering the trade of carpentering. In 1895 he came to America and has since made his home in this city.

CHARLES A. ERICSON

In 1904 Mr. Ericson st[illegible] ness for himself, as a b[illegible] so continued to the p[illegible] During the past five [illegible] erected over thirty ho[illegible] alone. He is now the [illegible] large tract of land o[illegible] which he is developing [illegible] class residences. He i[illegible] large property holders a[illegible] taxpayers of the incoming Co[illegible]

Mr. Ericson is a member [illegible] other societies, of the Forresters of America, Scandinavian Republ[illegible] club of which he is President, and [illegible] Quincy Board of Trade. He is a firm [illegible] believer in the future growth of Quincy. Mr. Ericson resides with his family on Glendale road.

JOHN J. McDEVITT

Reelected from Ward Four for his second term was born in Quincy June 13, 1876, and has always made his home in this city. He was educated in the public schools and also took

(Continued on Page 8.)

aston, 5.59 a m, and 59 p m, then 11.14,
6.59 a m, then same
rn, leave Neponset,
30 mins. to 11.22
07 p m. Sundays,
as week days.

lk Downs, 7.20, 8
ains. to 10 p m. same as week
Neponset, 7.35 a
12.35 p m,
50 mins. to
ndays, 8.35

55, 6.20, 10.20

hen 11.12,
7.50 a m, s. past the every 30 mins.
2 p m. Return,
25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25,
m, then 7, 25, 37
e hour to 7.55 p m, to 11.55 p m, then
7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55,
and 55 mins. past
m, then every 30

A Well-Defined Financial Policy Necessary for a City with Limited Income

Red Cross Stamps

Gallagher's Express
Successor of W. G. CHUBBUCK
Furniture and Piano Mover
IN AND OUT OF TOWN
Furniture Packed and Stored JOBBING
Telephones { 409-3 Quincy / 238-3 Quincy / 308-7 Milton
1p-tf

Established 1887. Probate Business
Savings Bank Buildings.

HERBERT A. HAYDEN
Piano Tuner
Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Residence, 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point, Mass. Tel. 240-5 Quincy. Nov. 3-tf

H. L. KINCAIDE & CO.
FIRE INSURANCE.
The Best Insurance. The Lowest Rates.
Insurance Department,
1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.
Telephone, Quincy 97-3.

E. M. FREEMAN
653 Washington St., Cor. South St., QUINCY POINT.
Real Estate Bought and Sold
MONEY LOANED ON MORTGAGES
INSURANCE
Boston Office, Old South Building, 294 Washington Street
Aug. 14 tf

H. ALMON JONES
DENTIST
Formerly at Braintree
Office Hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5.
16 Faxon Avenue, Quincy
July 15 tf

OSCAR F. FRISK,
Real Estate and Insurance,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Rooms 10 & 12 Johnson Building,
QUINCY SQUARE.
Phone 450-1 July 27-tf

LEWIS N. CURTIS,
PAINTER and GLAZIER.
LEADED STAINED GLASS.
DECORATOR and PAPER HANGER.
OLD FURNITURE REFINISHED.
15 Orchard Place, off Spear Street, Quincy.

Quincy Savings Bank
BANK HOURS: Every Business Day except Saturday, 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.
SATURDAYS—8.30 A. M. to 12 M.
CLARENCE BURGIN,
Treasurer.

A. T. SULLIVAN,
America.
Insurance
One Care of Property.
d Hancock Streets.
Ask your doctor ab... toral. If he says, ... If he says, "No," lancock Street
HOLMES
y, Mass.
airing, Keys Fitted, lazing, Upholstering, over, Furniture and Screens Repaired work a specialty

MES F. BURKE
eal Estate and Insurance
AUCTIONEER MORTGAGES
Justice of the Peace Notary Public
Room 4, Savings Bank Building
Tel. 385-3 Jan. 17-tf

ALBERT J. DURAND
101 Elmwood Avenue, Wollaston.
338 Boylston Street, Boston.
PIANO TUNING.
TELEPHONES:
Quincy 458-2. Back Bay 20?
Oct. 1. tf

LOOK UNDER "Q."
Quincy Daily Ledger

DR. DEANE'S RENUNCIATION.

A Story and a Lesson For the New Year.

IT was the evening of Dec. 31, and the year was ending with glorious winter weather. The ground was hard frozen, but not even a holly or an evergreen rustled, and the branches of the bare trees were perfectly still.

Dr. Deane stood in his doorway. Presently there came a sliding sound, a muttered exclamation, a heavy fall. He hurried out, to find horse and rider gone down on the slippery roadway, but without serious injury, for both were already rising.

"Can I do anything for you?" was his natural question under such circumstances.

"Well—yes; I think you can," said the stranger, a man whom the brightening moon revealed as tall, broad shouldered, dark and not of prepossessing appearance. "That is," he added, "if you have a house near at hand," and he felt one foot and leg thoughtfully.

"Within three yards." The doctor pointed toward his garden gate. "I have a spare bedroom; also a vacant stall in the stable. Shall I put you and your horse up for the night?"

"DEANE—JOHN DEANE?" HE REPEATED.

"You are not afraid to entertain a stranger?"

"Not in the least," the other man smiled. "I am not nervously constituted."

"Then I accept, with thanks," was the reply. "Evidently I am not seriously hurt, but I think my foot is sprained," and, trying to walk a step, an exclamation escaped him which meant pain.

"Fortunately I am a doctor. I will see to it. Let me lead your horse, and do you lean on my arm. My man is gone home, but I can stable your steed. I often do so for my own if I come in late. Please walk in and make yourself as comfortable as you can. I will be with you in ten minutes. The door, as you see, stands open. The room on the left hand side has a very good fire."

Until the injured foot had been attended to and bandaged the stranger kept silence, but his piercing eyes were studying the countenance of his host with an expression of astonishment.

"No," he exclaimed at last; "you have no fear of me, though, for all you know, I might be a robber or a murderer. May I learn your name?"

"Certainly. It is John Deane. And yours?"

But apparently the question was not heard, for it was not answered. Indeed, the doctor could plainly see that his guest seemed startled and ill at ease.

"Deane—John Deane?" he repeated. "It must be fate, hard and relentless fate, which brought me to your door tonight, then," said the man at last. "If I had known you were living in this place I should have given you an exceedingly wide berth, Dr. John Deane."

"You are speaking in riddles," said the doctor. "I do not wish for an explanation. I will ring for something in the form of supper and then, with your permission, light you upstairs to the room where I hope you will rest comfortably for such time as it seems best for you to be my guest."

"Well, have it so if you will," murmured the other.

The meal, a very simple one, was eaten in silence. As it concluded Dr. Deane suggested that a good night's rest was next to be thought of, but the guest shook his head.

"As you will," he said, with a slight hesitation. "Only you will, I am sure, pardon me if I give myself up to thinking instead of talking. Sometimes the dead past seems revivified. It is so with me on each Dec. 31, and I do not resist its power."

The other answered nothing, but leaned back in his chair, gazing thoughtfully into the fire.

The little timepiece struck the hours of 10 and 11, yet still these two men sat on in absolute silence, each apparently absorbed in his own reflections.

It must have been within a half hour of midnight when the stranger roused himself as if from a dream and, sitting erect, exclaimed:

"Deane—John Deane!"

The doctor started violently; it was so sudden an awakening to the actual present that his professional composure deserted him, and his voice shook as he responded:

"What—what is it?"

"This: I can't sit here by your fireside and keep silence. I wonder now whether I could not manage to ride another five or six miles farther."

The strange guest looked fixedly at the doctor's face.

"So you are changed by the passing years, are you? Think back a bit. Did you never vow that you would be revenged on one who wronged you?"

"Yes—once and only once, if my memory is true. If there could be any excuse it would be that I was a very young man and hasty of temper, as the young often are. That vow of mine has been repented of long since. I would like nothing better than to clasp the hand of him who injured me and tell him I have long since made renunciation of that first purpose."

"You—would—do—that?" The words came slowly, one by one. "Why?"

"Because the past is past, and life is not long enough to be burdened with anger and resentment. Besides"—

But at this point Dr. Deane was interrupted.

"I am Frederick Watson."

A strange silence fell upon these men, and it lasted several minutes, during which the thoughts of both had traveled back many years.

"I came between you and one whom you loved," said the guest then.

The doctor made a sign of assent. No words seemed possible.

"I represented you as guilty of an act of which you were innocent; consequently you were disinherited—and in my favor."

"EXPOSE ME TO THE WORLD."

Again that silent movement of the head.

"Well, you have waited long, but here I am, thrown upon your hands by an accident. Expose me to the world if you will. I deserve it."

But the doctor rose and stood still. The bells were already ringing in the new year, and a smile came upon his lips as he listened and then held out his hand.

"Long ago I made renunciation of that purpose to be revenged," he said, "and I renew it now. Frederick Watson, let us be friends, and do you make the future better than the past."

Some months later it began to be general news that Dr. Deane was a rich man. Property which ought always to have been his had been restored to him, but no one knew the details of the story. They only know that a certain Mr. Watson made frequent and lengthy visits to the cottage, which had so rarely known any presence than that of its owner, and he and Dr. Deane appeared to be close friends—friends of "auld lang syne."

MUTUAL PROTECTION

Labor Called to Resist Steel Trust's War on Unionism.

TO FIGHT OPEN SHOP RULE.

All Lovers of Liberty Appealed to For Moral and Financial Support—Suggestion as to Raising Funds—All Workers Asked to Contribute.

War was formally declared upon the United States Steel corporation by leaders of organized labor throughout the United States and Canada at the recent conference at Pittsburg, which was presided over by Samuel Gompers. The grievances of organized labor against the steel corporation as set forth in a resolution have been forwarded to President Taft and the United States senate and house of representatives. The governors of the states in which the trust owns plants or has interests will also receive copies. The resolution says in part:

"A crisis in the affairs of labor has arisen. The gigantic trust, the United States Steel corporation, is using its great wealth and power in an effort to rob the toilers of their right of American manhood and of the opportunity to resist its further encroachments.

"Grown rich by the consent of the people of our country, this corporation in its mad greed for still greater riches sweeps aside, makes and unmakes law, its enactors and executors, and is now engaged in an effort to destroy the only factor, the organizations of its employees, standing between it and unlimited, unchecked and unbridled industrial, political, social and moral carnage.

"If there exists any virile power in our time and life to check the absolute autocratic domination of civic, industrial and political life of our people and our republic it must be found in the indomitable will and mission of the much misunderstood and misrepresented organizations of labor.

"The United States Steel corporation has declared war on labor. In its secret councils this corporation has decreed that the only obstacle to its complete sway, organized labor, shall be crushed. The labor organizations consist of its employees, the workers, their wives and little ones, human flesh and blood. It is by their labor that they live. They have no purpose other than safeguarding their lives, their character, their future, the safety of the republic and humanity.

"These factors now confront each other. By their purposes, attitude and actions must they be judged.

"On June 1, 1909, the United States Steel corporation proclaimed its decree of hostility toward labor. The right of the workers to associate for their common protection was no longer to be recognized or tolerated.

"Accompanying that decree was a notice of a further reduction in the already scant wages of the workers. The decree went into effect July 1, 1909.

"We therefore urge that an earnest effort be made to thoroughly organize all employees in the iron, steel and tin plate industry and subsidiary corelated trades.

"Owing to the immediate pressing necessity caused by the present strike and the indefensible hostile attitude of the United States Steel corporation we earnestly call upon all national and international unions of America to send at least one organizer to assist in this work. We further urge and recommend that in all places where mills are located the central labor organizations appoint special committees with instructions to co-operate in this work. For educational purposes we recommend that this manifesto be made a special order in all central labor organizations at the first meeting in January, 1910.

"We recommend that the executive council of the American Federation of Labor issue a circular to all unions of America appealing for financial contributions to aid the striking iron, steel and tin plate workers. We further recommend that the amount of such contribution should not be less than 10 cents per member.

"In view of the great wrongs perpetrated by the United States Steel corporation, not only against the workers, but the public generally, we recommend that a committee be appointed by this conference to wait upon the president of the United States, the president of the United States senate, the speaker of the house of representatives and such members of either house of congress as may be deemed advisable for the purpose of laying before them the grievances from which labor suffers at the hands of this corporation.

"At the instance of the United States Steel corporation officers of local, municipal and state governments have unwarrantably tyrannized over citizens, invading the constitutionally guaranteed right of free assemblage and free speech.

"We recommend that committees be appointed by this conference to wait upon the governors of states and such other official representatives of counties and municipalities as are in control where the United States Steel corporation has plants located for the purpose of presenting to these officials the great wrongs inflicted upon the people of these communities and that the committees demand an investigation and where charges made are substantiated by evidence the officers responsible therefor be removed and the wrongs immediately righted.

"We appeal to all liberty loving Americans for their moral and financial support."

The Royal Box.

The chief hobby of the sultan of Zanzibar, who was educated at Harrow and Oxford and speaks English perfectly, is the accumulation of clocks.

Queen Margherita of Italy has a weakness for books of American and English novelists. She also reads English and American magazines, and it is her opinion that the American school of short story writers at present is the best in the world.

King Edward celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday recently in excellent health and spirits, and yet seven years ago the coronation ceremony was first hastened on account of his physical condition and then postponed until he should recover from the effect of a serious operation.

Deluded Souls.

"I wonder why so many business men marry their stenographers."

"Probably under the mistaken assumption that they can dictate to them as easily after marriage as they did before.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Two Tosses.

He tossed a kiss
To an auto miss,
And then all things grew dim,
For ere he could leap
He was put to sleep—
When her big auto tossed him.
—Judge.

Brothers!

Kind Man—Madam, won't you take this seat?

Lady—I cannot deceive you, but I am a suffragette.

Kind Man—Then sit in my lap.—Life.

Various Likes.

The laundress likes the boiler's boil,
The cook approves the stewpan's stew,
The diner takes the broiler's broil,
And others love the brewer's brew.
—Buffalo Express.

PAIN AND PLEASURE
are like water and oil they won't mix. It's sure enough pain, if you have tooth trouble.
IT GIVES US PLEASURE TO STOP YOUR PAIN
if the pain is caused by defective teeth.
Our help is permanent and you face your own pain by delay. We put up satisfactory and
LASTING TOOTH CURE AT THESE DENTAL PARLORS.
M. B. BUCKLEY, D. D. S.
DENTIST
37 A Washington Square, Weymouth.
Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.
Sundays, 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.
Dec. 27 lo-1w

EDWARD J. FEGAN
Counsellor at Law
538 Tremont Building, Boston
QUINCY OFFICE
Room 8, Durgin & Merrill Block
Evenings, 7 to 9
Telephones, Haymarket 724—Quincy 448
May 2 (p-1y

? ? ? ?

You Can Get Good Coal
You Can Get Poor Coal
It's your business and right to protect yourself.
¶ It's your business and right to investigate.
SEARCHLIGHT US!
'Phone
238-3
238-4

CYRUS PATCH & SON, Inc.
Office, 1422 Hancock Street, Quincy

G. W. WHEELER
WHEELER
WHEELER
DRY GOODS
SMALL WARES
UNDERWEAR
HOSIERY
HANDKERCHIEFS
GLOVES
CORSETS
APRONS
May Manton Patterns
.....We Give CASH DISCOUNT SLIPS ...
CITY SQUARE QUINCY

CONSTANT ADVERTISING PAYS
If YOU Want Business

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Novelized by

FREDERICK R. TOOMBS

From the Great Play of the Same Name by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Copyright, 1909, by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford.

(Continued from yesterday.)

CHAPTER VIII.

THE abruptness with which Brand separated from Nolan as they appeared aroused the suspicions of both the judge and his lobbyist satellite. However, they little imagined the pronounced seriousness of the conversation they had interrupted. In the mind of each ran the thought that the Advance's proprietor and his editor had been discussing the proposal to elect Nolan to the Oak Door club. Even a failure in this laudable venture they would have considered a serious setback, but probably had they an intimation regarding the story Brand wanted to write and the effort that was to be made to detect the judge in offering a money bribe they would have exhibited less of the easy assurance that marked their re-entrance into the drawing room.

"Mr. Nolan, I'm afraid I must be going," said Bartelmy. "I hope to see you at my house soon, and you, too, Wheeler."

Nolan rose from his chair.

"Judge, can you spare me a few moments?" put in Brand resolutely.

The judge gave a look of surprise.

"Certainly, my boy; certainly. Will you excuse me?" turning to Nolan.

Nolan, surprised at the readiness of Brand to begin on the plan to entrap Bartelmy, readily assented and proceeded into the library with Dupuy.

"Well, Wheeler, what can I do for you?" asked Judith's father.

The young man stepped close to the other and faced him squarely.

"Judge, how about your latest decision in the Lansing Iron case today?" he asked.

Bartelmy started back in surprise.

"It was in accordance with the statutes and the constitution," he finally said.

"The supreme court of the United States was at variance with you in a similar case," advised Brand.

"Sir," indignantly, "I decline to discuss out of court questions relating to my conduct on the bench."

The judge moved as though to go.

"You weren't so particular this morning."

Bartelmy began to lose his confident, easy pose.

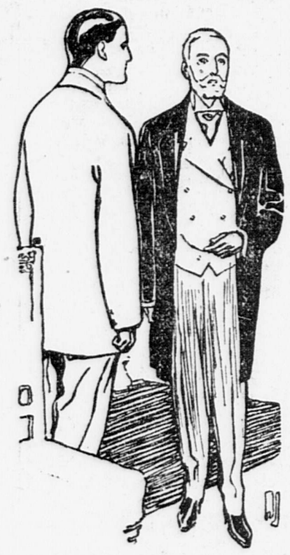
"I fail to comprehend you," he answered.

"Early this morning, between 1 o'clock and 3," went on the unrelenting editor.

The judge turned his head to one side and tugged nervously at his gray beard.

"A reporter for the Advance saw you come out of your house at four minutes to 1 and walk to a house on Washington avenue that belongs to the attorney for the Lansing Iron corporation."

Bartelmy turned his back on Brand, a furtive look coming into his eyes as he did so.



"You knocked at the servants' door, judge," continued the editor. "This man admitted you. One hour and fifty-seven minutes later you left that house by the same door and returned home rapidly on foot. You kept your coat collar turned up, and, contrary to your usual custom, you wore a slouched hat pulled down over your eyes. Half an hour later Dupuy came out of the same house. Ten hours later you handed down your decision reversing on a technicality the judgment of the lower court in the Lansing Iron case and freezing out the small stockholders in favor of the insiders, as usual. Those, Judge Bartelmy, are my facts!"

Bartelmy made a desperate effort to retain his self control and to command his ability to think clearly and effectively in this dire emergency. At last he spoke after minutely scrutinizing the accusing figure of Brand before him.

"It's easily explained, Mr. Brand," he said in honeyed tones. "It's a lie; that is all it is. Your reporter lied."

"I was the reporter," exclaimed the accuser in a supremely contemptuous manner, and as he spoke he wondered and marveled that such a man as the betrayer, Bartelmy, could be the father of such a girl as Judith—Judith, whom he was even now, he was convinced, putting away from his arms and his love for all time.

The false judge paled. His mouth became parched. Had he not leaned against a chair for support it is likely that his knees would not have retained enough strength to hold him up. The jig was up. Plainly the end was in sight. Indeed, it had already arrived unless—unless— Yes, there was one possible way out—if Brand would listen to the proposal. Listen? Every man had his price. Dupuy had told him so. He knew it anyway, and Brand was poor. He was ambitious too. Ah, reasoned the false judge, that is a dangerous combination—poverty and ambition. Few could overcome it honestly; few ever had, ever would. And I am rich—

"I was the reporter, Judge Bartelmy."

"Well, what do you propose to do?" he asked of Brand, putting it up to the other man to lead the conversation at this point, just as a clever tactician should.

"That depends," answered Brand doubtfully, a trifle weakly, sinking thoughtfully into a chair beside a table.

Bartelmy detected at once the note of doubt and weakness in Brand's reply and questioned to himself what it might portend.

"On what?" asked the judge carefully, trying to analyze the mental processes of his opponent, who stared at him across the table.

Brand spoke deliberately, in low voice.

"On whether you're willing to meet me halfway."

Bartelmy's hopes immediately surged high. Ha, as plain a bid for a price as he had ever heard, and he had heard judge in the eye expectantly.

Bartelmy felt relieved. He felicitated himself on the fact that his judgment had been correct.

"Yes; you"— He halted.

"Why"— Brand paused.

"Well?" queried the judge irritatedly.

"There you are," responded Brand simply, his eyes meeting those of the jurist.

Bartelmy glanced cautiously at the editor, seeking for signs of deception, of a trap, but he found them not.

"Mr. Brand, what do you want?" he asked sharply.

"What's it worth to you?"

"I would prefer you to set the figure."

"No."

"How about $10,000?" asked the judge.

"Yes," agreed Brand, rising—"in cash tonight."

"Rather short notice for such a sum," protestingly. "Where shall I see you?"

"At my office."

"Your office—the Advance! No, no. I prefer you to come to my chambers about noon tomorrow. We shall be quite private there."

"I can't wait that long for it, judge. I've got to have it tonight."

"Oh, is it something of that sort? Well, then, come to my house after dinner."

"But I've got to be at my office," insisted the editor.

"I hardly like to go there, Mr. Brand."

"That's up to you, judge. But if you don't come the story goes to press tonight. Well?" with a rising inflection.

"I"—

Judith Bartelmy entered.

"Will you come now, papa?" she asked.

"Just a moment, my dear. I intended to ask Dupuy to dine with us."

"Oh, can't you take him to the club?" she pouted.

"That wouldn't be convenient, my dear. You know we're going to the opera." He stepped back toward the library. "Mr. Brand, I'll see you again before you leave."

A moment of embarrassed silence.

There was a moment's embarrassed silence between Judith and Wheeler Brand as the judge disappeared.

"How do you do, Mr. Brand?" she finally asked.

"How do you do, Miss Bartelmy?" His manner was awkward and strained.

"I haven't seen you all winter." She placed her hands on the back of a chair near a settee.

"No; I haven't been anywhere. I've been kept pretty close at work." He paused. "Won't you sit down?"

"HOW ABOUT $10,000?" ASKED THE JUDGE.

them before. He gazed, reassured, at the young man's earnest face. Ha, how skillful he was, this young Brand! How he had deceived every one! Yes, he was just like some of the other reformers the judge had met—just like some of his political friends who started to clean up certain conditions, only to be retained to let them exist as they were. But Brand was the cleverest one of the lot by far, and probably he was to divide the proceeds of this bribe with Nolan. Oh, they were a cunning pair! Had even fooled Dupuy, who thought them dangerous. And what a son-in-law Brand would make! Yes, he could have Judith; he was worthy to possess the reigning beauty of a great city. So argued to himself the false judge, and he said:

"Of course I am willing to meet you halfway, but it all depends on whether we understand each other."

"Your decision was doubtless of some value to you, and if I am willing to keep silent about its antecedent circumstances then"— Brand looked the

She moved to the left and occupied the settee. After a few moments of silence she said:

"It's strange I haven't seen you all winter. I suppose it will be another hundred years before I see you again."

Brand looked intently at her.

"It won't be if you wish to see me any sooner, Judith," and, thus speaking, he leaned over the back of the settee toward the girl he loved.

"Why, of course I wish—er— You were having a talk with father when I came in, weren't you?"

"Yes," rising and stepping back from her.

"Wheeler, come here," the girl asked wistfully. "I want to talk to you." He moved to a chair close by her side. "Aren't you beginning to realize that you may have been a bit headstrong?" she said tenderly, looking into his eyes. "I'm afraid you are getting in very deep. Your friends, most of them, have been patient with you so far, but there's a limit, you know, and you'll lose them."

"I'm sorry."

"Oh, Wheeler"—she was intensely in earnest—"is it worth while to let them go just for an idea?"

"A man must act according to his light, Judith."

"And a woman according to hers. Perhaps you don't realize it, but that's what I've been trying to do. You know I've been alone a great deal of my life. I've had more responsibility than most girls. I've had to decide things for myself and the younger ones and do the best I could for all of us."

"Yes, I know that. There's nobody like you, Judith."

"I'm glad if you think that."

"I'll always think that, Judith," he exclaimed passionately. "And I'll always feel all that I've lost."

"Haven't you brought it on yourself?" she asked quickly.

Brand sejzed both her hands, and in a tempest of emotion, long suppressed, he rose and bent over her.

"Oh, dearest, can't we have this one moment"—he was aroused to a pitch she had never seen him reach before—"even if we never have another, without thinking of anything except—except each other?" He seated himself close to her.

"Wheeler, I've a little story I want to tell you," she said fondly, yet sadly. She spoke as one pleading in a vital cause. "Once upon a time there was a girl, and she rather liked a somewhat gloomy young man. But one night something happened and then—they didn't speak for a long time—oh, a very long time. But there were other young men, and one of them has asked to call tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. He was very serious about it. You see, the girl has been waiting so long that she's beginning to be afraid—afraid that—er— Oh, Wheeler, why won't you drop it all? It's not too late!"

She rose to her feet, still with her hands in his, and in another moment he stood beside her. He threw both his arms around her and held her close to his bosom.

"Judith," he whispered passionately to her.

"Why don't you call tomorrow at 4?" was her response.

As they stood there in fond embrace, her lips raised to his, Judge Bartelmy appeared at the extreme end of the room. He gave a sudden start as he saw their oblivion to all else but themselves. His cold blue eyes shone with the satisfaction that filled him. He had done a good day's work, he congratulated himself. He had arranged to buy Brand's silence for $10,000 when it was really worth twice that sum to a man of the United States judge's wealth and standing. Why, he had originally planned to give Brand twice that sum as a wedding present when he married Judith.

"Mr. Brand," the judge declared, "I will call at your office tonight at 9 o'clock. Judith, I am ready to go now."

The couple drew apart in confusion. She walked away slowly from her lover, her eyes wet with tears. She went out of the room with her father, leaving Wheeler Brand standing in the middle of the room, overcome by the unconquerable sorrow that filled his soul.

"I put it through."

The towering figure of Nolan appeared from the library. He stepped toward the editor.

"Well, did you put it through?" he asked.

Brand threw back his head, and his misery was imprinted in every line of his face. Yet by superhuman will power he forced his voice into steadiness as he said:

"Yes—I put it through."

(To be Continued.)

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists price 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Paradoxical.

Our language very queer appears.
Some phrases cause us doubt.
When men a race have started on
"They're off!" the people shout.

Then as the runners forge ahead
We hear above the din
This cry: "He's losing all the rest!
I'll bet that he will win!"

Next morning in the press we read:
"His victory was sweet.
He walked away from all his foes
And ran them off their feet."
—Detroit Free Press.

What the Doctor Did.

Gustave Ullyatt has a little daughter who hasn't been well recently. The other day a physician was called to the Ullyatt home to see her. He examined the child with the aid of a stethoscope. When her father came home that evening he asked what the doctor had said.

"Nothin'," replied the little girl.

"What did he do?" asked Mr. Ullyatt.

"He jist telephoned me all over," was the child's reply.—Denver Post.

No Luck.

My pal and I both loved a maid
Up in the Klondike region.
We didn't have a cinch—indeed,
Her followers were legion.

But Jim and I both swore that we
Would win the girl or bust,
For, though she wasn't much on face,
She had a sack of dust.

The fates they smiled on my pal Jim.
They frowned on me, alack!
For he won both the girl and dust.
I only got the sack.
—Yale Record.

In a Newspaper Office.

"Here's a story about a man who drank fifty schooners."

"Put it in the ship news."—Pittsburg Press.

The New Diplomatic Selections

ROBERT BACON, who was recently selected by President Taft for the post of United States ambassador to France, is a man of wealth, having been a member of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. for a number of years. He is a successful financier, with a peculiar liking for diplomacy, and his career in the state department for three years proved his capacity and ability. He succeeded Frank B. Loomis as first assistant secretary and was associated with Secretary Root during nearly all the latter's incumbency and succeeded the latter as secretary of state last January, serving out the last two months of the Roosevelt administration.

ROBERT BACON.

Mr. Bacon held a high place in official Washington society, and even as first assistant secretary his entertainments were on a scale commensurate with that of a premier. He is well equipped to maintain a dignified establishment in Paris, although he is not likely to give exhibitions of lavish expenditures.

Henry Lane Wilson, who succeeds David E. Thompson as ambassador to Mexico, comes of a diplomatic family, his father, James Wilson, having served as United States minister to Venezuela. Mr. Wilson is a native of Crawfordsville, Ind., where he was born fifty-three years ago, and has been journalist, lawyer, banker and diplomat. For years he was editor of the Lafayette Journal. Subsequently he practiced law in Spokane, Wash., and later went into the banking business. He has already served as United States minister to Chile and to Belgium.

Uncle Sam's new minister to Belgium, Charles Page Bryan of Chicago, has long represented this government abroad, serving as minister to China, Brazil, Switzerland and Portugal. He was born in Chicago in 1856 and lived in Colorado for some time, where he served as a member of the legislature for four terms. In Illinois he was a member of the general assembly. Mr. Bryan's first diplomatic appointment was in 1897 by President McKinley.

The man chosen by President Taft to be ambassador to Austria-Hungary, Richard C. Kerens, is known throughout the west as a railroad man, politician and owner of extensive mines in New Mexico, Colorado and Arizona.

Before the railroads had been constructed in the new territory Mr. Kerens developed transportation service to points along the frontier. The routes ran through hostile Indian territory, and the business was attended with great danger. In 1874 he established the southern overland mail route, which covered more than 1,400 miles of territory.

RICHARD C. KERENS.

In 1892 Mr. Kerens was elected delegate at large to the Republican national convention at Minneapolis, and, under President Harrison, he was appointed one of the three United States members of the international railway commission. More recently he has taken prominent part in Missouri state politics, having been a c[illegible] for United States senator thr[illegible]

AQUAS READY ROOFING
GIVES THE MOST WEAR FOR THE COST
SANBORN & DAMON
QUINCY
Nov. 6 9m

Have Your Clothes Washed by the
NEW SYSTEM
WET WASH LAUNDRY CO., Valley St.
Separate Tubs. SEPARATE WATER.
Ordinary wash, 50 cents.

THE FAGEN ANTIQUE FURNITURE CO.
L. A. FAGEN, Manager
Makers and Repairers of all kinds of furniture
Also Upholsterers.
1056 Hancock Street, Quincy
Tel. Quincy 159-1
Quincy, Sept. 29 tf

PATENTS
promptly obtained in all countries, or NO FEE. TRADE-MARKS, Caveats and Copyrights registered. Send Sketch, Model or Photo, for free report on patentability. ALL BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Patent practice exclusively. Surpassing references.
Wideawake inventors should have our handbook on How to obtain and Sell Patents, What inventions will pay, How to get a partner, and other valuable information. Sent free to any address.
D. SWIFT & CO.,
501 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R.

| TO BOSTON | | | FROM BOSTON | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Leave Stops | | Arrive | Leave Stops | | Arrive |
| Quincy | at | Boston | Boston | at | Quincy |
| r *5 14 abedefghi | | 5 42 | *5 47 ihgfedeba | | 6 16 r |
| r 6 13 abc | | 6 35 | 6 27 eba | | 6 46 r |
| r 6 43 abc | | 7 03 | 6 52 eba | | 7 14 r |
| r 7 13 abc | | 7 33 | 7 27 eba | | 7 49 r |
| | | | 7 52 a | | 8 11 r |
| r 7 21 adei | | 7 42 | | | |
| | | | 8 45 b | | 9 02 |
| 7 29 a | | 7 45 | 9 27 eba | | 9 49 r |
| r 7 43 abc | | 8 03 | 9 43 Exp | | 10 00 |
| r 7 52 abede | | 8 15 | 10 27 eba | | 10 49 r |
| r 8 13 abc | | 8 33 | | | |
| r 8 31 Exp. | | 8 47 | 11 27 eba | | 11 49 r |
| r 8 4 abed | | 9 05 | 11 43 Exp. | | 12 00 |
| | | | 12 27 eba | | 12 49 r |
| 9 00 Exp. | | 9 16 | | | |
| r 9 15 abc | | 9 33 | 12 45 *Exp | | 1 02 |
| 10 01 Exp. | | 10 17 | 12 47 eba | | 1 00 r |
| | | | 1 10 (Sat) | | 1 27 |
| r 10 13 abc | | 10 33 | 1 27 eba | | 1 49 r |
| 11 03 Exp. | | 11 18 | 1 43 Exp. | | 2 00 |
| r 11 13 abc | | 11 33 | 2 27 eba | | 2 49 r |
| 12 01 Exp. | | 12 17 | 2 40 Exp. | | 2 57 |
| r 12 13 abc | | 12 33 | 3 27 eba | | 3 49 r |
| 12 59 Exp. | | 1 15 | 3 4 Exp. | | 4 00 |
| r 1 13 abc | | 1 33 | 4 12 a | | 4 29 r |
| r 1 43 abc | | 2 03 | 4 27 eba | | 4 49 r |
| r 2 13 abc | | 2 33 | 4 50 edeba | | 5 11 r |
| r 3 05 a | | 3 21 | 5 15 a | | 5 34 |
| | | | 5 19 deba | | 5 41 |
| 4 03 Exp. | | 4 18 | | | |
| r 4 13 abc | | 4 33 | 5 27 eba | | 5 49 r |
| 4 59 Exp. | | 5 15 | 5 45 dba | | 6 07 r |
| r 5 13 abc | | 5 33 | 5 46 ihgfedeba | | 6 15 r |
| r 5 29 abedefghi | | 5 57 | 5 57 eba | | 6 19 r |
| 6 01 Exp. | | 6 17 | | | |
| r 6 16 abedefghi | | 6 44 | 6 15 dba | | 6 37 r |
| r 6 52 abc | | 7 12 | 6 27 eba | | 6 49 r |
| | | | 6 57 fedeba | | 7 23 r |
| 7 34 ab | | 7 51 | 7 27 eba | | 7 49 r |
| | | | 8 13 fedeba | | 8 38 r |
| r 8 05 abedef | | 8 29 | 9 27 eba | | 9 49 r |
| r 9 17 abc | | 9 35 | | | |
| r 10 09 abedef | | 10 32 | 10 40 fedeba | | 11 04 r |
| r 11 20 abc | | 11 40 | 11 20 Exp. | | 11 36 |
| | | | 11 27 eba | | 11 49 r |

SUNDAYS

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| r 7 43 abc | 8 03 | 6 24 ihgfedeba 6 52 r |
| r 8 43 abc | 9 03 | 8 57 eba 9 19 r |
| r 9 13 abc | 9 33 | 10 16 ihgfedeba 10 45 r |
| 9 33 a | 9 51 | 12 27 eba 12 49 r |
| | | 1 16 ihgfedeba 1 45 r |
| 11 00 Exp. | 11 17 | 2 16 ihgfedeba 2 45 r |
| r 11 16 abedefghi | 11 44 | |
| r 1 13 abc | 1 33 | 3 16 ihgfedeba 3 45 r |
| r 3 10 abc | 3 30 | 4 27 eba 4 49 r |
| r 4 16 abedefghi | 4 44 | 5 27 eba 5 49 r |
| r 5 13 abc | 5 33 | 6 16 ihgfedeba 6 45 r |
| r 6 16 abedefghi | 6 44 | 6 57 eba 7 19 r |
| | | 8 24 ihgfedeba 8 53 r |
| r 7 08 abedefghi | 7 35 | 8 45 Exp. 9 02 |
| r 8 08 abedefghi | 8 *5 | 9 27 ihgfedeba 9 56 r |
| 9 04 Exp. | 9 20 | |
| r 10 30 abc | 10 50 | 10 37 eba 10 59 r |
| | | 10 53 Exp. 11 10 |

*The letters in the same line as the figures stand for different stations and indicate that trains stop as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| a Wollaston, | f Harrison Square |
| b Norfolk Downs | g Savin Hill |
| c Atlantic | h Cresent Avenue |
| d Neponset | i South Boston |
| e Pope's Hill | r Quincy Adams |

Exp.—Express train.
*—Except Saturdays.

West Quincy for Boston (stopping at East Milton)—6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 8.00, 8.15, 9.00, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 A. M. 12.15, 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15 6.02, 7.15, 9.21, 11.21, P. M. Sundays—7.45, 8.45 9.45, A. M. 1.15, 8.15, 6.59, 10.30 P. M.

Boston for West Quincy (stopping at East Milton)—6.16, 7.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.18, 11.16 A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 4.40, 5.16, 5.46 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sunday—8.46. A. M. 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.46, 10.26 P. M.

Montclair for Boston—6.21, 6.51, 7.21, 8.21 9.21, 10.21, 11.21 A. M., 12.21, 1.21, 2.21, 3.21, 4.21, 5.21, 6.08, 7.21, 9.21, 11.27 P. M. Sunday—7.51, 8.51, 9.51 A. M. 1.21, 5.21, 10.36 P. M.

Boston to Montclair—6.16, 8.14, 9.16, 10.16 11.16, A. M. 12.16, 1.16, 2.16, 3.16, 4.16, 5.16, 6.16, 7.16, 9.16, 11.16 P. M. Sundays—8.46 A. M 12.16, 4.16, 5.16, 10.26 P. M.;

Read Ledger Advs

—Broken lenses matched. Oculists prescriptions for glasses carefully filled at short notice. Williams, optician, 1473 Hancock street, Quincy. Tel. 279-3. Residence 323-3.

RedCross Stamps
On New Years Letters
Carry Good Cheer

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of ISABELLA KEMP,

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased:

Whereas a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by William L. S. Kemp of Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to h m, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the twelfth day of January, A. D. 1910, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.

Dec. 24 3t -24-31-7

OLD COLONY STREET RY. CO.

QUINCY DIVISION

TIME TABLE

Issued Sept. 10, 1909.

Subject to Change Without Notice

Leave QUINCY for

Brockton, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Brockton, 6.25, 7.00 a m, and every 30 mins. to 9.30 p m, Sundays 8 a m, then same as week days.

Braintree, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins to 8.50 p m, then 9.40, 10.20 and 10.50 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Braintree, 6.25 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.25 p m. Sundays, 7.55 a m, then same as week days.

East Milton, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave East Milton, 5.55, 6.15, 6.45 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.45 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days.

East Weymouth, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m. Then 11.12 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays 11.50 p m.) Sundays, 7.20 a m. then same as week days. Return, leave East Weymouth, 6, 6.30, 6.45, 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m. (Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12.30 p m.) Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

Holbrook, 6.20 a m, and every 30 mins. to 8.50 p m, then 9.40 and 10.20 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Holbrook, 5.55, 6.25 7 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days

Houghs Neck, 5.25 5.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7, 8, 8.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.20 p m. Return, leave Houghs Neck, 5.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 12.15 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 8.20, 9.15, 9.45 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.45 p m.

Neponset, via Hancock Street, 5.40, 6.14 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.44 p m, then 12.14 p m. Sundays, 7.14 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.37, a m and every 30 mins. to 11.00 p m then 12.37 a m. Sundays, 7.37 a m, then same as week days.

Quincy Point, 5.45, 6.05, 6.20, 6.50, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12, 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.20, 7.50 a m, then 10, 20, 40 and 50 mins. past the hour to 7.20 p m, then every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.12 p m. Return, leave Quincy Ponit, 6.25, 6.55, 7.10, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55 a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m, then 12.20 a m. Sundays, 7.55, 8.25, 8.37, 8.55, a m, then 7, 25, 37 and 55 mins. past the hour to 7.55 p m, then every 30 mins. to 11.55 p m.

Neponset via Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 6.22 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.22 p m, then 11.37, 12.07 p m. Sundays, 7.22 a m, then same as week days.

Neponset via Norfolk Downs, 7.20, 8 a m, and every 60 mins. to 10 p m. Sundays, 8 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Neponset, 7.35 a m, and every 60 mins. to 12.35 p m, then 1.40 p m, and every 60 mins. to 9.40 p m, then 10.55 p m. Sundays, 8.35 a m, then same as week days.

Weymouth Landing, 5.25, 5.55, 6.20, 6.55 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.20 p m, then 11.12 p m. Sundays, 7.25 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Weymouth Landing, 5.45, 6.10, 6.50 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.50 p m, then 11.30 p m. Sundays, 7.50 a m, then same as week days.

Wollaston, 5.59 a m, and every 30 mins. to 10.59 p m, then 11.14, 11.44 p m. Sundays, 6.59 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave Wollaston, 6.30 a m, and every 30 mins. to 11.30 p m, then 11.50, 12.20 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

West Quincy, 5.30, 5.50, 6.10 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.10 p m. Sundays, 6.50 a m, then same as week days. Return, leave West Quincy, 6.00 6.20, 6.50 a m, and every 20 mins. to 11.50 p m. Sundays, 7.30 a m, then same as week days.

JOHN T. CONWAY,
Superintendent.
THOMAS GAMMON,
Division Superintendent.

Quincy Daily Ledger.

QUINCY NOON TEMPERATURE.

| | |
|---|---|
| At 12 M. today, | 19 degrees |
| Dec. 31, 1908, | 47 degrees |
| Dec. 31, 1907, | 44 degrees |
| December Maximum, 13 years | 67 |
| December Minimum, 13 years | 2 |

BRIEFS

The sixth day of sleighing.

Makaria bowling this evening.

Trinity church, Boston is to hold a service appropriate to the closing year at eleven o'clock tonight.

F. D. Fellows & Co. have sold their clothing store in City Square which will soon be reopened by the new proprietor.

The monthly social meeting of the Young Women's club will be held at the Women's Club house Saturday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, a New Year's meeting.

Edward Hagerty of Hall place, who has been traveling through the Northern part of Massachusetts arrived home Thursday and was greeted by many of his friends.

Robert T. Johnson and a party of Quincy friends returned Thursday night from the camp of the Gull Island Gun Club at South Middleboro. They were very successful in securing a large string of beauty pickerel; one 27 inches long, weighing six pounds.

The musical program prepared for Christmas Sunday at the Wollaston Congregational church, printed in the Daily Ledger of Dec. 24, will be given Sunday morning at 10.45. A Christmas service of the Sunday school at 12.15.

Joseph Buckley of Bates avenue, who is a member of the St. Mary's basket ball team, was unable to play Thursday night, much to the regret of the many fans who were present to greet him. This week a case fell on his foot bruising it pretty badly and also breaking two of his toes.

The local storekeepers are recovering from the holiday trade and are now looking over their stock preparatory to January sales. It won't be long to Easter. Already Boston stores are showing straw hats and summer goods but it is mostly for those going south.

Considerable curiosity was aroused in City Square this noon when the police pung drove up Hancock street having on board a woman who was described as being bareheaded, with hair flying and wearing furs. Inquiry at the police station brought out the fact that the woman was a well known local character who had begun her New Year's celebration a little early.

NO MEETING HELD.

Owing to previous engagements and the lateness of the outward trains, neither Senator Hultman or Representatives Thomas and Langelier were able to be present Thursday evening at the meeting of the West Quincy Improvement Association, and therefore the meeting was postponed. A meeting of the association will be held next Thursday evening, and another meeting Jan. 13. Invitations will be sent to our legislators to be present at the meeting of Jan. 13.

—The printing of the annual town reports for Milton was awarded to the Poole Printing Company their bid being $1150.

Cold weather, ice or snow does not prevent James F. Burke the real estate broker from doing an active business right through the winter months. Reliability and honest dealings draws trade in or out of season and gets the business every time.

MARRIAGES.

DANIELE-MARINA—In Quincy, Dec 30, by William M. Marden, Esq., Mr. Benedetto Daniele to Miss Franchisca Marina, both of Quincy.

DEATHS.

ZERRAHN—In Milton Dec. 29, Mr. Carl Zerrahn aged 84 years of Brush Hill road.

BURT—In Atlantic, Dec. 31, Mrs. Catharine Johnson, widow of Seth Frye Burt. Funeral services from late residence, 245 Billings street, Monday, January 3, at 2 o'clock.

STORRS—In Milton, Dec. 30, Mr. Frederick R. Storrs of Central avenue.

BRYANT—In Mattapan, Dec. 24, Mrs. Ruth C., widow of Mr. Henry H. Bryant, aged 70 years 4 months and 24 days.

BENT—In Braintree, Dec 31, Mrs. Ann, widow of Mr. Roswell Bent, aged 87 years and 3 months.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
185 Hancock Street, Quincy Mass.

CITY COUNCIL

(Continued from Page 5).

a course of four years at Boston college. He is a travelling granite salesman and also represents the Ellis Eye Shade Co.

FRED R. SNOW

FRED R. SNOW

The new member from Ward Five, was born in Orleans, Aug. 12, 1873, but removed to Provincetown with his parents when a child. Provincetown he has always called his home as his parents still reside there. He was educated in the public schools of Provincetown and graduated from the High school in 1891. He has been employed by the American Net and Twine Co., for the past ten years, five years at the firm's East Cambridge factory and the past five years as salesman at the firm's Boston office. He has resided in Wollaston for the past four years. The office of Councilman is his first public office.

WILLIAM A. CAREY

WILLIAM A. CAREY

Enters the City Council of 1910 for his third term as a representative from Ward Two. He was born in Quincy and has always made his home here. Feb. 9, 1835, was the date of his birth. He was educated in the public schools of Quincy, graduating form the High school in the class of 1902. During the past year he has served on the Committee on Streets and as chairman of the Committee on State Aid. His business is that of an machinist and he is employed at the Fore River Shipbuilding plant.

WILLIAM H. FLYNN.

WILLIAM H. FLYNN

Councilman Flynn returns to the City Council of 1910 for his second term as a member from Ward Two. Councilman Flynn was born in Boston, July 31, 1879, and when quite young came to Quincy to live with his mother and sister. He received his education in the schools of Quincy, and since leaving school has followed several occupations. He is prominent in athletics and is fond of base ball and all out of door sports. During the year 1909 he served on the standing committees on sewers and legislative matters.

THE HONORS DIVIDED

Randolph First and St. Marys Second Win

A closely contested game of basket ball was played at St. Mary's hall Thursday evening in which the Randolphs defeated the St. Mary's 19 to 16.

| RANDOLPH | ST. MARYS |
|---|---|
| Collins rf | lb Morrell |
| Crowell lf | rb M Ilen |
| Lind c | c McLaughlin |
| Courtney, rb | lf D. Duggan |
| Landers lb | rf E. Donovan |

Score, Randolph 19; St. Marys 14. Goals from floor, Collins 2, Lind 4, Courtney 2, Crowell 1, Mullen, 1 D. D goal 1, M Laughlin 1, Donovan 2, Morrell. Goals from fouls, Duggan 2, Lind. Referee, Pendis. Scorer, Duggan. Timer, Duggan. Time, 20 min halves. Attendance 300.

The second team of the St. Mary's walked all over the second team of the visitors, the score being 34 to 0.

| ST. MARY 2nd | RANDOLPH 2nd |
|---|---|
| R. Morrell rf | lb Rudderham |
| O'Rourke lf | rb Littlefield |
| S. Duggan c | c Hogan |
| Bennett rb | lf McAuliffe |
| Hebert lb | rf Rudderham |

Score, St. Mary 34; Randolph 0. Goals from floor, S. Duggan 3, O'Rourke 4, Morrell 2, Bennett 3, Good 3, Hebert 2. Referee, Pendis. Scorer, Duggan. Timer Duggan. Time, 15 min. halves. Attendance 300.

NEW LODGE ORGANIZED

The New England Order of Protection

Poland hall was in new attire Thursday evening when a branch of the New England Order of Protection was organized. The hall has lately been remodelled and newly painted inside to suit the lodge. It is decorated in red, white, and blue and the stage was decorated with potted plants. The name of the lodge, Neopa was worked into a large floral piece which covered the wall back of the stage.

The lodge was organized with 35 members, among whom are many well known men including Representative L. F. R Langelier, Ex-Councilmen Bean, Beal, and Poland After the installation a lunch of salads, sandwiches, coffee, cake and ice cream was served The officers installed are:

Warden—John E Poland
Vice Warden—Emma Mitchel.
Past Junior Warden—Mary E. Poland.
Chaplain—Hattie Folsom.
Guide—Ex-Councilman Bean.
Secretary—Fannie Mitchel.
Financial Secretary—Henry F. Langelier.
Treasurer—Arthur C. Beal.
Guardian—Edith Nelson.
Sentinel—Fred Gross.
Trustees—Mary E. Poland, Mrs. Langelier and Mrs. Bean.

The meeting nights will be first and third Fridays of each month.

The installing officers were: Frank Rice, Fred Rice, Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Gibbs of the Supreme lodge.

CHRISTMAS PARTY.

One of the most enjoyable socials of the season was held Thursday evening in the rectory of the Christ church, when the teachers gave the upper Sunday school classes a Christmas festival. Over forty of the young people of the church attended and enjoyed the good time.

All manner of games were played during the evening under the direction of the teachers of the classes. The teachers had charge of the affair and through their efforts it proved to be a grand success. Refreshments were served from 9.30 until 10 o'clock.

—The School Board of Brockton has authorized a thorough inquiry into secret societies at the high school, in response to charges that such societies—there are nearly a dozen of them at the school—have exerted a pernicious influence upon pupils, reduced the standard of scholarship and tended to destroy the democratic spirit of school life.

CANADA'S HOCKEY OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Puck Chasers In Dominion Expect Banner Season.

THREE NEW CIRCUITS FORMED

Disbanding of Eastern Canada Association and Organization of Canadian Hockey League Assures Good Year For Followers of the Sport.

With the increased interest in the game in this country coupled with the fact that the great game is gaining in popularity in Canada every year, it surely looks as if ice hockey is to have a banner season. Judging from reports that have drifted across the border one of the greatest ice hockey seasons in the history of Canadian sporting events is now on. The disbanding of the Eastern Canada Hockey association and the subsequent forming of the new Canadian Hockey association is a step that has been promised for some time. The fact that the great winter sport was growing in the Dominion as well as in the States made it probable that the clubs would soon become too powerful for the E. C. H. A. to govern. Inasmuch as that body did not attain centralizing power in correspondence with the progress of the big hockey clubs it was evident that a change was coming. But the change was farreaching.

The forming of the Canadian Hockey association was responsible for the organizing of two other leagues in eastern Canada. This gives this section of the Dominion five important hockey combines, assuring an unusual season with the crooked stick and rubber disk.

Out of the forming of the C. H. A. and the attendant dropping of the Wanderers from the big organization grew the formation of another league. It was voted to drop the Wanderers after the E. C. H. L. has been disbanded. In place of the Wanderers an all French Canadian team, known as the Nationals, was substituted. Finding themselves out of the select puck chasing organization, the Wanderers determined to organize a new professional league. It is understood that another Montreal seven as well as the Wanderers will be represented in this organization.

G. HORNFECK, CRACK CENTER ON WANDERERS' HOCKEY TEAM OF NEW YORK.

[The Wanderers' seven are expected to make a good fight in the Amateur Hockey league of New York this season. The team has several of last year's men left. Among them are G. Hornfeck, who played a steady game at center. Hornfeck is considered to be one of the best hockey players in the east.]

Then there is the so called new amateur league. Four teams refused admittance into the Interprovincial Amateur Hockey union got together and organized a new amateur league. The teams are Westmount, Grand Mere, Three Rivers and Sherbrooke. When the fact is taken into consideration that eastern Canada also has the Interprovincial Amateur Hockey union there certainly appears to be a varied program in store for the Canadian followers of the game as it is played by the nonprofessional contingent. The Intercollegiate Amateur Hockey union brings up the list of leagues in the section to five.

From present indications these leagues will represent a total of twenty-one clubs. It is an odd fact that ten of these teams are Montreal organizations. The Canadian Hockey association will be represented in Montreal by the All Montreal, the National and the Shamrocks. The Victoria and Montreal sevens will represent Montreal in the Interprovincial Amateur Hockey union, McGill and Laval in the Intercollegiate Amateur Hockey union, the Wanderers and another club in the new professional league and Westmount in the new amateur league.

OFFICIAL MEASUREMENTS

Of the Height of the Tide on Sunday

Residents along the water front of Quincy are fully aware that the tide of Sunday was unusually high, and some idea may be had of just how high it was by the elevations taken by the City Engineer's department this week. The elevations taken were at four different points, the Neponset bridge, Wollaston beach, inside the boulevard, Baker's Yacht basin and at the Quincy Point bridge. These figures show that the Quincy tides were practically the same as at Winthrop and other places, and that the tide that day was but four inches less than the record high tide of 1851 when Minots light was carried away.

The schedule tide for Sunday was 11.10 feet, and the elevations taken were from the government base. The tide at the several points taken were as follows:

Neponset bridge, 15.23 feet
Wollaston beach, 15.07 feet
Baker's Yacht basin 15.40 feet
Quincy Point bridge, 15.25 feet

These figures show that the highest tide was at the Baker Yacht basin, where it was 4.30 above the scheduled tide for that day.

QUINCY BATTLESHIPS

Wih Atlantic Fleet Ordered South

Quincy built battleships are soon to leave for the South. A Washington dispatch to the Globe says: All details for the departure of the battleship fleet for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, have been made by the navy department. The fleet will continue its battle maneuvres in Cuban waters until May 1, when it will start north.

The battleships Connecticut, Kansas, Vermont, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Nebraska, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Wisconsin and Missouri now at New York, will sail on Jan. 6.

The Idaho and the Mississippi now at Philadelphia, will leave on Jan. 5 and join the vessels from New York off the Deleware capes.

The Louisiana, Georgia and Virginia will remain at the Norfolk, Va., navy yard until repairs are completed and they will then proceed to Guantanamo bay.

The main portion of the fleet should arrive at the winter drill grounds on Jan. 11 or 12.

QUICK SHIPBUILDING.

Record breaking time has been made in the construction of freight and passenger steamers in the coast yards of the United States by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company in building the big freight and passenger steamer Bear for the San Francisco and Portland Steamship Company. The first keel plate for this ship was laid on June 15 last and the vessel will put to sea on her first voyage on January 8. The actual time consumed in her construction will be six months and twenty-four days, or just 180 working days.

AGED BRAINTREE WOMAN.

Mrs. Ann Bent, widow of Roswell Bent, and one of the oldest residents of Braintree, passed away this morning aged 87 years. Mrs. Bent's health has been failing for some time, her illness being largely due to old age. She buried her husband about a year ago. Mrs. Bent leaves three sons, Ernest, who resides in Braintree, Otis, who resides in North Weymouth,

Y. M. C. A. MEET.

The Y. M. C. A. are to run a large meet for boys New Years day at the association. A large number of entries have been received and the events will be run off in an interesting manner under the direction of G. W. Gifford, physical director of the association. The events will include: broad jump, high jump, potato race, 15 yd. dash and relay race.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this head 25 words or less one time 25 cents. Three insertions 50 cents, 6 insertions 75 cents.

No advertisements taken over the telephone, received by mail or at the office unless accompanied by cash.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Sleigh. Upholstered back cushion. All in excellent condition. Price $10. R. D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building. Quincy, Dec. 29-4t

FOR SALE—Nine Room House, modern improvements. 12,000 feet of land. Best location. Will sell very reasonable for quick sale. Apply at 155 Atlantic street. Dec 29-3t

FOR SALE—New Top sleigh, never been used. Paint and varnish perfect. For sale cheap. DR. E. R. JOHNSON, Wollaston Dec. 28 1-6t p 1w

BRIEFS

Plans are being made to accommodate a large crowd at City Hall, Monday, at the inauguration ceremonies.

The Electric Light company is fast getting its wires into shape and Thursday night was able to turn the current on some of the street lights.

Commissioner Bainbridge has had several teams at work in City Square carting away the snow that had become banked along the sides of the street, especially in front of the stores.

—Harvard College at a recent meeting decided that each student hereafter, beginning with the entering class of 1910, shall take at least six courses in some one group and shall distribute at least six of his courses among the three groups in which his chief work does not lie. Many students who have gone through Harvard in the past have arranged their work according to the lines laid down in the new plan and it has been the success of their work as much as any one thing that has led the faculty of arts and science to require the present ruling for all students enrolling in the college hereafter.

Barometers.

Barometers were first made by Torricelli in 1643.

Trees Older Than the Pyramids.

A wonder of longevity is the so called dragon's blood tree of Tenerife. Resin obtained from this tree has been found in sepulchers, where it had been used for embalming the dead. Trees of this species are now standing which are estimated as being older than the Egyptian pyramids.

Cyclones and Tornadoes.

While cyclones and tornadoes are different phenomena, the former appear to give rise to the latter. Tornadoes almost always break out, if at all, on the southeasterly outskirts of a cyclone.

Handy With His Tongue Too.

The following was a speech by a successful competitor for the prize of a foot race: "Gentlemen, I have won this cup by the use of my legs. I trust I may never lose the use of my legs by the use of this cup."

Winking.

A wink occupies about one-sixth of a second.

"The Raven" Revised.

Once upon a morning foggy, while I loitered, grouched and groggy,
Over biscuits that were soggy and an egg that was a bore,
While I dawdled, almost dreaming, and my coffee ceased from steaming,
Suddenly there came a screaming—screaming never heard before.
"'Tis some suffragette," I muttered, "screaming at my outer door;
Just a noise and nothing more."
—Chicago Tribune.

WANTED.

WANTED—Young Man of ambition for Second Term Work in the Y. M. C. A. Evening School, Mechanical Drawing, Monumental and Free-hand Drawing, Clay Modeling. Rates reduced. Terms easy. Dec. 29-1f

TO LET

FOR RENT—One half double house, 10 Canal street. Apply to WM. A. BRADFORD No. 8 Chestnut Street, Quincy, Mass. Dec. 30-1f

TO LET—Nicely furnished eight room Modern House. Nice location. Desirable family. Terms very moderate. Address care of Carrier C., Atlantic P. O. Dec. 29-3t

TO LET—A Tenement of 5 rooms and bath. Electric cars pass the door. Three minutes from railroad station. Apply at 109 Franklin street. Quincy, Dec 28-6t

TO LET—Upper tenement of 5 rooms with all modern improvements, near electric and steam cars. 87 Goddard street. G. STEIN. Dec. 21 12t

TO LET—Cosy tenement of 5 rooms and bath in new house with all modern improvements and a good neighborhood. Apply to C. A. ERICSON, Builder. 117 Glendale road, Telphone 28-2. Quincy, Dec. 29-1f

TO LET—Several very desirable houses and apartments in Quincy and Wollaston. Apply at once to C. H. HARDWICK, 10 Hancock Bldg. Quincy or 104 Revere road. Tel. Quincy 391-2 or 582-1. Dec. 9-18t

TO LET—Modern House, all improvements. Situated 57 Edison street. Newly painted. Rent reasonable to right party. Apply 70 Revere Road, Quincy. Nov. 12-1f

TO LET

Lodging Room—Furnished. Steam heat. Durgin-Merrill Block.

Tenement—Rear of Durgin-Merrill Block. 4 rooms with cellar. Modern conveniences. $12.00 per month.

Office—Hancock Chambers, City Square One flight up. Low rent.

24 Granite Street—third floor, 60x20 feet, and attic. Splendid Light. Cheap.

Greenleaf Hall—Greenleaf Block Large Furnished Hall with various anterooms—to let by the evening or permanently.

City Square Hall, Office or Shop—Hancock Chambers, 2 flights up, 28x43 feet and 20 feet high. Splendid light, low rent

Quincy Real Estate Trust,
Music Hall Block, Quincy.

Telephone Connection Hours 9-12 2-5
DR. A. B. PACKARD
HARVARD DENTIST
JOHNSON BUILDING QUINCY, MASS.

Pung For Sale

as good as new with Shafts and Pole Double Runners.
GEORGE H. WILSON,
1453 Hancock St., Quincy.
Dec. 29 4t

(ADVERTISE.)

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

Those interested in basket ball, bowling, billiards golf, whist, checkers cribbage, ice hockey, golf, football and other games are requested to keep the Daily Ledger posted on all contests. We also want promptly all athletic exhibitions and gymnasium notes.